The handful of men who first settled where Chicago now stands could not foresee that within a little over a century a single building of the coming city would boast a larger population than the whole original population of 8,000. Such a building is the Monadnock block with eleven and a half acres of floor space under one roof. Over 40,000 passengers are carried on its six-teen elevators each day. With this unforseen improvement of the west has come some golden grain belt beer, the purest and most delicious of all health tonics. It is particularly adapted to refreshing the overworked people of these busy times and no home is complete without it. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex. Thompson, Crookston.

Working Night and Day.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that ever was sold is Dr. Kings New Life Pills. These pills change weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, into big commercial power. They're wonderful in building up the health. Only 25c per box. Sold by W. A. Schreiber.

The Editorial Association.

Albert Lea Standard: Sam Langguth could have never better than echo the jaundiced growl of the disgruntled Austin preacher-politician against the editorial association. Deserving editors have never failed of suitable recognition and been in due time elected to the management, and none more than Sam Langguth and Brother Rea Longum. The honest truth is, the Minnesota association is the best, most manselfish and generously managed of any in the United States, and moreover, it is democratic in the best sense, or his name—and ours—would never have appeared in the honored list of former presidents.

No Pity Shown.

"For years fate was after me continually," writes F. A. Gallecher, Verbena, Ala. "I had a terrible case of piles causing 24 tumors. When all failed Bucklen's Arnica salve cured me." Equally good for burns and all aches and pains. Only 25c at W. A. Schreiber's drug store.

Residence Property for Sale.

I will sell, or trade for stock, my residence and four lots in block 55, Crutcsanmar's addition to Red Lake Falls. Great bargain. Write or see me. Louis Hetu, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

The Only Way

To get at the superiority of one thing over another is by comparison, and after traveling over every line between Minneapolis and Chicago the traveler will admit that the Northwestern line represents the superlative degree of railway comfort and luxury in its elegant northwestern limited. This statement was made by a prominent man in an interview in the Minneapolis Times.

Let the Weather Alone.

A St. Paul exchange exclaims in disgust: "Let the weather alone and tend to your own business. If you must observe the weather, then observe that, whatever befalls, it always attends to its own business. The incessant chatter about the weather is one of the silliest weaknesses of the American people. Europeans say that we are the only people who make the weather a stock topic of conversation. If it is cold, we complain: if it is hot, we complain; if it happens to be just right for a while we get offensively gay about it. All this is extremely foolish. The weather never varied a millionth part of a degree because of our approval or disapproval, and it never will."

Did you ever notice how few people you meet who do not bear a scar on face or hands? Usually these are from cuts or burns and could have been avoided if Cole's Carbolisave had been promptly used. Carbolisave has no equal as a remedy for cuts and burns and cures of all kinds. It stops the pain and heals without a scar. Guaranteed, 25 and 50c. By all druggists.

J.R.&R. FORTIER

Red Lake Falls, Minn.

Miss Rose, daughter of Marcellus Paterson, of Louisville, died Tuesday of quick consumption, after an illness of five weeks. The funeral was held this morning from St. Joseph's, Rev. Father Payolle officiating. The remains were interred in the cemetery west of town.

C. A. Robbecke, twin host of the Ogemah, was down from Thief River Falls Saturday in company with Adam Meyer, a brother-in-law from Minneapolis, who was a guest of Mr. Robbecke for several days. Mr. Meyer is foreman of the Diamond Iron Works of Minneapolis.

Mrs. Oscar Thomas and little daughter left Friday for Moorhead, where Mr. Thomas is now agent for the Great Northern. A large number of ladies were at the train to bid them good-bye. Miss Rosa Cyr accompanied Mrs. Thomas and expects to remain several months.

Eugene Jobinville was in from Lambert yesterday and made a pleasant call at this office. Mr. Jobinville reports crops good in his section, and the farmers well satisfied with the outlook. He says the telephone line from McIntosh to Lambert will be completed within a few days.

Clearwater lodge I. O. O. F. will install officers at the regular meeting Saturday evening. The officers elect for the ensuing term are as follows: Noble grand, Henry Hennemuth; vice grand, F. A. Mizen; recording secretary, Wm. Schwalen. James E. Ford was chosen district deputy grand master for the term.

Adolph Patnode had the misfortune to be severely kicked by a horse Sunday morning, and had a rib broken. Mr. Patnode says the horse had never before shown the slightest symptoms of viciousness. As a result of the accident he will be confined to his bed for a week or ten days.

During the street parade of Campbell Bros.' circus at Morris a few days ago, Bert Atkinson, a drummer in the band, who had failed to get around for the parade, tried to mount the band wagon on the street, missed his step and fell under the wheel, the head being crushed to a jelly by the heavy wagon.

Minnesota banks have been requested to fumigate their currency so as to kill any germs that may happen to adhere to it. This would be a good policy to follow, but it doesn't matter to the newspaper man. Currency is seldom in his possession long enough for a germ to detach himself.

The St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls base ball clubs crossed bats on the former town Sunday afternoon, St. Hilaire winning by a score of 7 to 6. Red Lake Falls was represented in the batteries for each team, Harry Healy catching for St. Hilaire and Fred Richards performing a like position for Thief River.

Down at Jackson W. S. Gaunt and Miss Pye Crane were married under rather peculiar conditions, the bride being a small pox patient. As the bridegroom had been boarding at the house for several months he was not permitted to leave. The wedding ceremony was performed by the pastor standing outside the house on the lawn and the bridal couple just inside by a window.

The state ditch in Emardville township is completed, and Gov. Van Sant is expected within a week or two to inspect the work. Sheriff Lianihna was the contractor. This ditch drains a large area of low lands and will reclaim a section of Emardville that has heretofore been too wet for farming operations. The Cousins editor is under obligations to Sheriff Linnihan for an opportunity to inspect the ditch last Saturday.

A. M. Gilder, A. G. Raadnil and P. W. Miller, arrested in Minneapolis last March on a charge of using the United States mails for fraudulent purposes, were convicted in the United States district court at Fargo. The three men were the promoters and organizers of the Mutual Hail Insurance company of Saskatoon, which they organized in 1900. It was through the operation of the company that the men became involved in the alleged crime against the government, for which they were indicted and convicted.

Theo. Garceau has purchased the two lots at the corner of Main and Second streets occupied by Delorme & St. Marie's general store and Groshong & Blake's meat market. It is not improbable that a substantial brick structure will be put upon this site in the near future for Garceau & Zaiser's general merchandise emporium. It looks as though a number of brick blocks would be erected this fall if the crop outlook continues favorable.

Mrs. W. P. O'Brien entertained a large party of lady friends Monday afternoon in honor of her guest, Mrs. Archie McKinnon of Crookston. Each lady was invited to bring her sewing and a prize was awarded to the one doing the most work in a given time. The head prize was won by Mrs. M. R. Hall and the booby was given to Mrs. J. R. Armstrong. Refreshments were served at six o'clock. The affair was a most delightful one throughout.

The postoffice department has sent out a ruling regarding the placing of letters in fourth class packages. This abuse has become so common that the department has found it necessary to adopt a stringent measure to check it. Postmasters have been instructed to examine packages which they suspect contain writing and report same to the proper authorities. Those who are in the habit of cheating Uncle Sam by sending first class matter at fourth class rates may be surprised some fine day to be arrested by a postoffice inspector and made to answer to the charge of fraud in the United States court. When a fourth class package contains anything you had better tell the postmaster about it and have him rate it properly and thus avoid serious trouble.

A Detective Story that is Unsurpassed.

"It is a rather curious person," said Sherlock Holmes, turning upon his host. "I hope before long to be able to introduce you to the pair of them. A word with you, Watson."

He led me out to the head of the stair. "This unexpected overcoming," he said, "has caused us rather to lose sight of the original purpose of our journey."

"I have just been thinking so," I answered. "It is not right that Miss Morstan should remain in this stricken house."

"No. You must escort her home. She lives with Mrs. Cecil Forrester in Lower Camberwell; so it is not very far. I will wait for you here if you will drive out again. Or perhaps you are too tired?"

"By no means. I don't think I could rest until I know more of this fantastic business. I have seen something of the rough side of life, but I give you my word that this quiet procession of strange surprises to-night has shaken my nerve completely. I should like, however, to see the matter through with you, now that I have got so far."

"Your presence will be a great service to me," he answered. "We shall work the one out independently and leave this fellow Jones to exult over any mare's-nest which he may choose to construct. When you have dropped Miss Morstan I will join you to go on to No. 3 Pinafore Place, near the wicket's edge at Lambeth. The third house on the right-hand side is a third stuffer's, Sherman is the name. You will see a weasel lobbling a young rabbit in the window. Knock the old Sherman up and tell him, with my compliments, that I should like Mrs. Smith will bring Toby back in the cab with you."

"A dog, I suppose."

"Yes—a queer mongrel, with a most amazing power of scent. I would rather have Toby's help than that of the whole detective force of London."

"I shall bring him, then," said I. "It is now one. I ought to be back before three, if I can get a fresh horse."

"And I," said Holmes, "shall see what I can learn from Mrs. Bernstone, and from the landlord's servant, who, Mr. Thaddeus tells me, sleeps in the next garret. Then I shall study the ground Jones's methods and listen to his not too delicate sarcasms. 'Wir sind gewohnt dass die Menschen verhohnen was sie nicht verstehen.' Goethe is always pithy."

The police had brought a cab with them, and in this I started while Morstan took to her home. After the ungodly fashion of women, she had borne trouble with a calm face so long as there was someone weaker than herself to support, and I had found her bright and pleasi by the side of the frightened housekeeper. In the cab, however, she first turned faint, and then burst into a passion of weeping—so sorely had she been tried by the adventures of the night. She has told me since that she thought me cold and distant upon that journey. She little guessed the struggle within my breast, or the effort of self-restraint which held me back. My sympathies and my love went out to her, even as my hand had at the garden. I felt that years of the conventionalities of life could not teach me to know her lovet, brave nature as had this one day of strange experiences. Yet there were two thoughts which sealed the words of affection upon my lips. She was rich and helpless, shaken in mind and nerve. It was to take her at a disadvantage to make love upon her at such a time. Worse still, she stood rich. If Holmes researches were successful she would be an heiress. Was it fair, was it honorable, that a half-pay surgeon should take such advantage of an intimacy which chance had brought about? Might she not look upon me as a mere vulgar fortune seeker? I could not bear to risk that such a thought should rise even dimly in her mind. This Agra treasure intervened like an impassable barrier between us.

It was nearly two o'clock when we reached Mrs. Cecil Forrester's. The servants had retired hours ago, but Mrs. Forrester had been so interested by the strange message which Miss Morstan had received that she had sat up in the hope of her return. She opened the door herself, a middle-aged, graceful woman, for we gave me joy to see how tenderly her stm stole round the other's waist and how motherly was the manner in which she greeted her. She was clearly no mere paid dependant, but a valued friend. I was introduced, and Mrs. Forrester earnestly begged me to wait that she tell her our adventures. I explained, however, the importance of my errand, and promised faithfully to call and report my progress while we might make with the case. As we drove away I dole a glance back, and I still seem to see that little group on the step, the tall graceful, clinging figures, the half-opened door, the hall light shining through stained glass, the barometer, and the bright stair rods. It was soothing to catch even that passing glimpse of a tranquil English home in the midst of the wild, dark lonliness which had absorbed us.

And the more I thought of what had happened, the wilder and darker it grew. I reviewed the whole extraordinary sequence of events as I rattled on through the silent gas-lit streets. There was the original problem; that at least was pretty clear now. The death of Capt. Morstan, the sending of the pearls, the advertisement, the letter—we had had light upon all those events. They had only led us, however, to a deeper and far more tragic mystery. The Indian treasure, the curious plan found among Morstan's baggage, the strange scene at Major Sholto's death, the rediscovery of the treasure immediately followed by the murder of the discoverer, the very singular accompaniments to the crime, the footsteps, the remarkable weapons, the words upon the card, corresponding with those upon Capt. Morstan's chart—here indeed was a labyrinth in which a man less singularly endowed than my fellow lodger might well despair of ever finding the clew.

Pinafore Place was n row of shabby two-storied brick houses in the lower quarter of Lambeth. I had to knock for some time at No. 3 before I could make my impression. At last, however, there was the glint of a candle behind the blind, and a face looked out at the upper window.

"Go on, you drunken vagabond," said the face. "If you kick up any more row I'll open the kennels and let out forty-three dogs upon you."

"If you'll let one out it's just what I have come for," said I.

"Go on!" yelled the voice. "So help me gracious, I have a wiper in this bag, an' I'll open it on you're 'ard if you don't look it."

"But I want a dog!" I cried.

"I won't be argued with!" shouted the fierce one. "Now stand clear: for when I say 'three,' down goes the wiper."

"Mr. Sherlock Holmes—" I began, but the words had a most magical effect, for the window instantly slammed down, and within a minute the door was unbarred and open. Mr. Sherman was a lanky, lean old man, with stooping shoulders, a stringy neck and blue-tinted glasses.

"A friend of Mr. Sherlock is always welcome," said he. "Which is the gentleman? Step in, sir, if you please. Don't be frightened, my dear. He won't hurt you. Not unless you have designs upon the premises, that is," he added, looking suspiciously at me.

"Only upon the dog," I answered.

"Then you'll be safe enough," said he, with a cackle of laughter. "Sit down, sir, if you please, and tell me what you want. Why, it's Toby you've come for, sure enough."

"Yes, Toby is the name."

"Toby lives at No. 7 on the left here." He moved slowly forward with his candle among the queer animal family which he had gathered round him. It was uncertain, shadowy light. I could see dimly that there were gleaming, glimmering eyes peering down at us from every cranny and corner. Above the rafters above our heads were lined by solemn fowls, who lazily shifted their weight from one leg to the other as our voices disturbed their slumbers.

Toby proved to be an ugly, long-haired, lop-eared creature, half spaniel and half lurcher, brown-and-white in color, with a very clumsy waddling gait. It seemed, after some hesitation, a lump of sugar which the old naturalist handed to me, and, having thus sealed an alliance, it followed me to the cab, and made no difficulties about accompanying me. It had just struck three on the palace clock when I found myself back once more in my cheerful lodge. The ex-prize fighter McMurdo had, I found, been arrested on suspicion, and both he and Major Sholto had been marched off to the station. Two constables guarded the narrow gate, but they allowed me to pass with the dog on my mentioning the detective's name.

Holmes was standing on the doorstep, with his hands in his pockets, smoking his pipe.

"Ah, you have him there!" said he. "Good dog, then! Athelney Jones has gone. We have had an immense display of energy since you left. He has arrested not only friend Thaddeus, but the gatekeeper, the housekeeper, and the Indian servant. We have the place to ourselves, but for a sergeant upstairs. Leave the dog here, and come up."

We tied Toby to the hall table, and reascended the stairs. The room was as we had left it, save that a sheet had been draped over the central figure. A weary-looking police sergeant reclined in the corner.

"Lend me your bull's-eye, sergeant," said my companion. "Now, then, for a bit of cord round my neck, so as to hang it in front of me. Thank you. Now you must kick off my boots and stockings. Just you carry them down with you, Watson. I am going to do a little climbing. And dip my handkerchief into the creosote. That will do. Now come up into the garret with me for a moment."

We clambered up through the hole. Holmes turned his light upon the open door upon the footsteps in the dust.

"I wish you particularly to notice these footmarks," he said. "Do you observe anything noteworthy about them?"

"They belong," I said, "to a child or a small woman."

"Apart from their size, though. Is there anything else?"

"They appear to be much as other footmarks."

"Not at all. Look here! This is the print of a right foot in the dust. Now I make one with my naked foot beside it. What is the chief difference?"

"Your toes are all cramped together. The other print has each toe distinctly divided."

"Quite so. That is the point. Bear that in mind. Now, would you kindly step over to the flap window and smell the edge of the woodwork? I shall stay over here, as I have this handkerchief in my hand."

I did as he directed, and was instantly conscious of a strong tarry smell.

"That is where he put his foot in getting out. If you come here, I should think that Toby will have no difficulty. Now run downstairs, loose the dog, and look out for Blondin."

By the time that I got out into the grounds Sherlock Holmes was on the roof, and I could see him like an enormous glow-worm, crawling very slowly along the ridge. I lost sight of him behind a stack of chimneys, but he presently reappeared, and then vanished once more upon the opposite side. When I made my way round there I found him seated at one of the corner eaves.

"That you, Watson?" he cried.

"Yes."

"This is the place. What is that black thing down there?"

"A water-butt."

"Confound the fellow! It's a most break-neck place. I ought to be able to come down where he could climb up. The watering-pot first, I should think. Here goes, anyhow."

There was a scuffling of the feet, and the lantern began to come steadily down. I ran to the wall. There was a light spring he came on to the barrel, and from there to the earth.

"It was easy to follow him," he said, drawing on his stockings and boots. "Tiles were loosened the whole way along, and in his hurry he had dropped this. It confirms my diagnosis, as you doctors call them."

The object which he held up to me was a small pocket or pouch. There were of colored grasses and with a few cheery beads strung round it. It was shape and size it was not unlike a cigarette case. Inside were half a dozen spines of dark wood, sharp at one end and rounded at the other, like the splinters of bamboo. Bartholomew Sholto.

"They are hellish things," said he. "Look out that you don't prick your self. I'm delighted that I've got the chances are that they are all he has. There is the less fear of you or Mrs. Forrester coming to harm. Now, I would sooner face a Martini bullet, myself. Are you game for a six-mile trudge, Watson?"

"Certainly," I answered.

"Your leg will stand it?"

"Yes."

"Here you are, doggy! Good old Toby! Smell it, Toby, smell it!" He pushed the creosote-sprinkler, the chief under the dog's nose, while he held the pouch out before it. Buff, legs separated, and with a most comical look of inquiry in his face, appeared enjoying the bouquet of a famous vintage. Holmes then threw the handkerchief to a distance, and fastening a stout cord the mongrel's collar, and led him to the foot of the water butt. The creature instantly broke into a sneeze-ing, whining, scampering yelps, and with his nose on the ground, and his tail in the air, pottered off upon the trail at a pace which strained his leash and kept us at the top of our speed.

The east side had been partially built-ing, and we could now see some distance. Across the long, gray fields, sequres, massive house, with its black, gaupy windows and high, bare walls, towered up, sad and forlorn, behind us. Our course led right across the grounds, and out among the trenches and pits with which they were scarred and interlaced. We passed a deep hole with its scattered dirt heaps and lit-groves shrubs, and I was delighted, I ramened look which harmonized with the black tragedy which hung over it.

On reaching the boundary wall, Toby ran along, whining eagerly, underneath it, and finally wriggled through at a corner screen by a young beech. Where the two bricks had been loosened, and the rest left were worn down and rounded upon the lower side, as though they had frequently been used as a ladder. Holmes clambered up, and, taking the dog from me, he dropped it over upon the other side.

"There's the print of wooden-leg's hand," he remarked, as I climbed up beside him. "You see the slight smudge of blood upon the white plaster. What a lucky thing it is that we have had no very heavy rain since yesterday! That will help us to get the trail in spite of their eight-and-twenty hours' start."

I confess that I had my doubts myself when I reflected upon the great traffic which had passed along the London road in the interval. My fears were soon appeased, however. Toby never hesitated or swerved, but trotted on in his peculiar rolling fashion. Clearly the pungent smell of the creosote rose high above all other contending scents.

"Do not imagine," said Holmes, "that I depend for my success in this case upon the mere chance of one of these fellows having put his foot in the chemical. I have knowledge now which would enable me to trace them in many different ways. This, however, is the readiest, since fortune has put it into our hands, I should be culpable if I neglected it. It has, however, prevented the case from becoming the pretty little intellectual problem which it at one time promised to be. There might have been some credit to be gained out of it, but for this unpalpable clew."

"There is credit, and to spare," said I. "I assure you, Holmes, that I marvel at the means by which you obtain your results in this case, even more than I did in the first Jefferson Hope murder. The thing seems to me to be deeper and more inexplicable. How you can hope to trace a man with such confidence the wooden-legged man?"

"Pshaw, my dear boy! it was simplicity itself. I don't wish to be theatrical. It is all patent and above board. Two officers who are in command of a considerable force on important secret as to hurried treasure. A map is drawn for them by an English gentleman named Jonathan Small. You remember that we saw the same upon the chart in Capt. Morstan's possession. He had stamped it in behalf of himself and his associates—the sign of the four, as he somewhat drunnatically called it. Aided by this chart, the officers—or one of them—gets the treasure and brings it to England, having, we will suppose, some confirmation which he receives of a similar diffident. Now, then, why did not Jonathan Small come himself? The answer is obvious. The treasure is still at Agra. Any movement was brought into close association with enemies. Jonathan Small did not get the treasure because he and his associates were themselves convicts and could not get away.

"But this is mere speculation," said I, "it is more than that. It is the only hypothesis which covers the facts. Let us see how it fits in with the sequel. Maj. Sholto remains at pence for some years, happy in the possession of his treasure. Then he receives a letter from India which gives him a great fright. What was that letter?"

"A letter to say that the men whom he had wronged in Agra had been set-

"Or had escaped. That is much more likely, for he would have known what their term of imprisonment was. It would not have been a surprise to him. It was a surprise to Capt. Morstan when he received a similar letter. Both letters were delivered on the same day, as I have no doubt Jonathan Small. Does the reasoning strike you as being faulty?"

"No; it is clear and concise."

"Well, then, we are left in the main to the plane of Jonathan Small. Let us look at it from his point of view. He comes to England with the double idea of regaining what he would consider to be his rights and of having his revenge upon the man who had wronged him. He found out where Sholto lived, and very possibly he established communications with some one inside the house. There is this butler, Lal Rao, whom we have not seen. Mrs. Bernstone gives us to understand that Sholto himself could not find out, however, where the treasure was, but Lal Rao, who was a native, save the major and one faithful servant who had died. Suddenly Small learns that the major is on his death-bed. In a frenzy lest the secret of the treasure die with him, he runs the gauntlet of the guards, makes his way to the room, and is only prevented from entering by the presence of Miss Morstan. He leaves a message, some memorandum relating to the treasure, and finally leaves a memento in the shape of the queer little impaled on the card. He had doubtless planned beforehand that should he slay the major he would leave some such record upon the body as a sign that it was not a common murder, and with the point of view of the four associates, something in the nature of an act of justice. Whimsical and bizarre conceits of this kind are common enough in the annals of crime, and nearly always lead to valuable indications as to the criminal. You follow me still?"

"Very clearly."

"Now, what could Jonathan Small do? He could only continue to keep a watch upon the house, and wait for a find the treasure. Possibly he leaves England and only comes back at intervals. Then comes the discovery of the garret, and he is instantly informed of it by his friend within the house or some confederate in the household. Jonathan, with his wooden leg, is utterly unable to reach the lofty room of Bartholomew Sholto. He takes with him a savage, a rather curious associate, who gets over this difficulty, but who, in doing so, leaves a record behind him. Have I put the case plainly?"

"But it was the associate, and not Jonathan, who committed the crime."

"Quite so. And rather to Jonathan's disgust, to judge by the way he stamped about when he got into the room. He bore no grudge against Bartholomew Sholto, and would have preferred if he could have been simply bound and gagged. He did not wish to put his head in a halter. There was no help for it, however. The savage instincts of his companion had broken out, and the poison had done its work ere Jonathan Small left his record, lowered the treasure-box to the ground, and followed it himself. The thing is a train of events as far as I can decipher them. Of course as to his personal appearance he must be middle-aged, and must be sunburned after serving this time in such an oven as the Andamans. His height is readily calculated from the length of his stride, and we know that he was bearded. His hairiness was the one point which impressed itself upon Thaddeus Sholto when he saw him at the window. I don't know that there is anything else."

"The associate!" I murmured.

"Ah, well, there is no great mystery in that. But you will know all about him soon enough. How sweet the morning air is! See how that one little cloud floats like a pink feather from some gigantic flamingo. Now the red rim of the sun pushes itself over the London cloudbank. It shines on a good many folk, but on none, I dare bet, who are on a stranger errand than you and I. How small we feel with our petty ambitions and strivings in the presence of the great elemental forces of nature! I wonder what Jones's total is? Pursuit, Pursuit!"

"Fairly so. I worked back to him through Carlyle."

"Just was like following the brook to its parent lake. It makes one curious but profound remark. It is that the chief proof of man's real greatness lies in his perception of his own smallness. It argues, you see, a power of comparison and of appreciation which is in itself a proof of nobility. There is much food for thought in that, if one were in the very edge of this, and there stood whining, looking out on the dark current.

"We are out of luck," said Holmes. "They have given us the slip here. Several small punts and skiff were moored about in the water and on the edge of the wharf. We took Toby round to each in turn, but though he tracked the creosote as far as the river, he could take up the trail beyond. Boats are curious and changeable things. A nimble fellow can slink from one to another, and as few folk use the river by night, he is unlikely to be observed. I expect

TRAIN FALLS INTO RIVER.

Awful Catastrophe on a Spanish Railway in Which Many Persons Are Killed.

FIRST REPORT PLACES NUMBER AT 90.

Later Report Says That One Hundred Bodies Have Already Been Taken From the Wreckage and Is Convinced That Seventy Corpses Still Remain In the Ruins.

Madrid, June 30.—Fourteen bodies and 50 injured persons have been extricated from the wreck of the Bilboo train which overturned at Nefertin river Sunday night. According to official information, 90 persons were killed and 100 others seriously injured. Many of the latter will die. Of the 300 passengers on the train, it is stated that only six escaped unhurt. The train, which was composed of two engines and 16 coaches, was crossing the bridge when the couplings between the engines broke. The second engine left the track and fell, followed by the entire train, into the bed of the river. Fortunately the water was low. The nearest medical attendance was a mile and a half distant, and those passengers who were least injured aided the others and did all possible until the arrival of relief trains, bringing nurses, doctors and soldiers from Bilboo.

The train fell 50 feet from the bridge to the river bed, the coaches piling up in a mass of splintered wood and iron-work. The scene is described as horrifying. Many corpses were carried down the stream, which was actually reddened with blood. It was found impossible to extricate numbers of the injured who were pinioned under the wreckage. A railway guard was arrested in the act of robbing the dead and narrowly escaped lynching.

Bonds Rattmote Raised.

Madrid, June 30.—By midnight one hundred bodies had been extricated from the wreck of the Bilboo train which was overturned Saturday night from a bridge into the Nefertin river, and it is estimated that 70 corpses remain in the wreckage. The bodies are horribly mutilated. Differences between civil and military authorities rendered the work of rescue more difficult. That many prosperous persons are among the victims is testified by the great quantity of money and jewelry collected by the gendarmes.

Passengers Receive Shaking Up.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 30.—The New York and Chicago limited, west bound, on the Pennsylvania lines, west, was wrecked near Lucas, O., about 1:30 o'clock Monday morning, but no one was injured. The accident was caused by Toledo passenger train 606 crushing into the observation car on the rear of the limited. One lady on the Toledo train, whose name was not learned, was slightly cut on the head. The others escaped with a shaking up.

Former Judge Dead.

Pottsville, Pa., June 30.—Former Judge Cyrus L. Pershing died Monday at his residence in this city. He was presiding judge of the Schuylkill county courts during the trial of the members of the notorious Molly Maguires, who were convicted and many executed.

Call for Convention Issued.

Davenport, Ia., June 30.—William B. Rankert, chairman of the national executive committee of the United Christian party, has issued a call for a national convention of that party for May 1 to 4, 1904, at the world's fair in St. Louis.

Race Is Postponed.

New York, June 30.—The proposed race between the two Shamrocks was prevented Monday by bad weather.

GIVEN PRISON SENTENCE.

Punishment of Robert A. Ammon, Attorney for Miller, of Franklin Syndicate Fame.

New York, June 30.—Robert A. Ammon, attorney for William F. Miller, of the Franklin syndicate, was Monday sentenced to an indeterminate term in state's prison of not less than four nor more than four and a half years. Ammon was convicted of having received stolen money from Miller. The maximum penalty for this offense is five years.

The specific charge on which Ammon was convicted was that he received $30,500 of the money obtained by the Franklin "630" per cent. syndicate. Miller is now serving a ten-year sentence, and was the chief witness at the trial. District Attorney Jerome, it is understood, will take steps to secure a pardon for Miller, as he is said to be dying of consumption.

Ammon's attorney moved for a new trial, after seven reasons for such a motion. He also moved for an arrest of judgment. Both motions were denied by Judge Newburger.

The sheriff's commitment on motion of the defendant's counsel was withheld until Tuesday to allow an application to a supreme court justice for a certificate of reasonable doubt.

Later Mr. Howe, Ammon's attorney, applied to Justice Truax, of the supreme court, for a certificate of reasonable doubt in the case of Incident. Justice Truax granted an order returnable on July 1. District Attorney Jerome has instructed Assistant District Attorney Nott to prepare a petition to be sent to Gov. Odell, asking for executive clemency in the case of Miller.

The petition will be asked on the ground that Miller has rendered valuable services to the state in testifying against Ammon and also that he is very ill.

American Boats Win Prizes.

Kiel, June 30.—The United States cruiser Chicago's sailing cutter, entered by Midshipman Stephen C. Rowan, Monday won Prince Henry's prize for warships' cutters, in a competition with the cutters of the German ships Frya, Hohenzollern, Frauenlob, Arkadue, Glitz and Hogen. The sailing launch of the United States cruiser San Francisco, entered by Ensign George W. Steele, Jr., won the prize in the race for warships' launches. The launch of the German turret ship Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse was second and that of the United States flagship Kearsarge, entered by Lieut. Henry C. Mustin, was third.

Two Seriously Injured.

Cleveland, O., June 30.—An electric car heavily loaded with passengers, became unmanageable while descending a hill on Wilson avenue early Monday and collided with another car at the foot of the incline with terrific force, resulting in the serious injury of two men, while several other passengers were badly bruised and cut. William H. Pillar and Henry Zimmerman, both of this city, were caught between the two cars and crushed. Pillar died.

Collins Is Still Active.

San Francisco, June 30.—Recent reports received here show that Mount Lamus is still in a state of eruption. Steam and smoke continue to pour from the mouth of the crater and loud rumbling is incessantly heard. Great masses of ashes have been thrown from the mouth of the crater and, piling up, are slowly sliding down the mountain side, but as yet no lava has issued from the mountain.

Anderson Wins Golf Championship.

New York, June 30.—The tie of Saturday at 307 for the open golf championship of the United States between Willie Anderson, Apawamis, and David Brown, Wallaston, was played off Monday on the Baltusrol Golf clum links at Short Hills, N. J. Anderson won by a score of 82 to Brown's 84.

THE SCOLD'S BRIDLE.

Brutal Punishment to Which Women Were Once Subjected.

The bridle, or scold's bridle, or gossip's bridle, was neither more nor less than a muzzle. It was in general use in Great Britain from the sixteenth to the eighteenth century, and in Scotland as late as women were punished for certain offenses, some at least of them apparently trifling than real. The instrument of torture, even a dog's leather muzzle, is uncomfortable; how much more the scold's muzzle! It consisted, according to a high authority, Mr. W. Andrews, of a kind of crown or framework of iron, which was locked upon the head, and it was armed in front with a gag, a plate or a sharp cutting knife or point, which was placed in the poor woman's mouth so as to prevent her moving her tongue, or it was so placed that if she did move it or attempt to move it she cut in a most frightful manner. With this cage upon her head and with the gag firmly pressed and locked against her tongue the miserable creature, whose sole offending perhaps was that she raised her voice in defense of her social rights against a brutal and besotted husband or had spoken honest truth of some one high in office in her town, was paraded through the streets, led by a chain by the hand of a bellman, the beside of the constable or chained to the pillory, the whipping post or market cross, to be subjected to every conceivable insult and degradation, without even the poor relief of asking for mercy or of promising amendment for the future, and when the punishment was over she was turned out from the town hall or the place where the brutal punishment had been inflicted, maimed, disfigured, bleeding, faint and degraded, to be the subject of commiseration and jeering among her neighbors and to be reviled by her persecutors.—Riverside Magazine.

EGG LORE.

Eggs constitute the most universal human food of animal origin.

Plover eggs are esteemed a great delicacy in England and Germany.

The flavor of eggs may be influenced by the food eaten by laying hens.

Hens' eggs have a white or brown color, but those of geese are bluish white.

Hens' and ducks' eggs are commonly offered to our market, but turkey eggs are seldom eaten.

In Virginia gulls' eggs are commonly eaten, and in Texas the eggs of terns and herons are gathered along the coast.

Turtle eggs are highly prized in countries where they are abundant and, though once commonly eaten in America, are now seldom offered.

On an average a hen's egg is two and a quarter inches long and one and three-quarter inches wide at the broadest point and weighs two ounces.

Recent official government figures show that eggs and poultry in the eastern states constitute from one-twelfth to one-sixth of the total value of all farm products.

Cures For Insomnia.

To an overworked little woman who suffers from insomnia an old doctor delivered himself as follows:

"Bhun all the devices one hears so much about, such as counting up to 5,000. They are maddening. Never take night baths if their action is too stimulating. Go in for a few physical exercises, including deep breathing. After the exercises walk backward on tiptoe round the room until forty or fifty steps have been taken. When in bed relax the body completely. Take long, slow, deep breaths, and if you are not asleep before you have counted ten-ah!' which means "creeper with a child's heel." An old New Zealand legend says that at one time there were of immense proportions and threatened the extinction of all human life on the islands.

The Old Man's Snake Story.

"And you say the snake was fifteen feet long?"

"Well, sah, he looked dat long w'en he stretched his full length ter strike me."

"But a snake never strikes unless he's in coil."

"Marse Tom," said the old man, "we better not let dem two snakes git ter fight it in. Either I'm a nachul bo'n liar or you misunderstan' me. Is you a boss authority on snakes?"—Atlanta Constitution.

Only One Bar.

"Yes, I think he'd be a poet if it were not for one thing."

"What's that?"

"He isn't rich enough to be able to indulge in unprofitable pleasures."

"But poets are often poor."

"Well, he isn't poor enough to be utterly discouraged either."—Chicago Post.

Sympathy.

"Oh, let me like a soldier die!" exclaimed the leading man of the barnstormers.

"Oh, if I only had a gun!" exclaimed some one in the gallery in a tone that savored of genuine sympathy.—Chicago News.

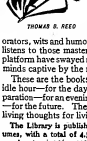
THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived close to those who have made and are making the history of our times.

In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong merchant utterance of action with the droll fancies of the humorist.



THOMAS B. REED

We see the speaker, we hear the laughter, we surrender to the spell of the words; we can feel the tense silence as the speaker mounts in the sublimest flights, then hear the outburst of applause as the audience catches the speaker at his climax.

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7¼ x 10¼ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravure portraits of Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain frontispieces in multi-color.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

Attorney James McIntyre, of Thief River Falls, will orate at Litchfield on the Fourth.

The Toupin & Schwalen Land company's office is adorned with a new signed this week.

An informal dancing party was arranged by the young people at the R. P. hall last evening.

Fourth of July display windows are in evidence this week. All of the general stores have neat showings of seasonable goods, and the Surprise store makes an attractive display of suits and furnishings. Probably the most unique window is that of O'Brien Bros., who have a warship constructed out of various articles of hardware.

Campbell Bros.' circus is in town today, and notwithstanding the unpropitious weather there is a large crowd here to witness the performances. This is one of the best shows making the smaller cities. They have twenty-three cars, and carry a whole lot of first-class attractions. The Campbells are a gentlemanly, obliging class of men, and the people of Red Lake Falls will be pleased to welcome them back again.

A bridge on the N. P. near Boulder gave way under an ore train and the train and crew fell 90 feet to the ground without injury to the train men with the exception of the engineer who suffered a broken arm. The remarkable part of the whole affair was that the entire train, except the engine, was still on the track and right side up at the end of the fall. At the county fair at Thief River Falls, Aug. 5, 6 and 7, a man will fall one thousand feet out of a balloon every day. He will use a parachute and expects to arrive on the ground in safety.

A new directory of the Red Lake Falls Telephone company has been issued this week from the Gazette office. A casual perusal of the card shows that the Gazette is listed three times, once as "Gazette office," again as "Newspaper—Gazette," and still again as "Red Lake Falls Gazette," while THE COURIER is indexed but once. The COURIER pays just as much for its 'phone, and pays just as regularly as does the other newspaper, and in all fairness and decency is entitled to as much consideration. We are not surprised that the manager of the exchange should disavow responsibility for the cheap attempt of the Gazette to belittle its competitor, but to be entirely fair the telephone management should insist upon having the card correctly printed.

Gray Hair

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for over thirty years. It has kept my scalp free from dandruff and has prevented my hair from turning gray."—Mrs. F. A. Soule, Billings, Mont.

There is this peculiar thing about Ayer's Hair Vigor—it is a hair food, not a dye. Your hair does not suddenly turn black, look dead and lifeless. But gradually the old color comes back,—all the rich, dark color it used to have. The hair stops falling, too.

Misses Richardson and Herrick, of Minneapolis, are guests of Miss Bessie Hunt this week.

Wanted—A girl for general housework. Good terms, small family. C. V. Paus, Jensen residence.

Martin McAndless, of St. Hilaire, was at the county-seat yesterday and made a pleasant call at this office.

Mrs. C. Hood, accompanied by her son and daughter, of Carrington, N. D., are visiting with Mrs. August Horin.

Louis Gonyea, of Crookston, who lost a team of colts some weeks ago, found them the other day near Goose Lake.

Miss Alice Buse has resigned her position at Krueger's confectionery, and Miss Ella Krueger has taken her place.

Philip Gibeau, of Lambert, was a pleasant caller at this office today. He says crops are looking well about Lambert.

"If a woman ever gets so "hoonely" she isn't worth looking at, she'd better take Rocky Mountain Tea. A. L. Reichert.

W. C. Smiley is down from Thief River Falls today booming the county fair, which is to be held at that place August 5, 6 and 7.

The following letters remain uncalled in the postoffice at Red Lake Falls for the week ending June 27, 1903: Emil Bremer.

Mrs. H. K. Lutz, who has been visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. B. Zaiser, for the past month, leave today for her home at Morrison Park.

The folding bed belonging to Mrs. Doidrichsen, which was raffled by friends to her benefit, was drawn yesterday by William Zaiser. About $160 was realized by the sale of tickets.

You have looked into a beautiful face, seen the sweet smile, rosy cheeks, laughing eyes and wished nature had made you attractive. Rocky Mountain Tea makes homely women beautiful. A. L. Reichert.

Matt Steele, one of the solid farmers of Lyon county, has purchased the Mickelson farm, just west of town, and expects to move on the place this fall. Mr. Steele will be a valuable addition to Red Lake county. The sale was consummated through the Ed L. Healy agency.

Adolph Nelson and Miss Mary Finsand were married yesterday at the home of the bride's parents in Red Lake Lake Falls township, Rev. Aastad, of Thief River Falls performed the ceremony. A wedding dinner was served and the occasion was a most pleasant one for the guests.

St. Hilaire will attract the larger proportion of our population on the Fourth. The Red Lake Falls ball club will play with Thief River at that place in the afternoon and the band is to furnish the music for the celebration. Maple Lake will be the rendezvous of numerous family parties from here.

About fifteen or twenty Indians are camped in town and are a decided attraction for young America, or at least for those who are not familiar with the noble red man and his habits. They are selling snake root, and disposed of several hundred pounds of this commodity to Thos. LaBissoniere.

"Never too late to mend" may apply to some things, but if your horse has a cut, a gall or a sore of any kind, the quicker you apply Co's Veterinary Carbolsalve the better. It cures quickly and never leaves a scar. Guaranteed. 50-cent and $1.00 cans. Sold by all druggists.

John L. Watson, who has been one of the managers of Ed. L. Healy's St. Paul office, will move to Red Lake Falls and assist Mr. Healy in the home office. Mr. Watson is not only an experienced land man, but a whole-souled, hustling young man who will be a valuable addition to the business and social circles of the town.

At a special meeting of the city council Tuesday night Sortedahl & Bjorneby were granted a diagonal strip of ground from the street embracing 100 square feeding their lot on the corner of Main street and First avenue. By virtue of this grant Messrs. Sortedahl & Bjorneby are to erect a two story brick building on the lot this year, and it is likely that building operations will be commenced at once.

Services will be held in the school house next Sunday by Rev. Oppegaard.

Miss Ida Lillo, who has been spending the winter in the south, has returned home.

August Lillo spent last week in quest of a team of broncbos, but failed to obtain any.

Several members of the Synod church spent last Monday and Tuesday in fishing at Rocky Mountain. They are a much better condition now. The work was badly needed.

Messrs. Ole, Thor and Osof Legwold, Charly Jensen and Mrs. Carrie Jensen came up from Twin Valley to attend the funeral of Mr. Legwold. Mr. and Mrs. Jensen returned Monday, taking with them the widow and youngest daughter of the deceased.

A very sad occurrence took place in our neighborhood last Thursday. Osmond Legwold and his son were cutting hay near the river. The boy was sent for a rake, while Mr. Legwold prepared to take a bath. He failed to return home and his son, Ole, went to look for him. His garments were found on the river. The neighbors were informed, a search was instituted, and the body found in the river. Deceased leaves a wife and four daughters and three sons to mourn his loss. The funeral was held Sunday. Mr. Legwold was well known and highly respected in the community and his sudden death was a shock to all.

"RED CAN LAW."

New Law Governing Sale Went into Effect Wednesday.

The "red can law" governing the sale of gasoline, benzine and kerosene, in quantities, passed by the last legislature, went into effect on Wednesday. It will be well for our readers of oil to read over the following law in order that they may be posted as to the requirements of it:

"Any manufacturer, vendor or dealer who shall sell, cause to be sold, fill or cause to be filled for the purpose of sale or other use, any can or other container with gasoline or benzine, in quantities of more than one pint and less than six gallons, without can or other container being of bright red color and plainly tagged, labeled or branded in large plain letters, with the name of the contents, or any manufacturer, vendor or dealer who shall sell or cause to be sold, fill or cause to be filled for the purpose or other use with kerosene or other illuminating oils, in quantities of more than one pint and less than six gallons, any can or other container, when said can or other container is of a red color, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction shall be subject to a fine of not more than one hundred dollars, ($100)."

Special instructions regarding the enforcement of this law have been sent out to the deputy oil inspectors throughout the state.

Flood Losses in Kansas.

The daily papers greatly exaggerated the losses to farmers. It was assumed that something like a third of Kansas and as large a portion of Iowa and Missouri were devastated. In the first-named state was the greatest loss. For two hundred miles over a strip of valley land two to five miles wide, the water rushed for five days. In the currents the crops are gone. Not more than one-half of this was tilled land, on which the crops were wiped out. If the crop loss amounts to $3,000,000, the probable maximum, it will be but a trifle in a state which markets $250,000,000 of farm products annually. A dozen towns lost from $35,000 to $100,000 each. Topeka's loss—by far the largest, proportionately, of any of the afflicted communities—probably was $1,000,000 or more. Here was the greatest loss of life,—seventy-one. In Kansas City the property loss is greatest on the railroads, and will reach to $7,000,000 or more. The losses farther down the streams are lighter, proportionately, because of the preparation time given. The Governor of Kansas issued an appeal for aid for the thousands who lost homes and property. The generosity of the nations has been manifest in the abundant donation pouring in for the sufferers, who are especially in distress, and there is no insurance to assist them.—From "The Recent Floods of the Middle West," by Charles M. Harger, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for July.

SUNDAY'S HAIL STORM.

Considerable Damage Done in Polk and Red Lake Counties.

Quite a severe wind and hail storm passed over a portion of Red Lake county Sunday evening, and in some parts the damage to the crops is considerable. The heaviest losers are the farmers in eastern Louisville and western Red Lake Falls townships, where the loss is estimated at twenty-five per cent. Small portions of Gervais, Terre-bonne, Poplar River and Lambert were also touched, but the loss is much less in these sections.

The hail was probably as heavy in Red Lake Falls city as in any portion of the territory covered by the storm. Garden patches were injured and a good many windows broken. It was first thought that the storm extended over a large part of the county, but it is not likely that more than forty farms were struck, and in no place is the damage placed as high as fifty per cent.

Polk county suffered from two storms the same day. The first passed southeast of Mallory and Fisher, doing considerable damage in the vicinity of Nielsville. The second passed north of Crookston, damaging the towns of Nesbit, Fanny and Gentilly. This is the same storm that touched Red Lake county.

VIEWS AND INTERVIEWS.

Father Fayolle: I saw Pope Leo twenty years ago, just before I started for America. He was a frail and sickly man at that time, weighing not more than 110 pounds. Nothing but his strong will has sustained him so long. Pope Leo possessed a strong character, and is distinguished by a singular nobility of mind which made his influence felt within the church and without.

J. W. Rodgers: Red Lake county will become one of the greatest agricultural regions in the west when the land is properly developed. We have a splendid soil, and if the farmers will apply scientific methods there is a little doubt that the yield per acre will be materially increased during the next few years.

C. W. Williams: June was a hot month at the Great Northern depot. Notwithstanding this is considered a dull season in railroad circles the receipts at the Red Lake Falls office show a handsome increase over former years in both freight and passenger shipments.

Numerous Victims: All is not gold that glitters. We are now satisfied that the chump who expects to get a rare with a ten dollar bill wrapped around it for a dollar has another guess coming.

Capt. McCraney, Winona: You have a great country up there in the northern part of the state. I believe the day is not far distant when real estate will be more than double its present value. I am so well convinced of this fact that every dollar I can spare will be spent for Red Lake county land.

TEACHES FARMERS SCIENCE METHODS

State Agricultural College Announces a Short Course of Winter Lectures.

The department of agriculture of the University of Minnesota has just issued its prospectus for the short course for farmers, which is to be given at the school of agriculture, Jan. 12 to March 12, 1904. This course is to cover, by means of a series of lectures, the subjects of general farm management, drainage, culture of crops, building and maintaining roads, bridges and fences; farm machinery; dairy husbandry; animal husbandry; agricultural chemistry; farm mechanics; dressing and curing meats; farm horticulture; veterinary science; farm accounts; diseases of plants; economic entomology, and poultry.

In the division of agriculture, the aim is to make the instruction as practicable as possible for the Minnesota farmer. Lectures are to be given on the selection of farms, planning of farms, the development of fields and their drainage, the construction and maintenance of roads and the building of fences.

The work in agricultural chemistry consists of lectures, classroom discussion and laboratory practice in the chemistry of food and soils. There are four lectures on the chemistry of soils and fertilizers. In the chemistry of foods the composition and food value of the more important forage and grain crops are discussed.

The course on animal husbandry will embrace forty-eight lectures, given in three series. The first series will treat of such breeds of cattle, sheep and swine as are now popular in the northwest, or are likely to become so, and will dwell upon such features as approved form; the uses for which they should be kept; the soil and climate best suited for growing them; and the differences that obtain between them in form, function and adaptation.

Lectures will be given on business forms; business arithmetic and the keeping of simple farm accounts and business records.

Dairy husbandry will be considered in a course of sixteen lectures giving an outline of the origin and history of the various breeds of dairy cattle, the characteristics of each and the conditions to which each is especially adapted.

The work in dressing and curing meats will be given in a course of demonstration lectures, the animals being dressed before the class and the reason for each operation being fully explained.

In economic entomology the lectures will seek to throw light on the subject of injurious and beneficial insects; insecticides and the methods of application; and the relation of birds to agriculture.

Eight lectures will be given on botanical subjects, such as the pollination of flowers, weeds and weed seeds; poisonous plants; fungus diseases and how to deal with them.

Under the head of farm horticulture attention will be given to the location of the orchard; selection of trees; planting, cultivation, green manuring and preparation for winter; advantages and disadvantages of root grafting, budding and top-working; and insects and diseases injurious to orchards. Special attention will also be given to the care and management of the small fruits and to the general subject of vegetable gardening.

The course on farm mechanics will include such topics as farm water systems, pumps and windmills; the general principles of steam and gasoline engines; the placing of shafting, pulleys and belts; pipe-fitting, soldering, etc.; and the sharpening and using of hand tools necessary for farm practices.

Another series of lectures will deal with the care, adjustment and handling of farm implements and machinery, and the methods of handling and storing grains.

The lectures on veterinary science will have to do with elementary anatomy animal foods and digestion; and the causes, prevention and treatment of common diseases of farm stock. A special effort will be made to make this course practical and helpful to men who are actually handling farm stock.

A fee of $10 will be charged for this short course for farmers, but no entrance examinations are required nor any age limit prescribed.

THE FAIR ATTRACTIONS.

Some of the Best in the Country Secured for Thief River.

The Thief River papers announce that Daniel Shaw, acting for the fair association, has secured some first-class attractions for the county fair to be held in city on Aug. 5, 6, and 7. The attractions will be furnished by the T. J. Cash Attraction and Balloon company, of St. Paul, and that they will be first-class goes without saying.

There will be two balloon ascensions and the company guarantees to furnish a man that will make an ascension of from 3,000 to 4,000 feet in the air and then jump to the ground with a parachute. This company has furnished forty successful ascensions for the state fair during the past six years and have a record of which they feel proud.

Next in importance will be the high dive in a life saving net, and this attraction itself will be worth coming miles to see.

A stand will be erected on the grounds which will be used to present the Trick Cottage Act, and also Burlesques Boxing. These attractions will highly amusing and will be as good a treat as attending a small theatre.

A fancy bicycle rider has also been secured to amuse the public with tricks.

These attractions are going to cost the fair association a good round sum of money and it is to be hoped that they will be rewarded by having a large attendance from the country to help defray the cost as an admission fee of 25 cents will be charged to enter the grounds. In this connection, however, it may be stated that it is not the endeavor to make the fair pay, as the business men of Thief River expect to contribute over $1,000 for its support this year, but they will feel well paid if the attendance from the country is large.

To Prevent Fraud.

Insurance Commissioner Elmer H. Dearth has served notice on hail insurance companies that all application blanks must state plainly that the insured assumed a 5 per cent liability on his policy according to the law passed by the last legislature. The law requires hail insurance companies to collect 2½ per cent premium in advance, and authorizes them to collect an additional 2½ per cent if it is necessary to pay losses.

The department has received information that some agents are representing to applicants that the 2½ per cent or $25 on a $1,000 policy, is the entire premium. After the applicant has paid the premium with that understanding, he receives a policy stating that the holder is held liable for 5 per cent.

Mr. Dearth has received information that the 5 per cent liability clause is explained in some application blanks in such small type that the average applicant does not see it. Some agents anxious to place insurance, often do not call the applicant's attention to the clause, and the insured is deceived.

The purpose of the law requiring companies to collect at least 2½ per cent premium in advance is to protect policyholders. Heretofore, it is said, some companies have sold hail insurance on payment of small sums and as a result the companies have not paid their losses in full. The law also provides that the total expense of the company shall not exceed 1 per cent of the total business done.

LIFE OF POPE LEO HANGS BY A THREAD

Though There Is Some Improvement, There Is Little Hope of Recovery.

St. Paul, July 9—Special to the Courier: Pope Leo is still alive, and there are even hopes of recovery, although the patient's advanced age militates against him. The latest bulletin issued by the physicians is as follows:

Rome, July 9.—5.25 a. m.—The pope is asleep. The condition of his lungs is not worse. There is as yet no suspicion of serums gathering again in the pleura, but the disorder of his kidneys is disquieting. During the early part of the night his holiness was somewhat restless. Occasional brief periods of sleep were disturbed by difficulty in breathing. Dr. Lapponi and Pope Leo's valet, Pio Centra, did their best to nourish the patient at brief intervals. The pontiff spoke little and seemed much depressed. Chloral and caffeine were administered with good effects. About sunrise the pontiff fell into a more restorative sleep than he had had all night.

MIGHT HAVE BEEN SERIOUS.

One of the Marlowe boys received a severe scalp wound in a runaway down the Clearwater hill Sunday. A serious accident to the bridge was narrowly averted. Two children in a buggy were on the bridge at the time the runaway team came down the hill. The big lumber wagon behind the runaways took off the hind wheels of the buggy, and in some providential manner the children escaped injury.

MURDER AT ADA.

Indian Policeman Has Skull Crushed by Another Redskin.

Murder was committed as the outcome of Ada's Fourth of July celebration. A feature of the affair was the attempt of White Earth Indians that gave war dances and other exhibitions and they had their usual appetite for firewater with them. This is what occasioned the trouble.

After the day's festivities were over a number of the Indians were carousing and drinking. The Indian policemen in charge of the party, Alfred Warren, attempted to quiet the disturbance when he was assaulted by one of the band. The redskin dealt him a blow with a heavy club that crushed his skull. He died three hours later. His assailant was arrested and placed in the Ada jail. The dead man belongs to a prominent family on the White Earth reservation, was well liked and popular with both the Indians and the agency authorities.

SCORES LOST THEIR LIVES

Explosion of Firedamp in a Mine at Hanna, Wyo., Buries Many Miners in Its Depths.

OVER TWO HUNDRED PROBABLY KILLED.

Main Shaft Filled with Broken Timbers and Earth, and Work of Rescuers Stopped by Gas—Shock Heard for Miles and Attracted People from the Scene.

Hanna, Wyo., July 1.—A terrible explosion or fire damp in mine No. 1 of the Union Pacific Coal company at 10:30 o'clock yesterday is believed to have caused the death of 236 miners and caused the destruction of a large amount of property. Forty-eight men were taken out during the afternoon, all badly injured. Two of them died after reaching the surface.

The explosion was completely shattered the timbers of the main shaft and the other entrances and filled the working with broken timbers and huge masses of earth and coal brought down by the shock. Those of the miners who were not killed outright by the explosion were buried alive, it is believed.

Heard for Miles.

The explosion was heard for many miles around and attracted people from the adjoining settlements. All huge timbers and railroad iron were hurled from the mouth of the shaft a distance of 200 or 300 feet. Supt. R. S. Brooks and a large force of men at once went to work to remove the debris from the shaft and reach the entombed miners. The rate of progress into the mine was blocked by the foul gases, and several times they were forced to return to the surface.

Taken from the Mine.

The rescuing party was increased from time to time by the arrival of ranchmen and others from nearby towns, and a large number came on a relief train sent out from Rawlins at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon. About one o'clock in the afternoon four men were taken out alive, and a half hour later they were followed by six others.

Gas Delays Work.

Then the rescuers were driven out by the gas and were unable to penetrate further into the mine until an improved rescuing plan was made. Fresh fresh air to reach the lower levels.

Air forced into the shaft from the outside fresh air into the mine cannot be forced for a month. It is thought that even in the lower levels where there are places by the explosion, which buried giant timbers high over the level and 1,200 feet beyond the mouth of the slope.

Most of the miners that escaped speak of seeing 50 dead bodies in one room. They reported that many of the victims were killed by the explosion and not by either and thither in the mine.

Considered Dangerous.

The Hanna mines are among the best in the Union Pacific system, being established in 1878. The town was named for Senator Mark Hanna, who has been interested in the Union Pacific Coal company. Mine No. 1 is generally a very dry property. It has 8 entries, 15 miles of workings, and a total incline shaft of one and one-half miles in length. The mine has been considered as a dangerous property for some time on account of the large amount of gas, but the system of ventilation is so perfect that any explosion was not anticipated.

All Were Announced.

Hanna, July 2.—The 222 men caught by the mine explosion on the bodies of only five have been recovered and all except any of the rescuing crew have been identified. The rescuing crew are expected to-day to reach the bodies of the lower workings, several feet away, if not all, of which is now in the mine will be completed.

Big Plant Burned.

St. Joseph, Mo., July 2.—Five yesterday afternoon destroyed the main buildings of the Hammond packing plant, causing a loss estimated at $1,200,000. The Nelson Morris plant was saved by hards work. It is reported that two, and possibly three, more lost their lives. The carcasses of 4,500 hogs, 1,800 cattle and 300 sheep were consumed.

New Cable Line Completed.

Oyster Bay, L. I., July 6.—Around the world in nine and a half minutes is the remarkable record made here Saturday night by a message to President Roosevelt from Frederick Ward Mackay, president of the Pacific Commercial Cable company, over the new American Pacific cable.

Carries Coin to Philippines.

San Francisco, July 2. — The army transport Sherman sailed Wednesday for Manila, via Guam, with one squadron of the Seventh cavalry and the Seventeenth infantry. Newly-coined Philippine peace, worth $1,500,000, and $80,000 in gold were taken on the transport.

Work of the Pension Bureau.

Washington, July 1.—During the fiscal year which closed yesterday 122,329 claims were allowed by the pension bureau and 113,370 rejected. The number of allowances exceeded those of last year to the extent of 13,068. The number of rejections in 1902 was 118,464.

Another Negro Lynched.

Scottsboro, Ala., July 1.—Andrew Diggs, a negro, was taken from the jail last night and hanged by a mob. The negro was arrested Sunday for an attempt to criminally assault Miss Alma, the 19-year-old daughter of Dr. B. B. Smith.

IOWA REPUBLICANS.

Renominate Gov. Cummins and Other Candidates for State Offices and Adopt a Platform.

Des Moines, Ia., July 2.—The republican state convention on Wednesday nominated a ticket and adopted the platform of principles. All the candidates were renominated by acclamation with the exception of the state superintendent, for which office Mr. Riggs was nominated on the third ballot, his opponents being present Superintendent R. C. Barrett, of Osage, and H. L. Adams, of West Union. The ticket is as follows:

Governor—A. B. Cummins, of Des Moines.

Lieutenant Governor—John Herriott, of Stuart.

Supreme Judge—Charles A. Bishop, of Des Moines.

Railroad Commissioner — David J. Palmer, of Washington.

State Superintendent—F. J. Riggs, of Sigourney.

The convention adopted the Allison tariff plank, and a declaration more conservative than the original "Iowa idea."

The platform reiterates faith in the historical principle of protection; says tariff rates enacted to carry this policy into effect should be just, fair and impartial; indorses the policy of reciprocity; approves the treaty with Cuba; favors the regulation and supervision of trusts; congratulates the nation on the present era of prosperity; commends the administration of Gov. Cummins; pledges the leadership in national affairs; favors good roads legislation; indorses the Louisiana Purchase exposition, and declares for nomination of President Roosevelt as his own successor. It relows allegiance to the principle of the gold standard. It opposes all legislation designed to accomplish the disfranchisement of citizens upon lines of race, color or station in life, and condemns the measures adopted by the democratic party in certain states of the union to accomplish that end.

DEATH IN A TORRENT.

Cloudburst at Oakford Park, Pa., Causes the Loss of Over Fifty Lives.

Pittsburg, July 6.—Another horror similar to that of Johnstown occurred yesterday at Oakford Park, between this place and Johnstown, when by a cloudburst and the breaking of a dam scores of people were drowned. The estimates of loss of life range from 50 to 100. Many bodies were swept away and are floating in the darkness toward the Monongahela river, while others were found crushed and buried into unrecognizable masses by the collapse of a building in which they had taken refuge. Still other bodies have been found barred into blackened masses from having come in contact with live electric wires which fell on the victims who were fleeing for safety.

FIERCE RACE WAR.

Evansville, Ind., in a State of Terror Over Efforts to Lynch a Negro Murderer.

Evansville, Ind., July 6.—At two o'clock this morning Evansville is in the hands of a mob of 2,000 men, who surrounded the jail and threatened to tear it down unless Lee Brown, the negro man who shot Patrolman Louis N. Mauzy last Friday, was delivered up to them. The governor has ordered out the militia. One white boy has been shot, two negroes and one negress have been killed and much greater loss of life is feared before the rioting is quelled. The members of the mob are shouting death to all negroes. The sheriff and police force are helpless.

Corcoran Wins Auto Race.

Belly Shannon, Ireland, July 2.—The international automobile race for the James Gordon Bennett cup was run Thursday and won by Jenatzy, a member of the German team, who covered the distance of 370½ miles in six hours, 26 minutes and nine seconds, including the stops imposed by the regulations.

Disaster in a Mine.

Brazil, Ind., July 3.—The premature explosion of a "shot" at Superior mine, No. 1, Thursday afternoon instantly killed Jesse Perkins, and fatally injured George Perkins. The men had lighted the fuse when it flashed up and the shot exploded before they could get away. Jesse Perkins was terribly mangled.

The Pope Near Death.

Rome, July 6, 3 a. m.—The pope's condition at this hour remains unchanged, but death is regarded as a matter of a few days at the outside and may come at any moment. The cardinals, yet gorgeous, ceremony of administering the last sacraments took place at the bedside of Pope Leo.

Many Patents Granted.

Washington, July 2.—A summary of the business transacted by the patent office for the fiscal year ended June 30 shows that 33,229 patents were granted and 54,326 applications filed. The receipts of the office were $1,291,251. The year has been one of the most prosperous in the history of the bureau.

Lynched.

Charlotte, N. C., July 4.—John Osborne, a negro who criminally assaulted and afterward robbed Miss Lizzie W. Ents, a white woman, aged 60, at her home in Union county, last Sunday, was taken from officers while en route to jail and hanged by a mob of unknown men.

Disastrous Fire.

Bloomington, Ill., July 2.—Fire at Ocoya, a village 30 miles north on the Chicago & Alton, caused a loss of $100,000 Wednesday. The origin was in the limseed elevator of Kirkpatrick & Lacklland.

SHOWS A LARGE SURPLUS

Annual Statement of United States Treasury Gives Some Interesting Statistics.

SITUATION AT CLOSE OF FISCAL YEAR.

After Paying All Expenses There Remains $82,174,020—The Gold Now Stored in Government Strong Box Amounts to $621,616,850—Customs Receipts Increase.

Washington, July 1.—There was a surplus of $82,710,260 in the treasury at the end of the fiscal year which closed yesterday, notwithstanding the repeal of the war taxes. The United States government now has in its vaults more gold than any other nation on earth.

The receipts of the year were $558,-887,256, and the disbursements $560,-176,930. The amount of gold in the treasury is $621,639,898, including that against which gold certificates have been issued and the $150,000,000 of gold reserve fund.

Surplus a Surprise.

The large amount of the surplus was unexpected. At the beginning of the fiscal year it was anticipated that the reduction of internal revenue taxes by the repealing of the war taxes would be $75,000,000, whereas the actual loss was only $61,764,386. Owing to the enormous importation of partly manufactured goods the customs receipts were greater than those of last year by $29,434,791.

There was an increase of $8,311,637 in taxes paid on whisky, and the receipts from miscellaneous sources were $8,727,118 greater than last year, the increase being due to phenomenal sales of public lands in the west.

Receipts and Expenditures.

The sources of the receipts were: Customs, $283,891,179; internal revenue, $230,115,756; miscellaneous, $44,-589,351.

The items of expenditure were: Civil and miscellaneous, $125,616,512; increase, $11,546,983. War (including river and harbors), $118,540,635; increase, $6,724,405. Navy, $82,626,803; increase, $14,803,674. Indians, $12,-931,956; increase, $2,981,271. Pensions, $138,426,618; decrease, $62,942,-427. Total, $560,176,930; increase, $14,-883,725.

Available cash balance in treasury at close of business to-day was $235,-548,012, a gain of $10,367,651.

Work of the Mints.

During the fiscal year the mints of the United States coined 295,801,462 pieces, of which 19,182,824 were gold and various denominations of centavos for the Philippines; 9,010,000 were for the government of Venezuela and 1,260,000 for Colombia. The total value of American coins executed was $74,520,600, against $94,576,078 in the previous year.

National Banks.

The circulation of the national banks at the close of business yesterday aggregated $413,670,650, being an increase of $16,988,350 over the previous year. Five hundred and thirty-seven new banks began business in the 12 months just closed, being an increase of more than 100 over those for the previous year. The number of national banks which failed during the year was two, and one assumed voluntary liquidation. A majority of those which went into liquidation, were merely consolidations with other banks.

Money in Circulation.

The total money in circulation in the United States is $2,378,041,727, being an increase during the last year of $126,052,727. Gold certificates alone increased $23,295,000 of this increase, the total amount of these notes outstanding being $408,169,020.

The amount of public money deposited with the national banks is $151,172,452, being an increase of $27,-741,305 during the last 12 months. The number of depositories increased from 574 to 710.

Bonds Refunded.

Under the offer of the secretary of the treasury, made on March 26 last, to refund $100,000,000 of short term three and four per cent. bonds in exchange for new two per cents, $98,-783,800 of four per cents of 1907 and $14,468,650 of three per cents of 1908 had been exchanged up to yesterday, when the offer was withdrawn.

Her Last Slide.

Port Dodge, Ia., July 6.—Clara Fox, of Ogeden, was instantly killed while making a "slide for life" on a wire stretched from the chimney tower to a telephone pole half a block away. The cause in which she hung became unhitched just after starting. She fell into a crowd 100 feet below, striking W. H. Wheeler, of Fort Dodge, and fatally injuring him.

Broke World's Record.

Washington Park, Chicago, July 2.—Alan-a-Dale broke the world's record for one mile over a circular track at Washington park Wednesday afternoon, running the distance in 1:37 3-5. The former record of 1:37 4-5 was made by Brigadier at Coney Island in 1900. Salvator holds the record for a straight course. He made it in 1:35½ in 1:35¼.

Lynched.

Norway, S. C., July 2.—Charles Evans, colored, suspected of the murder of John L. Phillips, was taken from the jail here Tuesday night and lynched by a mob. Four negroes, who were confined in the jail, were also taken by the mob and beaten into insensibility.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Climate and Crop Bulletin.

The week opened cool, but the temperatures rose slowly all the week. There was hardly any rain during the week, except in the extreme Southwest, till the scattered showers of the morning of the 28th, and the more general showers of the morning of the 29th, which latter fell over the area heaviest in the middle South and the middle West in the dry regions the rains will afford only momentary relief.

From the northern counties of the Minnesota valley northward the oats, barley, flax, corn and grass on spring plowed land are in a sad way, and are injured by the drought, or they are in danger of injury, but on the fall plowed land and on clay soils these crops are in good condition to stand the dry weather, though they are not progressing much; on all fields the surface is very dry, but on the latter soil it is moist below the surface. In the poor places wheat is only six inches high in shooting to head, and late sown barley and flax are unsprouted. Grass and pastures are poor.

In the Minnesota valley and southward there is plenty of moisture in the uplands, and in the southwest, corner of the state the lowlands are wet; in the middle South and Southeast, the lowlands need rain to soften the hard surface. In these districts the small grains and grasses are doing well, but low land crops are generally poor. There is some rust on the wheat and oats in the middle Minnesota valley, but the rust is not yet checked in it, and also the rank growth of those grains. Haying has begun in the south well, and oats are coming into head. Clover and timothy hay is being saved. Rye is ripening.

Not Satisfied.

Inspectors of the state dairy and food department report increased inspection tours in different parts of the state.

According to E. K. Slater, of the inspection in the southern part of the state, the reputation of Minnesota butter is seriously threatened by conditions there. Hot water says that the introduction of hand separators and the lax methods of caring for cream are the chief causes of the poor butter there lower every month.

In the central part of the state conditions are all that could be desired. Inspector H. H. White, who returns from an extensive trip all through that section, said that butter is improving every day in the creameries through which he has been and that the finest quality of butter in the world is now being manufactured there. As long as the southern part of the state, however, pulls against this effort to boost butter, it will be also want for the dairy department to reach desired results.

It is believed, however, by the dairy and food officials in charge that when the southern part of the state will ultimately result in far better conditions there. The department has had so much to do that it has been unable to give the necessary attention the attention which they should have

Does Not Apply.

Insurance Commissioner E. H. Dearth was advised by Attorney General W. B. Douglas that the new law requiring foreign insurance companies to towns having fire departments to contribute 2 per cent of the premiums collected to firemen's relief funds does not apply to premiums collected prior to July 1, 1903, all over the companies doing business in Minnesota nearly $10,000.

The total premiums received in towns having fire departments in 1902 was $4,267,207.27. The apportionment for firemen's pensions on this amount under the new law amounts to $85,-349.15. If the new law applied, the apportionment would amount to $85,-345.15.

The premiums received in St. Paul from fire insurance companies, the apportionment under the old law aggregates $8,217.45.

News Notes.

Edward Clark, alias Phol and Henry Saunders, wanted at Bemidji for the theft of a horse and buggy, is in South St. Paul. The robbery was committed June 3.

The state auditor received the following vessel tonnage taxes: Pentland Boom company, four large grain ships, $440; American Navigation company, $231; Lake Superior Contracting and Dredging company, $230; other companies $223.56.

William Nyhart, 163 Fillmore avenue, St. Paul, is suffering from blood poisoning caused by the bite of a rat, which bit the little finger.

The Duluth & Iron Range has filed with the Minnesota railroad commission a new tariff, naming reduced rates on general merchandise to all stations on its line in accordance with the order recently made by the commission.

Edward Clark was murdered at Buhl on the Mesabi range and sixteen miners are in jail awaiting a hearing, which it is hoped will determine which one of them committed the deed.

Judge Finnout of the St. Paul municipal court in the case of D. Hellerman against Robert C. Ballow, to recover $42.50, has held that a man cannot sue to recover money which he loaned another person to play poker with.

Louis Collar, a laborer, who fell from a car of logs beneath the Third street bridge, St. Paul, and broke his neck, died at the city hospital.

Percy R. Lorimer, son of W. W. Lorimer of 600 East Third street, was drowned while fishing in Pickerel lake, which is an arm of the river.

GRAND CHAPTER OF MASONS

This is our record. From a small beginning we have grown until our factories now cover many acres. Many of our machines sold forty to fifty years ago are still giving their users faithful service. Can anything be more convincing of their merits and durability? Did you ever hear of any other machine with such a record?

Note a few of the many superior points of the

Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine No. 9

The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, unmechanical and troublesome shuttle.

The Frictionless ball bearings and perfect mechanical construction enable it to be operated with one-third less exertion than is required by ordinary machines. It sews three yards of goods while a shuttle machine sews two.

It makes the most elastic and most perfect stitch whether sewing light or heavy goods.

With our "superior" attachments, the greatest variety of work is possible.

Do not make the mistake of buying a sewing machine until you have given the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 a trial.

HIS CONDITION SERIOUS.

Pope Leo XIII. Attacked with Pneumonia and End Thought to Be Near.

HE IS KEPT ALIVE WITH STIMULANTS.

Although He Is Very Weak, He May Live Several Days, and Recovery Is Not Beyond Hope—Bulletin of the Physicians—Enjoys a Much-Needed Rest.

Rome, July 7.—Pope Leo is seriously, if not alarmingly, ill with senile pneumonia, which developed from a cold contracted Friday afternoon, following a drive in the vatican grounds. His feebleness has been unable to leave his bed since Friday night, and his heart is gradually becoming weaker, necessitating frequent doses of digitalis.

"God's Will Be Done!"

"God's will be done. Who would have believed it, when only ten days ago I was presiding over a public consistory?" murmured feebly Pope Leo as he felt himself late Sunday evening sinking into a sleep which lasted about three hours until excruciating pain brought the dying pontiff back to consciousness. He groaned and complained of pains on both sides of the thorax. Teodorby Dr. Lapponi, assisted by Pope Leo's valet, Pio Centra, and the physician's second assistant, De Castro, lifted the frail form and changing the position succeeded in giving the patient some relief.

Though hovering on the brink of death the life of the pontiff is still prolonged by means of strong stimulants and concentrated nourishment, and while he is still alive, his wonderful vitality may again resist and conquer the attack of this illness. Late Sunday evening, after the excitement of the ceremony of the last consistory was over, the pope seemed less restless, partly soothed by the religious services and partly by a dose of chloral, which was given to him in considerable quantity.

May Last Several Days.

The condition of his holiness at midnight, though still grave, is not so serious as late in the afternoon. Dr. Lapponi administered camphor-caffeine through the mouth, as one experiment of injecting did not prove successful, Pope Leo saying he could not bear it. The amelioration resulting from the camphor-caffeine was so marked that the pontiff called first his nephews and then his private secretary and adjusted some personal affairs which are pending. Dr. Mazzoni and Dr. Lapponi thought that the danger of a catastrophe occurring during the night has been averted. Indeed, they hope that unless there is heart failure they will be able to keep their patient alive for a few days longer, especially if he will willingly consent to observe the physicians' prescriptions. This, however, is the more difficult as his holiness preserves his full consciousness and argues and discusses his doctors' prescriptions. The latter, fearing to excite him by contradiction, are sometimes at a loss how to proceed.

Bulletin Is Issued.

The text of the bulletin issued Monday morning by the pope's physicians is as follows:

"Although his holiness passed the night almost without sleep, he is not so uneasy as he was Sunday. The pope has been benefited by the injection of digitalis and camphor, and the condition of his chest is normal. There is a slight cough, with some catarrhal emission. Sufficient nourishment has been taken. The pulse is still weak, but not intermittent, and the temperature is below normal. The condition of the august patient, therefore, cannot be described as better, but it certainly is no worse. Lapponi. Mazzoni."

For the first time since the pope's illness took a serious turn Dr. Lapponi ventured to leave the vatican Monday afternoon for one hour on urgent private business. The fact aroused hopes that the pontiff is on the way to recovery, but his condition remains very grave, though no immediate danger is apprehended.

The only persons allowed in the pope's bedroom in the morning besides the doctors and the attendants, were Cardinal Rampolla, Mgr. Bisleti, the master of the pontifical chambers, and Brig. Gen. Count Camillo Pecci, of the Noble guard, a nephew of the pope. The pope conversed for a long time with Count Pecci, even rising and walking about the room for a few minutes, leaning on his arm. The pontiff on this occasion remarked:

"Now I am ready to depart, having settled all my affairs. I feel I have done all in my power for the good of the church and of humanity."

After a rather exciting morning the venerable pontiff enjoyed a much-needed sleep.

The Succession.

All kinds of speculation are already in circulation as to the probable successor to the throne of St. Peter. Opinions are much divided, owing to the many interests which will be affected according to the choice made by the sacred college. The first question the cardinals will have to solve will be whether the conclave shall be held in Rome or outside of Italy. It is believed that the supporters of the idea of abandoning Rome will be even fewer than in the conclave held after the death of Pius IX., when 32 out of 57 cardinals voted in favor of Rome. The second question will be whether the next pope must be an Italian or be eligible. It is generally believed that he will be an Italian, because in view of the struggle between the church and the state since the temporal power and the constitution of united Italy all the clergy as well as the clerical party and even foreigners think that an Italian pope can protect better than a stranger the advance of the religious and political interests of the church.

Several Candidates.

The candidates chiefly spoken of are Cardinal Rampolla and Cardinal Di Serafino Vannutelli. They are both representatives of the conservative policy, but are bitter antagonists of each other. The most probable candidates are Cardinal Bishop Agliardi and Cardinal Priest Satolli, whose breadth of views and love of modern ideas have been strengthened during his stay in America. The most probable religious candidates are Cardinal Priest Gotti, who would carefully avoid mixing up politics, and Cardinal Prisor Agnelli Pietro, who also has the very desirable requisite of old age, being 75 years old. All these candidates live in Rome, a strong party which might include a good many foreign cardinals, advocates the election of a cardinal who is not a member of the curia, such as Cardinal Sato, patriarch of Venice; Cardinal Ferrari, archbishop of Milan, both Intransigent; or Cardinal Capecelatro, archbishop of Capua, who is perhaps the most learned member of the sacred college, and has conciliatory ideas.

Cloudburst in Texas.

Gonzales, Tex., July 7.—There was a cloudburst at Leesville Sunday, which five feet of water in the streets in half an hour. Many houses were wrecked. Will Brown, a prisoner, was drowned. The Guadaloupe has a 19-foot rise, and is going up a foot and a half an hour. All of the lower bottom farms for ten miles around are inundated.

Heat Death in a Fire.

Oakland, Cal., July 7.—In the burning of the Arcala lodging house and the Waldorf apartment house three females were buried by falling floors. Frank Fricker was pinned down by timber and burned to death. His companions escaped. The Waldorf was owned by Gov. Pardee. Loss, $50,000.

Killed by Powder Explosion.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 7.—Francesco Cleeuza, a miner, was killed, and Birch Kridski fatally injured Monday by the explosion of a keg of powder ignited from a blast in mine No. 4, of the Pittsburg Coal company, at Sandy Creek, Pa. The other miners at work escaped unhurt.

River Is Rising.

Bonham, Tex., July 7.—Red River is ten feet higher than at any previous record. Several people are reported missing. The damage to crops is very heavy.

Pope Leo's Poem on Death

In 1897 the Pope felt the shadow of death beginning to fall upon him, and in splendid defiance of its power wrote the following lines, which are considered among his strongest work:

Death.

The westering sun draws near his cloudy bed,
Leo, and gradual darkness veils thy head:
The sluggish life-blood in thy withered veins
More slowly runs its course—what then remains?
Lo! Death is brandishing his fatal dart,
And the grave yearns to shroud thy mortal part:
But from its prison freed, the soul expands
Exulting pinions to the enfranchised lands.
My weary race is run—I touch the goal:
Hear, Lord, the feeble pantings of my soul;
If it be worthy, Lord, Thy pitying breast
Welcome it unto everlasting rest!
May I behold Thee, Queen of earth and sky,
Whose love enchained the demons lurking nigh
The path to heaven; and freely shall I own
'Twas Thy sweet care that gained my blissful crown!

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVE VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD SOFT WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next five years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not invest as well have that in your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great tracts to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well-settled community, where churches and schools are full and well conducted. These will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $5,000 cash will handle this tract. Balance can be paid out in time to suit and for cent. A live investor can make a big thousand on this tract in a short time. If not rented, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

Most men try to find out the kind of a woman they ought to marry by marrying her.

The St. Paul News advises the married man to love only the worst half of his neighbor as himself.

A Cincinnati bride refused to proceed with the ceremony until the bridegroom had made a will in her favor. He was probably foolish enough to tell her he would die for her, and believed in preparing for contingencies.

The Commoner dedicates this bit of philosophy to the graduate:

May he realize that graduation is the commencement rather than the end of his labors; may he recognize that his education brings a responsibility commensurate with his abilities; and may his learning give him a deeper interest in the welfare of his fellows and convince him that he can best raise himself by raising the general level of mankind.

A Missouri editor has created a sensation by printing a strong editorial decrying Sunday fishing. He insists it is no more sinful to catch a fish on Sunday than it is to catch a yellow legged chicken for a minister's dinner. The comparison is clever, but it will not save much unpleasant criticism from the pulpit.

The ambition to beat tormer records is laudable, but the Crookston Times has discovered a genius down south who is liable to overreach himself:

Down in Oklahoma a father of eighteen children elopes with a miss of eighteen years. What else could be expected of a man with such a fondness for children?

The Bemidji Pioneer's intimation that instructors are easy to obtain would lead to the conclusion that a university course in this science is not always necessary or desirable:

A university in Illinois has established a department for the the education of a new kind of new women. Its purpose is announced as being to teach girls to know men. Promoters of the scheme will have no trouble in obtaining a highly efficient corps of lady teachers.

The Fairmont Sentinel seizes an opportunity to turn the joke on the popular Winona congressman:

Congressman Tawney of the First District appointed several high school graduates to the position of cadet in the Annapolis naval academy, all of whom fell down in the examination. It just looked now that Tawney's favorite was rejected because of his answer to the question, touching upon his knowledge of warships, "How is the deck divided?" The youthful aspirant to naval honors answered, "The deck is divided into spades, diamonds, hearts and clubs."

The Duluth News-Tribune believes in the doctrine of perpetual youth, and concludes as[illegible] editorial by saying:

Fifty years ago people decided not to be old at forty—and, consequently they were not old at forty. The present day young man of fifty or sixty wears the natty sack tweeds or serges that his son or grand son wears, tipped off with a jaunty hat. He goes to base ball, the races, he keeps up with procession, and is all in for a good time in moderation healthfully. The young woman with him in white or colors with the grey hat, who has the manners of a youngful but self-respecting girl of twenty in the last century, is his wife, perhaps a grandmother, but none the less young and happy on. They feel young, dress young, they believe themselves young and they are young.

Bro. Eastman of the Wadena Pioneer-Journal has the following to say with regard to the duty of the people in seeing that an acknowledged railroad sympathizer is defeated for re-election next year:

"There is an office to be filled next year which is of extreme importance to the people, we refer to the place on the grain and warehouse board now held by Judge Ira B. Mills, whose term will expire next year. While we dislike to say it, in our opinion Judge Mills should be relegated to private life. Apparently his abilities are used, not to protect the interests of the whole people, but to aid and abet the railroads in taking unfair advantages of the public. It is well known what the influence was that put him in office four years ago, and he probably will have those same influences back him in the next campaign. But if the people are alive to their interests no power in this state can again place him in office."

The bright young lady who writes the St. Paul correspondence for the Princeton Union contributes a bit of verse worthy of enduring fame:

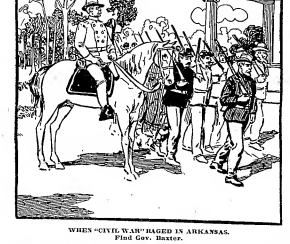
Say, my friend, just take your time,
Don't be in a hurry!
If your goin' to ruin or climb
Don't get in a hurry!
Hold your horses, jes go slow,
For there's lots of time you know,
You'll lose your breath before you go,
If you fret and worry.

Forever in a hurry
Know'd a feller once who just
Was allusin in a hurry,
Never took a mite of rest
And grudged the same to you;

Wasted all his strength by jing
And never did a blessed thing,
All I have to say in his behalf
Is—What he was going to do.

Tain't no use in hurrin' out
Your axle greased to worry,
Nor any sense in flyin' about
In a hurry.
I've noticed men who gets ahead
Most generally is them who has
The sense to take their time instead
Of bein' in a hurry.

LESSON IN AMERICAN HISTORY IN PUZZLE



WHEN "CIVIL WAR" RAGED IN ARKANSAS. Find Gov. Baxter.

The army of the United States was kept busy preserving order among warring political factions in the south during reconstruction days. In Arkansas in 1872 the liberal and radical republicans both claimed the election of their state tickets and considerable bloodshed was caused by the civil strife which followed. Greater difficulties would have followed but for the presence of federal troops, which remained neutral and attempted to preserve order. A new constitution was adopted in the summer of 1874 and Augustus H. Garland, the democratic nominee, was elected governor in the fall of that year. Somewhat similar scenes were enacted in nearly all the southern states, especially in South Carolina and Louisiana, before the adoption of new constitutions and the turning over of the state governments to local officials.

Some of the county papers appear to think Congressman Stevenson will have a hard job to pick a postmaster for Thief River Falls. As the present incumbent, Mr. Richardson, is about the only "original" Stevenson man in the town, the task ought not to be a difficult one.

The statement that one battleship costs more than the value of the ninety-four buildings of Harvard university has been questioned, but the official reports state that the Oregon, which is the most expensive battleship in the United States navy, cost $6,575,622.75. The valuation of all the buildings and land of Harvard university is $5,300,000.

The Czar of Russia is in favor of universal peace, still he has the largest army in the world. He has more officers than we have officers and men in our regular army. His troops exceed 1,000,000. He could increase the number to 5,000,000 and put into field 500,000 of the best horses in the world. A private does not receive more than one cent a day.

The concessions which have recently been made by the Russian government in favor of the Jews are very important. Heretofore the law has prohibited Jews from living in villages, and many cities, in order to get rid of them, had themselves classified as villages and proceeded to drive out the Jews. As they were not permitted to live in the rural districts there was nothing left for them but to herd in cities. The new order that has been issued reclassifies all villages as cities and permits Jews to live in any of them.

Even looking at the Delaware negro-burning from the mob standpoint, it is hard to see how the lynching of the negro evened up matters, since it resulted in the death of two other people who were shot in the scrimmage in the jail. That is to say the negro killed but one person and would undoubtedly have been hanged for the murder in his trial in the course of justice. The mob is responsible for the death of three people besides setting the law at defiance. Nobody but a lyncher can figure even a deterrent result out of that sort of a campaign.

TRUSTS BLOW THE WHISTLE.

The Adrian Democrat illustrates the attitude of the Republican party and the trusts by the following story:

"We hear a good deal these days about the Republican party going to crush the trusts. Republican leaders may say they will. But they never do it.

It is like the old story of the young man who was given to exaggeration. He just could not tell the truth. One day his friend went out and bought a penny whistle and said to the young man:

"Now, when you get to laying it on too thick, I am going to blow this whistle, and you want to stop."

And the young man said, "All right." But pretty soon he got to telling about his father's farm up in the country, and he got one of those enthusiastic fits, and he said:

"Why, my father has a barn on that farm that is a thousand feet long, eight hundred feet high—"

And then his friend blew the the whistle the young man said: "And a foot and a half wide."

Now that is the way with the Republican party and the trusts.

The Republican party tunes a magnificent, inspiring position for the people. It's grand! It's like that barn, a thousand feet long and eight hundred feet high. But when the trusts blow the whistle, it is only one and a half feet wide."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's catarrh cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitution al disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's catarrh cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

IT IS LOVE.

"He love that makes the world so bright,
And takes away life's care.
It plants the blooming roses, too;
It makes the sun to warm below;
And bids the lonest lie in the
To shine with wondrous light.
And drives the coldness from the heart,
With all its doleful delights.
It clothes the enduring tongue
With words of mercy, sweet:
And little faults will be unseen,
When loving hearts shall meet.
The whole world together seems to grow,
When love appearing speaks,
And love-crowned hearts find peace and rest.
For which mankind ne'er seeks.

How to Avert Crime.

Northfield News: The closing chapter in the criminal drama just ended at Owatonna this week revealed some things that should be of interest to every parent. Two young men, scarcely two-score years of age, are sentenced to death, and a third, still younger, passed through Northfield yesterday on his way to Stillwater where he will spend his remaining days at hard labor. A review of this terrible crime in which these boys killed a man for seventy-five dollars is but another lesson of what comes from a life of idleness and the free use of liquor. Parents cannot be too careful about the whereabouts of their children and they must not be too confident that they always go where they are supposed to go after night falls. Young boys and girls whoare allowed to be on the streets or away from home nearly every night in their youth, do not make good home-loving citizens. They contract a habit to be out on the street and there are no attractions for them in the home. The good home is the foundation of all that is good in our government and without it government could exist. Guard the home and make it attractive. Teach the younger generation to love their homes, and the influence will be to vice and crime will rarely if ever enter their minds.

It is reported that Groshong & Blake, proprietors of the Falls meat market, have purchased the two lots on the corner of Main street and Second avenue of Theo. Garceau and that they intend to erect a modern two-story brick building in the near future.

A social was held last evening at the residence of F. E. Hunt under auspices of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor. A neat sum was realized, and the proceeds will be applied toward the purchase of a new organ for the Presbyterian church.

A. P. Toupin and daughter, Delia, expect to leave Friday on the excursion to Duluth. Mr. Toupin will go to Calumet, Mich., to visit his parents for a few weeks, while Miss Delia will remain for about six weeks with friends and relatives at Duluth, Superior and Two Harbors.

J. R. & R. Fortier are moving their general store to the Lemieux block this week. This is a more central location and a better room in every respect. They expect to put in a much larger stock this fall and will be better than ever prepared to serve their customers.

If the county fair at Thief River Falls is not a big success it will not be for lack of amusement. The company which has charge of the spectacular features of the Winnipeg and Minnesota State fairs will furnish fun for the crowds and from all accounts it will be a big three-day circus.

Harry Waxelbaum, who has been employed as clothing salesman at the Surprise store during the past four or five months, has resigned his position and will leave tomorrow for Minneapolis. Harry has made many friends during his stay in the city who will be sorry to learn that he is to leave.

Oliver Caron was distributing the first of his honey crop among his customers Monday. Mr. Caron expects to have an unusually large amount of honey this year, the season having been exceptionally favorable, and those who expect to buy honey for winter use will do well to see him.

The annual school meeting will be held on Saturday evening, July 18. The terms of Henry Hennemuth and T. A. Crompe as directors expire this year, and so far there has been no mention of candidates to succeed them. Both of the gentlemen have made good officials and are deserving of re-election.

Miss Sophia Schusser met with a peculiar accident at Thief River Falls, the morning of the Fourth. In attempting to alight from a buggy she struck the ground in such a manner that her leg was broken just above the ankle. Miss Schusser is being taken care of at the home of Fred Holzknecht.

C. P. Shepard, of Marshall, Minn., is the guest of Ed L. Healy this week. Mr. Shepard was formerly register of the land office at Marshall, having been retired last week by reason of the removal of the office to Cass Lake. He is looking up some investments in real estate, and may locate in the south part of the state.

H. H. Pinrow was here from Plummer's Dam yesterday and said the Fourth of July celebration at his place was a success considering the unfavorable weather. Some of the races were called off on account of the wet grounds, but otherwise all of the amusements were pulled off according to schedule and everybody had a good time.

Mr. J. B. Desmarais has purchased the store building occupied by Garceau & Zaiser of August Reichel and also the residence property on Third street, the consideration being $5,500. Mr. Reichel and family expect to leave in a few weeks for Washington, where they will visit friends and relatives for a time, and it is probable they will locate there.

The construction work of the new elevator at the Northside mill was commenced this week by J. K. Johnson and W. G. Brown, the contractors. This will be one of the largest storage houses in this part of the country, and will enable the milling company to hold enough good wheat to keep the plant in operation day and night throughout the year.

Crookston Times: Ira C. Richardson, the Thief River postmaster and lawyer, while getting off a moving train at the depot last night, fell and sustained several very painful injuries. Had the sidewalk been slippery or icy, Mr. Richardson might very easily have gone under the wheels, but as it is a few bruises and a sprained ankle will lay him up for week or two.

The transfer of the St. Hilaire Retail Lumber company's yard in this city to the Thief River Falls Lumber company took place Tuesday and the big shed on the west side of the street is now the abiding place of Manager Doran. Mr. Penney, the manager of the St. Hilaire company, will remain here for a month or six weeks to finish the collections for his company.

A smooth-tongued fakir held forth on Main street Tuesday evening, selling razors at $1 each. He conveyed the impression that there would be a grand distribution of cash prizes among his victims at the close of the performance, but of course he quietly pocketed the proceeds and retired. The supply of suckers never diminishes. There is an inherent disposition to get rich quick, and it is only by the travail of sad experience that most people learn the futility of attempting to defeat another man's game.

The ball game at St. Hilaire on the Fourth resulted in another victory for the Red Lake Falls boys in one of the best and closest games of the season. The score was 3 to 2, Thief River Falls making both their scores in the sixth inning. Spectators of the game say that the local team never did better work. Very few errors are credited to either side, and the field work is said to have been first-class. Schusser and Richards were the battery for Red Lake Falls, and Murphy and Russell for Thief River.

A new ruling relative to the delivery of country mail goes into effect today. Heretofore the stagedrivers who carry mail to the country postoffices have occasionally delivered mail to farmers living along their routes, making private arrangements for such delivery. The new order of government will require the delivery in all cases where the farmers have fit to provide the necessary boxes. This is free delivery as far as it goes, but it applies only to the people living along the direct road over which the stage travels, whereas the regular free delivery carrier is assigned a route covering all the houses within a prescribed area.

Europe's Rulers in Visiting Mood.

Each year the crowned heads of Europe are turning their attention more closely to their neighbors, to studying their industries and visiting their courts. King Edward has made calls this year upon his "little brother" in Portugal, upon the King of Italy, the Pope and President Loubet of France. Perhaps next he will decide to visit this country, in which case we can present him with the finest beer he ever tasted, besides other luxuries known exclusively to Americans. Golden grain belt beer, the delicious beer referred to, is half table delicacy and tonic for the home. It's good for all the family, and should be kept constantly on hand. A Detective Story that is Unsurpassed.

"Away, is he?" said Holmes, in a disappointed voice. "I am sorry for that, for I wanted to speak to Mr. Sholto."

"He's been away since yesterday mornin', sir, and, truth to tell, I am beginnin' to feel frightened about him. But if it is about a hoss, sir, maybe I could serve as well."

"I wanted to hire his steam launch."

"Why, bless you, sir, it is the steam launch that he has gone. That's what guarales me; for I know there ain't more coals in her than would take her to about Woolwich and back. If he'd been away in the barge I'd ha' thought nothin'; for many a time a job has taken him as far as Gravesend, and then if there was much doin' there he might ha' stayed over. But the launch, sir! What does he launch without coals?"

"He might have bought some at a wharf down the river."

"He might, sir, but it weren't his way. Many a time I've heard him and out at the prices they charge for a few odd bags. Besides, I don't like that wooden-legged man, with his ugly face and outlandish talk. What did he want always knockin' about here for?"

"A wooden-legged man?" said Holmes, with blank surprise.

"Yes, sir, a brown, monkey-faced chap that's called assiet once for my old man. It was him that rousted him up last yesterday, and, what's more, my man knew he was comin', for he had taken stuff in the launch. I don't like things straight, sir, I don't feel easy in my mind about it."

"But, my dear Mrs. Smith," said Holmes, shrugging his shoulders, "you are frightening yourself about nothing. How could you possibly tell that it was the wooden-legged man who came in the night? I don't suffer under-timid how you can be so sure."

"His voice, sir. It was like nales, which is kind o' thick and foggy. He tapped at the window—about three it would be. 'Show a leg, mutey,' says he; 'time to turn out, matey.' 'Ay, ay,' says my man woke up Jim—that's my eldest—and away they went, without so much as a word to me. I could ha' heard the wooden leg clackin' on the stones."

"And was this wooden-legged man alone?"

"Couldn't say, I am sure, sir. I didn't hear no one else."

"I am sorry, Mrs. Smith, for I wanted a steam launch, and I hear that the best reports of the—. Let me see, what is her name?"

"The Aurora, sir."

"Ah! She's not that old green launch with a yellow line, very broad in the beam?"

"No, indeed. She's as trim a little thing as any on the river. She's been fresh painted, too, with two red streaks."

"Thanks. I hope that you will hear soon from Mr. Smith. I am going down the river; and if I should see anything of the launch I shall let him know that you are uneasy. A black funnel, you say?"

"No, sir. Black with a white band."

"Ah, of course. It was the sides which were black. Good morning, Mrs. Smith. There is a boatman here with a wherry, Watson. We shall take it and cross the river."

"The main thing with people of that sort," said Holmes, as we sat in the sheets of the wherry, "is never to let them think that their information can be of the slightest importance to you. If you do, they will immediately shut up like an oyster. If you listen to them under protest, as it were you are very likely to get what you want."

"Our course now seems pretty clear," said I.

"What would you do, then?"

"I would engage a launch and go down the creek of the Greenwich. Before the bridge there is a perfect labyrinth of landing-places for miles. It would take you days and days to exhaust them, if you set about it alone."

"Too big a task."

"No. I shall probably call Athelney Jones in at the last moment. He is not a bad fellow, and I should not like to do anything which would injure his professionally. But I have a fancy for working it out myself, now that we have gone so far."

"Could we advertise, then, asking for information from wherrymen?"

"Worse and worse! Our men would know that the chase was hot at their heels, and they would be off out of the country. As it is, they are likely enough to leave, but as long as they think they are perfectly safe they will lie low. Jones' energy will be of use to us there, for his view of the case is sure to push itself into the daily press, and the runaways will think that everyone is off on the wrong scent."

"What are we to do, then?" I asked, as we shot under Limehouse Bridge.

"Take this hansom, drive home, have some breakfast, and get an hour's sleep. It is quite on the cards that we may be afoot to-night again. Stop at the telegraph office, either! We will keep Toby, for he may be of use to us yet."

We pulled up at the Great Peter street post office, and Holmes dispatched his wire. "Whom do you think that is for?" he asked, as we resumed our journey.

"I am sure I don't know."

"You remember the Baker street division of the detective police force whom I employed in the Jefferson Hope case?"

"Well," said I, laughing.

"This is just the one where they might be invaluable. If they fail, I have other resources; but I shall try them first. That wire was to my dirty little lieutenant, Wiggins, and I expect that he and his song will be with us before we have finished our breakfast."

It was between eight and nine o'clock now, and I was conscious of a strong reaction after the successive excitements of the night. I was limp and weary, befogged in mind and fatigued in body. I had not the professional enthusiasm which carried my companion on, nor could I look at the matter as a mere abstract intellectual problem. As for the death of Bartholomew Sholto, I was not greatly disturbed. I had heard little good of him, and looked on his end as a fortunate riddance for his murderers. The treasure, however, was a different matter. That, or part of it, belonged rightfully to Miss Morstan. While there was a chance of recovering it, I was ready to devote my life to the one object. Either and both failed to do so, and probably put her forever beyond my reach. Yet it would be a petty and selfish love which would be influenced by such a thought as that. If Holmes could succeed in the criminals, I had a tenfold stronger reason to urge me on to find the treasure.

A bath at Baker street and a complete change of clothes put me wonderfully. When I came down to our room I found the breakfast laid and Holmes pouring out the coffee.

"Here it is," said he, laughing and pointing to an open newspaper. "The energetic Jones and the ubiquitous reporter have fixed it up between them. But you have had enough of the case. Better have your ham and eggs, first."

I took the paper from him and read the short notice, which was headed: "Mysterious Business at Upper Norwood."

"About twelve o'clock last night," said the Standard, "Mr. Bartholomew Sholto, of Pondicherry lodge, Upper Norwood, was found dead in his room under circumstances which point to foul play. As far as we can learn, no actual traces of violence were found upon Mr. Sholto's person, but a valuable collection of Indian gems, which the deceased gentleman had inherited from his father Mr. Sholto, has been carried off. The discovery was first made by Mr. Sherlock Holmes and Dr. Watson, who had called at the house with Mr. Thaddeus Sholto, brother of the deceased. By a singular piece of good fortune Mr. Athelney Jones, the well-known member of the detective police force, happened to be at the Norwood police station, and was on the ground within half an hour of the first alarm. His trained and experienced faculties were at once directed towards the detection of the criminals, with the gratifying result that the brother, Thaddeus Sholto, has already been arrested, together with the housekeeper, Mrs. Bernstone, an Indian butler named Lal Rao, and a porter, or gatekeeper, named McNaught. It is certain that the thief or thieves were well acquainted with the house, for Mr. Jones' well-known technical knowledge and his power of minute observation have enabled him to prove conclusively that the miscreants could not have entered by the door or by the window, but must have made their way across the roof of the building, and so through a trap door into a room which communicated with that in which the body was found. The fact, which has been very clearly made out, proves conclusively that if was no mere haphazard burglary. The prompt and energetic action of the officers of the law shows the great advantage of the presence on such occasions of a single vigorous and masterful mind. We cannot but think that the supplies an argument to those who would wish to see our detectives more decentralized, and brought into closer touch with the men and things of the places which it is their duty to investigate."

"Isn't it gorgeous!" said Holmes, grinning over his coffee cup. "What do you think of it?"

"I think that we have had a close shave ourselves of being arrested for the crime."

"So do I. I wouldn't answer for our safety now, if he should happen to have another of his attacks of energy."

At that moment there was a loud ring at the bell, and I could hear Mrs. Hudson, our landlady, raising her voice in a wail of expostulation and bemoan. "By heaven, Holmes," I said, half rising, "I believe that they are really after us."

"No, it's not quite so bad as that. It is the unofficial force—the Baker street irregulars."

As he spoke, there came a swift pattering of naked feet up the stairs, a chatter of high voices, and in rushed a dozen dirty and ragged little street-Arabs. There was some show of discipline among them, despite their tumultuous entry, for they instantly drew up in line and stood facing us with expectant faces. One of their number, taller and older than the others, stood forward with an air of leadership, superiority which was very funny in such a disreputable little scarecrow.

"Got your message, sir," said he, "and 'bronght 'em on sharp. Three bob and a tanner for tickets."

"Here you are," said Holmes, producing some silver. "In future they can report to you, Wiggins, and you to me. I cannot have the house invaded in this way. However, it is just as well that you should all hear the instructions. I want to find the whereabouts of a steam launch called the Aurora, owner Mordecai Smith, black with two red stanchs, found funnel black with a white band. She is down the river somewhere. I want one boy to be at Mordecai Smith's landing-stage opposite Millbank to say if the boat comes back. You must divide it out among yourselves, and let both lands be thoroughly. Let me know the moment you have news. Is that all clear?"

"Yes, governor," said Wiggins.

"The old scale of pay, and a guinea to the boy who finds the boat. Here's a day in advance. Now off you go!" He handed them a shilling each, and away they buzzed down the stairs, and I saw them a moment later streaming down the street.

"If the launch is above water they will find her," said Holmes, as he rose from the table and lit his pipe. "They can go everywhere, see everything, and overhear a good deal. I expect to hear before evening that they have spotted her. In the meanwhile, you can do nothing but await results. We cannot map up the lost launch any more than other the Aurora or Mr. Mordecai Smith."

"Toby could eat these scraps, I dare say. Are you going to boil, Holmes?"

"No, I am not fond. I am a creature of habit when I am not a creature of habit. I never remember having tried any other form of breakfast than the present, and it is certainly not my intention to begin now. Your own choice is before you, and if you want a cutlet I will ring the bell."

"Not after my experience of the Andaman Islands. I'll try the cold beef, if you please."

"If the launch is above water they will find her," said Holmes, as he rose from the table and lit his pipe. "They can go everywhere, see everything, and overhear a good deal. I expect to hear before evening that they have spotted her. In the meanwhile, you can do nothing but await results. We cannot map up the lost launch any more than other the Aurora or Mr. Mordecai Smith."

"Not after my experience of the Andaman Islands. I'll try the cold beef, if you please."

"And two knight-errants to the rescue," added Miss Morstan, with a bright smile.

"Why, Mary, your fortune depends upon the finding of this wretch. I don't think that you are nearly excited enough. Are you sure that you are not to be so rich as Croesus have the world at your feet?"

I felt a thrill of joy to my heart to notice that she showed no sign of elation at the prospect. On the contrary, she gave a toss of her proud head, as she said, with a touch of scorn in her voice that I had never heard before, and she took small interest.

"As for Mr. Thaddeus Sholto that I am anxious," she said. "Nothing else is of any consequence; but I think that he has been very shabby and most horribly thoroughly. It is our duty to find him, and I shall be glad to be relieved."

"No, sir," said he, in response to his query. "I have not seen, sir," sinking her voice into a hoarse whisper, "I am afraid for his health?"

"Why, Mr. Holmes?"

"Well, he's that strange, sir. After you was gone he walked and he walked, up and down, and up and down, until I was weary of the sound of his steps. Then I heard him talking to himself and muttering, and every time the ball rang out he came on the stair-head with: 'What is that, Mrs. Bernstone?' And when he was slammed off to his room, but I can hear him walking away the same as ever. I hope he's not going to be ill, sir. I ventured to say something to him about coming out with you, but he turned on me, sir, with such a look that I don't know I ever got out of the room quick."

"I don't think that you have any cause to be uneasy, Mrs. Hudson," I answered. "I have known him like this before. He has some small matter upon his mind which he cannot get rid of. I tried to speak lightly to our worthy landlady, for I did not wish to increase her uneasy when, through the long night, I had been conscious of the sound of his tread and knew how his keen spirit was chafing against this involuntary inaction.

At breakfast time he looked worn and haggard, but his eyes shone with a feverish color upon either cheek.

"You are knocking yourself up, old man," I remarked. "I heard you marching about in the night."

"No, I could not sleep," he answered. "This infernal problem is consuming me. It is too much to be balked by so petty an obstacle, when all else had been overcome. I know this man, I launch, everything and yet I can get no news. I have set other agencies at work, and used every means at my disposal. The whole river has been searched from end to end, but there is no news, nor has Mrs. Smith heard of her husband. I shall come to the conclusion soon that they have scuttled the craft. But there are objections to that."

"Or that Mrs. Smith has put us on a wrong scent."

"No, I think that may be dismissed. I had inquiries made, and there is a launch of that description."

"Could it have gone up the river?"

"I have considered that possibility too, and there is a search party who will work up as far as Richmond. If there was some clew to-day, I shall start off myself to-morrow, and go as far as the Nore and beyond. But, surely, we should hear something."

We did not, however. Not a word came to us either from Wiggins or from the other agencies. There were articles in many of the papers upon the Norwood tragedy. They all appeared to be rather hostile to the unfortunate Thaddeus Sholto. No fresh details were to be found, however, in any of them, save that an inquest was held upon the following day, I walked over to Camberwell in the evening to report our ill success to the Indies, and on my return I found Holmes dejected and somewhat morose. He would hardly reply to my questions, and busied himself all evening in an abstruse chemical analysis which involved much heating of retorts and distilling of vapors, ending at last in a smell which fairly drove me out of the apartment. Up to the small hours of the morning I could hear the clinking of his test-tubes which told me that he was still engaged in the malodorous experiment.

In the early dawn I woke with a start, and was surprised to find him standing by my bedside clad in a rough sailor's dress, with a red handkerchief, a coarse red scarf round his neck.

"I shall be back presently," said he, in response to my questioning look. "I have been turning it over in my mind, and I believe that I see my way out of it. It is worth trying, at all events."

"Shortly I can come with you, then," said I.

"No, you can be much more useful if you will remain here as my representative. There is a good chance that I may be on the cards that some message will come during the day, though Wiggins was despondent about it last night. If you want you to open all notes and telegrams, and to keep in your own pocket if any news should come. Can I trust you to do this?"

"Most certainly."

"I am afraid that you will not be able to wire to me, for I may hardly tell yet where I may find myself. If I am right, however, I may be back in very long. I shall have news of some sort when I return, if I get back."

I had heard nothing of him by breakfast time, though from the Standard, however, I found that there was a fresh allusion to the business. "With reference to the Norwood tragedy," it remarked, "we have reason to believe that the prompt and energetic action of the police has led to the discovery of the missing property, and to the capture of the murderers. Further arrests will be made to-night, and the whole matter will be probably cleared up before many days have elapsed."

"Which means that Holmes has got on to the right scent," I thought. "Eternal Sholto is dead, so there is no fear of his turning King's evidence against his confederates. I wish Holmes would come back. I wish—I wish—I wish that I were a bachelor once more. Perhaps I should be happier if I were."

A heavy step was heard accordingly upon the stairs, and the lumbering and rattling as from a man who was unaccustomed to be encumbered with a burden. But it was not Holmes who entered, but a rough-looking fellow, evidently a riverman, with a coil of rope over his shoulder, and a certain air of fierce familiarity about him which reminded me of the old Indiaman days. He had a red tasselled cap on his head, and a portion of his face was covered with coal dust, which had been insufficiently removed from his hands. He had a thick stick in his hand, and he stood leaning on it and looking at me with a half-humorous, half-menacing expression.

"Mr. Sherlock Holmes is out, I understand.

"Yes, and I cannot be sure when he will be back. But perhaps you would care to wait. Take that chair and try one of these cigars."

"Thank you. I don't mind if I do," said he, mopping his face with a red bandanna handkerchief.

"And a whisky-and-soda?"

"Well, half a glass. It is very hot for the time of year, and I have had a good deal to worry and try me. You know my theory about a dry throat over-case?"

"I remember that you expressed one."

"Well, I have been obliged to reconsider it. I had my net drawn tightly round Mr. Sholto, or, as we say in stick through a hole in the middle of it. He was able to prove an alibi which could not be shaken. From the time that he left his brother's room he was never out of sight of some one or other. So it could not be he who climbed over roofs and through trap-doors. It's a very dark case, and my professional credit is at stake. I should be very glad of a little assistance."

"We all need help sometimes," said I. "Your friend, Mr. Sherlock Holmes, is a wonderful man, sir," said he, in a thick and confidential voice. "He's a man who is not to be beat. I have known that young man go into a good many cases, but I never saw the case yet that he could not throw a light upon. He is terrible, sir, in his cold and a little quick, perhaps, in jumping to theories, but, on the whole, I think he would have made a most excellent officer, and I don't care who knows it. I'll be back my wife from nine times sitting, by which I understand that he has quite open to the idea that Holmes there is his message."

He took the telegram out of his pocket, and handed it to me. It was dated from Poplar at twelve o'clock, "Have struck on something. Am going further. Shall be back at once." It said: "If I have not returned, wait for me. I may be absent a few hours, but I shall be back. Please stay for me. I have much to say to you and much to ask you."

"This sounds well. He has evidently picked up the scent again," said I.

"Ah, then he has been at fault, has he?" exclaimed Jones with evident satisfaction. "Even the best of them are thrown off sometimes. Of course this may be a false scent also, but I am bound in duty as an officer of the law to allow no chance to slip. But there is some one coming up the stair. Perhaps this is he."

A heavy step was heard accordingly upon the stairs, with a good deal of rattling as from a man who was unaccustomed to be encumbered with a burden. But it was not Holmes who entered, but a rough-looking fellow, evidently a riverman, with a coil of rope over his shoulder, and a certain air of fierce familiarity about him which reminded me of the old Indiaman days. Here's a Suggestion

When you want a first-class daily newspaper—

One that excels in Northwest news;

One that spares no pains to get the news of the world, and prints it first;

One whose commercial and financial news and market reports are admitted to be the best;

One that is fearless and fair in its editorial discussion of live topics—republican but independent;

One that contains Bart's cartoons, the Journal Junior—a weekly paper for children without extra cost—Lorenzo's daily Washington correspondence, a notable staff of writers and authors on current themes by the most eminent men and women and other features peculiar to that paper,

There is only one thing for you to do and that is to subscribe for

HIT OF THE EVENING

By Richard Barker Shelton

Copyright, 1902, by the S. S. McClure Company.

Despite the fact that he stood 6 feet 2 inches in his stocking feet and that the great muscles of his arms and chest were the envy of every man in the shop, Tommy Sanders had a heart as tender as any woman's. Even the dogs knew this, and many a homeless cur sidled, whining, up to him as he strode homeward at nightfall.

Tommy's back yard was generally the favorite canters of a half dozen or more homeless mongrels. If the neighbors complained of the unearthly howlings, he would smile patiently and say: "Well, what's to be done? Would not have me turn 'em out to starve, now, would you?" And something in the round, frank face and the deep, chesty voice always made the neighbors say, "No; oh, no!" most apologetically.

Tommy was a draftsman in the big molding mills on the outskirts of the town. The little wage he provided by his wages was presided over by his mother, or a frail little woman, to whom Tommy was at once an idol to be worshiped.

"That soft heart of his will be his death," she often remarked. "Why, only last month he gave his coat to a dirty beggar and caught a fearful cold comlag home without it."

The family physician, to whom she confided this bit of news, smiled immodestly.

"I'll tell you, Mrs. Sanders, I'd be willing to have a good many colds if I had a heart like Tommy's."

"And that last stray pup he brought home the other night got the run from the cellar and chewed up Tommy's specks," she went on.

"The office of the mill has a dinner next week, you know, and Tommy is to be one of the speakers. And it was a real good speech he wrote too. He had all but the last of it by heart, and of course that was the very part the pup chewed up. Land! I've been all day trying to coop it over."

The doctor grinned. "What did he do to the pup?" he asked.

"He!" said Mrs. Sanders. "Oh, just 'Poor old despite, trying to steal my thunder, weren't you?'"

Tommy laughed heartily that night at his mother's account of her attempt to copy the dismissed speech. The pup which was elevated into literability in set about to rewrite with the sensible some pup wriggling about in his lap, and when he had finished his writing and committed the whole to memory he and the pup had a frolic which left the manuscript of the speech in sad tatters.

No one but Tommy knew just how much he counted on sitting at the long table with the officials of the mill and the invited guests. On his part he was determined to do his best. To this end he went over the lines again and again until he felt sure he could start in the middle and go either way. And on the evening of the eventful day, arrayed in his dress clothes, he placed the pup on a chair and, standing before him, exhibited the heavy dignity of the orator.

Tommy left the house with a light heart and his mother's injunction to "button his overcoat way up" ringing in his ears. His mind refused to stray from his speech. As he turned the last corner he was mumbling to himself, "It is with some hesitation I rise to respond," when he was suddenly aware of a little creep on the sidewalk ahead, upward. Something in the spire of the old Wesley church attracted their attention.

"What is it?" he inquired of one of the men.

"Kitten," was the response.

Tommy strained his eyes, and in the fast dying light he could make out a tiny speck well up on the spire. In a moment the speech and dinner were forgotten.

"Where's the sexton?" he asked, with sudden energy.

"In the house there next the church," came one answered him. A moment later Tommy was tugging at the door-bell.

"You the sexton?" he asked, and, as the man nodded, "Kitten on the spire there."

The sexton made some profane observations concerning treasuring felines.

"Get a lantern and come on," said Tommy. The sexton looked his disgust and then emphatically expressed it.

Tommy fumbled in his pocket and thrust a bill into the sexton's hand. That changed the complexion of things. The sexton got a lantern, and together they climbed the rickety stairs of the tower. At last they reached the top. Above them was a small trapdoor.

"Roof of the bell dock, eh?" said Tommy.

"Yes," said the sexton, raising the lantern. Tommy had shed his coat and overcoat and was fumbling with the bolt.

"Ain't going out there?" the sexton questioned incredulously.

"Sure," said Tommy. He flung the door open and crawled out. The keen-edged particles and snow-dust on the roof blew in his face. He grasped the lightning rod and stood up. Below him—far below him—were twinkling street lamps, and momentarily he was dizzy. He looked up. The lightning rod ran straight up the spire, and beside it, clinging tight and mewing faintly, was the kitten. That decided him. From the group below came a faint cheer. Grasping the lightning rod, he began to climb steadily upward.

It seemed an interminable climb. His breath came hard, his temples seemed bursting, but always he worked slowly upward until he was abreast of the kitten. "Kitty, kitty!" he called softly, and, cautiously reaching out one hand, he drew in the trembling little wretch and thrust it to his trousers pocket. Then he let himself slowly downward until he reached the trapdoor, crawled through and sat down on the rickety steps to regain his breath.

Presently he donned his coats, and, with the kitten in his big pocket, he made his way to the street. Arrived once more on the ground, Tommy remembered the dinner, and even as the onlookers pressed forward to congratulate him he broke away and sped down the street to the hall.

When he reached the hall, the dinner was well under way. A glance at his dirty hands and the iron rust on his clothes made his heart sink within him, but with the help of some of the waiters he made himself fairly present.

Still carrying the kitten beneath his coat, he made his way to his seat just as the toastmaster arose for the first toast, the one to which Tommy was to respond.

When the toastmaster had finished speaking, Tommy sat like a graven image until the man in the next seat gave him a rather pronounced kick under the table. Then he got unsteadily to his feet.

It is with some hesitation I rise to respond," he began, "because—er—because—er"—he gulped and glanced wildly about him—"because—er—hand it?" he went on. "I've forgotten every word of my speech. I—you see—I—er—had something on the way down here—to—er—go up the lightning rod on the spire of old Wesley, and—er—that knocked it clean out of me, you know, and so—er"—He paused and abstractedly fished the kitten from beneath his coat. It solemnly surveyed the assemblage and then gave vent to a long drawn "Me-ow!" as it settled comfortably in Tommy's big hands. A roar of laughter came from the tables, and, confused and blushing, Tommy sat down.

Some In Shaving.

In spite of the fact that those who use the razor frequently cut them selves, yet it is rarely that anything more serious than a cut follows, the slight wound generally healing quickly, and the risk of septicemia arising in this way would seem to be almost nil. In the majority of cases, therefore, it is clear that the razor blade must be bacteriologically clean—i. e., free from the septic matter—which may be attributed to the fact that probably it is dipped into hot sterilized water before use or else that the soap lather is antiseptic. The latter explanation seems the more probable of the two. The amount of soap rubbed on the skin is considerable if the shaving is to be in our degree comfortable, and soap has considerable antiseptic power, 5 to 6 per cent solution being sufficient to destroy the typhoid bacillus. These can be little doubt, therefore, that the skin is rendered sterile by the liberal application of soap, and this fact is in favor of our cut that may be made remaining healthy and without any serious consequence.

In a word, soap in the operation of shaving not only facilitates the process, but plays the same valuable role when the shaver is unlucky enough to cut himself as does the antiseptic in surgery.—Lancet.

Lost Arts of Childhood.

"We hear a good deal these days about the lost arts, and I wonder if the world realizes that some of the most precious arts of childhood are in danger of becoming extinct. How many boys today can make a kite properly? How many with a tail sufficient to insure it? How many boys can make a bow with the ends nicely bent and waxed down with a bit of broken glass?

"I interviewed my young nephew the other day and was thunderstruck to discover that he knew nothing about it. Could he make a water wheel, a wind mill, an elder popgun, a jack o' lantern, a bass wood, an air gun from a goose quill with a sliced potato for ammunition, or a willow whistle, a squirt gun? No; he knew nothing about them.

"But surely," I said, almost pathetically, 'you can make a cornstalk fiddle.'

"'Do you mean a violin, uncle?'

"Then I gave it up. I don't believe the youth of today know enough to stick feathers in a cornsack and throw it into the air. I am going to write a book some day upon the arts of childhood to save them from utter annihilation."—Detroit Free Press.

Wasted All Three Wishes.

An Irish legend has it that a good fairy once visited an old couple and promised them that any three wishes they would name would be granted. After rucking their brains for some time in an endeavor to discover what they desired most the people decided to visit the county fair to see if something there would suggest what they wanted. They did so, and after running around all day and not seeing anything that exactly suited them toward evening they found themselves before a display of kitchen utensils. Among them was a soap ladle, cheap, but likely to appeal to a woman, so the old woman in an excitement said, "Oh, I wish I had one of those!" Immediately she had it. The old man was so enraged because his wife had thoughtlessly thrown away one valuable wish that he retorted, "I wish that was stuck down your throat," and immediately this was done. Thereupon he was at once sorry at what he wished, and the only thing left to do was to wish the ladle out again. Thus all three wishes were wasted.

OPTICAL ILLUSIONS.

They Are Oftentimes the Cause of Collisions at Sea.

Speaking of collisions at sea, o sea contain recently said:

"I think I can explain the cause of many collisions which otherwise seem to be mysterious. They arise from the fact that green and red are complementary colors. Every ship under way carries at night a red light burning on her left or port side and a green light burning on her right or starboard side. Yet vessels go crashing into each other upon nights when these lights must be plainly visible from their decks. And when the case comes up in court and no effort is made to establish the blame of the accident honest men swear directly opposite to each other and believe they are telling the truth.

"The captain of one ship, for instance, will swear that he saw a red light on his port bow and held his course. A little later he saw a green light there, starboarded his helm, and the collision followed. The men on the other ship swear that where the captain says he saw a green light a red light was burning.

"Now, how does this happen? It happens this way: The capsels looks for awhile instantly at the red light on the other vessel. Then for some reason he changes his line of vision, probably due to a bulging sail above the light, and, to be sure at once a green light shirts his helm, and, crash, he goes into her! He does not see any light at all when he looks at the green, the optical illusion makes him think he does.

"Try it yourself. Just gaze intently at a bright red colored object for awhile and then suddenly look at a blank white wall. A green spot will appear to you. Shading the eyes will hasten its appearance."—New York Press.

PLANTS THAT CLIMB.

Peculiarities of Their Leaves and Their Modes of Movement.

It is by no means every plant, such as bryony and hop, and the tendril bearers, like vetches, that we find the thickest development of the climbing habit. These plants live under unusual conditions in order to gain the light they must seek rather than avoid overlapping foliage, and so we find the stems unfettered of turning away from the shadow toward the light, the most of their sensitiveness being confined to the under surface of a bush to burst into blossom amid its upper branches for above their less daring neighbors.

But it is in the leaves of these plants that we find the most remarkable modifications adapting them to a climbing habit. The leaves of the vetches and vetchlings are pinnate they bear a number of pairs of ovate leaflets. The tip of the leaf stalk and the uppermost pair of pinnae are in the climbing species changed into tendrils—sensitive, twining, whiplike structures—which exhibit circumnutation. If the slightly curved, extended tendril of a young leaf or pea or vetch be watched carefully it will be found that it is slowly but incessantly moving round and round in a circle. If the tendril comes into contact with a twig it bends toward it and eventually takes several turns around it. Even a slight temporary irritation is sufficient to cause a bending toward any side.

Finally the tendril becomes woody and dead and forms a secure anchorable for the plant. Not only does the young tendril rotate, but the whole leaf on which it is borne is in constant motion. The shoot to which the leaf belongs is almost sure to strike against a stem or twig of the surrounding vegetation.—Knowledge.

Open Cellars in Greece.

The American traveler in Greece is often shocked by the sight of a funeral procession passing through the streets with the dead body borne in an open bier. This custom originated in a curious way. When the Turks were masters of Greece they discovered that Greek merchants were carrying on trade in the country to outline, so they decreed that all coffins should be carried open. After the Greeks regained their freedom they continued the custom from force of habit.

A Real Bargain.

"In time," said the struggling artist, "that painting will be of great value. All you have to do is to tuck it away in an attic somewhere and keep it for about 200 years, by which time I will have become one of the old masters. Then you can sell it easily for $10,000. You see, I know the market."

Intently I am not in a financial position to carry anything for 200 years. If you want a real bargain, I'll let you have this little gem for $1.50."—Chicago Post.

Help For It.

Dissatisfied Guest—Your cook doesn't put less red pepper in his dishes. I should like to quit cooking here. I can't stand it.

Proprietor of restaurant—Good business! I pay my chef $5,000 a year, and he'd leave me in a minute if I found fault with his cooking. Try and learn to like red pepper, can't you?—Chicago Tribune.

Injurious.

Parent—Is blowing a French horn likely to result in injury to my boy?

Doctor—You can be sure it is, sir, if he blows it near my house and I catch him.—Chaff.

Stuck Up.

"Stick to me," said the wall paper to the paste, "and we'll hang together."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it has ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived close to those who have made and are making the history of our times.

In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of action with the droll fancies of the humorist.

We see the speaker, we hear the laughter, we surrender to the spell of the words; we can feel the tense silence as the speaker mounts in his sublimest flights, then hear the outburst of applause as the audience catches the speaker at his climax.

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists of all time are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from the platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's imaginative by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,000 pages, royal octavo, 7½ x 10½ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 full-page photogravure portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain frontispieces in sepia colors.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Permanently Cured Me.

"A year ago I suffered from extreme nervous disorder, trouble, I was afraid of everything, could not bear to hear a jingling or music and reading or hearing of a death nearly brought on my own. I could not sleep or hardly lie down, the back of my head hurt me so badly I nearly went crazy. My shoulders hurt and the least thing I did would bring on an attack of extreme nervousness. There was one time I would have a lump in my throat and my mouth would be so dry I could hardly speak. I had taken nearly a dozen bottles of Dr. Miles' Nervine before I noticed any benefit, but after I had taken in all twelve bottles and wonder myself permanently cured. My home doctor has since remarked on my healthy appearance and said he wished he could say his medicine helped me. He thought it was Dr. Miles' Nervine. We are never without the Anti-Pain Pills and consider your medicines household remedies. I cannot say enough for the Nervine, because in addition to my own case my daughter, who was out of school for a long time because of sick headache, was also permanently cured of this trouble. WYLIE.

Hans Christianson is back from a trip to St. Paul.

A. O. Letvig and Hogan Johnson spent Sunday at St. Hilaire.

William Tysselling entertained his son from Mentor over the Fourth.

Oliver Bomsos returned last week from North Dakota, where he proved up on his claim.

Maurice Dargan returned last week from the Big Fork country, where he succeeded in getting a valuable claim.

Mrs. Jacob Thill has been quite ill during the past week. She was threatened with pneumonia, but is now improving.

S. J. Swanson spent the Fourth at Hisold home at Atwater. He reports a pleasant visit with the home folks and a joyous celebration.

Leppers Bros. sold a large bill of lumber last week for Ed. Gareau's new house. Considering that this enterprising firm figured against Red Lake Falls, St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls lumber bosses it is greatly to their credit that they succeeded in landing the bill.

M. E. Todd is busy taking orders for the Jewell Nursery company these days. He reports orders so far aggregating about $600. This is one of the best companies in existence and Red Lake farmers have bought trees of this concern for years and have always received fair and honorable treatment.

Notwithstanding the rain the celebration at this place was a success and everybody in attendance had a good time. The ball game between Wylie and Bray resulted in a victory for Wylie by a score of 8 to 4. James Dreland won the wheelbarrow race and Joe Dargan the foot race. In the trap shoot M. E. Todd was first and H. R. Tysselling second. The dance at the hall in the evening was well attended, about forty numbers being sold.

COUNTY DADS DO A STROKE OF BUSINESS

New School District Established in North and Norden—Tax Levy Made For Next Year.

The regular July meeting of the board of county commissioners was held this week, the most of the work pertaining to ditch and routine matters.

A petition for a new school district in the towns of Johnson and Equality was presented, and a hearing on the same was set for September 10.

The sum of $150 was appropriated to the town of Lambert from the road and bridge fund.

The tax levy for the year was made as follows: County revenue, $10,000; poor, $1,000; road and bridge, $2,500; bond and interest, $3,000; court house and jail, $1,000.

The application of L. C. Simons and J. A. Duffy for the correction of assessment and abatement of taxes on lots in Railroad and Buse & Canty's additions was granted.

The hearing on the Ruksbury ditch was postponed until September 10, and the viewer's report sent back for correction. There is considerable opposition to this ditch, and it is likely that a strong fight will be made against it at the September meeting.

The town of North was given a $75 appropriation from the road and bridge fund.

An application was made for a new school district in Lake Pleasant and a hearing on the same was set for September 10.

A hearing was had on a proposed school district in the towns of North and Norden, and the district was ordered established.

OUR STATE BANKS.

Public Examiner Johnson Compiles Statement of Financial Institutions.

The state public examiner has completed statements showing the present condition of the various classes of banking institutions and the trust companies of the state.

The statements of 1900 were tabulated April 30 when there were 205 state banks in operation; that of 1901 on July 16, when there were 226 banks; and that of 1903, on June 3, when there were 266 banks.

The resources of the state banks in 1901 amounted to $42,751,757.04; 1902, to $54,735,152.98, and in 1903, without including the items of undivided profits, revenue stamps, or checks and drafts in transit, which were comprised in the former reports, to $54,304,878.89. The aggregate capital of state banks is $7,609,700; surplus $1,594,770.37, and undivided profits aggregate $842,353.87.

The resources of the eight trust companies operating in Minnesota at the close of business June 30, aggregated $4,855,578.15. The aggregate capital stock of the trust companies is $2,221,300; surplus $134,516.55, and undivided profits $84,688.45.

The Only Way

To get at the superiority of one thing over another is by comparison, and after traveling over every line between Minneapolis and Chicago the traveler will admit that the Northwestern line represents the superlative degree of railway comfort and luxury in its elegant north western limited. This statement was made by a prominent man in an interview in the Minneapolis Times.

UNEQUAL STRUGGLE CANNOT LAST LONG

Pope Leo's Strength About Gone, And There Are No Hopes of Recovery.

Rome, July 16.—Dr. Mazzoni in reply to the question: "Can the pope recover?" last night gave the following signed statement:

"Rome, via Condotti, July 15. —At the present moment the disease of his holiness has lost its character of absolute gravity, which it had in its acute period. It might be considered to have entered a period of possible solution. This might occur in a man of strong fibre and young, but it is impossible to entertain such a hope in the case of a man in his 94th year. With him physical energy absolutely indispensable for recovery is lacking. Pope Leo's organism is perfect and as such maintains itself after 93 years of never-interrupted work, but his motor force is no longer sufficient for complex actions essential to life. In other words the 93 years of Pope Leo XIII. bring him into that category of extraordinary longevity when life is destined to flicker out independent of the action of any pathological complication. The only service that science and affection can render is that of struggling to have this precious life preserved to us as long as possible."

—"Gaetano Mazzoni."

TO BE TRAVELING AUDITOR.

R. Raney Secures a Position With Imperial Elevator Co.

Grand Forks Plaindealer: R. Raney, who has been bookkeeper for the local retail branch of the St. Hilaire Lumber company in this city for some time past, has tendered his resignation to that company, and will accept a situation as traveling auditor for the Imperial Elevator company in the Red River Valley district.

The Imperial Elevator company has twenty-six lumber yards in their lumber department, one Mr. Skov has had the auditing of the entire line. The business has grown to such an extent that it has become necessary to divide the territory, and the Red River Valley district will be under the charge of Mr. Raney.

No selection has been made for the situation made vacant in the St. Hilaire company's branch by the resignation, but a new man will be put in charge of the books in a few days.

Mr. Raney has made many friends during his residence in this city, and these will be pleased to hear of his promotion. He will make his headquarters in this city.

OTHER STATES COPY OUR PLAN.

Minnesota's System of Aid to Schools Their Model.

J. W. Olsen, state superintendent of public instruction, says that Minnesota's system of giving state aid to schools is having an excellent effect, and is being copied by many states. Better buildings, more adequate equipment, more efficient teachers and longer school terms, Supt. Olsen says, are some of the results of the plan. Kansas and several other states are figuring on the same system.

Better buildings and equipment result from the fact that the department requires certain improvements before aid is granted. Semi-graded and rural schools, for instance, must have buildings well heated and ventilated. The department suggests that the rooms be heated by steam or furnace; if a stove is used, it should be placed in one corner and inclosed in a sheet-iron jacket. The system of ventilation must furnish a constant supply of fresh air without using draft. Plenty of blackboard space, a well-selected library and attractive school grounds are other requisites.

Schools are required to employ first-class teachers in order to be some eligible for state aid. Teachers of rural schools must hold a first grade state or county certificate, a professional state certificate, a diploma from a state normal school or from another state approved by the department. Supt. Olsen says also that having received the aid the schools are able to pay better salaries.

The number of semi-graded schools qualifying for the aid increased from 168 in 1901 to 244 in 1902, and the department officials expect that the number will be still greater this year. High schools increased from 129 to 141; rural schools increased from 664 to 747.

NORTH STAR WILL SHINE.

Minnesota Will Be Prominently Represented at World's Fair.

The Minnesota agricultural college will be prominent among the fifty agricultural colleges of the United States to be represented by exhibits at the St. Louis world's fair next year. Assurees to that effect are given by Prof. W. M. Hays of the Minnesota college, a member of the world's fair board upon exhibits of agricultural colleges.

Prof. Hays has returned from Columbus, Ohio, where the board met recently. The chairman was Dr. W. H. Jordan; the secretary, Dr. A. C. True; the members in addition to Prof. Hays, Dr. W. T. Harris, Prof. T. F. Hunt, Prof. C. F. Curtiss, Prof. H. T. Waters, Dr. W. E. Stone, Dr. J. K. Patterson and Prof. W. H. Tytler. The federal board in control of world's fair matter sent to Columbus James Long Farmer as government delegate.

The exhibits from agricultural colleges and experiment farms will appear chiefly in the educational building at the fair grounds. This building will contain every variety of display bearing upon education in all branches throughout the world.

But the Minnesota college and experiment station cannot send independent exhibits. There are too many institutions of the sort in the United States, fifty experiment farms, fifty agricultural colleges and practically half a hundred schools of mechanic arts in connection with the agricultural colleges. Exhibits, therefore, will be collective, not competive. The displays will come from whatever institutions are able to show the best achievements.

Perhaps you are tired and "run down" and are one of the many who cannot take time to rest. Try Cole's Bluttbilder, it invigorates and builds up the system. It makes bright eyes and strong bodies. Try it. It's guaranteed. $1.00 a bottle. Sold by all druggists.

SOO AND G. N. BOTH BOUND FOR WINNIPEG

Dailies Gives Routes of the Proposed Extensions Through Northern Part of the State.

A St. Paul dispatch says that the Great Northern will extend its Pelican Rapids branch through the White Earth reservation, paralleling the Soo line survey of its projected Glenwood-St. Vincent branch for a considerable distance, to a connection at Fosston with its cross-country line from Duluth to Carman.

The route of the Great Northern extension as given on semi-official authority, is from Pelican Rapids via Bucks Mills, Oak Lake, Roshwood, White Earth, Beaulieu and Hansville to Fosston. The territory covered lies between the Great Northern's main line and its Park Rapids branch, and has no railway facilities at present except the cross line of the Northern Pacific in the extreme southern portion. It is considered probable that the White Earth reservation will be opened within a few years, affording, with the extensive agricultural districts north and south of it, an excellent field for railway enterprise.

The Soo line has already made surveys through the White Earth reservation, paralleling the line proposed by the Great Northern. Its objective point is St. Vincent, where it can obtain a connection with the the Canadian Pacific and a direct route into Winnipeg. The course of the survey is from Glenwood via Union Lake, Alexandria and Miltona in Douglas county, Parkers Prairie, Henning, Otter Tail and Gresham in Otter Tail county, to Detroit in Becker county, thence almost due north to a crossing of the Great Northern's Fosston extension in Polk county, north through Red Lake and north and northwest to St. Vincent on the international border.

St. Paul-Winnipeg business is now controlled by the Great Northern, which have the only lines in the boundary with direct Canadian lines to Winnipeg. The Canadian Pacific has long watched the growth of traffic on these lines and for four years has been working at a plan for a reasonably direct route to St. Paul. This is to be afforded by the new Soo line construction.

The government has given each road equal rights to cross the White Earth reservation and permission to construct parallel lines.

A statement secured from reliable sources is as follows:

"The Soo will have its line into St. Vincent in operation within eighteen months. Surveys are practically completed and active construction is soon to begin. A party of leading officials, including General Passenger Agent Callaway, have just returned from a carriage trip over the survey, and pronounce the country traversed an exceptionally rich one, and the route one that is free from engineering difficulties and will afford easy construction."

Expensive for Bachelors.

In Argentina a man is supposed to have arrived at the proper age for taking a wife when he is twenty years old. The man of that age who does not marry is fined $5 a month until he is thirty. At thirty, if still unmarried, his fine becomes $10 a month until he is thirty-five, when it is increased to $20. On the other hand, the man who is married will want golden grain belt beer in his home for the good of himself and wife. It's a splendid tonic and exceedingly delicious for table use. No home is complete without it. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

The American Stage

By HEINRICH CONRIED,
Director of the Irving Place Theater, New York.

There are actors who go on the stage for the love of art and there are those who act merely to make a living. All of our American actors are not mercenaries, but a large proportion are playing simply because they are not clerks or carpenters or business men. A great enthusiasm, a truly artistic spirit and a high ideal of character are essential in the make up of one who desires to go on the stage.

GREAT PLAYS MAKE GREAT ACTORS! The naturalistic play which is so popular at present is killing true art. It embodies powerful transcripts of certain phases of life—phases which do not cast a holy light over motherhood, but force the whole sex under the shadow of the base and vicious. Not only does the modern naturalistic play lower our ideal of women, not only does it degrade the stage—IT KILLS OUR GREAT ACTORS. The players require the stimulus of noble thought and action to do their very best. From an Ibsen, a Sudermann or a Hauptmann play, I have seen the actors go home depressed and miserable as though their lives had been degraded and cast down in fact instead of before the footlights. Notice these same actors after a fine classical play or an inspiring modern drama. They are different people.

The problems which confront us are many and difficult to solve. This is a land of conventions and congresses. Why not have an actors' congress, to meet in the summer and discuss the things of vital importance to the profession? Another uplifting force would be a national theater. The scheme has received much consideration and has been favorably received, but people are waiting for some millionaire to step down from Heaven and endow it. The theater can be achieved without the millionaire. All that is necessary is the erection of the building. Its maintenance would be assured by subscriptions for seats. The success of one such theater would lead to the establishment of a dozen others throughout the country.

Football an Educator

By CAPT. P. E. PIERCE, U. S. A.
Chairman Football Committee West Point Military Academy.

From a soldier's standpoint I will say that the game of football is one of the best of educators. The system of playing learns the boys to be quick thinkers and quick to take advantage of an opening. It also shows the weak spots in a man. Put a young fellow in a hard football game and if there is a yellow streak it will soon come to the surface.

I do not think the football game will ever reach perfection until the East and the West come together each year. The season of 1902 is history, yet the supremacy between the East and the West has not been settled.

What a game it would have made had Michigan and Yale but come together. I am from Iowa and have the pride of the West in my veins, but I should like to have seen Yale meet Michigan. We have played Yale for years and we know her strength. I have never seen Michigan play, but I have read all things about her speed and have seen her scores. Had it not been for meeting Wisconsin, Michigan would have gone down into the history of 1902 as the most remarkable team.

Her speed was bewildering up until the time she met Wisconsin and then her speed was checked. Michigan plays perhaps the fastest game known, but would she play it against old Yale? I fear not.

A fast play is a great thing when you work against a weaker team and when you can get away with it, but when against another fast team a fast play once set in motion, but blocked, is most disastrous to the side trying the play.

Municipal Beauty Paps

By FRANKLIN MacVEAGH,
President Chicago Municipal Art League.

Beauty pays. It seems almost cruel to make beauty a monetary consideration. When a great modern city like Chicago ceases to care for art it puts itself out of touch with its sisters and with humanity. New York is generally regarded as lacking in the public spirit so generously displayed in Chicago, yet it is so far beyond us in beauty that it draws to itself the wealth of the states of which Chicago is the natural center.

Not content with that even, New York is drawing from Chicago its leisure class. The wealth of the leisure class goes with it. London is the greatest city on earth to-day because its beauty exacts tribute from all the world. Paris is made wealthy because its beauty and charm of life attract humanity. It seems almost too harsh to measure beauty's advantages by so low a standard, but as a business proposition beauty pays.

The world expects nothing of beauty from us to-day because we are Chicagoans. Its judgment is too hasty. We know we are better than our streets, but the world wonders if this is true how can we walk without disgust over our nasty pavements and utterly filthy sidewalks. Chicago has a tremendous spiritual life, but because of our streets the world judges us as wholly material.

It is history that cities have held themselves responsible for attractiveness. No great city of ancient or modern times but has recognized the need of an alliance with beauty. Great ancient cities are remembered to-day chiefly for what they have done for art.

Development of Trusts

By BENJAMIN KIDD,
Author of "Principles of Western Civilization," "Social Evolution," Etc.

The trusts of to-day are the revival in industrial life of exactly the same spirit that created absolutism in states. FORMERLY MEN AIMED AT ADMINISTRATIVE ABSOLUTISM; NOW THE TRUST LEADERS' OBJECT IS THE ATTAINMENT OF FINANCIAL ABSOLUTISM.

It is as pernicious in its latter day as in its former aspect, and IT IS AS VITAL TO THE INTERESTS OF HUMANITY AND PROGRESS THAT FINANCIAL ABSOLUTISM SHOULD BE DESTROYED AS IT WAS THAT ADMINISTRATIVE ABSOLUTISM SHOULD BE ABOLISHED.

The whole history of Anglo-Saxon civilization has been the history of a steady, tenacious fight against absolutism in the state, a fight which has been entirely successful. Financial absolutism must be fought, and, in my opinion, THE INFLUENCE THAT WILL FIGHT AND OVERCOME IT WILL BE THAT SAME ANGLO-SAXON CIVILIZATION WHICH HAS CRUSHED ABSOLUTISM IN OTHER FORMS.

Last Shakespeare Descendant.

A memorial stone, commemorative of Shakespeare's granddaughter, Elizabeth Barnard, wife of Sir John Barnard, has recently been placed in the church at Abingdon, Berkshire. Where she was buried. She was the last direct descendant of the poet. Her death occurred in 1669.

Possibility of Error.

On one occasion Voltaire spoke highly of Haller and then was told he was very magnanimous to do so, as Haller had spoken in quite the contrary way of him. "Perhaps," remarked Voltaire, reflectively, and after a pause, "perhaps we are both mistaken."

A Surgical Operation

is always dangerous—do not submit to the surgeon's knife until you have tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel salve. It will cure when everything else fails—it has done this in thousands of cases. Here is one of them: I suffered from bleeding and protruding piles for 20 years. Was treated by different specialists and used many remedies, but obtained no relief until I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel salve. Two boxes of this salve cured me 18 months ago and I have not had a touch of the piles since.—H. A. Tisdale, Summerton, S. C. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy equals DeWitt's Witch Hazel salve. Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

Biggest Open-air Concert.

The Welsh Eisteddfod is the biggest open-air concert in the world. At least 20,000 people attend -- every year.

The Foundation of Health.

Nourishment is the foundation of health—life—strength. Kodol Dyspepsia cure is the one great medicine that enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest, assimilate and transform all foods into the kind of blood that nourishes the nerves and feeds the tissues. Kodol lays the foundation for health Nature does the rest. Indigestion, dyspepsia and all disorders of the stomach and digestive organs are cured by the use of Kodol. Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

50 Years of Success
This is our record. From a small beginning we have grown until our factories now cover many acres. Many of our machines sold forty to fifty years ago are still giving their users faithful service. Can anything be more convincing of their merits and durability? Did you ever hear of any other machine with such a record?
Note a few of the many superior points of the
Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine No. 9
The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, unmechanical and troublesome shuttle.
The Frictionless ball bearings and perfect mechanical construction enable it to be operated with one-third less exertion than is required by ordinary machines. It sews three yards of goods while a shuttle machine sews two.
It makes the most elastic and most perfect stitch whether sewing light or heavy goods.
With our superior attachments the greatest variety of work is possible.
Do not make the mistake of buying a sewing machine until you have given the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 a trial.

Lost Through Prosperity

By REV. JENKIN LLOYD JONES, Pastor All Souls' Church, Chicago.

Alas for the elegancies that have driven away the old-time hospitality that crowded the family board. The hospitalities have decreased with the increase of prosperity. I am glad that I lived at a time and under circumstances when neighbors dropping in were easily persuaded to stay to dinner; when the simple hospitalities of the house and home were exchanged without a week's notice or an engraved invitation.

The last line that keeps souls strangers to one another I think can never be quite annihilated until they sit down and eat together. We can scarcely take neighborly liberties with a friend at whose table we have never sat as one of the family, taking "pot luck," eating what they would have eaten; welcomed not to the elegancies of the table, but to themselves.

Would you know or be known? Take the man home to dinner and the confidences will flow. Frankness will flavor the talk and hospitality will quicken ideas. After every such communion the children will be more docile, the birds in the cage will sing more heartily, and if there be a cricket on the hearth it will chirp more cheerily. Homemakers will make of the dining-room more than a human food trough, however elegant. It is a place where father, mother and children may meet at least twice a day in communion and where the world touches now and then the home life with its best messages.

Life is still shorn of much that is sweet and valuable whenever the dining-room loses its hospitality. One more plate for the unexpected guest should ever be on hand. Without the skill to use the extension element in the dining-room table you may be a good housekeeper, but you will scarcely be a successful homekeeper.

The Value of Self Study

By MRS. CELIA P. WOOLLEY.

The most desirable thing in the world is self-knowledge, and it is this that we dodge so much. The keenness of vision that enables us to see clearly the mote in our neighbor's eye is defective when we sum up ourselves.

We are doing what the foolish virgins did over and over again—neglecting to fill our lamps with oil that we may be ready for the feast. We are asking life to bestow upon us certain things, for the enjoyment of which we have not prepared ourselves by our conduct. We are asking the lord of the feast to be generous and to spare us a little oil.

In our behavior under criticism we are likely to display resentment and a feeling of injury. The heathen part of us is shown in the way that we throw off consequences. We are not prepared to take our punishment. One type of us—the wise virgins—fulfill their obligations and reap their reward; the other type seeks reward that lies outside of nature and possibility.

Many of us acquire that which is better than money, but are not content with talent, industry and moral traits. On the other hand, take the young man who is determined to have money at any cost. He obtains it, but not until he is middle aged. When he begins to plan for the enjoyment of his fortune he finds that his capacity for enjoyment has left him. He has come to the feast without oil. He has come to the feast without oil. Darwin so engrossed himself with scientific pursuits that he could no longer take pleasure in music, which had formerly been a source of great pleasure to him. We delude ourselves when we demand things that lie outside of our daily life and activity.

LESSON IN AMERICAN HISTORY IN PUZZLE

THE GREAT FIRE IN CHICAGO.
Fired Mrs. Catherine O'Leary.

On Sunday night, October 8, 1871, a cow belonging to Mrs. Catherine O'Leary kicked over a lamp in Chicago which started a fire that destroyed $192,000,000 worth of property, entailed 200 deaths, burned 20,000 buildings and made 98,000 people homeless. The burned district covered an area of nearly four square miles and the property loss represented practically one-third the value of the entire city. This fire, the greatest that has ever been known in this country, bankrupted 17 insurance companies, and the total amount of insurance collected represented only about one-fifth of the total loss. Included in the burned district was the entire business section of the city.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVE VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—that Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next five years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not just as well have that in your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well-settled community, where churches and schools are built and well graded. These will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $3.00 per acre will handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit at 6 per cent. A live investor can make a "go thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

The Courier.

By JOHN E. RING.

Printed Every Thursday Morning at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance

A SALT LAKE CITY paper tritely remarks that in North Dakota "a fool and his wife are soon parted."

PERRY HEATH appears to have lost interest in the postal investigation. At least he has had no further "explanations" to offer.

THE Declaration of Independence has been put into a steel box and shut out from the light of day. But it still lives in the hearts of the people.

THE Adrian Democrat remarks that the postoffice department has been on a paying basis for some time, but that it has been paying the wrong fellows.

JUDGE PARKER has made a tour of the South, but it cannot truly be said that it was a triumphal one. Mr. Parker's speeches were dry and prosaic, and there is nothing about them to indicate that he is a "coming man."

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN has announced his intention of going to Europe this fall to study sociology under monarchial forms of government. It is the intention of Mr. Bryan to sail early in September and remain until the end of the year.

FRANK EDDY seems to doubt the infallibility of Uncle Mark Hanna as an Oracle, for in a fourth of July speech he denounces the battlecry "Let well enough alone" as "the creed of hell." Frank probably remembers Senator Sherman's early political career and figures that a tinge of Populism is a sure passport to notoriety.

CRITICISM sometimes has its effect. Last year when a hail storm damaged the crops to a small extent in the southern part of the county a certain local paper reported that everything within a radius of ten miles of Red Lake Falls was ruined and that the country had gone to the demnition bowwows generally. Ten days ago we had a similar storm but this alleged purveyor of news didn't even find out that it happened. It is an open question which extreme is the more meritorious.

EVEN the Indians have become associated with the diverse bacillus, as the following dispatch to a Chicago newspaper from Bonesteel, South Dakota, will show: "Kute Medicine Horse asks separation from Medicine Horse on the grounds that he is a confirmed drunkard and abuses her in other ways than by making her doing all the work, which she is willing to do. Matilda Beaver Boy accuses Beaver Boy of cruelty and non support, and asks for her maiden name, Mathilda Black Tomahawk. Anna Lame Dog says that her husband is cruel and has eloped with Red Horse Woman. She asks for divorce and return to her maiden name, Anna Wild Horse."

ARE we to have another departmental scandal? Everyone will agree that one at a time is more than enough, but of course if there have been irregularities in the letting of army contracts they will have to come out. Secretary Root is reported as saying that he is determined upon a "general investigation into the methods of purchasing supplies of every description for the army."

POPE LEO XIII.

During the pontificate of Leo XIII the spiritual sublimity of his office and its occupant have profoundly impressed men who were beyond the pale of its influence when the Papacy retained vestiges of temporal power. The recent visits of the Emperor of Germany and the King of England to the Pope would have aroused a storm of prejudice among the Protestants in both countries a few years ago. But such is the present temper of the generality of men, irrespective of their religious opinions, that King Edward and Emperor William, instead of being denounced, were almost universally commended. The Pope has been a scholar with a keen, shrewd, kindly outlook upon the world. It is universally recognized that his aim has been to do good. His sympathy with the laboring masses, his counsels in favor of international peace, have had the evident inspiration of sincerity, and the total effect of the Pope's activity is nothing longer period than that of any of his predecessors except Pius IX. has been to impress the world with his benevolence as well as with his ability.

THE NEW DEPARTMENT.

The new department of Commerce, which came into existence on the 2d inst., has for its duties a number of important functions transferred to it from other departments by the law under which it was created. It takes from the Treasury department supervision of all the affairs of the lighthouse service, the bureau of navigation, the shipping commission, the national bureau of standards, the coast and geodetic survey, the immigration bureau and the bureau of statistics; from the department of interior, the census bureau; from the department of state, the bureau of foreign commerce; and from its detached position, the labor and fish commissions. In addition to these bureaus, the new department will have the newly established bureau of corporations.

One of the first important duties of the new department will be to secure information for the postmaster general in regard to the stockholders of corporations in which certain subordinate officials who are involved in the scandal are suspected of having financial interests. The law requires corporations to give this information to the new department, but there is a question as to how far the secretary will be successful in getting it. The attitude of the coal barons toward the Interstate commerce commission is such as to indicate trouble for Secretary Cortelyou when he tries to honor Postmaster General Payne's request. The question may have to be fought over in the courts.

GET TOGETHER.

The Commercial Bulletin and Northwest Trade of Minneapolis has recently offered some timely suggestions respecting the relations of the merchant and the editor in the smaller towns of the state. THE COURIER editor has always tried to work for the interest of the town regardless of personal likes or dislikes. It has not always been easy, either, to listen patiently to the wails of the merchant who doesn't advertise "because everybody knows him" or to bear in silence the opposition of people who owe it to their town to be helpful to every legitimate public enterprise. The following ought to be of interest to all of us:

"For the good of the town and profit to themselves the relations of the local editor and the retail merchants in the average town are not what they should be. This is due to lack of understanding by each, of the work of the other. The result is too little co operation between the editor and the merchant.

"This may be partly due to the fact that the merchants in many towns are just learning the lesson of co-operation among themselves. Just finding out that fighting their neighbor down the street is not all there is to successful merchandising. Just beginning to learn that there is more to be gained in bringing more business to the town than by fighting among themselves for the trade which naturally comes to it. On the other hand editors are largely narrow in their policy and neglectful of their business. No merchant can enthuse over advertising in a poorly printed, poorly edited, and but partially circulated paper which fails to bring results. The local paper and the merchants are the principle factors in every town. On them depends in a great degree whether it shall progress or fall into a rut. The fact is plain that no matter what differences may arise over politics, over the school election, or the numerous other little troubles matters in the affairs of every town, the merchants and the local paper should always cooperate for more business.

"Every merchant who reads this should follow it up with work in a practical end. He should ask himself a few questions, such as these: "Can I not make more money by my doing my part toward bringing more people to this town to trade?

"Even though I am "sore" at the editor, am I not standing in my own light in refusing to co-operate with him?

"If I assist and encourage the editor, to push the circulation of his paper will it not result in more of that trade coming to this town, of which I get would my share?

"Retailers' associations are educating the merchant to campaign for trade along broader lines. The next thing is to bring the local editor into camp as an ally. The merchants of a town should do all they can for the editor. In turn local editor should do all he can to show a bright paper and push its circulation into every possible nook and corner of the territory from which they desire to pull trade. The town which has the most widely circulating newspaper has the advantage, and for two reasons. Circulars ought not to be as good an advertising medium as the local paper. There is strength in numbers. Politics, school elections, and sensitive natures should not be mixed in the relations of merchant and editor. Theirs should be a stright business alliance for more trade."

VALUE OF ADVERTISING.

Does it pay to advertise? There is pretty substantial proof that it does. John Wanamaker, who made an immense fortune in Philadelphia and was noted as a most liberal advertiser there, came to New York and took the old A. T. Stewart establishment on Broadway after others had failed to make it succeed. He advertised generously and he gained very profitable patronage in the face of strong competition and under circumstances which were regarded as exceedingly discouraging. They say business has gone up-town and that Wanamaker's is too far down Broadway to attract trade. Yet Mr. Wanamaker not only proposes to remain where he is but is putting up an immense new building adjoining his present quarters which will cost over $2,000,000. He does this on faith in his ability to hold the business he has and to gain still more. He has accomplished great things by advertising and he expects to accomplish greater.

Col. A. A. Pope, once the head of the great bicycle industry, is another believer in the virtue of advertising. When the bicycle trust was formed he lost control of the business. The trust made one fatal mistake. It cut down its advertising, and the demand for bicycles fell off. Later the trust went to pieces. Col. Pope has purchased the property of the trust and proposes to start in after his old fashion and advertise liberally and skillfully. He believes that he can revive the business in this way, and he is a competent judge, for he attributes to the liberal use of printer's ink all the columns of the press the success formerly attained, and in like manner he thinks the falling off in the demand for wheels is largely due to the failure of the manufacturers to keep the matter well before the public.

There are numerous conspicuous instances of the value of advertising—newspaper advertising, the kind which reaches the reading public as no other does. And the reading public is the intelligent and discriminating public—the best patronage which an advertiser can obtain. Such advertisers prove their faith by their works. They spend hundreds of thousands of dollars a year to put their products before the people, and they have such reward in the sales that follow.

Politics a Poor Business.

Northfield News: Too much politics has ruined more men then gambling. Every reformer deems it his duty to urge every young man to take an active part in politics, but few reformers are wise enough to urge the young man to make his party subordinate to his every day affairs. It is one thing to attend the primaries and help nominate the best man, and it is quite another thing to depend on politics for bread and butter. Politics is a fine avocation for a young man. If to inclean and honest it is good for the soul good for the goverment. But it is a bad vocation. The man that depends on politics for a living will generally either have a very poor living or he will obtain it by methods which cannot be safely discussed in the presence of a grand jury. Long partiticipation in office, without other means of support, often leads to penury or worse.

Scratching isn't always convenient. Cole's Carbolisave cures itching and tortoring skin diseases and sores of all kinds. It quickly stops the pain of burns and scalds and heals without scars. Guaranteed. Keep a box handy. 25 and 50c. Sold by all druggists.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

Bemidji is to have a sewerage system, and the Crookston Times is mean enough to say that the town needs it.

Some people may achieve vacations, but others have leave of absence thrust upon them. If you don't believe it ask Schwab.

Boston has an owl car for drunken men. It is time for the city council to wake up to the fact that special legislation is not permissible.

A New York man has been ordered to pay a young woman $3,000 for kissing her 1,292 times. This young woman, says the Chicago Record-Herald, should equip herself with a cash register.

Editor James Ruaue, of the Slayton Gazette, has some ideas of his own on the race problem:

Friction between whites and negroes has been growing at an alarming rate throughout the country the past few years. A few years ago there was one crime for which negroes were lynched and burned but of late almost any little friction is enough to bring on a race war. The shooting of a policeman in Indiana last week by a negro brought on a reign of terror in the place. If the assailant of the policeman had been a white man he would have been prosecuted by due process of law and no doubt properly punished, but because he was a negro the whole population being on anarchy throughout all portions of the country where there is any considerable negro population. If all ravishers were punished as negro ravishers are a good many white men would be burned at the stake. Had the difference is that the white ravisher, who weaves a net of deception about his victim to accomplish his purpose, has money and social standing to get him out of the scrape and he goes scot free. In many instances he adds murder to the other crime but an indulgent public condones his crime and he remains a social lion.

An old story on James T. McCleary, the schoolmaster congressman from the Second district, has been resurrected by the Saturday evening Post. It runs thiswise:

During the late excursion to congress after the Maine was blown up in Havana harbor Representative McCleary of Minnesota made an ill-timed speech. He said the sending of the Maine to Cuban waters at that time was practically an act of war and that some such calamity as the explosion might have been expected.

The speech was not popular, naturally. McCleary was criticized everywhere. Speaker Reed, who was at the chair at the time the speech was made, spoke to Representative Tawney, also of Minnesota, about it next day.

"Jim," said Reed, "what's the matter with McCleary?"

"Nothing that I know of," replied Tawney.

"What's he talking this way for?"

"I don't know."

"Huh!" said Reed, "he reminds of the Kansas dog that tackled a cyclone. You see, a family from the East moved into Kansas along back a year or two ago, and they didn't know much about cyclones. They had a dog, a fresh, innocent pup, bred in the effete and windless East. One day a cyclone came along. The folks scooted for the cyclone cellar, but the dog, being an Eastern product, didn't understand. He hailed the advent of the cyclone with yopus barks and started out to tackle it. The result was, Jim, that when the cyclone did business with that dog, which charged down upon it with open jaws, the dog was blown plumb inside out. It was a terrible end of a predecessor for the dog. After the cyclone had passed along and the folks came out of the cellar they found the dog perfectly picturesque, but of no further use as a dog. The farmer surveyed the dog ruefully. He was a good dog and he hated to lose him. Then he turned to his wife and he said wistfully: 'There, drat ye; that's what comes of keeping your mouth open in the face of a storm.'"

Long Hair

"About a year ago my hair was coming out very fast, so I bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor. It stopped the falling and made my hair grow very rapidly. It still now is 45 inches in length."—Mrs. A. Boydston, Atchison, Kans.

There's another hunger than that of the stomach. Hair hunger, for instance. Hungry hair needs food, needs hair vigor—Ayer's.

This is why we say that Ayer's Hair Vigor always restores color, and makes the hair grow long and heavy. $1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

If your druggist—if you supply, send us one dollar and we will express you a bottle. Be sure and give the name of your nearest express office. Address, J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

Mrs. F. B. Newton and Miss Alice expect to leave the fore part of next week for Spokane, Wash., where the family will reside. Mr. Newton will be detained here on business matters for some weeks. The people of Red Lake Falls will be sorry to to have the Newtons leave.

J. R. & R. Fortier wish to announce that their store is now moved to the Lemieux building, and that they intend to carry a larger stock than ever in groceries, notions, dry goods, etc. Their telephone number is 32. Call them up when you need anything in their line.

J. H. Leblanc and Louis Doucet have formed a partnership in the general merchandise business at Lambert. They have purchased Nels Swanson's stock of goods and consolidated it with the Doucet stock. They are erecting a new building and will have a first-class store.

The best daily for northern Minnesota is the Minneapolis Journal. It has a complete country news service and serves the general news of the day in an appetizing and satisfactory manner. The Journal is invaluable alike to the business man, professional man, or the farmer.

The market quotations at the close today, as reported by Edwards, Wood & Co., are as follows: Minneapolis wheat—July, 86; September, 75½; December, 74½. Duluth wheat—July, 85½; September, 77; December, 75½. Duluth flax—July, 85; September, 96½; October, 97; November, 97½.

The State drainage board at its meeting in St. Paul Monday awarded the contract for the construction of the new Solum state ditch in Marshall county to William Eckoff, of Hilaire. The ditch is three miles long and is an extension to the old Solum ditch. The contract price was 13.9 cents per yard.

A blaze in the Crookston postoffice Saturday morning did considerable damage to the building and required a stubborn fight by the department before it was subdued. Several basements of neighboring buildings were flooded and considerable damage done. The entire loss is estimated in the neighborhood of $5,000.

The young people of Rev. Nauman's church will serve supper and ice cream and cake at the K. of P. hall next Wednesday evening, July 22, from 5:30 until all are served. Supper, 25 cents. Ice cream and cake, 10 cents. Proceeds are to be applied toward the purchase of chairs, etc., for the church. Every body is most cordially invited.

M. O. Sortedahl has been at Crookston several days this week consulting with Architect Stressburger regarding the plans for the new bank building which is to be erected at the corner of Main street and First avenue in the near future. The structure is to be two stories high and will be a modern building in every respect. Material is already being hauled to the lot.

Crookston Times: The advance guard of logs which have been held up at Red Lake Falls for the past few weeks because of the low water, reached the city Tuesday morning and the mill is now sawing the new timber. The water in the river has been rising for a day or two, and the high water carried the logs down stream. It is expected that the rear will be started in a day or two.

Bert Dautremont, of Missoula, Montana, arrived in the city Tuesday morning for a visit at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Dautremont. Bert has been in Montana for over four years, and is now a department manager in one of the leading mercantile establishments of that city. He expects to visit at Minneapolis, Adrian, and other points in the state before returning to the West.

On the outskirts of a certain town where a lot of negros lived, a citizen had a house to rent, says an exchange. A young darky, married, called on the citizen to bargain for the house and the following conversation took place: "Whas were you married?" "Bout three months ago," replied the darky. "How many children have you?" "For de lawd's sake, boss, we'se only called folks we'se no Belgian hares."

According to an Iowa exchange a man wanted his son to get up early and go to work. The boy had a habit of answering "yesser" and going to sleep again. On one occasion last week the father, to make no mistake, called the boy, got the usual "yesser" and then slid upstairs, turned down the covers and administered a good spanking. It happened that on that night the mother had put the hired girl in the boy's room. When the tumult was over, the old man sat down behind the barn and drafted a written apology to the hired girl.

It is expected that the new Presbyterian church will be ready for dedication early in August, and Rev. Walker tells the COURIER that the fee for the first wedding in the new church will be presented to the bride. Here is an unusual opportunity for the lucky couple getting in on the ground floor, for it is not often that the preacher is inclined to donate his services on an occasion of this sort. In order to further advance the good work and to start the couple on their married journey in good shape the COURIER will donate to them a year's subscription. Now, don't all speak at once.

A prominent business man of St. Hilaire, while in Crookston the other day, gave it out to a Times man that the saw mill at that place was to be enlarged and its capacity increased by the addition of a gang saw. Last year it will be remembered the capacity of the mill was cut down and only the married men who were old employes were given jobs this summer. The arrangement has not proved satisfactory as the company finds that it can dispose of more lumber than it is cutting at the present rate. Hence the decision to reinstate the gang saw and increase the output of the mill. The mill is the backbone of St. Hilaire business and the change in the mill and consequent employment of a large crew will mean much for the St. Hilaire business men.

By A. CONAN DOYLE.

A Detective Story that is Unsurpassed.

He shuffled towards the door, but Athelney Jones got in front of him.

"Wait a bit, my friend," said he. "You have important information, and you must not walk off. We shall keep you, whether you like or not, until our friend returns."

The old man made a little run towards the door, but, as Athelney Jones put his broad back up against it, he recognized the uselessness of resistance.

"Pretty sort of treatment this!" he cried, stamping his foot in anger. "I come to see a gentleman, and you two, who I never saw in my life, seize me and treat me in this fashion!"

"You will be none the worse," I said. "We shall recompense you for the loss of your lunch and the inconvenience you have suffered. You will not have long to wait."

He came across sullenly enough, and seated himself with his face resting on his hands. Jones and I resumed our cigars and our talk. Suddenly, however, Holmes' voice rang out upon us.

"I think that you might offer me a cigar, too," he said.

We both started in our chairs. There was Holmes sitting close to us with an air of quiet amusement.

"Holmes!" I exclaimed. "You here! But where is the old man?"

"Here is the old man," said he, holding out a heap of white hair. "Here he is—wig, whiskers, eyebrows, and all. I thought my disguise was pretty good, but I hardly expected that it would stand that test."

"Ah, you rogue!" cried Jones, highly delighted. "You would have made an actor, and a rare one. You had the proper workhouse cough, and those reals upon yours are worth ten pound a week. I thought I knew the glint of your eye, though. You didn't get away from us so easily, you see.

"I have been working in that getup all day," said he, lighting his cigar. "You see, a good many of the criminal classes begin to know me, especially since our friend here took to publishing some of my sayings as I can only go on the warpath under some simple disguise like this. You got my wire?"

"Yes; that was what brought me here."

"How late your case prospered?"

"It has all come to nothing. I have had to release two of the prisoners, and there is no evidence against the other two."

"Never mind. We shall give you two others in the place of them. But you must put yourself under my orders. You are welcome to all the official credit, but you must set me free before the Lyceum opens. Is that agreed?"

"Entirely, if you will help me to the men."

"Well, then, in the first place I shall want a four police-boat—a steam launch to be at the Westminster Stairs at seven o'clock."

"That is easily managed. There is always one about there; but I can send across the road and telephone to make sure."

"Then I shall want two staunch men, in case of resistance."

"There will be two or three in the boat. What else?"

"When we leave the men we shall get the treasure. I think that it would be a pleasure to my friend here to take the box round to the young lady to whom half of it rightfully belongs. Let her be the first to open it. Eh, Watson?"

I could be a great pleasure to me.

"Rather an irregular proceeding," said Jones, shaking his head. "However, the whole affair is irregular, and I suppose we must wink at it. The treasure and the persons to be handed over to the authorities at present after the official investigation."

"Certainly. That is easily managed. One other point. I should like much to have a few details as to the manner from the lips of Jonathan Small himself. You must see that it is part of the full of my case out. There is no objection to my having an unofficial interview with him either here in my rooms or elsewhere, as long as he is efficiently guarded?"

"Well, you are master of the situation. I have had no personal part of the existence of Jonathan Small. However, if you can induce him, I don't see how I can refuse you an interview with him."

"That is understood, then?"

"Perfectly. Is there anything else?"

"Only that I insist upon your dining with us. It will be ready in half an hour. I have managed, with a brace of grouse, with something a little cheese in white wine. Watson, you have never yet recognized my merits as a housekeeper."

CHAPTER X.
THE CAPTAIN OF THE ISLANDER.

Our meal was a merry one. Holmes could talk exceedingly well when he chose, and this night he did choose. He appeared to be in a state of nervous exhilaration. I have never known him so brilliant. He spoke on a quick succession of subjects—on miracle-plays, on medieval pottery, on Straduarius violins, on the Buddhism of Ceylon, and on the wardship of the future—handling each as though he had made a special study of it. His bright humor marked the reaction from his bleak depression of the preceding days. Athelney Jones proved to be a sociable soul in his hours of relaxation, and faced his dinner with the zest of a bon vivant. For myself, I felt elated at the thought that we were nearing the end of our task, and I caught something of Holmes' gayety. None of us alluded during dinner to the cause which had brought us together.

When the cloth was cleared Holmes glanced at his watch and filled up three glasses with port. "One bumper," said he, "to the success of our little expedition. And now it is high time we were off. Have you a pistol, Watson?"

"I have my old service revolver in my desk."

"You had best take it, then. It is well to be prepared. I see the cab is at the door. I ordered it for half-past six."

It was a little past seven before we reached the Westminster wharf and glanced at the launch waiting in the shadow. Holmes eyed it critically.

"Is there anything to mark it as a police boat?"

"Yes—that green lamp at the side."

"Then take it off."

The small change was made, we stepped on board, and the ropes were cast off. Jones, Holmes and I sat in the stern. There was one man at the helm, another to tend the engines, and two burly police inspectors forward.

"Where to?" asked Jones.

"To the lower Pool. Tell them to stop opposite to Jacobson's yard."

Our craft was evidently a very fast one. We shot past the long lines of loaded barges as though they were stationary, and Holmes smiled with satisfaction as we overhauled a river steamer or sailed before a wind.

"We ought to be able to catch anything on the river," he said.

"Well, hardly that. But there are not many launches to beat us."

"We shall have to catch the Aurora, and she has a name for being a clipper. I will tell you how the land lies, Watson. You recollect how annoyed I was at being balked by so small a thing?"

"Yes."

"Well, I gave my mind a thorough rest by plunging into a chemical analysis. One of our greatest statesmen has said that a change of work is the best rest. So it is. When I had succeeded in dissolving the hydrocone bon which I was at work at, I came back to our problem of the Sholtos, and thought the whole matter out afresh. My boys had been up the river and down the river with no result. The launch was not at any landing stage or wharf, nor had it returned. Yet it could hardly have been scuttled in this land of mystery—though that always remained as a possible hypothesis if all else failed. I knew that this man Small had a certain degree of low cunning, but I did not think him capable of anything in the nature of delicate finesse. That is usually a product of higher education, and I then reflected that since he had certainly been in London some time—we had evidence that he maintained a continual watch over Pondicherry Lodge—he could hardly have at a moment's notice, but would need some little small. It were only a trifle to me to tell of my cases out. There is no object to my having an unofficial interview with him either here in my rooms or elsewhere, as long as he is efficiently guarded?"

"Well, you are master of the situation. I have had no personal part of the existence of Jonathan Small. However, if you can induce him, I don't see how I can refuse you an interview with him."

"That is understood, then?"

"Perfectly. Is there anything else?"

"Only that I insist upon your dining with us. It will be ready in half an hour. I have managed, with a brace of grouse, with something a little cheese in white wine. Watson, you have never yet recognized my merits as a housekeeper."

THE CAPTAIN OF THE ISLANDER.

Our meal was a merry one. Holmes could talk exceedingly well when he chose, and this night he did choose. He appeared to be in a state of nervous exhilaration. I have never known him so brilliant. He spoke on a quick succession of subjects—on miracle-plays, on medieval pottery, on Straduarius violins, on the Buddhism of Ceylon, and on the wardship of the future—handling each as though he had made a special study of it. His bright humor marked the reaction from his bleak depression of the preceding days. Athelney Jones proved to be a sociable soul in his hours of relaxation, and faced his dinner with the zest of a bon vivant. For myself, I felt elated at the thought that we were nearing the end of our task, and I caught something of Holmes' gayety. None of us alluded during dinner to the cause which had brought us together.

When the cloth was cleared Holmes glanced at his watch and filled up three glasses with port. "One bumper," said he, "to the success of our little expedition. And now it is high time we were off. Have you a pistol, Watson?"

"I have my old service revolver in my desk."

"You had best take it, then. It is well to be prepared. I see the cab is at the door. I ordered it for half-past six."

It was a little past seven before we reached the Westminster wharf and glanced at the launch waiting in the shadow. Holmes eyed it critically.

"Is there anything to mark it as a police boat?"

"Yes—that green lamp at the side."

"Then take it off."

The small change was made, we stepped on board, and the ropes were cast off. Jones, Holmes and I sat in the stern. There was one man at the helm, another to tend the engines, and two burly police inspectors forward.

"Where to?" asked Jones.

"To the lower Pool. Tell them to stop opposite to Jacobson's yard."

Our craft was evidently a very fast one. We shot past the long lines of loaded barges as though they were stationary, and Holmes smiled with satisfaction as we overhauled a river steamer or sailed before a wind.

"We ought to be able to catch anything on the river," he said.

"Well, hardly that. But there are not many launches to beat us."

"We shall have to catch the Aurora, and she has a name for being a clipper. I will tell you how the land lies, Watson. You recollect how annoyed I was at being balked by so small a thing?"

"Yes."

"Well, I gave my mind a thorough rest by plunging into a chemical analysis. One of our greatest statesmen has said that a change of work is the best rest. So it is. When I had succeeded in dissolving the hydrocone bon which I was at work at, I came back to our problem of the Sholtos, and thought the whole matter out afresh. My boys had been up the river and down the river with no result. The launch was not at any landing stage or wharf, nor had it returned. Yet it could hardly have been scuttled in this land of mystery—though that always remained as a possible hypothesis if all else failed. I knew that this man Small had a certain degree of low cunning, but I did not think him capable of anything in the nature of delicate finesse. That is usually a product of higher education, and I then reflected that since he had certainly been in London some time—we had evidence that he maintained a continual watch over Pondicherry Lodge—he could hardly have at a moment's notice, but would need some little small. It were only a trifle to me to tell of my cases out. There is no objection

Baby Had Two to Six Every Day.

Suffered Terribly—Doctors Failed.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Cured Him.

Weak, nervous, fretful, puny children require a treatment such as only Dr. Miles' Nervine affords. When neglected these symptoms lead to epileptic fits or spasms. Many mother should strengthen her own and babies' nerves with Dr. Miles' Nervine, a true specific in all nervous disorders. Read the following:

"When my little boy was 18 months old he had cramps in his feet and hands. They would be drawn out of shape for two or three days. At first liniment seemed to help but in about two weeks nothing did any good the doctor gave him. We called another doctor but his medicine did no good so we changed to another who called it spinal disease. By this time the child's body was drawn out of shape, his head enlarged, eyes so sunken and his hands and feet drawn out of shape. His sufferings were terrible, and he was having from ten to six fits a day. I was taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine for nervous trouble and saw it was recommended for fits, so I thought I would see if it would help him. All three doctors had given him up. One half bottle stopped the fits and his limbs straightened, and another bottle cured him. He is now a strong, healthy boy going to school. I have waited to see if the old trouble returned, before writing you, but it has not. I am glad to recommend Dr. Miles' Nervine as I know it saved my boy's life."—MRS. URIAH NELSON, Lansing, Iowa.

The Fatal Cradle

Otherwise, the Heartrending Story of Mr. Heavysides

By WILKIE COLLINS

COMPOSE your spirits to hear a pathetic story and kindly picture me in your mind as a baby five minutes old. Do I understand you to say that I am too big and too heavy to be pictured in anybody's mind as a baby? Perhaps I may be, but don't mention my weight again, if you please. My weight has been the grand misfortune of my life. It quoted all my prospects, as you will presently hear, before I was two days old.

My story tookus forty-one years ago at 11 o'clock in the forenoon and starts with the great mistake of my first appearance in this world at sea on board the merchant ship Adventure, Captain Gillop, 800 tons burden, coppered, and carrying an experienced surgeon.

In presenting myself to you at that awkward period of my life when I was from five to ten minutes old I need not hesitate to admit that I spoke on every knowledge only. It is knowledge, however, that may be relied on for all that. My information comes from Captain Gillop, commander of the Adventure, who sent it to me in the form of a letter; from Mr. Jolly, experienced surgeon of the Adventure, who wrote it for me—most unfortunately as it thiuk—in the shape of a humorous narrative, and from Mrs. Drabble, stewardess of the Adventure, who told it me by word of mouth.

The Adventure was bound out from London to Australia. A ship of 800 tons, well loaded with cargo, doesn't offer first rate accommodation to a large number of passengers. Not that the gentlefolks in the cabin had any great reason to complain. There the passage money, which was a good round sum, kept them what you call select. One or two berths in this part of the ship were even empty and going a-begging in consequence of there being only three cabin passengers. These are their names and descriptions:

Mr. Sims, a middle aged man, going out on a building speculation; Mr. Farthing, a rosy young gentleman, sent on a long sea voyage for the benefit of his health, and Mr. and Mrs. Smallchild, a young married couple with a little independence which Mr. Smallchild proposed to make a large one by sheep farming.

This gentleman was reported to the captain as being very good company when on shore. But the sea altered him to a certain extent. When Mr. Smallchild was not sick, he was eating and drinking, and when he was not eating and drinking he was fast asleep. As for Mrs. Smallchild, she kept her cabin from first to last. But you will hear more of her presently.

These four cabin passengers, as I have already remarked, were well enough off for their accommodation. But the miserable people in the steerage were all huddled together, men and women and children, higgledy piggledy, like sheep in a pen, except that they hadn't got the same quantity of fine fresh air to blow over them. They were artisans and farm laborers who couldn't make it out in the old country.

There was only one family among them which need be mentioned—namely, the family of the Heavysides—husband, Simon Heavysides, intelligent and well educated, a carpenter by trade; Susan Heavysides, his wife, and seven little Heavysides, their numerous offspring. My father and mother and brothers and sisters, did I understand you to say? Don't be in a hurry. I recommend you to wait a little before you make quite sure of that circumstance.

Stormy weather came down on us from all points of the compass, with intervals of light, baffling winds or dead calms. By the time the Adventure had been three months out Captain Gillop's naturally sweet temper began to get soured. I leave you to say whether it was likely to be much improved by a piece of news which reached him from the region of the cabin on the morning of the ninety-first day.

"I have got some news that will rather surprise you," said Mr. Jolly, mailing and rubbing his hands.

"If it's news of a fair wind coming," grumbled the captain, "that would surprise me on board this ship, I can promise you."

"It's not exactly a wind coming," said Mr. Jolly. "It's another cabin passenger."

The captain looked round at the empty sea, with the land thousands of miles away and with not a ship in sight, turned sharply on the experienced surgeon, eyed him hard, changed color suddenly and asked what he meant.

"I mean there's a fifth cabin passenger coming on board," persisted Mr. Jolly, grinning from ear to ear. "Introduced by Mrs. Smallchild; size, auticipating to speak of; manners and customs, probably squalling."

"Do you really mean it?" asked the captain, backing away and turning paler and paler.

"Yes; I do," answered Mr. Jolly, nodding hard at him.

"Then I'll tell you what," cried Captain Gillop, suddenly flying into a violent passion, "I won't have it. The infernal weather has worried me out of my life and soul already, and I won't have it. Tell her there isn't room enough for that sort of thing on board my vessel. What does she mean by taking us all in in this way? Shameful! Shameful!"

"She, sir!" remonstrated Mr. Jolly. "Don't look at it in that light. It's her first child, poor thing. How should she know? Give her a little more experience, and I dare say—"

"Where's her husband?" broke in the captain, with a threatening look. "I'll speak my mind to her husband at any rate."

The steward's mate had approached the quarter deck while the doctor was speaking. Was it a curious coincidence? This mate also was pleading from ear to ear exactly like Mr. Jolly.

"You're wanted in the steerage, sir," said the steward's mate to the doctor. "A woman taken bad, name of Heavysides."

"Obsessed!" cried Mr. Jolly. "Ha, ha! You don't mean—eh?"

"That's it, sir, sure enough," said the steward's mate to the most positive manner.

"This ship is bewitched," said the captain wildly. "Stop!" he called out, recovering himself a little as the doctor hustled away to the steerage. "Stop! If it's true, Jolly, send her husband here aft to me. Dash me, I'll have it out with one of the husbands!" cried the captain, shaking his fist viciously in the empty air.

Ten minutes passed, and then there came staggering toward the quarter deck tottering this way and that with the rolling of the becalmed vessel, a long, lean, melancholy, tight haired man with a Roman nose, a watery blue eye and a complexion profusely covered with large brown freckles. This was Simon Heavysides, the intelligent carpenter with the wife and the family of seven small children on board.

"I have the honor to be sea, a-hoy you?" said the captain.

The ship lurched heavily, and Simon Heavysides staggered away with a run to the opposite side of the deck as if he preferred going straight overboard to the sea to answering the captain's question.

"You're the man, are you?" repeated the captain, following him, seizing him by the collar and pinning him up fiercely against the bulwark. "It's your wife, is it? You infernal quassel! You have committed an act of mutiny, or, if not mutiny, it's next door to it. I've put a man in irons for less. I've more than half a mind to put you in irons!"

"As for the punishment you mentioned just now, sir," said Simon, "I wish to say, having seven children more than I know how to provide for, and an eighth coming to make things worse, I respectfully wish to say, sir, that my mind is in no manner of way to don't know that it will make much difference if you put my body in irons along with it."

The captain mechanically let go of the carpenter's collar. The mild despair of the man melted him in spite of himself.

"Captain Gillop, this woman, Mrs. Heavysides, can't be left in your crowded steerage to her present condition," cried Mr. Jolly. "She must be moved aft into one of the cabins; my berth and the sooner the better, I can tell you."

The captain began to look savage again. A steerage passenger in one of the "staterooms" was a medical casualty subversive of all discipline. He fixed the carpenter once more with a look meant mentally measuring him for a set of irons.

"I'm very sorry, sir," Simon remarked politely—"very sorry that any inadvertence of mine or Mrs. Heavysides'—"

"Take your long carcass and your long tongue forward!" thundered the captain. "Give your own orders, Jolly," he went on resignedly as Simon staggered off. "Turn the ship into a nursery as soon as you like."

Five minutes later Mrs. Heavysides was moved into a stateroom.

The sleeping berths below opened on either side out of the main cabin. On the left hand side, leading forward the ship's hawsepipe, was Mrs. Smallchild. On the right hand side, opposite to her, the doctor established Mrs. Heavysides. A partition of canvas was next run up entirely across the main cabin. An old clothes basket, emptied, cleaned and comfortably lined with blankets to serve for a makeshift cradle, had been to due course of time carried below the lower cabin and had been placed midway between the two sleeping berths. Mr. Jolly lifted over the lower sill of the half sweetly. At the end of that time Mrs. Drabble, the stewardess, appeared with a face of mystery and whispered nervously to the doctor:

"Please to step below directly, sir."

"Which of them is it?" asked Mr. Jolly.

"Both of them," answered Mrs. Drabble emphatically.

The doctor looked grave; the stewardess looked frightened. The two immediately disappeared together.

Ten o'clock came. The moon rose and shone superbly. The night grew made its appearance on the quarter deck. The captain gave the passengers the benefit of his company, and then at last Mr. Jolly was seen suddenly to ascend the cabin stairs.

To the amazement of the little group on the quarter deck the doctor held Mrs. Drabble, the stewardess, fast by the arm and, without taking the slightest notice of the captain or the passengers, placed her on the nearest seat he could find. As he did this his face became visible in the moonlight and displayed to the astonished spectators an expression of blank consternation.

"Compose yourself, Mrs. Drabble," said the doctor in tones of unmistakable alarm. "Keep quiet and let the air blow over you. Collect yourself, ma'am—for heaven's sake collect yourself!"

Mrs. Drabble made no answer. She bent her hands vacantly on her knees and stared straight before her like a woman in panic stricken.

"What's wrong?" asked the captain, getting down his glass of grog in dismay.

"Mrs. Drabble and I are two innocent people, and we have got into the

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's catarrh cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's catarrh cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, O. THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest lovers of Modern Letters of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived close to those who have made and are making the history of our times. In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the stately, trenchant utterance of action with the droll facetiae of the humorist.

We see the speaker, we hear the laughter, we surrender to the spell of the words; we can feel the tense silence as the speaker moves in his sublimest flights, then hear the outburst of applause as the audience catches the speaker at his climax.

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7¼ x 10¼ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravure portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain frontispieces in multi-color.

The First Pantomime.

Most pantomime characters were originally borrowed from the Italians. The first real English pantomime was produced at a theater in Lincoln's Inn Fields in 1720. It was called "Harlequin Executed," and its subtitle was "A New Entertainment of Comic Scenes Between a Scaramouche, a Harlequin, a Country Farmer, His Wife and Others." The performance was very successful. About the middle of the eighteenth century the character of pantomime performances was completely altered, chiefly because of the genius of the famous Grimaldi, who made the clown the first figure of the pantomime. Grimaldi first appeared at Sadler's Wells theater, where he played the part of a monkey. He was actively engaged on the stage for forty-nine years, and at the close of his stage career he took a benefit at Drury Lane theater, which realized nearly £600. He also received £100 from the Drury Lane fund. This was in June, 1828. He died in 1837 and was buried in the churchyard in St. James' chapel, Pentonville hill.—London Standard.

Animals and Poisons.

Certain substances which are deadly in their effects upon men can be taken into the brute creation with impunity. Horses can take large doses of antimony, dogs of mercury, goats of tobacco, mice of hemlock and rabbits of belladonna without injury. On the other hand, dogs and cats are much more susceptible to the influence of chloroform than man and are much sooner killed by it. If this invaluable anæsthetic had been first tried upon animals, we should probably have never enjoyed its blessings, as it would have been found to be so fatal that its discoverer would have been afraid to test its effects upon human beings. It is evident, then, that an experiment upon an animal can never be the means of any certain deductions as far as man is concerned.—Family Doctor.

Skyrockets Before Gunpowder.

It matters very little in the long run to the small boy when, how or where fireworks were first made and of what they are made now. But the fact remains that the disposed heathen Chinese first made them and used them and that civilized communities did not know of them until the fourteenth century. The skyrocket was first invented toward the close of the ninth century and at that time was used, so it is said in India and China in war. That was long before the invention of gunpowder.

Halvor Olson and Miss Ragna Thompson attended the dance at Plummer's dam last Saturday evening.

Paul Osthy, the well-known Emardville farmer, says there are objections to sleeping in the barn. The other night a lusty moose found its way from his sleeve and started in on the job of amputating his arm before he was observed by Paul. However, Mr. Osthy has recovered from the effects and soon expects to have a well arm again.

Gilbert O. Pederson and Miss Clara Olson were married at the home of the bride's parents, Saturday, July 11. It was at 8:45 in the evening when Paul Osthy pronounced the words that made them husband and wife. About 130 invited guests were present. Mr. Pederson is one of the prosperous farmers of Gurnee and his wife is one of the most estimable young ladies in the community.

Mrs. Christine Pederson died suddenly of heart disease last Friday evening at 11:45 o'clock. She was eighty-three years of age. The funeral services, were conducted by Odin Jacobson at the home of her son, Andrew Pederson, on last Monday, and the remains interred in the Emardville cemetery.

LOVELL EVIDENTLY WANTS THE EARTH

City Attorney Boughton Says Waterworks Proposition Should Be Rejected.

Attorney Charles E. Boughton returned Monday from a visit to Fosston, Bemidji and Blackduck, to which places he was sent by the city council to investigate the cost of the waterworks plants. In view of the fact that Red Lake Falls has a proposition from W. D. Lovell, of Des Moines, Iowa, for the construction of a system at this place, it was thought advisable to investigate the cost of plants in other towns.

It will be remembered that Mr. Lovell contemplates building a pumping station and water tower and lay about four blocks of main along the principal business street, and asks an annual rental of $1,200, the city to furnish the superintendent and pay all expenses of operation. After an investigation at the other towns Mr. Boughton is convinced that Mr. Lovell expects to realize about 20 per cent. on his investment,and a recommendation will be made that the request for a thirty-year franchise, or any other sort of a franchise, be refused Mr. Lovell.

Blackduck has a waterworks system similar to the one Mr. Lovell proposes to install here, and the entire expense of putting in the plant was only $8,200. The village of Fosston owns a very complete water and light system installed at an expense of $18,000.

In view of the facts elicited by Mr. Boughton's investigations it is unlikely that the proposition made by Mr. Lovell will be accepted and it is now up to the citizens to devise another plan. If a plant can be constructed for $8,000 it seems reasonable that a local stock company could be formed. We need waterworks both for sanitary reasons and fire protection, and it is to be hoped that some plan will be devised.

We have the exclusive agency in the city for this celebrated make of Gentlemen's Collars.—Bangs & Co.

Thorpe Bros. Refuse to Take the Issue of Ditch Bonds.

Thorpe Bros., the Minneapolis investment brokers, who bid in the $81,000 issue of Red Lake county ditch bonds, have notified Auditor Ford that they cannot take the bonds, alleging that they are not legal. It is generally understood, however, that the reason assigned is a mere subterfuge in order to recover the $500 forfeit money which they posted at the time the bid was made.

The real facts in the case are that no bonds are being floated in the market just now, and money is hard to get in the financial centers. Hence, Thorpe Bros. have been unable to sell the bonds.

An application will be made this week to the state for the sale of the bonds, and it is understood that State Auditor Iverson will buy them at 3 per cent. interest, which will save the farmers who are assessed for ditch beadits about $16,000 interest for the time the bonds run. Is is expected that the money for the bonds will be received within three or four weeks.

ASSESSORS' RETURNS.

Personal Property Valuations Returned for 1903.

The assessors have completed their work for the year, and from the schedules filed with the county auditor we find that the returns for the entire county on personal property aggregate $5,011,211. The increases made by the county board of equalization this week will increase this to about $5,110,000, and it is likely that the state board will give it another lift, as the total valuation last year after the various boards of review got through with it was $4,841,000.

Last year the assessors returned personal property in the amount of $5,919,776. The county board raised this to $5,845,188, and the state board gave it a further hoist to $5,841,010. The assessors' returns by townships this year are as follows:

Nomedal	$ 8,500

PALACE HOTEL MAN LEAVES HIS CREDITORS

Gathers Up His Cash, and, Like the Historic Arab, "Silently Steals Away."

The Palace hotel is minus a proprietor, and a number of business men are mourning the sudden departure of H. G. Wattles, who assumed charge of the hotel about two months ago. Mr. Wattles came from Graceville, and was accompanied by his sister, who assisted him in the management of the hotel.

Mr. Wattles worked industriously Monday collecting the accounts due him and succeeded in getting about all the money that was coming his way. It was given out early in the day that the sister intended leaving on the Northern Pacific for a visit somewhere in the interior of the state, and about ten minutes before the train left Mr. Wattles discovered that she had forgotten her valise, and hastily picking it up started at a 2:40 pace for the depot. He never came back.

The amounts owing about town are variously estimated, but it is thought that a conservative figure would be about $500. This includes store bills, rent, livery and wages owing to the help employed at the hotel. The Palace has not had a thriving business under the recent management, and Mr. Wattles evidently figured that there was little likelihood of improvement.

Attachment papers were served by some of the creditors as soon as the disappearance of the proprietor was known, and it is thought that there is enough furniture and other property belonging to Mr. Wattles left in the hotel to pay a few of the creditors who were fortunate enough to get in on the "ground floor."

AWFUL HAIL STORM IN SOUTHERN MINN.

Crops in Pipestone, Rock and Nobles Counties Almost Totally Destroyed—Loss $1,000,000.

A dispatch from Luverne, Minn., says that the most destructive hail storm that ever visited that section passed over the east section of Rock county Monday afternoon. Besides being the most destructive, the area covered by the storm is the largest ever known in the northwest. It is reported at this city that the storm of hail started at Watertown, S. D., and continued in intervals from that city to Trosky, near the north line of Rock county. Here the storm seemed to spread out, extending east nearly to Worthington and south to Sheldon, Iowa. The storm reached the most destructive stages a few miles north of the Rock county line. From that point it continued south with unabated fury to Elsworth, a distance of thirty-six miles. The area of this part of the storm was 15 miles wide and 36 miles long. Over that vast area with here and there exceptions, there is not a straw reported standing. In this county six townships were struck by the storm totally destroying fully one third of the crops in the county. While the storm lasted less than ten minutes, sometimes two and three inches of hail fell, fairly beating the grain into the ground. Not a spear of grass or grain was left standing. Corn stalks were chopped down close to the ground and trees were stripped of their leaves as clean as though the season was mid winter. On young trees the bark was fairly peeled from their trunks. Not a pane of glass remains unbroken on the side on which the storm came, while the paint on buildings is practically scraped off. The crop in this county this year as a whole was one of the best ever raised. No grain had been cut and the farmers were preparing to cut barley this week. Conbined 125 sections in Rock county the crops are reported totally destroyed. Conservativo estimates place the loss at one million dollars in most cases the farmers in the stricked district will not haveenough feed to keep a pig through winter.

OUR CLAIM FOR THE GEE WHIZZ MACHINE

1. That it is the best washer made, because it runs easier and washes faster and better and is easier on the clothes.

2. Because it whirls, rubs, slaps, squeezes and takes the dirt out of the clothing, by reason of the reflex motion of the water.

3. It will wash (and we can prove it) as good with cold water as any other machine will with hot water, running the same length of time. We do not expect any other, even on a contest to this statement.

4. Or we will do in one minute with hot water, what it usually takes other machines ten or fifteen minutes to do. So you see you save one-tenths of the time and labor, by using the Gee Whiz Washer.

5. The Gee Whiz Machine is a combined washer and clothes dryer. When finished clothing machine must be dry Adjust sliding wheel just tight enough to wring the clothing, and turn fast each way a little while. Leave lid up while cleaning.

DID GOOD WITH STOLEN MONEY

Proceeds of Swindles Given Over to Helpless Children.

Gustave Rasalli was the greatest swindler Italy has ever known, though his many crimes were perpetrated purely in the interests of children's charities. He was a cripple, and from his earliest days displayed unwonted interest in those of tender age and tardy affliction. When only 23 he set in motion a scheme of fraud on a gigantic scale which relieved the wealthy of thousands in fifteen years.

With the proceeds of his crir e he founded and endowed a cripples' home in Rome, cleared off the d a of three children's hospitals, a inaugurated homes for waifs in nery of the principal Italian cities, though he lived in a dilapidatee cottage and almost denied himself the bare necessaries of life. When eventually the bubble burst he was sentenced to lifelong imprisonment, but as popular had he become with the masses that frantic crowds cheered him as he was led from the courts. After fifteen years spent in a dungeon he was pardoned.

RELIC DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Tavern at Weston, Mass., Which Antedated the Revolution.

The fire at Weston, Mass., recently destroyed the famous John Flagg tavern, which antedated the revolution many years. It was here that President Washington passed a night on his Way to Cambridge and Boston in 1789, and in 1798 President John Adams occupied the chamber previously that of Washington. On the following day he received an address from the townspeople, and his reply is still preserved in the Weston town library. What renders the loss of this ancient house tavern the more to be regretted is the loss by this fire of the old Colonial flag of thirteen stars, which for many years floated over this tavern from the date of Washington's visit.

Robbed Senator Gorman.

Senator Gorman of Maryland will not keep house in Washington the coming winter, having decided to close his mansion at Laurel because of a recent experience with dishonest servants. Some half dozen persons in his employ joined in a conspiracy to steal money, silverware, bedclothes and other articles, the agreement being that they should divide the plunder should go toward furnishing a house for one of the number. One of the servants became alarmed when $150 in cash, some otr and a quantity of other things had been purloined. Confession was made to the senator, who refused to prosecute. Instead he closed his home and took rooms in an apartment house.

The Most Precious Fur.

The most precious of all furs, that of the silver fox, is of a dark, sooty black, with tips of white of a metallic luster. The silver fox is found only in Siberia and Alaska. The pelt of the sea otter, which is now nearly extinct, is of a rich dark velvety brown. The animal survives only in Kamchatka and Alaska. Last year $1,700 was paid for a single silver fox, and a sea otter pelt brought $750. Sea otter nets are sunk through a hole cut in the ice. A bell suspended above and connected by a string with the net gives the trapper notice of a capture.

Revolting Spectacle on Scaffold.

A revolting spectacle was witnessed at the execution of a peasant for murder in Wilalia Citadel, Vienna, recently. As he was being led to the scaf fold the condemned man, Zeco Kanenow, suddenly drew a pendent which he had concealed and wounded three of the warders and a soldier. He was overpowered, dragged to the scaffold and three successive attempts were made to hang him. In the first the rope gave way, in the second he was cut down too soon, and the wretched criminal's head was again put in the noose and held there till life was finally extinct.

Catarrh of the Stomach.

When the stomach is overloaded—when food is taken into it that fails to digest, it decays and inflames the mucous membrane, exposing the nerves and causing the glands to secret mucin, instead of the natural juices of digestion. This is called catarrh of the stomach. For years I suffered from catarrh of the stomach, caused by indigestion. Doctors and medicines failed to benefit me until I used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure.—I. R. Rhea, Coppell, Tex. Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

The First Pantomime.

Most pantomime characters were originally borrowed from the Italians. The earliest real English pantomime was produced at a theater in Lincoln's Inn Fields in 1720. It was called "Harlequin Executed," and its subtitle was "A New Italian Grand Scene Between a Scaramouche, a Harlequin, a Country Farmer, His Wife and Others." The performance was a great success. About the middle of the eighteenth century the character of pantomime performances was completely altered, chiefly because of the genius of the famous Grimaldi, who made the character the first figure of the pantomime. Grimaldi first appeared at Sadler's Wells theater, where he played the part of a monkey. He was actively engaged on the stage for forty-five years, and at the close of his stage career he took a benefit at Drury Lane theater, which realized nearly £600. He also received £100 from the Drury Lane fund. This was in June, 1828. He died in 1837 and was buried in the churchyard in St. James' chapel, Pentonville hill.—London Standard.

Animals and Poisons.

Certain substances which are deadly in their effects upon men can be taken by the brute creation with impunity. Horses can take large doses of antimony, dogs of mercury, goats of tobacco, sheep of hemlock and rabbits of belladonna without injury. On the other hand, dogs and cats are much more susceptible to the influences of chloroform than man and are much sooner killed by it. If this invaluable anaesthetic had been first tried upon animals, we should probably have never enjoyed its blessings. As it would have been found to be so fatal that its discoverer would have been afraid to test its effects upon human beings. It is evident, therefore, that no experiment upon an animal can ever be a by means of any certain deductions as far as man is concerned.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Skyrockets Before Gunpowder.

It matters very little in the long run to the small boy when, how or where fireworks were first made and or what they are made now. But the fact remains that the despised heathen Chinese first made them and used them and that civilized communities did not know of them until the fourteenth century. The skyrocket was first invented toward the close of the ninth century, and at that time was used, so it is said, in India and China in war. That was long before the invention of gunpowder.

Did you ever notice how few people you meet who do not hear a sc or an ear or hands? Usually these are from cuts burns and scalds, and could have been avoided if Cole's Carbolisalve had been promptly used. Carbolisalve has no equal as a remedy for cuts and burns and sores of all kinds. It stops pain at once and heals without a scar. Guaranteed, 25 and 50c. by all druggists.

Switzerland's Liberal School System.

The public schools in Switzerland are operated by the government, and civil service rules are strictly applied. The teachers, who are mostly women, are very well paid and never discharged except for cause. When they get so old that their court teach they are pensioned liberally. The result is that the country has an excellent corps of educators.

Possibility of Error.

On one occasion Voltaire spoke highly of Haller and then was told he was very magnanimous to do so, as Haller had spoken in quite the contrary way of him. "Perhaps," remarked Voltaire, reflectively, and after a pause, "perhaps, we are both mistaken."

50 Years of Success

This is our record. From a small beginning we have grown until our factories now cover many acres. Many of our machines sold forty to fifty years ago are still giving their users faithful service. Can anything be more convincing of their merits and durability? Did you ever hear of any other machine with such a record?

Note a few of the many superior points of the

Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine No. 9

The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, unmechanical and troublesome shuttle.

The Frictionless ball bearings and perfect mechanical construction enable it to be operated with one-third less exertion than is required by ordinary machines. It sews three yards of goods while a shuttle machine sews two.

It makes the most elastic and most perfect stitch whether sewing light or heavy goods.

With our superior attachments the greatest variety of work is possible.

Do not make the mistake of buying a sewing machine until you have given the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 a trial.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

There is nothing the matter with the past of the average spinster except that it is too long.

The St. Paul News suggests that a woman may have faith in prayer, but she generally look under the bed first.

Just about the time we think the weather record is broken the old inhabitant comes around and shows us that twenty years ago it was just a trifle hotter.

Editor Raune, of the Slayton Gazette, evidently escaped without a Fourth of July accident, since he is already whooping 'er up for a celebration next year.

The Kentucky Republicans have indorsed President Roosevelt for another term, but they failed to trot out their patron saint, former Governor Taylor, for a running mate.

Banker Honey of Edmore, N. D., has just taken into his hive a wife in the person of Miss Rose Kuhn, and Ralph Wheelock intimates that Rose by her new name will be even sweeter.

The Commoner publishes this story on John D. Rockefeller:

Mr. Rockefeller says that whenever he wants anything he prays for it. This recalls the story of the darkey who prayed for a Thanksgiving turkey, but in vain. Then he prayed that he might be sent out to get a turkey, and there were feathers in his back yard before sun-up.

Mary McFadden refuses to believe the statement of a Missouri editor who says he never kissed a girl and was never in love in his life. Is our fair Mary, too, from Missouri, and is it necessary to show her?

Mary McFadden doesn't believe that money can bring all the happiness in the world. She says: "Money brings happiness to those who are content with what money can buy, and whose eyes are never clear enough of vision to see the glory that outshines the gold."

The fashion editor of the Anthony (Kan.) Republican has been trailing the swell dressers in that gay and growing town. Up to date he has spotted eight spike-tail coats, and in regard to the feminine portion of the population he says:

A careful count locates twenty-seven pretty dresses cut round in the neck to show the pretty, dimple over the collar bone nature made to hold a locket. There are eleven square-necked gowns that are very fetching when their owners are in them, and three gowns that are very swell and—low. One is so very low that the lady who owns it, and is a trifle plump, never dare to sneeze when she has it on.

Grandpa, of the Anoka Union, has lately been thinking some thoughts on state politics, and here is a little bunch of them:

Sammy Van Sant is a bundle of inconsistency.

Van Sant feelers are as thick as flies in August.

Surely the merger bluff cannot be worked two times.

Minnesota might as well have no railroad commissioners for all the good they do.

Those artistic robbers, known as express companies, have again boosted rates.

Yes, Attorney Munn is a corporation attorney, and it is a question whether the people's interests will always be consulted.

The National Republican party would do well to promise less and do more. The people have been looking for relief, but it don't come.

The Union is of the opinion if the people understood the ins and outs of the merger suits, they would have a real foolish feeling over how they have been played.

It is evident that Editor Gordon, of the Crookston Journal, who holds a position under the state administration, has had a misunderstanding with the other job-holders. At least Mr. Gordon is not championing the third-term movement, and in this respect he is greatly at variance with the rest of the fellows who have their feet in the official trough. In a recent editorial the Journal says:

Now there is no particular objection to the present governor in any part of the state except that he has been elected governor of this common-sealth twice and that is just as often and just as long as any one should be elected, and no one outside of his official family is urging an infraction of the unwritten law in regard to tenure in office of the governor. The intense selfishness of these men is where the pernicious part of the plan begins, and to permit them to succeed means to deliver the state to them. It means Jamesson for governor, Tom Lowry for United States senator, and George Thompson for national committee man. It means too that the worst of the state will have to dance to the music furnished by such a patriot as Sam Fullerton and any desire such men may have. It means that these men will not only administer the laws of the commonwealth, but also make them, for they aim to secure the election of members of the legislature who will be pliant tools, and it means gang rule from now on to the end of the chapter.

One of the most eloquent tributes ever paid to the dog was delivered by Senator Vest of Missouri, some years ago, says the Nashville American. He was attending court in a country town, and while awaiting for the trial of a case in which he was interested, was urged by the attorneys in a dog case to help them. Voluminous evidence was introduced to show that the defendant had shot the dog in malice, while other evidence went to show that the dog had attacked the defendant. Vest took no part in the trial, and was not disposed to speak. The attorneys, however, urged him to speak. Being thus urged he arose, scanned the face of each juryman for a moment, and said:

"Gentlemen of the jury: The best friend that a man has in the world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son or daughter that he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with ourhappiness and our good name, may become traitors to their faith. The money that a man has may be lost. It flies away from him, perhaps when he needs it most. A man's reputation may be sacrificed in a moment of ill-considered action. The people who are prone to fall on their knees to do us honor when success is with us, may be the first in throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads. The one absolutely unselfish friend that man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous, is a dog. A man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground, where the winter winds blow and the snow drives fiercest, if only he may be near his master's side. He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer; he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounter with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince. When all other friends desert he remains. When riches takes wings and reputation falls to pieces he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journeys through the heavens. If fortune drives the master forth an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him, to guard against danger, to fight against his enemies. And when the last scene of all comes and death takes the master in its embrace, and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by the gravestone will the noble dog be found with head between his paws, his eyes sad, but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even in death."

Then Vest sat down. He had spoken in a low voice, without a gesture. He made no reference to the evidence or the merits of the case. When he finished judge and jury were wiping their eyes. The jury filed out, but soon returned with a verdict of $500 for the plaintiff, whose dog was shot; and it was said that some of the jurors wanted to hang the defendant.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVE VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLER WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next few years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not just as well have that in your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great tracts to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well settled community, where churches and schools are built and well patronized. These will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $2500 cash will handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit at 6 per cent. A live investor can make a few thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

JOEL HEATWOLE seems to be obnoxiously busy for a man who is supposed to be out of politics.

A WISE politician should know when he is dead. There must be a foolish streak about Frank Eddy.

GROVER CLEVELAND probably hasn't much time to think about a third term. A boy baby came to his home last Saturday.

THE total amount of insurance in effect on the lives of Americans is said to amount to over ten billion dollars. Well, they are worth it.

WE notice in a Dakota exchange that Jim Hanan and Charley Bacon are rivals for the hand and heart of a Miss Frye. Now, wouldn't that frizzle you?

EZRA G. VALENTINE, of Breckenridge, is spoken of as a candidate for state railroad and warehouse commissioner. The G. O. P. might go farther—and fare worse.

ANTHRACITE coal of the finest quality and unlimited quantity is said to have been discovered in Colorado. Can it be that God and Mr. Baer have dissolved partnership?

THE Philadelphia Enquirer is mean enough to say that if every congressman paid his own postage the deficit in the postoffice revenues would stick up on the other side.

A BOLD-UP artist recently practiced his profession in the dome of the Denver state capitol. But after harboring the legislature a little thing like that never feared the dome.

A DAKOTA dry goods firm advertises "Beautiful things in shirtwaists." We also have that kind here, but we do not have to advertise them. They speak for themselves.

ANOTHER misguided youth of 80 died at Kalamazoo the other day from the effects of the tobacco habit. It is noticeable that few men addicted to the weed become centenarians.

MR. ROCKEFELLER'S assertion that his Sunday school is open to all sorts and conditions is, says the Commoner, a cheering assurance that salvation is still free or else Rockefeller would have cornered it long ago.

THE county surveyor has returned from Garnes for rest and reflection after finding two reservation lines in that town where there should be but one. We do not know what brand they use in Garnes, but we have suspicions.

THE weather observer at Litchville, N. D., reported a recent rain to have been six inches of precipitation. A man who was digging a cellar in that vicinity and found it full of water after the shower says he must have meant six feet.

IT occurs to us that possibly the moulders of public opinion who have set out to wean the great North American kid of the hateful firecracker habit have at last tackled something little too heavy for even the power of the press to budge. And, after all, what's the use?

THE county editor who said Frank Eddy had as many friends in the northern part of the state as Bob Dunn either had his ear a long way from the ground or got mixed up in his soundings. In either event his statement is a long way from the truth.

"WHEN the time comes the Republicans of Minnesota will nominate the next governor and he will not be a corporation candidate either," says the Jackson County Times. Perfect faith like this should receive its reward in heaven, it certainly will not on this wicked earth.

THE Republican leaders know that there was never a time like the present when a revision of the tariff was needed. Yet they hesitate because they are on the eve of a national campaign. If there is much more dilly-dallying on this question the people may conclude to give some other party a chance.

THE Republican state convention in Kentucky denounces the outrages that have been commited in that state as a result of the feuds. It would seem to the casual observer that neither political party is anxious to antagonize the murderous elements. Probably the votes of the factions are too numerous to lose.

THE Grand Forks Herald complains that the North Dakota is growing so fast that it is impossible to get maps fast enough to keep pace with the state. We hope that it will soon be large enough to take care of its own weather. The samples of Dakota climate pushed over the river and pervaded this section of the country for the past few weeks can be spared without regret.

PROFESSOR MORGAN, of Ruskin university, believes that divorces are caused by woman being unable to understand husbands. He has therefore decided to establish a department which will teach them how to do so. Special attention is to be devoted to the housewifery class, in which the student will be instructed so that she will know roundsteaks from ham and eggs, be able to raise bread without a derrick, to tell when enough prunes are sufficient, and to vary the daily menu without hash. The novelty of Professor Morgan's course will be the psychological studies designed to fit the graduates to select a compatible husband. A man's conduct before marriage, the faculty holds, is no criterion of his fitness; but by the psychological course the expectant uxoles will be trained to study his disposition and read his mind.

DIVERTING THE CLEARWATER.

In a recent issue the Crookston Times speaks its mind with reference to the proposition of the Bemidji people to turn the waters of the Clearwater river into the Mississippi. Red Lake Falls people are vitally interested in this movement, as many of our excellent water powers would be seriously injured if this scheme should be carried out. The Times says:

"The proposition born in the village of Bemidji to divert the Clearwater from its present course into the Mississippi river is one upon whose merits we are not prepared to speak positively without a knowledge of the facts based upon expert investigation.

"The people of Bemidji and of the territory tributary to that place are not to be blamed for promoting the scheme if they have reason to believe that they will be materially benefited thereby but the arguments brought forth thus far in support of the proposition are nothing short of puerile and we cannot believe that they represent the sober thought of the business men of Bemidji.

"If the changing of the course of the Clearwater river will have a harmful effect upon the water power of the Red Lake river, now put to so many important uses and soon to be even more extensively utilized, the project will never be pushed to a successful conclusion. And at any rate belittling the importance of the interests which will be affected by the proposed change will not help the matter any.

"Investigation has shown the powerful possibilities which have been begun to be developed. Where it now turns the wheels of one mill it may yet furnish power for half a hundred and the people of this region will not lightly permit any interference which will destroy this power. Neither will the governmental authorities permit such public vandalism."

Post-Office Department Notes.

Mr. Abe Sconder, of the mailing department, is building a fine house on Pennsylvania avenue. Mr. Sconder expects to spend about half a million on it. Mr. Sconder's salary was recently raised from twelve dollars to fifteen dollars per week.

Mr. Scamp-Stamp, of the registry office, reports a good business. Criticised recently for living beyond his income, he replied, "Well I can afford it."

The dead-letter office has been very quiet of late, the rake-off being nearly twenty-five per cent less than it ought to be.

It is said that the president is considering Richard Croker for postmaster-general. It is not probable that Mr. Croker will accept the office, however, as he is afraid it might injure his reputation.

An official inspector from congress applied yesterday at the post office to go over the accounts. He was told, if he presisted in his insulting conduct, he would be brought up before the grand jury.

The postmaster general visited the department yesterday. The unusual event was celebrated with fireworks.

Spanish War Pensions.

Sixty thousand claims for pensions have been filed by those who enlisted to fight against Spain. It is probably a good thing that the question of these pensions should be raised at once and settled while the matter is fresh, but it hurts one's idea of patriotism. Everyone wants justice for the victims of that unfortunate war, but of the 60,000 claims only 12,000 are worthy. Of the large number of beers on the market, golden grain belt beer is most worthy of your confidence. It's just what it tastes like, a pure refreshing beverage that's good for hunger and thirst. NO PANIC LIKELY.

Bank Examiner Johnson Says there is No Danger.

S. T. Johnson, state public examiner, recently returned from Buffalo, N. Y., where he had spent ten days in attendance upon the annual convention of the National Association of Bank Superintendents, of which he is president.

The delegates present at the convention were the supervisors of financial institutions in states operating under state laws. Mr. Kilbourne, of New York, first vice president, and supervision over corporations, he considered head of which were over two billions of dollars, while Mr. Timberlake, superintendent of Maine, had in charge institutions having a capital of a half dollars deposited with them for every man, woman and child in that state.

Mr. Johnson said there appeared to be no indication of any feeling among these gentlemen that a serious panic need be anticipated. It was generally conceded that the over-inflation and capitalization of a year ago having been successfully checked, and the year's liquidation having been effected with no widespread disturbance, the financial world has been brought to a point where it would be able to handle the further liquidation required without any danger of disturbance. This same opinion Mr. Johnson found to prevail throughout the financial interests of New York. The constant depreciation of the monsactive stock without any financial crisis, he said, was a highly desirable liquidation which can only work for the best interests of the entire country. Speaking of the business condition of this condition Mr. Johnson said:

"This grand movement of liquidation has not been confined to anyone section of the country. It is as wide spread as the country is vast. Minnesota has been no exception. From the more or less reckless speculation of a year ago in wild lands our business has settled down to a perfectly calm, safe, sound foundation. Not a state or national bank has either or been in trouble. The recent published statements of both classes show our banks to be in a perfectly sound, healthy condition, with a large increase of their net surplus, and with the grand promises that nature is now giving us of a vast crop, we look forward in Minnesota and the entire northwest to the year 1904, with great anticipation of activity in all lines of business, and the prosperity of our banks is assured."

Cole's Carbolisoap is a luxury that is also a necessity. It is an absolutely pure medicated toilet soap, delightfully perfumed and is invaluable for infants and people with delicate skin. Unequaled for use in hard water and as a shampoo. Sold by all druggists.

Notice of Cancellation of Contracts for Deed.

TO ROSE M. HURST, WEST SUPERIOR, WISCONSIN:

Take notice, that default has occurred in the terms of those certain contracts for agreements dated June 7, 1902, made by J. N. Miller, party of the first part, to Rose M. Hurst, party of the second part, of the party of the second part, or his assigns, as follows:

Southwest one-fourth (1/4) of section one (1), and the Northwest one-fourth (1/4) of section fifteen (15), and the Northeast one-fourth (1/4) of section ten (10), and the

Fractional northeast one-fourth (1/4) of section two (2), and the Northeast one-fourth (1/4) of section twenty-two (22), and

Lots one (1) and two (2), section (11), all in township one hundred and fifty-two (152), north of range forty-one (41) west of the fifth principal meridian, in Red Lake county, state of Minnesota. And whereas, said party of the second part failed to pay the principal and interest due on the seventh day of June, 1903, and the interest on said principal sum from that date, and the taxes and insurance premiums and assessments as in said agreements provided, and that the whole of said principal sum remains unpaid, to the damage of four thousand one hundred dollars, and the said party of the second part has not complied with the terms of said agreements, and the sum of one thousand dollars is now due and payable on said agreements, and that said party of the second part has failed to perform the conditions of said agreements, and has failed to pay the principal and interest due upon the mortgages mentioned in said agreements, and has failed to pay the taxes and insurance premiums and assessments thereon, being the amount of principal and interest which has become due and payable on said contracts on the 7th day of June, 1903, and the interest on said principal sum from the 7th day of December, 1902, to the 7th day of June, 1903, which said interest was due and payable.

And, whereas, it is stipulated and provided in said agreements that in case of the failure of said party of the second part to make any of the payments of said interest, or said part thereof, or either one of the covenants on his part to be kept and performed, then and in such case, at the option of the party of the first part, he forfeited and void.

Now, therefore, you are hereby further notified that I have elected, and do hereby elect to declare, said hereby declared agreements, and each and every one of them, to be void and of no effect, and all rights acquired by you thereunder, and you are hereby notified that I have elected, and do hereby elect to declare, said hereby declared agreements, and each and every one of them, to be void and of no effect, and all rights acquired by you thereunder, and you are hereby notified to effectively and forthwith cancel said agreements, being the amount of principal and interest which has become due and payable on said contracts on the 7th day of June, 1903, and the interest on said principal sum from the 7th day of December, 1902, to the 7th day of September, 1903, which said interest was due and payable.

And, whereas, it is stipulated and provided in said agreements that in case of the failure of said party of the second part to make any of the payments of said interest, or said part thereof, or either one of the covenants on his part to be kept and performed, then and in such case, at the option of the party of the first part, he forfeited and void.

Now, therefore, you are hereby further

Gilbert Westphal received word Sunday of the death of his little nephew, Milton, the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Lange, of Minneapolis. The little fellow was a victim of diphtheria.

Mrs. LaPreniere and children, Albert and Miss Bertha, left on the Winnipeg excursion Tuesday morning for western Manitoba, where they expect to visit friends and relatives for several weeks.

Miss Sophia Schusser, who was injured at Thief River Falls on the Fourth while attemping to get out of a buggy, has recovered from the effects of the accident and returned to her home in this city Saturday.

George Dupont, the popular Terrebonne merchant, came to town Monday and took the afternoon train for Crookston. He will visit friends and transact business at that place and at Grand Forks for several days.

George McConnell went to Crookston Monday afternoon to superintend the work of installing machinery at the new mill at that place. Mr. McConnell tells us that the new mill will be ready to start early in August.

Mrs. P. B. Newton and daughter, Miss Alice, leave today for Spokane, Wash., where they will make their future home. Mr. Newton will remain in Red Lake Falls for several weeks yet to get his business affairs in shape.

D. A. McRae, of Winnipeg, was in the city Monday to visit his friend, Rev. Andrew Walker. Mr. McRae had been at Thief River Falls Sunday to assist in evangelistic work at the Presbyterian church in that city.

C. O. Kankel was in town Tuesday to get a new watercheel for his Terrebonne mill. Mr. Kankel tells us that they are making extensive improvements to the mill this summer, and will increase its capacity materially.

The COURIER failed to note the arrival of a girl baby at the home of G. G. Kindseth last week. We are pleased to announce that the little one and the mother are getting along nicely, and extend congratulations to all concerned.

W. A. McIntyre worshipped at Crookston Sunday. It seems too bad that Mac must go so far away to attend church, when we have plenty of attractions in that line at home, but no doubt he can give a satisfactory explanation.

Arthur Laniel, town clerk of Poplar River, was a pleasant caller Tuesday and paid for the COURIER. Mr. Laniel has just finished a term of school in district 141. Mrs. Laniel is teaching in district 128, and will finish the term this week.

There will be no services at the Presbyterian church next Sunday owing to the fact that the building is in the hands of the plasterers this week. However, Rev. Walker is to us that the church will be ready for services on the first Sunday in August.

The Red River Valley Medical society will meet at Crookston on July 28. Dr. A. F. Blomburg, of St. Hilaire is down for a paper on "Pneumonia." It is expected that that there will be a large attendance of physicians from the various towns in the valley.

Leland, Ralph and Verne Healy, Orson Doe, Harry and Theodore Corneau, Walter Johnson, Walter Buse, Norman Schreiber and Oscar Hoat left Monday for Maple Lake, where they expect to stay in camp for about two weeks. It goes without saying that the boys will have a good time.

The Red Lake Falls and St. Hilaire ball clubs played at the latter place Sunday, and our boys sustained their reputation by winning the game by a score of 12 to 6. The locals have made a remarkable record this season, not having lost a single game out of about fifteen that they have played.

Miss Rose Dautremont will entertain a party of young people this evening in honor of her brother, Bert, who is here from Missoula, Wash., for a visit with the home people. Mr. Dautremont expects to leave Monday for Adrian, Minn., where he will visit friends for a week or ten days.

Garceau & Zaiser have a new advertisement this week quoting remarkably low prices on summer goods. As they must make room for the fall stock that has already commenced to arrive, this house is very anxious to close out their summer lines at almost any price. Now is the time to buy.

Pringle's Comedy Ideals, one of the best reportoire companies on the road, appeared at the Metropolitan Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday evenings, presenting "A Foxy Tramp," "A White Elephant" and "My Sweetheart." The members of the company are all good actors and the people were well pleased with the performances. The entertainments were well patronized.

News was received this week that Will Demarais, a young man from Terrebonne who went to North Yakima, Wash., last fall, is dead. He was about 25 years of age, and the son of of J. B. Demarais, one of the prosperous Terrebonne farmers who recently sold his farm and purchased the August Riechel residence property on Third street. No particulars in regard to the young man's death are at hand.

You should never change your shirt with a cigar in your mouth. The other day H. I. McMahan, of Polers Prairie did this, and when he had gotten some distance from his house he noticed smoke coming from his home. He hurried back to find that a shirt he had discarded had become ignited from the cigar, and over $50 worth of stuff was consumed before he could put out the blaze.

Only about $400 of personal property taxes for 1902 remains uncollected, as shown by the report made by Sheriff Linahan to the county board last week. Most of this amount is owing by parties who have left the country and have no goods or chattels here on which the sheriff could levy. This condition of affairs reflects credit upon the taxpayers of the county, and also on the efficiency of Sheriff Linahan, who has made every effort to gather in the money that belongs to the county's exchequer.

M. A. Baumgardner and son have a fine outfit for stacking hay. It consists of a derrick to unload the hay from the wagon and place it on the stack. They call it the "Dandy" hay stacker. It takes from seven to ten minutes to unload a wagon. In connection with this stacker they are using a Dain hay loader, which takes the hay from the swath. With this outfit they say they can stack in the afternoon all the mower can cut in the forenoon, or about fifteen tons per day, and it is light work for the men, too.

Sign of the Four...

By A. CONAN DOYLE.

A Detective Story that is Unsurpassed.

I She glanced at the iron hox. "Is that the treasure, then?" she asked, coolly enough.

"Yes, this is the great Agra treasure. Half of it is yours and half is Thaddeus Sholto's. You will have a couple of hundred thousand each. Think of that! An annuity of ten thousand pounds. There will be few richer young ladies in England. Is not the glorious?"

I think that I must have been rather overacting my delight, and that she detected a hollow ring in my congratulations, for I saw her eyebrows rise a little, and she glanced at me curiously.

"If I have it," said she. "I owe it to you."

"So, no," I answered, "not to me, but to my friend Sherlock Holmes. With all the will in the world, I could never have followed up a clew which has landed even his unequalled genius. As it was, we very nearly lost it at the last moment."

"Then sit down and tell me all about it, Dr. Watson," said she.

I narrated briefly what had occurred since I had seen her last—Holmes' new method of search, the discovery of the Aurora, the appearance of Athelney Jones, our expedition in the evening and the wild chase down the Thames. She listened with parted lips and shining eyes to my recital of our adventures. When I spoke of the dart which had so narrowly missed us, she turned so white that I feared she was about to faint.

"It is nothing," she said, as I hastened to pour her some water. In an all right again. It was a shock to me to hear that I had placed my friends in such horrible peril."

"That hall over," I answered, "I was thinking, I will tell you no more gloomy details. Let us turn to something brighter. There is the treasure. What could be brighter than that? I got leave to bring it with me, thinking that it would interest you to be the first to see it."

"It would be of the greatest interest to me," she said. "There was no exaggeration in her voice, however. It struck her, doubtless, that it might seem an callous thing to her to be indifferent to a prize which had cost so much to win.

"What a pretty box!" she said, stooping over it. "This is Indian work, I suppose?"

"Yes; it is Benares metal-work."

"And so heavy!" she exclaimed, trying to raise it. "The box alone must be of some value. Where is the key?"

"Small three it into the Thames," I answered. "I must borrow Mrs. Forrester's poker." There was in the front a thick and broad brass scutcheon in the image of a sitting Buddha. Under this I thrust the end of the poker and twisted it outward as a lever. The long spring gave with a loud snap. With trembling fingers I flung back the lid. We both stood gazing in astonishment. The box was empty!

No wonder that it was heavy. An iron weight a foot high and a foot thick filled all round. It was massive, well made and solid, like a chest constructed to carry things of great price, but not one shred or speck or token of metal jewelry lay within it. It was absolutely and completely empty.

"The treasure is lost," said Miss Morstan, calmly.

As I listened to the words, and realized what they meant, a great shadow seemed to pass from my soul. I did not know how this Agra treasure had weighed on my mind until now that it was finally removed. It was selfish, no doubt, disloyal, wrong, but I could realize nothing save that the golden barrier was gone from between us.

"Thank God!" I ejaculated from my very heart.

She looked at me with a quick, questioning smile. "Why do you say that?" she asked.

"Because you are within my reach again." I said, taking her hand. "She did not withdraw it. Because I love you, Mary, as truly as ever a man loved a woman. Because this treasure, these riches, sealed my lips. Now that they are gone, I am all your own. I love you. That is why I said: 'Thank God.'"

"THE TREASURE IS LOST," SAID MISS MORSTAN.

"Dear I say 'Thank God,' too," she whispered, as I drew her to my side. Whoever had lost a treasure, I knew that night that I had gained one.

CHAPTER XII.

THE STRANGE STORY OF JONATHAN SMALL.

A very patient man was the inspector in the cab, for it was a weary time before I rejoined him. His face clouded over, when I showed him the empty box.

"There goes the reward," said he, gloomily. "Where there is no money there is no pay. This night's work would have been worth a tenner each to Sam Brown and me if the treasure had been there."

"Mr. Thaddeus Sholto is rich man," I said. "He will see that you are rewarded, treasure or no."

The inspector shook his head despondently, however. "It's a bad job," he repeated, "and so Mr. Athelney Jones will think."

His forecast proved to be correct, for the detective looked blank enough when I got to Baker street and showered him the empty box. They had only just arrived. Holmes, the prisoner and he, for they had changed their places that as to report themselves at a station upon the way. My companion lounged in his armchair with his usual listless expression, while Small sat stolidly opposite to him with his wooden leg coiled over his sound one. As I exhibited the empty box he leaned back in his chair and laughed aloud.

"This is your doing, Small," said Athelney Joaes, angrily.

"Yes, I have put it away where you shall never lay hand upon it," he cried, exultantly. "It is my treasure; and if I can't have the loot I'll take darned good care that no one else does. I tell you that no living man has any right to it, unless it is three men who are in the Andaman convict barracks and myself. I know now that I cannot have the use of it, and I know that they cannot. I have acted all through for them on much as for myself. It's been the aim of four with us always. Well and I know that they would have had me the best share. I have done, and three the treasure into the Thames rather than let it go to kite an list of Sholto or of Morstan. It was not to make them rich that we did for Achmet. I will find the treasure where the key is, and where little Tonga is. When I saw that your boat was eating us I just put the loot in a safe place. There are no crimes for me this journey."

"You are deceiving us, Small," said Athelney Jones, sternly. "If you had wished to throw the treasure into the Thames it would have been easier for you to have thrown box and all."

"Easier for me to throw, and easier for you to recover," he answered, with a shrewd, sidelong look. "The man that was clever enough to have run down is clever enough to pick an iron box from the bottom of a river. Now that they've scattered over five miles or so, it may be a harder job. It went to my heart to do it, though. I was half mad when you came up with us. However, there's no good crying over spilt it. I've had ups in my life, and I've had downs, but I've learned not to cry over either."

"This is a very serious matter, Small," said the detective. "If you had helped justice, instead of thwarting it in this way, you would have had a better chance at your trial."

"Justice!" snarled the ex-convict. "A pretty justice! Whose loot is this, if it is not ours? Where is the justice that I should give it up to those who have never carned it? Look how I have toiled, how five in a convict's cell and feel that another man is at his ease in a palace with the money that should be mine." Small had dropped his mask of stolidness, and all this came out in a wild- whirl of words, while his eye blazed, and the hand-cuffs clanked to gether with impassioned movements of his hands. I could understand, as I looked at the fury and the passion of the man, that it was no groundless or unnatural horror which had possessed Maj. Sholto when he first learned that the inspired convict was upon his track.

"You forget that we know nothing of all this," said Holmes, quietly. "We have not heard your story, and we can not tell how far justice may originally have been on your side."

"Well, sir, you have been very fair spoken to me, though I am one that I have you to thank that I have these bracelets on my wrists. Still, I bear no grudge for that. It is all fair and above-board. If you want to hear my story I have no wish to hold it back. What I say to you is God's truth, every word of it. Thank you, you can put the glass beside me here, and I'll put my lips to it if I am dry.

"I am a Worcestershire man myself—born near Pershore. I dare say you would find a heap of Smalls living there now if you were to look. I have often thought of taking a look round there, just the truth is that I was never much of a scollh to the family, and I doubt if they would be so very glad to see me. They were all steady, decent going folk, small farmers, well thought and respected over the country-side, while I was always a bit of a rover. At last, however, when I was about eighteen, I gave them no more trouble, for I got into a mess over a girl, and could only get out of it again by taking the queen's shilling and joining the Third Buffs which was just starting for India.

"I wasn't destined to do much soldiering, however. I had just got past the goose-step and learned to handle my musket, when I was fool enough to go swimming in the Ganges. Luckily for me, my company sergeant, John Holder, was in the water at the same time, and he was one of the finest swimmers in the service. A crocodile took one, just as I was half way across, and nipped off my right leg just as clean as a surgeon could have done it, just above the knee. What with the shock and the loss of blood I fainted, and I should have been drowned if Holder had not caught hold of me and paddled for the bank. I was five months in hospital over it, and when at last I was able to limp out of it with this timber toe strapped to my stump I found myself invalided off the army and unfitted for any active occupation.

"I was, as you can imagine, pretty down on my luck at this time, for I was a useless cripple, though not yet in my twentieth year. However, my misfortune soon proved to be a good thing in disguise. A man named Abelwhite, who had come out there as an indigo-planter, wanted an overseer to look after his coolies and keep them up to their work. He happened to be a friend of our colonel's, who had taken an interest in me since the accident.

HOW HE LOST HIS LEG.

To make a long story short, the colonel recommended me strongly for the post, as the work was mostly to be done on horseback, my leg being a great obstacle, for I had enough knee left to hereby a good grip on a horse's sadle. What I had to do was to ride over the plantations, to keep the men up to the work as they worked, and to report the idlers. The pay was fair, I had comfortable quarters, and altogether I was content to spend the remainder of my life in indigo-planting. Mr. Abelwhite was a kind man, and when he died under deep little shanty and smoke a pipe with me, for white folk out there have little hearts-ease to each other as they never do here at home.

"Well, I was never in luck's way long. Suddenly, without a note of warning, the great mutiny broke upon us. Upper India was all ablaze, and peaceful, to all appearance, as Surrey or Kent. In the next three years two hundred thousand black devils let loose, and the country was a perfect hell. Of course you know all about it, gentlemen—a deal more than I do, very likely. Here, looking back on it in cold blood, only know what I saw with my own eyes. Our plantation was at a place called Muttra, near the border of the north-western province. Upon the night the whole sky was alight with the burning bungalows, and day after day the smoke rose from some station or peasa pousing through our estate with their wives and children, on their way to Agra, where were the nearest troops.

"Mutiny was an obstinate man. He had it in his head that the affair had been exaggerated, and that if we did blow over as suddenly as it had sprung up. There he sat on his verandah, drinking whisky pegs and smoking cheroots, while the country was in a blaze about him. Of course we stuck by him, I and Dawson, who, with his wife, used to do his business for him and managing. Well, one fine day the crash came. I had been away on a distant plantation, and was riding slowly home in the evening, when my eye fell on a column of dust, a bullock together at the bottom of a steep nullah. I rode down to see what it was, and the cold struck through my heart when I saw that it was Dawson's wife, all cut into ribbons, and half-eaten by jackals and pariah dogs. Not far from her lay the read Dawsoa himself was lying on his face, quite dead, with an empty revolver in his hand and four Sepoys lying across each other at his feet. I reined up my horse, wondering which way I should turn, but at Sepoys lying across each other at three of him. I reined up my horse, wondering which way I should turn, but at the same moment I caught sight of them rising up from Abelwhite's bungalow and the flames bursting in great sheets through the roof. I knew then that I could do my employer no good, but would only throw my own life away if I meddled in the matter. From where I stood I could see hundreds of the black fiends, with their red coats still on their backs, thronging and howling round the burning house. Some of them pointed at me and a couple of bullets sang past my head; so I broke away across the paddy-fields, and never drew rein until I was safe within the walls at Agra.

"As it proved, however, there was no great safety there, either. The whole country was up in like a mutiny at best. Wherever the English could collect in little bands they held just the ground that their guns commanded. Every where else they were helpless fugitives. It was a fight of the millions against the hundreds; and the cruelest part of it was that those men that we fought against, foot, horse and gunners, were our own pleked troops, whom we had taught and trained and handling our own weapons, and blowing our own bugle calls. At Agra there were the Third Bengal Fusiliers, some Sikhs, two troops of horse and a battery of artillery. A volunteer corps of clerks and merchants had been formed, and this I joined, wooden leg and all. We went out to meet the rebels at Shahgunge early in July, and we beat them back for a time, but our powder gave out and we had to fall back upon the city. Nothing but the worst news came to us from every side —which is not to be wondered at, for if you look at the map you will see that we were right in the heart of it. Each now is rather better than a hundred miles to the west, and Cawnpore about as far to the south. From every point on the compass there was nothing but torture and murder and carnage.

"The city of Agra is a great place, swarming with fanatics and fiendish devil-worshipers of all sorts. Our handful of men were lost among the new row, winding streets. Our leader moved across the river, therefore, and took up his position in the old fort of Agra. I don't know if any of you gentlemen have ever read or heard anything of that old fort. It is a very queer place—the queerest that ever I was in, and I have been in some rum corners, too. First of all, it is enormous in size. I should think that the inclosure must be acres and acres. There is a modern part, which took all our garrison, women, children, stores and ammunition, with plenty of room over. But the modern part is nothing like the size of the old quarters, where nobody goes, and which is given over to the scorpions and the centipedes. It is all full of great deserted halls, and winding passages, and long corridors twisting in and out, so that it is easy for folks to get lost in it. For this reason I was told that anyone went into it, though now and again a party of sowars with a guide exploring.

"The river washes along the front of the old fort, and so protects it, but on the sides and at the back there are gates, doors, and these had to be guarded, of course, in the old quarters as well as in that which was actually held by our troops. We were short-handed, and hardly men enough to man the angles of the building and to serve the guns. It was necessary, therefore, to put a station a strong guard at everyone of the innumerable gates. What we did was to organize a central guardhouse in the middle of the fort, and to leave each gate under the charge of one white man and two or three natives. I was selected to take charge during certain hours of the night of a small isolated door in the southern side of the building. Two Sikh troopers were told off to help me, and I was instructed if anything went wrong to fire three shots in quick succession and to keep cooming at once from the central guard. As there were forty doors to be guarded pieces away, however, and as the space between was cut up into a labyrinth of passages and corridors, I had great doubts as to whether they would arrive in time to be of any use in case of an actual attack.

"Well, I must pretty proud of having this small command given to me, since I was a raw recruit, and a game-legged one at that. For two nights I kept the watch with my Punjabees. They were tall, fierce-looking chaps. My chosen Singh and Abdullah Khan by name, both old Sepoys, who had borne arms against us at Chillianwallah. They could talk English pretty well, but I could get little out of them. They preferred to stand together and keep up a jabber all night in their queer Sikh lingo. For myself, I used to stand outside the door, pacing backward and the broad, winding river and on the other bank the great city. The moon, the beating of drums, the rattle of tomtoms, and the yells and howls of the fanatics, devil-worshipers, made the night the whole sky was alight with the burning bungalows, and day after day the smoke rose in thicker wreaths. Stroke Shattered My Nerves.

Gave Up Preaching For Two Years.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Put Me On Active List.

Are you well? Do you sleep well? Do you get up rested, fresh and vigorous? Is your mind clear and active? If not read the following. Scores of another has suffered and how he recovered.

"Some years ago I was afflicted with sun stroke which left me with a shattered nervous system and a terribly poor health. I suffered terribly every spell in my head, the top of my head would feel as if I could cut shells, and after striving for 12 years to wear the trouble off, I was compelled to give up my pastoral labor and retire to my farm where I spent nearly two years trying to recuperate. It was all of no avail. Physicians' treatment and patent medicines failed to relieve me. I was very excessively nervous and irritable and sometimes would shake terribly. I could not bear any noise. In order to get quietness, the blood would rush to my head and heart. Two years ago I was induced to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. After using one bottle I could see improvement in my condition so I continued taking it for nearly a year. I am happy to say I no longer have those pains in my head or nervousness. My appetite is good and I am able to do three times as much labor without fatigue." Rev. Chester D. Miles' Nervine the most wonderful medicine ever discovered.—Rev. D. Alex. Hoffman, Pastor U. B. LESSON IN AMERICAN HISTORY IN PUZZLE

THE ASSASSINATION OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN.
Find Sergt. Corbett.

President Lincoln was shot by J. Wilkes Booth at Ford's theater, in Washington, on the evening of April 14, 1865. Booth entered the president's box stealthily and placing a small Derringer pistol at the president's head fired. The ball entered the brain and Mr. Lincoln died at 22 minutes past seven the following morning. Booth jumped to the stage and escaped on a waiting horse. He and Daniel C. Harrold, another conspirator, were caught in a barn near Port Royal, Virginia. Harrold surrendered, but Booth refused to do so and the barn was fired. Sergeant "Boston" Corbett fired through a crevice in the structure and the ball passed through Booth's neck. He died four hours later. What disposition was made of his corpse has never become known.

A Building for the Smiths.

Representatives of the Smith family have applied for space for a building at the World's Fair at St. Louis, to be the headquarters of the members of that great family when visiting the exposition. Some genius has calculated that there are 14,000,000 Smiths in the world.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's catarrh cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's catarrh cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Battle Royal in Court Room.

During a trial in a civil court in the Bangalore district of India the other day a dispute arose between the defendant and one of the witnesses for the plaintiff. The two came to blows. The witnesses of both parties joined in, and sympathizers with the rival factions taking a part, the court became a glorified prize ring. The bailiff lasted for an hour, and the police and military had eventually to come in and disperse the mob.

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of action with the droll fancies of the humorist.

THOMAS B. REED

We see the speaker, we hear the laughter, we surrender to the, spell of the words; we can feel the tense silence as the speaker mounts in his sublimest flights, then hear the outburst of applause as the audience catches the speaker at his climax.

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7¼ x 10¼ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravure portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain frontispieces in multi-color.

POPE IS NO MORE

Aged Pontiff Finally Succumbs to Death After a Long Struggle.

End Is Comparatively Peaceful and Follows a Period of Insensibility.

Cardinals and Relatives Are Gathered at Bedside and Receive a Last Benediction.

Pathetic Scenes in Sick Room During Last Hours—Hope Abandoned Early in the Day.

Calmly Received in Berlin.

News Received in Paris.

Throughout the World—Short Biographical Sketch.

Rome, July 21.—The pope died shortly after four o'clock Monday afternoon. His last moments were comparatively peaceful and painless and were preceded by a period of insensibility. Around the bedside at the final moment were the cardinals, the relatives and the members of the papal court. Before lapsing into unconsciousness the dying pontiff feebly moved his lips, his last articulate words being those used in bestowing a benediction.

Gradually the shadow of death spread over the pontiff, his extremities became cold, his features assumed the fixed rigidity of death and Dr. Lapponi noted his last fluttering heartbeats, which gradually became slower and slower until they finally stopped.

The news of the pope's death spread rapidly throughout Rome and caused a most profound sensation. The whole city is in mourning.

His Last Moments.

Shortly before noon the pope was seized with a sinking spell. For a few moments it was believed that a catastrophe was about to occur. So near death was the pontiff that Cardinal Vannutelli, the grand penitentiary, began at his bedside to recite the prayers for the dying, and administered absolution in articulo mortis. The pope, however, once again demonstrated his marvelous vitality by rallying from the apparently fatal seizure, but only to relapse immediately into a state of semi-consciousness.

Tributes of the Press.

Although the morning bulletin had given the impression that the pope's condition was somewhat ameliorated, in reality the doctors did not think so. They considered that the lowering of the pulse and the diminution of the respiration were due to great prostration of the whole organism, which was augmenting, notwithstanding the fact that the patient at times took a little nourishment. The pope continued now and then to master intervals, although unconscious. His mind evidently returned to the events which impressed him most before his illness began. At one moment he was feeling about with his hands and moving his head from side to side, trying to lift himself, while he murmured: "What crowds! What devotion! My dear people!" Then, falling back heavily, he sighed and said: "Oh, the weight of these robes. Can I hold out until the end?" This was followed by scraps of Latin verses and prayers and then came an interval of silence, which was broken by another moment of energy, in which the pope cried: "The consistory is over! They can reproach me no longer! How many faces of all kinds! How many foreigners! The church is triumphing!" and so on, over and over again.

Restless End Is Near.

A wonderful thing about Pope Leo was that every time his mind became clear he seemed to grasp the fact that it might be the last, and he made the highest use of it. When, during the alarming crisis, about noon, he was lying on his bed, perfectly motionless, while around him knelt the cardinals and other members of the papal court, praying and not knowing whether the pope was not already dead, without any preliminary restlessness the pontiff opened his eyes, which fell on Cardinal Gregha, who was at his side, and he said, solemnly:

"To your eminence, who will soon seize the reins of supreme power, I confide the church in these difficult times."

Then Mgr. Bisleti, the master of the chamber, asked for the pope's benediction for the court, which the pontiff granted, adding:

"Be this my last greeting."

Then the pontiff gave his hand to kiss to the cardinals present, who were Oreglia, Rampolla, Serafini, Vannutelli, Dalla Volpe and Vives y Tuto.

President Deeply Touched.

Washington, July 21.—The state department, upon learning of the death of the pope, sent the following cablegram to Cardinal Rampolla:

"Cardinal Rampolla, the Vatican, Rome:

"The president desires me to express his profound sense of the loss which the Christian world has sustained in the death of his holiness Leo XIII. By his lofty character, his great learning, and his comprehensive charity he adorned his exalted station and made his reign one of the most illustrious as it has been one of the longest in the history of the Catholic church.

(Signed) "JOHN HAY."

London Hears News.

London, July 21.—The first news of the pope's death was conveyed to Westminster cathedral in a press dispatch which was transmitted to Mgr. Johnson, acting head of the diocese since the death of Cardinal Vaughan. The announcement was followed shortly by a private message from a friend of Mgr. Johnson at the Vatican, but no official notification was received since the diocese is at present without a cardinal. The news will have little visible effect on the Catholic church in England.

News Expected in Paris.

Paris, July 21.—The death of the pope did not cause any excitement in Paris, where it had been expected almost hourly for so long a time that the Parisians appeared to have lost all interest in the event. As this dispatch is filed, extra editions of the evening papers are appearing, but there is no rush to secure them and the subject of the pontiff's passing away is hardly mentioned or discussed in the boulevard cafes, all of which are crowded.

Calmly Received in Berlin.

Berlin, July 21.—The news, of the death of the pope caused no excitement here, having been hourly expected for some time. Emperor William, during his trip to Norway, had been getting frequent bulletins about the pontiff's condition. Officials who are familiar with his majesty's views say he entertained a reverential respect for Pope Leo XIII. While no pope could possibly have been more acceptable to Germany than the deceased pontiff, government circles expect no changes in the relations with the vatican. Germany has no candidate for the holy chair and will not even indicate a preference.

Short Sketch of His Life.

His late holiness was born at Carpineto in the diocese of Anagni, in the papal states, on March 2, 1810, being christened under the name of Joachim Vincenzi. The Society of Jesus was entrusted with his education, young Pecci being sent at the age of eight years to the Jesuit college at Viterbo, where he remained until his fourteenth year. At this time his mother died, and he shortly afterwards proceeded to Rome to continue his studies at the Jesuit college in that city. When he was 18 years old he began the study of the humanities and physics. His aptitude for natural science, however, in no way interfered with his taste for literature and classical studies, and even in those early days he was remarkable for the elegance and purity of his Latin, which subsequently found such notable expression, not only in his encyclicals and ecclesiastical work, but in the higher plane of poetry. He obtained, in 1831, the degree of doctor of divinity, and entered the Academy of Noble Ecclesiastics to study law and diplomacy, and thus quickly himself for joining what may be termed the papal diplomatic service and becoming conversant with the system of the papal civil government. It is from the ranks of this official body that, in these days, a new pontiff is almost invariably chosen. In 1837 Joachim Pecci received the subdiaconate and diaconate, and on March 14, of the same year, Gregory XVI. made him a domestic prelate, his first promotion, with the title of monsignore.

On December 23, 1837, he was ordained priest by Cardinal Odescalchi, saying his first mass in the chapel of St. Stanislaus at the Jesuit novitiate of St. Andrea, in 1843, Mgr. Pecci was consecrated bishop of Damietta in partibus, and sent to Brussels as papal nuncio. Mgr. Pecci remained six years in Belgium, and on his recall to Italy was decorated with the grand cordon of the Order of Leopold. After leaving Brussels the nuncio paid a visit to London. This was in February, 1846, and in the same year he was consecrated archbishop of Perugia. He continued in this position for the 32 years which intervened before his election to the highest position in the church, his tenure of the episcopate coinciding exactly with the 32 years of the reign of Pius IX. At the consistory held in 1877 Cardinal Pecci was appointed camerlingo of the Roman church, which gave him chief charge of the temporalities of the holy see. In this capacity it fell to his task to make the necessary arrangements for the conclave for the election of a new pope after the death of Pius IX., in February, 1878. The conclave lasted 36 hours, and at the third ballot Cardinal Pecci was elected supreme pontiff and took the name of Leo XIII., after the famous pope Leo X., for whom he had a great veneration. He was crowned on March 3 with the triple or triple crown, the ceremony taking place, not in St. Peter's, where all his predecessors but one had been crowned since 1858, but in the Sistine chapel in the vatican, where the conclave had been held. Many notable encyclicals were issued by the pope during his long reign, the last one being dated July 20, 1902, and was designed to promote study of the Scriptures, and in February, of this year, he wrote a poem, dedicated to a friend whom the pontiff desired to advise on the best means of prolonging life. The twenty-fifth anniversary of the late pope's election to the chair of St. Peter was celebrated February 22, of this year, with elaborate pomp, in the Hall of Beatification, above the portico of St. Peter's, on which occasion the venerable prelate was presented with a gold tiara, costing $25,000, as the jubilee present of the Catholic world, and with large sums of money from various sources. The celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the late pope's coronation occurred in St. Peter's, March 3 last, with all the impressiveness and grandeur of the Catholic church, and on April 2 the pontificate of the late pope was surpassed in length that of St. Peter, Leo XIII. having then been elected pope 25 years, two months and seven days, known as "the years of Peter."

MANY ARE KILLED IN FIERCE BATTLE

Heavy Fighting Reported Between Revolutionary and Government Forces in Venezuela.

TOWN OF CIUDAD BOLIVAR IS THE SCENE OF THE CONFLICT

Government Troops Capture Cemetery But Lose Over 100 Men in the Attempt—Over 200 Dead Revolutionists Reported in the Streets of the City.

Soledad, Venezuela, July 19.—At five o'clock this morning the engagement between the government forces and the revolutionists occupying Ciudad Bolivar began in two different directions. This revolutionists opened the battle. At six o'clock the women of Ciudad Bolivar was so thick that it was impossible to see the city. At seven o'clock the government troops, what a terrible fight, in which they lost more than 100 men, captured the cemetery. At eight o'clock the Venezuelan fleet, consisting of five men-of-war, obelled the government building in Ciudad Bolivar.

At ten o'clock the revolutionists' flag had disappeared from the government building and at 11 all the streets near that building were captured by the revolutionists. At noon the fleet entered vigorously by the government guns and only a few shots reached the city.

At two in the afternoon a block of the streets outside the government building was captured by storm. The revolutionists seemed to be resisting desperately.

Gen. Rivas is waiting for a signal from Gen. Blanco, the Venezuelan commander in chief, who conducted the fighting from his headquarters in the city of Bolivar with all his reserves and 14 guns.

Quite a spectacle in the streets of Ciudad Bolivar, when the smoke cleared away. was heartrending. There were over 200 dead revolutionists in the streets, not counting the wounded.

KING LEAVES FOR IRELAND

Large Crowds Cheer Departure of England's Monarch.

He Is Accompanied by Queen and Princess Victoria—Royal Train Reaches Dublin Safely.

London, July 21.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra, accompanied by Princess Victoria and their suite, left London at one p. m. Monday for Ireland. Though the day was gloomy, large crowds gathered at the royal residences, Buckingham palace and along the route to Euston station and enthusiastically cheered their majesties, who drove to the depot in state landaus, escorted by a detachment of the household cavalry. The king wore the uniform of an admiral.

Elaborate arrangements were made by the railroad company for the comfort of the distinguished travelers. The departure platform was closed to the public, and the royal train was beautifully decorated with choice flowers, plants and bunting. When their majesties alighted at the station, which was also handsomely decorated, they were received by the railroad directors, with whom they shook hands. The train consisted of two observation cars. With the cheers of the people ringing in their ears the king and queen left London at six p. m. for Holyhead, where the royal yacht is awaiting their majesties. The expect to reach Kingston at nine o'clock Tuesday morning.

Serious Automobile Accident.

Schenectady, N. Y., July 21.—As the result of an automobile accident which occurred Sunday near this city, W. F. Steers and A. F. Knight have sustained injuries which probably will result in the death of the former and the maiming of the latter. They were coming down from the Saratoga valley, when the machine got beyond their control and it landed down a precipitous embankment, throwing both men out. Both men are well known in local society circles. Mr. Knight is a well known golfer.

Remains Are Interred.

Washington, July 21.—The remains of the late Mrs. James G. Blaine, wife of the former secretary of state, were interred at Oak Hill cemetery, in this city, Monday. The body arrived here over the Pennsylvania road at 11 o'clock in the morning and was taken directly to the cemetery. Rev. Dr. T. S. Hamlin, of this city, officiated at the services.

URGES ABOLITION OF AGENCY SYSTEM

Commissioner Jones Says That's His Policy Concerning Indian Reservations.

If a recommendation to be incorporated in the forthcomlog report of William A. Jones, the United States Commissioner of Indian affairs, is carried into effect a long step will be taken in the direction of breaking up the Indian reservations in the west. It is the intention of Commissioner Jones to urge the abolition of the present agency system, the reservations to be divided into small communities and such communities placed in charge of officials who will come into frequent personal contact with the families residing thereon.

The whole tendeacy of the Indian policy of the government is toward the elimination of reservation lines with a view of bringing the red men into intimate relations with the whites in order that the child of the forest may learn the way of the more progressive and enlightened race. The details of the plan to have the small community supplant the reservation have not yet been worked out. The commissioner has had the idea in mind for several months and has discussed it with some of the most prominent students of the Indian problem.

The recommendations to be made in this connection is certain to attract attention throughout the country. It will also excite antagonism. While the community plan would necessary increase the number of employes in the Indian service, it would at the same time reduce the political patronage, and it is this phase of the subject that must be considered when congress is called upon to legislate. It is generally recognized that the reservation is an evil feature of the civilizing agencies under government control.

In many sections of the west the reds are hemmed in on all sides and except on rare occasions see little of the white man or the beneficient influences of his institutions. The community plan as evolved by Commissioner Jones is an amplification of his policy in the direction of making the Indians self-supporting and independent.

His first step was in diminishing the ration system. Rations are only issued now to the old and infirm and in some instances to children. The next reform instituted by the present commissioner of Indian affairs was that of providing labor for the Indians. The reds are not forced to work, but the inducements are so attractive that in some tribes a large majority of the males are employed on public works in the vicinity of their reservations and in other cases the Indians are doing the work formerly performed by white men hired for that purpose.

Commissioner Jones will discuss the new policy at great length in his annual report and the attention of congress will be directed to it at the coming session.

HARRY FOUND THE FLEA.

And the Conductor Resumed Possession of His Chair.

An old-time conductor on the Great Northern tells the following story to the Crookston Times:

"Away back in the '80s, when the train equipment on the St. Hilaire branch consisted of a 28-foot combination coach, baggage car, one or two box cars, and a toy locomotive whose greatest power lay in its whistle, the members of the train crew were greatly harassed by the continued use of their chairs by the patrons of the 'frog train;' these same patrons using their train chess —on a trunk when there happened to be any baggage—as a table, cards being used to beguile the time on their long journey—limit strictly two cents. Well, ye editor of the St. Hilaire Spectator, our own large and well-developed Harry Ives, was one of the principal aggressors against the occupancy of the chairs. The train boys finally used a little gimlet, a little wood and a large needle, a combiaation that worked admirably.

"The usual game was in progress, the usual chairs under the usual sitters. The patient but expectant train crew were evidently deep in the news of a city paper, when Harry became restless. Something apparently itched. The game was interesting, however, and Harry kept on playing cards and squirming in the meantime. Finally he could stand it no longer and at his earnest request a paper was pinned over the one-half glass partition door and ye editor from St. Hilaire stripped in a vain endeavor to catch the fleas that had spoiled the hand.

"It was some time before the 'flea' was really found, but it 'made good,' and ye conductor once more resumed connections with his own chair."

Not to Mention Tukunahagu.

PLAN TO FIGHT THE BUDD LAW.

Twenty-seven Food Manufacturers Form an Association.

The state dairy and food commission has received information that twenty-seven food manufacturers in the United States have formed an association to prevent the department from prosecuting firms for handling their goods in the state. The association does not include any Minnesota manufacturer.

The combination claims the right to sell goods in Minnesota which are "nutritious and healthful." This is understood to be a threat to fight the enforcement of the Budd food law, which went into effect July 1, and which provides that all foods are adulterated which conceals inferiority or tends to deceive the purchaser.

The association has informed every retail and wholesale dealer in Minnesota that it will defend any firm against prosecution on charges that the products of its members are adulterated. The chairman of the executive board says he has obtained the services of the best legal talent in the country, and he advises every Minnesota firm against whom action is begun to telegraph headquarters for counsel.

"Our intention," says the chairman of the executive board, in a communication brought to the attention of the state dairy and food commission, "is that no one shall be out a dollar for attorney's fees because of a case either actual or threatening growing out of a charge that the goods of our members are not prepared according to law.

"Owing to recent legislation in various states and the publication of bulletins by various authorities claiming the right to dictate certain methods of preparing and marketing goods, we deem it proper to get legal advice so that our members could offer products capable of being handled by jobbers without annoyance.

"Our investigation is now finished and we know now just where we stand. Every member is interested in the enforcement of practical food laws and is pledged to pack only goods that are nutritious and healthful, acceptable to the best scientific authorities and salable according to law."

George L. Dingman, assistant dairy and food commissioner, said that the department would continue to enforce the laws of the state irrespective of the formation of thoassociation.

MAKES WAR ON CHOLERA

Live Stock Board Works to Prevent Its Spread.

Executive Agent S. H. Ward, in his first quarterly report to the live stock sanitary board, stated that particular precaution is being taken by health authorities of the state against the spread of hog cholera. The board has received a communication from the secretary of agriculture, explaining the federal laws on the subject, and it has distributed circulars among the live stock shippers of the state, urging the greatest precautions.

Since May 1, only four cases of hog cholera have been reported to the board. Dr. Ward says that as summer advances an increase in the disease is expected.

A flock of 3,000 sheep in Watonwan county has been found affected with sheep scab, and thirty-eight deaths have resulted from blackleg.

Dr. Ward says that the cases of rabies that have appeared have been attended to by the local health boards. Since the board was established May 1, five dogs, two cows, one steer and one horse have been reported as affected with the disease.

Dr. Ward said that of 176 horses inspected for glanders in the state, 99 have been condemned and killed. Of the cows of the Twin Cities tested with tuberculin, 95 have been killed, and of this number 76 were condemned as entirely unfit for food and 19 were sold for beef.

No Time to Lose.

An eminent surgeon used to remark to his assistants when everything was laid out ready for an operation, "Don't be in a hurry, gentlemen, for we have no time to lose." One can accomplish so much by keeping steadily at it and doing one thing at a time, but Americans seem to want to do everything at once. If we realize that restlessness and nervousness are the most serious faults of our race, we should see the necessity for using golden grain belt beer to overcome the difficulty. It rests the nerves completely and puts one in perfect condition, mentally and physically. You will enjoy a case at home. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

OUR CLAIM FOR THE GEE WHIZZ MACHINE

1. That it is the best washer made, because it runs easier and washes faster and better and is easier on the clothing.

2. Because it whirls, robs, slaps, squeezes and sucks the dirt out of the clothing, by reason of the reflex motion of the water.

3. It will wash (and we can prove it) as good with cold water as any other machine will with hot water, running the same length of time. We do not expect any other, even on a contest to this statement.

4. Or we will do in one minute with hot water, what it usually takes other machines ten or fifteen minutes to do. So you see you save nine-tenths of the time and labor, by using the Gee Whiz Washer.

5. The Gee Whiz Machine is a combined washer and clothes dryer. When drying clothing machine must be dry. Adjust sliding wheel just tight enough to whirl the clothing, and turn fast each way a little while. Leave lid up while drying.

CHECK FOR THE OPEN DOOR PLAN

Prince Ching Informs the United States That Ports in China Will Not Be Made Free.

Officials in Washington Are Unable to Understand His Action, But Think It Is Designed to Placate Russia—Situation Recognized, But Crisis May Be Averted.

Pekin, July 23.—Prince Ching, the president of the foreign office, has written to United States Minister Conger refusing to open towns in Manchuria. In his letter he dwells upon the impossibility of China opening to foreigners towns which are not in her possession, but which are held by Russian troops and points out the complications which would be likely to follow. It is believed here, however, that a compromise may be reached by including one town—Ta Tung Kao—in the new commercial treaty.

Not Understood in Washington.

Washington, July 23.—Inasmuch as the Chinese government very recently has expressed its willingness to yield to the desire of the United States for open ports in Manchuria the officials here are at a loss to understand the communication sent by Prince Ching to Minister Conger refusing this concession. They have received no advices on the subject. The importance of the communication, if it accurately reflects the attitude of the Chinese government, is fully realized in Washington. However, impressed with the heretofore expressed willingness of China to open Manchurian ports, reinforced by the assurances given by this government by Russia along the same lines, the officials continue firm in their belief that the situation ultimately will be clarified and the efforts of the United States be rewarded. In some quarters the objections urged to the opening of ports in Prince Ching's communication are regarded as a mere diplomatic quibble designed perhaps to placate Russia. No matter what fresh obstacle may intervene our government, firm in the conviction that the principle of the open door in China should be enjoyed by all nations, will continue to exert its influence in that direction.

Negro Woman Lynched.

Shreveport, La., July 27.—News reached Shreveport that Jennie Steer, a negress who administered poison in a glass of lemonade to Lizzie Dolan, 16-year-old daughter of John Dolan, from the effects of which she died, was lynched by an infuriated mob. The lynching took place on the Beard plantation, near the spot where the woman's crime was committed. Jennie Steer was stubborn to the last, denying the crime.

Engineer Killed.

Peoria, Ill., July 23.—A freight wreck occurred at Tremont, 25 miles from Peoria on the Big Four road, W. B. Odell, engineer, of Urbana, being killed instantly. Edward Sanders, fireman, of Urbana, was thrown from cab window and internally injured. Three others were slightly injured. Spreading rails overturned both engine and caboose.

Burglars Rob Post Office.

Jamestown, N. Y., July 26.—At an early hour Friday the safe in the post office at Maryville, the county seat, was blown open. Seventeen thousand two-cent stamps, 10,000 one-cent stamps and 5,000 eight-cent stamps were secured by the burglars.

Valuable Horse Burned.

Lexington, Ky., July 23.—Jno. Mirthful, John R. Madden's $100,000 thoroughbred stallion, burned to death in his stall at Hamburg Place early Wednesday morning. The barn was destroyed. The loss will reach $200,000.

Seeks a Pension.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 25.—Dr. A. A. Jones, former mayor of this city, now under indictment for bribery, has made application for pension on account of disabilities incurred during the civil war.

Given High Honor.

Portland, O., July 25.—Harvey W. Scott, owner of the Oregonian, has been chosen president of the Lewis and Clark exposition.

More Bodies Recovered.

Hazna, Wyo., July 25.—Eleven more bodies of victims of the Union Pacific mine explosion have been recovered.

TWO WOMEN SHOT.

Victims of a Cowardly Attempt at Assassination in Colorado—Both Badly Wounded.

Lake City, Col., July 25.—Mrs. Anne Bailey and Mrs. Mary Woods were shot from ambush Thursday night, about a mile from town, when returning from Lake Shore. Mrs. Bailey is mortally wounded and Mrs. Woods is in a serious condition. The assassin, who was concealed among rocks on the mountain side, fired a charge of buckshot at the women as they drove past. The charge struck Mrs. Bailey on the side of the face, neck and shoulders, cutting her windpipe, tearing away part of her nose and destroying one eye. Many of the pellets penetrated Mrs. Woods' body. The shooting caused the horse to run away and both women were thrown out of the buggy, receiving further injuries. Mrs. Woods' husband, who had quarreled with her, has been arrested and is being held for investigation.

Sunday School Workers to Meet.

Warsaw, Ind., July 23.—The annual summer session of the executive and extension committees of the International Sunday school convention, together with the international and state officers and the field workers and leaders of denominational Sunday school work of the United States and Canada, will convene at Winona lake on August 6. The meeting will continue five days and will last to the close of the Sunday school department of the Winona assembly for the season.

A Big Contract.

Tacoma, Wash., July 24.—Mall advices from Manila state that a firm in Shanghai has been awarded the contract for furnishing 10,000 water buffalo to the insular government of the Philippines. All the animals will be immunized against rinderpest before being shipped from China. The whole number will be divided into lots of 500 each and the shipments will be made each month.

Nebraska's Great Wheat Crop.

Omaha, Neb., July 23.—Estimates received from all parts of the state indicate clearly that Nebraska's wheat crop will exceed any previous crop in her history. The acreage, which is 15 per cent greater than last year, will yield at least 80,000,000 bushels. This, compared with the 10,000,000 bushel crop of 1890, illustrates the enormous increase of Nebraska as a wheat growing state.

All Were Killed.

Whitesboro, Tex., July 27.—Johnnie Butler, wife and infant child, were killed and Mrs. Sallie Bonna Black Diamond express on the Lehigh & Valley railroad yesterday afternoon while driving across the track at Pumphrey, the station from here, and all three are dead. The horse was also killed and the carriage demolished.

Five Miners Drowned.

Mahanoy City, Pa., July 23.—By the bursting through of a large body of water that was impounded in an abandoned section of Gilberton colliery, one of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron company, just before quitting time Wednesday evening, five miners, all foreigners, were drowned like rats in a trap.

A Military Change.

Washington, July 24.—Acting Adjt. Gen. Hall has been notified that Maj. Gen. James F. Wade will relieve Maj. Gen. George W. Davis of the command of the division of the Philippines Saturday morning, on which day Gen. Davis will be placed on the retired list.

Killed His Son.

Joliet, Ill., July 22.—John Gatona, Sr., a white-haired man aged 72 years, shot and almost instantly killed his son, John Gatona, aged 31 years, in a quarrel over Mrs. Gatona, the wife of the younger man, whom the father did not like.

FINAL OBSEQUIES OVER DEAD POPE

Remains of Leo XIII. Laid Away in St. Peter's Amid Solemn and Impressive Ceremonies.

COFFIN SEALED AND PLACED IN A STONE SARCOPHAGUS

Will Rest There Until Suitable Tomb in Basilica of St. John Lateran Is Prepared—Diplomats and Roman Aristocracy Attend Solemn Pontifical Mass at Latter Church.

Rome, July 28.—The body of Pope Leo was interred in St. Peter's Saturday night. At sundown the most important and most solemn of all the obsequies took place. The front doors of the basilica were closed, and the vast church, except for a row of lights on the shrine of St. Peter, the candles about the bier and those persons who had quality and reverently gathered there, appeared deserted.

Cardinal Rampolla, as archpriest of the basilica, was waiting outside the gates, in violet robes, surrounded by the chapter of the cathedral, which was led by Mgr. Capetelli, who conducted the service. Drs. Lapponi and Mazzoni directed the work of the removal of the bier, which was executed by eight sediari, or pope's carriers, attired in their brilliant red robe costumes. Then, to the strains of the "Miserere," which wailed through the lofty church, and preceded by a glittering cross held aloft, the procession, carrying candles and torches, slowly left the chapel and went up the church, passing the bronze statue and beyond the shrine of St. Peter The scene in the chapel was remarkably effective. The bier bearing the body was received by Cardinal Oreglia.

Last Rites.

The body was sprinkled with holy water, absolution was given and the foot of Leo XIII. was kissed for the last time by Major-domo Cagiano, Master of the Chamber Bisleti and Count Camillo Pecci. The major-domo then covered the venerable features and hands with a white silk veil, bordered with gold. Over this the prefect of ceremonies spread a large red silk veil, which covered the whole person. Fire was lighted in a brazier and blown by a bellows, the sparks rising almost to the ceiling, while Mgr. Bartolini read for 20 minutes the "Ordo Brevis," eulogizing the dead pontiff, and Notary Popoli, 84 years old, read out the burial record, a service which he performed upon the occasion of the deaths of Pope Gregory XVI. and Pope Pius IX. The monsignors of the basilica, aided by the noble guard, then laid all that was mortal of Leo XIII. in o cypress coffin lined with red satin and bearing on the cover an inlaid cross, the entire sacred college and Prince Colonna rising to their feet in a last tribute and sign of respect. When all had been arranged the supreme prayer was said and the last benediction given, all present joining in. Half-suppressed sobs were heard on all sides. The second coffin was of lead and very heavy. This coffin was sealed personally with the urns of the camerlengo. The major domo of the chapter of the basilica lighted a brazier which was used in soldering the coffin, producing sounds and odors strange to hear and see in a church. These two coffins were inclosed in a third casket of polished walnut, without decorations.

With Song and Prayer.

The sad duties were softened and smoothed by the sweetness of the singing of the choir and the prayers of the clergy. When the last supreme moment came the heavy coffins, weighing in all 1,200 pounds, were slid out of the chapel, preceded by mace bearers and choirs singing as they went and followed by all the cardinals. Prelejers were attached to the coffin and soon, to the strains of the "Benedictus Dominus Deus Israel," it was hoisted into the stone sarcophagus above the floor, where it will remain until the grateful cardinals, created by the late pontiff, shall erect a suitable tomb in the basilica of St. John Lateran, which was chosen by the pope himself as his final resting place. Then was Pope Leo consigned to his long rest.

Not Many People Assisted.

Not many people assisted Monday at the fifth of the novem diales, which was celebrated in the chapel of the choir at St. Peter's. Mgr. Constantini, the papal almoner, pontificating, as attention was centered in the solemn funeral mass at the church of St. John Lateran, where the Pecci family, the diplomatic body, the Knights of Malta and the Roman aristocracy were present. Cardinal Gibbons celebrated early mass in the private chapel of the Shipbuilders and then drove to the vestibule, where he participated in the meeting of the congregation of cardinals.

Union Molders Strike.

Youngstown, O., July 24.—All the union molders employed by the Foundrymen's association in this city, Niles and Girard, 350 in all, are on strike Monday, the association not recognizing the demand of the men for a $3 minimum wage scale for nine hours and an increase of ten cents per day for each man.

Thirteen Reported Killed.

London, July 28.—Thirteen persons have been killed and a score injured in a railway accident at Glasgow, where an excursion train from the line of Man crashed into the buffers at the station. Two cars were telescoped in the crash. Among the killed were the members of one entire family.

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever even approached before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived close to those who have made and are making the history of our times.

In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule, and the wise is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of action with the droll fancies of the humorist.

We see the speaker, we hear the laughter, we surrender to the spell of the words; we can feel the tense silence as the speaker mounts in his sublimest flights, then hear the outburst of applause as the audience catches the speaker at his climax.

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7¼ x 10¼ inches, and is also illustrated with 75 photogravure portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain frontispieces in multi-color.

50 Years of Success
This is our record. From a small beginning we have grown until our factories now cover many acres. Many of our machines sold for fifty years ago are still giving their users faithful service. Can anything be more convincing of their merits and durability? Did you ever hear of any other machine with such a record?
Note a few of the many superior points of the
Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine No. 9
The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, unmechanical and troublesome shuttle.
The Friictionless ball bearings and perfect mechanical construction enable it to be operated with one-third less exertion than is required by other machines. It sews three yards of goods while a shuttle machine sews two.
It makes the most elastic and most perfect stitch for whether sewing light or heavy goods.
With our superior attachments the greatest variety of work is possible.
Do not make the mistake of buying a sewing machine until you have given the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 a trial.

CLAY DIES IN HIS FORTRESS HOME.

Noted Abolitionist Surrounded in Last Illness by Children Long Barred from His House.

Last Years of the General Disturbed by Bitter Strife over His Choice of a Third Wife—Was Minister to Russia Under President Lincoln—Sketch of His Career.

Lexington, Ky., July 23.—Gen. Cassius Marcellus Clay, ambassador to Russia under President Lincoln, noted abolitionist and author, died at his home, Whitehall, in Madison county, at 9:10 o'clock Wednesday night. Death was due to general exhaustion.

Led a Stirring Life.

Gen. Cassius M. Clay, the son of Gen. Green Clay, was born in Madison county, Ky., October 19, 1810. He was graduated from Yale in 1832 and became an abolitionist as a result of a speech delivered by William Lloyd Garrison, though his parents were slaveholders. For three terms he was a member of the Kentucky legislature, after which he practiced law in Lexington. In 1834 he edited in that city the True American, an anti-slavery paper. The office was mobbed, but he was not in the least deterred from his purpose, and thereafter the paper was printed in Cincinnati, but circulated extensively in Kentucky. He served with distinction as an officer of volunteers in the Mexican war, and was noted for his bravery in the field. He supported Taylor, Fremont, Lincoln, Greeley, Tilden and Blaine for the presidency, but in 1896 he supported the gold democratic ticket. From 1861 to 1863 he was United States minister to Russia, where he was considered quite a lion. Fresh from numerous duels, he was looked upon there as a hero, but he was none the less held in high esteem both at home and abroad as a diplomat and a statesman.

Married a Child Wife.

Clay was married in 1833 to Miss Mary Jane Warfield, of Lexington, Ky. She died many years ago. They had a family of ten children.

In 1894, when he was in his eighty-fourth year Clay entered on the final chapter in his stirring life. The country had almost forgotten him when he called attention to himself by marrying Dora Richardson, the 15-year-old daughter of a poor family of his vicinity. This was the signal for hostilities in the Clay family. In a few months the girl-wife ran away to marry Riley Brock, a rustic youth. After many attempts to bring her back, Gen. Clay divorced his young wife, and provided a comfortable home for her and her new husband. Recently Brock died, and the general again sought to make Dora his wife, but she preferred to seek fame on the stage.

Ovation to an Editor.

Warrensburg, Mo., July 24.—James Shepherd, editor of the Warrensburg Sentinel, who was fined $600 by the state supreme court for contempt in printing an article criticising a decision rendered by that body, was accorded an ovation by his townspeople when he arrived home from Jefferson City Thursday. As soon as it was learned that Editor Shepherd had been fined some of the leading men here telegraphed him to draw on them for the amount.

Alleged "Fakirs" Punished.

Fargo, N. D., July 25.—A year in the penitentiary at Stony Falls, and $1,000 fine was what Judge Amidon gave Miller and Randall, insurance mutual association fakirs. They were convicted last month of violating postal laws and a stay granted for motion for a new trial, which was denied.

Traction Line Completed.

Richmond, Ind., July 25.—The building of the Dayton and Western Traction line into Richmond Friday completes one of the longest traction lines in the world and connects Indianapolis and Dayton, O., a distance of 103 miles.

Death of a Congressman.

Philadelphia, July 27.—Congressman Robert H. Foerderer, of the Fourth Pennsylvania district, died at his home in Torresdale, a suburb of Philadelphia, aged 43. He had been ill for some time from a complication of diseases.

Noted Surgeon Dead.

Detroit, Mich., July 28.—Dr. Donald MacLean, one of the most noted surgeons in the state, died Friday at his home in this city from gastro-enteritis. He had been in poor health for several years.

Another Negro Lynched.

Pine Bluff, Ark., July 22.—For an assault upon a 13-year-old white girl, daughter of a sawmill man named Blake, Orane Green, a negro, was taken from officers and lynched.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Decrease in Milk.

W. W. P. McConnell, state dairy and food commissioner, says that warm weather and flies are causing a heavy decrease in the milk supply of Minnesota. Mr. McConnell estimates that the supply has decreased at least 25 per cent in the last few weeks. One herd of cows which a month ago produced twenty-two gallons of milk daily now produces only fourteen gallons.

The cause for the decrease is attributed largely to hot weather and flies. The flies are said to be unusually numerous this season on account of the wet weather. Mr. McConnell says that cows consume a great deal of energy in driving the flies away, and that consequently the production of milk is decreased. The grass, too, he says, is not so nutritious in extreme hot weather as in the spring.

Mr. McConnell says that cows should be kept in the shade during the warm part of the day, and should be fed corn fodder and other succulent food. At night, when the flies are not so persistent, he suggests that the cows be turned into the pasture.

State Fair Information.

Secretary E. W. Randall of the Minnesota State Fair is frequently called upon for information relative to the equipment, conduct and methods of the fair over which he has presided as executive officer for the past eight years. The reason for this is found in the fact that the Minnesota State Fair has become the most successful of all state fairs, and besides, has gained the reputation for business methods, and fair and prompt dealing.

The latest state to seek to profit by Minnesota's experience, is Montana. A day or so ago, United States Senator Carter, of Silver State visited the Fair Grounds and spent some time with Sec. Randall looking over books, forms and methods, and in examining the the grounds and equipment.

Terrible Death.

John Atkinson, chief engineer of dredge 8, of the Lake Superior Contract and Dredging company, met a terrible death on board the dredge at Duluth. The backing cable got foul and he struck it to get it clear, when a ragged edge of the cable caught his trousers leg and threw him on the heavy wire, and in an instant he was carried under the big drum over which the big cable winds. Atkinson was crushed to death and at the same time the gearing cut off both his hands. One hand could not be found until the body was removed to the undertaker's, when it was discovered inside the maimed body. Atkinson had been in the employ of the company for fifteen years.

Returns to China.

Ham Hong, a Chinese prisoner at the penitentiary, who received a conditional pardon, after he had served several years of a twenty-five years' sentence for murdering another Chinaman in Brainerd, was released from prison and left Stillwater for St. Paul, from which point he will leave for his former home in China. Ham Hong has been employed as a cook at the prison and has been an exemplary convict. This fact and the belief that he had been cheated of a crime of which he was probably not guilty, gained him his freedom. He was profuse in his thanks for his release, and for fear that he might again be placed behind the bars as the prison he left the city in a hurry.

Record Broken.

The steamer William Edenborn has again broken her hitherto unbroken record, having made the trip of the Duluth Missabe & Northern docks at Duluth in 27 hrs. 20 mins. The cargo record was 7,779 gross or 8,606 net tons. The Edenborn is one of the Pittsburg Steamship company boats, which company is the vessel division of the steel corporation. Her cargo is equal to about 220,000 bushels of wheat.

Fishing with Dynamite.

Dynamite has been used extensively this summer by unscrupulous market fishermen in the northern Minnesota lakes, which stocked with pike and bass lakes have been cleaned out by exploding charges beneath the water. This kills the fish and brings them all to the surface, where they are scooped into the boats. The game wardens have been on the trail of offenders, and at last a conviction has been reported, where a dynamiter was fined $15 and costs.

News Notes.

Numerous grafters got in their work with the Sells & Downs shows at St. Cloud. One man took $300.

The Twin City Investment and Realty Company of St. Paul filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state.

Martin Mohn, plasterer employed in the Harmonia building, Minneapolis, was killed by being caught between the elevator and one of the floors. He was dead when found.

Mankato now has a bathhouse in operation, the council having had a large one built on the Minnesota river near Sibley park.

Distemper, a disease dreaded as much by owners of blooded dogs as is consumption by human beings, is now prevalent in St. Paul, and the cases that have developed are of marked severity. Many fine hunters have succumbed to the disease, and specimens of the city are keeping a careful watch over their dogs.

The Street Fair association' hne undertaken to co-operate with Mrs. Caroline D. Shaw of St. Paul, superintendent of the Minnesota agricultural exhibit at the St. Louis World's Fair, to secure a fine display of Winona county grains and grasses at that fair.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN;

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD;"

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVER VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL, and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next five years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not invest and have that to your own benefit?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fenced and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well settled community, where churches and schools are built and well patronized. These will be sold in "chunks" at a price that will surprise you. Only $3.00 cash will handle this tract. Balance can be paid on time to suit at 6 per cent. A live investor can make a few dollars and on this tract in a short time. If interested write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

JOURNEY'S END.

I hailed in the chill light of the morning
And saw your town all still across the plain;
Your white town with green of hills adorning,
The fair white town unwakened with the day.
And first a mariner's awe, tired of your nearness,
I doubt not, bade me, fast upon the shore;
Until, with firm and fast-increasing clearness,
The sun aroused the world to life once more.

Then, and my glance along the dusty highway
And scanned each shining cottage on the street,
Down every tiny lane and dewy byway
To where the terraced slopes and wastes retreat,
And suddenly I knew that I, the vagrant,
Had found as finds the homing bird his nest,
Thy dwelling clad with vines and blossom-fragrant,
The end of all my long and eager quest.

Dear one, I feel no vague, half-startled wonder
If 'tis some magic tells me your abode;
Full well I know it was no fairy wanderer
Led my faint steps so straightly on the road.

Then cheer, warm heart! Cry hail the journey's ending!
To take a step the pilgrim now must trace;
Yet when all earth, all sky, all beauty blending
In one rare woof of home-dear one, thy face!

—James Owen Tryon, in Good Housekeeping.

OTHERS only gives utterance to the thoughts of the thousands.

NOT that it makes any difference—but what has become of Captain Hobson.

CARTER HARRISON, like some of the rest of us, has decided to wait for the presidency.

THE St. Peter Herald alleges that love is an excuse for marriage, but that money is the justification.

IT is all right to train young men for office-holding, but how in the world is the trained young man to get the office?

THE Worthington Globe is anticipating. It says: "The next Republican state convention will be an interesting gathering."

THE only art treasures the average citizen covets are the fine engraved portraits of American statesmen to be found on greenbacks.

STATE PRESIDENT DAHL knows what he is talking about when he says: "When it comes to discussing where campaign funds come from the less said the better."

JOSH WISE makes the statement that we would be a mighty respectable lot of people if we were only as much ashamed of some things before we do them as afterwards.

NEITHER John Lind nor Bob Dunn are on the state board of equalization this year, and the Twin City Street Railway company and the lumber barons "have hopes."

THE Beltrami County Bugle, published at the new town of Funkley, is the latest candidate for journalistic favor. H. P. King, formerly of the Mahnomah Tribune, is the publisher.

THE editor of the Fisher Bulletin extends greetings to President Roosevelt. The plath one arrived at his house last week. The Bulletin man ought to be in line for the postoffice.

THE concensus of the Minnesota press is that Governor Van Sant is a candidate for a third term. However, he is finding little encouragement outside of the select circle of jobholders.

WHEN a young man attempts to kiss a girl, observes the bald-headed old codger in charge of the Adrian Democrat, she usually threatens to call for help, but the young man doesn't need any help.

ARMY officers are after the scalp of Gen. Wood. The trouble is that the General does things like a business man and does not waste valuable time on red tape. This is against the rules of the game.

EDITOR RUANE, of the Slayton Gazette, is rather late with his injunction to the young ladies to refrain from wearing white dresses when taking evening strolls in the shady lanes. The dear girls found this out long ago.

THE country newspaper boys rebel against the time-honored custom of sending the United States senators as delegates-at-large to the national convention. Well, boys, the Democrats never did get into this habit in Minnesota.

FRANK EDDY is said to be in favor of Canadian reciprocity. It is also said that Frank is more interested in Canada than the United States, and if his congressional record is to be made a criterion it will be easy to agree with the statement.

THEY are talking of Charlie Towne for the Democratic candidate for president next year. If the East is satisfied with Mr. Towne the West certainly ought to be. There could be many worse presidents than the whilom Minnesotan, and few better.

THE call for 18,000 men by the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroads is evidence of agricultural prosperity in the great northwest. Harvesting is done largely by machinery, but the grain-raising section of the northwest is so fertile that it annually requires an army of men in addition.

IT may not be generally known that under a late law the office of the judge of probate is made the depository of wills for safe keeping, and that official is required by law to enter them in a book provided for that purpose and give to the party depositing the same a receipt that the same has been deposited in his office.

THE Louisiana supreme court has affirmed the constitutionality of an act passed by the legislature at the last session which provides for the punishment with imprisonment at hard labor of men who desert their wives or fail to support their wives and children. Their ought to be no question about the constitutionality of a law of this kind.

WALL STREET has been decidedly panicky during the past week, and several important brokers have been driven to the wall. While it is thought improbable that the country at large will be seriously effected it is generally conceded that money is going to be tight for several months. At The West, however, is no longer the mercy of the Eastern money lenders.

THE Glenwood Herald rises to remark that Frank Eddy expressed himself pretty strongly against the "stand-patters" in his Fourth of July speech, and the Princeton Union adds: "Mr. Eddy represented the seventh district in congress for four consecutive terms, and he never once expressed himself strongly or mildly as he did at Dodge Center on the Fourth.

A CURIOUS ceremony attendant on the death of a Pope is the manner in which it is officially ascertained that he is no longer of the living. One of the highest dignitaries of the Vatican goes to the bedside and with a small gold mallet kept solely for this purpose taps three times upon the forehead of the Pope, with each blow calling upon him by his baptismal name: "Giacomo Pecci! Giacomo Pecci! Giacomo Pecci! Art thou alive?" Then and not till then the Pope is officially dead.

BELTRAMI county would appear to offer a fertile field for the operations of a political reformer. A Bemidji doctor has been appointed chairman of the county board of health at a salary of $1,800. In addition the doctor holds the position of county physician at an additional salary of $2,100. As the tax levy for county expenses is $62,000, it is apparent that this sort of "graft" is of common occurrence.

THE irrepressible optimist, Senator Lodge, is perfectly certain that if the postal scandals are to have any effect whatever upon the fortunes of the Republican party it can only be favorable. With regard to this statement the New York Evening Post remarks: "That great organization has, we already know, usurped the functions of Providence in the matter of crops and full dinner pails, and it would now seem that even its sins redound to its advantage."

THE Office Blotter has this to say with regard to a well-known citizen of the state: "Former State Auditor R. C. Dunn has removed with his family to his old home at Princeton. Probably this action is taken to evade the politicians or slate-makers. However, Bob has so many political admirers who are anxious to see him at the head of the ticket in 1904 that the dense forests of Mille Lacs county won't prevent them from finding him. It is cheerfully conceded by the politicians at home and in Washington that Dunn is the strongest candidate the party has got."

THE Commercial West in an article on "Why Farm Land Values Keep Advancing," says: "Discerns a disagreeable puzzle with Wall Street how western farm lands could keep on increasing in value during the very same period in which stocks have been gradually breaking downward. The reason is plain enough. There is no water as yet in western farm lands. The Commercial West further says that lands in the northwest have shown a great appreciation, yet in many localities they are still cheap. It says: "The northwestward movement in the northwest is an adjustment movement, the same as water seeking its level. There has been too great a disparity in the selling value of lands that intrinsically are worth the same. It is only in obedience to a natural law that the selling value of the cheaper lands in the northwest continues to rise."

AUSTIN has a grocer who is a thorough believer in printers' ink and loyalty to home dealers. In a recent issue of the Register he devoted his advertisiag space to a short talk on "Home Tradiag." He said:

"Are we consistent? Do we reclaimers have our printing done by Austin printers? Do we all urge our wives to buy Austin flour and lard and meats? Do we bankers and lawyers and merchants turn down the traveling shirtmakers and give our orders to Austin clothiers and furnishers? Do we mechanics, workers and clerks buy all we can of Austin merchants who help support the city and make it possible for us to earn wages and salaries? Or do we allow our wives to send our money to Chicago and other cities for household supplies? Do we farmers turn the deaf ear to canvassers from the cities, and the blind eye on catalogue houses and buy what we can of Austin merchants who help pay our county taxes, and whose business enterprise holds up a city near us, giving us the best market in the Northwest for our farm produce?—McBride, the Grocer.

THE Chicago Chronicle (Dem.) does not believe that there is any truth in the reported retirement of Mr. Hanna. Some years ago "it would have sounded probable," the Chronicle says, but "since the accession of Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Hanna has only once assayed opposition that attempt was so completeto a defeat that he is not likely to repeat the experiment. When he failed to choice of an endorsement of the president in the Ohio state convention it was conclusive evidence that he was no longer a Warwick—no longer a maker and unmaker of presidents. The politician who can not swing his statecan not dominate thenation. Mr. Hanna knows it and knowing it he is not likely to be convertiag all his resources into immediately available assets with a view to entering the political arena. Whatever ambitions thegentlemen from Cuyahoga may have cherished he must have abandoned them when his party turned from him to run after Roosevelt."

THE DIVORCE QUESTION.

In a lengthy communication to the Grafton News and Times, Maj. W. W. Cooley writes entertainingly and instructively of the evils of and remedies for the divorce habit. We regret that lack of space prevents reproduction of the entire article. However, Maj. Cooley's summing up of the subject is so good that we need make no apology for reprinting it:

In conclusion, "an ounce of prevention." Begin at the birth of your children, teach them to be truthful, honorable, just and kind; inculcate high ideas of living, speaking and thinking. Teach them to respect the rights of others; to be unselfish, and thoughtful of others' comfort and happiness. All this must be accomplished before the child is 3 years from the cities, and the blind eye on catalogue houses and buy what we can of Austin merchants who help pay our county taxes, and whose business enterprise holds up a city near us, giving us the best market in the Northwest for our farm produce?—McBride, the Grocer.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA

NOTES IN MINOR CHORD.

The Johnnie Pringle Comedy company passed through Red Lake Falls yesterday enroute from Thief River Falls to Fertile.

A ball game was played between the St. Hilaire and Thief River nines at the latter place Sunday, the score being 9 to 4 in favor of Thief River.

The county commissioners will hold a special meeting Friday to pass resolutions necessary in making application for a state loan on ditch bonds.

The well-known Populist politician, D. P. O'Neill, passed through the city yesterday on his way from Thief River Falls to his Norman county farm.

Charles and Miss Helen Andrews, who have been guests of their cousin, T. E. Tenney, for about ten days, returned Saturday to their home at Ada.

Mrs. J. C. Engerman arrived home from Redwood Falls yesterday morning. She was called to that place several weeks ago by the death of her mother.

The little daughter of Eugene Gaudette died Saturday evening after an illness of six weeks. The funeral was held from St. Joseph's Sunday morning.

Joseph M. Anderson, teller in the St. Paul Savings Bank, is here on a visit to his brothers, A. M. and H. W. He excepts to remain for a week or ten days.

J. W. O'Brien and wife, of Crookston, and Miss Nannie Brennan, of Chicago, arrived yesterday for a brief visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. O'Brien.

Mrs. E. E. Fletcher went to Crookston Saturday evening to visit over Sunday with her daughter, Miss Lydia, who is one of the instructors in the summer school at that place.

Teachers' examinations will be held at the high school building in Red Lake Falls next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The program is published elsewhere in this issue.

Mosquitoes are more numerous this season than they have been for several years. As the past several months have been unusually dry, the phenomenon cannot be accounted for.

Next week is the county fair at Thief River Falls. It is said that the attractions this year are to be exceptionally good, and the southern part of the county ought to be well represented.

Mrs. P. B. Newton and daughter, Miss Alice, left Thursday evening for Spokane, Wash., where they expect to make their home. Mr. Newton accompanied them as far as Grand Forks.

Mrs. H. J. Kaufer left last Thursday evening for St. Paul, where she will visit friends and relatives for a couple of weeks. She will also go to LeSueur and Arlington before returning home.

Bert Dantremont left Saturday for Duluth to visit over Sunday. He goes from there to Minneapolis and Adrian for a short stay with friends before leaving for his home at Missoula, Mont.

L. R. Barto, of Sauk Centre, claim agent for the Great Northern, was in town Tuesday looking after business matters for his company. He is a son of the late ex-Governor Barto, of St. Cloud.

Messrs. and Mesdames Frank E. Hunt and A. M. Anderson, Dr. J. E. Argue and H. W. Anderson and Misses Bessie Hunt and Rose Dantremont were among the visitors to Maple Lake Sunday.

On account of the excursion next Tuesday to Thief River Falls fair the ladies of St. Mary's church will meet Wednesday afternoon, August 5, with Mrs. Joseph Helm. A full attendance is desired.

James I. Wyer left Saturday evening for his home at Excelsior after a short business visit to this place. He was accompanied home by Miss Etta Garceau, who will visit with the Wyers for several weeks.

A party of eight ladies in the employ of the Calumet Baking Powder company were in the city several days of this week. They called on the ladies to demonstrate the superiority of their baking powder.

M. O. Sortedahl left Monday evening for the Southern part of the state, where he expects to interest some of the farmers of that section in Red Lake county lands. He will be gone for a week or ten days.

J. D. Hall was up from Fergus Falls this week to make arrangements for the erection of a set of buildings on his farm in section 36, Louisville township. The lumber is being hauled from the Robertson yards.

Services will be held as usual at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning and evening. The repairs on the building are about completed. The furnace has been ordered and will be installed before cold weather comes.

Mrs. Daniel Shaw writes that if any of the pupils in the public schools wish to make an exhibit of the school work at the county fair they can send the material to her and she will see that it is placed on exhibition.

William Schwalen and wife left yesterday for Fargo, where they will attend the carnival and visit Mr. Schwalen's brother for a few days. They will also go to Balmoral, Minn., for a visit before returning home.

The familiar countenance of Conductor Lockman was noticed on our streets Saturday. He was in charge of the Great Northern caboose-ball that day. Mr. Lockman's regular run is now between St. Vincent and Fargo.

Berthon & Armstrong have recei-ved a complete store of the celebrated "Wallover" shoes for men this week. This is one of the best line of shoes manufactured, and the goods are sure to give satisfaction to the customers of this house.

Louis Matthews, of Terrehonne, returned Friday evening from an extended visit with friends and relatives at Hancock, Mich. This was Mr. Matthews' first trip to his old home since he came to Red Lake county more than twenty years ago.

W. H. Amos of St. Hilaire has decided to study for the ministry of the Presbyterian church. He will begin his studies at Macalaster college this fall, and after two or three years of preparatory studies, will take a regular three years' course as a theological seminary.

It is rumored that a deputy game warden is to be in this vicinity in a few days, and it would be well for the enthusiastic sportsmen who fail to remember the date of the opening of the chicken season be on the watch for him. Already reports are coming in that chickens are being killed.

P. J. Parker, accompanied by his wife and daughter, Miss Florence, were up from Marshall Friday and Saturday on a visit to the home of Ed. L. Healy. Mr. Parker's brother from New York was also here, and like all Eastern people, was greatly impressed with Red Lake county as a desirable agricultural region.

The Red Lake Falls band has ordered uniforms, and the boys expect to make their first appearance in the new toggery within a week or ten days. We are all proud of the band, and it is a satisfaction to know that the organization is steadily improving under the tutorship of Prof. Onstad.

Mr. Dahl and a party of his Socialist co-workers were here Sunday from St. Hilaire conferring with local Socialists. It was decided to call a general meeting of all the Socialists of the county at St. Hilaire September 5 for the purpose of forming a Socialist organization and getting ready for political activity in the county.

Ed Chase, the alleged hypnotist from Fertile, who gave a performance in Red Lake Falls last winter, attempted to commit suicide by hanging Monday. The deed was prompted by an unfortunate love affair in which it seems Mr. Chase was not swift enough to prevent another young fellow from getting the inside track. It was the irony of fate that the rival for the fair damsel's hand was on hand to prevent the consummation of Chase's plans.

J. C. Engerman, who has been in charge of the local office for Edwards, Wood & Co., for the past three months, expects to leave in a few days for Cando, N. D., where he will open an office for the company. The office at this place will hereafter be in charge of M. A. Hatten. Mr. Engerman has made many friends during his stay in Red Lake Falls and it is the general wish that he will like his new location and do a good business.

It is poor policy to send away from home for your goods of any kind. You are simply sending away the money you should leave in your town. If there is a small profit to be made on an article let your own merchant make it, and not some eastern mail order house who may sell you the same article cheaper, but who makes just as much profit by giving you an inferior quality. If you believe in protection you should practice it at home.—Ex.

Joseph Goulet, senior, living in the Klondike addition, died very suddenly Saturday evening. He had been ailing for a few days, but it was not thought that there was anything serious the matter with him. While going upstairs to retire for the night he fell dead on the steps. Mr. Goulet was a little more than fifty years of age and leaves a wife and six grown children. The funeral took place Tuesday morning from St. Joseph's church.

An exchange very sensibly remarks that every person if not already clearly informed on the subject, should know that the proper way to discontinue a newspaper is to settle all arrearages on subscription. This is notonly the legitimate way, but it is the honest and manly way. No one who desires to do the square thing will refuse to accept a paper at the postoffice unless all arrearages or subscription have been paid in full, and very few people do.

Frank Jeffers is in receipt of a telegram from E. R. Perkins, vice president of the New York Life Insurance company, that he is one of the leaders on the number of new applications for June. Out of 8,000 agents the company selects 100 each month as leaders, which certainly makes a fine showing for Frank. Mr. Jeffers is also one of the winners in the March and April contest, which also includes a hundred agents out of the total number employed.

Roseau county is in the throes of a fight for the county seat. Senator George W. Somerville is attorney for the town of Badger, which seeks to capture the county seat from the town of Roseau. Badger has filed a petition for a special election, and Roseau has secured an injunction restraining the county commissioners from calling an election. The case comes on for a hearing July 27, before ex-Senator Grindeland, the newly appointed judge of that district.

We desire to call special attention to the change in Edwards, Wood & Co.'s "ad" in this week's edition. They have prepared with great care and expense a little book entitled "Twenty and One Specials," which they would be pleased to supply free of all cost through their local office or direct from their main office. The book contains much valuable information regarding twenty-one of the best stocks, bonds and gilt-edge securities issued, and will be of especial interest to investors.

The people of Thief River Falls are plotturing all sorts of success for their county fair, which will be held August 5, 6 and 7 at thatplace. A large list of prizes for live stock and garden produce has been arranged, and the exhibits will befull to the brim with the best of the Red Lake county products. A race in which some very speedy horses will be entered, will add ginger to the affair, while balloon ascensions, side shows and industrial exhibits will prove interesting to the farmers in attendance. Several prominent speakers have been invited to attend, and they will address the assembled crowds on various topics. An excursion trip to Red Lake will be a prominent feature, and it is expected the steamer will go up the Red river evening, weather being fair and the moon shining. Excursions to the fair will be run over the Great Northern.

By A. CONAN DOYLE.

A Detective Story that is Unsurpassed.

He stopped and held out his manacled hands for the whisky and water which Holmes had brewed for him. For myself, I confess that I had now conceived the utmost horror of the man, not only for the cold-blooded business in which he had been concerned, but even more for the somewhat flippant and careless way in which he narrated it. His callous unconcern was in store for him, I felt that he might expect no sympathy from me. Sherlock Holmes and Jones sat with their hands upon their knees, deeply interested in the story, but with the same disgust written upon their faces. He may have observed it, for there was a touch of defiance in his voice and manner all the same.

"It was all very bad, no doubt," said he, "but I should like to know how many fellows in my shoes would have refused a share of this loot when they knew that they would have their throats cut for their pains. Besides, it was my life or his with us. I tell you it was in the fort. If he had got out, the whole business would have come to light, and I should have been court-martialled and shot as likely as not, for people were not very lenient at a time like that."

"Go on with your story," said Holmes, shortly.

"Well, we carried him in, Abdullah, Akbar and I. A fine weight he was, too, for all that he was so short. Mr. Somerset Singh was left in charge of the door. We took him to a place which the Sikhs had already prepared. It was some distance off, where a winding pas has made a great empty hull. In the brick walls of which are all crumbling to pieces. The only door had sunk in at one place, making a natural grave so we left Achmet the merchant there having first covered him over with loose bricks. This done, we all went back to the treasure.

"It lay where he had dropped it when he was first attacked. The box was the same which now lies open upon your table. A key was hung by a silken cord to the handle which dangled upon the top. We opened it, and the light of the lantern gleamed upon a collection of gems such as I have read of and thought about when I was a little lad at Pershore. It was blinding to look upon them. When we had feasted our eyes we took them all out and made a list of them. There were one hundred and forty-three diamonds of the finest water, including one which has been called, I believe, 'the Great Mogul,' and is said to be the second largest stone in existence. Then there were ninety-seven very fine emeralds, and one hundred and seventy rubies, some of which, however, were small. There were forty carbuncles, two hundred and ten sapphires, sixty-one onyx and a great quantity of beryls, turquoise, cats'-eyes, tarquoises and other stones, the very names of which I did not know at the time, though I have since become familiar with them since. Besides this, there were nearly three hundred very fine pearls, and the gold work we set in a gold coronet. By the way, three-fourths of this came loose when we lit would amuse simpleton, and there were no pleases in the fort nor any place where we could keep them. We carried the box, therefore, down the same hall where we had buried the body, and there in the light of the lantern in the best-preserved hall, we made a hollow and put our treasure. We made a rough plan of the position of each step and threw four pikes into for each of us, and put in the sign of the sun at the bottom, for we had sworn that we should each always set for all, so that none might take advantage. That is an oath that I can put my hand to my Bible and make myself scarce over the frontier. A flying column under Colonel Greathead came round to Agra and cleared the Pandies round about it. Peace seemed to be settling upon the country, and we four were beginning to hope that the time was at hand when we might safely go off with our shares of the plunder. In a month or however, our hopes were shattered by our being arrested as the perpetrators of Achmet.

"It came about in this way: When the rajah put his jewels into the hands of Achmet he did it because he knew that he was a trusty man. They are suspicious folk in the east, however; so what does this rajah do but take a second even more trusty servant and set him to play the spy upon the first. This second man was ordered never to let Achmet out of his sight and to follow him like his shadow. He went after him that night, and saw him pass through the doorway. Of course he thought he had taken refuge in the fort, and applied for admission there himself next day, but could find no trace of Achmet. This seemed to him so strange that he spoke about it to a sergeant of guides, who brought it to the ears of the commandant. A thorough search was quickly made, and the body was discovered. Thus at the very moment that we thought that all was safe we were all four seized and brought to trial on a charge of murder—three of us on board of a ship and the gate that night, and the fourth because he was known to have been in company of the murdered man. Not a word about the jewels came out at the trial, for the rajah had been deposed and driven out of India; so no one had any particular interest in the affair. The murder, however, was clearly made out, and it was certain that we must all have been concerned in it. The three Sikhs got penal servitude for life, and I was condemned to death, though my sentence was afterward commuted into the same as the others.

"It was rather a queer position that we found ourselves in then. There we were, all four tied by the leg and with precious little chance of ever getting out again, while we each held a secret which might have put each of us in a palace if we could only have made use of it. It was enough to make a man eat his heart out to have to stand the kick and the cuff of every petty jack in office, to have rice to eat and water to drink, when that gorgeous fortune was ready for him outside, just waiting to be picked up. It might have driven me mad; but I was always a pretty stubborn one, so I just held on and toiled my time.

"At last it seemed to me to have come. I was changed from Agra to Madras, and from there to Blair Island in the Andamans. There are very few white convicts at this settlement, and as I had behaved myself from the first, I soon found myself a sort of privileged person. I was given a hut in Hope town, which is a small place on the slopes of Mount Harriet, and I was left pretty much to myself. It is a dreary, forever-stricken place, and all beyond our little clearings was infested with wild cannibal natives, who were ready enough to blow a poisoned dart at us if they saw a chance. There was digging, and ditching, and yam-planting, and a dozen other things to be done, so we were busy enough all day, though in the evening we had a little time to ourselves. Among other things, I learned to dispense drugs for the surgeon, and picked up a smattering of his knowledge. All the time I was on the look-out for a chance of escape; but it is hundreds of miles from any other land, and there is little or no wind in those seas, so it was a terribly difficult job to get away.

"The surgeon, Dr. Somerton, was a stout, sporting young chap, and the other young officers would meet in his rooms of an evening and play cards. The surgery, where I used to make up my drugs, was next to his sitting-room, with a small window between us. Often, if I felt lonesome, I used to turn out the lamp in the surgery, and listen, standing there, I could hear their talk and watch the play. I am fond of a hand at cards myself, and it was almost as good as having one to watch the others. There was Maj. Sholto, Capt. Morstan and Lieut. Bromley Brown, who were in command of the native troops, and there was the surgeon himself, and sometimes three prison officials, crafty old hands who played a wise sly stiff game. A very snug little party they used to make.

"Well, there was one thing which very soon struck me, and that was that soldiers and sailors are just children. Absolutely simple. Mind, I don't say that there was anything unfair, but so it was. Those prison chaps had done little else than play cards ever since they had been at the Andamans, and they knew each other's game to a T, and while the others just played to pass the time and thought their cards down anyhow. Night after night the soldiers got poorer and poorer, and the poorer they got the more keen they were to play. Maj. Sholto was the hardest hit. He used to pay in notes and gold at first, but soon it came to notes of hand and I.O.U.'s. He seemed to have unlimited credit, and he was bound to give him heart, and then the luck would set in against him worse than ever. All day he would wander about as black as thunder, and he took to drinking a deal more than was good for him.

"One night he lost even more heavily than usual. I was sitting in my hut when he had left. Capt. Morstan came stumbling down on his way to his own quarters. They were bosom friends, these two, and never far apart. The major was raving about his losses.

"'It's all up, Morstan,' he was saying, as they passed my hut. 'I shall have to send in my papers. I am a ruined man.'

"'Nonsense, old chap!' said the other, slapping him upon the shoulder. 'I've had a nasty taser myself, but—That was all I could hear, but it was enough to set me thinking.

"A couple of days later Maj. Sholto was strolling on the beach; so I took a chance of speaking to him.

"'I wish to have your advice, major,' said I.

"'Well, small, what is it?' he said, taking his cheroot from his lips.

"'I wanted to ask you, sir,' said I, 'who is the proper person to whom hidden treasure should be handed over.

"I know where half a million worth lies, and, as I cannot use it myself, I thought perhaps the best thing that I could do would be to hand it over to the proper authorities, and then perhaps they would get my sentence shortened for me.'

"'Half a million, Small!' he gasped, looking hard at me to see if I was in earnest.

"'Quite that, sir—in jewels and pearls. It lies there ready for anyone. And the queer thing about it is that the real owner is outlawed and cannot hold property, so that it belongs to the first comer.'

"'To government, Small,' he stammered—'to government.' But he said it in a halting fashion, and I knew in my heart that I had got him.

"'You think then, sir, that I should give the information to the governor general?' I said, quietly.

"'Well, well, you must not do anything rash, or that you might repent. Let me hear all about it, Small. Give me the facts.'

"I told him the whole story, with small changes so that he could not identify the place. When I had finished he stood stock still and full of thought. I could see by the twitch of his lip that there was a struggle going on within him.

"I WISH TO HAVE YOUR ADVICE, MAJOR."

"'This is a very important matter, Small,' he said, at last. 'You must not say a word to anyone about it—not even Morstan. I will see you again soon.'

"Soon it was later by a good deal than I had expected, for it was not for a week that Capt. Morstan came to my hut in the dead of the night with a lantern.

"'I want you back at the major's,' Morstan hear that story from your own lips,' said he, curtly.

"I repeated it as I had told it before.

"'Great Scott!' he cried, 'he's good enough to act upon?'

"'I should think so.'

"'Look here, Small,' said the major. 'We have been talking it over, my friend here and I, and we have come to the conclusion that this secret of yours is merely a government matter, after all, but is a private concern of your own, which of course you have the power of disposing of as you think best. Now, the question is, what price will content you?'

"I repeated it as I had told it before.

"'It may come, sir,' said he, 'it

Sun

Stroke Shattered My Nerves.

Gave Up Preaching For Two Years.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Put Me On Active List.

Are you well? Do you sleep well? Do you get up rested, fresh and vigorous? Is your mind clear and active? If not read the following. See what another has suffered and how he recovered.

"Some years ago I was afflicted with sun stroke which left my entire shattered system in a condition exceedingly poor health. I suffered terribly with pain in my head, the top of my head would feel hot, my brain felt cloudy, and after striving for two years to wear the trouble off, I was compelled to give up my pastoral labor and retire to my farm where I spent nearly two years trying to recuperate. It was all of no avail. Physicians' bills and patent medicines failed to relieve me. I was exceedingly nervous and irritable and my condition was quite terrible. I could not bear any noise, and the least excitement the blood would rush to my head and head. Two years ago I was induced to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. After using one bottle I could see improvement in my condition so I continued taking it for nearly a year. I am happy to say I no longer have those pains in my head or nervousness. My appetite is good and I am able to preach three times on Sunday without fatigue. I consider Dr. Miles' Nervine the most wonderful medicine ever discovered."—Rev. D. Alex. Holman, Prior U. B. Easy Pill

Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due to the fact that they tonic the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe nor sicken, not even the most delicate lady, and what pills are so certain in results that no one who uses them is disappointed. They cure torpid liver, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, headache, malaria and ward off pneumonia and fevers.

EARLY RISERS

KILLED BY A MOB.

Danville (Ill.) People Lynch and Burn a Negro Murderer—Prompt Reach the City.

Danville, Ill., July 27.—A bloody mob riot raged in Danville all Saturday night. Henry Gatterman, a white man, has been killed and a negro, J. D. Mayfield from Evansville, Ind., has been lynched by a mob of enraged white citizens and his body removed in sight of thousands of people who thronged the streets.

A mob surrounding the jail clamoring for the life of another negro, Alexander Winston, was fired on by the sheriff and his deputies and three persons were badly wounded.

Four companies of the Seventh Illinois Infantry arrived yesterday morning from Camp Lincoln at Springfield under command of Lieut. Col. Chesbro and has thrown a strong guard about the jail and no one is allowed within a block of the structure in which James Wilson, the negro who attacked Mrs. Burgess, is confined.

Adam Murray, who was fatally wounded in the attack on the jail Saturday night, is a popular citizen of the mining town of Westville. The total number of wounded is 22. The police station is wrecked and the country jail badly damaged.

A FIGHTING PARSON.

Kentucky Minister Kills One Man and Wounds Another During a Quarrel.

Middlesboro, Ky., July 31.—After killing one man and fatally wounding another, Robert Lee, a minister of Lineville, in Casey county, had grace at the jail table in Liberty. Lee became involved in a quarrel with Billy Woods and the latter's son and the shooting followed, in which the preacher proved himself more than a match for both of his opponents, for he succeeded in killing Woods and fatally wounded his son. Lee was then arrested and taken to the jail at Liberty, where he peacefully returned thanks at the table with the other prisoners.

Due to an Open Switch.

Peoria, Ill., July 27.—The Santa Fe limited, No. 5, out of Chicago, for the west, was wrecked at the crossing of the Rock Island near Princeville Saturday night. The accident resulted from an open switch. Engineer Ed O'Brien and Fireman Charles Vogel, both of Ft. Madison, Ia., were instantly killed. Express Messenger R. L. Bedway and his assistant, Ed Parshall, both of Chicago, sustained minor injuries.

A Bad Fire.

Racine, Wis., July 23.—For three hours Wednesday afternoon the plant of the Mammoth J. I. Case Machine company, valued at $3,000,000, was in danger of total destruction, caused by an explosion in the paint shop, which occupies part of a building covering nearly a block. At two p. m. the fire was brought under control, with the loss estimated at between $100,000 and $125,000, fully insured. It will be rebuilt at once.

Price of Coal Increased.

Kansas City, July 31.—Because of an increase of about seven cents a ton in the wages paid coal miners of the southwest the operators have, it is stated, decided to increase the cost of coal to consumers from 50 cents to one dollar a ton. The increase will apply to all kinds of coal used by householders and small manufacturing plants, and it is probable that before winter sets in there will be a further increase in the prices.

Sail for Home.

London, July 27.—The American rifle team left for Liverpool Saturday morning. They were given an enthusiastic send-off. Maj. Gen. Sir Charles Clesbesmore, chairman of the council of the National Rifle association, made the farewell speech, and Col. Leslie C. Bruce, captain of the American team, replied, thanking Lord Chesbesmore for the cordial reception accorded to the American here.

Official Removed.

Washington, July 23.—Charles Hedges has been removed from the office of superintendent of free delivery of the post office department on the charge of falsifying his diary and leaving his traveling commission. It is charged that he reported himself at various places when in fact he was not at those places on the dates mentioned, in some instances being hundreds of miles away.

Ground to Pieces.

Oskaloosa, Ia., July 30.—John Carr, Jones, a well-known resident of Beaver, southwest of this city, was hit by a Rock Island train in Oskaloosa yards Thursday night. The body, which was not discovered until Friday morning, was mashed to a jelly and cut into small pieces.

Died Suddenly.

New York, July 24.—Frederick W. Holls, secretary of the American delegation to The Hague peace conference, and more recently member of the international court, died suddenly early Thursday at his home at Yonkers. Mr. Holls died of heart failure.

To Have Rural Delivery.

Bloomington, Ill., July 25.—County rural free delivery in McLean county has been ordered to commence September 25. The service will be the most extensive of any one county in the United States. There will be 79 separate routes.

Rural Police Established Dead.

Chicago, July 25.—Police Inspector John D. Shea died at his home, 2156 Wabash avenue, at 9:15 o'clock last evening.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's catarrh cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's catarrh cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, O. Catarrh of the Stomach.

When the stomach is overloaded when food is taken into it that fails to digest, it decays and inflames the mucous membrane, exposing the nerves and causing the glands to secret mucin, instead of the natural juices of digestion. This is called catarrh of the stomach. For years I suffered from catarrh of the stomach, caused by indigestion. Doctors and medicines failed to benefit me until I used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure.—L. R. Rhea, Coppell, Tex. Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

A Surgical Operation

is always dangerous—do not submit to the surgeon's knife until you have tried DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It will cure when everything else fails. It has done this in thousands of cases. Here is one of them: I suffered from bleeding and protruding piles for 20 years. Was treated by different specialists and used many remedies, but obtained no relief until I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel salve. Two boxes of this salve cured me in 3 months and I have not had a touch of the piles since.—H. A. Tisdale, Sumerton, S. C. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy can equal DeWitt's Witch Hazel salve. Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

Postmaster's Smiles

The following from an exchange will no doubt be appreciated by many postoffice patrons and especially by postoffice employees:

When you open your letters be sure and tear your envelopes into fine bits of paper and throw them on the floor. The postmaster likes to sweep up paper.

If the postmaster is not at the window when you call for mail be sure and rattle it so he will come at once. He has nothing else to do and even if he is busy at another window it will make him hurry to wait on you.

If the letter or paper you expected is not there, the postmaster has surely misplaced it and it is your duty to see that he finds it.

If the general delivery windows are not open, kindly ask the postmaster to give you your mail. He likes to accommodate the public before the time to open.

If the train is late, it is the postmaster's fault for not putting out the mail quicker and it is the public's duty to proclaim his slowness even if the mail is heavy.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

NEW MILL COMPANY FOR RED LAKE FALLS.

Leo Steinert and C. F. Johnson Interested in the Organization of a Big Concern.

The Northern Minnesota Milling company was organized this week, and the managers have leased the Ed. L. Healy mill for a period of years. The active members of the company are Leo Steinert and C. F. Johnson, both well known to Red Lake county people, and both of whom are practical millers of long experience. Mr. Steinert is the president, and he will have charge of the operating and mechanical departments, a work for which he is peculiarly fitted by his extensive experience in that line. C. F. Johnson, until recently manager of the Red Lake Falls Milling company, will be the secretary of the new company, and have charge of the sales department. Mr. Johnson has a large personal acquaintance with the flour buyers both in this country and Europe. He has been a grain man and mill manager all his life, and is well informed in all the branches of the business.

The mill is being overhauled this week by expert mill engineers from Minneapolis, and new and improved machinery will be added to bring the capacity of the plant up to 500 barrels daily. When these improvements are completed this will be one of the largest and best equipped mills in the state. No money will be spared to bring it up to the very highest standard. The plant will be run day and night, and it will require about fifteen men to operate it. This will mean considerable to the business interests of the city.

The company also expects to lease from eight to ten elevators along the line of the Northern Pacific, and will buy their wheat direct from the farmers, thus giving them a supply of No. 1 Red River valley bard wheat to meet all demands.

The milling plant is electric-lighted and steam-heated. The power is furnished by the third largest water power in the state of Minnesota.

Red Lake Falls is to be congratulated upon securing this new enterprise, and as there is plenty of capital and ability back of it there is every reason to believe that the milling company will have a prosperous career.

FAVORABLE FOR WHEAT.

Rains and Cool Weather—Conditions in Red River Valley.

The Minnesota climate and crop service bulletin, issued by the weather bureau, summarizes conditions for the past week as follows:

The rains and cool weather have been very favorable for the wheat and oats which are still green, and the grain is said to be filling well.

In the Red River valley the wheat on summer fallowed land is good, but that on fall and spring plowed land is generally poor; some pieces of early wheat have been cut at scattered points as far north as Wilkin and Otter tail counties, a good many fields were begun on the 5th. In southern and some central counties blight or rust is affecting both wheat and oats, and many fields will probably be cut early before the weakened stalks has fallen much. Most of the barley crop is cut, and a good deal of it has been stacked; in the southeast the crop is a good one. Considerable rye and barley have been threshed. Oats cutting is general in all parts of the state; as with wheat and barley the crop is uneven as to quality. Flax seems to have withstood the trying weather conditions in both the dry north and wet south very well, and where it was seeded in good time, and not drowned out, the crop is good; some flax has already been cut. The wild hay meadows in southwestern counties are still too wet for gathering the crop. Timothy for seed is being cut, and the second crop of clover promises a good seed crop. Corn is in tassel, but the cold nights are keeping it backward.

Miss Bertha P. Norby, Detroit, fourth and fifth grades.

WILL GET HOMESTEAD.

A Land Case of Considerable Local Interest.

Duluth News-Tribune: Interesting legal points are involved in a land contest which was heard in the land office, touching the status of homesteaders who make entry on land and abandon it temporarily.

Miss Katherine S. Costello made entry, over a year ago, in T-61-22, in the Big Fork River country, and, according to the government reports, she left the claim soon afterward, returning to Red Lake Falls, where she was employed as a school teacher. Special Agent Coulter made a trip through northern Minnesota in quest of abandoned claims and among others made a report on the homestead which had been taken by Miss Costello.

On Oct. 28 of last year Miss Costello was notified that her rights to the homestead on which she had made entry would be cancelled, and that it would be reopened for settlement. She was told that she would have an opportunity to be heard before the final cancellation was made.

Miss Costello lost no time in getting in action. She resigned her school at Red Lake Falls, and went at once to the Big Fork country, settling on her homestead, and obtaining a position in the school there.

Although the contention, made in behalf of the government, that the homestead had been abandoned was denied, Miss Costello's defense was based principally upon her strict compliance with the homestead laws since the date of her notification that the claim was to be cancelled. This position taken by the defendant has opened up most perplexing problems, and it is probable that some time will elapse before a ruling is made.

In the event that the right to the property was being contested by another homesteader, the solution would be easy. Miss Costello would have forfeited her rights in favor of the other claimant, and would be dispossessed on this showing. But in this instance the government is making the fight, and in the event that it wins the land will simply be opened up for settlement again. In such a case Miss Costello would be able to show by the records of the contest that she had been an actual resident on the land since Oct. 28, when her claim was suspended, and so would be entitled to the inside track in making a re-entry.

SARTO IS CHOSEN POPE

Announcement of Election Greeted With Wild Enthusiasm.

The New Ruler Takes the Name of Pius X. Sarto is in His 68th Year and Has Been a Cardinal Ten Years.

Rome, Aug. 4.—Cardinal Sarto, patriarch of Venice, has been elected pope. Cardinal Macchi, secretary of apostolic briefs, announced to the crowd assembled before St. Peter's that Cardinal Sarto had been elected pope and that he had taken the name Pius X. The troops on duty immediately lined up on the piazza and presented arms. At ten minutes after 12 this afternoon Pope Pius X. appeared inside the balcony of the basilica and blessed the populace amid the acclamations of the enormous crowd assembled upon the piazza.

Pope Pius X. expressed his desire not to dissolve the conclave until this evening. Announcement of Cardinal Sarto's election was received with wild enthusiasm on the part of thousands of persons who had gathered outside St. Peter's. The scene within the basilica when the pope pronounced his benediction was one of unparalleled excitement and enthusiasm. Thousands within the cathedral cheered and waved their hats.

Giuseppe Sarto was born in Riesi, diocese of Treviso, June 2, 1835, and was created cardinal by Leo XIII. at the consistory of June 12, 1893, receiving the title of St. Bernardo dalle Terme. He is also patriarch of Venice since June, 1893, and bishop of Mantua.

Psalm of the Postal Grafter.

Let us then be up and doing
Let us work the graft, the deal;
Though our legs we may be hoeing,
There are pockets there a-weal.

Be not like those dried-up, funny
Dubs who babble of "Pride trust,"
Blinking at the choking money,
Sadly bowling back the dust.

Let the fools go on who stare for Clergy little perks in which
To dirt up—what are we here for,
If it isn't to get rich?

LaGrippe Caused Heart Trouble, Nervous Prostration and Dyspepsia.

My Friends Know Heart Cure Cured Me.

Mrs. C. O. Hurd, 118 W. Third St., Muscatine, Ia., is well known throughout her section of Iowa as an ardent worker in the M. E. Church. She says: "LaGrippe left me with a severe case of nervous depression and nervous dyspepsia, which soon affected my heart. I suffered from sleeplessness, headache, extreme nervousness and twitching of the muscles. The slightest exertion would cause shortness of breath, a numbness of my body and hot flashes with pain. I will tell you what I am constantly telling my friends — that Dr. Miles' Heart Cure cured me so that I have not suffered since I took it. In fact I am glad that for seven years I have never found anything to equal Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and think the Nerve and Liver Pills are a wonderful stomach remedy."

"Our son was stricken down with heart trouble in his twentieth year. For two months we got no sleep with him at night, so we commenced to use Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine with the Nerve and Liver Pills and today he is sound and well. In fact he passed a physical examination since his sickness and is with the Army in the Philippines." — Mrs. Alice Mead, Buffalo, Mo.

Easy Pill

Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due to the fact that they tonic the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe nor sicken, not even the most delicate lady, and yet they are as certain in results that no one who uses them is disappointed. They cure torpid liver, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, headache, malaria and ward off pneumonia and fevers.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

Anyway Servian dukes and counts are not above par just now in the American matrimonial market.

If Postmaster General Payne is not the unscrupulous politician World's Work says he is there is certainly a splendid chance for a libel suit.

The straw hat has already touched a period of coolness that makes the owners thereof think of the fated day for such headgear just one month hence.

A scientist tells us that this old world is good for 20,000,000 years. We supposed there would be a division of assets when God and Mr. Baer dissolved partnership.

Eb Huntington surmises that the price of coal is being advanced in monthly installments, presumably in order that the consumer will receive no rude jar in the melancholy autumntide.

There is good advice in this little suggestion from the Hutchinson Leader:

When a man advocates the abolition of the grand jury system, look closely to his motives.

Here is a pointer from Mary McFadden that should be heeded be the conversationalist as well as the writer:

Pip your epigrams with humor rather than sarcasm—make them splinters of light rather than winged darts to lodge in some sensitive heart.

The Fosston Thirteen Towns observes that it is the privilege of every free-born American citizen who cannot give a reason for the political faith that is in him to get fighting mad if that faith is impugned.

Frank Hamilton is an applicant for a pardon. There has always been a question whether or not he was guilty of the crime charged to him, and it is certain that he did not commit murder wilfully. At any rate he has been taught a lesson. Why not let him go?

It would be a not unmixed sorrow if Postmaster General Payne's health would become so precarious that he could no longer attend to the duties of his office. It is quite likely President Roosevelt would go outside the ranks of the practical politicians for a successor.

The Kasson Republican gets after the human vulture sometimes generously designated as a "tattler" as follows:

No one is proof against slander, and before anyone repeats a story involving the good name of another, he should stop to ask himself how he would like to have such a story told about himself.

A Missouri Sunday school teacher in addressing his class recently said:

Fame has taken men from the forge, the plow, and the carpenter's bench, but she was never known to reach over a picket fence and snatch a dude from a hammock as he lay sucking a cigarette.

The Minneapolis Journal gives the Mark Hanna philosophy a quiet little jab:

By the way, the doctrine of "stand pat" has done nothing for Wall Street, its firmest believer. We have been troubled with neither tariff legislation nor shaky financial laws, but here is Wall Street flat on its back.

Editor Greeley of the Big Fork Compass sees a balm for every ill, a recompense for every pain. Would that all of us could be so optimistic:

The rain that spoils the picnic
Helps to make the garden grow;
The frost that blights the cabbage
Also lays mosquitoes low.

A North Dakota real estate dealer advertised a home for sale recently and a good looking young woman bought it. A month later he married the buyer and thus came into possession of the house, the money paid for it and a bride. He is loud in his praise of newspaper advertising. An opinion from him along that line in, say two years, would also be interesting.

The Wadena Tribune gives deserved praise to a well-known citizen of the state who has accomplished a great deal in the way of bringing the railroads to time in the matter of lowering freight rates:

L. A. Rosing, late Democratic candidate for governor, is receiving a great deal of well deserved praise by reason of his activity in connection with the newly organized state league of municipalities. Already his work has been crowned with a measure of success and he is still pushing.

The Breckenridge Telegram is edited by a Republican postmaster, but Bro. James is usually fair in his estimates of public man, as witness the following:

The daily papers have it that Congressman Lind will attempt to play a star part in the councils of the national Democracy. Well, the Democrats have mighty few bigger men or shrewder politicians within their ranks than this same John Lind. They might do worse than hearken to his counsel.

According to an exchange a Missouri woman sat up until one o'clock the other night waiting for her husband to come home. Then she gave it up and went upstairs, only to find him in bed and fast asleep. "His deception," as she called it, made her so mad that she didn't speak to him for three days. Her anger can be understood when one considers the disappointment she must have suffered at being deprived of the pleasure of delivering the choice Mrs. Caudle lecture with which she had doubtless intended to greet her wayward husband.

The New York Times tells this interesting story, which will be particularly appreciated by Minnesota people:

It is related that W. P. Clough that he was once the object of J. J. Hill's wrath because he was generally engaged in reading French novels when Mr. Hill happened around the Great Northern railway office.

"Do you think I pay you $20,000 a year to read French novels?" asked the magnate.

"Well you pay me for keeping the Great Northern out of legal trouble," answered the lawyer. "If I have time to read French novels I'm pretty near earning my salary."

Mr. Hill promptly saw the point, and to this day there is generally a French novel on Mr. Clough's desk.

Mary McFadden, the charming paragrapher of the Duluth News-Tribune, tells of the death of a wild Western character as follows:

The wild heart of "Calamity Jane" is stilled. She was a fearless scout and a dead shot. She lived on the frontier and took a prominent part in warfare waged by the government against the Indians. The United States is deeply indebted to her deadliness of nerve and sureness of aim, to her foolhardy courage and quick wit for much of the success of the civilizing of the frontier. She would drink and swear and gamble and had all of the vices usually monopolized by men who call themselves "good fellows." She should be judged by the charitable standard used in determining the worth of men. Her faults were unique but her good deeds and her generous heart entitles her to a place in the hearts of the grateful Northwest.

More Flowers and Less Divorces

By W. S. ELLIOTT,
Late Assistant State's Attorney Cook County, Illinois.

THE heart hungers for beauty, the heart of every man and of every woman. And, happily, this beauty lies within the grasp of each of one us.

If people would realize the power that lies in the adding to their environment of a little simple beauty, the grind of life would be lessened, happiness multiplied. And especially in domestic life is beauty's aid essential, domestic life with its frictions, its daily wear and tear. MAN AND WOMAN NEED SOMETHING TO LIFT THEM ABOVE THE SORDID CARES, NEED REASSURANCE THAT LIFE IS NOT ALL MATERIAL COMFORT AND DISCOMFORT. And one possible, pleasant means of attaining this desirable end is the planting and fostering of flowers and vines about the home-spot.

The ideal of love in a rose-wreathed cottage is not merely a dream of the sentimentalist, hard fact would bear out the feasibility and practical value of the roses. Conditions may narrow the rose-wreath to a single blossom, but there are wonderful possibilities in that fraction of beauty. When the tired husband comes home at night and finds a blooming rose in the window, or perhaps a bit of scarlet geranium, or it may be but a few blades of green grass by the door, his heart is warmed by the thought that the fire on the domestic hearth is still burning. Or, mayhap, it will be the man of the family that will spend a little time and taste to beautify the common home, and then the weary wife will have her household burdens lightened by his interest in making their dwelling-place attractive; will take joy in the good-will shown by her husband. And this one act may influence her to hesitate when thought of her rather hard domestic life leads to the contemplation of escape therefrom. Flowers in window and door-yard, and green grass about, make both husband and wife fonder, more proud of, the home they are attempting to build up.

It is more far-reaching than this; that rose, or geranium, or those blades of grass. Others, neighbor and passer-by, are caused thereby to feel kindly toward the presiding genius that brought these conditions about. And husband and wife, conscious of the outside interest, are less apt to come to open ruptures, to broils and intolerance.

The convict in his cell places on its walls what he can in the way of embellishment, and though his ideals and his expression of them are crude in the extreme, yet the pictures show the universal yearning for beauty. They help make his life tolerable. Positively, simple beauty is within the reach of everyone; no one should feel hoplessly unable to obtain a share of it.

Those that have door-yards should plant them with flowers and grass; those that have no bit of ground about their places surely could make in the windows gardens for blossoms and vines. The wife that adorns a home spreads sunshine over the domestic surface. And how much better for the husband, instead of a desert of regrets, to find thought and regard blossoming before his eyes. And what is true of the woman is likewise true of the man. Plant vines along the walls of your environment. Of a truth this beautifying is one means that will render the conditions of domestic life more ethical, more conducive to happiness.

Educational Possibilities of the Negro Race

By DR. H. B. FRISSELL,
Professor at Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute.

THERE is no dead line in the education of the negro. I mean by this that there is no limit to the possible culture of the negro race as a whole. There is a jumping off place in education for all races, white, or black, or brown, or yellow. That is to say, there is a place at which the great mass of the race stops and only the individual goes beyond it. The negro is undeniably inferior to the Anglo-Saxon. There can be no question as to that, but the inferiority is a matter of training, of heredity, of association, and of opportunity.

When we reach the ordinary jumping-off place there is a vastly greater number of white individuals than of black ones who will leap over the barrier.

My observation for 25 years or more of close contact with the negro does not lead me to believe at all that there is any constitutional limitation to the mental capacity of his race. On the contrary, there is a certain amount of receptivity which is quite marked in the negro. Once you get him interested he learns readily, and within certain bounds progresses about as well as the average white boy with the same lack of home training. Nor is there any apparent difference between the full-blooded negro and the mulatto, except so far as the lighter colored negro has associated more with the whites owing to his having been chosen for indoor employment.

It is not true that when you cultivate a negro he becomes impudent or demands social equality. The south must learn that when the negro is really cultivated he prefers to keep to himself, and does not bother the whites.

Slavery had its good features as well as its bad ones. It kept the negroes from being criminal, and it also kept them from being educated. When slavery disappeared, the criminal class was let loose, and it is that class which is now making the trouble.

No race in the history of the world has made such progress as the negroes since their emancipation. This means that the negroes themselves should not lose hope now because they do not secure all the rights they consider themselves entitled to.

Good Citizenship of Jews

By RABBI SAMUEL HIRSCHBERG, of Boston.

THE Jew, as far as nationality goes, shares a common identity, and in equal degree, with all his fellow residents of this or any other land. His religion has naught to do with his citizenship unless it be to make that citizenship the better, the truer and more devoted. Judaism, in the largest universal sense, truly, rightfully spells cosmopolitanism.

It is only the unconscionable and unconvincible anti-Semitism that cannot and will not see it. There is no people to-day so readily assimilative of the national characteristic, so truly cosmopolitan, as the Jew.

For nearly four years I suffered from ovarian troubles. The doctor insisted on an operation as the only way to get well. I, however, strongly objected to an operation. My husband felt disheartened as well as I, for home with a sick woman is a disconsolate place at best. A friendly druggist advised him to get a bottle of Wine of Cardui for me to try, and he did so. I began to improve in a few days and my recovery was very rapid. Within eighteen weeks I was another being.

CHECKING UP THE COWS.

Dairy Inspection to Find Which Cows Are Best.

The state dairy and food commission is making a special inspection of 200 respective cows of the state to ascertain what is the best kind of feed and to determine what are the conditions the largest production of milk can be secured. The inspection was begun in the spring and will continue throughout a year. Inspectors A. W. Trow and E. K. Slater are at work in the southern part of the state and they have inspected already more than 100 cows.

The inspectors have half-pint bottles, which are numbered consecutively. The milk that each cow gives is weighed at frequent intervals and composite samples are placed in the bottles. From this an estimate is made of the amount of milk each cow gives during the month, as well as the butter fat and the actual butter yield.

The inspectors take account also of the kinds of food and the actual amount given the cow, whether in the shape of grain, hay or grass from the pasture and care is reckoned for the month, and at the close a balance is struck between the receipts and the conditions, showing the actual profit the dairyman derives from each cow.

A record is kept of the cow's breeding, her general conformation and the care she receives. The other conditions are also observed for the purpose of ascertaining the cause of shrinkage in the production of milk. Some dairymen say that rainy weather causes shrinkage; others attribute it largely to hot weather.

These inspections are made for the purpose of ascertaining the best methods of dairying, said Commissioner McConnel. "You should not be surprised just the same as banks and business houses are inspected. No dairyman can get the best results unless he knows which are running behind, just as a banker strikes a balance every day to determine his financial condition.

"In this way the farmer will learn what kinds of feed produce the most milk and how cows should be cared for. Dairymen will also find which of the cows are the best from which to save heifer calves."

Suicide Prevented.

The startling announcement that a preventive of suicide has been discovered will interest many. HOG CHOLERA DECREASING.

State Board of Health Notes Decline of Disease.

The state board of health says in its biennial report soon to be presented to Gov. Van Sant that hog cholera is decreasing in Minnesota. From Jan. 1 to April 21, 1903, only 12 cases were reported. In 1902 there were 32 cases; in 1901, 40, and 97 in 1900. The disease is said to have been very rampant from 1897 to 1900.

Investigation shows that, contrary to the general impression among stockmen, the disease cannot be classed as "airborne." Some farmers have objected to quarantine on the grounds that the disease is in the air, and that it cannot be controlled. This theory is now abandoned, however, owing to the good results from quarantine.

Notice of Cancellation of Contract for Deed.

To TILLIE RICHMOND:

You are hereby notified that default has been made in the payment of the sum of $50 of principal and interest due and payable on a contract entered into the 5th day of July, 1902, between Thomas Gilbert, Jr., & Co., a corporation, party of the first part, and Tillie Richmond party of the second part whereby the said party of the first part agreed to convey to the said party of the second part the following described real estate, to-wit: The southeast quarter (se ¼) of section twenty-one (21), in township one hundred forty-seven (147), range forty-two (42), Red Lake County, Minnesota, subject to the reservations and exceptions contained in the patent from the United States of America, and the said party of the second part agreed to pay to the said party of the first part the sum of $200 on the 5th day of July, 1903, and the sum of $50 on the 5th day of each and every month thereafter until the whole of said principal sum, together with interest at the rate of seven per cent. per annum on the deferred payments from time to time remaining unpaid, and it was covenanted that the payment to be made in February, 1903, was to be the sum of $50 on account of said principal.

That default has been made in the payment of the said sum of $50 of principal and interest due on said contract because the sum of $50 on the 5th day of January, 1903, and that default has also been made in the payment of the installments which by the terms of said contract become due on the 5th day of February, 1903, the sum of $50 on the 5th day of March, 1903, the sum of $50 on the 5th day of April, 1903, the sum of $50 on the 5th day of May, 1903, and the sum of $50 on the 5th day of June, 1903, and that there is now due and owing upon said contract the sum of $200 on principal sum, and interest thereon at seven per cent. per annum on the principal sum of $200 from the 5th day of July, 1902, and the sum of $50 on the 5th day of January, 1903, and interest thereon at seven per cent. per annum on the principal sum of $50 from the 5th day of January, 1903, and that the said party of the first part is in accordance with the terms of said contract.

Notice is therefore given to you, Tillie Richmond, that unless said sum of forty and 50-100 cancelled and terminated the 6th day of September, 1903, by the parts of the first part as said contract as provided therein and in accordance with the statute in such case made and provided, and that on the 6th day of September, 1903, the said sum of $200 on the principal sum of said contract, and the said sum of $50 on the 5th day of January, 1903, and interest on said principal sum of $200 from the 5th day of July, 1902, and interest on said sum of $50 from the 5th day of January, 1903, at the rate of seven per cent. per annum, and all taxes and assessments which have been paid by the said party of the first part on said premises since the date of said contract, and interest thereon at seven per cent. per annum from the date of such payments, and all costs and disbursements incurred in the foreclosure of said contract, including an attorney's fee of $25, will be paid to the said party of the first part, or tendered to it, and the said contract will be cancelled and terminated.

A COUNTY WITHOUT GRAFT.

It will be interesting and welcome news to the taxpayers of Red Lake county to learn that the county will soon be on a cash basis, and that all claims against it will be paid upon the presentation of the warrants issued by the county auditor.

There is a reason for this condition of affairs. Last November the voters placed in charge of the auditor's office a young man who not only was well versed in the duties of his position, but who was believed to be absolutely incorruptible and unpurchasable. Before his advent supplies were purchased at any price that would yield a "rake off" to the agents of the supply houses and the purchasing committee. The county attorney's ad monitions that the prices charged for stationery and supplies were too high were received with ill-feigned contempt, and when the charge was first made that there was "something rotten in Denmark." The COURIER and other advocates of reform were accused of a conspiracy to blacken the good name of public officials. Now there is no one acquainted with the methods then in vogue who will not freely acquit these men of any such intention.

To illustrate how different are the methods now employed in the purchase of supplies we need but to quote a recent incident that was brought to our notice. A blank book agent wanted to sell the county some of his goods. He opened a fancy price and told Auditor Ford that if the county would buy the books he would send up an elegant office chair for the auditor's office. The agent was told that when the auditor's office needed a new chair it would be purchased, and that he could send the blank books at a price about 40 per cent. lower than the agent named.

Under the present regime every order for supplies must have the approval of Auditor Ford and County Attorney Grady, and how well they have guarded the interests of the people will be shown in the next annual financial statement. It is violating no confidence in stating that these gentlemen have already saved a good many thousand dollars of the public money.

We have heard no complaint on the part of the people because the government seeds were short in weight.

THE "MERGER" CASE.

The state's case against the Northern Securities company was decided Saturday by Judge William Lochren in favor of the defendants. By deciding that the company is not a railroad corporation Judge Lochren knocked out the keystone of the argument of the state, with the result that the whole fabric of the state's case was swept away.

Some weeks ago, it will be remembered the United States circuit court gave a verdict for the government in a case in which the legal contentions were similar, and both cases will doubtless be heard by the supreme court at the October term.

It seems now that the celebrated "merger" case is soon to be determined. However, the general public is no longer interested in the outcome. Whether or not the "merger" is defeated, it is plain that there has for years been a virtual consolidation of the two great transcontinental lines. There has been an "understanding" for a decade respecting freight rates and "division of territory," so Gov. Van Sant's political bugaboo does not promise the slightest relief even though the highest court of the landshould sustain his contention that the organization of the Northern Securities company was a violation of the state law.

What the state needs, and needs badly is a board of railroad and warehouse commissioners that will enforce regulations securing equitable freight rates. This the present board has never attempted to do.

"TWENTY YEARS AGO."

The man who wrote "I've Wandered to the Village, Tom," or "Twenty Years Ago," talked at his home in Clinton, Iowa, says the St. Paul News.

A. J. Gault was the author of one poem that has lived.

There is a very pretty story about the writing of the poem.

Years ago Gault had a brother who was wayward. His whereabouts were unknown. He had neglected to answer his brother's letters. Finally, as a last resort, the poem was written as a letter.

To make an orthodox ending to the incident one would need to tell of the restoration of the prodigal, but this consummation is not of record.

But those who have loved the simple poem because of the memories it brings will be pleased to know there was a real Tom and that the "bell" which swung to and fro, the "desk" defaced by the jackknife and the "brook" all had a local habitation.

Have you gone back to the village where you were born and reared, after a long wandering away from the familiar places? Have you "sat beneath the tree" upon which a scar shows where "her" initials and yours were cut together? Have you watched another generation playing on the village "green" where you played with your fellows "twenty years ago?"

Then you will all the feeling that throbs in the lines of Gault's poem. Then has come back to you "the tender grace of a day that is dead."

THE MAN WHO ASKS "IS IT HOT ENOUGH." WHAT SHALL WE DO TO HIM?

Shall we form a mob and away with him to the nearest blasted oak?

Or shall we have him kidnapped and sent to a desert island with nothing to read but a book on the "race question"?

Or, better still, shall we give him a deadly ink pistol to play with?

NO! Let us be merciful. Let us treat him with absolute contempt and pity.

—Chicago Tribune.

THE MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL.

Peace to the ashes of the man who wrote one poem of the heart.

He was not a great poet. But he filled Tolstoi's definition of art. He had a message. That message, written out of blended emotions, intended as a telegram to a brother's heart, went to the heart universal. It touched all the poet's brothers—all who had played and studied and loved and lost and woe-will who hold the memories of babyon childhood.

It is a melancholy, yet a sweet message, and not entirely sad. Laughter still echoes down the corridors of recollection. Smiles chase the sadness away. Humor, which is next door to tears, peeps from behind the blinds of twenty years ago!

S. W. BAILEY has purchased H. L. Dudley's interest in the Thief River Press, and is now sole proprietor of that paper. We wish for Syd a continuation of the splendid success the paper has enjoyed for the past several years.

MRS. C. K. DAVIS, widow of the late Minnesota senator, was married last week to Hunter Doll, of Washington. Mr. Doll appears to be a gentleman of leisure. The Minnesota people are not particularly interested in Mrs. Davis, however. She is too aristocratic to associate with the people of the state which so signally honored her distinguished former husband.

THE Minneapolis Journal says: "So far this summer eleven boys have been drowned in the Mississippi in Minneapolis, and none in St. Paul. St. Paul has a fine, conveniently located river bath, Minneapolis has none. The difference is shown in the result of eleven lost lives. It is the experience everywhere that properly located and supperintended public baths greatly reduce the loss of life through drowning.

W. P. STREET, the well-known politician and townsite boomer of Bemidji, was mediumately shot down Thursday by the discharge of a gun in the hands of his little brother-in-law. Mr. Street has been prominently identified with the development of Beltrami county, and was considered quite a wealthy man, having been very fortunate in real estate speculations. Last year he was a candidate for the Republican nomination for state senator, and was defeated by E. J. Sweetman because of his position in favor of the railroad merger.

MESSRS. Ashbaugh, Kellogg and Butler, proprietors of the Clover leaf papers, will launch a new enterprise in Minneapolis the first week in August. The new paper will be called the Minneapolis Weekly News, and it is announced will be published along the same lines as their other successful papers in St. Paul, Omaha, Des Moines and Kansas City. The new enterprise will have a paid up capital of $100,000. B. D. Butler will be president of the company, L. V. Ashbaugh vice-president, N. W. Reay secretary, and Geo. F. Hardy treasurer. The Minneapolis Daily News will be a one-cent afternoon paper and independent in politics.

DeWitt is the Name.

When you go to buy Witch Hazel Salve look for the name DeWitt on every box. The pure, unadulterated Witch Hazel Salve, which is the best salve in the world for cuts, burns, bruises, boils, eczema and piles. The popularity of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, due to its many cures, has caused numerous worthless counterfeits to be placed on the market. The genuine bears the name of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. Sold by W. A. Schreiber.

Coughing

"I was given up to die with quick consumption. I then began to use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I improved at once, and am now in perfect health."—Chas. E. Harman, Gibbstown, N. Y.

It's too risky, playing with your cough.

The first thing you know it will be down deep in your lungs and the play will be over. Begin early with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and stop the cough.

Three sizes: 25c., 50c., $1. All druggists.

Consult your doctor. If he says take it, then do as he says. If he says don't take it, then don't take it. He knows. Leave it with him. We are willing.

"IN ALL THE WORLD NO TRIP LIKE THIS"

Thomas F. Woodlock in "Wall Street Journal," July 15.

* * * Your correspondent is more or less of an Atlantic traveller, having made some fifteen trips across the ocean, and is more or less familiar with this particular form of holiday. Its strong points are:

(1) Absolute rest for mind and body.
(2) Unlimited fresh air.

And its weak points are:

(1) Monotony.
(2) Bad weather—frequently.

With, of course, the strong points much the most important and entirely predominant.

Circumstances compelled the writer this year to forego the usual Atlantic trip, as he had to go west. Having some detailed acquaintance with railroad affairs, he was * * * aware that the Northern Steamship Company—owned by the Great Northern—operated a steamer from Buffalo to Duluth, making the trip in three days, and he determined to try it.

* * * He found a magnificent ocean-going steamer close upon 400 feet long, of 8,000 horse-power, developing a speed of 22 miles an hour, fitted up in a style that he has never seen surpassed on any ocean vessel, whatever her size, furnished with large airy staterooms, lofty saloons and decks innumerable, the top decks being something like 70 feet above the water. Brilliantly lit, admirably ventilated, most conveniently arranged as to all appointments * * * Lake Erie is not especially picturesque as to its eastern end. * * * when the St. Clair River was entered the scenery became beautiful. * * * From that time, with a very few hours of open lake, the trip to Duluth was a succession of ever changing pictures, any one of which would make the fortune of an Atlantic route lucky enough to possess it exclusively. * * * Detroit there is Belle Isle Park, which is surely the most beautiful public park in the world, and it lies at the water's edge. Across the river is sleepy Windsor. The river is full of excursion steamers plying up and down to half a dozen resorts, all on the river and all full of holiday crowds, and our steamer threaded its way among them, meeting all kinds of craft, from ore-carriers and whalebacks to sapphire launches and rowing boats. All this at sunset after a typical summer's day with the mercury standing at 70 degrees, and no more!

Next day there was a Mackinac Island, looking something like a little Welsh fishing village, the hill rising directly from the water's edge, dotted with summer cottages and here and there a large hotel, and the bay filled with all kinds of sailing craft. Beauty enough for one day's steaming, you would think, but in three hours we reached St. Mary's River and passed the famous "Soo" canal by moonlight. You are to imagine a stretch of river some miles long with campers at every point, their tents lit up, and here and there remains of the early settler's log-residence in course of dissolution—all on a still summer's evening, so still that the voices on the shore could plainly be heard on our steamer as we passed, until the roar of the "Soo" rapids drowned them as the town and the great locks came in sight. Finally we came into Lake Superior and entered on the last day of the trip.

One more a transition in the scenery. The red banks of Lake Superior sandstone topped with pine and cedar and a refreshing coolness in the air marked the change and presently there was the Houghton-Hancock ship canal opening up with its twin copper cities on the hills rising on each side, and its red waters. The temperature at the Houghton dock was 60 odd degrees, with a strong southwest wind, but we were hardly out or the canal when wraps and rugs were ordered for the first time since leaving Buffalo, and ee were headed direct for Duluth.

* * * The writer's purpose is to bring out the fact that this Lake trip has all the advantages of an Atlantic voyage with the disadvantages eliminated altogether. You will note, first, that the steamer itself is of the ocean type, only more comfortable; second, that the trip is three days long which affords time for a complete rest (quite apart from the fact that a round trip from New York City to Duluth with six days' steaming, can be made between Saturday morning and the following Saturday night. * * * and third, that there is no monotony about any part of it.

* * * The emotion of surprise in its ultimate degree is susceptible of change into other emotions. To find the bell-boys (or cabin stewards) attentive, yet unobtrusive, the waiters courteous and painstaking, the ship's officers genial and communicative, the purser a gentleman and a diplomat of the first water, the cooking absolutely first-class, the staterooms clean and cool—and all this with the other advantages noted in the foregoing is enough to arouse the ire of a man who only finds it out after it has been available nine years. * * *

* * * The Steamship Northwest sails from Duluth for Buffalo and intermediate points every Tuesday at 11:30 p. m.

End of Bitter Fight.

"Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abscess on my right lung" writes J. F. Hughes of Dexter, Ga., "and gave me up. Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The benefit I received was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I've entirely recovered my health." For coughs and Colds and Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed by W. A. Schreiber's Drug Store. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

An Electrical Kitchen.

Of all the cool and convenient kitchens that housekeepers ever dreamed, the electric kitchen is the coolest and most convenient. No stove or even gas range; just a marble shelf in the pantry with two or three little discs side by side. A griddlecake baker or toaster can be used for any cooking that requires a flat surface. Then there is an oven and a cooker for meats and vegetables. Any degree of heat can be secured by a simple turn of the switch. With this kitchen and golden grain belt beer the work of the housewife would be ideal. The beer is delicious for the table and contains the most nourishment in the best form. Better get a case for your home. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

When you want a cough cure bud you want it good. That means COLDS—it's the best. 25 and 50c. Guaranteed by A. L. Reichert.

Why Not This County, Too?

In a number of counties of the State, special exhibits of grain and grasses are being arranged to be shown at the St. Louis Fair next year. The plan is for a committee of two or three of the business men at the county seats to receive all specimens offered. These when collected by the committee will be turned over to an agent of the State Board of Managers, Messrs. Condit Hamlin, St. Paul, J. M. Underwood, Lake City and Theo L. Hays, Minneapolis, who will have them properly grouped, arranged and displayed where they equal in excellence the samples from other counties. Not only will the county, but the farm from which the samples are gathered, be given due credit. If this is a good thing for other counties, it is a good thing for this one, and with proper care in the selection of samples no county can excel ours. All grains and grasses should be secured before ripe rize, and should be cured in a dark room. Only enough of each kind is needed to make a display of heads, the size of a man's two fists. Corn in the ear is especially desired. Three ears of a kind is sufficient.

Mrs. William Findeisen and daughters, Misses Eleanor and Maud, and Thomas Gorno formed an excursion party to Crookston Thursday of last week.

You needn't sweltter with heat if you wear our summer coats and vests. Twenty per cent. off this week on these goods.—Theo. LaBissonlere.

A bigger line of working gloves than we show cannot be found in this section. Best fire-proof at $1.00; others proportionately low.—Theo. LaBissonlere.

The thermometer went dangerously near the frost line Thursday night. In several of the neighboring towns the temperature was reported as low as 41.

Louis Albers returned Saturday from Normanna county to spend Sunday with his family, going back Tuesday to finish the work of inspecting boilers in that county.

Lesters for the following persons are advertised at the postoffice: Phebe Bolieau, Thomas Bouvet, K. Putnode, E. L. Warren, Ambrise G. Turabau, J. Johnson.

NOTES IN MINOR CHORD.

Go to the Merchants State Bank for farm loans.

Miss Jennie Bell, of Decatur, Ill., arrived in the city yesterday for a visit with her friend, Mrs. M. R. Hall.

The Worchester corset is undoubtedly the best corset in America. Our trade on it is constantly increasing. Compare the make-up of it with others.—Theo. LaBissoniere.

H. L. Dudley, formerly one of the proprietors of the Thief River Press, has purchased J. M. Bishop's cigar and confectionery store at that place, and assumed possession August 1.

Do you know that cigar clippings make the best smoking tobacco you can get? They can be had in pound packages at a big reduction for the the next two weeks at the J. R. Cigar Co.

Maj. W. W. Cooley came back from Maple Lake yesterday, having spent several days with his family at that place. The Major expects to make his headquarters here for several weeks.

Court Reporter Lohn and wife, of Crookston, are the parents of a boy baby, the little fellow arriving last Thursday. Mr. Lohn's many Red Lake Falls friends will extend congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Andrews and son, Herbert, of Ada, and Mrs. Marr, of Boston, Mass., arrived Tuesday for a visit at the home of T. E. Tenney. Mr. Andrews is an uncle of Mr. Tenney.

Grant Van Sant came up from St. Paul Monday to look after the business of his branch agency at this place. This was Grant's first visit to this part of the state for several months.

Clerk Perrault reports nothing doing in the matrimonial market this week. If business doesn't pick up pretty soon Joe will be obliged to start the fall trade by issuing a license to himself.

Among the passengers to the Thief River fair yesterday afternoon were Sheriff Linnihan, Will Knight, Misses Alice Busse and Nellie Allard and Nesdames Fred Krueger and H. P. Krueger.

J. M. Anderson, who has been the guest of his brothers, A. M. and H. W., for the past ten days, left Saturday for his home at St. Paul. Mr. Anderson is teller in the State Savings Bank in that city.

The prairie chicken crop will be a big one this year, and quail are also quite numerous. The season opens September 1 for prairie chickens, ducks and geese, and October 15 for quail and partridges.

Dr. N. M. Watson received word from Montreal Sunday that his father was dead, and left on that evening for Crookston to take the train for that place. He is not expected home before next week.

Mrs. L. Reichert, who has been visiting for some weeks at the home of her son, A. L., left Tuesday for her home at Mayville, Wis. She will stop at Minneapolis for a short visit with friends and relatives.

Little Marie O'Brien had the misfortune Tuesday to fall from a play house in Louis Kaufer's yard and dislocate her arm at the shoulder joint. As a result the little girl will be confined to the house for several weeks.

Swell dressers should see our swell line of white and fancy vests. Nothing finer. From $1.25 to $5.00. Also a new line of collars in the latest styles. Two for 25c for the best collar made.—Theo. LaBissoniere.

Perl W. Mabey was down from Thief River Falls Friday. He was enroute for Crookston to meet Mrs. Mabey, who returned home the next morning from Lake City, where she had been visiting her parents for six weeks past.

An open-air band concert will be given on Main street Friday evening by the Red Lake Falls band. The boys have lately been practicing on several new pieces, and will give their first public rendition of them on this occasion.

Teachers' examinations have been held this week by county superintendent Jeffers at the high school building. About fifty prospective teachers have been in attendance. About ten of them are writing the first grade examinations.

The quilting season is near at hand. We have a big assortment of quilting silks and silkolines. First-class batting at 10c per roll; better quality, 12½; full pound weights. We can save you money on these goods.—Theo. LaBissoniere.

Berthon & Armstrong have received a complete stock of the celebrated "Walkover" shoes for men this week. This is one of the best line of shoes manufactured, and the goods are sure to give satisfaction to the customers of this house.

Mayor Torvelson, of St. Hilaire, was in the city Friday. He was called to appear in an attachment case against Johnnie Pringle Comedy company. It seems that some of the members of the troupe garnisheed the property of the manager for wages.

Prof. F. A. Whiteley and family returned home Monday from Big Lake, where they have visited at the home of Mrs. Whiteley's parents during the past six weeks. Prof. Whiteley is now busy preparing for the commencement of school next month.

Rev. W. H. Gillis, pastor of the Methodist church at Marshall, was in the city the fore part of the week. Rev. Gillis recently bought a farm of the Healy-Watson agency, and is here looking over his property with a view to making extensive improvements.

Crookston College begins its sixth school year August 31st. You can select your own studies from the following courses, viz. preparatory, teachers, commercial, shorthand and typewriting, music and penmanship. Send for free catalog. Address, J. C. Sathre, Crookston, Minn. Jan. 1.

Joseph Belair returned last week from Grand Rapids, where he has been managing the merry-go-round during the past month. Mr. Belair will be at home from now on and will be prepared to serve the people in the capacity of auctioneer. He has had splendid success in this line.

There will be no services in the Presbyterian church next Sunday owing to the fact that the plasterers are not yet through with the building. It is expected that the building will be in shape for services the following Sunday, but duennouncement will be made through the papers.

At the last meeting of the city council it was decided to have an expert prepared plans and specifications for the waterworks plant to be put in in the near future. It is understood that if the city does not conclude to put in a municipal plant local men stand ready to accept a franchise and commence work at once.

Dr. J. Gendron, assisted by Dr. Holte, of Crookston, performed an operation on the ten-year-old son of Peter Kilburg at St. Vincent's hospital, Crookston, for a disease of the bone in the left leg. The disease was of three years' standing. The operation was entirely successful and the patient is now on the road to recovery.

A rather salacious case was called in Justice Poupin's court Saturday morning. Delphos Beausolei was arrested at the instigation of John Doyea, charged with the attempt to commit rape on the person of plaintiff's wife. The testimony was of rather a conflicting character, and on motion of County Attorney Grady the case was dismissed.

The northeast quarter of section 28, Gervais township, has been sold this week through the Healy-Watson agency to Rev. O. G. Harles and N. T. Nelson, who arrived here last week from Red Wing. These gentlemen expect to move on the place and commence farming operations at once. They are enterprising and agreeable gentlemen and valuable additions to Red Lake county.

Ab Fletcher had the misfortune to cut his foot while at work at the Northside mill Tuesday. He will take an enforced rest of several weeks in consequence. Ab is evidently convinced that "misfortunes never come singly," for Saturday night he lost $11 in the Wylie hotel burglary. Another guest at the hotel lost a gold watch. No traceof the robbers has been found as yet.

B. G. Wattles, late landlord of the Palace, who left town rather unexpectedly a few weeks ago, has been heard from at Graceville, his former home, where it is said he is living at present. It is stated on good authority that his alleged sister, who assisted in conducting the hotel here, is no relative of the family. Mr. Wattles, apparently, has a good many false pretensions to answer for.

Jacob Thill, the well-known grain buyer at Wylie, was in the city Saturday for the first time in several months. Mr. Thill has just recovered from a long and severe illness with pneumonia. At one time it was thought he could not recover, but Mr. Thill footed his friends by concluding to linger a while longer on this mundane sphere. The COURIER congratulates him on his return to health and vigor.

J. P. Harren was called to St. Cloud last Thursday by a message announcing the death of his father, Joseph Harren. The deceased was nearly 84 years of age, and death resulted from old age. J. P. returned home Sunday morning, the funeral having taken place the previous day. Herman Harren, who went down two weeks ago at the time his father was taken seriously ill, is expected home next week.

County Attorney Grady went to St. Paul last Saturday to meet with the state board of investment with reference to selling the $81,000 issue of Red Lake county ditch bonds. It is understood that the state authorities have expressed their willingness to take the bonds. The Lambert ditch, however, is declared by the attorney general to be illegal, owing to a mistake by Former Auditor Zeh in issuing the notices at the time the ditch was established.

Frank Pearsons, of Marshall, has purchased the confectionery and cigar stand formerly owned by W. H. Krueger, and took possession last Saturday. Mr. Pearsons has moved his family to this place, and will keep house in the rear rooms of his store building. He intends to carry a complete stock of confectionery, cigars, fruits, tobaccos, stationery, etc., and cordially invites the patronage of the public. The COURIER trusts Mr. Pearsons will do well here.

The county commissioners held an adjourned meeting Friday afternoon for the purpose of passing a resolution revoking and cancelling the acceptance of the offer made by Thorpe Bros. for the purchase of the Red Lake county ditch bonds. The board also approved the bonds of the various banks designated as county depositaries. These banks are the First State and Merchants State and Bank of Red Lake Falls; the First State and First National of Thief River Falls, and the First State of St. Hilaire.

Bill Smiley and his balloons blew in from Thief River Monday and raised all sorts of commotion about town. Five balloons were sent up but only two got away successfully, the others being brought down by shotguns, rocks and any other missle that the long-suffering citizens could lay hands on. One of the ill-fated paper souks landed on the roof of the Grand View Hotel and set fire to the building. However, a small boy with a dipper of water went up and extinguished the flames promptly. Bill went home on the train, serene in the confidence that he did a good job of exploitation work for the Thief River fair.

The cool weather of the past ten days was just what the crops needed and the outlook is much better than was anticipated prior to that time when it was thought the heads would not fill. The berry is reported to be nice and plump, and heads are filled to the tip. Out in Dakota some threshing has been done on land where the soil was light, and the crop matured early, and the fields that were estimated at 5 bushels per acre are turning out double that amount.

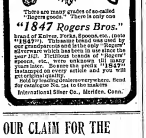
OUR CLAIM FOR THE GEE WHIZZ MACHINE



1. That it is the best washer made, because it runs easier and washes faster and better and is easier on the clothing.

2. Because it wheels, rubs, slaps, squeezes and sucks the dirt out of the clothing, by means of the reflex motion of the water.

3. It will wash (and we can prove it) as good with cold water as any other machine will with hot water, running the same length of time. We do not expect any other, even on a contest to this statement.

4. Or we will do in one minute with hot water, what is usually taken other machines ten or fifteen minutes to do. So you see you save nine-tenths of the time and labor, by using the Gee Whiz Washer.

5. The Gee Whiz Machine is a combined washer and clothes dryer. When dusting clothing machine must be dry Adjust sliding wheel just tight enough to whirl the clothing, and turn fast each way a little while. Leave lid up while drying.

RAILROAD MERGER SUIT IS DECIDED

State of Minnesota Loses Its Case Against the Northern Securities Company.

CONTENTIONS OF DEFENDANTS SUSTAINED BY JUDGE LOCHREN

The Injunction Asked For Is Refused on State Laws Have Not Been Violated—Decision Does Not Affect Result of the Federal Government Victory.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 3.—Judge Lochren Saturday in the United States circuit court handed down his decision in the case of the state of Minnesota against the Northern Securities company, the Great Northern Railway company, the Northern Pacific Railway company and James J. Hill as president of the Northern Securities company, and individually, in which he sustained the contentions of the defendants and dismissed the bill of complaint of the state.

He finds that the Northern Securities company has not violated the state laws forbidding the consolidation of parallel and competing lines of railway, through its ownership of the stock of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railways. He refuses the injunctions asked by the state of Minnesota, to restrain the Securities company from voting the stock of the two railroad companies or either of them.

This decision affects the results of the federal government's victory in the circuit court in no way whatever. The federal court received the same defendants and the same general state of facts, but was bound on a totally different contention of law.

The federal suit, in which the Securities company was beaten, was prosecution for violation of the Sherman antitrust law passed by the federal congress.

The state suit, in which the Securities company wins, was based on an allegation that the defendants violated acts of the Minnesota legislature, forbidding the consolidation of parallel and competing lines of railway.

The hearing of the state suit was begun Friday, June 5, before Judge Lochren in the federal circuit court. It followed the submission of reams of testimony by both sides for many months in which Frederick G. Ingersoll of this city, acted as referee. The final argument lasted five days, in which Attorney General Douglas, Former Attorney General George B. Wilson and Attorney M. D. Munn, spoke for the state and George B. Young, M. D. Grover and C. W. Bunn for the defendants. The case was submitted Wednesday, June 10. An appeal to the United States supreme court is now pending in the federal suit.

New York, Aug. 3.—The decision in favor of the Northern Securities company in the suit by the state of Minnesota caused a four-point jump in that stock on the curb.

A Lynching Prevented.

St. Louis, Aug. 3.—A special to the Republic from Greenville, Ill., says three Missouri peddlers, charged with assaulting Mrs. Frank Nance, near Old Ripley, were captured ten miles from here by a posse of farmers, who prepared to lynch them.

The timely arrival of officers prevented the lynching. The prisoners were taken to Sorento, where two were released, but the third was held to the grand jury.

Entitled to Pay.

Washington, Aug. 3.—The secretary of war has decided that officers and soldiers of the militia while serving at encampments are entitled to the same pay as the officers and men of the regular army, and that they also are entitled to transportation to and from such encampment, as if they were regular troops.

COTTON MILLS SHUT DOWN

Two Million New England Spindles to Be Idle in August.

The Present High Price of Cotton Is Responsible for the Shut-Down—To Resume in September.

Boston, Aug. 3.—In cotton manufacturing circles in this city, it is expected that more than 2,000,000 spindles will be idle throughout the north during the month of August, due mainly to the high prices in the cotton market, and the leniency of purchasers of goods to agree to any material advance while any raw material, purchased before the rise, remains in the storehouses. Attempts have been made to induce all cotton manufacturers to enter a general agreement to shut down for a stated period or on certain days of each week, but owing to a large number of unfinished contracts on hand no agreement was deemed inexpedient at this time.

The conditions in the cotton market have caused much inconvenience in Fall River, the textile center of North America. About one-third of the 28,000 operatives there have been idle this week, and of the 2,000,000 spindles 700,000 will not be working next week.

In Lowell, another leading mill center, the high price of cotton has not had any noticeable effect on account of the long shut-down of six corporations during the strike of the operatives last spring.

In Maine, mills at Lewiston, Lisbon and Brunswick will shut down for two weeks.

Among other corporations which also will curtail their product are the Queen City, of Burlington, and the North Pownal, of Pownal, Vt.; the Monadnock mills, of Claremont, and the Cocheco mills, of Dover, N. H.; the Bernon mills, of Georgetown, R. I., and other plants in the latter state, and several of the corporations in the Quinebaug valley, eastern Connecticut.

There is a confident feeling in some cotton mills offices that after September is well advanced a general improvement in market conditions will occur.

Troops at Danville Changed.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 3.—Adjt. Gen. Scott Saturday morning issued an order directing companies H and I, Seventh infantry, I. N. G., which have been on duty at Danville, to proceed to their home station, and ordering company A, Fourth infantry, at Arcola, to proceed to Danville relieving a few days more.

New Move in Manchuria.

Berlin, Aug. 3.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg to the Cologne Gazette says the Russian authorities are reported to have notified the government at Peking that they will prohibit foreigners from staying in Manchuria at present, but that six years hence, when China has restored quiet and order in Manchuria the country will be opened to foreigners for free commerce.

Comet Has Four Tails.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 3.—The astronomers at the Yale observatory have just made photographs of Borelli's comet showing faint indications of the presence of a fourth tail. Previous observations showed only three.

Cuba Has Money.

New York, Aug. 3.—After the payment of the government employes on Friday, says a Tribune dispatch from Havana, the Cuban treasury contained $3,500,000. This is an increase of $400,000 over the balance June 30.

MANY ARE INJURED IN RAILWAY WRECK

Head-On Collision Between Freight and Passenger Trains Injure Sixteen Persons.

ACCIDENT RESULT OF SHORT DELAY AND A VERY HEAVY FOG

Broken Drawbar Made the Freight Six Minutes Behind Time—Brakeman's Signal to Flag Passenger Train Not Seen in Time on Account of the Fog.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 4.—A special to the News from Hartford City, Ind., says: A head-on collision occurred at 2:46 Monday morning between a westbound Pan Handle freight and the eastbound passenger. Number of persons injured 16. Some may die.

The injured: W. H. Maul, Logansport, left leg and arm bruised; George Aldworth, 221 West Conger street, Chicago, going to Ireland, right leg crushed off below the knee; M. L. Bahn, Richmond, right leg shattered; C. H. Frederick, Ridgeville, Ind., left leg broken; J. A. Watts, Chicago, right leg cut in several places and dislocated; Christopher Gerhardt, 88 East Huron street, Chicago, both legs crushed and hurt internally. William J. Wells, Chicago, both legs crushed and one side injured; P. J. Barrett, Chicago, both legs broken; George Rowe, Logansport, engineer of the freight, bottom of right foot torn and bruised, caught between apron of engine and tender; Ben Palmers, Denver, on his way to Indy, right leg bruised; John R. Kling, Logansport, conductor, going to Indiana; left to take the lorst, left leg broken at the ankle, right foot bruised; George Galtwein, Chicago, on his way to Boston, feet bruised and cut and back sprained; E. W. Snyder, Logansport, on his way to Columbus, right foot crushed; W. A. Russell, Logansport, on his way to Union City, left leg bruised; Harrison Whistler, Logansport, rural route No. 5, on his way to Columbus, left leg badly jammed and bruised between the knee and ankle, left side bruised; Richard Harvey, Bluffwood, on his way to Pittsburg, right leg broken between the knee and ankle, big toe broken on left foot. These are the most seriously wounded. Five or six others were cut and bruised.

How the Accident Happened.

The accident happened opposite the Clelland factory. The freight was section of No. 81. It had orders to get to the lap track west of the Cleiland factory and to let the passenger by. A broken drawbar caused six minutes' delay. The engineer sent the brakeman ahead to flag the passenger. The freight stopped at the Washington street crossing, but soon followed the flagman. There was a heavy fog, making it impossible to see 50 feet ahead. Opposite the Clelland office the flagman saw the passenger coming at full speed. He had just time to give a shout and jumped for safety. Both engines were reversed when they met, but the momentum was not checked to any extent. The passenger train consisted of six cars. There were two baggage and express cars, a smoker, a lady's coach, the Pullman sleeper Woodland and a tourist sleeper. The second baggage car telescoped the smoker, tearing through the latter and sweeping the people from its path like chaff.

The shock threw many people from their seats. The passengers from the other cars rushed to the aid of those in the forward cars. The wreck was cleared by an hour and a half after the accident before the last one was taken from the wreck of the smoker.

Terrible Accident in Austria.

Berlin, Aug. 4.—A dispatch to the Vossische Zeitung from Vienna reports a serious disaster on the railway between Sochau and Kolvaria, Austrian Silesia. A train consisting of 11 cars heavily loaded with stone broke their coupling and ran at a terrific speed down a sharp grade for 20 miles until they collided with a passenger train. Thirty persons are said to have been killed and 62 others severely injured.

The Price of Lard.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—In a recent issue the Chicago Industrial World says manufacturers of lard are selling their product so cheaply as to give the public the benefit of greatly reversed values, while a large number of retailers, taking advantage of the situation, are demanding still higher top high prices, in many instances securing a net profit of over 40 per cent, paying nine cents and selling for 12 cents a pound. The World adds that "the public should be advised that the present tone of prices is much lower at present than it has been for some time, and if the higher prices are being paid, that is due to the retailers and not the packers."

Electrocuted at Sing Sing.

Ossining, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Antonio Turckowski, a Pole, was put to death Monday in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison. He declared on his way to the chair that he was innocent of the murder of John Stepciotzl, a Brooklyn saloon keeper, which occurred March 6, and of which he had been convicted. Turckowski was sentenced June 22, and the time elapsing between the pronouncing of sentence and its execution is said to have been the shortest on the state records.

Catholic Order Elects Officers.

New York, Aug. 4.—Brother Raphael has been elected superior and Brother Jerome assistant superior of the Roman Catholic order of the Brotherhood of St. Francis.

HAS RESUMED HIS OFFICIAL DUTIES

Postmaster-General Payne Is Again in Charge of the Post Office Department.

DISCUSSES THE PROGRESS OF THE POSTAL INVESTIGATION

Thinks It May Be Completed in About Four Weeks More—Says His Health Is Much Improved—Reports of Latest Developments in the Investigation.

Washington, Aug. 3.—Postmaster General Payne resumed his official duties in the department Saturday. He had a long conference with his assistants during the morning, and for several hours talked over the investigation with Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow. The latter reviewed everything that had been done during Mr. Payne's absence. The postmaster general shows that his trip has greatly benefited him, and he says he feels very much improved. Mr. Payne said that the investigation was not ended, although he hoped the end was in sight. He said it might be completed in four weeks, but it was impossible to fix and exact date. He said the president, in common with himself and Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow, will be glad when the investigation is over, but that none of them wants the inquiry closed until every irregularity has been ferreted out. Mr. Payne pointed out that inspectors are working on the cases in various parts of the country and developments not now foreseen may occur at any time. Mr. Payne declares that every one against whom any evidence has been found will be treated according to the evidence, and that no one will be shielded by the department.

A son of John T. Cupper, the mayor of Delaware, Pa., telephoned United States District Attorney Beech Saturday that Cupper would come to this city to surrender in court Monday.

Counsel for August W. Machen Saturday filed in the criminal court of the district a demurrer to the former indictments of Machen. It alleges that every count in the indictments is fatally defective in that it fails to show that Machen was an officer of the government at the time the offenses alleged were committed. Machen withdrew a plea of not guilty.

The demurrer to indictment for bribery against Diller B. and Samuel A. Groff, in connection with Machen, also was filed. Like Machen, the Groff brothers withdrew their plea of not guilty, and say every count of the indictment is defective. The demurrer contends that the indictment does not in a legal manner charge the defendants with the commission of any offense against the United States, and that it does not charge any act or promise which is a crime or misdemeanor under any law of the United States.

Railroad in Trouble.

Pontiac, Mich., Aug. 3.—A bill of complaint was filed in the Oakland county circuit court here Saturday by attorneys representing Charles H. Stone, Elijah W. Sells and William H. Barbour, all of New York city, asking that a receiver be appointed for the Pontiac, Oxford & Northern railroad, which is 100 miles in length, running from Pontiac north to Saginaw Bay. The court is also asked to make an order that the road be sold and the proceeds divided among the stockholders.

Prophecies the Outcome.

Paris, Aug. 3.—The Le Temps announces that it has a special reason for believing that the outcome of the coalclave will be as follows:

Cardinal Rampolla having secured the greatest number of votes, but not sufficient to elect, will withdraw in favor of Angelo di Pietro, prefatory of the late pope, who is his intimate friend and countryman, and who, if elected, will name Domenico Ferrata, prefect of the congregation of bishops and regulars, as his secretary of state.

Gathering of Catholics.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 3.—The American Federation of Catholic societies began a four days' convention here Saturday. The delegates attended a high mass prior to the opening of the meeting. At the mass Bishop Messmer of Green Bay, Wis., preached the sermon. The object of the convention is to bring into closer contact all of the Catholic societies of the country. Three hundred delegates, most of whom are from the west, are in attendance.

No Rebellion in Cuba.

Washington, Aug. 3.—A cablegram has been received at the state department from United States Minister Squiers, at Havana, stating in substance that the reports of incipient rebellion in Santiago province are false; unsatisfied demands for back pay by veterans of the war with Spain have no foundation in fact, for there has been no overt act committed and dissatisfaction has been expressed by only a few people.

Increase in Immigration.

New York, Aug. 3.—Six thousand more aliens entered the United States through this port last month than during the same month in last year. The total for July this year was 42,900, compared with 36,600 for July, 1902, and 28,900 in the same month in 1901.

Destroyed by Fire.

Albany, Ore., Aug. 3.—The town of Halsey, 15 miles from here, was almost entirely destroyed by fire Friday night. The loss is $70,000, with very little insurance.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

County Exhibits.

One of the most valuable features of Minnesota State Fair has developed from the offer of the management of special premiums for county exhibits. Competition has been keen among the counties in the last two or three fairs and at the fair of 1903 it promises to be still more attractive. More counties than ever will participate in the display, and building on the experience of former years, the exhibits will certainly be finer.

The fair management offers $1,200 for county exhibits to be divided pro rata among the county exhibits scoring seventy points or more, and in addition makes these offerings:

For the exhibit scoring highest in this class an additional $200 will be paid; for the exhibit scoring second highest, $150; for the exhibit scoring third highest, $100; for the exhibit scoring fourth highest, $75; for the exhibit scoring the fifth highest, $50; for the exhibit scoring sixth highest, $25.

For taste and design in arrangement of the exhibits in this class, the following premiums are offered: 1st—$20.00, 2d—$15.00, 3d—$10.00, 4th—$10.00, 5th —$10.00. Entries in this class must be made be made by Saturday, August 22d, to insure space.

The fair opens Monday morning, August 31st with oh address by U. S. Senator Fairbanks, one of the great orators of the upper house of the congress.

Revising the Laws.

The work of revising the statutes of Minnesota is progressing steadily, and the revision commissioners expect to have the work done at the opening of the next legislature.

The method employed is to take up a chapter of the old statutes at the time and from this a revision is made into sections. Chapters are assigned to different members of the board, and as the work is completed the board as a whole passes on it.

The scheme of the revision will be different from that of most compilations. The statutes will be divided into chapters, and the entire work will be subdivided into sections, the same being commencing at the beginning of the book. The distinctive feature is that of making of the title instead of the chapters the primary division. When completed the revision will be submitted to the legislature in the form of bill.

Wants a Bounty.

State Auditor Iverson got a letter from a man in Little Falls, who has heard that there is a bounty for a family of seven sons straight, and is anxious to collect. He says in the letter:

"Some one has told me that if a man in the old country had seven sons born to him in succession and no females at all he got a reward from the king, and he has told me that he heard they get it here, too, so I drop these few lines to you asking you to answer if I could get such reward, as a case of that kind has happened to me."

Mr. Iverson does not know of any such bounty, and has not heard that the state prefers a straight family of boys to a mixed collection.

Turned Back.

Thirty laborers who arrived in Duluth from Port Arthur on the steamer America were turned back by police and customs officials as the men were brought in in violation of the contract labor laws. The party was composed of eighteen Italians, ten Austrians and two Greeks, in charge of L. Riela, the foreman of the gang. They were on their way to Montana to work for a railroad, under contract to work for $1 per day on shovel men and $2.25 per day for rock men.

W. F. Street Shot to Death.

W. F. Street, president of the White, & Street Townsite company, and widely known, was accidentally shot and killed at Ismaldi by his brother-in-law, Louis Bland, 15 years old. A charge of bird shot from a single barrel shotgun entered the temple on the small of Mr. Street's back at close range. Mr. Street, his wife and the boy were horrying two miles from town. Mr. and Mrs. Street were married six weeks ago.

Fatally Injured.

James Nasinis, employed as an edger at the Steele-Carpenter sawmill in Minneapolis, was fatally injured and died a few hours later at the city hospital. He was in charge of an edger and was at work in the mill by a piece of wood which flew off from the machine and was driven nearly six inches into his body. The stick was about the size of a scantling and inflicted a deep wound.

News Notes.

A hold-up in jail of a prisoner by two other prisoners is the latest thing in Minneapolis criminological circles, and occurred at Central police station.

The 3-year-old son of O. H. Honsds, or Carroll street, St. Paul, while playing in the woodbox in the kitchen of his home, slipped and fell in such a manner that his back was broken. The lower part of his body was paralyzed, and convulsions, resulting later in death.

While stowing away hay, Mr. L. Noeen, an aged gentleman, and father-in-law of John W. Anderson, a prominent farmer near Kenyon, fell from the hay loft, fracturing both bones of his left leg between the knee and ankle.

Extradition papers were issued by Gov. Van Sant for Frank Gorman, said to be wanted in Chicago on a charge of forgery. It is charged that Gorman held a check payable to himself for $35, which he raised to $135 and cashed it. He was arrested at Minneapolis.

Eugene L. Snyder and Homer B. Bardwell, both of St. Paul, have been discharged in bankruptcy.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN and CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS and GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVER VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—that Red River Valley farm lands are cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will double in that value within the next five years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not just as well have that in your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well-settled community, where churches and schools are built and well attended. These will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $5,000 cash well handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit at 6 per cent. A live investor can make a few thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for description, terms and prices.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

Tomed Herb.

You can keep clean with soft soap, but it is rather unpleasant and most people prefer something a little less streamlined. Cole's Carbolsnap is the best soap for personal use. It is purely vegetable, exquisitely perfumed and it keeps the skin soft and free from blemishes. Be sure you get Cole's. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

Massachusetts' Seashore town.

Nantucket, the smallest town in Massachusetts, comprises those little specks of land which, beginning at Woods Holl, at the "shoulder" of old Cape Cod's right arm, extend seaward till they terminate in that fatal reef of the Sow and Pigs.

The Death Penalty.

A little thing sometimes results in death. Thus a mere scratch, insignificant cuts or pure boils have paid the death penalty. It is wise to have Bucklin's Arnica Salve ever handy. It's the best Salve on earth and will prevent fatality, when Burns, Sores, Ulcers and Piles threaten. Only 25c. at W. A. Schreiter's Drug Store.

Suggestive Names.

The Coxcomb mountains of British Columbia, to some extent an unknown part of the famous Mahogany coast, are undergoing a process of christening which will identify them for all time with the beginning of the twentieth century. One range has just been named the Queen Alexandra mountains, another range takes the name of the Prince of Wales, and a 4,000 foot peak has been named Mount Joseph Chamberlain.

Fatal Fly Paper.

Few people live healthful lives. In this strenuous age it is easy to approach the danger point and only stop when we find that something is needed to help us back to health and strength. Then is the time to take Cole's Blodhilder, the liver, blood purifier and general tonic. It is just what its name implies. Try it. $1.00 by A. L. Reichert.

As to Faults.

Make sure that, however good you may be, you have faults; that how ever dull you may be, you can find out what they are; and that, however slight they may be, you would better make some patient effort to get quit of them.—Ruskin.

Eat All You Want.

Persons troubled with indigestion or Dyspepsia can eat all they want if they take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. This remedy prepares the stomach for the reception, retention, digestion and assimilation of the wholesome food that may be eaten, and enables the digestive organs to transform the same into the kind of blood that gives health and strength. TRIAL OF JETT AND WHITE.

Commonwealth Rests in the Kentucky Feud Murder Case After Presentation of Many Witnesses.

Cynthiana, Ky., Aug. 4.—In the case of the Commonwealth vs. Jett and White for the murder of James B. Marcum, May 4, Breck Little, a special bailiff of the Breathitt county circuit court, during the first trial of Jett at Jackson, testified that he and several men, with soldiers, captured Tom White at four o'clock in the morning after an 18-mile ride over the mountains. After he was taken White said to Little: "In a few minutes more you would not have had me, as I would have left here."

Woodson McChord, sheriff of Clark county, was called. He testified that he arrested Jett Sunday morning, May 10, in Madison county, at his mother's home, and that after being arrested Jett asked for whisky, which was not given him, and said: "I am sorry to be arrested Sunday, as I would not be taken to Winchester if arrested on another day. I could be taken to Jackson, where I would be all right."

Witness said he asked Jett where he was when the killing occurred, and Jett replied: "None of your business."

W. H. Blanton, who was recalled by the prosecution, testified that in a conversation with Capt. Ewen he day after the shooting of James Marcum, Ewen told him who committed the murder.

After having presented 42 witnesses, Commonwealth's Attorney Byrd announced that the state rested its case, and Judge Osborne adjourned court until afternoon to allow the defendants' attorneys to talk with their clients. The defense will introduce about 20 witnesses more than at Jackson.

CLOUDBURST IN KANSAS.

Floods the Lowlands and Valleys and Several Towns, Causing Great Damage to Property.

Salina, Kan., Aug. 4.—A cloudburst Sunday flooded the lowlands and valleys from a point near Lindsborg northwest to Ellsworth, doing much damage. The valley northwest from Lindsborg is all under water and at Carneby, Brookville and Bavaria the water is from one to two feet deeper than during the recent flood. At Carneby the streets were flooded and the water reached the platform of the Union Pacific depot. Residences in the lower part of the town are from one to three feet under water.

Lawrence, Kan., Aug. 4.—The water in the Kaw river here has fallen about a foot since Sunday evening. The wash against the north bank of the new channel has caused much damage by reason of the swift current, and streets and buildings in North Lawrence have again been endangered by the constant caving in of the banks. The main approach to the bridge has been so badly undermined that crossing by wagons was impossible Monday. Repairs will be made at once to restore communication between the two parts of the city.

Abilene, Kan., Aug. 4.—The Smoky Hill river has risen eight feet in the past 24 hours and is yet rising.

WYLIE.

Everybody is getting ready to go to the fair at Thief River Falls today.

Barley is being harvested this week, and a good yield is promised.

Mrs. Sandberg jr. was up from Crookston over Sunday to visit her husband.

Mrs. Maurice Dargan is receiving a visit from her sister from Plainfield, Minn.

Andrew Letvig went to Terrebonne last Sunday to spend the day with his sister.

William Bendelsen, the popular machine man, was here from Red Lake Falls Saturday.

Miss Lottie Wylie came up from Crookston last Saturday to visit her mother for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Cruzen, of Mentor, were here over Sunday to visit Mrs. Curren's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Tysolling.

Misses Eva Tysolling and Nanie Swanson returned Saturday from Crookston, where they attended the teachers' training school.

Leppert Bros.' team got away Saturday and made the trip to Fishers' Landing without a driver. It took several days to find them.

The Wylie gun club is after the chicken hunters, and those who have been pursuious with a gun in this neighborhood are apt to feel the majesty of the law.

O. T. Romsos made a trip to Crookston, Grand Forks, Moorhead and Fergus Falls last week in the interest of the Wylie Dairy association. He disposed of several good orders of the products of the local factory.

Mr. and Mrs. Cruzen are here from Colo-ineosa, Iowa, this week, visiting at the home of their old friends, William Tysolling and family. Mr. Cruzen has fallen in love with the Red Lake county and he may conclude to move here.

Dargan's hotel was visited by burglars Saturday night. Fred Schultz lost a gold watch and Ab Fletcher of Red Lake Falls is minus about $11 in cash. It is pretty certain that a hobo who came to town that day was the burglar, but so far efforts to locate him have been unsuccessful.

A game of ball was played between the Red Lake Falls second nine and the Wylie team Sunday. The score was 16 to 15 in favor of Red Lake Falls. It was a poor exhibition of the national game, but afforded lots of fun. The treatment of the visiting team may not have been all that it ought to have been, but this is accounted for by the fact that several of the local nine were busy looking for the burglar.

GARNES FARMER COMMITS SUICIDE

Ole Hoven Kills Himself by Blowing off the Top of His Head With a Shotgun.

Ole Hoven, a prominent Garnes township farmer, killed himself last Wednesday forenoon by shooting himself in the head with a shotgun, the charge literally blowing off the top of his head. Mr. Hoven has been considered out of his mind for some weeks, and there was talk of having him brought to town for examination before the judge of probate. He was about 35 years of age, owns a farm and was considered well-to-do. He was married about six years ago, and has no children.

The funeral was held Friday from the Garnes church. No cause is assigned for his rash deed, except that he was slightly demented, and it is supposed he worried over some trifling matter.

St. Hilaire Train Narrowly Misses Running Over Child.

Engineer Milligan, in charge of the locomotive that pulls the St. Hilaire train, had an experience on Saturday afternoon that gave him several sorts of thrills and a few cold shivers, says the Crookston Journal. While the train was coming along between Wylie and Ives he saw a three-year-old child working its way from the farm house of Fred Gother near the track towards the rails. Without thinking for a minute that the child would attempt to get in the way, he at the same time applied the brakes as he was nearing the spot where the trouble would occur. The little one continued to the track and getting between the rails started to toddle away from the train, not of course realizing for a moment its danger. The engine was reversed but not in time to prevent striking the child, which was thrown a few feet ahead and again hit before the train came to a comfortable stop. When Engineer Milligan ran ahead to pick up the child it was supposed that it was severely injured but there was but one bruise on its person, a break of the skin on its forehead. The mother was soon on hand and both were taken aboard the train and brought to the city and turned over to Dr. Dunlop who decided that there were no internal injuries and that fortunately for the little one it would be all right in a day or two.

Talking Without Thinking.

Philadelphia Recorc: Notwithstanding the failure of his numerous political predictions, including that of the election of Greeley, Senator Chauncey M. Depew says that President Roosevelt's majority will be the largest ever given to any presidential candidate by the electoral college. He forgets the majority for General Grant in 1872, as well as the facts that the electoral votes for George Washington was unnimous and that of James Monroe, in 1820, had 231 electoral votes in a total of 232 votes in the electoral college. But this is only Chauncey Depew's way of talking.

COLLECTS BANK DEPOSITS.

State of Minnesota Recovers From the Financial Panic.

The Minnesota treasury has recovered almost entirely from the financial panic of the early nineties. The amount of state deposits is insolvent banks has been reduced by collections from nearly $500,000 to $24,338.07, and it is expected that the outstanding debts will be collected in a short time.

Few states have been as fortunate as Minnesota in this regard. Legislation making the sureties liable for the deposits and the ruling of courts that debts due a state cannot be prejudiated under the bankruptcy law, have saved the state from great loss. The suspeaded banks, moreover, have in many instances volunteered to pay their obligations as soon as they could recover from the depressing conditions, and large amounts have been collected without litigation.

The effect of the panic of the early nineties did not strike Minnesota with full force until 1895 and 1896. Many of the state depositories, thinking that they might bridge over the period of depression, managed to exist until these years. Of the state depositors, eighteen succumbed in 1895 and 1896, and four became insolvent in the proceeding year. The state deposits in the eighteen banks aggregated $294,558.25, and the deposits of the other four amounted to $137,756, making the total amount $432,314.25.

The state immediately began to recover these obligations. During the next year a total of $231,346.5 was paid into the treasury on thisaccount. Eleven banks paid up in full, and all but two made some payments. By 1897 the deposits in suspended banks were reduced to $166,050.36, and the number of banks were reduced to ten. In 1898 the deposits were $110,383.37, in seven banks. This amount was reduced to $109,987.49 in 1899, notwithstanding the fact that another bank became insolvent.

Great progress has been made in collecting these obligations since 1900. The deposits of 1900 were reduced from $97,137.04 to $69,292.84 in 1901, two additional banks paying up in full. In 1902 the debts were reduced to $31,964.82, and to $24,338.07 in 1903.

The Rage of Speed.

The writer in the Horseless Age claims that traveling at high speed in motor cars breeds a form of disease or a mania for such recreation that is positively dangerous. This may be putting the facts too strongly, but there is certainly a limit beyond which it is unreasonable to go whether you are driving a horse or an automobile. Before the speed limit is reached there is a wonderful exhilaration from the large quantities of fresh air inhaled. Golden grain belt beer produces much the same effect, resting the nerves and refreshing the entire body. You should use it regularly in your home. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex. Thompson, Crookston.

MILLIONS FOR SCHOOLS.

State Fund is Now $15,000,000, and Will be Much More.

The Minnesota permanent school fund has reached the $15,000,000 mark. No other state except Texas has so large a fund, and state official estimate that it will not be long before Minnesota will lead them all. Of this fund approximately $5,000,000 is unpaid principal on land contracts, and of the remaining $9,000,000, $8,700,000 is invested in interest bearing bonds. The average rate of interest is 4 per cent.

Estimates of the amount that the fund will ultimately reach when all the lands are sold are put at higher figures by each succeeding state auditor. It seems that the human mind is incapable of appreciating the wealth of Minnesota's resources. Former State Auditor W. W. Braden created quite a sensation when he stated that the fund would ultimately reach $20,000,000. State treasury officials yesterday put in the figure at $30,000,000.

When this estimate was brought to the attention of State Auditor S. G. Iverson he said:

"The state treasury is mistaken. The estimate would have been much nearer the truth if it had been $100,000,000. The wealth of the Minnesota school fund in the iron ranges alone exceeds calculation. Any attempt that I might make to estimate its value would be a mere guess.

"There are several forty-acre tracts in the iron ranges, each of which, when the mines are developed, will bring into the state treasury from $5,000,000 to $8,000,000 in iron royalties, at the rate of 25 ceats for each ton of ore mined. The fund has a great many tracts which will bring $1,000,000 each. This fund is the largest fee owner of iron lands in the state."

The income from the permanent school fund, together with the state tax of 1 mill, makes up the general school fund, which is appropriated among the school districts of the state according to the number of qualified pupils in each district. The amount that will be appropriated next October is approximately $800,000, and each district will get approximately twice as many dollars as it has pupils, between five and twenty-one years old, who have attended at least forty days out of the year in schools holding at least a five months' term. An apportionment is also made on March 1 every year.

The resources of the permanent university fund are growing almost as rapidly as the school fund. The fund already has reached the $1,500,000 mark.

"It will not be long before the annual income from the permanent university fund will be large enough to defray the entire expenses of running the state university," said State Auditor Iverson. "The fund has many valuable tracts in the iron belt; some of the mines have already been developed, and when railroads and transportation facilities are provided they will be large shippers. This means that millions of dollars will be added to the fund in iron ore royalties."

State Aid to Schools.

The State high school board will have $409,000 to distribute this year, in addition to the $4.00 a school pupil, says the Pioneer Press. The high schools will get $217,000 of this, $10,000 will be distributed among schools for the special instruction in the common branches for the benefit of teachers, and villages maintaining high schools will get $79,000. The state superintendent is allowed to distribute $167.000 among rural and semigraded schools showing special excellence. Minnesota is a very liberal state in the encouragement of rural school development. Its policy is to allow a district to establish a school and to extend aid according to the progress made. Good faith only is required on the part of the community. When this has been demonstrated the state will come forward with its aid in recognition of the special excellence shown.

COUNTY EQUALIZERS PUT ON $40,000.

Valuations Are Increased $50,000 Over Last Year—State Board Will Make Another Raise.

The correction of the assessment list in accordance with the changes made by the county board of equalization was finished by Auditor Ford last week. The returns made by the assessors made a total of $851,211, and the raises by the county board brings the amount up to $889,016. The valuations by minor subdivisions are as follows:

For Mental Gymnasts.

An exchange says: The following problem has puzzled the brains of some of our mental gymnasts during the past week or so, and we know of at least one good man who says: "By George, that ought not to be so. That's a case where figures do lie." See if you can find the kink in it: Peter and John, two old men, sold apples in the street. Each had sixty apples. Peter sold his at the rate of two for a cent, hence his apples brought him thirty cents. John sold his at the rate of three for a cent and each day his brought him twenty cents, so each day tho two had thirty plus twenty cents, or fifty cents. John was sick one day and asked Petor to sell his apples for him, which he consented to do. Now, says Peter, I have been selling mine at the rate of two for a sont; that is the same as selling our apples at five for two cents, so I will sell them that way. But when all are sold he finds he has only forty-eight cents. Where and how was the two cents lost?"

The Other Fellow's Tariff.

Minneapolis Times: The furniture man, at their annual meeting, have been placing themselves on record as favoring certain steps in tariff revision. They omitted, however, to say anything about a reduction of the duties on furniture. A great many of the infants think some other infants could get along with a little less pap.

ONLY UP-TO-DATE CLOTHING HOUSE IN RED LAKE COUNTY.

TAILORED by hand isn't commonly thought of in connection with ready-to-wear clothes; you expect to pay extra for it: you needn't. Hart, Schaffner & Marx clothes are "tailored by hand" as much as the custom tailor's product, and better done than lots of them. It's the thing that makes them "READY TO WEAR" instead of just "READY MADE." Contrive to have a becoming suit this time. See yourself in some of our new Cheviots and Tweeds; we have them in brown, grey, olive, innumerable mixtures, and also rich weaves of blue and black, from $4.50 to $25.00 a suit.

During Attacks Of Heart Failure.

Would Appear To Be Dead.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Relieved and Cured.

"I have no hesitation in saying that Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is all that one can wish it to be. I was troubled with heart disease for fifteen years. I have tried many different remedies but until I tried Dr. Miles' Heart Cure I got no relief. I had dizzy spells, headaches and had tried your Pain Pills and they were so effective I thought your Heart Cure might help me. I would have attacks at times so severe that I would be stone blind for the time being. During these spells I would be to all appearances dead. I took the medicine strictly as directed and I can truthfully say that I am completely cured. I advise all that are troubled with heart disease to use Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. Use my name in this and give my name to any fellow sufferer."—S. E. Purdy, Atkinson, Nebraska.

"I first felt the effects of a weak heart in the fall of 1896. I saw an advertisement in the Sioux City paper in which a man stated his symptoms which seemed to me to indicate a trouble similar to mine. I had a soreness in the chest at times, and in my shoulder, an oppressive clothing sensation in my throat and suffered from weak and hungry spells at night. I procured a bottle of your remedy and commenced its battle of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. Since taking my first bottle I have never been bothered by any of the old disagreeable symptoms and now am well and consider my cure permanent."—Lewis Anderson, Kulm, S. D.

Easy Pill

Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill, DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due to the fact that they tonic the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe nor sicken, not even the most delicate lady, and yet they are so certain in results that no one who uses them is disappointed. They cure torpid liver, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, headache, malaria and ward off pneumonia and fevers.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

Talk is cheap. If you believe it hire a lawyer and be convinced that the maxim is not true.

A New York man has started to walk to Alaska. This is one of the largest undertakings on foot.

The Currie base ball team made 53 scores in a game last week, and there was no adjournment for meals.

A Milwaukee brewer has offered a prize for the best essay on irrigation. This ought to furnish food for the paragraphers.

Judge Gregory of Albany decides that the ability to speak English is a necessary qualification for American citizenship. It isn't bad law, either.

The Atchison Globe says: Somehow, when we picture a woman going through heaven's gate we see her turning back with a dissatisfied look because she can't smuggle her men folks in with her.

And now Bro. Caldwell of the Worthington Globe has discovered an anomaly:

What do you think of King, the former incorigible, incorruptible Democrat, booming Bob Dunn for Governor? Verily, verily, "politics doth make strange bedfellows."

The Benson Monitor gives Frank Eddy this little boquet:

It is a little late in the day for Frank Eddy to talk about tariff reform. When he had a vote to use for tariff reform, he never thought of upholding that side of the proposition. Now that his vote is of no account, he prates about what congress ought to do. Why didn't you act, Frank, when you had an opportunity?

The following from the Ellsworth News is an axiom, and by practicing it how see easy it is to be happy:

A man to a certain extent creates his own environment, and it lies within his own power to be either miserable or happy. "Whatsoever a man sows that shall he also reap." If you treat your fellowmen fairly you are pretty apt to receive fair treatment in return.

The Grand Forks Herald takes this shot at one of the latest social nuisances:

Harry Lehr, the young man who is accepted as the leader of the frivolously fashionable set at Newport, has adopted the custom of carrying a handbag such as ladies carry when shopping. Most self respecting people oppose mob violence, but it seems that there are cases where ordinary methods are altogether futile. The trouble is that there are crimes the possibility of which our law makers in their simplicity did not contemplate.

It these diatribes on the legislature continue it may be necessary to pass a newspaper law modeled after the Pennsylvania statute. Just listen to this from the Ortonville Herald-Star.

"The state Blue Book, known as the legislative manual, "delayed, but unambiguous," has just made its appearance. It contains half tones of all the members of the legislature. A copy of it should be in the hands of every police officer in the state.

The Duluth News-Tribune notes the passing of a once familiar sight on Minnesota farms:

"Too runaways this week. A team of oxen and a team of broncbos. No great injury done." The above item from Little correspondence to the RED LAKE COUNTY COURIER is interesting chiefly because it makes known the fact that oxen are still drawing wagons and doing farm work in Minnesota. Time was when old "Buck" and "Bright" yoked and attached to a big wagon could furnish a pretty speedy article of runaway—back in the pioneer days of Big Stone county, where the farmers all travel now in automobiles to and from their country estates.

The "Said on the Side" column of the Adrian Democrat is always an interesting department. Here's a few of Schaeffer's latest quips and quirks:

The wife of a Pipestone man makes him wear tucks in his night gown, trimmed with pink ribbon, so that the baby won't know the difference when he walks the floor with it at night. Isn't it a shame?

A South Dakota young man has been jailed for kissing his sweetheart on the public highway. Of course it would have been better to have kissed her on the mouth, but we admire his pluck anyhow.

Flaming head-lines in the Sheldon Sun read: "Danger in Fluffy Skirts." Not any more than a corn-shredder, Major, if you know how to handle yourself. Don't get careless but keep yourself at a safe distance.

The Adrian Democrat man apparently has never heard of the transfiguration of the funny bone, nor of the wonderful possibilities of the northern Minnesota climate. If Bro. Schaeffer should move up here his natural propensities for humor would doubtless become so enlarged and intensified that the risibilities of his readers would be in constant exercise. Hear him:

Not until he moved to Red Lake Falls did John E. King made any sign that he knew a joke from an obituary, but now he rides in humor and says some very funny things when he thinks nobody is listening. In fact, if I did not know to a certainty that he drinks nothing stronger than "Three Star Hennessy," I should say that his humor is the result of undue stimulation. As it is I am unable to account for his startlingly sudden development into a real funny cuss. It is as if some necromancer had transformed a funeral procession into a cake-walk.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON SAYS.

"He Won't Be Happy Till He Gets It!"

The Need of Foresters

By PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

The forest resources of our country are already depleted. They can be renewed and maintained only by the cooperation of the forester with the practical man of business in all his types, but, above all, with the lumber man. And the most striking and encouraging fact in the forest situation is that lumber men are realizing that practical lumbering and practical forestry are allies, not enemies, and that the future of each depends upon the other. The resolutions passed at the last meeting of the representatives of the lumber interests in Washington were a striking proof of this fact and a most encouraging feature of the present situation. So long as we could not make the men concerned in the great lumber industry realize that the foresters were endeavoring to work in their interest and not against them, the headway that could be made was but small. We shall be able to work effectively and bring about important results of a permanent character largely in proportion as we are able to convince those men, the men at the head of that great business, of the practical wisdom of what the foresters of the United States are seeking to accomplish.

The United States is exhausting its forest supplies far more rapidly than they are being produced. The situation is grave, and there is only one remedy. That remedy is the introduction of practical forestry on a large scale, and of course that is impossible without trained men, men trained in the closet and also by actual field work under practical conditions.

I believe that the foresters of the United States will create a more effective system of forestry than we have yet seen.

Nowhere else is the development of a country more closely bound up with the creation and execution of a judicious forest policy. This is, of course, especially true of the west, but it is true of the east also. Fortunately in the west we have been able, relatively to the growth of the country, to begin at an early day, so that we have been able to establish great forest reserves in the Rocky mountains instead of having to wait and attempt to get congress to pay large sums for their creation, as we are now endeavoring to do in the southern Appalachians. Not only is a sound national forest policy coming rapidly into being, but the lumber men of the country are proving their interest in forestry by practicing it.

HISTORY AND PATRIOTISM

By DR. GEORGE E. VINCENT,
University of Chicago.

IT is customary for us to regard knowledge as a very important thing, but not ordinarily to associate it with a great spirit of enthusiasm. We want to insist that the first thing for every young American is to have knowledge of the great fundamental facts of the history of his nation, and this knowledge should be of that sort which brings before his mind in vivid procession the great events, great men, great epochs of national life. We sometimes assume that the schools confer this, but we are not always justified in counting upon it. It was a young woman in a high school who, when asked what was the origin of domestic slavery in the United States, replied: "Domestic slavery began when, in 1619, a shipload of women landed in Virginia and became the wives of the planters." It is possible to have some control of the facts of history and yet not see in them their true significance.

Another point which I want to insist upon with regard to the knowledge which one should have of his country is this, that the knowledge should include not only those particular things which we associate with the famous men of America, but should include the great movements, the activities of the whole people, should comprehend those underlying and fundamental facts, which, after all, are of the greatest significance to national life. War is always an attractive thing to young people. There is something spectacular about the general leading his army; and yet there is nothing that we need to learn more clearly in these days than that these striking events are not after all the most important; that they are not the fundamental things which make for national prosperity and national progress. A small boy was once asked to write the history of the world, or he undertook it on his own account. He began with Cain and Abel, and some one said: "Why didn't you begin with Adam and Eve?" He said: "Why, they didn't fight."

I want to insist on another thing, and that is no patriotic American in these days can afford not to know in a general way the history of the world and be familiar with the roles played by the great nations of to-day. To imagine that American history is a thing isolated from the great life of mankind is to take the narrow, the bigoted, the provincial view. A small boy was asked who was the first man, and he promptly replied: "George Washington." When he was reminded of Adam, he said: "Oh, if you count foreigners." Now, I am very much afraid that there has been a spirit of not counting foreigners. If you are to be truly patriotic and ideal citizens of this great republic you must not only have a vivid comprehension of the facts of our own history, but you must know something of other nations, respect the traditions for which they stand and recognize them as great cooperative factors in the history of mankind.

The Immigration Problem

By HON. SHELBY M. CULLOM,
United States Senator from Illinois.

Our country is filling up with people from all other countries, perhaps more rapidly than it is wise to allow them unless greater care shall be taken in the quality of the emigrants. So far they've been absorbed, and have been of service in the upbuilding of the country. Millions of foreigners come to America utterly ignorant of our language, of our system of government, of our constitution, and yet, after a brief residence here, they are given the right to vote, with a voice in the government of the nation.

Many of them know as little about our national constitution as the Russian soldier who thought the constitution was a woman and the wife of one of their grand dukes. But if our country continues to prosper and keep up the present movement in great enterprises in all departments of industry, on the land and on the sea, it is apparent that we have no men or women to spare.

LIVER TROUBLES

"I had Thedford's Black-Draught a great medicine for liver disease. It cured my son after he had spent $100 with doctors. It is all to-day-Mike Lake."—MRS. CAROLINE MARTIN, Parkersburg, W. Va.

If your liver does not act regularly go to your druggist and secure a package of Thedford's Black-Draught, and take a dose tonight. This great family medicine frees the constipated bowels, stirs up the torpid liver and causes a healthy secretion of bile.

Thedford's Black-Draught will cleanse the bowels of impurities and keep them in healthy condition. A torpid liver invites colds, biliousness, chills and fever and all manner of sickness and discomfort. Weak kidneys result in Bright's disease which claims so many victims as consumption. A 25-cent package of Thedford's Black-Draught should always be kept in the house.

"I used Thedford's Black-Draught for liver and kidney complaint and found it to be all that is claimed."—WILLIAM COFFMAN, Marshfield, Ill.

Save the Children.

Ninety-nine of every one hundred diseases that children have are due to disorders of the stomach, and these disorders are all caused by indigestion. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is just as good for children as it is for adults. Children thrive on it. It keeps their little stomachs sweet and encourages their growth and development. Mrs. Henry Carter, 705 Central St., Nashville, Tenn., says: "My little boy is now three years old and has been suffering from indigestion ever since he was born. I have had the best doctors in Nashville, but failed to do him any good. After using one bottle of Kodol he is a well baby. I recommend it to all sufferers." Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by W. A. Schreiber.

Sheriff's Sale on Execution.

BY VIRTUE OF AN EXECUTION ISSUED out of and under the seal of the District Court of the Ninth Judicial District of the State of Minnesota, in and for Red Lake County, and directed to the said court on the 31 day of August, A. D. 1901, in an action wherein Mary Ann Nesbitt, Mary Nesbitt Gilbertson, Mary Nesbitt Gilbertson, as guardian of Ida Nesbitt, Mary Nesbitt Gilbertson, as guardian of Ethel Nesbitt, and Mary Nesbitt Gilbertson, as guardian of Ruth Nesbitt, were plaintiffs and Thomas Nesbitt was defendant, I was commanded to satisfy the judgment of said court in favor of said plaintiffs and against said defendant for the sum of Four Hundred Sixty-four and 60-100 Dollars ($464.60) Dollars, which execution was delivered to me on the 31st day of August, 1901, and directed and delivered to Chester Lawrence, Sheriff of Red Lake County, Minnesota, and by virtue of which the said Chester Lawrence as such Sheriff did on the 31st day of August, 1901, levy upon and take into his possession all the right, title and interest of the said defendant in and to the following described real estate, to-wit:

The South Half of the Northeast Quarter (S. ½ of N. E. ¼) and Lots three (3) and four (4) in Section two (2), and the South Half of the Northwest Quarter (S. ½ of N. W. ¼) and Lots one (1) and two (2) in Section three (3), all in Township One hundred and Six-ner (101) North, of Range Forty-three (43) as the property of the defendant L. P. Thyren, and

Whereas, said Execution was issued upon the docket of said execution and the undersigned was subsequently duly appointed sheriff of said Red Lake County, and is now the qualified and acting sheriff of said county, and

Whereas, said execution was, upon the 29th day of August, 1903, duly returned to the office of the Clerk of the District Court of said Red Lake County, duly renewed for sixty days from and after the delivery of the same, and

Whereas, a portion of said premises consisting of the South Half of the Northeast Quarter (S. ½ of N. E. ¼) and Lots three (3) and four (4) in Section two (2), and the South Half of the Northwest Quarter (S. ½ of N. W. ¼) and Lots one (1) and two (2) in Section three (3), all in Township One hundred and Six-ner (101) North, of Range Forty-three (43) as the property of the defendant L. P. Thyren, has been duly levied upon and taken by me as sheriff of Red Lake County, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, and

Whereas, a portion of said premises consisting of the South Half of the Northeast Quarter (S. ½ of N. E. ¼) and Lots three (3) and four (4) in Section two (2), and the South Half of the Northwest Quarter (S. ½ of N. W. ¼) and Lots one (1) and two (2) in Section three (3), all in Township One hundred and Six-ner (101) North, of Range Forty-three (43) as the property of the defendant L. P. Thyren, has been duly levied upon and taken by me as sheriff of Red Lake County, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, and

Whereas, I have given due notice of the time and place of sale of said premises by posting notices thereof in three public places in said county, and by publishing such notice in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, Minn., for six consecutive weeks prior to the day of sale, and

Whereas, the sheriff's fees and disbursements in the sum of Twenty-four and 50-100 Dollars ($24.50) have been paid, and

Whereas, the plaintiffs' attorney's fee in the sum of Twenty-five Dollars ($25.00) has been paid, and

Whereas, the amount due upon said judgment, including interest, costs and disbursements, is the sum of Four Hundred Sixty-four and 60-100 Dollars ($464.60), and

Whereas, the said premises will be sold subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale by the sheriff to the defendant, his heirs or assigns, or any creditor having a lien upon the same, or any part thereof, by paying the amount of the purchase money with interest thereon at the rate of one per cent per month, and the amount of any assessments or taxes which the purchaser may have paid thereon after purchase, with interest on such sums, and

Whereas, default has been made in the conditions of said sale, and no redemption has been made, and

Whereas, the time for redemption will expire on the 31st day of August, 1904, at 10 o'clock a. m.

Now, therefore, I will sell the premises above described at public auction to the highest bidder for cash at public auction at the front door of the court house in the city of Red Lake Falls, in said county, on Saturday, the 31st day of August, 1904, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, to satisfy the said execution, and the costs and disbursements of this sale.

Dated this 29th day of August, 1903.

THERE is considerable doubt in the publicmind whether Mr. Schwab really earned his salary.

IT looks very much as if the chief rascal in the postoffice department got away when the statute of limitations was allowed to run against Perry Heath.

THE Ortonville Herald-Star is afraid that Frank Eddy is preparing to go the way of John Lind and Charlie Towne. The Lord save the Democrats from such a fate!

THE Duluth News-Tribune thinks President Roosevelt is overdoing the strenuosity business when he chops wood every day, notwithstanding the excellent condition of his fences.

MRS. DAVIS is reported to have given her age as 36 in applying for her recent marriage license. She looks it. In fact there will be none so rash as to say that sheoverstated the case.

THE tramp who visits the north, west these days must be immune to heart disease or he would not live a week. He would probably beoffered a job in the harvest field several times a day.

A. P. FOSTER, of Litchfield, who came within a few hundred votes of defeating Congressman Buchman in the primaries last year, isalready announced as a candidate for congress next year.

IT would be difficult to realize much cash at the bank on a bunchof oil stock these days. When people learn that there are plenty of safe and profitable investments for idle capital in their home town there would not be so much wandering after strange gods.

THE Commoner publishes this story on John D. Rockefeller: "Mr. Rockefeller says that whenever he wants anything he prays for it. This recalls the story of the darky who prayed for a Thanksgiving turkey, but in vain. Then he prayed that he might be sent out to get a turkey, and there were feathers in his back yard before sun-up."

THE Republican press of the state is to be congratulated upon its stand in opposition to the candidacy of Ira B. Mills to succeed himself as railroad and warehouse commissioner. Mills is believed to be altogether too friendly to the railroads and other corporations to make him a safe champion of the people. The fight against Mills, if successful, will go a long ways in convincing the people that the Republican party is not dominated by the corporate interests.

RAY W. JONES, the Minneapolis lumberman who bocus-pocused the Republican party into nominating him for lieutenant governor, is realizing by this time that his dinner to the members of the state senate threatens to be his political undoing. The lumber barons, in common with other special interests, have believed that governments were instituted among men to protect and defend their high-handed robberies, and any action on the part of officials inimical to their schemes is warmly resented. But this is the first time that a public officer of the state has dared to use his official position to serve his private interests in a manner so highhanded that even his fellow-conspirators disapprove. This disapproval may not be manifested because of a desire for the public weal, but common decency suggests a more politic course, and poor Jones is just now a butt of general ridicule.

WITH regard to State Printer Dare's statement that "when it comes to discussing where the campaign funds come from the less said about it the better," ex-Senator John A. Johnson says in the St. Peter Herald: "They first fry out all they can from the poor office holder and then go down to the railroad offices, to the heads of corporations and get the big chunks for a promise of friendliness and non interference and then go out and proceed to convince the people that they are their friends, which they are, until the votes are counted. Everybody knows how they get the funds and everybody knows that the corporations do not put up the cash for fun but do it for a consideration. It is the bane of our political system. Didn't Havemeyer say they contributed largely to both sides? And what do you suppose they did it for? Is this state the majority is so large that they only contribute to one side and they have been doing it for years. No doubt the less said about it the better."

GENERAL MILES.

Saturday there retired from active service a figure that has been nationally before the country for over a quarter century. Lieutenant-General Nelson A. Miles, having reached the age of retirement, stepped out from the position which he has honored for several years into semi-private life. It has been unfortunate that the closing years of the active service of this brave old fighter and superb general have been made unpleasant by disagreeable contact with a coterie of men who sought in vain to lower the high standard of the military service by the injection of practical politics for the purpose of graft. General Miles, it may truthfully be said, owes the disfavor in which he is held in administrative circles largely to his inflexible stand for efficiency without graft; he did not submit to petty tyrannies and cabals without registering strenuous objections.

There is little reason to doubt that the retirement of General Miles would have been forced by President Roosevelt, on the advice of Secretary Root and others, some time before it should have come by age limit had the president and his advisors dared to take such action against the sentiment of the country. Ever since the elevation of Roosevelt to the presidency it is known that one of his dearest wishes was to humiliate the old general. It is also known to be a fact that the president, for all his strenuousness and vaunted independence, did not dare chastise Miles in the manner which his dislike and that of his secretary of war would have dictated.

General Miles during his long life of public service, dating from the opening of the civil war and continuing through a long period of Indian campaigning in which he achieved greater success than any other officer of the army, down to the troublesome times into which he fell with the outbreak of the Spanish war, when practical politics took the place of patriotism and strived to withhold merited honors from him, down through the intervening years of mismanagement in the Philippines and elsewhere, has nothing to look back upon that does not do him credit. He has been an American soldier of the highest, truest type; brave, honorable and much more than ordinarily efficient in his high position.

Despite the "knocking" of the politicians whose toes he has trod upon and whose grafts he has sought to prevent, Nelson A. Miles will go down to history as one of the best and bravest commanders of the army the country has ever seen. May his remaining years bring him more peace and more complete acknowledgement of his merit.

EXCHANGE ECHOES.

Adrian Democrat: The number of immigrants for the twelve months ending June 30 into the United States was larger than ever before —827,046. If this vast inflowing tide were chiefly made up of Germans, Scandinavians and other enterprising and self-reliant people, we might feel more secure, but more than two-thirds of it is made up of the poorest, most ignorant and most helpless of the populations of southern and southeastern Europe. Correspondents tell us that "there is no evidence that there will be any diminution in the summer" of these undesirable people unless the laws are more strict and are more strictly enforced. But there are two powerful interests which will prevent any adequate restriction—the steamship companies, which make big money on these shipments of human freight, and American corporations, which can make bigger money by forcing labor in this country down a few more notches.

Fergus Free Press: Most every day it is reported that one or more negroes have been lynched. Still this is not surprising if the record is going to be kept up. During the last ten years there has been 1,868 such events. The life of some negroes is very uncertain. They may be here today and in paradise tomorrow. This is not as it should be. Every man should have the right of wearing the kind of collar that suits his taste. Most prefer linen and we are opposed to the hemp substitute especially when presented by a mob.

DUGDALE STATION.

Must be Recognized by Great Northern or Cause Shown.

The matter of discontinuing train service at the station at Dugdale by the Great Northern has been brought to the attention of the railway commissioners and they have decided to look into the case.

The claim made is that the company sold the lots to the people who located and went into business there on the promise that when a stated amount of business developed a depot building would be built. Later on it became expedient to unite with the Northern Pacific and build a depot a mile west of Dugdale, and this was done.

Since that was accomplished the company has discontinued stopping trains at Dugdale, and it is necessary for those wishing to patronize the road to travel upwards of a mile to get to the station. The location at Tilden is such, too, that the surrounding swamp makes it impracticable to move the business houses to that place, and the expense of doing so would, it is claimed by the Dugdale people, be heavy and an injustice to them.

They therefore petitioned the railway commission to take up the matter and a letter received Tuesday from the chairman, Hon. Ira B. Mills, says that the company has been ordered to satisfy the complaint or make an answer within 20 days, and as soon as the company's answer is in the matter will be set for a hearing on the matter to be held in Crookston.

J. C. Engerman and wife departed Saturday for Grand Forks, where they visited over Sunday. Mr. Engerman will probably be sent to Neche, N. D., where he will open a branch agency for the Edwards, Wood & Co. commission house.

Peter Kilburg's little son was brought from Crookston Monday and is now being treated at home by Dr. Gendron. The little fellow had an operation performed at St. Vincent's hospital last week for a disease of the bone in the left leg.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church served ice cream and cake at the home of Mrs. C. E. Boughton last evening, and although the weather was somewhat on the oyster soup order they had a good patronage nevertheless and cleared about $15.

It is expected that the remodeled Presbyterian church will be dedicated on Sunday, August 30. It is the hope of Rev. Walker to have at least three prominent divines of the church present on that occasion and three services will be held during the day.

A quartet of nutritious and dainty foods comes to us direct from the Purina mills: Ralston breakfast food, Ralston Korkbits, Ralston Health Crisps and Purina Entire Wheat Flour. We highly recommend each one.—Baugs & Co., next to postoffice.

Lieut. Irving Madison of Osakis, Minn., is the guest of his sister, Mrs. C. V. Faus, this week. Mr. Madison graduated from West Point this summer, and has been assigned to duty at Fort Douglass, Utah. He will leave for his post of duty in September.

A corrected report of the viewers on ditch No. 21 (Rocksburg) has been filed with the county auditor. The cost of this ditch will be about 30 per cent. of the estimated benefits. The report will be considered by the board of county commissioners in September.

Mrs. Jerome Longtin was at Grand Forks several days of last week, and while there disposed of over 200 pounds of honey. The honey crop is exceptionally good this year and a good many Red Lake county people will make a nice profit on their yield.

John A. Duffy has moved his residence to lots across the street from its former location. Mr. Duffy expects to erect a modern residence on the vacant lots, and the plans for it will be prepared at once. He will have one of the handsomest homes in the city.

The St. Hilaire saw mill is shut down for repairs and the installation of new machinery. It is the fond hope of the St. Hilaire people that the mill people will increase the capacity of the mill to the old standard, and give employment to several hundred more men.

E. H. Dreveskracht, who has been manager of the Johnson-Van Sant land agency at this place, has taken a position as bookkeeper in a wholesale house at Fargo, and will move his family to that place this week. The Red Lake Falls people will be sorry to lose this estimable family.

The Crookston band will run an excursion from that city to Maple Lake next Sunday, and it is expected that several hundred people from that city will go along. The excursion train will pass Tilden at 9:30 in the morning and Red Lake Falls people are invited to join the crowd.

Word was received this week that Miss Katherine Costello has lost her land contest case, mention of which was made in last week's issue. Miss Costello at once made another fling on the land, and it is thought she will ultimately get the property notwithstanding the decision of the land office.

A. Ingram, president of the Wilfert Manufacturing company, of Minneapolis, is here consulting with the officials of the Northern Minnesota Milling company with regard to the changes and improvements to be made at the mill. Mr. Ingram is considered one of the leading milling engineers of the Northwest.

Editor N. S. Gordon, of the Crookston Journal, was in the city Tuesday taking up the state fair. Mr. Gordon tells us that the fair this year will excel any former exhibition and prospects are good for a record-breaking attendance. It is likely that Red Lake county will be will represented at Hamline this year.

Henry L. Simons, president of the First National Bank of Glencoe, visited over Sunday with his brother, Hon. L. C. Simons. Mr. Simons is one of the prominent capitalists of the southern part of the state, and is interested to five or six banks and numerous other financial enterprises in his part of the state.

Roscoe A. Carhart, advertising man for the Northern Pacific, was in the city Tuesday booming the state fair and getting acquainted with our business men. Mr. Carhart is one of the brightest men employed in that capacity in the country and the Northern Pacific will undoubtedly secure results from his jaunt to this part of the world.

Messrs. Etherton and Martin, representing the state Socialist organization, were in town with their van Monday, and delivered lectures on the street in the evening. They are very good speakers and a large crowd gathered to hear the gospel of Socialism. These gentlemen are making a tour of the northern part of the state in the interest of the cause they represent.

Ole Christenson, formerly manager of the Elwood Land company at this place, but now located at Church's Ferry, N. D., where he is engaged in the land business for himself, was renewing acquaintances here this week. Ole reports that he is doing well in Dakota, and is looking forward to a lively real estate movement in his section during the fall and winter.

Dr. J. Gendron is this week in receipt of a package of pamphlets from Dr. Canak Marquis, chief surgeon of the San Francisco hospital. Dr. Gendron was formerly the assistant of this eminent surgeon when he was located at St. Paul some years ago. Since going to San Francisco the doctor has became famous for discovering new methods of suturing the abdomen and the organs of the abdomen.

Hon. George E. McAllister, of Minneapolis, is the guest of his brother-in-law, Judge Tarrant, this week. Mr. McAllister is an old newspaper man, having been publisher of the Swift County Monitor, at Benson, for a long period of years. He was also a member of the legislature for several terms. Mr. McAllister is a pleasant and versatile gentleman and we hope he will come up this way often.

High schools of the state will only receive $1,380 of state aid this year instead of $1,500 as the law allows them. In the distribution the amount had to be cut because of fourteen new schools added to the list. There are 105 schools and only $217,000 appropriated, of which $6,500 comes out for expenses. Under the law the state will pay only half what each school expends for high school purposes, so a number of schools get less than $1,380.

Fred Morin and Miss Rose Dupes were married at St. Joseph's church Sunday afternoon, and the happy couple went to housekeeping at once in the new residence recently built by the groom just opposite the high school building. Mr. Morin is one of the teachers in the public school, and is highly esteemed by a large circle of friends and acquaintances. The bride is a Red Lake Falls girl, whose winsome and womanly ways have won her many friends. We wish them a long and happy married life.

The Red Lake Falls people who attended the county fair to the number of over 200, speak very highly of the manner in which they were entertained by the Thief River Falls people. The fair was a success from every point of view, and our northern neighbors are to be congratulated. On Thursday an alleged game of ball was played between the Red Lake and Thief River nines, the score being 21 to 5 in favor of Thief River. This is the first game the locals have lost during the entire season, and it is a matter of genuine regret that they should be so ignominiously defeated by their Thief River antagonists.

Merchants of Crookston have been victimized during the past week to a considerable extent by counterfeit bills which have been passed quite frequently, according to the Times. The money has in most instances been accepted and the frauds have not been discovered until banking time. It is thought that the passers of the queer are innocent of intend to do wrong but have been victimized themselves. It has been learned that a good deal of the bogus money was loaded onto the crowds who attended the Winnipeg fair, and people who have paper money which they received while at the fair should examine it carefully lest they be arrested for counterfeiters.

OUR CLAIM FOR THE GEE WHIZZ MACHINE

1. That it is the best washer made, because it runs easier and washes faster and better and is easier on the clothing.

2. Because it whirls, rubs, slaps, squeezes and sucks the dirt out of the clothing, by reason of the reflex motion of the water.

3. It will wash (and we can prove it) as good with cold water as any other machine will with hot water, running the same length of time. We do not expect any other, even on a contest to this statement.

4. Or we will do in one minute with hot water, what it usually takes other machines ten or fifteen minutes to do. So you see you save nine-tenths of the time and labor, by using the Gee Whiz Washer.

5. The Gee Whiz Machine is a combined washer and clothes dusser. When dusting clothing machine must be dry. Adjust sliding wheel just tight enough to whirl the clothing, and run fast forth way a little while. Leave lid up while dusting.

CORONATION OF POPE TAKES PLACE

Pius X. Receives His Crown in the Presence of Vast Multitude at St. Peter's.

PRINCES AND HIGH CHURCH DIGNITARIES ARE PRESENT

Day Is a Memorable One in Rome—Senator Cardinal Macchi Is Master of Ceremonies and Places Crown on Pontiff's Head—New Head of Church Bestows His Blessing.

Rome, Aug. 11.—The ceremony of the coronation of Pope Pius X. took place Sunday in the basilica of St. Peter's in the presence of the princes and high dignitaries of the church, diplomats and Roman nobles, and with all the solemnity and splendor associated with this the most magnificent rite in the Roman Catholic church.

As Cardinal Macchi, the dean of the cardinal-deacons, placed the triple crown on the head of the venerable pontiff the throng of 70,000 persons gathered within the cathedral burst into tumultuous acclamations, the choir intoned a hymn of triumph and the bells of Rome rang out a joyful peal.

The Papal Throne.

It is 81 years since the Romans and Europe assisted at such a function as was held in St. Peter's Sunday. The upon the pope's arm. At the same time prayers for the coronation were recited by Cardinals Vannutelli, Mocenni, Agliardi and Satolli. Returning from the crypt, Cardinal Macchi placed upon the shoulders of the pope the pontifical mantlum and attached it with three golden jeweled pins.

Last Obedience.

Upon the pope's return to the throne the cardinals offered their last obedience to the pontiff, kissing his hand and feet, and being anathemized by him twice in turn. The holy father then walked to the shrine of St. Peter for the culminating rite of the extremely fatiguing ceremony. The whole sacred college gathered about the pope singing Palestrina's "Corona Aurea Super Caput Ejus," while great basilica, popularly supposed never to have been quite full, was overflowing with humanity. The papal throne, a bewildering mixture of gold, red and silver, was erected in front of the high altar. An, contrary to custom on these ceremonious occasions, there were no galleries, the basilica here more of its normal aspect. On the altar, which was dressed in white, stood the famous silver gilt candlesticks and a magnificent crucifix.

"Holy Father, thus passes away the Glory of the World."

Engages in Worship.

Before leaving the vatican the pope went to the Sistine chapel to worship before the sacrament exposed therein, thence passing through the Sala Regia and the Constantines staircase into the portico of the basilica. He there seated himself on a throne erected directly before the holy door and with seats around for the members of the sacred college, the chapter of St. Peter's and the papal court. At the right of the throne stood Prince Orsini, the assistant to the papal throne, who withdrew his recent resignation of the post in order to participate at the function. The pontiff was exceedingly pale but composed.

Presents Greetings.

The low ceiling sent back an exquisite echo of the "ines petrus" sung by the Sistine choir. Cardinal Rampollo advanced with dignity, knelt and kissed the foot of the pontiff. He then presented in a firm voice the wishes and greetings of the chapter of St. Peter's, which, he said, offer as act of obedience to your holiness and wish you a prosperous and glorious pontificate."

The pontiff was visibly touched, and answering in a trembling voice, warmly thanked the chapter for their well wishes. "Good wishes," he said, "are extremely precious."

Blesses the Multitude.

The procession then reformed and proceeded to the door of the basilica, through which Pius X. cast an almost terror stricken glance, whispering to Dr. Lapponi, "Shall I ever be able to go through with it?"

On the appearance of the pontiff it seemed as though the people would seek to carry him in their arms, so great was their enthusiasm. Cries of "Pius, our pope, our father," and "Long live Pius X." were raised and continued until the pontiff was compelled to rise and bless the multitude, and at the same time he made a sign for more reverential behavior.

Receives the Fallen.

From the throne Pius X., surrounded by his suite, walked to the high altar, standing over the crypt of St. Peter, into which meanwhile Cardinal Macchi descended to pray. The pope then blessed the altar, and after saying the "indulgentiam" the manipla, a symbol of the cord with which Christ was bound on his capture, was placed, with great ceremony, the choir burst into song. Cardinal Macchi then recited the "Pater Noster and offered prayer.

Crowned.

Cardinal Deacon Segna then raised the pontiff's mitre and Senior Cardinal Deacon Macchi placed on the venerable head the triple crown. At this moment the church was filled with the ringing of bells, the blowing of silver trumpets, the triumphant strains of the choir and the acclamations of the multitude, which could no longer be repressed. When comparative silence had been restored Cardinal Macchi addressed the pope in latin as follows:

"Receive the tiara ornamented with three crowns. Remember thou are the father of princes and kings, the rector of the world, vicar on earth of our Savior, Jesus Christ, who is the honor and glory of all sanctities."

"Amen!" again burst forth from the concourse.

The Pope Overcome.

Pope Pius was quite overcome and had scarcely strength left to impart the apostolic benediction. Cardinals Macchi and Segna granted a plenary indulgence to all present, and the procession then reformed and left the basilica in the same form as it came.

The pope was visibly fatigued and his right hand shook as he raised it time after time to bestow his blessing. When the ceremony was over all the exits to the basilica were opened, and within less than an hour the vast cathedral was empty.

Human Body Found.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 11.—The dismembered and headless trunk of a human body has been found floating in the Mississippi river near the dam of the St. Paul Boom company. It has been in the water so long that it was impossible even to determine the sex of the victim. The coroner is investigating.

Declines the Call.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 11.—A letter was read at People's church Sunday from its pastor, Dr. Samuel G. Smith, who is now abroad, stating that he had declined the call extended to him seven months ago by Westminster chapel, London.

PUNISHMENT IS DEMANDED BY CZAR

Says All Turkish Officials Responsible for Murder of Russian Consul Must Suffer.

CRIME HAS CREATED INTENSE EXCITEMENT IN ST. PETERSBURG

British Officials Believe Murder Makes Balkan Situation Assume a More Serious Aspect Although It Is Not Expected to Create War-Feeling in Turkey.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—The czar has demanded the exemplary punishment not only of the murderers of the Russian consul at Monastir, who was killed last week by Turkish gendarmes, but of all the military and civil officials in any way responsible for the crime.

The assassination of the Russian consul at Monastir, M. Rostkovski—the second murder of a Russian consular official in Macedonia within a few months—has created intense indignation here.

According to the report made by the official now in charge of the Russian consulate at Monastir the murderer is a gendarme. The consul asked his name because, in defiance of instructions, the gendarms did not salute him. The gendarme thereupon fired several shots, mortally wounding the consul in the head and hip. The horse drawing the carriage in which the consul was riding received two bullets and shots were also fired at the coachman.

Murder Aggravates Situation.

London, Aug. 11.—The Balkan situation has assumed a more serious aspect in the eyes of British officials as the result of the murder of the Russian consul at Monastir. No authoritative statement as to the British attitude can be obtained pending the receipt of information regarding the length to which Russia will go in exacting reparation for the deed. It is expected, however, that the Russian demands for the punishment of the murderers of the responsible officials will be followed by others of greater international interest and affecting the general Balkan question.

It was stated Monday by a diplomat in a position to know the czar's policy that the emperor had no intention of precipitating war and that before seeking with the international situation in Turkey Russia will communicate with Austria and acquaint the other signatories of the Berlin treaty with at least part of her plans.

The state of affairs in Macedonia was brought up in the house of commons Monday, but Premier Balfour declared he was unable to give any satisfactory assurances regarding the situation. The latest news reaching the government, he said, was far from reassuring.

Excitement in Turkey.

Constantinople, Aug. 11.—The murder of the Russian consul, M. Rostkovski has caused intense excitement here and is the sole topic of conversation in the streets, cafes and public resorts. The general belief is that the incident is bound to considerably aggravate the already serious situation in Macedonia and it is felt that it will undoubtedly encourage the Bulgarians to support the insurrectionary movement, which is spreading rapidly, notably to the south ward of Monastir.

Twenty-Fifth Anniversary.

New York, Aug. 11.—The twenty-fifth anniversary of the establishment of the permanent committee of the Y. M. C. A. will be celebrated this week in Geneva, Switzerland. Clarence J. Hicks and John R. Mott, associate secretaries, with Richard C. Morse, of the international committee, and Miss Mary Clarkson of the associations, represent the American association. Leading men of the association from all countries comprise the committee.

Convention of Firemen.

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 11.—The sixth annual convention of the International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen opened Monday. Vice President Hayes of New York city, outlined the greatest need of the order as a reduction in the hours of labor. The convention will take some action on the conditions that exist in the plants of the International Paper company, where 1,100 firemen are compelled to work 12 hours daily.

Former Circus Performer Dead.

New York, Aug. 11.—Eaton Stone, well known in his time as a circus performer, is dead at his home in Hutley, N. J., at the age of 85. Stone is said to have been the first man to turn a somersault on a galloping horse. He retired from the ring about 30 years ago.

Killed by Boiler Explosion.

New York, Aug. 11.—Twenty men were killed and wounded Saturday night by the explosion of a boiler in the Santa Rita cotton factory, in Canete, calles the Herald's correspondent at Lima, Peru. The financial loss is not known.

Action Is Sanctioned.

New York, Aug. 11.—The deputies have sanctioned the action of the senate, says a Herald dispatch from Lima, Peru, reducing the duty on sugar in accordance with the findings of the Brussels congress.

Vesuvius Again in Eruption.

New York, Aug. 11.—Vesuvius has had a recrudescence of activity, says a Herald dispatch from Naples. The central crater hurled ecorias in an unusual height accompanied by loud rumblings.

Choked to Death.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 11.—Betty Green (colored) was choked to death and her neck broken by Edward Williams (colored) here Monday. Jealousy was the cause. Williams was arrested.

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous in the English re heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived close to those who have made and are making the history of our times.

In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; and there is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of action with the droll incident of the hamerist.

THOMAS B. REED

We see the speaker, we hear the laughter, we surrender to the spell of the words; we can feel the tense silence as the speaker mounts in his sublimest flights, then hear the outburst of applause as the audience catches the speaker at his climax.

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7¾ x 10¾ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravure portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain frontispieces in multi-color.

NINE PERSONS KILLED.

And Many More Are Injured by the Fall of a Sidewalk at Ball Park in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 10.—Nine persons were killed, at least 12 fatally injured, and fully 200 seriously hurt Saturday afternoon by the fall of a walk overhanging the left field bleachers at the Philadelphia National league baseball park.

In the neighborhood of 20 people were on the walk at the time of its collapse, and plunged with it 20 feet into the street. In an instant the scene just outside the grounds was one of horror. For an entire block along Fifteenth street, from Huntingdon street to Lehigh avenue, men and boys lay in writhing heaps.

The accident was one of the most appalling in recent years, and among scores of bleeding men and boys quickly taken to hospitals it is feared that fully a dozen will not be able to survive their terrible injuries. The deaths are as follows: Edward Graham, Alfred Rodgers, Edward Williamson, Matthew P. Reed, George Cunningham, Joseph Edgar, Nicholas Moses, unknown man.

Fatally injured: Peter Barrett, Thomas Kane, Joseph Larkin, Douglass McCauley, John Murphy, Joseph McConaghy, Joseph McGarrilee, Lewis McGrath, Nicholas Moser, John Radcliffe, A. D. Robinson, W. Snyder, Jacob Stein.

BROKE ALL RECORDS.

Special Train Runs from New York to California in 70 Hours and 21 Minutes.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 8.—At 1:06 o'clock Friday afternoon the special train bearing Henry P. Lowe, chief engineer of the United States Steel corporation, drew in at La Grande station, having completed a run from the Atlantic to the Pacific, a distance of more than 3,200 miles, in the fastest time on record. Mr. Lowe left New York on Tuesday, August 4, at 2:45 p. m. and arrived in Los Angeles 70 hours and 21 minutes later.

The record-breaking run was undertaken to gain the bedside of Mr. Lowe's only daughter, who was dying in Los Angeles. The child died early Thursday morning, but Mr. Lowe was not advised of her death until well on his way.

KILLED BY AN EXPLOSION.

Indiana Nitroglycerine Works Explode with Disastrous Results to Three Employes.

Bluffton, Ind., Aug. 6.—The Empire-American Nitroglycerin company's magazine, three miles northeast of Bluffton, exploded Wednesday afternoon at 12:45. The entire plant was destroyed and William Howard, Edward Badabaugh and William Steffy, employes, were blown to pieces.

While loading a wagon with nitroglycerin Edward Badabaugh dropped a can, which exploded, causing 2,000 quarters of nitroglycerin in the factory to explode. Three teams of mules used in delivering the explosive were found one-half mile distant hanging in a number of trees.

BRUTE LYNCHED.

The Citizens of Asotin, Wash., Hang a Negro Who Assaulted and Killed a White Girl.

Asotin, Wash., Aug. 8.—Despite the efforts of the little victim's father, Sheriff Richards, of Asotin county, who had sworn in 25 deputies to guard the brute, William Hamilton, a well-to-do farmer, the self-confessed murderer and brutal murderer of Nitie Mabel Richards, was forcibly taken from the Asotin county jail at 12:15 Wednesday morning and lynched by a mob of over 1,000 men, which had been congregating all day from all parts of Asotin county.

All Found Guilty.

Boston, Aug. 7.—The trial of William Monroe Trotter, editor of the Boston Guardian; Granville Martin and Bernard Charles, charged with disturbing a meeting in the Columbus avenue A. M. E. Zion church, which was addressed by Booker T. Washington on the night of July 30, resulted in all three defendants being found guilty. Sentence was delayed.

Beheaded Her Girls.

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 10.—Rizzie Allen, a negro woman 40 years old, was committed to jail here for beheading her two daughters, three and five years old. The heads were severed with an axe, and she threw them into a fire. The woman admitted the crime, saying she had received a message from God ordering the crime.

Cloudburst in Iowa.

Ottumwa, Ia., Aug. 6.—A cloudburst lasting a half-hour struck this vicinity, and skylights were broken, the roofs of several business blocks torn off and street car service stopped. Every telephone out of the city was disabled and telegraph wires crippled.

Ingalls Drowned.

Norway, Mich., Aug. 10.—Five Italians were drowned at Vulcan, two miles from Norway. The accident was caused by the capsizing of the boat containing the men, 150 yards from shore. All were single men except one, who had a wife in Italy.

Loss Over Half a Million.

Denver, Col., Aug. 5.—Reports coming in from the farming region of northeastern Colorado show much great destruction of crops by the terrific hail storm on Wednesday last that the damage done is conservatively estimated at more than $500,000.

Killed by a Fall.

Decatur, Ill., Aug. 7.—Mrs. Joseph Shoaf, aged 70, was killed by a fall here. Her father was Dennis Hanks, a cousin of Abraham Lincoln, who taught Lincoln to read and write. Mrs. Shoaf's husband was a pioneer editor in Illinois.

RETIRES FROM ACTIVE SERVICE

Lieut. Gen. Miles Gives Up His Command of the Army, Having Reached Age Limit.

In an Address He Acknowledges the Fidility Manifested by Both Officers and Soldiers—Gen. S. B. M. Young, His Successor, Takes the Oath of Office.

Washington, Aug. 8. — Lieut) Gen. Nelson A. Miles, commanding the army, retired from active service at noon, having reached the age limit of 64 years.

Issues Farewell Order.

Gen. Miles, in an address issued on the occasion of his retirement from active service, says that, in relinquishing the command of the army of the United States, to which he was assigned by the president, October 2, 1895, he hereby acknowledges his appreciation of the fidelity manifested by the officers and soldiers during the past eventful years.

To those who were his companions and associates during one of the greatest of all wars, he takes pleasure in expressing his gratification that they have lived through the trials and dangers of long service to witness the results of their fortitude, heroism and unselfish devotion to the welfare of their country.

Many Responsibilities.

Since its organization the army has been charged with a great variety of responsibilities, all subordinate to defending the country and maintaining the rights of its citizens. In the discharge of its manifold duties the army has confronted enemies representing every stage of human development from the highest civilization yet obtained to savagery and barbarism. It has ever been its duty to observe in war those chivalric and humane principles by which the inevitable horrors are so greatly mitigated. In by unyielding prosecution of warfare against armed forces by which they were demonstrated.

Has Faith in the Army.

Marked changes at different times have occurred in the strength and organization of the army, resulting from diverse influences, and various experiments have been tried. Time has rectified errors in the past and will do so in the future.

The lieutenant general has faith that under all circumstances the army will maintain its high character, and that its future will be as honorable and glorious as has been its history in the past. His earnest solicitude and best wishes will ever follow the fortunes of the army.

Young in Command.

Washington, Aug. 10.—At 12 o'clock Saturday Lieut. Gen. Young issued an order in accordance with the order of the president assuming command of the army of the United States. Previously Gen. Young had taken oath of office in the war department.

Remembers Poor Children.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 7.—President Roosevelt has directed Col. Symons to open the white house grounds Saturday afternoons to 500 poor children whom parents are unable to take them into the country.

On the Blacklist.

Washington, Aug. 7.—All teachers in the Philippines who resigned their positions before their two years' service expired have been placed on a blacklist by the Philippine commission.

Paid the Penalty.

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 8. — Frank Roberson (colored) was hanged here for the murder of Deputy Sheriff Bailey at Pablo Beach four years ago.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVER VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next five years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not look at us? We have that in your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well-settled community, where churches and schools are built and well attended. These will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $5,000 cash will handle this bunch. Balance can be arranged to suit as it per cent. A live investor can make a few thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

Low Fares to Be Tried.

Unlimited workmen's fares are to be tried for six months on the Sheffield (England) municipal electric tramway system.

You can keep clean with soft soap, but it is rather unpleasant and most people prefer something a little less erasious. Cole's Carbolisoap is the best soap for personal use. It is purely vegetable, exquisitely perfumed and it keeps the skin soft and free from blemishes. Be sure you get Cole's. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

Newest Fad in France.

Prunes are said to be the center of the pictorial postcard fad. It is estimated that 85,000,000 cards are handled by the postal service of that country annually.

The Death Penalty.

A little sting sometimes results in death. Thus a mere scratch, insignificant cut or pimple boils have paid the death penalty. It is wise to have Bucklen's Arnica Salve ever handy; it's the best Salve on earth and will prevent fatality, when Burns, Sores, Ulcers and Piles threaten. Only 25c. at W. A. Schreiter's Drug Store.

The Experimental Psychologist.

One of the most important of the experimental psychologist consists in prodding people with a pointed stick when they are asleep to find out how much excitation is required to wake them up, says Nature.

Few people live healthful lives. In this strenuous age it is easy to approach the danger point and only know when we find that something is needed to help us back to health and strength. Then is the time to call on Cole's Bluthinder, the perfect blood purifier and nerve tonic. It will put you in the same trim. Try it. $1.00 by A. L. Richert.

Severe Punishment.

As a punishment for addressing the adjutant of his regiment by a civilian title a French reservist has been sent to prison for 45 days.

Eat All You Want.

Persons troubled with indigestion or Dyspepsia can eat all they want if they take Kodol after eating. This remedy prepares the stomach for the reception, reception, digestion and assimilation of all the wholesome food that may be eaten, and relieves the digestive organs to transform the same into the kind of blood that gives health and strength. Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

Koreans Must Cut Topknots.

Reports from Seoul state that the Korean government has issued an order for the simultaneous cutting of topknots by all loyal Koreans. Military and police officers have been commanded to see that the order is at once obeyed and some of the government officials who opposed the measure have been reprimanded by the emperor and also dismissed from their positions.

STABBING AFFAIR

Took Place at Thief River Falls Last Saturday.

Thief River News: Early last Saturday morning a man from Red Lake Falls was stabbed in several places on the arm and shoulder by a back driver employed by Ryson & Newbery at a resort west of the railroad track. The fight was started by the refusal of the Red Lake Falls man to pay his fare. The back driver was a new arrival, having been employed by Ryson & Newbery only a few days and his name is unknown and he left the city immediately after the stabbing. No warrant was sworn out for his arrest as the Red Lake Falls man is married and desires to have the matter quieted up as soon as possible.

Potent Pill Pleasure.

The pills that are potent in their action and pleasant in effect are De-Witt's Little Early Risers. W. S. Philpot of Albany, Ga., says "During a bilious attack I took one. Small as it was it did me more good than calomel blue-mass or any other pills I ever took and at the same time it effected me pleasantly. Little Early Risers are certainly an ideal pill." Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

Merchants And Advertising.

The Commercial Bulletin, one of the best trade journals has taken up the question of the co-operations of the local papers and the advertisers, in an endeavor to show wherein the merchants fail to take advantage of the opportunities offered them. While the merchants of this city are alive to their own interests and make a study of the advertising business it is true that some are not getting the benefit they should from the money expended. Space in any paper will not sell goods. It is the character of the advertising matter that counts. Merchants make a mistake in using large space for spasmodic advertising; it is far better to keep this with a small space and increase it as the demand warrants than to use a half page once or twice a year. The people should be educated to read an ad. for what it has to offer, and they will do it if the ad. carries an intelligent summary of what the store has to offer. This has been demonstrated by several merchants in this city who have found that wise use of the local papers has brought them substantial returns. This has been more apparent since the advent of the rural mail routes and the consequent falling off of the number of readers who visit the city.—Now Ulm Review.

COURSE OF STUDY FOR HIGH SCHOOL.

Superintendent Whiteley Makes Suggestions Anent the Beginning of School.

The public schools will open on Tuesday the 8th of September. Pupils desiring to attend school this year and parents who wish to send children should remember the date. Every pupil should be at school the first day. The work begins on that day. There is no time lost in organizing. A pupil who enters late has an immense disadvantage to overcome. It is unreasonable to expect him to accomplish as much as one who enters at the beginning and attends regularly; it is, moreover, unjust to the large majority of pupils who enter on time to expect the teacher to expend upon the late-entering and irregular pupils the extra time and effort necessary to keep them up to grade. Nothing is truer than that regular attendance throughout the whole school year is necessary for obtaining good results from the work of any average pupil; nothing seems more completely forgotten by both pupils and parents. A majority of failures are due to irregular attendance. The responsibility for attendance rests with the parents, and if they desire to have their child get the full benefit of the public schools, they will see to it that he enters school on the opening day and attends regularly thereafter.

An examination will be held on Wednesday and Thursday, the 2nd and 3rd of Sept., at 10:00 a. m., for pupils desiring to enter the high school who come from outside schools of a lower rank than the grades of the city system, also for pupils who failed or partly failed in last year's work. All pupils expecting to enter the freshman class of the high school are requested to report at the Lafayette school building on one of the above dates, and definitely enroll in one of the two courses offered by this school. In order to facilitate making a choice, these courses are given in full below. The Latin course is designed to fit for the State University or any college, the Civic course is perhaps better adapted to those whose schooling ends with the high school, and will not admit to all higher institutions. After selecting either course, pupils will not be permitted to change, except under exceptional circumstances.

Attention is called to the fact that the high school, by reason of the large amount of financial aid received from the state, is virtually a state institution. Any person of school age in any part of the county or the state has a perfect right to all the privileges of the high school here or in any other Minnesota city, and pupils from the country desiring to enter in Red Lake Falls will be cordially welcomed.

Patriots Get Their Price.

San Francisco Call: The Cubans who fought for independence are to be paid off at the rate of 60 cents on the dollar. This is doing a good deal better than the colonists did who fought to throw off the British yoke. But times have improved greatly since the beginning of last century, and very poor administrators can manage much better nowadays than brilliant financiers could in "the days that tried men's souls."

Potent Pill Pleasure.

The pills that are potent in their action and pleasant in effect are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. W. S. Pallpot of Albany, Ga., says "During a bilious attack I took one Small as it was it did me more good than colored blue-mass or any other pills I ever took and at the same time it effected me pleasantly. Little Early Risers are certainly an ideal pill." Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA.

MINNESOTA HAS A GOOD YEAR.

Financial Affairs Are in Excellent Condition.

Minnesota has enjoyed a most prosperous year financially, and this will be shown when the reports are made public in a few days. The fiscal year ended Friday, and all the counties had paid up with the exception of St. Louis, Beltrami and Dakota, and all except St. Louis had reported their tax collections.

It is early for the state auditor to make a definite statement of the increase of the state's business for the year, but enough is in hand to show that everywhere there is a surprising growth.

The state's levy last year was less and so was the amount collected from direct taxes. There was a heavy increase in property values, but not sufficient to offset the amount taken away by the lower assessment rate.

In the taxes received from railroad earnings and miscellaneous corporate taxes the state profited to an extent which makes good all that lost by lower assessments.

The state auditor has paid the state university claims in full, amounting to $68,672.97, and a balance of about $3,000 is left to the credit of the fund. This payment includes many claims which have been standing for three months and longer.

There has been a noticeable increase in the registered tonnage of lake vessels this year. The total tonnage in the state now is 11,000 which is an increase of 2,000 more than last year.

From the general results thus far ascertained the state is found to be financially sound, and is keeping pace with the increasing expenditures demanded by its progress.

Ditch Bonds Sold to State.

Representative Simons, Auditor Ford and County Attorney Grady went to St. Paul the fore part of the week to meet with the state board of investment relative to selling the county ditch bonds to the state, and were successful in securing the promise that $60,000 would be loaned at 3 per cent. interest. At a previous meeting of the board it was decided that only $30,000 would be loaned at this time, but our officials soon convinced a majority of the members of the board that a much larger amount would be needed to take up the outstanding warrants, and the matter was given a reconsideration. Auditor Ford tells us that $30,000 will be sent within a day or two, and the balance is expected within three or four weeks. By selling the bonds to the state the farmers affected by ditch liens will save more than $1,000 annually in interest, and our officials are certainly entitled to a great deal of credit for the successful consummation of the deal.

THE STATE FAIR.

Announcement of Plans For The Coming Big Show.

As the forty-fourth annual Minnesota state fair will open in a short time it is quite in order to give some general statement of the plans of the fair up to date. These plans have been made on a generous scale and with the idea of progress which has characterized the conduct of the fair for some years past and which has built it up to be the foremost state fair in the land.

The fair will be opened on Monday, August 31, with an address by United States Senator Charles W. Fairbanks, of Indiana, an eloquent and forceful speaker of national reputation and known as a presidential possibility of the future.

Perhaps the most important feature of the fair will be the national live stock exhibition and sales held in connection with the American Hereford Breeders' association and the American Shorthorn Breeders' association.

Premiums have been increased in all departments and $35,000 is now the grand total offered by the Minnesota fair for exhibits and in purses.

Most of this money goes to agricultural and animal exhibits; the exhibits of manufacturers and machinery are rewarded by diplomas and honorable mention. But these exhibits will be none the less interesting and extensive. There will be the largest display of farm implements and machinery ever seen in the west.

In the main or exposition building every foot of space was assigned before midsummer and booths will be erected as in 1902 for the accommodation of overflow exhibitors. The dairy building will be crowded; the poultry building has been equipped with new show coops and will make a fine display of the feathered tribe.

The woman's department has outgrown its old quarters and has been given the building used only a few years ago for the entire agricultural and horticultural display. This shows the enormous growth of the fair. This old building 150 feet long held all the agricultural and horticultural exhibits three years ago; now the woman's department which then occupied a corner in the exposition building will find it none too large, while the new agricultural hall, occupied first in the fair of 1901 (and 260x220 feet in size) is already over crowded with displays.

There will be keen competition among the counties this year. The premium awards for county exhibits have been revised and increased and made more equitable. Fruit will be conspicuous, and it is believed from present indications, one of the best displays ever made in this line in the state.

Amusements at the fair will be better than ever before, both in character and variety. The largest race entry list ever made up for any state fair was announced soon after July 1. More than 200 horses were entered and for the great $5,000 pacing race 41 entries were made. This means tremendous racing at the state fair.

Injunction Against Talking.

No one in Omaha has yet been restrained by injunction from breathing, but the matter has almost reached that limit. The most radical move was the issuing of an injunction to restrain a woman who lived in a flat from talking so much, as her landlord claimed it drove his other tenants away. Possibly we don't all talk too much, but we certainly all are too active and lacking in repose. We need, almost without exception, golden grain belt beer to quiet our nerves and tone us down to slower, more comfortable living. It is pure and delicious and should be in every home. A Chicago Opinion.

PRESBYTERIANS TO DEDICATE CHURCH

Sunday, August 30, Promises to Be a Gala Day in Red Lake Falls Religious Circles.

The Presbyterian people are counting on quite a celebration on Sunday, August 30, on which occasion their new church building will be formally dedicated.

It is the expectation of the pastor to hold three services during the day, morning, afternoon and evening. Dr. R. N. Adams, of Minneapolis, one of the leading ministers of the church and a particular favorite with Red Lake Falls people, will preach the dedicatory sermon in the afternoon. Rev. Donald McKenzie, pastor of the Crookston church, and Rev. W. H. McHenry, synodical missionary, will conduct the other services.

Prof. Oastad, leader of the band, has consented to drill a choir of adult voices for the occasion, and the musical features promises to be very good. It is expected that the new vocalion will be installed by that time.

A complete program will be printed next week.

Where to File Your Will.

It may not be generally known that under a late law the office of the judge of probate is made the depository of wills for safe keeping, and that official is required by law to enter them in a book provided for that purpose, and give to the party depositing the same a certificate that the same has been deposited in his office. The certificate given by the judge at the time the valuable paper is placed in his possession must be presented by the one making the deposit, or an order given for the same, before the will can be obtained. Other parties are not permitted to peek at the contents of a will, for the information received might cause a whole lot of trouble to the testator. People therefore, who make wills may be assured that they will not only be safely secured in fire-proof vaults, but that the provisions of the same will be kept inviolate. People who are burdened with an excess of this world's goods, which they are liable at any time to have to leave behind them, should take advantage of the late law and turn their written behests over to the judge of probate.

Pain

From Inflammatory Rheumatism

Would Have Killed Our Son.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills Saved Him.

"We began to use Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills six years ago. My wife had liver trouble and a neighbor gave her some of your liver pills to try, after which we bought a bottle of them and my wife used them until cured. Since then I have used them and I must say that I have never used any pills that gave me the satisfaction these have. We also use Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills with great satisfaction. Three years ago our son had inflammatory rheumatism in his knee. He had suffered so much that I believe if we had not given him Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills which relieved him almost instantly he would have died. I am always glad of the opportunity for praising Dr. Miles' Remedies."—James Everit, Alton, Ills.

"I was afflicted with neuralgia for years and never found any permanent relief till I began using Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They are a sure cure for headache and neuralgia also. Only this morning I recommended them to a friend with a severe headache and in a few minutes after taking one it was gone. The headache was gone. We use them in the family and find them excellent for the women folks. The high altitude makes them very nervous. Grandma says I should tell Dr. Miles she could not live here were it not for the Anti-Pain Pills that she takes occasionally."—L. S. Sterrit, Helena, Montana.

Easy Pill

Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due to the fact that they tonic the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe nor sicken, not even the most delicate lady, and yet they are so certain in results that no one uses them is disappointed. They cure torpid liver, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, headache, malaria and ward off pneumonia and fevers.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

Be honest. If you don't like a man tell him so. Don't tell your tale of woe to his friends.

Peter of Servia may find satisfaction in the thought that it is better to be considered a figurehead than a target.

It is the girl who knows how to play the piano and not the one that can cook who gets into the divorce court.

A person devoid of charity is not an altogether lovely character, but what shall we say of the one without gratitude?

A revivalist tells us that hell is 453 degrees Fahrenheit. Hell may be in Texas, but we'll bet it's in the southern part.

It is stated that Tams Bixby was fairly honest until he became identified with the business and political life of Bemidji.

June brides may be sweet, but the Albert Lea Standard wants to know what is the matter with the July and August brand.

The prospect of Frank Eddy becoming governor induces a sensation akin to the feeling that there is a horse-fly in the soup.

If the state had been in the hail insurance business this year there would have been no worry over the surplus in the treasury.

Emerson never uttered a better thought than this:

Good is positive. Evil is merely privative, not absolute. It is like cold, which is the privation of heat. All evil is so much death or nonentity.

Jim Ruane says in his Shayton Gazette that the young man of today has all the advantages to be the best or the worst it is possible to be.

The Johnsons are with President Roosevelt on the race suicide question. In the latest Chicago directory they lead the Smiths with 5,986 names.

It is alleged that a few of the postoffice thieves are, Democrats. Isn't it funny how a good man will sometimes go astray when he gets in bad company?

"Modified milk" is an alleged new production, but the milkman has been modifying milk with water since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary.

The time is ripe for the organization of a society for the reformation of clergymen. A Boston preacher, entrusted with an $80,000 fund for superannuated clergymen, has recently disappeared.

Here is a hint from Mary McFadden to those who expect a reward for every good deed:

Don't expect payment in kind for every generous action done. The cheerful giver never thinks of recompense.

The Prison Mirror jollies the editors by saying that there has never been a member of the profession confined within the walls of the Stillwater penitentiary. Now if this meant that none of them ought to be there we might find a little satisfaction in the item.

In her "Sabbath Day Diversions" Mary McFadden makes this soliloquy:

An old sweatheart always cherishes the illusion that the girl, who married the other fellow, secretly regrets the step, until he calls at her home and finds the baby cutting teeth on his photograph.

It is stated that Attorney General Knox has spent only $20,000 of the $500,000 appropriated as a special fund for the prosecution of trusts which violate the laws. There are plenty of opportunities to spend this money to good advantage, and Mr. Knox ought to get busy.

It is perhaps natural for the members of the newspaper profession to be a bit envious of their Warren brethren. Both the Register and the Sheet editors are putting up two-story brick office buildings this year. Perhaps if some magazine would invite communications on "How to Get Rich, Though a Newspaper Man," the rest of us would get some light on the subject.

A nephew of President Huntington, of the Southern Pacific, has written a book of poems for distribution among his friends, and these pretty lines are found on the fly leaf:

When memory with slow, uncertain fingers,
Awakes, anew, the echoes of the past,
There are some keys on which her touch long lingers—
Some trembling chords that vibrate to the last.

A young man at Conova, Ill., recently took his sweetheart for a ride, and it is recorded that she fell out of the buggy, while her lover drove two miles before he discovered that she was missing. When this announcement was made to the public, the editor of the Hartford, Ala., Times became wrathy, and in a burst of righteous indignation, he wrote:

"When we were a young lover, the bird wheel might come off, the spring break or the horse fall out of the shafts without our knowing it, but the girl was always safely anchored."

Maj. W. W. Cooley, the versatile book salesman and all-round good fellow who has been in this vicinity for several weeks past, carries a splendid repertoire of recitations, and the following, entitled "a Hindu Legend," is one of his best:

A Hindu died—a happy thing to do,
When twenty years united to a shrew;
Released, he hopefully for entrance cries
Before the gates of Brahma's paradise.
"Hast been through purgatory?" Brahma said:
"I have been married," and he hung down his head.
"Married! 'Tis well: come in, and welcome, too, my son, Marriage and purgatory are as one!"
So joy supreme he entered Heaven's door,
And found the bliss he ne'er had known before.
He scarce had entered in those garden fair,
A second Hindu asked admission there.
The self-same question Brahma asked again;
"Hast been through purgatory?" "No, what then?"
"Thou can'st not enter," did the God reply.
"He who went in there, was on more than 'I'"
"All that is true, but he has married been,
And so on earth has suffered for all sin."
"Married! 'tis well, for I've been married twice!"
"He come! We'll have no fools in paradise."

A New Yorker's Impressions of Red Lake County.

Marshall, Minn., Aug. 20.—After four days spent in the Red River Valley of the North I am ready to concede that "Minnesota is the bread basket of the world." Just at this season of the year, when, against a background of arching blue sky darkened at the horizon by an occasional cottonwood grove, the golden wheat fields stand waiting for the reaper and the delicate purple bloom of flowering flax here and there relieves the monotony and tones the color of the vast prairie picture, the country is at its best. And it does not require a severe mental effort to grasp the reason why hundreds and thousands of farmers from all parts of this country, as well as from other countries, are seeking homes in this veritable garden spot, where their tillers and stones do not enter into the farmer's calculations. If all the farmers of rock-ribbed old Steuben were to be brought out here in an excursion party I am sure they would quickly realize that prairie farming is done with less "sweat of the brow" than on the hills at home.

Most of the farms in this part of the country are designated as sections, half sections and quarter-sections. A section is a mile square and contains 640 acres, hence a homestead claim, or a quarter section, consists of 160 acres. When this country was opened by the railroads the railroad companies were given large grants of land, much of which was sold in large parcels to farming companies, hence in Southern Minnesota there are many farms containing thousands of acres. The companies farm it on the wholesale plan, buying their supplies in the large cities once or twice a year, having little intercourse with the smaller villages, which have suffered in consequence. It has been discovered that this kind of farming is detrimental to the best development of the interests of the state, and there is a general movement toward breaking up the large farms into smaller ones, making room for settlers in some of the richest parts of the state. In most cases these lands are selling at from $40 to $60 an acre.

Most of the development of what is now the northern section of the "spring wheat belt"—Minnesota and the Dakotas—has been accomplished in the last thirty years, and, as in all other new countries, only a few of the original settlers, or homesteaders, who proved the claims, have remained to reap the rewards of their pioneering. After a few years spent in shiftless farming they have managed to sell out at a small profit and have gone on to newer fields. Their successors have usually succeeded in improving the farms while making a living, and now have fine and valuable properties.

For two years past there has been an almost constant stream of landseekers pouring into the northwest, as this was until recently called, and millions of acres are changing hands every year. Farmers from Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin and Kansas are selling their farms at from $50 to $100 an acre, and coming north to re-invest in cheaper lands, being satisfied that in a short time the new farms will become as valuable as those they have left. And when it is remembered that only about 6,000,000 acres still remain undeveloped in this part of the wheat belt it can readily be seen that in a few years it will all be taken.

Beautiful farms within from three to seven miles of villages in the Red Lake region can be purchased for from $25 to $30 an acre, and some of them with buildings and some improvements already in place. Within

TAKE HIM AS HE IS.

Fate, in gracious mood may send
Such a treasure as a friend.
Geared the gift with luscious care.
He is priceless—he is rare.
Treasure him, and look to this—
That you take him as he is!

The perfect man is not to be.
Look you to any friend to see
Noble traits, nor pry to find
Small defects of mien or mind.
Pass his failings—know but this:
You must take him as he is!

Know you it sin here's he true
If his faith he sure to you?
Let the knowledge bring you joy.
Search not for some slight alloy.
Hold you record all things his—
Learn take him as he is!

Too late—too late—the lessons come—
Too late, the critic's voice is dumb.
Too late, perhaps, the truth is plain.
He partake from you in pride and pain.
Your heart, bereaved—aonkes to thus.
You failed to take him as he is!

The New Game Law.

As the hunting season is rapidly approaching we reproduce for the benefit of those of our readers who are interested in the sport, that portion of our game law which has direct bearing upon the coming open season:

Chapter 236 of the new game laws says: "No person shall catch, kill, take, ship, or caused to be shipped to any person within or without the state, expose for sale, sell to anyone, have in possession with intent to sell, or have in possession or under control at any time, any turtle dove, snipe, prairie chicken, pinated, white breasted or sharp tailed grouse, quail, partridge, ruffed grouse, pheasant, woodcock, golden plover, upland plover, Jongohan, Chinese or English pheasant, wild duck of any variety, wild goose of any variety, brant, or any variety of aquatic fowl whatever; except that any turtledove, snipe, prairie chickens, pinated, white breasted or sharp tailed grouse, woodcock, upland plover and golden plover may be killed and had in possession between the first day of September and the first day of November following, and except that any quail, partridge, ruffed grouse or pheasant may be killed and had in possession between the fifteenth day of October and the fifteenth day of December following, and except that wild duck of any variety, wild goose of any variety, brant or any variety of aquatic fowl whatever may be killed and had in possession between the first day September and the first day of December following. And when any of the birds mentioned in this section have been lawfully caught, taken, killed or had in possession within the time herein allowed, they may be had in possession for five days after the time herein allowed. But no person shall in any one day take or kill more than twenty five birds or have in his possession at any time more than fifty birds. Whoever shall offend against any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than ten dollars and not more than twenty five dollars and cost of prosecution, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than ten days and not more than thirty days for each and every bird so caught, taken, shipped or caused to be shipped to any person within or without the state, sold to anyone, had in possession with intent to sell exposed for sale, or had in possession or under control." No license will be required from any resident of this state, except for fur-bearing animals.

End of Bitter Fight.

"Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abcess on my right lung" writes J. F. Hughes of De-Pont, Ga., "and gave me up. Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The benefit I received was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I've entirely regained my health." It conquers all Coughs, Colds and Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed by. W. A. Schriefer's Drug Store. Price 50c, and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

A Bad Swede.

The other day, says an exchange, in a small Indiana town, an Indian spit on the American flag. He might have been unmolested in his favorite pastime but for the presence of a Swede who stood near. The sight of having the American flag spit on aroused all his patriotism and made his blood boil. He jumped onto the Italian and hit off one ear and otherwise disfigured him. Hereafter the Italian will hear the "Star Spangled Banner" with one ear, and he will also take good care where isn't a Swede in the vicinity when his spitting inclination takes hold of him again.

Save the Children.

Ninety-nine of every one hundred diseases that children have are due to disorders of the stomach, and these disorders are all caused by indigestion. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is just as good for children as it is for adults. Children thrive on it. It keeps their little stomachs sweet and encourages their growth and development. Mrs. Henry Carter, 709 Central St., Nashville, Tenn., says: "My little boy is now three years old and has been suffering from indigestion ever since he was born. I have had the best doctors in Nashville, but failed to do him any good. After using one bottle of Kodol he is a well baby. I recommend it to all sufferers." Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by W. A. Schreiner.

Much Campaign Literature.

Postmaster Hubbard of Boston furnishes good evidence that the recent political campaign aroused considerable interest in Massachusetts. Nearly twice as much campaign literature was handled as was ever before known in his office.

Sheriff's Sale on Execution.

BY VIRTUE OF AN EXECUTION ISSUED by and out of and under the seal of the District Court in and for the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, upon a judgment rendered and docketed in the said court on the 21 day of May, 1903, in favor of Charles Sampson and against Thaddeus Thayer, City of Red Lake Falls, W. Brink and L. F. Thayer, defendants, in favor of said plaintiffs and against said defendants for the sum of Four Hundred Sixty-four and 50-100 (464.50) Dollars and costs and disbursements of said action, I was commanded and directed to levy upon and sell the following described real estate situated in Red Lake County, Minnesota, to-wit:

The South Half of the Northwest Quarter (S. ½) of the Northeast Quarter (N. E. ¼) and Lots one (1) and two (2) in Section four (4) all in Township One hundred and fifty-one (151) North of Range Forty-three (43) West, Red Lake County, Minnesota.

Whereas, said Charles Sampson died after the entry of said execution and the undersigned was subsequently duly appointed sheriff of said Red Lake County, and is now the qualified and acting sheriff of said county, and

Whereas, said execution was upon the 29th day of May, 1903, by endorsement thereon by the Clerk of said District Court of said Red Lake County, duly renewed for sixty days from and after said sheriff's last date, and

Whereas, a portion of said premises consisting of the South Half of the Northwest Quarter (S. ½) of the Northeast Quarter (N. E. ¼) and Lots one (1) and two (2) in Section three (3) all in Township One Hundred Sixty-one (161) North of Range Forty-three (43) West of the 5th P. M. in Red Lake County, Minnesota, was duly sold by the undersigned Sheriff of said Red Lake County and State of Minnesota, on Saturday, the 15th day of September, 1903, at the office of the Sheriff of said county, to satisfy the said execution and costs and disbursements of said sale, and

Whereas, said premises have been duly set aside to me as the homestead by me as sheriff of Red Lake County, and subject to the statute in behalf enacted, and

Now Therefore, Notice is hereby given, that I, the undersigned Sheriff of said county, will sell the above described real property, excepting the homestead of my said deceased predecessor, to the highest bidder for cash at public auction at the front door of the Court House in the City of Red Lake, in the County of Red Lake and State of Minnesota, on Saturday, the 5th day of September, 1903, at one o'clock in the afternoon of that day, to satisfy the said execution and costs and disbursements of said sale.

The premises to be sold are the following, to-wit:

The South Half (S. ½) of the Northwest Quarter (N. W. ¼) and Lots three (3) and four (4) in Section two (2), Township one hundred sixty-one (161) North of Range Forty-three (43) West of the 5th P. M. in Red Lake County, Minnesota.

THE Commoner reminds Mark Hanna that Cain was the original "standpatter."

FRANK EDDY has nominated himself for governor but as yet no one has seconded it.

IN these hot days it occurs to us that Milwaukee would be an ideal place to hold the national convention of either party.

NOW that the Crookston Times has invited Gruver Cleveland to the Valley to hunt prairie chickens it is about time to devise a counter irritant.

THE Battle Lake Review asserts that the two most helpless things in the world are a baby and an auto mobile gone dry seven miles from a gasoline tank.

GOVERNOR VAN SANT had a "hunch" and was among the missing at Belshazzar's feast. There are others who failed to see the handwriting until too late.

THE state aid granted to rural schools has created a demand for first-grade teachers that cannot be supplied. This is evident from the reports of summer schools.

THE government boodlers stand in the same relation as the protective tariff. The Republican party will insist that they be punished by their friends, not their enemies.

THE St. Peter Herald inodentally observes that Minnesota does not want any more county fair exhibits for governor. Now who in the world is Senator Johnson hitting at?

WE were told that the money question was settled in 1896, and yet the president expects to call an extra session of congress to frame an asset currency law that Wall Street can approve.

EDITOR PULITZER has endowed the chair of journalism at Columbia college with $2,000,000. The class of journalistic graduates heretofore turned loose would hardly justify a further expenditure along this line.

FRANK EDDY announces that he is a candidate for governor. The enthusiasm aroused by the launching of Frank's boom has not uprooted any of the trees or otherwise made manifest disturbance of the atmosphere.

CHIEF ATTORNEY FOLK, of St. Louis, who has made such an enviable record in the prosecution of the St. Louis boodlers, is in danger of being struck by gubernatorial lightning. The country needs such men as Mr. Folk.

AND now poor old honest Tams Bixby is accused of complicity in the robberies of the public treasury. Who would have thought that the meek-eyed Tams would so far forget himself? Heretofore he has been satisfied with counting out a Democratic governor.

IT has at last come out that the Indian bureau has been run something on the plan of the postoffice department, and a number of high officials have been charged with dishonesty and misconduct. If these disclosures are continued much longer there will not be much question about the advisability of "turning the rascals out."

THE frequent interruption of schools in Kansas by the marriage of young teachers has caused the school boards in many counties to insert clauses in contracts with teachers prohibiting a marriage or courting during the school term. The boards may be able to prevent marriage during term time, but it will take a large constabulary to keep the young women from having "company" or even receiving wireless messages.

THE WARFARE ON DUNN.

The St. Paul Dispatch has commenced a malignant and wholly unjustifiable warfare on Bob Dunn, alleging that he has joined issues with James J. Hill to Plant-ize the state and give control of affairs to the Great Northern railroad company.

Bob Dunn was a state senator for eight years, and afterwards state railroad commissioner for a like period. If he has ever voted for the railroad companies in an issue drawn between the people and the corporations while a member of the senate that fact has escaped our observation. If as state senator he has ever favored the corporations he has never been charged with it.

Mr. Dunn was for eight years a member of the state board of equalization, by virtue of his position as state auditor. And he was an active member of this board. No tax dodger received sympathy or support from him, and the lumber barons, iron kings and street railway magnates were never taxed on anything approximating an equitable valuation until Bob took up the fight against them. And in this connection it is but fair to say that in his warfare against the tax-dodgers Bob Dunn has been opposed by every Republican governor from C. Merriam down to Van Sant. The only governor that ever stood by him in his fight was John Lind, a Democrat.

A public man should be judged by his record. Bob Dunn has nothing to be ashamed of in his public life, or private. He is loyal to his friends and true to the people. The state needs that kind of a governor.

EXCHANGE ECHOES.

Adrian Democrat: A New York judge is accused of being crazy. He must have rendered a decision without consulting the corporations.

Adrian Democrat: Pope Pius X was crowned last Sunday. The new Pope is like Leo XIII in one respect at least. He has a genial humor and does not think laughter incompatible with dignity.

Duluth News-Tribune: The National Bank of Commerce in Kansas City makes a bid for notoriety, popularity and feminine custom by the opening of a "smoking room," where ladies may retire to take from its hiding place the money they wish to deposit in the bank. Well!

Delano Eagle: Bob Dunn refuses to stand for the report that he is going west to grow up with the country. In fact he strongly hints that he will be very much in evidence in Minnesota politics next summer and that the only way to get rid of him will be to vote him down in the state convention.

Albert Lea Standard: The way to secure good government is to compel public officials to realize that they are the servants of the people, to understand that they do not own the government or the offices and so to hold them to a strict account that they will continually stand in fear of the people. This is yet in form a government of the people—so should it be in fact—the people yet may rule if they will—and it will be far better if they do.

Sauk Centre Avalanche: When we read that in Ohio a young colored lawyer, previously supposed to be of some promise, has lowered himself to the ranks of the most ignorant of his race by assaulting a white lady the thought that education will eliminate these criminal tendencies of the colored people receives some thing of a jolt. The white man of the south contends that, in spite of education, "a nigger is a nigger, and the devilries committed by educated blacks lend strength to this contention and nets as cold water thrown upon the hopes of those who have in a vested themselves in the colored man's behalf.

TO SETTLE IN MEXICO.

Eighty-Three Thousand Acres of Land Secured for Settlers from South Africa.

Gen. Benjamin Viljoen, former assistant commander general of the burgher forces in the Boer war, and member for Johannesburg in the Transvaal Volksraad, and Gen. W. D. Snyman, a Boer commander, have arrived in New York city from Mexico, after completing arrangements with the Mexican government by which 83,000 acres of the best land of that country has been secured for a home for immigrants from South Africa.

Gen. Snyman will await at New York the arrival of his family, and Gen. Viljoen has sailed for South Africa to conduct the first expedition to the new country.

"I expect," said Gen. Viljoen, "to bring 50 families immediately, and that others will follow soon. Fully 1,000 families will join the movement to seek freedom on the American continent. The land secured for us is a beautiful fertile strip known as Santa Rosalia, in the state of Chihuahua, and near Ortiz station, on the Mexican Central railway. Already men are at work there sowing corn. The newcomers will be landed at Vera Cruz. We would have liked to bring them to the United States, but the immigration laws are too strict to allow that.

"We Boers are now practically a people without a home, but we hope to find one in the new country. Our success in getting this tract of land was in great part due to the assistance of President Diaz, Enrique Creel, and Mr. Limantour, the minister of finance."

MANY LIVES LOST IN WEST INDIES.

Fearful Storm Sweeps Over Island of Jamaica, Leaving Death and Ruin in Its Path.

People Carried Out to Sea by Receding Waves and Drowned—Steamers Driven Ashore and Sailing Vessels Wrecked—Loss of Property Will Be at Least $10,000,000.

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 13.—The effects of the hurricane upon the island of Jamaica are greater than at first believed. Port Antonio, on the north coast, was completely overwhelmed. Only six houses were left standing there. The United Fruit company's wharves, offices, hotel and plantations were utterly demolished. Five of the company steamers, including the Simon Dumois, Alfred Dumois and Brigham, were driven ashore, but are lying in easy positions. Port Maria, another town on the north coast, also suffered similarly. The coast is strewn with wreckage of local sailing vessels.

Loss of Life Heavy.

It is feared that the loss of life has been heavy, 20 fatalities having already been reported, principally among seamen. The entire eastern end of the island has been devastated. Villages have been wiped out and public buildings and churches demolished. Thousands of the peasantry, rendered homeless and destitute, are wandering about seeking food and shelter. The destruction of the banana plantations has been complete and the fruit trade is paralyzed for the next 12 months. Hundreds of prosperous fruit growers have been brought to bankruptcy and ruin.

Trade at Standstill.

The western end of the island, which at first was supposed to have escaped, also suffered considerably, though not to the extent which the eastern did. New banana plantations planted there were partly destroyed and the orange and coffee crops were also injured. It is still stormy and threatening and there are fears that there may be a renewal of the storm. Torrential rains have increased the misery of the poor and homeless. Thousands of houses in Kingston were damaged, the wharves were battered and several coasting vessels were sunk in the harbor. Trade is practically at a standstill. The loss will reach millions of dollars.

Loss of $10,000,000.

The southeastern portion of the island has been completely denuded of its crops, the rivers are flooded and many were carried out to sea and drowned. Considering the damage to property during the hurricane the loss of life was comparatively small, though the present estimate now is that the death list will reach 50. Hundreds of persons were injured and there were numerous hairbreadth escapes. The property loss is estimated at $10,000,000.

Arthur LaPlante returned Friday from a trip to Bemidji, Blackduck and other points over east in the interest of the J. B. Cigar company. Arthur reports a splendid trade on their popular brands of cigars.

Rev. C. Nauman is having his new residence plastered this week, and it is the hope of the family to get moved in within two or three weeks. Rev. Nauman will have one of the finest farm homes in the county.

Octave Lafaive and wife, of Garnes township, mourn the loss of their eight-year-old daughter, Addie, whose death occurred last Thursday. The funeral was held from the Terrebonne church Saturday forenoon.

August Riechel, Mrs. August Riechel, senior and Mrs. Fred Lowe left Monday evening for Waterville, Minn. Mrs. Riechel will make her home with Mrs. Lowe at that place. Mr. Riechel returned home Wednesday morning.

We are daily receiving fresh California fruits for preserving and table use. Entrust us with your orders for preserving fruits a few days in advance and secure the finest stock.—Bangs & Co., next to postoffice.

Dr. N. J. Pinault, of Minneapolis, is here this week looking after his business affairs and visiting friends. Dr. Pinault is an extensive holder of farm and business property hereabouts and comes up every year to look after his interests.

THE COURIER editor enjoyed the pleasure of a drive behind John L. Watson's fine team to Terrebonne township last Saturday. The crops out that way are looking fine, and the farmers are feeling in excellent spirits over the outlook.

For the state fair at Hamline August 31 to September 9 the Northern Pacific will make a rate of one and fare plus 50 cents for the round trip. This price includes an admission ticket to the fair. For further particulars consult Agent Mixen.

Fergus Falls Journal: M. O. Sortedahl, the Red Lake Falls banker, has been in the city for a few days past disposing of some of his surplus real estate. Mr. Sortedahl has about 600 acres of land in this country, largely in the towns of Aastad and Tumuli.

A delightful dancing party was held at the K. of P. hall last Friday evening. Among those present from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Jens Nelson, Messrs. Enderle, Fugan and Husman and Misses Pettibone, Hughes, Hoff and Hall, all of St. Hilaire.

Mrs. Matilda Patnode has brought an action in the district court against Karl Williams for $800 damages, alleging the destruction of wood and timber on her farm by carelessness on the part of the defendant. C. E. Boughton is attorney for Mrs. Patnode.

Ed L. Healy is at St. Paul this week arranging for the exhibit which the Healy-Watson company intends to make at the state fair. Red Lake county products will certainly be effectively displayed if this enterprising, land agency takes charge of the work.

William Lachapelle returned Monday morning from North Yakima, Wash., to which place he accompanied his mother about two months ago. Billy says the Red Lake county colony is doing fairly well out there, but that he is better satisfied with Red Lake county.

Neil Crawford expects to leave next week for Alberta, where he owns several farms. If he likes the country he may conclude to locate there. Niel has been employed at the Zaiser livery barn for a good many years and his many friends had come to regard him as a fixture in the city.

S. Cunninghagn went to St. Paul Friday evening to buy fall goods for the Racket store. Mr. Cunningham tells THE COURIER that he expects to put in a large stock of goods this fall and will make a strong bid for trade. He is an up-to-date merchant and will get business if anyone can.

A suit was tried in Judge Toupin's court Saturday, in which Fred Schmitz asked for $25 damages from Matt Skala on account of damage done to his crops by the defendent's hogs. The case was decided in favor of Mr. Schmitz, but the amount of damages has not been announced as yet.

Treffle Daust, the Lambert hotel man, had Donat Lajambe arrested last week, and asked Judge Toupin to put the defendant under bonds to keep the peace. The trial was held before Judge Toupin Thursday and the case was dismissed. Mr. Daust alleged that the defendant had made threats to do him bodily harm.

P. B. Gauss has on exhibition at his office samples of macaroni wheat raised on the farm of J. H. Glass, south of town. This wheat will yield about 25 bushels to the acre, which is fully 30 per cent better than ordinary wheat. The price is usually a little less than No. 1 Northern. If a market can be created for this wheat it will pay the farmers of the county to raise it, as this soil and climate seem to be peculiarly adapted to it.

J. S. Bilodeau, of Montreal, was a guest of his friend, Albert Pelletier, over Sunday. Mr. Bilodeau was a delegate to the international convention of the Catholic Foresters, held at Dubuque, Iowa, last week, and took occasion to come to St. Paul and Red Lake Falls to visit friends. He is an accountant in the general officers of the Forester court of Quebec. Mr. Bilodeau was a caller at THE COURIER office and expressed himself as being agreeably surprised at the beauty and fertility of Red Lake county and doesn't blame the people of Quebec for wanting to come out here.

F. E. Magnuson, the Twin Valley contractor, who has been engaged during the past few weeks in moving a number of residences about town, left for his home Monday evening. While here Mr. Magnuson bought a car of lumber from the Robertson company and had it shipped to Twin Valley, as he could pay freight and still get the material at a cheaper price than he could buy it for in his home town. This certainly shows that lumber prices are at rock bottom here. Agent Johnson is to be congratulated upon making such a satisfactory sale for his company.

Elsewhere in this issue is printed a notice of a public sale at Thief River Falls on Tuesday, September 1. On this occasion Mr. Wiley Tindolph will offer at auction some of the best business and residence property in the city of Thief River Falls, and as this gentleman is probably the largest individual holder of city property in the town it means that there will be plenty of genuine bargains. Mr. Tindolph tells us that Thief River Falls is growing rapidly and that city property there is a most desirable investment. Readers of the COURIER will find him fair and square, and a reliable man to deal with.

Just now it seems that the large attendance on the part of the Red Lake Falls people at the Thief River fair was an olive branch. The up-river people evidently appreciate the spirit shown by their Red Lake Falls neighbors, as evidenced by the following from the Press: "Red Lake Falls did itself proud on the second day of the county fair, the people turning out by the hundreds to accompany their band and ball team on the trip. This is the spirit that should prevail between the two towns and the fair management will not forget the interest taken by the lower end of the county when next year's arrangements are made."

Edson's big show will appear at Red Lake Falls under canvass for three nights commencing Monday evening, Aug. 24. They will present for the opening play the strong comedy drama, "Nugget Nell," being one of the best plays dealing with the Blue Grass state, and the latest eastern success. On Tuesday evening the ever popular and favorite "Esau Lynne" and on Wednesday evening the sterling comedy drama "Not Guilty." The company consists of twenty ladies and gentlemen all artists in their line, the band being one of the strong features of the organization. Every play is mounted with care and full scenic effects. Popular prices.

H. V. Jones, the well known crop expert, says the St. Cloud Journal-Press, has handed in his estimate for this season's wheat harvest and makes the total for Minnesota and the Dakotas as 147,100,000 bushels as against 178,850,000 in 1902—a shortage of 31,750,000 bushels. Mr. Jones reports about a million acres less planted to wheat this year than last, and that the average yield is nearly a bushel smaller. The smaller acreage is accounted for by the farmers planting other crops, and there are about 300,000 acres of macaroni wheat in South Dakota, producing five million bushels, which are not included in the totals for this year. This is accepted by the Minneapolis millers as a conservative estimate—and is an indication of higher prices.

It has occurred to a good many people that the Great Northern ought to have a depot master at Crookston or else label their trains. Nearly every day some one gets on the wrong train, as three of them leave the Crookston depot at about the same time in the morning. The Journal reports a recent incident as follows: "Two ladies traveling from an Iowa point to Thief River Falls boarded the Duluth bound train by mistake here yesterday and failed to attract the attention of the conductor until they were well along toward Dugdale, where they were left to await the arrival of the train returning last night. They were compelled to pay their fare back and remain here until this morning for another opportunity to get to their destination. Their experiences illustrates the lack of a depot master here."

OUR CLAIM FOR THE GEE WHIZZ MACHINE

1. That it is the best washer made, because it runs easier and washes faster and better and is easier on the clothing.

2. Because it whirls, rubs, slaps, squeezes and sucks the dirt out of the clothing, by reason of the reflex motion of the water.

3. It will wash (and we can prove it) as good with cold water as any other machine will with hot water, running the same length of time. We do not expect any other, even on a contest to this statement.

4. Owe will do in one minute with hot water, what it usually takes other machines ten or fifteen minutes to do. So you see you save nine-tenths of the time and labor, by using the Gee Whiz Washer.

5. The Gee Whiz Machine is a combined washer and clothes dryer. When dusting clothing machine must be dry. Adjust sliding wheel just tight enough to whirl the clothing, and turn fast each way a little while. Leave lid up while drying.

COLOMBIA REJECTS PANAMA TREATY

Senate Refuses to Ratify the Agreement Providing for the Big Canal.

PRESIDENT IS IMMEDIATELY NOTIFIED OF DEFEAT OF PACT

Official Confirmation of Action Is Received by Charge d'Affaires at Washington—Little Information Regarding Matter to Be Obtained at State Department.

Washington, Aug. 18.—A cablegram dated August 12 has been received at the state department from Minister Beaupre, at Bogota, saying that the Panama canal treaty has been rejected by the Colombian senate. President Roosevelt was immediately advised of the news, Mr. Beaupre's telegram being forwarded to Oyster Bay.

Official News Received.

Dr. Herran, the Colombian charge d' affaires, has received an official cablegram from the Colombian secretary of state, dated August 13, containing the brief announcement of the senate's rejection of the treaty on the day previous.

State Department Silent.

Very little additional information concerning the action of the Colombian senate could be obtained at the state department. Mr. Loomis was not at the department, the statement being made that he had gone away for a few days on business. Mr. Adee, acting secretary, would not discuss Colombian affairs, nor indicate what course the United States would pursue. The information in the cablegram of Minister Beaupre was meager, and there was no intimation whether the treaty might not again be brought up for consideration.

Section 4, of the Isthmian canal act, provides that should the president be unable to obtain a satisfactory title to the property of the new Panama Canal company, and control of the necessary territory and the rights necessary to the construction of the canal from the republic of Colombia, he shall make the necessary treaties with Costa Rica and Nicaragua, and proceed with the construction of a canal by the Nicaragua route.

It will be impossible for President Marroquin to submit again the treaty to the Colombian congress in its present form. The senate having rejected it, the treaty cannot again come before that body except by the senate's own vote. President Marroquin, however, can send the treaty slightly amended to the senate, and reopen the canal debate. It is believed at the Colombian legation that President Marroquin will adopt some such procedure.

Earthquake in Illinois.

Alton, Ill., Aug. 18.—An earthquake shock was felt here at 3.54 o'clock Sunday morning. The majority of the residents of Alton were awakened. Some thought the powder mills at East Alton had exploded, and others thought that an explosion had occurred at the lead works. The shock shook a quantity of plastering loose in the main auditorium of the Methodist Episcopal church on Sixth street. At East Alton bricks were shaken from several chimneys and glass broken in several windows. From the best information the shock lasted nearly eight seconds.

Ill Health Causes Suicide.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 18.—W. L. Pettit, for many years assistant cashier of the First national bank here, shot himself in the head at seven o'clock Monday morning, dying instantly. Continued ill health is believed to have been the cause. He was 63 years old.

RIVERS IN KANSAS RISING

Only Street Car Bridge Between Two Kansas Cities Gone.

Men Working Hard to Protect Others Which Are in Danger—Heavy Rains the Cause.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 18.—The first serious damage to result from the present rise in the Kansas river at this point came Monday morning when the James street bridge, the only means of street car communication between the two Kansas Cities, went out. The bridge had been weakened during the high water of the past week and gave way when struck by a great mass of driftwood carried in from the west by the swift current. The James street bridge was built of piles to replace one carried out by the June flood. Other structures, including the Grandview and the belt line bridges, are in immediate danger. Part of the belt line bridge went Sunday.

The river, after becoming stationery Sunday afternoon, rose quite rapidly during the night and continued to rise Monday. Most water is coming this way from the west, most of the tributaries of the Kansas river being high from recent rains. After a rise of another foot or two it is believed a fall will commence, unless the heavy rains of the past week continue. Men are working hard to protect the railway bridges which are still being used. No other property is in danger.

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 18.—The Kansas river here has risen nearly a foot since Sunday and is still rising steadily.

Lawrence, Kan., Aug. 18.—The Kansas river has risen four inches since Sunday night and a large force of men are at work protecting the bridges from destruction.

Solina, Kan., Aug. 18.—The Smoky Hill river has risen about three feet in the last 12 hours and the indications are for more rain. Very little damage has been caused so far.

For the Eight-Hour Day.

Washington, Aug. 18.—The inauguration of the eight-hour day in the book and job branch of the printing industry on January 1, 1905, is the goal of union printers. The closing hours of the fortyninth session of the International Typographical union were devoted to the consideration of ways and means to accomplish this shorter work day. The proposition submitted by the committee on the eight-hour day was adopted without a dissenting vote, following a very short discussion.

Demands Redress.

Manila, Aug. 18.—Maj. Robert L. Bullard has demanded redress from Sultan Dassom, the tribal leader of the Lanao Moros. Although professing a warm friendship for Americans, the sultan recently surrounded a small detachment of United States troops paying him a friendly visit with a strong force of warriors and offered battle, his men insulting and firing an American flag. So far the only reply from the sultan to Maj. Bullard's demands has been defiance.

Five Children Drowned.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 18.—At the Lynch station, Giles county, late Sunday evening, while a party of children, one boy and seven girls, ranging in age from 8 to 15 years, were boating, the boat capsized, and five of the girls were drowned. The drowned children were two daughters of John Robinson, one daughter of John Holloway and two daughters of Mrs. L. O. Lee.

Many Tourists Killed.

Chamonix, France, Aug. 18.—Seven tourists, it was announced Monday, were killed recently while attempting to climb the Aiguilles Grises, behind Mont Blanc, on the Courmayaur side of the Mountain.

BRITISH CUTTER FIRES ON VESSEL

Canadian Steamer Uses Guns in Attempt to Capture an American Fishing Boat.

The Latter Shows Her Former a Clean Pair of Heels and Arrives Safely at Erie, Pa.—International Trouble May Arise—Captain to File a Protest in Washington.

Erie, Pa., Aug. 18.—With its cabins and hull riddled with shot received in an encounter with the Canadian revenue cutter Petrel, the fishing steamer Silver Spray steamed into port Wednesday afternoon, having beaten the Canadian in a long race, which would have meant the confiscation of the craft had it been captured. The Silver Spray was attacked by the Canadian cutter while in the fishing grounds which have for years been disputed waters between Canada and the United States. While there have been many conflicts between the Petrel and the American craft in the past this is the first time, it is said, that the Petrel ever fired on an American craft, and Capt. Chris Chau, the owner of the Silver Spray, is preparing a protest to the state department at Washington, which will make Wednesday's battle an international affair, and perhaps result in settling the mooted boundary line for all time to come.

Beginning of Trouble.

At the time the trouble started the Silver Spray was engaged in fishing near the imaginary line in the middle of Lake Erie which forms the dividing line between the United States and Canada. While all the crew were busy with nets the Petrel came swiftly up from the Canadian side and was almost upon the steamer before its presence was discovered. As the Canadian cruiser neared the Silver Spray Capt. Chau put his helm over and ordered full speed ahead, as it seemed to be the intention of the Petrel to run his craft. Seeing the Silver Spray escaping, the captain of the cutter signaled the tug to heave to. Capt. Chau paid no attention to the demands of his pursuer.

Twenty Shots Are Fired.

Bringing its rifled guns to bear, the Canadians sent shot after shot at the flying steamer with the intention of disabling it. Twenty shots altogether were fired. One passed through the smokestack into the pilot house, in which Capt. Chau stood at the wheel, and two more struck the pilot house, one of which came within a few inches of him, scattering a myriad of splinters around his head.

The fact that no one was killed is regarded as miraculous. Fred Culver, a sailor, was hit in the leg by a glancing bullet. At length the steamer escaped.

BANK FAILS.

Fourth Financial Institution in Duluth Succumbs as Result of Alleged Embezzlement.

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 18.—The alleged embezzlement of $45,000 of the funds of the Commercial Bank Building company, for which E. E. Johnson, the trusted clerk of the bank is under arrest, has brought about the failure of the Merchants' bank, of Duluth, which closed its doors after Friday's business. President Smith said that the failure was due to a run on the bank resulting from the closing of the Commercial Banking company's institution. He said that he could not anticipate the extent of the withdrawals, and closed the doors of all depositors as much as possible. This is the fourth financial institution to go as a result of the alleged embezzlement.

Another Victim.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 18.—Frank Tilley, of Rising Sun, Ind., one of the employes of Wallace Brothers' circus, who was brought to the hospital here after the accident at Durand last Friday, when two sections of the circus train collided in the Grand Trunk yards, died yesterday afternoon from his injuries. This is the twenty-fifth death caused by the wreck.

Corner Stone Laid.

Elkins, W. Va., Aug. 18.—The corner stone of the Davis-Elkins Presbyterian college, to which former United States Senators Elkins and Davis contributed upwards of $100,000, was laid Wednesday by Rev. F. H. Barron, pastor of the Davis Memorial church; Hon. C. Wood Dailey, trustees, and Senator Davis took part in the ceremonies. It is expected that the college building be completed in time for the 1904-5 scholastic year.

Died at the Age of 102.

Baltimore, Aug. 18.—Mrs. Maria Lething, who was the oldest woman in Baltimore, died here Wednesday at the age of 102. She had been an inmate of the Church Home and Infirmary many years. Her husband was a surgeon in the U. S. army, and she came to America with him during the civil war. She preserved her mental faculties to the last.

Loss by Fire.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 13.—Fire early Wednesday morning destroyed Radcliffe & Co.'s four-story brick warehouse, entailing a loss of over $100,000. The building was filled with valuable furniture, owned by local dealers.

Will Bar Cigarettes.

St. Louis, Aug. 14.—By request the world's fair management has fixed October 7, 1904, for anti-cigarette day. An effort will be made to have smoking on the grounds that day made a nuisance punishable by arrest.

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived close to those who have made and are making the history of our times.

In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of a statesman with the droll fancies of the humorist.

We see the speaker, we hear the laughter, we surrender to the spell of the words; we can feel the tenseness as the speaker mounts in his subtlest flights, then hear the outburst of applause as the audience greets the speaker at his climax.

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 vol-umes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7¾ x 10¾ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravure portraits. Also Imperial Japanese Vellum, limited volumes containing frontispieces in multi-color.

CORBETT KNOCKED OUT.

Jeffries Wins in the Tenth Round of the Fight at San Francisco.

San Francisco, Aug. 17—James J. Jeffries, champion heavyweight of the world, played with Jim Corbett for nine rounds and a half Friday night, and then Corbett's seconds motioned to Referee Graney to stop the fight in order to save their man from needless punishment. The end came shortly after the beginning of the tenth round, when Jeffries planted one of his terrific left swings on Corbett's stomach. The man who conquered John L. Sullivan dropped to the floor in agony and the memorable scene at Carson City, when

JAMES J. JEFFRIES

Bob Fitzsimmons landed his solar plexus blow, was duplicated. This time, however, Corbett struggled to his feet and again faced his gigantic adversary. With hardly a moment's hesitation Jeffries swung his right and again landed on Corbett's stomach. Jim dropped to the floor and then it was that Tommy Ryan, seeing that it was all over, motioned to Referee Graney to stop the punishment.

STORM IN NORTHWEST.

Hail Destroys Thousands of Acres of Grain Lands in State of Minnesota.

Grand Forks, N. D., Aug. 15.—A hailstorm Thursday evening cleaned out several thousand acres of grain north of East Grand Forks, Minn.

Storm City, Ia., Aug. 15.—A severe hail and windstorm destroyed crops in a wide strip in Sac county Friday afternoon. In and about Lytton buildings were destroyed, but no one reported hurt.

Owensboro, Ky., Aug. 15.—A section of two miles square in Daviess county was visited by a destructive hailstorm Thursday night. The damage to crops and property was estimated at over $50,000.

Dare Is Set.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 12.—Adjt. Gen. D. D. Libbey has received word from the national guard of Illinois, accepting September 21 as the date for the interstate rifle contest for the Washburn trophy. Wisconsin and Iowa had previously accepted the date, and the shoot will be held at Camp Lakeview, near Lake City, Minn. The trophy is now in the possession of the Illinois guardsmen and has not been contested for some years.

Addressed by President.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 17.—President Roosevelt delivered the principal address at the quarterly meeting of the society of the Holy Name (Catholic) of Brooklyn and Long Island, held here Sunday. Decency of speech and conduct constituted the theme of his address, which was enthusiastically applauded by an audience of more than 2,000 persons, chiefly men.

Prisoners Mutiny.

Carthage, Mo., Aug. 17.—Fifty prisoners in the county jail mutinied at midnight and made a demand for better food. The fire department was called out and turned a stream of water on the prisoners, who, after turning the lights out in the corridor barled empty bottles at the firemen and officials. One deputy was cut in the face. The prisoners were finally subdued.

Terrible Deed.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 17.—George B. Evans, manager of the American Transfer company, murdered his wife, Mrs. Lillie Maude Evans, in a most cold-blooded manner at their home in the southern portion of the city. Later he was found dead in Mount St. Mary's cemetery, two miles distant, having shot himself.

"Dollar Wheat" in Minneapolis.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 15.—"Dollar wheat" was at last seen on change on Friday for the first time since the Leiter corner in 1898. It was cash wheat and there were sales at that figure. Later $1.03 was asked and $1.01 bid with no sales. The short September option touched 95, the highest point in 14 years.

Charged with Murder.

Muscatine, Ia., Aug. 13.—Bert Shepard, of Oskaloosa, Ia., son of W. N. Shepard, Sr., a wealthy coal operator, was arrested in Muscatine yesterday charged with killing Arthur Meade in West Liberty, Ia., in a robbery committed on May 14, 1903. He says he is innocent.

Damage by Earthquake.

Buenos Ayres, Aug. 14.—Severe shocks of earthquake occurred at Mendoza August 13. A number of houses and the tower of the Church of San Francisco were destroyed. Five persons were killed and many others injured.

Price of Flour Advanced.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—Flour has been advanced 20 cents a barrel by northwestern and 10 cents by Chicago millers because of a pretended scarcity. The raise is declared by wholesalers to be unjustified.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Forestry Convention.

The attendance at the sessions of the American Forestry association, to be held in Minneapolis Aug. 25-6, promises to include many persons of note in government and private forestry circles. Chief among these is Secretary of Agriculture Hon. James Wilson. Dr. Roth, formerly chief forester of the department of the interior, in charge of the forest reserves, will speak on "Possibilities of Reforesting the White Pine Districts in the Lake States." Mr. Edw. A. Bowers, consulting forester in the forest service, will discuss his efforts to further national forest reserve legislation, will handle the subject of "The Future of the Forest Reserves." "Taxation and Private Forestry" will be discussed by Mr. Ernest Bruncken, late secretary of the Wisconsin forestry commission. Mr. Overton W. Price, of the bureau of Forestry, gives a paper on "Government Aid to Private Forestry." Professor Conress in Agricultural Colleges," will be presented by Prof. B. H. Green, of the state college of agriculture. Atty.-Gen. Douglas will talk on "Planting Pine at Itasca Park." Prof. C. W. Hall, of the state university, has a paper on "Geological Features of Water Control on the Upper Mississippi Valley."

Perhaps the most interesting subjects are the papers by Mr. Eugene Bruce on "The Plans and Policy of the Forestry Bureau on the Chippewa Reservations;" one by Mr. T. B. Walker on "Our Past and Future Forestry Policy;" and an article by Mr. B. F. Nelson, of the Nelson-Tuthill Logging company on "A Lumberman's Idea of Reforestration." These will be delivered on Wednesday evening.

At the mass meeting on Wednesday evening, at which Governor Wilson will speak, short addresses will also be given by Gov. Van Sant, Hon. John Lind and others.

The Minneapolis Commercial club will entertain the visitors on Tuesday evening, Aug. 25.

Wheat Estimates.

H. V. Jones, of Minneapolis, who is an acknowledged authority upon crop reports, makes the following estimates:

The wheat production of Minnesota and the two Dakotas for 1903 is 282,000,000 bushels less than in 1902. This reduction is in part due to a decrease of acreage and in part to a decrease of average yield. The acreage decrease is about 800,000, which, on the basis of the computed average yield this year, is equal to 10,000,000 bushels. The decrease in average of yield is equivalent to 1.35 bushels an acre, or about 17,000,000 bushels, a total of 28,000,000 bushels.

The amount of old wheat carried over to the new crop is estimated at 3,000,000 less than for the previous year, or 7,000,000, thus reducing the available northwest supply to 30,000,000 less than last year.

The feature of interest in the northwest crop this year is the loss of wheat acreage. The total is computed here at 800,000 acres less than last year. The difficulty of arriving at a satisfactory conclusion on this point is admitted, but these figures are believed to be considerative and safe. The reduction of 1,000,050 acres last year is fully sustained by the distribution.

The area, condition, average yield and total yields promised are as follows:

	Area.	Cond'n.	Yld.	Total.
Minn.	2,100,000	77	12.32	25,872,000
N. D.	2,350,000	77	12.32	28,910,000
S. D.	2,200,000	77	12.32	48,546,000
Total				103,508,000

Cattle at the Fair.

Livestock exhibitions of National importance have come to be a regular part of the Minnesota State Fair. For three years there have been successful shows of this class. If this year's show did no more than merely duplicate that of last no one would need be afraid of it to induce multitudes to go and see it. But everything indicates that the forthcoming show will excel all predecessors. The National Shorthorn and Hereford associations will again make the Minnesota fair the only state fair for the exhibition of the choicest animals of these breeds under the direct auspices of the associations. And it is possible that other breeds will be represented in a similarly conspicuous manner. At all events, it is known that all breeds will be represented by many and most excellent herds and individuals. Public sales of cattle will be held, as last year, giving prospective buyers a splendid opportunity to combine business with pleasure; profitable business with wholesome, instructive pleasure. This fair has now become too prominent, too much of a national affair, to make the showing of ordinary specimens of cattle, or offering them for sale, desirable or profitable to their owners, hence a very high class exhibit may be expected. The fair opens this year Monday, Aug. 31st and closes Sept. 5th.

Traffic Delayed.

A small smashup occured near Brunswick, range breaking on one of the car wheels in the center of the train and five cars being derailed. Traffic was delayed about six hours.

News Notes.

The large, beautiful farm residence of E. J. Rathbun, two miles west of Bertha, is totally destroyed by fire. The family were eating dinner when it was discovered that the whole upper story was on fire.

The Duluth and Iron Range railroad has subscribed $3,000 to the fund being raised by the Railroad Y. M. C. A. for an addition at Two Harbors.

A colored man named John Maddox was severely stabbed with a knife and robbed by a companion, also colored, on the Burlington track at Hastings.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVE VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next five years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the ,best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENTS, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent commission. Why not just as well have that in your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well-settled community, where churches and schools are built and roads graded. These will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $3,000 cash will handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit at 6 per cent. A fine investor can make a "rip" thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

Low Fares to Be Tried.
Universal penny fares are to be tried for six months on the Sheffield (England) municipal electric tramway system.

You can keep clean with soft soap, but it is rather unpleasant and most people prefer something a little less gritesome. Cole's Carbolsoap is the best soap for personal use. It is purely vegetable, exquisitely perfumed and it keeps the skin soft and free from blemishes. Be sure you get Cole's. Sold by A. L. Reichert.

The Death Penalty.
A little thing sometimes results in death. Insults mere scratch, insignificant cuts or puny boils have paid the death penalty. It is wise to have Bucklin's Arnica Salve ever handy. It draws the fire, heals and will prevent fatality, when Burns, Sores, Ulcers and Piles threaten. Only 25c. at W. A. Schreiter's Drug Store.

The Experimental Psychologist.
One of the latest departures of the experimental psychologist consists in presiding people with a poisoned stick when they are asleep to find out how much excitation is required to wake them up, says Nature.

Few people live healthful lives. In this strenuous age it is easy to approach the danger point and only stop when we have reached it. Then is the time to take Cole's Carbolsalve, the perfect blood purifier and nerve tonic. It is just what its name implies. Try it. $1.00 by A. L. Richert.

The Crookston Times reports that a small-sized hail storm passed over that city in an easterly direction Monday afternoon about 5 o'clock. The storm seemed to come from the southwest, and the damage to the crops on the Dakota side of the river between Crookston and Breckenridge was quite severe. In the territory adjacent to Crookston no losses have been reported except at Marin Station, seven miles south where a strip of grain a mile wide and two miles long was badly cut down by the hail. The hail stones in Crookston were as large as hen's eggs and windows were broken in various portions of the city, particularly in the southern part where the hail was the heaviest. It is not thought that the hail did any very great amount of damage.

VOLUME V.—NUMBER 47. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY EVENING, AUGUST 27, 1903. WHOLE NUMBER 255.

HAPPENINGS OF THE WEEK.

New Mill Manager.

T. E. Metzger, who is to be manager of the Crookston Milling company and assist S. M. Severtson in the management of the Red Lake Falls Milling company, arrived Monday from Mankato to enter upon his new work.

Tramps Are Scarce.

Hoboes are reported numerous in the towns along the main lines of the railroads this season. Red Lake Falls being on branch lines, has had little trouble with them. There is some compensation in being off of the main traveled road."

Band Boys Have New Uniforms.

The band boys received their new uniforms this week, and will make their first public appearance in the new clothes at the band concert tomorrow evening. The suits were purchased through Berthon & Armstrong, and the boys may well be proud of them.

A New Confectionery.

R. H. Duntley, of St. Hilaire, has leased the Spillane building formerly occupied by J. M. Allard, and will start a confectionery and fruit store there about September 10. Mr. Duntley has had long experience in that line of business and will no doubt secure his share of the trade.

Socialist Meeting at St. Hilaire.

A mass meeting of the Socialists of Red Lake county will be held at St. Hilaire on Sunday, September 6, at which time a county organization will be perfected and plans made for next year's campaign. Every Socialist in the county is invited to attend the meeting and take part in the discussions.

Logs Going Down the River.

The recent rains have raised the Clearwater river sufficiently to get some of the logs to Crookston that have been hung up in the river for the past three months. The mill people at Crookston say they have enough logs in the boom to keep the mill running night and day for the remainder of the season.

A Good Company.

The Edson company gave entertainments at the Metropolitan the first three evenings of the week. It was the original intention to give a tent show, but the weather conditions were unfavorable. The Edsons give good, clean performances and pleased their audiences. It is hoped they will come this way again.

Big Real Estate Deal.

Paul Hieck has sold his beautiful 240-acre farm just south of town to Dan Gerlach, and consideration being $10,000. This is the fanciest price ever paid for a Red Lake county farm, but as Mr. Reick's place is highly improved and bumps up against the best town in northwestern Minnesota it ought to command a fancy figure.

Honey Crop is Large.

Henry Cyr, of Poplar River, has purchased all of the bees, forty-seven colonies, owned by Edward Huot, of Louisville, and is having them moved to his place this week. The bee industry is quite an important one in Red Lake county, and it is a conservative estimate in placing the total value of the output of this busy little animal at from $15,000 to $20,000 this year.

Big Sale of Town Lots.

Wiley Tindolph was down from Thief River Falls Saturday on business at the court house. Mr. Tindolph will hold a public auction on next Tuesday, September 1, at one o'clock p. m., of some choice business and residence lots in the city of Thief River Falls. For further particulars look up the big advertisement elsewhere in this issue, and make arrangements to go up.

Few Wills Are Filed.

The people of Red Lake county are rather slow to take advantage of the provisions of the new law making the judge of probate custodian of wills, as thus far only two wills have been filed under that act. The fee for filing a will is $1, and those of our people who expect to leave an estate when they pass to the unknown shore will find this a convenient method to avoid legal entanglements on the part of their heirs.

Automatic Grain Car Door.

W. T. Spillane has been granted a patent on a door for grain cars. The door is entirely automatic, and by an ingenious arrangement of weights the door is lifted to the top of the car when not in use. There is a great demand for an article of this kind by railroad companies, and we hope that Mr. Spillane has solved the problem and will find millions in his contrivance. The patent was secured through Attorney Grady's agency.

A Co-operative Creamery.

A movement is on foot to reorganize the creamery at Thief River Falls. The business men and farmers are taking stock jointly and the movement will undoubtedly be pushed to a successful termination. Articles of incorporation are now being drawn and the new company hopes to be in readiness for business by September 1, after which date the institution will be operated on the co-operative plan, the farmers and merchants owning the stock.

Mourning Stamps.

The postoffice department is constantly in receipt of requests for the issue of a mourning stamp for use on black-edged stationery. Persons in all grades of life assert that there is no harmony or appropriateness in an envelope with a black edge and a red stamp in the corner and they beg the department to issue a black stamp. It is reported that the department is inclined to accede to their requests and may soon issue a stamp printed in black for which a charge of three cent will be made.

Immense Fall Stocks.

In few towns in Minnesota do the merchants carry as large or as good a line of goods as in Red Lake Falls. Every train brings in large consignments of general merchandise, dry goods, etc., and an army of clerks is kept busy rearranging the displays. Then in the matter of prices our merchants are noted for giving full value for the money expended. The wisdom of this policy is shown by the increased patronage —many coming from close proximity to neighboring towns—and the general satisfaction of all patrons.

A Last Overcoat.

While driving to Crookston last Saturday the editor of THE COURIER lost a $20 light-weight black overcoat on the road between Red Lake Falls and Gentilly. As the clothing men have been rather evasive on the question of giving credit for another coat we trust the finder will be good enough to bring the coat to this office. By being deprived of the coat we might be subjected to a horde of wandering pneumonia germs, and we should regret very much if any of our innocent blood is on the hands of the luckless finder.

Bogus Drafts Afloat.

The local banks have been warned against cashing drafts purporting to be drawn by the Grand Forks Mercantile company and the Grand Forks Land company on the First National bank of that place. These drafts are forgeries, and the party negotiating them goes by the name of H. T. Ralburn. They are said to be clumsy imitations, printed on cheap paper, but notwithstanding this a number of them have been cashed by business firms throughout this section. The State Bankers' association is on the lookout for Ralburn, and hopes to effect his arrest.

Telephone to the News.

THE COURIER has a telephone—No. 33. This telephone is for the convenience of the office and its patrons. Especially is everyone who has occasion for the paper invited to use it for the purpose of sending in these items. Time and again good news items are missed—items that many people want to know about—because the reporters have no means of getting the first bit of information about the case. Don't be bashful when you have an item, but call for THE COURIER office. There will be someone there at all hours of the day and almost always during the earlier hours of the evening who will be glad to give you attention.

$10,000 for a Cook.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, the older, employed the same cook for a great many years at a salary of $10,000 a year. This man knew cooking in every detail. He wasn't paid a large salary because he could write, or keep books, or do anything else but cook; but when it came to cooking, he could do that better than any other man Vanderbilt had ever known. The man who succeeds today must know some one line better than any one else, and then he must have the strength to keep "eternally at it." To do this, you need golden grain belt beer regularly with your meals. It tones both mind and body and should be in every home. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

Blackduck Cigar Company.

Arthur LaPlante, manager of the J. B. Cigar company of this city, and Oliver Pederson, who has been running a factory at Thief River Falls for several years past, will establish the Blackduck Cigar company, at Blackduck, within a few weeks. Mr. Pederson will locate there and assume management of the concern. Both of the boys are hustling, energetic cigar men of long experience, and the Blackduck people will find that the factory will be an important addition to the business interests of their city. Mr. LaPlante will go up next week to assist in getting the factory started, but of course has no intention of doing there permanently, as the J. B. company is doing a fine business.

Change of Lumber Agents.

H. N. Johnson has resigned his position as manager of the local yard of the Robertson Lumber company to accept a job as traveling salesman for the Red Lake Falls Milling company, the change to take place September 1. Mr. Johnson is an excellent young man and possesses the qualities that go to make up a successful "knight of the grip." His territory will be northern Minnesota, North Dakota and eastern Montana. The Red Lake Falls people will be sorry to lose Mr. Johnson, but as his headquarters are to be here we will have opportunities of gazing on his pleasant countenance occasionally. Thomas A. Crompe, a well known and popular citizen, will succeed Mr. Johnson as agent of the Robertson company.

Labor Commissioner's Report.

Labor Commissioner John O'Donnell who has returned from a trip through the northern part of the state, says that the conditions of the laboring classes are unusually good, according to the Pioneer Press. Mr. O'Donnell visited Crookston, East Grand Forks, Bemidji, Cass Lake, Walker, Thief River Falls, St. Hilaire and Red Lake Falls, and nowhere did he find a child employed in violation of the law. Few women are employed in any of the manufacturing or mercantile industries; the saw mills are generally supplied with devices for the protection of the employees and there is a disposition on the part of most of the business men to observe the Sunday closing law passed by the last legislature.

Must Not Mix Wheat.

The following notice has been issued by F. W. Eva, chief inspector of grain at Duluth, and is of interest to farmers who desire to get the best grade possible for their wheat:

"In view of the fact of the increasing production of 'rice' and 'goose' wheat, known in our grades as 'nonroni,' I wish to call your attention to the necessity of keeping this class of wheat separated from all others.

"Country elevator agents should be notified of the necessity of cleaning elevator pits, boppers and sacks after handling this class of wheat. For neglecting these precautions, I respectfully refer you to our rules of its inspection, where it stands: "Wheat containing a mixture of 'rice' or 'goose' wheat will in no case be graded better than rejected.'"

Presbyterian Church Dedication.

Arrangements for the dedication of the new Presbyterian church Sunday are perfected. Dr. R. N. Adams, of Minneapolis, will preach the dedicatory sermon at three o'clock in the afternoon, and Rev. Donald McKenzie, pastor of the Crookston church, will preach at the regular hours morning and evening. Communion will be celebrated at the close of the morning service. Special music by a choir of adult voices will be furnished, and it is expected that the new collection will be received by that time. Prof. Onstad, leader of the Red Lake Falls band, has promised to give several selections of instrumental music. A large attendance from neighboring towns is anticipated, and no doubt the day will be a memorable one in the annals of local religious circles.

A Communication.

St. Hilaire, Minn., Aug. 25.—Editor Courier: In its account of the court proceedings of the case of Carl Dahl vs. Village of St. Hilaire, the Spectator draws a number of unfair inferences. The account in the Spectator was all right so far as it went, but it did not go far enough. It is true that the court denied the application for a temporary injunction, but Mr. Dahl, the plaintiff in the case, gains four points, as follows: (1) Only that part of the ground may be used which Mr. Dahl has consented to, which is less than one-fourth acre in the southeast corner, or furthest southway from his house; (2) no dead animals may be put there; (3) no burning over of the ground during the pendency of this action will be allowed; (4) the building near the dumping ground may not be used for a pest house. It is but fair to the plaintiff in the case that these facts be set forth.

Telephone Manager Electrocuted.

Geo. J. McNaughton, manager of the local telephone exchange at St. Cloud, was instantly killed Friday evening by taking hold of a live wire. He had just finished his supper when word was brought to him that some wires were down on the other side of the river. Putting a pair of nippers in his pocket he strolled across to the place where the trouble was. The wire which gave him the fatal shock was lying across the electric light wires which carried a voltage of 2300, sufficient to kill a man. It is thought that Mr. McNaughton had an idea he could nip the wire without suffering more than a slight shock. A gentleman who was nearby at the time of the accident, saw him wrap a handkerchief around his hand, reach up high on the wire, then suddenly fall back-ward. He states that his hat was lifted several inches above his head. A small hole in the palm of the hand was the only mark on the body.

PEOPLE INVEST THEIR MONEY.

Large Increase in Number of Companies in Minnesota.

The state of Minnesota in the fiscal year ended July 31 received 35 per cent more revenue from incorporation fees than in the preceding fiscal year. The receipts for 1903 aggregated $54,030, compared with $40,555 for the year before. The receipts for 1901 were $42,670. In the last year 672 companies were either incorporated or increased their capital stock, 140 more companies than for 1902.

An unusually large number of mining and realty companies were incorporated last year. The fee on the Donova Mining company alone amounted to $2,750, while the Sharon Ore company paid $2,400. The American Finance and Loan company paid $2,025.

"The increase in this department of the state's business, I think, is due to the general prosperity prevailing in Minnesota and the United States," said P. E. Hanson, secretary of state. "People are not afraid to invest their money when times are good."

Mayor Frank H. Kratka Butts up Against The Game Law.

Bosman Region Deputy Game Warden Olson Wednesday landed in the meshes of the law three offenders against the game law. They were Frank Kratka, Audley Caldwell and Walter Robbeke, all of Thief River Falls, and were chaperoned by Mayor F. H. Kratka. The party were out on a hunting and camping trip and ran amuck of Sam Fullerton's lynx eyed representative on Rosum Lake and were caught in the very act. Young Kratka and one of the other boys had the game in their possession, built a dozen nice, fat ducks, and they were promptly taken before the bar of the blind goddess in Justice Dalby's court and due to their youth and good looks, were given a light fine of $10 and costs, which were paid. Thief River's chief executive did protest against this "outrage," however, claiming he had a special permit from Sam Fullerton himself to do illegal shooting. The "special permit" is a week on the scale holder of justice, but the sentiment prevails that the offenders should have been given the limit.

CONVEYS BIG TRACT.

State Deeds 62,000 Acres of Land to the Northern Pacific.

The State of Minnesota has conveyed 62,000 acres of land in Crow Wing, Morrison and Todd counties to the Northern Pacific Railway company.

The land has already been settled, and most of it sold by the railway company, which made the selection a number of years ago. It was granted under the old territorial law, for the line from Watab to Brainerd, built in 1877 by the St. Paul & Pacific, later the Northern Pacific. The land was granted by the government, but the patent was not issued until June 30 of this year. Under the law the land was conveyed through the state.

Under the same patent the Great Northern got perfect title to 1,700 acres of land in scattering tracts in Sherburne, Meeker and Kandiyohi counties.

The Way of the World.

Sheldon Sun: The Rock Rapids Reporter is evidently very righteous indignation over the fact that a woman of that town who had been sent to the penitentiary for prostitution and who had served seventeen months of her three years sentence for her crime, now comes back there upon a parole issued by the governor. The Reporter considers it a terrible outrage that she should be paroled, that her return to Rock Rapids was a "shock" to the citizens of that place and that for the want of a better home says that the outcast female had for the past several days been lodged in the county jail. Great God! What does the Reporter want done with the miserable wretch? Hasn't seventeen months in the penitentiary given her plenty of time to think over and probably move her to resolutions of a better life? How little do we practice the Christ religion in our every day life. He said, "Go! sin no more." If this doctrine can find an abiding lodgement in the hearts of Rock Rapids people we would suggest that a delegation of the men of that city be appointed by the Reporter to take this defiled woman outside the city limits and stone her to death, and that he who had aided most in dragging her down to her present level be allowed the sacred privilegeh of shying the first one at her.

Patent Pill Pleasure.

The pills that are potent in their action and pleasant in effect are De-Witt's Little Early Risers. W. S. Philpot of Albany, Ga., says "During a bilious attack I took one. Small as it is it did me more good than calomel, blue-mass or any other pills I ever took and at the same time it effected me pleasantly. Little Early Risers are certainly an ideal pill." Sold by W. A. Schreiber.

To Die of Paralysis Like Father.

Helpless Invalid For Three Years.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Made My Nerves Strong.

"For many years I suffered from terrible headaches and pains at the base of the brain, and finally got so bad that I was overcome with nervous prostration. I had frequent dizzy spells and was so weak and exhausted that I could take but little food. The best physicians told me I could not live; that I would die of paralysis, as my father and grandfather had. I continued a helpless invalid for three years, when I heard of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and began using it. That seemed a little better than I had before in many years, so I kept on using it, and in a few months my headaches ceased entirely, and Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, by my suicide is good and my nerves are strong."—Mrs. N. M. Bachtell, 2939 Oakland Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.

"For many years I suffered from nervous prostration, and could not direct my household affairs, nor have any cares. My mother-in-law was very much troubled when I was here, and I was so nervous that there was not a night I could sleep. I slept over one hour at a time. We spent hundreds of dollars for doctors and medicine. I was taken to Chicago and treated by specialists, but received no benefit at all. Finally I heard of Dr. Miles' Nervine and began its use. I was surprised that it helped me so quickly, and great was my joy to find, after using seven bottles, that I had fully recovered my health."—Mrs. W. A. Tompkins, Duluth, Minn.

Easy Pill

Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due to the fact that they tonic the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe nor sicken, not even the most delicate lady, yet they are so certain in results that no one who uses them is disappointed. They cure torpid liver, constipation, biliousness, headache, malaria and ward off pneumonia and fevers.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

The St. Paul News is getting bolder all the time. It now refers to them as "screen-door waists."

Lawyers are admitted to the bar, and so are others—if they are personal friends of the barkeeper.

The householder's summer reveries are disturbed by the ten-cent advance on hard coal each month.

Edison describes genius as being "two per cent. inspiration and ninety-eight per cent. prespiration."

Friends are appreciated by some people at just exactly what they are worth from a commercial point of view.

Mary McFadden discovers that Wall Street operators seldom lose any money in places where anybody can find it.

The Princeton Union avers that the seas of matrimony can never be sailed smoothly if the wife is a good revenue cutter.

The Atchison Globe avers that the happiest person in the world is the one who is regardless of the future and oblivious of the past.

The sage of the Slayton Gazette remarks that "a man true to his convictions is respected by all, no matter what his convictions are."

Notwithstanding the heated discussion of the kissing bug we have yet to hear of a girl who is afraid of one, whether he has two legs or more.

The New Rockford Transcript has noticed that the man who can't work when it is hot is always stopping to enjoy the weather when it cools off a few.

Now and then a student may go insane by reason of overstudy, but untold thousands of them remain ignorant and incompetent because of understudy.

Since the "race suicide" question has become uppermost we shall expect the president to rescind the order forbidding the marriage of young officers in the army.

The Big Fork Compass editor must find some recompense in being denied many of the luxuries of civilization by the twenty columns of final proofs now running in his interesting paper.

The Duluth News-Trihune gives this oft-forgotten truism:

Little girls and boys are the most precious things on earth—and some parents seem to forget that they need more attention than anything else. So some little girls and boys fail to grow to honorable womanhood and manhood.

Frank Eddy says a man cannot be a good citizen or a good christian unless he is a good politician. The analogy hardly holds good in Frank's case. He may be a good politician and a good citizen, but—

An insane woman in New York fell out of a second story window and the jar restored her reason. Frank Day says this doesn't prove anything, for most any man will come to his senses if you take a fall out of him.

A million gallons of whiskey were destroyed by a fire in Glasgow last week, and the fact has made such a profound impression on a Kentucky editor that he is advising his neighbors to plow fire breaks around their distilleries.

How a little brief authority often puffs up a man or woman and how ridiculous such an one appears in the opinion of the general public. The Albert Lea Standard says truly along this line:

It does not pay to appear important—the modest man is much more important than he seems.

The Stillwater Gazette believes in giving the woman her dues, and a good many people have good reason for vouching for this encomium:

Every woman has an idea that her husband would never have amounted to much if she had refused him. So writes some one, and in a good many cases the woman is correct in her idea.

The Kasson Republican thinks the average newspaper man is too modest when it comes to discussing affairs relating to his own personality:

Newspaper men are very modest when it comes to print "gossip" about their own affairs, past or present, but they are extremely generous with space when it comes to discussing fellow citizens.

A traveling man on a branch train in North Dakota was growling about the poor time the train was making. Finally, the conductor told him to get off and walk if he didn't like the way the train was run. He replied: "I would, but the folks at the next town don't expect me until late in the afternoon."

The prize fighter lives for a brief season in the limelight, but the days of his glory are few and full of disappointment, says the St. Peter Herald:

Jim Corbett has been laid out again and has fought his last fight. Like all of his kind he goes down to inglorious defeat, without wealth or honor. The business is bad and every young man should shun it. Honest toil pays in the end.

Mary McFadden has discovered the best way of all to get along with your neighbor:

"Be honest. If you don't like a man tell him so. Don't tell your tale of woe to his friends," says the editor of the RED LAKE COUNTY COURIER. And still, John, what's the use of being unpleasant about it? Why not keep the fact of the dislike to yourself?

The schoolma'am has a well-defined social position, and hard-hearted indeed must be the school board that would rob her of the right of conquest. Like the Worthington Herald, we are an imperialist when it comes to schoolma'ams:

Some of the Kansas school boards are compelling their teachers to sign contracts not to be courted or married during the school term. Gee! But there would be some lonesome young bucks around here with the teachers out of the running.

The Ellsworth News gives the following encouragement to those who ar prone to give way to the strain of ill fortune:

It's always darkest just before the dawn; most sultry before the coolest shower; you're always hungriest just before the dinner bell rings; and the most tired just before bedtime. And you are just as likely to be the most discouraged just before things come your way. The tide must go out as far as it can before it begins to come in. So don't give up at this time. Stick. The homely nag often comes under the wire first, because it didn't know enough to stop to eat oats. Also, stick to your last and you will be sure to get there. Don't get discouraged. Keep on keeping on.

THE MINNESOTA STATE FAIR.

Unrivalled Attractions Will Make This Year's Show Grander and Better Than Ever

"Dan Patch" the World's Famous Pacer Will be There and Try to Lower His Record.

When the Minnesota State Fair of 1902 closed its gates after the most successful week in its history, it seemed impossible that such a record of success could ever again be equalled. Unparalleled in attendance, receipts, premiums offered and paid, live-stock exhibits, farm machinery displayed, agricultural products exhibited, race entries, amusement features, manufacturing exhibits—the fair of 1902 eclipsed all other state fairs either in Minnesota or in any part of the country.

But notwithstanding the remarkable record of last year it is entirely within the bounds of probability that the Minnesota State Fair of 1903, which opens on August 31st, will far excel its every department its wonderful predecessor.

One of the evidences of the growth and strength of the Minnesota Fair is found in the fact that for the National Live Stock exhibitions this year there will be more cattle entered than ever before. The officers of the American Hereford Breeders' Association and the American Short Horn Breeders' Association state that interest in the great exhibition and sales at the Minnesota State Fair is more pronounced than ever and that there will be a very choice lot of animals on view and for sale at auction. In fact the 100 head of Hereford cattle for the auction at that class of animals, were entered with the secretary of the association as early as May 1st of this year. This is quite different from the first year of the sale when it was impossible to find 75 head of Herefords to be offered for sale. Breeders are now anxious to have their cattle exhibited and placed for sale before northwestern farmers.

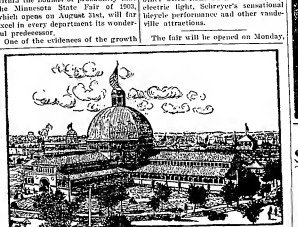
Dan Patch, the fastest pacing horse in the world, will go against his own record at the Minnesota State Fair grounds on the afternoon of Monday, August 31st, the opening day of the coming fair; this is the last and greatest announcement of the managers of the fair this season. The record which Dan Patch now holds is 1:59½ made on the Readville, Mass., track, Sept. 23rd, 1902. But the actual time made was 1:59 1-5 or possibly a shade better. Without any special effort at speed, Dan Patch has made 2:02½; this summer on a slow track at Cleveland and has made a half mile in :57½, establishing the new world's record for this distance. At the Minnesota State Fair appearance he will be paced by two fast running horses and there is every prospect that he will chip a few seconds off his world's record for a mile.

An evidence of the popularity and reputation of the Minnesota State Fair is in the enormous entry list made this year for the races during the week. Last year when the race entry list for the fair of 1902 was made public, it was pronounced by the highest sporting authorities the largest list and the best collection of horses ever made up for a western racing meet and quite the equal of the eastern grand circuits lists of that year. It was generally thought that such a list could not be duplicated, but the entry list for 1903, which was announced recently by Sec. E. W. Randall, surpasses that of 1902 both in number and quality of horses entered. Last year the names of 230 horses appeared upon the list; this year over 260 horses have been entered. They represent the best things in leading stables from Manitoba to the Gulf of Mexico, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean.

The races are the main part of the afternoon program each day of the fair and the enormous entry list assures a very satisfactory amusement program during the afternoons. For the evening, the principal feature each night will be Pain's Fire Works Spectacle, the Destruction of Rome. This is the largest and most complete open air spectacle ever put on at any place at any time in the world.

To accommodate this show a special train is used and it travels from place to place exactly as does a circus. Many carloads of scenery will be brought to the State Fair and the properties, animals and people some with the train to produce the great spectacle. This feature occupies a large part of each evening during the fair week but will be supplemented by other attractions such as racing by electric light, Schreyer's sensational bicycle performance and other vaudeville attractions.

The fair will be opened on Monday, August 31st, with a great address in front of the grand stand by Senator Charles W. Fairbanks, of Indiana. Senator Fairbanks is one of the strongest men in the United States Senate and regarded by many as a prominent presidential possibility. He is a rich man but comes from the farm and has a lively interest in agricultural subjects. As a speaker he is practical and entertaining.



EXPOSITION BUILDING MINNESOTA STATE FAIR GROUNDS.

Since the last fair, the management has erected, at a cost of $10,000, an enormous agricultural machinery exhibit building which will be the center of the largest display of farm implements ever made in any place at any time. The building itself, is about 250 feet long and every foot of space on its floor has already been assigned to exhibitors. Clustering about it, and in fact spreading all over the northeastern part of the fair grounds, will be numerous exhibits in tents, booths, temporary buildings and permanent pavilions erected by machinery manufacturers; and in and about this same region will be a great number of open air exhibits of threshers engines and machinery, corn-huskers, wind-mills, stackers and other classes of machinery which cannot be shown under roof.

There are numerous improvements of all kinds on the fair grounds this year. Among them are the new agricultural implement building, the new swine exhibition building—the largest in the world—many new drives, two miles of new cement walk, a new judges' stand at the race track, improvements in the administration building, new rows of trees, new toilet rooms, and artificial lakelet, and much grading and general repairing and overhauling of buildings.

The fair opens on August 31st and closes during the week, closing Sept. 5th. Half-fare rates have been made on all railroads from all points in Minnesota, the Dakotas and for all points in Iowa and Wisconsin within 200 miles of the Twin Cities.

For the Woman's department of the fair this year much larger building has been set aside than ever before. It is the structure used for the past few years as a carriage building and formerly as an agricultural and horse

BLACK-DRAUGHT STOCK and POULTRY MEDICINE

Stock and poultry have few troubles which are not bowel and liver troubles. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine is a bowel and liver remedy pure and simple for stock. It puts the organs of digestion in a perfect condition. Prominent American breeders and farmers keep their herds and flocks healthy by giving them an occasional dose of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine in their food. Any stock raiser may buy a 50-cent half-pound package of this medicine from his dealer and keep his stock in vigorous health for weeks. Dealers generally keep Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine. If yours does not, send 25 cents for a sample can to the manufacturers, The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

ROCHELLE, Ill., Jan. 30, 1903.
Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine has been in use here and the stock was looking bad when you sent me the medicine and now they are getting so fine. They are looking 25 per cent. better.

Here's a Suggestion

When you want a first-class daily newspaper—

One that excels in Northwest news;

One that spares no pains to get the news of the world, and gives it first;

One whose commercial and financial news and market reports are admitted to be the best;

One that is fearless and fair in its editorial discussion of live topics—republican but independent;

One that contains Bart's cartoon, the Journal Junior—a weekly paper for children without extra cost—farmer's daily Washington correspondence, a notable daily series of articles and notes on current themes by the most eminent men and women and other features peculiar to that paper.

There is only one thing for you to do and that is to subscribe for Bill's Vocation.

"Yes," said the old man as he entered the home after a hard afternoon's work in the wheatfield, "I don't know what we are to make of Bill. He don't like farming an' I know it. He don't even offer to help his pa doanything."

The old lady stopped her work. She had been putting supper on the table.

"I don't know, pa," said she, "unless he makes lawyer, or a doctor, or preacher, or somethin' like that or him. I don't think he likes farmin' myself."

Bill had just finished taking care of the horses for the evening. He entered the house. They sat down at the table. Little was said during the mealtime. The old man finished his supper.

"Bill," says he, "hurry up and get your supper eat, so you can help milk the cows."

Bill moaned as he took a mouthful of potatoes. The old man grabbed a pail and went towards the cow lot. Bill soon appeared on the scene. In a few minutes the cows were milked. Bill strained the milk into a large can and set it in a tank filled with water.

The family went to bed. Bill was soon sound asleep. The old folks lay awake thinking of what they were going to make of Bill.

* * * * *

At the first sign of dawn the old folks got up. The old man went to the door of the stairway.

"Bill!" called the old man in a voice that made the bed shake, "it's time to git up."

"Wot," answered Bill without opening his eyes.

A few minutes passed. Bill had not stirred. The old man again went to the stairway.

"Bill!" he shouted, "if you don't git up I'll get a pail of water and slosh it onter you.

This put thoughts into Bill's head. He got up, dressed and went downstairs.

"Bill, you had better feed the horses," said the father. After feeding the horses Bill returned to the house. Breakfast was ready. The family sat down to eat. The old man broke the silence.

"Bill," said he, "what do you want ter be? I'll mortgage the west forty ter raise the money to send you ter school if you'll tell me what you want to be."

Bill did not know. He had never considered that problem.

"Will you give me a year to think on it?" asked Bill.

"Next year you farm the west forty while you're thinking."

"All right," answered Bill.

The next year he farmed the west forty and raised a record crop on it.

The year following he formed the whole place.

Bill had found his vocation.—Exchange.

DeWitt is the Name.

When you go to buy Witch Hazel Salve look for the name DeWitt on every box. The pure, unadulterated Witch Hazel Salve which is the best salve in the world for cuts, burns, bruises, boils, scares and piles. The popularity of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, due to its wonderful cures, has caused numerous worthless counterfeits to be placed on the market. The genuine bears the name of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

Odd Things.

People do odd things at critical moments. In a fire at Marshall, Mo., last week, T. B. Gill, a book dealer, whose store was in danger, rushed outdoors carrying nothing but a box of matches. Being asked what he meant to do with them, he said he rescued them to prevent them from becoming ignited. It turned out that there had been 100 boxes more in the store, which, in his excitement, he had forgotten. A few days ago a cyclone struck a farm in Atchison county, Missouri. The family were aroused, and, thoroughly frightened, began grabbing whatever was most worth saving, and rushing down stairs with it. When the excitement had partly subsided it was discovered that one good old woman had come down stairs in her night dress carrying in one hand an unlighted kerosene lamp and in the other a cup of water that she had beside her bed.—New York Tribune.

End of Bitter Fight.

"Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abcess on my right lung" writes J. F. Hughes of Du Pont, "and gave me up. Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The benefit I received was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I am entirely regained my health." It conquers all Coughs, Colds and Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed by. W. A. Schreiter's Drug Store. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

DON'T MISS THE

Minnesota State Fair

This year from August 31st to September 5th. It is the LEADER among State Fairs in this country. The management have added new buildings and there will be new attractions this year, among them the "Burning of Rome," a grand fireworks display.

On the first day DAN PATCH, the great pacer, will try to beat his record.

The Live Stock, Agricultural, Fruit and Machinery exhibits are alone worth coming to see.

The rate via the

will be, ONE FARE for the round trip, plus 50 cents for admission coupon to the Fair, and don't forget that their train service is always as good as THE BEST. Examine the time card and note the convenient arriving hours at the Twin Cities. Sleeping cars on all night trains. Use the "N. P. R." and have a pleasant ride to start with, and be sure and make your sleeping cars reservations a few days in advance.

The supervising architect of the treasury has decided upon a site for the public building at Crookston.

Most of the Republican papers agree that the state board of railroad and warehouse commissioners could not be worse if it tried.

It is being hinted that Bob Jameson thinks himself entirely capable of running the governor's office without the assistance of a figurehead.

There is a big land boom on in Liberia at present, and if the American blacks could be interested there would yet be hopes of solving the race problem.

The New York Times regrets the departure of Secretary Root from the cabinet because of his services as "ballast." We have always supposed that General Shafter was kept around the army department for this purpose.

Editor Eastman is just now busy engineering the city election at Thief River Falls, and county, state and national affairs are left to shift for themselves. If John should leave the business or happen to pass in his checks we wonder if a new political prophet would be reared uu to continue his work.

The St. Paul Dispatch has a libel suit on its hands. The action was instituted by Senator F. T. Young of Appleton, who alleges that the Dispatch called him a merger candidate for attorney general. Whether or not the charge is true, it is evident that Senator Young is taking himself entirely too seriously.

Reduced freight rates on coal and lumber go into effect September 10. The average reduction will be about 15 per cent., which will help some, although it will not be surprising if the coal and lumber magnates conclude to take the profit arising therefrom themselves by raising the wholesale price of these commodities.

G. S. Brainerd, the defaulting Montgomery banker, was a member of Governor Van Sant's board of equalization. Though ostensibly hailing from the country he is in reality a Minneapolis lumberman, and no doubt it was a part of his work to look after the interest of his fellow sufferers in the lumber business.

John Temple Graves, the well-known Southern writer and platform orator, recently asserted that lynching was necessary in the South to restrain the brutal passions of the negroes, and this reminds the Owatonna Chronicle of the efficacious manner in which bedbugs may be destroyed by burning down the house.

Sir Thomas Lipton's ambition to possess the yachting cup has again been foiled by the American defender. There is no undue elation over the victory, however, for Sir Thomas is a genial old gentleman whose persistency is admired. Very few Americans would be sorry to see him carry off the coveted trophy.

Ir Game Warden Fullerton is passing around special permits to Mayor Kratka and other intimates to kill game out of season it is time to inquire for whose benefit the game laws are being made anyhow. Possibly the Roseau Times is right in stating that the claim advanced by Mayor Kratka is only one of his diplomatic subterfuges, learned by his experience as a lobbyist at Washington.

The Fairbault Journal sees a Lowry-Thompson-Van Sant combine to control the next Republican state convention. The alleged success of this combination is to renominate Governor Van Sant, make George Thompson national committeeman and defeat Senator Knute Nelson in 1906. The Republicans have a large majority in Minnesota, but if the factional fight is continued there is a probability of the Democrats getting the upper hold.

The Kiester Courier truthfully remarks that "no editor can work enthusiastically for a town whose merchants are narrow-minded, whose idea of business is tearing down competitors. Such men care little for the future of their town. They are too selfish. They do not make successful business men or a successful town. Neither can he 'work enthusiastically' for a town where he has to knuckle down when some political boss snaps his fingers."

EXCHANGE ECHOES.

Evening Wisconsin: Genuine humor is a companion of tenderness. It draws its inspirations from sympathy with human beings and their emotions and ambitions. It may be mixed with pity, but it is never associated with the brutal desire to cause needless pain.

Grand Forks Herald: Turkey has reached the point where she is very sorry for killing the Russian consuls. It is possible that this sorrow may be intensified before long. It would be a good thing for the world for the infamous Turkish government to be wiped out.

Crookston Times: The question of what the mural decorations of the state capital shall be is agitating the commissioners. There are plenty of subjects to be found within the borders of the state and the decorations should be devoted exclusively to setting forth the history, resources and development of the state.

St. James Journal: The late Thomas B. Reed once had an appointment with a friend, who was to meet him at a certain place by train. Along toward train time Reed received a telegram from his friend, saying "Can't come. Wash out on the line." Reed immediately telegraphed back, "Buy a new shirt and come anyway."

St. Paul News: A St. Paul man the other day stole a pair of shoes and got ninety days in the workhouse. A big Minneapolis lumber firm a short time ago stole a fortune in pine off federal land and got a criminal suit dismissed by paying the paltry penalty of $2.50 per acre. This kind of justice is enough to make the big bronze figure on the old capital sink through the tower and hide her face in one of the basement coal bins for shame.

Adrian Democrat: The packing trust has had a spasm of sudden conversion as to the desirability of "tinkering with the tariff." The French government has just put a big tariff on American meats and announces that it will not come off until we take some of the excessive duty off French goods. Now the packers want a reciprocity treaty with France. Of course. They know when the tariff pinches them, and won't stand the pinching, but our great, patient mass of common people just let it pinch and go right on voting for the pinchers.

St. Peter Free Press: Ex-congressman Eddy's gubernatorial announcement hasn't met with any particular enthusiasm in this neck of the woods, neither has it set the prairie afire in his own district. He evidently overestimated his popularity. It is one thing to be elected in a peculiarly constituted district and another thing to be elected governor of the whole state. He is the first in the field for the nomination, but is not likely to be the first to reach the goal of his ambition; to get the nomination for governor next year it will take more than themere statement that he is against the merger.

Save the Children.

Ninety-nine of every one hundred diseases that children have are due to disorders of the stomach, and these disorders are all caused by indigestion. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is just as good for children as it is for adults. Children thrive on it. It keeps their little stomachs sweet and encourages their growth and development. Mrs. Henry Carter, 705 Cherry St., Nashville, Tenn., says: "My little boy is now three years old and has been suffering from indigestion ever since he was born. I have had the best doctors in Nashville, but failed to do him any good. After using one bottle of Kodol he is a well baby. I recommend it to all sufferers." Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

State Timber Sale.

The state will sell about 50,000,000 feet of timber from state lands this fall. The tracts which will be offered for sale lie scattered all the way from Cook county to Beltrami, but most of them are in a favorable situation for logging. Last year the prices paid at the stumpage sale were the highest on record, and they will be at least equaled this year.

W. S. Dedon and James McKenzie, the cruisers in the land department, have been in consultation with state officials about the tracts to be offered for sale. They have been estimated by the cruisers already.

It is intended to hold the sale earlier than usual this fall. Last year it was held November 19. If possible the date of the sale this year will be about October 20. This will give the lumbermen a better chance to get camps in shape for the coming winter. Only two logging seasons are allowed for getting the timber off, but if necessary the time may be extended one year by the state timber board, which consists of the governor, state auditor and state treasurer.

"In every fair bargain both parties gain." When you buy a box of Cole's Veterinary Carbolisalve we gain another friend and you gain freedom for your horses and cattle from galls and sores. It always heals without scars and restores the hair to its original color. Be sure to get Cole's. It is guaranteed by all druggists.

TAKE NOTICE.

Hereafter our meat market will be closed Sundays. This action is necessary to comply with the Minnesota labor laws, and we are acting under instructions of the labor commissioner.—Groshong & Blake.

When you want a cough cure had you wait a good. That means COLE's—it's the best. 25 and 50c. Guaranteed by A. L. Reichert.

Gray Hair

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for over thirty years. It has kept my scalp free from dandruff and has prevented my hair from turning gray."—Mrs. F. A. Soule, Billings, Mont.

There is this peculiar thing about Ayer's Hair Vigor—It is a hair food, not a dye. Your hair does not suddenly turn black, look dead and lifeless. But gradually the old color comes back,—all the rich, dark color it used to have. The hair stops falling, too.

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

If your druggist cannot supply you, send us one dollar and we will express you a bottle. State exact express office. Address J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.

Several cars of hard coal have been delivered about town during the past week. The price ranges in the neighborhood of $9.50, and it is likely that there will be an advance of fully fifty cents before winter sets in. At present there is a shortage at the Duluth docks, so the provident householder is probably in luck.

Red Lake Falls had a fire scare about two o'clock last night. A blaze was discovered in the liquor room of Letandresse's saloon, and at one time is looked as if the Palace hotel and several of the adjoining buildings might be destroyed. There was a large quantity of alcohol and other inflammable liquids in the room, but fortunately the fire was extinguished in time to prevent an explosion. It is thought the blaze originated from a kerosene lamp left in the room.

J. A. Button, principal of Button's Business College, Crookston Minn., is a stenographer, court reporter and expert accountant of twenty years experience. He has placed over one hundred pupils in good paying positions during the past year. Situations are positively guaranteed to all graduates. It takes only three months to complete the course. The Kind They Made in 1847

OUR CLAIM FOR THE GEE WHIZZ MACHINE

1. That it is the best washer made, because it runs easier and washes faster and better and is easier on the clothing.

2. Because it whirls, rubs, slaps, squeezes and sucks the dirt out of the clothing, by reason of the reflex motion of the water.

3. It will wash (and we can prove it) as good with cold water as any other machine will with hot water, running the same length of time. We don't expect any other, even on a contest to this statement.

4. Or we will do in one minute with hot water, what it usually takes other machines ten or fifteen minutes to do. So you see you save nine-tenths of the time and labor, by using the Gee Whiz Washer.

5. The Gee Whiz Machine is a combined washer and clothes duster. When dusting clothing machine must be dry Adjust sliding wheel just tight enough to whirl the clothing, and turn fast each way a little while. Leave lid up while dusting.

CUP CHALLENGER IS REMEASURED

New Figures Are Taken, But They Do Not Alter Racing Rank of Shamrock III.

LIPTON YACHT DOES NOT EXCEED 90-FOOT WATER LINE LIMIT

Difference in Length with Her Cable and Anchor Aboard Very Slight—C. Oliver Iselin Reticent Concerning Sailing of Contender in Race of Saturday.

New York, Aug. 25.—The Shamrock III. was remeasured at the drydock in Erie basin, early Monday, after having taken on board her cable and anchor, as required by the rules affecting the measurement of the cup yachts. Sir Thomas Lipton was on board. The measurement was taken by Charles D. Mower, official measurer of the New York Yacht club, and watched by Mr. Fife, representing Shamrock III., and Secretary Carmack, representing the New York Yacht club. When the measurement was concluded Sir Thomas Lipton said that he had been informed by Mr. Mower that Shamrock III.'s racing rank had not been affected, and that it would be unchanged. It is presumed that sufficient weight was removed to equalize the weight of the anchor and cable.

"The cup is never won until the best boat has taken three races," said C. Oliver Iselin Monday, just before getting aboard the launch.

Asked whether he thought the remeasurement of the Shamrock would have any effect on the future races, he said: "I know no more about it than you do. The fact is that attention was called to the matter of the absence of the anchor and chain not so much on account of its effect on any racing as to follow absolutely the rules. Sir Thomas would have felt it much more keenly if the issue had been raised after he had won a race."

The New Measurement.

Secretary Carmack, of the New York Yacht club, Monday announced the following figures as the new measurement of Shamrock III.:

Length on the load water line, 89.78; sailing length, 104.375.

These figures show that Shamrock III. does not exceed the 90-feet limit on the water line length and also that there is a difference of barely five-one-hundredths of a foot on the length, which would not affect the time allowance more than a very small fraction of a second. The time allowance therefore stands at 1 minute and 57 seconds, in accordance with the first measurement.

After the measurement Shamrock III., in tow of the tug Cruiser and accompanied by the Erie, started for the anchorage in the Horseshoe, where the challenger picked up her moorings.

One Man Killed.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Aug. 25.—The Chicago & Northwestern passenger train from Chicago was wrecked three miles south of here at two o'clock Monday morning. George W. Zuhlke, of Fond du Lac, was killed. Conductor Moy, of Chicago, and 30 passengers were injured. The entire train, express car, baggage car, two coaches and three sleepers were thrown down a 20-foot embankment.

The track was torn up for a distance of 300 feet and traffic was suspended till noon.

Conference Closes.

Muncie, Ind., Aug. 25.—The annual conference of the Indiana Methodist Protestant church came to an end at noon Monday. The conference placed itself on record as favoring the union of the Methodist Protestant, the Congregational and United Brethren churches, the new organization to be known as the United church. Delegates elected to the national conference were instructed to work for the union.

PLENTY OF MONEY IN WEST

That Section Satisfied with Existing Conditions.

Ex-Senator Carter Tells the President of Indifference Regarding Currency Legislation.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 25.—That the west is indifferent to financial legislation and is well satisfied with its present prosperity was the story told by ex-Senator Carter of Montana, president of the national commission for the St. Louis exposition, in a talk with President Roosevelt. President Roosevelt inquired of Mr. Carter what the feeling in the west was. Mr. Carter replied that the people of the west were entirely indifferent as to currency legislation.

"The people of our western country," said he, "are more prosperous than ever before. They have abundant crops and money in plenty; in fact, for the first time in the commercial history of this country the west in looking money in the east.

"I know it to be a fact that Butte (Mont.) banks are discounting Philadelphia and New York paper. I think there will be an abundance of money in the west to move the crops and that our people will not find it necessary to seek a dollar in the east. Naturally, under these circumstances they are not thinking about financial legislation. The belief is general in the west that the financial stringency in New York particularly, is due to disorder in trade or to speculation."

BREAKS WORLD'S RECORD.

Celebrated Mare, Lou Dillon, Trots a Mile in Two Minutes Flat at Readville, Mass.

Readville, Mass., Aug. 25.—Lou Dillon broke the world's trotting record on the mile track here Monday, going in 2:08 flat.

The previous record was 2:02¼, held by Cresceus, made at Columbus, O., last year.

Lou Dillon's time by quarters was: First quarter, 0:30½; record quarter, 0:30½; third quarter, 0:30¾; last quarter, 0:28.

Lou Dillon's best time before was 2:02¾, a half-second slower than the record held by Cresceus. She made the half Monday in 1:01¾ and the three-quarters in 1:31.

The mare was driven by Millard Sanders. She received a magnificent ovation from an immense gathering when she completed the mile.

Lou Dillon is the property of C. K. G. Billings, the Chicago horseman. Since last fall the stallion has been working against the world's record and soon gave promise of her ability to lower it by trotting a mile at Cleveland in 2:02¾, which was the lowest ever trotted by a mare.

Tragedy in Tennessee.

Middlesboro, Ky., Aug. 25.—At Shawnee, Tenn., Sunday, Tyrus Robinson shot and killed Frank Davis, an employe of the Louisville & Nashville railroad. Davis married Robinson's sister two years ago, and the Robinsons were bitterly opposed to the match. This was the cause of the tragedy. After Davis fell, his little sister, who was near by, took the pistol and tried to kill Robinson as he fled down the road.

Pioneer Reformer Dead.

New York, Aug. 25.—John Foley, New York's pioneer reformer, who brought the famous injunction suit which ended in the exposure of the "Tweed ring," is dead after a lingering illness, at his home in Lexington avenue. His health was shattered 20 years ago by his persistent fight for good government.

Several Injured.

After Horrible Atrocities Committed in Twenty-Two Villages They Are Burned.

STREETS OF KRUSHEVO REPORTED TO BE STREWN WITH DEAD

Insanitary Conditions of Town Described as Revolting—Vienna Dispatch Reports Death of 200 Persons by Dynamite—Insurgents Active in Other Parts.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Aug. 25.—The Turks are reported to have massacred all the women and children in 22 villages of the districts of Florina and Monastir, and to have afterwards burned the villages. They are also alleged to have killed a number of prisoners.

The streets of Krushevo are said to be strewn with dead and the survivors are afraid to bury the bodies, fearing to incur the suspicions of the Turks.

Following the massacre in the revolution throughout the vilayet of Adrianople the insurgents cut all the telegraph lines connecting the city of Adrianople with the eastern part of the vilayet.

There are unconfirmed rumors here that fighting and massacres are proceeding in the streets of Adrianople.

Consuls Confirm Atrocities.

Reports from Monastir, authenticated by the Russian and Austrian consuls, give horrifying details of the massacres and atrocities. At the village of Armenko the Turks destroyed 150 houses out of a total of 197, and massacred every man, woman and child. The women were subjected to the most terrible atrocities by the soldiers.

Eight revolutionists, captured at Krushevo, who were sent in the direction of Monastir in chains, were slaughtered by their guards.

The sanitary conditions of Krushevo are described as revolting. The dead are lying in the streets, stripped of every garment, the Turks even killing the vestments off the body of a priest.

Two Hundred Reported Killed.

Vienna, Aug. 25.—The New Preis Presse's Constantinople correspondent telegraphs that a band of Bulgarians has attacked the Turkish town of Urgas, south of Istadi, on the east coast of Turkey, and has blown up the government buildings with dynamite. If is reported that 200 persons were killed.

Insurgents Capture Town.

Constantinople, Aug. 25.—According to Turkish advices when the insurgents captured Vasiliko, in the eastern part of the vilayet of Adrianople, they killed the garrison, consisting of 60 soldiers, and about 100 of the inhabitants.

The insurgents are now threatening Midia, 60 miles northwest of Constantinople, on the Black sea, and are reported also to be attacking the important town of Kirk-Kilisseh, 22 miles from Adrianople.

Christian, Greek and Mussulman refugees have arrived at the mouth of the Bosphorus from the neighborhood of Midia, fearing a massacre there. They have been sheltered in the lazzaretto at Anadoli Kavak, and are being fed by the authorities.

The lighthouse at Kerun-Borun, in Islands bay, is not working. It has been abandoned by its keepers on account of the menaces of the insurgents.

The Italian consulate has notified the porte that it holds it responsible for any injury which may be done to the consul of Italy, at Monastir, and demands the punishment of those who insulted the consul recently by calling him a "giaour" (infidel).

Forest Fires Raging.

Missoula, Mont., Aug. 25.—News received here states that there are greater forest fires raging in the mountains west of Missoula at the present time than ever witnessed before. It is reported that the country around the Head O'Kelly lake, from Hope, Idaho, is ablaze while other disastrous fires are raging to the north of Clark's Fork and in the forests of the Flathead Indian reservation.

Indians Hold Pow Wow.

Yosemite, Cal., Aug. 25.—For the first time in five years the Piute and Digger Indians are holding a big pow wow and dance in the lower part of the valley. A big feast was held Sunday night, preceded over by Uncle Paul and Mrs. Uncle Sam, both of whom are over a hundred years old. All were in full Indian evening dress. War dances and a "potlatch" followed.

May Succeed Vaughan.

Rome, Aug. 25.—The congregation of the propaganda has been meeting under the direction of Cardinal Gotti, the prefect. After some discussion it was decided to propose to Pope Pius that he appoint Rt. Rev. Francis Bourne, bishop of Southwark, England, as archbishop of Westminster, in succession to the late Archbishop Vaughan.

News of Death Denied.

New York, Aug. 25.—Pedro Alvarado, the multi-millionaire newspaper, of Para, state of Chihuahua, Mexico, is alive and well, according to information from his home, says an Austin (Tex.) dispatch to the Times. The report is said to have grown out of the death of a mining man of similar name.

Sentence Is Deferred.

New York, Aug. 25.—Recorder Goff Monday deferred until Wednesday sentence on Samuel J. Parks, the walking delegate of the Housesmiths' and Bridgemen's union, who was last week found guilty on a charge of extortion.

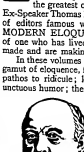
THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived close to those who have made and are making the history of our times.

In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of action with the droll fancies of the whimsicist.



THOMAS B. REED

To see the speaker, wehear the laughter, we surrender to the spell of the words; we can feel the tense silence of the speaker mounts in the sublimest flights, then hear the outburst of applause as the audience catches the speaker at his climax.

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7¾ x 10¾ inches in size. Illustrated with 72 photogravure portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain frontispieces in multi-color.

Over 1,000 Pages of Classic and Popular Literature, including the best after-dinner speeches, addresses, lectures, repartee, reminiscence, humor, story, etc., etc., by the most famous men of the world

GREAT RAILWAY SYSTEM PLANNED

The Pan-American Company Files Articles of Incorporation at Guthrie, O. T.

CAPITAL STOCK OF CONCERN IS PLACED AT $250,000,000

Road Is to Connect Hudson Bay with British Columbia and Buenos Ayres, South America, and Have a Network of Branches—Estimated Cost of the Project.

Guthrie, Okla., Aug. 25.—Plans for a gigantic railroad with a trunk line connecting Hudson bay with British Columbia, Buenos Ayres, South America, and having a network of branches, was disclosed Monday when articles of incorporation of the Pan-American Railroad company, with a capital stock placed at $250,000,000, were filed here with the secretary of the territory. The purpose of the corporation, it is said, is to build a line of railway extending from Port Nelson, Hudson bay, in a southerly direction, crossing the line of the Canadian Pacific near Winnipeg, Manitoba, through North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Indian territory to Galveston, Tex.; from Galveston through the republic of Mexico to the boundary line of Central America, through the isthmus of Panama, thence through the United States of Colombia to Ecuador, and finally through the republic of Peru to Buenos Ayres, on the Atlantic ocean. Also a branch line beginning in the republic of Peru and extending in a southerly direction through Brazil to Rio de Janeiro; also a branch line beginning in the republic of Peru and extending in a southerly direction through Chili to Valparaiso, on the South Pacific ocean.

Estimated Cost of Enterprise.

The estimated cost of the Pan-American railway is $250,000,000 and the estimated length 10,000 miles. The incorporators are W. H. Dodge, Stephen A. Sheldon, W. J. Pendleton, Eldredge G. Phelps, of Shawnee, Okla., and C. B. Wells, of Lincoln, Neb. It is not known what outside interests, if any, these men represent.

The principal offices of the company are stated to be at Guthrie and Shawnee, Okla.

Within the corporation of the Pan-American Railway company will, it is said, be several construction companies. The largest of these will be the Canadian-American Construction company, among whose directors are said to be Charles P. Beach, Jr., London, England; M. L. Muhleman, New York; Charles M. Hawkins, New York, and Charles B. Williams, City of Mexico. These directors will, it is stated, hold in a general way for the other companies.

ACCIDENT CAUSES PANIC.

Several Passengers on the New York Elevated Train Are Injured as a Result.

New York, Aug. 25.—A peculiar accident caused a panic on a crowded elevated motor train bound from Jamaica to Brooklyn Sunday. More than a thousand men and women fought to escape from the train, which was a sheet of fire for several minutes. The trouble was caused by a metal step on one of the cars coming into contact on a curve with the third rail. This short circuited the entire train and sparks fairly rained from every piece of metal in the cars.

The passengers, who were returning from a day on Long Island, were seized with fright in an instant. They rushed toward the doors, which the guards in a stantly closed, and fought to get out. One man was pushed through a glass door and badly cut. Women fainted by the dozen, but the fire continued to pour upon the luckless passengers until the train reached a station and the step which caused the trouble had been removed.

Ambulances were called and the surgeons attended dozens of persons, including many women who had fainted and were carried to the platform.

May Yet Be Ratified.

Washington, Aug. 25.—Acting Secretary of State Loomis has received two rather indefinite cablegrams from Minister Beaupre, at Bogota, the latest dated August 16, covering the information that efforts are still being made to find a way to revive the canal treaty. From other sources the information has been given the state department that a movement is on foot to change the constitution of Colombia so as to secure ratification of the treaty.

Deprived of the Frank.

Washington, Aug. 25.—The assistant attorney general for the post office department has rendered a decision depriving the commissioners of the District of Columbia of the franking privilege which they have heretofore exercised. The decision is based upon the fact that they are not officers of the United States, but of a municipality.

Arrives in Safety.

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 25.—The steamer Bluebells, Capt. Hastings, bound from New York for Baltimore, which was disabled off Hog Island Saturday, arrived here Monday morning with her shaft broken. She was in tow of the steamer Manahasta, Capt. Charles, which went to her assistance.

To Consecrated Bishop.

New York, Aug. 25.—Rt. Rev. Charles R. Colton was consecrated bishop of Buffalo Monday in St. Patrick's cathedral, which was crowded with the former parishioners of the new bishop.

RELIANCE WINS.

American Boat Victor Over Shamrock III. in the First of the Cup Races.

New York, Aug. 24.—In a splendid 12 to 15-knot breeze, over a windward and leeward course of 30 miles, the gallant sloop Reliance Saturday beat Shamrock III. in commanding style by exactly nine minutes actual time, or seven minutes and three seconds after deducting the one minute and 57 seconds which the defender concedes to Sir Thomas Lipton's third challenger on account of her larger sailing plan as at present measured. It was a royal victory for the old ancient trophy, which carries with it the yachting supremacy of the world, and by a strange coincidence, the first victory in the cup series of 1903 occurred on the fifty-second anniversary of the day on which the old schooner America captured it in her famous race around the Isle of Wight. the British boat three minutes and 24 seconds in the thrash to windward and five minutes and 36 seconds in the run down the wind.

Shamrock III. is to be remeasured with anchor and chain on board, but with lead ballast taken out, which may shorten her water line and increase her time allowance to more than two minutes.

STEAMBOAT SINKS.

Disaster Occurs on a Canal Near Indianapolis—Seven and Baby Probably Drowned.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 24.—Amid scenes of panic in which terror-stricken men lost their heads and sought to save themselves, women and children overboard, the pleasure steamer Indiana went to the bottom of the Indiana canal. Water company's canal at Fairview park at seven o'clock p. m. Sunday. The park officials think nobody was drowned, but two of the passengers say they saw a woman with a baby sink to the bottom. They did not see them come to the surface again and feel sure they were drowned. About 50 people were on board when the vessel sank about three-quarters of a mile above the starting point in the canal, which is about eight miles long and runs from Indianapolis to Broad Ripple park. The canal is narrow and from ten to 15 feet deep in the middle. It is not yet certain what sent the steamer to the bottom. Defective machinery, overloading on one side and leaks are blamed by different persons.

Skiffs on the canal aided in the work of rescue of fainting women and children. Geo. Batta, who says he saw the woman and baby drown, saved his wife as she sank for the third time. She weighs over 200 pounds. Thirty people were thrown into the water when the boat sank. Several of the male passengers did heroic work in getting them to shore. They were aided by the ship's crew. Much additional excitement was caused by several men on the boat who boarded non-striking and tried to throw women and children into the water. Search is being made to see if any bodies are at the bottom of the canal.

Firemen Hurt.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 24.—Late Sunday afternoon, while a hook and ladder truck from Engine No. 1 was en route to a fire, a work car on the city railway collided with it, injuring three firemen, one fatally.

Choked on a Capsule.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 24.—William B. McKinney, of Vincennes, Ind., local agent of the Terre Haute Brewing company, choked to death this morning in a room at the New Hotel Niles. It is supposed that he rose to take a tablet or capsule and that it lodged in his throat.

Land for the Jews.

Basel, Switzerland, Aug. 24.—A vast tract of land in east Africa has been offered by Great Britain to Jews for colonization. An autonomous government, subject to British suzerainty, will be granted. The offer was made at the Zionist congress held here.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVER VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next five years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or any other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not just as well have that in your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well-settled community, where churches and schools are built and roads graded. These will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $3,000 cash will handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit at 6 per cent. A five investor can make a ten thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

HARVEST IS FINISHED.

Report of the Weather Bureau on Minnesota Conditions.

The report of the weather bureau's climate and crop bulletin for Minnesota is summarized as follows:

Showers occurred in the Red River valley on the 17th, accompanied by severe local hailstorms, which injured areas of standing grain, but the total loss is said to be small. There were scattered showers on the 22d in central and middle western portions, and also in the western half of the state on the 23d. On the 21st the temperatures were about 90 degrees in many parts of the state, but during the rest of the week the temperatures were moderate or below the normal. Harvest is finished in all parts of the state, except the cutting of scattered pieces of late oats, barley and flax, and some of these are still green, especially the flax. Stacking is now generally so well advanced that there is very little grain in shock, except that which will be threshed soon. Threshing from the stack is going on; in some sections it is hardly more than begun, while in other portions nearly all the shock threshing is finished. In the south the heavy rains of the 14th with the grain so badly that most of that threshed since that date is damp, and some oatsand wheat have had to be opened out to dry before being threshed or stacked. In the southwest the soil was so damp that stacking and a little shock threshing were delayed till towards the close of the week, and in the extreme southwest there are still large areas of standing grain abandoned because the binders could not be made to run on the soft fields.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Cannot Prove Imposition.

The state dairy and food department has decided to abandon the prosecution of dealers who handle impure maple sugar until the department can prove the impurity of product.

This is the result of a test made by a St. Paul wholesale firm, which sent a number of samples to the department and asked an analysis.

The chemists were unable to estimate the exact amount of maple and cane sugar used in the doctored samples and the department has decided that until it can do better work analyzing samples it cannot maintain a case in court.

The officials claim an unfair advantage was taken of the department and that the samples were cleverly doctored.

The commission is determined to conduct a series of tests to determine the exact standard of maple sugar and until such standard had been determined they would admit the sale of maple syrup which did not contain more than a half cane sugar.

Scheme to Fool Chinch Bugs.

The state experiment station has sent its catomologist to inquire into the chinch bug situation around St. Cloud, and see what, if anything, can be done next year to lessen the injury from these pests. He visited the farms of Bowing Bros., Harboro, N. P. Clark, Michael Beets and others. He reports that conditions have not been exaggerated on Clark's upper farm. Last year chinch bugs took the young carrot crop.

Entomologist Washburn intimates that a strip of millet about the corn, planted at such a time that it would be about ten inches high when the bugs go from barley or wheat to corn, might induce them to prefer millet or pidgeon grass to corn. This would probably stave the corn to get ahead of them and they could be destroyed on the millet in various ways.

Diseased chinch bugs are no longer sent out by the station, it having been proved inexpectiedable.

The School Fund.

The Minnesota permanent school fund has reached the $15,000,000 mark. No other state except Texas has so large a fund, and state officials estimate that it will not be long before Minnesota will lead them all. Of this fund approximately $6,000,000 is unpaid principal on land contracts, and of the remaining $9,000,000, $8,700,000 is invested in interest-bearing bonds The average rate of interest is 4 per cent. Estimates of the amount that the fund will ultimately reach when all the lands are sold are put at higher figures by each succeeding state auditor. It seems that the human mind is incapable of appreciating the wealth of Minnesota's resources. Former State Auditor W. W. Braden created quite a sensation when he stated that the fund would ultimately reach $20,000,000. State treasury officials put the figure at $30,000,000.

DITCH BONDS GET THE MARBLE HEART

Red Lake County Not in Favor by Certain Members of the State Board of Investment.

It appears that after all Red Lake county will not sell its issue of ditch bonds to the state, as the attorney general's office rules that the state board of investment cannot loan money on ditch bonds where the indebtedness of the county exceeds a certain percentage of the real estate valuation. At a meeting of the board two weeks ago it was decided to let the county have $60,000, but the ruling of Assistant Attorney General Somerby has cheeked the negotiations. At the next meeting of the board of county commissioners, to be held next week, a number of private bids for the bonds will be considered, and probably one of them will be accepted, but of course it is out of the question to secure private money at anything like the rate of interest the state asks.

It is the general feeling that there is considerable politics mixed up with the deal. Marshall and Polk counties, which are no better off than Red Lake county so far as the limit of indebtedness is concerned, have each secured in the neighborhood of $100,000 on their ditch bonds. The technical questions were not raised in either instance, and to the impartial observer it looks very much as if certain members of the board wanted to favor Polk and Marshall counties, while Red Lake county is not considered a desirable field for political favoritism. Auditor Iverson is blamed in many quarters for the present state of affairs, and whether ur not he has actually opposed the efforts of the county officials to obtain the loan from the state, it is apparent that he has done nothing to promote the project.

LYNCH LAW CLAP TRAP.

The editor of the Galesburg, Ill., Tribune presents a new phase of the lynching question, and has the following with reference to the atrocities committed in Indiana:

"The president and the governor of Indiana are shedding a few political tears over the wretches that ruin women by rape, and are slobbering all over each other.

"The biggest hypocrite on earth today in high places is now governor of Indiana.

"Both he and his predecessor are guilty of murder as accessories after the fact. They have shielded a cold blooded self-convicted murderer, simply because our legislature, not thinking it possible to get one of their kind in the governor's chair, failed to provide adequate punishment for such a crime.

"The present governor prates about anarchy. And while he sheds tears over the brute who has met untimely death at the hands of a mob because he is not fit to live, while he assumes the mock-heroic posture of Olympian Jove, he twines his arms around a cold-blooded assassin of the governor of another state, hugs him to his bosom, singing with the ecstasy of an enraptured soul, "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

"Ex-Governor Taylor, of Kentucky, hatches a plot to kill Goebel, his adversary. Too cowardly to commit the deed himself, he procured Youtsey to do it for him. When discovered, he fled to Indiana and Governor Mount shielded him by refusing to honor a requisition. Time and a monument of witnesses fastened the crime upon him beyond doubt. When the present governor got the chair with the facts staring him in the face, refused a second requisition. And this is the man who prates of mob law. This is the man who pretends he wants the law should take its course. This is the dwindled occupant of a governor's chair and a denouncer of men who dispose of rapists.

"The governor should turn Taylor over to justice, close his mouth about anarchy or secure caps and bells and play king's fool for Teddy."

NEW PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH DEDICATED

Dr. R. N. Adams, of Minneapolis, Preaches Dedicatory Sermon Sunday Afternoon.

The new Presbyterian church was formally dedicated Sunday afternoon, Rev. Dr. R. N. Adams, of Minneapolis, preaching the dedicatory sermon. Rev. Donald McKenzie, pastor of the Crookston church, preached Sunday morning and evening, and Rev. W. H. McHenry, pastor at large, performed the communion service at the close of the morning sermon. Prof. Onstad, leader of the Red Lake Falls band, gave several selections on the new vocalion during the day, and a specially-trained choir furnished the other musical numbers. Mrs. McKenzie, wife of the Crookston pastor, gave valuable assistance to the choir. Rev. Walker and his congregation may well be proud of their handsome new edifice. The auditorium has been considerably enlarged, while the basement has been fitted up especially for socials and meetings of various kinds. It has a large parlor, kitchen, furnace room and pastor's study, and could not be more conveniently arranged to suit the convenience of the congregation.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

I have noticed that a woman very seldom bumps her head very hard when she faints away.

A man can always get on with women if he can make his voice tremble whenever he wants to.

When a man seems to be chasing the devil, sometimes he is only being chased by some woman himself.

Every man knows how to stare at a woman he doesn't know, so she won't have the heart to act indignant at him.

The look of dread on a girl's face at her wedding is generally about as big as a fly drowning in a hogshead of molasses.

If a woman has nothing else to trouble her she will worry for fear her children's brains are developing too fast.

A woman will believe in faith cure till her little child is dead but a man can only believe it till he gets the lumbago.

When one tabby-cat spits at another it is saying how nice she looks this morning. When a tom-cat spits it is swearing.

One of the funny things about living in the country is that if your clothes fit you, half the old women will believe you are living an evil life.

Lord and master are very pretty high soundiug words in literature, but the average woman finds husband more convenient for everyday use.

A great many women give up Persian rug salaries to become housewives, and if they have any rugs on their floors at all, they are usually the imitation variety.

It is doubtful whether an empty stomach hurts more than an overloaded one. It is certain that both brutalize man, and yet they say the way to a man's heart is through his stomach.

Some people regard slovenliness as one of the traits of genius. It may be of the tramp variety, but it is far removed from womanliness or manliness, and that is the only kind of genius that counts for much nowadays.

The differences between a man's and a woman's opinions is that a woman always sees the faults in her neighbor's husband that she can't detect in her own, while the man always observes the good points in his neighbor's wife that are not visible in his own.

It's mighty poor economy to neglect your horses and cattle and you can't afford to be without Cole's Veterinary Carbolisalve. It is a money saver for it quickly cures cuts, galls and sores with out scars. 50c and $1.00. by all druggists.

Big Honey Crop.

Warren Shead: A beekeeper in Red Lake Falls is reported to have received from his busy workers, this summer, a ton and a half of honey. Another man in St. Hilaire, claims a harvest, by the workers, of one ton. This leads us to ask, "What can't be produced in this country?"

State Fair Visitors Numerous.

Red Lake Falls is well represented at the state fair this year. Agent Mixon of the Northern Pacific reports the sale of thirty-two tickets to St. Paul on Saturday and Monday evenings, and quite a number have gone down on the Great Northern. It is safe to say that a hundred people from Red Lake county are at the fair.

New Lutheran Church.

Rev. I. T. Anstad was down from Thief River Falls yesterday to confer with the members of the Scandinavian Lutheran church with reference to the proposed new church building. A subscription list has been circulated by O. T. Tandberg this week, and already about $800 has been pledged toward the erection of the building.

School Begins Tuesday.

School commences next Tuesday, September 8. The school buildings and furniture have been thoroughly overhauled and cleaned, and all of the text books have been disinfected and re-covered. Pupils are especially requested to be on hand on the first day of school, as it is impossible to expect good results if scholars will not be prompt in enrollment and attendance.

Good for father. Good for mother. Good for the whole family. Makes the children eat, sleep and grow. Rocky Mountain Tea is a family blessing. 35 cents. A. L. Reichert.

Exquisite Social Function.

Messrs. Harry and Leland Healy gave a dancing party to about eighty of their friends at the Metropolitan opera house last Friday evening. Ice cream and cake were served in the gallery, and music was furnished by the local orchestra. The auditorium of the opera house was furnished with rugs and rockers, and had the appearance of a suite of parlors. Everybody had a good time and vote the hosts as being royal entertainers.

Gets Government Job.

G. H. Tibbetts has been offered a position as an industrial teacher in the Indian school at Pinedale, S. D., and will leave in a few days for his post of duty. He will first go to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where he has been summoned as a witness in a government case. Mr. Tibbetts has heretofore been in the government service for a number of years, as the work is by no means new to him. It is expected that Mrs. Tibbetts and family will remain in Red Lake Falls.

Powdered Milk.

Chemists in the department of agriculture are experimenting with a new process for powdering milk. It is reduced to a flour-like substance that still retains the nourishment of milk and can be kept indefinitely. Skimmed milk, which has been a waste product on the farm, will assume new economic importance, as it makes splendid powdered milk. If you are merely attempting to sustain life, powdered milk will serve very well, but if you want to enjoy life you will use golden grain belt beer. It nourishes the body completely and besides is exceedingly delicious as a table beverage. You will be glad to have a case at home. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston, Minn.

A NEW STATE BANK FOR ST. HILAIRE

Red Lake Falls People Interested in the Organization—L. C. Simons to Be President.

Another bank is to be established at St. Hilaire and will be ready for business October 1. The name of the new institution will be the Merchants State Bank of St. Hilaire, with a capital stock of $10,000. The organization was accomplished last Saturday, and the officers will be as follows: L. C. Simons, president; Dan Patterson, vice-president, and K. O. Gigstad, cashier. The directors are L. C. Simons, C. N. Bourdon, R. H. Bourdon, Harry E. Ives, K. O. Gigstad, Leonard Holmes and Dan. Paterson.

As the stockholders of the new bank are among the most prominent business men of the county there is every assurance that the enterprise will be successful.

Wanted More Mules.

Albert Lea Standard: The Mt. Morris Index says that a McLean county farmer lost $200 speculating on the board of trade. That night as he entered the barn a mule kicked him clear through the door. "Good work," said the farmer, as he limped away; "that is just what I need."

When you think of the men who are blowing their money into the bucket shops of Albert Lea it is evident that that there is a crying need for them to get behind a lot of vigorous mules, tickle the animals' legs and get the benefit of the results. HALVOR TO PREPARE NEW OPENING BILL.

Congressman Steenerson Thinks Objections to Old Treaty Will Be Obviated.

A Washington dispatch says that Congressman Halvor Steenerson will draw up a new Red Lake reservation bill and introduce it early in December. It will differ in many details from the one which passed congress at the last session, but which the Indians refused to ratify.

It will provide for payments to the Pembina band of Indians, and will include sections 16 and 36 in the area to be sold for the benefit of the Red Lake tribe. Under the terms of Senator Clapp's bill these sections reverted to the state for school purposes. Mr. Steenerson thinks the bill with these provisions would be satisfactory to the Indians.

It is said that Major Scott, the Indian agent at Walker, was not so much instrumental in defeating the ratification of the former treaty with the Red Lakers as was Assistant Secretary of the Interior Ryan.

There is some talk of an investigation into the claim of the Pembinas, who refused to take allotments on White Earth reservation, and now demand money payments instead. Should Congressmen Steenerson and Buckman agree that there should be a new bill drafted. In this connection it may be stated that each of the representatives would like to be placed on the committee on Indian affairs.

Steenerson would prefer a place on the judiciary commission, but it will be rather difficult to land such an important committee appointment for a new member. But to appease the Crookston member he may get Indian affairs, and if he does he will be in a good position to push a Red Lake bill.

Love and Buggy Riding.

Litchville Bulletin: An exchange says that buggy riding is conducive to tender feelings. We don't see how it could very well help being so. When a young man in a soap dish hat, and polka dot socks, drives up in his side bar buggy in front of the house where she lives, and she comes to the door all rigged out in things which we haven't time to enumerate, and steps down the front steps, and the young man just tosses her into the narrow seat and then in hooked and taps the horse with the whip while the buggy quivers like a thing of life and a joy forever, and he snuggles up to him like a young gazelle or a kitten to a hot brick, and does all in her power to soothe and sustain the tenderest feelings of the young man beside her, who doesn't know by this time but every minute will be the next one, we don't see why buggy riding should not be conducive to the tenderest feeling of anything extant. Horseback riding is cold and distant. It is foggy riding that is conducive and the longer the ride and the more lonely the road the more conducive it is.

A Good Campaign Cry.

Wadena Tribune: Brother Dave falls into line with several other country editors who find fault with Frank Eddy's sudden conversion to the tariff reform idea since he became a candidate for governor, and the fact is recalled that during this many years incumbency of a seat in congress, where he was in a position to live up to his present professions, Mr. Eddy never gave any evidence of any alarming desire to cut down protective duties. As governor he would be able to pursue the same course of masterly inactivity. But probably Frank believes that is a good issue to go after the nomination with.

Distress After Eating Cured.

Judge W. T. Holland, of Greensburg, La., who is well and favorably known, says: "Two years ago I suffered greatly from indigestion. After eating, great distress would invariably result, lasting for an hour or so and my nights were restless. I concluded to try Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and it cured me entirely. No my sleep is refreshing and digestion perfect." Sold by W. A. Schreiber.

"This is to certify that I have used Dr. Miles' Remedies quite extensively, especially the Restorative Nervine, which has done wonders for me. Six years ago I had nervous prostration and again three years ago, at which time I began taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. I kept taking it for six months and have taken an occasional dose during the last two years. I am practically a new man. I was left side was affected by the loss of life. I used to have very bad attacks of stomach trouble but since using the Nervine I can eat most anything I want with impunity. I was examined in Omaha by a noted German doctor three years ago. He told me I was liable to a paralytic stroke any moment; that my whole left side was badly affected. That was just before I began taking Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. My present condition is the result of Dr. Miles' Nervine on my nerves. I am a preaching elder, traveling my districts at the rate of ten thousand miles a year, preaching on an average of five times a week, besides many business meetings, and the multitudinous cares of my work in general. Thanks to Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine I have been gaining in flesh despite this hard work until now I weigh a hundred and eighty-six pounds, nearly twenty pounds more than in all my life before. I recommend your remedies to those afflicted with nerve, heart or stomach trouble."—Rev. M. D. Myers, Presiding Elder, Free Methodist Church, Carversville, Ia.

Easy Pill

Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due to the fact that they excite the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe nor sicken, but even the most delicate lady, and yet they are so certain in results that no one who uses them is disappointed. They cure sound liver, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, headache, malaria and ward off pneumonia and fevers.

The Slayton Gazette and Redwood Reveille are engaged in a discussion as to whether it is more fun to kiss a widow or an old maid. There is only one way to settle a question of this nature, and if the disputants will only furnish the subjects we will willingly engage as referee.

The Adrian Democrat force is celebrating, and the cause of the jubilation is explained by the following item from the current issue of that paper:

An event happened this week that seems to be worthy of noticing—we have a clean office towel. We will make a present of the old one to be used as a base ball bat to the first boy who guesses how long it had been in the office before it could be used as a mud by the editor.

A Cleveland man has a highly-sensitized conscience. He has just returned thirty cents to a street railway company because he once defrauded it of a fare. As the man is probably diseased it might be well to inoculate Tom Lowry with a few of the germs. It would be a thrilling sight to see Tom step up to state treasurer and pay over some of those back taxes.

Deacon Ruane, of the Slayton Gazette, must be getting old and bald-headed like Parson Huntington. The indications are found in the frequent recalling of the cherished memories of his younger and more romantic days. Listen to this:

That a young person can walk out on a dark evening with great pleasure when there is prospect of meeting a young person of the opposite sex, but going on an errand at such a time would be frightful.

A Charlton, Iowa, paper tells of a man who mortgaged his farm to buy his wife a pair of diamond earrings. The wife took in washing to pay the interest on the mortgage, but the first job she lost one of the "sparks" in the suds, whereupon she tried to hang herself in the barn, but the rope broke and she fell on a Jersey cow worth $150 and broke its back. Her husband than undertook to shoot the cow to end its misery, but the gun burst and destroyed his eyes and his wife ran away with a lightning rod peddler. And the mortgage is still on the farm.

Hon. A. B. Funk, of the Spirit Lake Beacon, one of the veteran editors of Iowa, speaks to the point in going after John D. Rockefeller:

"When I want a thing I pray for it,' says Rockefeller. Such casting hypocrites as this monopolist are a huge stumbling block in the way of Christianity. He ground men, women and children under his relentless heel in order to secure absolute control of the petroleum trade. The products of this rich gift of nature now enter into all lines of activity and in many sections it is important in domestic uses. Immigration proves more and more conclusively that oil is nearly everywhere and that with the most lavish use of modern times the supply is practically inexhaustible. Improved methods born of experience in finding and saving and handling the product steadily cheapen the cost to the producer, but the Standard Oil company, which is the pious Rockefeller, has raised the price more than twenty-five per cent in recent years and there is no escape from this extortion. Meanwhile Rockefeller's income is so large that he is able to buy everything in sight in the way of money-making property and to increase his range of power. Maybe he can make himself solid in the courts of heaven by bestowing an insignificant fraction of his ill-gotten gains upon colleges and churches and benevolences, but in the language of Hosea Bigelow:

"He's got to get up airly ef he wants to take in God;'"

Editor Chas. B. Wolf, of the Alton (Iowa) Democrat, prints this homily on the eat:

After looking up his history I am convinced that the rat has more good hard sense than many a scientist. In intelligence he daily outwits the dog and cat and is sagacious enough to leave a sinking ship or a caving mine. His powers of endurance enable him to travel ten miles in an hour with legs only an inch long. In battle he has vanquished nearly everything from man to rattlesnake. In securing for his larder he will abstract molasses from a bottle by means of his tail. Can the self-eyed scientist beat that? His judgment is good—he is the only time I ever knew him to make a mistake was in carrying away my brother's socks for hamburger cheese. But the mistake was natural enough. The rat is a friend to man treated right and whole tribes have been tamed by prisoners. Only the other day I heard of a prisoner who dearly loved a pet rat and divided his slender rations with it. When asked why he did so he said he loved it because it hit the warden. The rat has been known to arouse his master from sleep in a burning building and not long ago an Ohio man shot at one and killed his mother-in-law. He is compassionate for he never deserts a lame or blind friend. When not in too close contact with civilization he is honest. The mountain rat never takes anything from a miner's cabin without leaving something in its stead and has been known to steal a candle and leave a twenty-dollar nugget.

The Practical Man Wins

By R. T. CRANE,
President of the Crane Co., Manufacturers, Chicago.

THE technically educated manufacturer is not necessarily the successful manufacturer. In fact, experience has proved quite the reverse.

I have had opportunity to study the value of technically educated men, and I have no hesitation in asserting that, aside from electricity, mining and chemistry, only an extremely small percentage of this country's progress in manufacturing has been due to such education. In fact, I think it is safe to say that most of it was gained before our manufacturers knew what technical education was.

Much is being said just now about the demand by manufacturers for graduates of technical schools, and no doubt they are being tried in some establishments. But where one concern can be found that is seeking this class of help no doubt there are at least 20 that are not doing so. It is simply a fad, and the fact that these students are being experimented with by no means proves that the results will be satisfactory.

But if the people who employ such students do obtain good results this cannot be ascribed to their technical education, for as the students in these schools are undoubtedly some of the brightest boys in the country it would be strange if some of them did not prove valuable to an employer.

I contend that if these same boys had, upon leaving grammar school, gone to work in a factory and received reasonable attention there they would have been worth a great deal more to their employer than they are after going through a technical school.

I am inclined to think that the effect of these schools is much the same as in the case of the regular colleges and universities—that is, that upon leaving them the students are so certain of their own importance that it takes them a long time to realize that they have human limitations.

Certain educators seem to have the impression that all kinds of manufacturing are in a state of chaos, and that there are great opportunities for the technically educated young men to improve them. On the other hand, every branch of manufacturing already has been so nearly perfected that there is little likelihood of further material improvement being made.

As this condition has been reached without the assistance of technically educated men, is it not reasonable to believe that if further improvement is made in manufacturing it will be the work of just such men as have brought these lines to their present perfect state; that is, those who have had many years of practical experience and have the ingenuity to devise and adopt methods and processes to meet the demands for improvements—and not the graduates of technical schools who possess simply theoretical knowledge?

To be successful in a manufacturing business a man must possess not only mechanical ability but also executive and business ability. Where one technically educated man is found who has made a success no doubt there are a hundred who have been successful without such education.

I know one concern that tried 20 graduates of technical schools, and am told that of this number 17 proved absolute failures, two were indifferently successful, and only one turned out to be a decided success.

The Danger of Iced Drinks

By DR. HARVEY WILEY,
Chemist for the United States Department of Agriculture.

THE devil lurks in the so-called cooling drinks of summer. The extreme cold contracts the pores through which the pepsin is secreted and tends to congest the coating of the stomach. When thirsty one should drink water from 60 to 65 degrees. Drink slowly and all you want of such water and you will find that there will not be the slightest ill effect, and that your thirst will be fully quenched. Ice water is not only hurtful but it has not the effect of quenching the thirst.

Various forms of cold drinks constantly used on family tables in summer should be strictly avoided. There is nothing which so alarms me about the human race as the tendency to refrigerate the stomach while the thermometer stands at nearly a hundred in the shade. Even staid-looking business men drop in a store every time they see a cold drink sign and take a glass or so. They attribute the discomfort which ensues to the effects of the heat and not to the cold drink, where it properly belongs.

Mothers permit even their little children to take a glass of tea thick with broken ice, and then attribute their bad feelings to the heat. A glass of cool, not cold, water will have the effect of quenching the thirst, and children can easily be taught the danger of the cold drinks, at a saving to both purse and constitution. Even that delicious beverage milk must be poured on its bulk of ice before it is considered palatable in summer. The result is, the ice melts, leaving a cold and watery substance which neither quenches the thirst nor nourishes the body. Milk should be free from pathogenic germs and when taken at a temperature of about 60 or 65 degrees leaves no uncomfortable effects whatever.

So-called "summer drinks" that are bottled and then kept on ice for hours and finally poured into the stomach are not less hurtful than a moderate and carefully administered dose of poison. They are all apt to be chemically treated to allay fermentation, and contain many things which are hurtful to the digestive organs and doubly so when taken at freezing point.

Anglo-Saxon Supremacy

By BISHOP SAMUEL FALLOWS.

IT has been well stated that if the increase of population should go on in the next hundred years in England and in her colonies and in the United States as it has in the last century there will be nearly as many people speaking the English language as there are now inhabitants on the earth.

SUCH A PEOPLE WILL RULE THE WORLD WHATEVER MAY BE THE GROWTH OF THE MONGOLIAN OR MUSCOVITE NATIONS.

One language binds them together to-day. It is in the one mother tongue that our poets sing, our philosophers reason, our orators argue, our laws are written, our legal decisions rendered, our increasing trade and commerce carried out. The English Bible, that matchless book of God and man, will go with the advancing multitudes round the globe.

Dragging Pains

2835 Keeley St.,
Chicago, Ill., Oct., 2, 1902.

I suffered with falling and congestion of the womb, with severe pains through the groins. I suffered terribly at the time of menstruation, had blinding headaches and rushing of blood to the brain. What to try I knew not, for it seemed that I had tried all and failed, but I had never tried Wine of Cardui, that blessed remedy for sick women. I found it pleasant to take and soon knew that I had the right medicine. New blood seemed to course through my veins and after using eleven bottles I was a well woman.

Maude Bush

Mrs. Bush is now in perfect health because she took Wine of Cardui for menstrual disorders, bearing down pains and blinding headaches when all other remedies failed to help her relief. Any sufferer may secure health by taking Wine of Cardui in her home. The first bottle convinces the patient she is on the road to health.

IS A LUMINOUS BODY.

Human Frame Said to Emit Rays of Light Visible to Lower Animals.

Prof. A. W. Goodspeed, of the Randal Morgan Laboratory of Physics, Makes Discovery in a Remarkable Manner.

Rays of light emanating from the human body and visible to the eyes of some of the lower animals, form the interesting scientific discovery announced as having been made by accident by Prof. A. W. Goodspeed, of the Randal Morgan laboratory of physics of the University of Pennsylvania.

Divested of its technical terms, the discovery of Prof. Goodspeed means that the rays of light shed from a living human body may have sufficient intensity, although invisible to the human eye, to produce a picture on a plate properly sensitized and in a room pitch dark.

The discovery was made while X-Ray photographs were being taken. While an iron tripod stand, with a ring-shaped top as a support for a photographic plate, were being used, it was observed that the plate, when exposed to the rays, was affected by the iron ring below. Puzzled at this seeming departure from the rules, the operator attempted to discover the cause. In so doing one of his assistants placed his hand below the plate. The result was an imperfect rodiogram of the bones of the human hand, like those obtained from the Roentgen rays when experimentation in that line was in its first stages.

It was so entirely new that Prof. Goodspeed was perplexed. He tried again and again. Every time a human hand was placed within the proper focus the same amazing phenomena followed. The experiments were continued for three months and the conclusion of Prof. Goodspeed was not announced until he had satisfied himself beyond all question of the correctness of his results.

PEARL UNDER PLASTER.

Chinaman Chose a Novel Place for Contraband Goods and Was Found Out.

Tom Quang wore a porous plaster on his back when he landed from the steamer China a few days ago. It was a harmless looking thing, but as customs inspectors were suspicious. They removed the plaster, says the San Francisco Examiner, and a large and very valuable pearl dropped to the floor. Now Tom Quang is in custody.

Quang is wealthy. He is a member of the firm of Quong Wuck & Co., the Depeust street. Besides the pearl in the plaster the inspectors found eight single stones and one cluster of pearls sewed in the lining of his blouse. Another coat revealed much valuable goods concealed cleverly. Inside the lining of a gorgeous bedspread was a belt of heavy embroidered silk.

Deputy Surveyor St. John ordered the man arrested. All the goods were seized. The contraband articles are: Twelve strings of pearls, eight single pearls, one large pearl, one pair of jade bracelets, three jade stones, two flat jade stones, three pairs of jade earrings, three jade bracelets, ten gold forks, one piece of embroidered silk, 18 ivory chopsticks, 15 silver-tipped chopsticks, 66 pieces of cut jade stones and ten garments of wearing apparel. The goods are valued at $300.

LOUBET PURCHASES CHATEAU.

This Action Taken to Soon That President of France Will Not Seek Reelection.

President Loubet has purchased the Chateau De Marrest at Labruguiere de Mazane from the Baronne De Vissac. The castle is situated near Marzanne, where M. Loubet's father and mother live. Handsome grounds surround the castle. M. Loubet's friends think the acquisition of the estate confirms the opinion that the president will not seek a reelection on the expiration of his term in 1906.

President Loubet, although 65 years old, has a son, Emile, aged 12, who the other day made his first communion, whereby superlative importance was attached by pious French families. Young Loubet, wearing the customary broad white silk bow on the left arm, was accompanied to the church of St. Philipe Du Roule by Mme. Loubet, her daughter, Mme. De Rute, Mlle. Prin and all his feminine relatives excepting his aged grandmother.

No Patents on Perpetual Motion.

Notice is given in the scientific public by the commissioner of patents that no patent has been or will be granted for perpetual motion inventions. An effort is apparently being made to work a swindle by a somewhat paragraph, launched in the south, which is now going the rounds of the press, announcing that a perpetual motion machine has been patented, giving the notice of the alleged invention and an involved description of the machine. The commissioner of patents hopes the unwary will take warning and not permit themselves to be swindled.

Valuable Plate Used.

On the occasion of the visit of the royal family to Scotland the magnificent gold plate from Windsor castle is to be used. The collection, which is valued at 30,000,000, will be sent under a strong guard to Dalkeith house, the residence of the duke and duchess of Buccleuch, while the plate is placed at the disposal of the king and queen. The plate includes a dinner service for 140 persons. It will be heavily insured during its absence from the castle.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

A Negro Fiend.

Struggling in the cruel grasp of a burly colored man, Ruby Steele, 13 years old, was carried from her home in Minneapolis at an early hour in the morning and released only when her abductor was forced by pursuers to abandon his intent.

Awakening from a sound sleep at 1 o'clock in the morning by a strong pressure over her face the young girl whose home is at 1414 Sixth street SE. Minneapolis was terrified by the sight of a negro sitting in the window.

She cried out in terror, and the intruder leaped to her bed and bearing her in his arms, ran to the window, striking down in his flight the girl's mother, who had rushed to the room, aroused by her daughter's cry.

A strong odor of chloroform permeated the atmosphere.

Hurling now the half conscious child to the balcony, the negro leaped from the room. He seized the girl and, gaining the ground, made off in the darkness.

The girl by this time had gained a better control of her senses, and screamed in terror, the negro striving, she says, to choke her into silence.

Lights shone were attracted to the scene by the child's cry, and her assailant abandoned her, disappearing in the night.

He was soon arrested and is sharply guarded.

Coal Is Found.

Reports from the the Coal country north of Pelican Rapids are to the effect that several shafts have been sunk in different places, and coal has been found in every instance, the veins being about three feet in thickness. The coal is of the lignite variety, but of a good quality.

The announcement that coal has been discovered caused some excitement here a year or two ago, but very little has been heard of the matter lately, and it was generally supposed that the prospecting had been abandoned until the blowing up of an engine and the serious scalding of Engineer Peter Aubuhalen a few days ago called attention to the fact that work was still in progress.

There is difference of opinion as to whether it will pay to mine coal of this thickness at the depth at which it is being found, but some of the mining experts hold that it may pay well. The Duluth company which is pushing the exploration his recently compelled all of the men who enter its employ to take an oath to keep still about the discoveries.

To Benefit the Indians.

Major G. L. Scott, acting Indian agent at Cass Lake, has received from Washington authority to make considerable improvements on the property of which he is agent. Cass Lake school will be enlarged under the direction of Dr. Rodewell, agent at Cass Lake, and the school at Cross Lake will be enlarged, the saw mill will be re-established at Red Lake agency, houses will be purchased and the agency building repaired at Red Lake. A school house barn will be built. This work costing a few thousand dollars, Major Scott expects to have finished by fall. Several buildings have been recently been added to the Leech Lake agency and others are contemplated.

The report that the Indians are on the increase is misleading. The statistics show neither a decline nor a increase, but that the population is at a standstill, especially on the reservations.

Not Compulsory.

For the first time in many years the public schools of Minnesota will open this fall to all children without question regarding vaccination. The law statute which received Gov. Van Sant's signature in April last expressly forbids the compulsory vaccination of any child or the requirement of vaccination as a qualification for school attendance. Only in case smallpox becomes epidemic can vaccination of school children be required, and then only when a board of health and school board acting jointly enact such a rule. This bill was a compromise measure after the defeat of a bill prohibiting all compulsory vaccination which last spring passed the house and was rejected by the efforts of medical members in the senate.

Killed in Collision.

A wrecking car on the Seventh street line in St. Paul collided with track No. 1 of the St. Paul fire department. Tillerman Patrick Fleming was fatally hurt, dying at noon, and Lieutenant Henry Langevin, Trackmen Oscar Pedersen and John Costella were painfully hurt. Captain J. J. Nolenone and the other members of the truck company were more or less shaken up and the truck was completely demolished. Louis Hoffman, the motorman, is under arrest.

News in Brief.

Ole Peterson, 435 Adams street northeast, Minneapolis, was found dead in bed.

During a storm lightning struck the barn of B. Fuchs, south of Perham. The building was destroyed, together with three stacks of grain and four head of cattle. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Mrs. Heindrun Voorbeck of Le Sueur eighty years old, has been arrested and held under $100 bonds for chopping down a line fence near her residence.

Some one fired a shot which broke a plate glass window in the Anoka National bank, Sixth and Minnesota streets St. Paul.

Wisconsin riflemen will participate in the interstate competition. The militiamen to be held at Camp Ramsey, Minn., next month.

AMERICA STANDS FOR THE ROYALTY OF MAN

.....By ANDREW CARNEGIE

AMERICA has been first in electricity, although we began late. But the man who wins is the man who says to fortune and the gods themselves, "I don't believe it." It takes the electrical atmosphere of America to produce these great men. Graham Bell was a Scotchman. So even in electricity there's the north half of a little island in the North sea which isn't to be left out in the doing of great things.

THE AMERICAN, IN MY EXPERIENCE—AND I HAVE KNOWN BOTH LANDS WELL—IS THE MOST CO-OPERATIVE MAN THAT EXISTS TODAY.

There is this about an American of all men—he's fair minded, he doesn't want to overreach himself, he's not implacable—I think he's placable—he doesn't want to make enemies.

The test of popularity isn't the widness of a man. It's what his fellows think of him. That is wanting in a nation that doesn't know how to assimilate it in social activity. When the man at the bench becomes your best friend, the enterprise on which your energies have been bent has behind it a force that is irresistible.

There is something beyond this individual quality. Our republican institutions are to be credited with much of the ability and success with which we are going forward toward the material supremacy of the earth. There isn't one right enjoyed by any one that is denied to another. We are not asking who your forefathers were. We're asking what you do.

THIS NATION HAS THE TREMENDOUS ADVANTAGE THAT IT STANDS NOT FOR THE ROYALTY OF THIS FAMILY OR THAT, BUT FOR THE ROYALTY OF MAN. AMERICA IS AHEAD BECAUSE ANY MAN'S PRIVILEGE IS EVERY CITIZEN'S RIGHT.

THE GENUINENESS OF LINCOLN'S FAME

By Ex-Governor FRANK S. BLACK of New York.

LINCOLN'S name and his performances in the lines which he pursued have been cut into the rock of American history with the deepest chisel yet made use of on this continent. But it is not by the grandeur of his powers that he has most appealed to me, but rather by those softer, homelier traits that bring him down to a closer and more affectionate view. And Lincoln was never more imposing than when the milder attributes of his nature were exhibited.

HE WAS GENUINE, HE WAS AFFECTIONATE, AND, AFTER ALL, IT IS SAID AND THE END IS REACHED, WHAT IS THERE MORE THAN THESE TWO?

You may measure the heights and sound the depths; you may gain the great rewards of power and renown; you may make or ride on the electric current of applause—the time will come when they will all fall from you like the rags that cover your body.

THE ROBES OF POWER AND THE HUSKS OF THE SWINE WILL ALIKE BE STRIPPED AWAY, AND YOU MUST STAND AT THE END AS YOU STOOD AT THE BEGINNING, REVEALED.

None had less to fear from such a test than Abraham Lincoln, and his strength in that regard arose, it seems to me, from the preservation through all his life of that fondness for and deference to the tender recollections of his family and their snuggled which kept his sympathy always warm and young. GREAT BUT THAT THE TIES OF HIS YOUTH SHALL BE BOUND HIM. He was never so far [illegible] that he could not hear the note of the evening bird in the [illegible]

IS A LUMINOUS BODY.

Human Frame Said to Emit Rays of Light Visible to Lower Animals.

Prof. A. W. Goodspeed, of the Hamlin Morgan Laboratory of Physics, Makes Discovery In a Remarkable Manner.

Rays of light emanating from the human body and visible to the eyes of some of the lower animals form the interesting scientific discovery announced as having been made by arrangement by Prof. A. W. Goodspeed, of the Hamlin Morgan laboratory of physics of the University of Pennsylvania.

Divested of its technical terms, the discovery of Prof. Goodspeed means that the rays of light shed from a living human body may have ambient intensity, although invisible to the human eye, to produce a picture on a plate properly sensitized and in a room pitch dark.

The discovery was made while X-Ray photographs were being taken. While an interposition was made between the top of a magnetic tube and a photographic plate, was being set, it was observed that the plate, when exposed to the rays, was affected by the rays from below. Puzzled at this seeming departure from the rules, the operator attempted to discover the cause. In so doing one of his assistants placed his hand below the plate. The result was an imperfect outline of the bones of the human hand, like those obtained from the Roentgen rays when experimentation in that line was in its first stages.

It was so entirely new that Prof. Goodspeed was perplexed. He tried again and again. Every time a human hand was placed within the proper focus the same amazing phenomena followed. The experiments were continued for three months and the conclusion of Prof. Goodspeed was quietly announced until he has satisfied himself beyond all question of the correctness of his results.

PEARL UNDER PLASTER.

Chinaman Thinks a Safer Place for Contraband Jewels and Was Found out.

Tim Quing Foon, a potato planter on his back why he arrived from the steamer China a few days ago. It was a listless looking thing at the customs inspectors were on picnic. They removed the plaster and the San Francisco Examiner, and a large and very valuable pearl dropped to the floor. Now Tim Quing is in custody.

Quing is smiling. He is a member of the firm of Quing Tuck & Co., 621 Dupont street. Besides the pearl in the plaster the inspectors found eight single stones and two strings of pearls sewed in the lining of his blouse. Another coat revealed much valuable goods concealed cleverly. Inside the lining of a gorgeous bedspread was a belt of heavy embroidered silk.

Deputy Surveyor St. John ordered the men arrested. All the goods were seized. The contraband articles are: Twelve strings of pearls, plain single pearls, one large pearl, one pair of jade bracelets, three jade stones, two flat jade stones, three pairs of jade earrings, three jade bracelets, ten gold forks, one piece of embroidered silk, 18 ivory thopsticks, 15 silver-tipped thopsticks, 36 pieces of cut jade stones and ten garments of wearing apparel. The goods are valued at $360.

LOUBET PURCHASES CHATEAU.

This Action Taken to Soon That President of France Will Not Seek Reelection.

President Loubet has purchased the Chateau De Marcet at Lalargeade de Mazene from the Baronne De Vissa. The castle is situated near Mirepoux, where M. Loubet's mother and brother live. Handsome grounds surround the castle. M. Loubet's friends think the acquisition of the estate confirms the opinion that the president will not seek a reelection on the expiration of his term in 1906.

President Loubet, although 65 years old, has a son, Emile, aged 17, who the other day made his first communion, whereby superlative importance was attached by pious French families. Young Loubet, wearing the customary broad white silk bow on the left arm, was accompanied to the church of St. Philipe Du Roule by Mme. Loubet, her daughter, Mme. De St. Prix, and all his feminine relatives excepting his aged grandmother.

No Patents on Perpetual Motion.

Notice is given the unsuspecting public by the commissioner of patents that no patent has been or will be granted for perpetual motion machines. An effort is apparently being made to work a swindle by a newspaper paragraph, launched in the south, which is now going the rounds of the press, announcing that a perpetual motion machine has been patented, giving the name of the alleged inventor and an invented description of the machine. The commissioner of patents hopes the unwary will take warning and not permit themselves to be swindled.

Valentine Plate Used.

On the occasion of the visit of the royal family to Scotland the magnificent gold plate from Windsor castle is to be used. The collection, which is valued at $10,000,000, will be sent under a strong guard to Dalkeith house, the residence of the duke and duchess of Buccleuch, which has been placed at the disposal of the king and queen. The plate includes a dinner service for 140 persons. It will be formally inserted during its absence from the castle.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

A Negro Tried.

Struggling in the cruel grasp of a burly colored man, Ruby Steele, 13 years old, was carried from her home in Minneapolis at an early hour in the morning and released only when her abductor was forced by pursuers to abandon his intent.

Awakening from a sound sleep at 4 o'clock in the morning by a strong pressure over her face the young girl whose home is at 1414 Ninth street SE. Minneapolis was terrified by the sight of a negro sitting in the window.

She cried out in terror, and the intruder leaped to her bed and bearing her in his arms, ran to the window, striking down in his flight the girl's mother, who had rushed to the room, roused by her daughter's cry.

A strong odor of chloroform permeated the atmosphere.

Hurling now the half conscious child to the balcony, the negro leaped from the room. He seized the girl and, gaining the ground, made off in the darkness.

The girl by this time had gained a better control of her senses, and screamed in terror, the negro striking she says, to shake her into silence.

Neighbors, now attracted to the scene by the child's cries, and her assailant abandoned her, disappearing in the night.

He was soon arrested and is sharply guarded.

Coal Is Found.

Reports from the the Coal country north of Pelican Rapids are to the effect that several shafts have been sunk in different places, and coal has been found in every instance, the veins being about three feet in thickness. The coal is of the lignite variety, but of a good quality.

The announcement that coal has been discovered caused some excitement here a year or two ago, but very little has been heard of the matter lately, and it was generally supposed that the prospecting had been abandoned until the blowing up of an engine and the serious wounding of Engineer Peter Johnson a few days ago called attention to the fact that work was still in progress.

There is difference of opinion as to whether it will pay to mine coal of this thickness at the depth at which it is being found, but some of the mining experts hold that it may pay well. The Duluth company which is sinking the exploration has recently strengthened all of the men who enter its employ to take an oath to keep still about the discoveries.

To Benefit the Indians.

Major G. A. Scott, acting Indian agent at Onigum, has received from Washington authority to make considerable improvements on the property of which he is agent. Cass Lake school will be enlarged under the direction of Dr. Rodwell, agent at Cass Lake, and the school at Cross Lake will be enlarged, the saw mill will be re-established at Red Lake agency, houses will be purchased and the agency building repaired at Red Lake. A school house barn will be built. This work costing a few thousand dollars, Major Scott expects to have finished by fall. Several buildings have been recently been added to the Leech Lake agency and others are contemplated.

The report that the Indians are on the increase is misleading. The statistics show neither a decline nor a increase, but that the population is at a standstill, especially on the reservations.

Not Compulsory.

For the first time in many years the public schools of Minnesota will open this fall to all children without question regarding vaccination. The new statute which received Gov. Van Sant's signature in April but expressly forbids the compulsory vaccination of any child or the requirement of vaccination as a qualification for school attendance. Only in case smallpox becomes epidemic can vaccination of school children be required, and then only when a board of health and school board acting jointly enact such a rule. This bill was a compromise measure after the defeat of a bill prohibiting all compulsory vaccination which last spring passed the house and was rejected by the efforts of medical members in the senate.

Killed in Collision.

A wrecking car on the Seventh street line in St. Paul collided with trade No. 1 of the St. Paul fire department. Tillerman Patrick Fleming was fatally hurt, dying at noon, and Lieutenant Henry Langevin, Truckman Oscar Pederson and Joseph Costello were painfully hurt. Captain J. J. Nelerone and the other members of the truck company were more or less bruised and the truck was completely demolished. Louis Hoffman, the motorman, is under arrest.

News in Brief.

Ole Peterson, 436 Adams street northeast, Minneapolis, was found dead in bed.

During a storm lightning struck the barn of B. Fuchs, south of Perham. The building was destroyed, together with three stacks of grain and four head of cattle. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Mrs. Hendrium Voorheis of Le Sueur eighty years old, has been arrested and held under $200 bonds for chopping down a fine fence near her residence.

AMERICA STANDS FOR THE ROYALTY OF MAN

.....By ANDREW CARNEGIE

AMERICA has been first in electricity, although we began late. But the man who wins is the man who says to fortune and the gods themselves, "I don't believe it." It takes the electrical atmosphere of America to produce these great men. Graham Bell was a Scotchman. So even in electricity there's the north half of a little island in the North sea which isn't to be left out in the doing of great things.

THE AMERICAN, IN MY EXPERIENCE—AND I HAVE KNOWN BOTH LANDS WELL—IS THE MOST CO-OPERATIVE MAN THAT EXISTS TODAY.

There is this about an American of all men—he's fair minded, he doesn't want to overreach himself, he's not implacable—I think he's placable—he doesn't want to make enemies.

The test of popularity isn't the wideness of a man. It's what his fellows think of him. That is wanting in a nation that doesn't know how to assimilate in its social activity. When the man at the bench becomes your best friend, the enterprise on which your energies have been bent has behind it a force that is irresistible.

There is something beyond this individual quality. Our republican institutions are to be credited with much of the ability and success with which we are going forward toward the material supremacy of the earth. There isn't one right enjoyed by any one that is denied to another. We are not asking who your forefathers were. We're asking what you do.

THE NATION HAS THE TREMENDOUS ADVANTAGE THAT IT STANDS NOT FOR THE ROYALTY OF THIS FAMILY OR THAT, BUT FOR THE ROYALTY OF MAN. AMERICA IS AHEAD BECAUSE ANY MAN'S PRIVILEGE IS EVERY CITIZEN'S RIGHT.

THE GENUINENESS OF LINCOLN'S FAME

By Ex-Governor FRANK S. BLACK of New York

LINCOLN'S name and his performances in the lines which he pursued have been cut into the rock of American history with the deepest chisel yet made use of on this continent. But it is not by the grandeur of his powers that he has most appealed to me, but rather by those softer, homelier traits that bring him down to a closer and more affectionate view. And Lincoln was never more imposing than when the milder attributes of his nature were exposed.

HE WAS GENUINE, HE WAS AFFECTIDNATE, AND, AFTER ALL IS SAID AND THE END IS REACHED, WHAT IS THERE WITHOUT THESE TWO?

You may measure the heights and sound the depths; you may gain the great rewards of power and renown; you may quiver under the electric current of applause—the time will come when these will fall from you like the rags that cover your body.

THE ROBES OF POWER AND THE HUSKS OF PRETENSE WILL ALIKE BE STRIPPED AWAY, AND YOU MUST STAND AT THE END AS YOU STOOD AT THE BEGINNING, REVEALED.

None had less to fear from such a test than Abraham Lincoln, and his strength in that regard arose, it seems, to me, from the preservation through all his life of that fondness for his early home, of the tender recollections of his family and their struggles, which kept his sympathy always warm and young. HE WAS NEVER SO GREAT BUT THAT THE TIES OF THE YOUTH STILL BOUND HIM. He was never so far away but that he could still hear the note of the evening bird in the grove of his nativity.

THE PRESERVATION OF THE HOME

By JACOB A. RIIS, Author of "How the Other Half Lives"

UPON the preservation of the home depends the existence of the country, for the home makes the man. The thought often expressed that men are unable to govern themselves is the direct result of the inhuman condition of the tenement houses.

A MAN CANNOT LIVE LIKE A PIG AND VOTE LIKE A MAN, BUT THERE MAY BE PIGS IN PARLORS, TOO, AS WELL AS IN HOVELS. STILL THE HOME IS THE MAINSTAY. WIPE OUT THE HOME, AND THE WHOLE STRUCTURE OF GOVERNMENT FALLS. IT IS A CHILD'S RIGHT TO HAVE A HOME.

What need makes mothers desert their homes for factories, locking up their children, or, worse still, sending them out to play in the streets, is no matter. It is enough that only a place to eat and sleep. Why should the children suffer? Why should labor tends downward. INDUSTRIAL SUPREMACY BOUGHT BY CHILD LABOR IS A COSTLY CAPITAL.

THE NECESSITY OF ORGANIZATION AMONG EMPLOYERS

WHEN capital is thoroughly organized, which will become the almost complete disappearance of the strike and lockout. When capital and labor are both thoroughly organized, each will become responsible for the acts of its members, and when differences arise between them they will be settled by conference between the two organizations. Then will be the time for the establishment of boards of conciliation and arbitration, which will settle all differences between employers and employees. Then will capital and labor be brought down together, when may be taken up trade disputes and other matters affecting their mutual interests, and these may be disposed of in an intelligent, orderly and scientific manner.

A national league of employers is a necessity. It should be formed by the immediate creation of [illegible] in the United States [illegible] a national organization is [illegible] [illegible] capital is not organized, capital is not organized.

Printed Every Thursday Evening at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota.

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance

POTATOES are commanding fifty cents a bushel and the tuber farmers of northeastern Minnesota are smiling.

IT is perfectly natural that ex-Governor Taylor should look upon the conviction of Caleb Powers as an outrage.

GENERAL MILES is commended by the Grand Army, and can afford to be snubbed by President Roosevelt and Secretary Root.

A SERIOUS handicap in the case of Tams Bixby is the evident disposition of the Minnesota people to believe him guilty on general principles.

TAMS BIXBY should remember the fate of Perry Heath and quit explaining. If he will only give the statute of limitations a little time it will do the work.

THE citizens of Waterloo, Iowa, have given notice to the negro families to move on. And yet the North assumes to tell the South what to do with the race problem.

THE Albert Lea Standard observes that "the unceasing vilification of Bryan by the g. o. p. organs is convincing testimony of his supreme integrity, statesmanship, leadership and patriotism."

THE esteemed Minneapolis Journal asserts that the nomination of the defaulter Brainerd was opposed by the Minneapolis lumbermen. Just on what grounds they based their opposition is not stated.

TO BE consistent the stand-patter should deny that the world moves. It is not unlikely that the benighted people who argued that the surface of the earth is flat would be with Hanna, Platt and Quay on the stand pat issue.

ANY member of Governor Van Sant's staff needing a new uniform can get one cheap by addressing Alonzo A. Ames, Minneapolis, Minn. After December 1 inquiries should be sent to Stillwater, Minn., care of Warden Wolfer.

A ROME telegram says that it is current in Rome that America is soon to have a new cardinal, and that the red hat is to be conferred upon Archbishop Farley, of New York, with whom Pope Pius is personally acquainted.

AS LONG as the Dawes commission confines its robberies to the Indian there is not likely to be much objection on the part of the government. The defenseless red man hasn't much of a political pull, anyway, and he doesn't elect any delegates to the national convention.

FOR fear of disquieting the "business interests" it might be better to suspend further apprehension of government thieves until after the next presidential election. Why not let them go until thatsweet subsequently when it will be safe to tackle the tariff question?

IT is evident that William Allen White was not speaking by the card when he stated that the expense of the presidential junket across the continent was borne by President Roosevelt. It is asserted in recent dispatches that the cost was defrayed by a railroad company.

SINCE Sam Fullerton has been conferring such extraordinary privileges on Mayor Kratka, we suggest, in self defense, that the gentleman be searched to see if he has concealed about his person a permit from President Roosevelt to kill Democrats during the closed season.

THE Republican press of the state seems to be unanimous in the opinion that neither Mills or Miller should be returned on the state warehouse and railroad commission. But the special interests are in the habit of returning just this kind of men whether the newspapers like it or not.

IT can safely be assumed that Bob Dunn is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, and it can likewise be safely assumed that he is going to win. No candidate ever had a larger number of ardent friends, both in and out of his own party. The time is ripe for a governor of the Bob Dunn stripe.

AN amendment to the French tariff bill, passed by both houses of parliament, which will probably be soon promulgated as a law, increases the tariff on goods important to the American trade, especially pork, ham and bacon. The rate of increase is said to be such as to prohibit our exports of these products to France.

AS evidence of the prompt and efficient manner in which the Republican party disposes of postal thieves it is related that Charles F. W. Neeley, looter of the Havana office, is living in luxury in New York on the proceeds of his ill-gotten gains. Perry Heath is still secretary of the national committee, too. Mr. Beavers and his cohorts may take courage from the experience of those who have gone before.

THE merger question as a campaign dodge can never be worked in another campaign. The people are on to it. The fact of the matter is that the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroad companies were "merged" years ago, and it doesn't make an iota of difference in rates whether or not the Northern Securities company is declared to be a corporation organized in restraint of interstate commerce.

THE world's gold production is increasing now and bids fair to pass all records, says the Wall Street Journal. The Transvaal output is not so large as it was in the record months of 1899, but on its present ratio of increase promises to reach the total of $40,000,000 for 1903. Alaska is a factor now, and altogether, it is plain that we have entered upon a series of years in which gold will increase in supply, and commodities will advance as its purchasing power becomes less.

THE send-off the Grand Army gave General Miles upon the occasion of his retirement from the lieutenant-generalship should go far to take the sting out of his curt dismissal by order of the president, says the Philadelphia Record. The Grand Army has not been Roosevelted or Corbinized. Its tribute to General Miles' "matchless record as a soldier of over forty-two years' service" was hearty, generous and unanimously rendered. The old soldiers felt themselves aggrieved in the injustice done their old commander.

JUSTICE BREWER has made another contribution to the lynching question. As a preventive measure he would place the greatest dependence upon expeditious trials, and would, furthermore, eliminate the right of appeal in certain instances. Public opinion is about evenly divided on this radical proposition; everyone wants more speedy trials in criminal cases, but few are willing to declare in favor of doing away with the only safeguard against judicial fallibility. That appeals and retrials in criminal cases not infrequently result in the subversion of justice is doubtless true, but it is just as true as when Blackstone said that it is better that ten guilty men should escape punishment than that one innocent man should suffer injustice.

LABOR unions in their relations with the government have occupied considerable space in the newspapers during the last few days. The president, it appears, has sent to all the departments a note embodying the substance of his letter in the printing office case, the main feature of which was the affirmation of the coal strike award that "no person shall be refused employment or in any way discriminated against on account of membership or non-membership in any labor organization." This as Mr. Roosevelt declares, is so clearly a question of "elementary decency" that the anxiety of the president's friends that he shall not be considered as an enemy of organized labor shows a degree of timidity that the most downtrodden private employer would scorn to confess, even if he were, as is often the case, in the habit of submitting to the most extreme of labor's demands.

CHAS. A. EDWARDS, a well-known Washington correspondent, says that the post office department investigation seems to have petered out completely. If anything is doing at the high pile on Pennsylvania avenue no one can find it out. Since the statute of limitations has let out so many who ought to be wearing stripes, it seems to have paralyzed the energies of the investigators. Although the grand jury in Brooklyn indicted George W. Beavers for complicity in the frauds and peculations in the post office department, no attempt has ever been made to apprehend him and bring him to the bar of justice. It is believed here that the reason for this apathy on the part of the government officials is that Beavers is another one of those "temple pullers," and the powers that be are not hunting for that kind of game. It is a safe wager that the last has been heard of sensational developments in the post office investigation. It looks as though the interior department now has become the center of activity in the scalawag hunting line, but nothing will ever be done there until there is a change of administration and a change of the brand of politics.

EXCHANGE ECHOES.

Swift County Monitor: We don't feel sorry for Sir Thomas at all. He has gotten his money's worth every time in the immense amount of free advertising that has been given his tea. And we don't begrudge him the free advertising. According to all report his tea is stuff.

Albert Lea Standard: If you will put your ear to the ground you will hear the swelling echoes of "Bob Dunn," "Bob Dunn for governor" in the Republican currents and it is doubtful if anybody is able to tap the wires and switch the voltage off. And we have to admit that he would be a hard man to beat at the polls.

Perham Enterprise: The Canadian government is about to pass a law disfranchising all citizens who wilfully absent themself from the polls on election day. A similar law should be adopted on this side the border. A citizen who does not take enough interest in the affairs of his country to go to the polls on election day should be deprived of the right of suffrage.

Slayton Gazette: Heatwole and Dunn are said to be the Jim Hill candidates for lieut. gov. This comes out with some very emphatic and powerful language in denunciation of the charge that he is anybody's candidate. There is nothing in Dunn's past record that would indicate that he is a railroad candidate. All his record goes to disprove any such connection. No act of his has ever been shown that would indicate that he ever had been the tool of the corporations. These combination stories are simply canards gotten up in the dull season by the city papers as feelers.

Mapleton Enterprise: There is considerable discussion being indulged at present by the local papers of the state relative to the policy of employing teachers from a distance while home teachers go to other fields of labor. There are two sides to the question and in this connection the old proverb comes in handy that "a prophet is not without honor save save in his own country." It is largely so with the teacher and her work shows she is best known in sometimes handicapped by local prejudices and jealousies. All in all the home teacher should be given preference as money expended in travel and board bills away is largely wasted capital. The teachers, however, who go away from home, sometimes form acquaintances which secure them life positions, consequently there are two sides to the question.

Young Plants

Every farmer knows that some plants grow better than others. Soil may be the same and seed may seem the same but some plants are weak and others strong.

And that's the way with children. They are like young plants. Same food, same home, same care but some grow big and strong while others stay small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion offers an easy way out of the difficulty. Child weakness often means starvation, not because of lack of food, but because the food does not feed.

Scott's Emulsion really feeds and gives the child growing strength.

Whatever the cause of weakness and failure to grow—Scott's Emulsion seems to find it and set the matter right.

The young man of today is characterized by smart, well-fitting clothes. We have those clever effects the young man desires. Perhaps this rich blue serge or a swell light mixture—they are all here.—Berthon & Armstrong.

The Healy-Watson company has on exhibition at their office several specimens of Red Lake county apples raised by H. E. Mussey at Thief River Falls. They are large and well formed, and show what Red Lake county can do in the way of fruit production.

H. N. Johnson expects to start on the road next week for the Red Lake Falls Milling company. For the present his work will be confined to the northern part of the state, but later in the year he expects to cover North Dakon, northern Wisconsin and eastern Montana.

Our stock of black and colored dress goods would do credit to much larger stores. Our lines of voiles, panamas, sicilians, serges, melrose, etamines, etc., is complete. We do not show only one piece of a kind, but different grades of them. —Theo. LaBissoniere.

P. A. Kaufer and family returned Monday evening from their three months' trip to the Pacific coast. Mr. Kaufer is greatly pleased with Washington, and it is given out that he intends to dispose of his newspaper and other property interests and move out there in the near future.

For a cheap and serviceable school shoe, buy the "Hard wear" shoe—children's sizes, 75c, $1.00 and $1.25; misses' sizes, $1.25, $1.50 and $1.75. School bag free with each pair.—Bangs & Co.

Miss A. O. Lewis, who has been the guest of her neice, Mrs. J. W. Rodgers, for some weeks past, left Monday for her home in Minneapolis. She was accompanied by Miss Marjorie Rodgers, who will remain at the city during the fall and winter to take a course in music.

Miss Katherine Ford is moving her millinery store to the building next door to Anderson's jewelry store. This is a more central location and well adapted to the purpose. Miss Ford is already receiving her fall stock of goods, and the ladies are invited to call and inspect her line.

The proper place to go for children' shoes is at the Big Store. We have sold the "Little Giant" school shoes and Budd's children's shoes for six years, and during that time we have not had to replace over a dozen pairs. Remember that we absolutely guarantee these shoes.—Theo. LaBissoniere.

John L. Watson was at St. Paul this week assisting at the branch office of the Healy-Watson company during the state fair rush. He will have his household goods shipped to Red Lake Falls this week, and expects to have his family located in the LaBissoniere house on Champagne avenue within a week or ten days.

L. A. Dautremont and S. S. Haislet left yesterday for various points south of here. They except to buy a newspaper and will investigate several propositions they have had under consideration. Mr. Haislet has had long experience as a printer and newspaper man, and is well qualified to make a success of business of his own.

Miss Nellie Toirier, a domestic employed at the home of Ovide Morency, was badly burned about the face and head yesterday. A can of aluminum paint had been left in the cook stove oven by mistake, and after it was heated the girl attempted to open the can to see what the contents were. The paint exploded in her face, with serious results. Mr. Lemieux is attending the unfortunate young lady.

The Surprise clothing and furnishings store passed the first milestone of its career on August 30. During the year Messrs. Berthon & Armstrong have built up a large business, and are constantly adding new friends and customers. Their fall and winter stock is now arriving and will be on display in a few days. It will pay every buyer of men's and boys' clothing to watch The Courier's advertising columns during the next few months, for these gentlemen have genuine bargains in store for the people of Red Lake county.

Geo. A. Heyl, the fancy stock breeder of Washington, Ill., who owns several Red Lake county farms, has an exhibit of Shetland ponies and Poland China hogs at the county fair this week. Mr. Heyl expects in the near future to establish a branch stock farm near Red Lake Falls to supply his increasing Northwestern trade.

F. J. Parker arrived from Marshall Tuesday morning, and will remain several days. He was accompanied by Mr. Jacobsen and wife, who have closed a deal for a farm with the Healy-Watson company. Mr. Jacobsen expects to move up this fall and as he is one of Lyon county's best settlers, will be a valuable addition to this section.

E. E. Tenney and wife have stored their household goods and left Tuesday evening for Crookston, where Mr. Tenney will be employed as the general offices of the St. Hilaire company for a week or ten days. He will then leave for Towner, N. D., to look after the fall collections for his company. Mrs. Tenney will visit friends at Ada for several weeks.

Nelson Belair, of St. Paul, is the guest of his brothers in Red Lake Falls this week. He has been a member of the St. Paul fire department for twenty years, and is accompanied by C. F. Olson, a hardware merchant from St. Anthony Falls. The gentlemen are here on a hunting expedition, and in company with five of their Red Lake Falls friends bagged 170 chickens Tuesday and Wednesday.

J. P. Easton, deputy revenue collector for this district, has resigned to accept a position as travelling auditor for the St. Hilaire Retail Lumber Co., and will take up his new work as soon as his successor is appointed. The appointment of revenue deputy lies with Senator Nelson, and as the senator is at present in Alaska it is probable Mr. Easton's successor will not be named for some weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. V. M. Higinbotham went to St. Paul Saturday evening. Mrs. Higinbotham will undergo an operation for appendicitus this week, and it is the hope of her many friends that she will pass through the ordeal safely. They expect to be gone about three weeks, and will be accompanied home by Mrs. Higinbotham's brother and sister, Sam and Grace Tousley, who have been living at Lioceum, La., for the past year.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church gave a reception to the members and friends of the church on Monday evening. The parlors were handsomely decorated with flowers and plants, and ice cream, cake and coffee were served. A musical program by the Red Lake Falls orchestra was rendered in the auditorium later in the evening. A large number of people were in attendance, and the ladies are to be congratulated upon the satisfactory and elegant manner in which they entertained their guests.

The largest party of landseekers brought to Red Lake Falls this season is being entertained by the Gonigam agency. The party consists of twenty Illinois farmers, coming over the Northern Pacific this morning, chaperoned by J. P. Gonigam, the hustling Illinois representative for the Gonigam people. Among the party are H. G. Kreiling, C. F. Worner, H. Bartelo, T. Johnson, Pat Hart, Henry Rankin, Fred Warner, John P. Applequist, John Sandell, Fred A. Heyl, Fred Rankin, Chas. E. Warner, John Garlish, Ed Seebranch, John S. Turnwall, Gust W. Turnwall, A. J. Hegel and Wilson Bird. It is quite likely that a good many of these people will purchase farms here.

OUR CLAIM FOR THE GEE WHIZZ MACHINE

1. That it is the best washer made, because it runs easier and washes faster and better and is easier on the clothing.

2. Because it whirls, rubs, slaps, squeezes and sucks the dirt out of the clothing, by reason of the reflex motion of the water.

3. It will wash (and we can prove it) as good with cold water as any other machine will with hot water, running the same length of time. We do not expect any other, even on a contest to this statement.

4. We will do in one minute with hot water, what is usually taken other machines ten or fifteen minutes to do. So you see you save nine-tenths of the time and labor, by using the Gee Whiz Washer.

5. The Gee Whiz Machine is a combined washer and clothes duster. When dusting clothing machine must be dry Adjust sliding wheel just tight enough to whirl the clothing, and turn fast each way a little while. Leave lid up while dusting.

DARING CRIME OF MASKED MEN

Rob Car Barns, at Chicago, Killing Two Men and Injuring Two Others.

THIEVES THEN SECURE $3,000 AND MAKE THEIR ESCAPE

Victims Are Shot Down Without a Word of Warning—Bold Crowbar Planned and Evidently Work of Men Familiar with Office—Several Suspects Under Arrest.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 1.—Two men were killed and two wounded by hold-up men at the barns of the Chicago City Railway company, Sixty-first and State streets, early Sunday morning. The shooting was done by three masked men, who escaped after securing $3,000. Three of the men who were shot were working in the cashier's office, and the other was a motorman asleep in the outer office. The victims were shot without a word of warning. Those in the office were shot through a window before they were aware of the robbers' presence, and the motorman was killed as he was rising from a bench, where he had been sleeping. After disposing of all opposition, one of the robbers broke open the door of the inner office with a sledge hammer, four, that there is not a tree left standing on any of the islands, that hundreds of houses were destroyed, and that families threaten the people. The loss of life is speculative in the absence of definite news, but may be 100 or 1,000. The islands consist of Grand Cayman, 17 miles long and four to seven in width, and Little Cayman and Cayman Brac. The latter are in width 10 degrees south, off the south coast of Cuba, and between that island and Jamaica, being part of the British West Indies.

which he had brought with him, and secured $3,000 in bills which were lying on the desk. While he was in the inner office his two companions stood guard outside with drawn revolvers. No effort was made to secure the silver money which was scattered about, and the robbers did not even secure all the bills which were in view.

Robbery Carefully Planned.

The robbery was carefully planned, and the men showed a perfect familiarity with the arrangement and veniniary gon, which made the start at 11:46, and gave the yachts until 5:15 within which to finish the race.

Boats Are on.

When the preparatory signal was fired at 11:30 the wind was still dropping off and was not strong or accurate enough to secure a start. The Reliance, however, for position at the start began before the warning signal was fired, each captain making a desperate effort to get the better place. The Shamrock seemed to have a little more life and Capt. Wringe was able to get her out from beneath the great blanketing sails of the Reliance. At 11:44, one minute before the starting gun was fired, both boats were holding along the starboard tack, with the Reliance a trifle in the lead. Half a minute before the starting gun was fired the topsails were broken out on both boats. The starting gun was fired at 11:45, with both boats to the leeward of the line. They immediately trimmed their sheets and went across the line on the starboard tack, the Reliance a little to windward. The wind at the time was blowing about seven miles an hour and both yachts at once headed towards the Long Island shore. They were on a long same sails with large club topsails and intermediate baby jib topsails.

Starting time (unofficial): Reliance, 11:45:20; Shamrock, 11:45:24.

Boy Kills a Constable.

HUNDREDS DIE IN HURRICANE

Terrible Result of a Storm in the West Indies.

Many Vessels Wrecked and Their Crews Lost—Two Islands Are Swept Clean.

New Orleans, Sept. 31.—Passengers from Jamaica report that the recent storm swept Grand Cayman, off the Jamaica coast, almost clear. One hundred and sixty houses in Georgetown were blown down and destroyed, and all the trees leveled. Twenty-three vessels in all were wrecked in and about Grand Cayman, and 50 or more seamen drowned. The people on shore are in great distress and appeal for relief. They were in hope of succor from Jamaica until they heard of the disaster there. The storm is said to have been more violent than that of October, 1876. Trees that withstood the earliest hurricane went down like pins. Nothing has been heard from little Cayman and Cayman Brac, and it is believed that both islands have been swept clean.

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 31.—All the information reaching this city of the results of the hurricane which visited the Cayman Islands on August 11 confirm the first fears that disaster has overtaken the inhabitants of the islands. All the correspondence which has reached here, via Cienfuegos, Cuba, agrees that the hurricane attained a velocity of over 100 miles an hour.

REMAINS ARE LAID AWAY.

Simple Ceremonies Attend Funeral of Lord Salisbury—Memorial Service at Hatfield.

London, Sept. 1.—The remains of Lord Salisbury were interred Monday beside those of his wife in the burial ground of the Cecils, at Hatfield. The arrangements were of the most private and simple character. All the children of the deceased were present, as were also Premier Balfour, Lord Selborne and a few intimate neighbors. Otherwise the mourners were made up of the dead statesman's friends, retainers and inhabitants of Hatfield. The coffin was carried to and from the parish church by old retainers. Simultaneously a memorial service was held in Westminster abbey, which was attended by representatives of King Edward, Emperor William and other members of royal and imperial families, cabinet ministers, former cabinet ministers, diplomats, including Ambassador Choate and members of the other embassies, and a host of peers, members of parliament and others. The only floral tribute on Lord Salisbury's coffin was a wreath sent by Queen Alexandra. Other wreaths, sent by the king of Portugal and others, were used to decorate the graveyard. The archbishop of Canterbury officiated at the funeral service.

Strange Religious Sect.

Everett, Mass., Sept. 1.—A strange new religious sect, known as the "praying Rollers," has made its appearance in this city. Under a blue and white sign above the door of its headquarters appears a warning, "Extract from the Flying-Roll," announcing the millennium next year. There are 40 disciples, who proclaim that haircutting, shaving, tattooing and other departures of the flesh are contrary to the laws of God. They are also opposed to the use of tobacco, coffee, tea, meat and all intoxicating drinks. They have no church organization, but hold meetings in a hall.

MOUNT VESUVIUS IN ERUPTION.

Mount Vesuvius, which is hurling immense masses of lava and ashes from a newly opened fissure, spreading terror among the inhabitants of the surrounding country, is the same old Vesuvius which buried the famous cities of Pompeii and Herculaneum at the beginning of the Christian era, and which has caused untold destruction on more than 60 occasions since that time. The mountain was a wooded, foliage-decked hill, whose extinct crater was a beautiful lake, until August 24, 79 A. D., when almost without warning the top was blown off in a manner similar to the occurrence at Mount Pelee, and the wealthy Roman cities of Pompeii and Herculaneum were buried in a mass of ashes. The latter city was left 100 feet beneath the surface, and is still almost unknown to the archaeologists, while Pompeii remained a mystery under 20 feet of debris until a century ago. In the year 472 the eruption was so great that ashes fell in the streets of Constantople, hundreds of miles away. In 1538 the summit was forced up 413 feet in two days, and had reached a circumference of 6,000 feet in the same time. In 1631 all the cities at the foot of the mountain were enveloped in boiling water, followed by vast outpourings of lava. A rock 100 feet in circumference and 17 feet high was thrown into the air in a terrible explosion that occurred in 1779. In 1855 a series of explosions occurred, and at intervals ever since these upheavals have been repeated. In the present outburst the inhabitants fled to the towns of Portici and Resina, which rest over the ruins of Herculaneum.

YACHT CONTEST PROVES A FLUKE

Monday's Race Called Off When Reliance Is Within Half a Mile of Finish.

WAS LEADING RIVAL BY A CONSIDERABLE MARGIN AT TIME

Gale Which Forced Postponement of Saturday's Contest Blows Itself Out, and Gradually Dies Out—Reliance Turns Outer Mark with a Big Lead.

New York, Sept. 1.—When the Reliance was half a mile from the finish in the race with the Shamrock III. Monday the contest was called off. The Reliance was leading her rival by two miles at the time.

Storm Blows Over.

The autumnal storm which had kept Reliance and Shamrock for 24 hours within the shelter of Sandy Hook bay, had blown itself out sufficiently Monday morning to enable the two racers to venture once more into the open sea for a continuation of their races for the America's cup. The gale, however, had left as a token of its strength, a very heavy swell, so that when the two hosts with Shamrock in the lead turned the point of Sandy Hook, they at once began to roll and wallow like a couple of coal barges.

The day had little attractions for spectators, for the dark clouds which still hung low seemed to threaten rain at any moment, while the uneasy ocean had little to invite any except the stoutest sailor.

Little Interest in Race.

The decision of the yachts' owners to start the race and terminate if possible the series, was accepted on all sides, as the interest in the races has been pretty well dampened by the numerous delays. It was not surprising, therefore, that the fleet which followed the two racers was a mere ghost of that which saw the yachts in the previous contests.

Instead of by a flotilla, the yachts were accompanied to the start by scarcely half a dozen tugs, a few steam yachts, and two or three excursion boats, so that the numerous cutters, which arrived on the scene a little late, had very little to do in keeping the space about the lightship free from interference. The yachts hoisted their mainsails before leaving the Hook, and were well out to the lightship by ten o'clock, an hour before the time set for the contest. On reaching the lightship they found that the wind was about east northeast, with a velocity of about ten miles.

Course is Signaled.

When the committee boat reached the lightship it was found that to start a race from that point 15 miles to leeward for windward would be impossible, and a signal was hoisted, postponing the start, until a line could be established southeasterly south of the lightship to send the yachts off to windward. As soon as the signal was hoisted the navigator began to steam south from the lightship, while the two yachts and the usual accompanying fleet followed in that direction. The committee boat came to anchor about four miles south by west of the lightship. The course was signaled as east-northeast, which would bring the line southeast of Long Beach about six miles off shore.

The yachts had dropped to about seven knots, and there seemed to be no prospect of a long, slow race. On the way down to the starting point Shamrock III. changed topsails, exchanging her No. 2 for a much larger one. The sea was much calmer than when the yachts first went out. Promptly at 11:30 the committee fired the preparatory gun, which made the start at 11:46, and gave the yachts until 5:15 within which to finish the race.

Boats Are on.

When the preparatory signal was fired at 11:30 the wind was still dropping off and was not strong or accurate enough to secure a start. The Reliance, however, for position at the start began before the warning signal was fired, each captain making a desperate effort to get the better place. The Shamrock seemed to have a little more life and Capt. Wringe was able to get her out from beneath the great blanketing sails of the Reliance. At 11:44, one minute before the starting gun was fired, both boats were holding along the starboard tack, with the Reliance a trifle in the lead. Half a minute before the starting gun was fired the topsails were broken out on both boats. The starting gun was fired at 11:45, with both boats to the leeward of the line. They immediately trimmed their sheets and went across the line on the starboard tack, the Reliance a little to windward. The wind at the time was blowing about seven miles an hour and both yachts at once headed towards the Long Island shore. They were on a long same sails with large club topsails and intermediate baby jib topsails.

Starting time (unofficial): Reliance, 11:45:20; Shamrock, 11:45:24.

THOMAS B. REED

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived close to those who have made and are making the history of our times.

In these volumes the reader comes the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of action with the delicate fancies of the humorist.

We hear the speaker, we hear the laughter, we surrender to the spell of the words; we can feel the tense silence as the speaker mounts in his sublimest flights, then hear the outburst of applause as the audience catches the speaker at his climax.

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7¾ x 10¾ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravure portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several volumes contain colored frontispieces in multi-color.

50 Years of Success
This is our record. From a small beginning we have grown until our factor now covers many acres. Many of our machines sold forty to fifty years ago are still giving their users faithful service. Can anything be more convincing of their merits and durability? Did you ever hear of any other machine with such a record?
Note a few of the many superior points of the
Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine No. 9
The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, unmechanical and troublesome shuttle.
The Frictionless ball bearings and perfect mechanical construction make it to be operated with one-third less exertion than is required by ordinary machines. It sews three yards of goods while a shuttle machine sews two.
It makes the most elastic and most perfect stitch whether sewing light or heavy goods.
With our superior attachments the greatest variety of work is possible.
Do not make the mistake of buying a sewing machine until you have given the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 a trial.

SECRETARY AND MINISTER CONFER

The Turkish Representative, Chekib Bey, Has Long Interview with Hay.

ASSURES AMERICAN CITIZENS OF EVERY PROTECTION POSSIBLE.

Squadron Still on Way to Beirut and Will Not Be Recalled—Lethmann Tells of Condition of Affairs in the Empire—Fresh Atrocities by Turks Are Reported.

Washington, Sept. 1.—Chekib Bey, the Turkish minister, had a long interview Monday with Secretary Hay. He refused to discuss the interview, stating that he had nothing to communicate further than what appeared in the papers Sunday morning. After the interview Secretary Hay visited the navy department. If the Turkish minister requested that the European squadron be kept away from Turkish waters his request, probably, cannot be granted, even should this government desire to accede to it, as the navy department states that it will be impossible to communicate with either the Brooklyn or San Francisco until they arrive at Beirut.

Chekib Bey assured Secretary Hay that the Turkish government had done nothing wrong and will use every endeavor to protect American citizens residing in Turkey. He also discussed the conditions of the insurrection in Turkey and said that the Turkish government was not responsible for any of the disasters that had occurred.

Secretary Hay's call upon Acting Secretary Darling was for the purpose of ascertaining the whereabouts of the European squadron and also what their orders are. There is no intention of changing any orders at present, especially as the ships cannot be reached until they arrive at Beirut.

Reports as Conditions.

Late dispatches from Minister Leishman give in detail the conditions in Turkey, and do not differ materially in tone from those previously sent. Minister Leishman does not, as reported in some quarters, request the withdrawal of the American ships from Turkish waters. While reports by way of London state that no attempt was made upon the life of Vice Consul Magelessen, official advices so far received show that such an attempt was made. The present status was known before the ships left Genoa, and this government did not decide to change the orders. It is now stated, however, that should there be a calm and peaceful condition at Beirut when the ships arrive there the matter of sending them to another port will be considered and possibly adopted. The Turkish minister made no request upon Secretary Hay at the interview Monday regarding the movement of United States war vessels and nothing in this matter was promised by the state department. In one of the dispatches from Minister Leishman the question of the trial of the teachers in one of the missions at Harpoot was discussed and the minister informed the department that he can see nothing irregular in the trial but at the request of the missionaries he is seeing to it that no injustice is done. The man was arrested charged with sedition.

Refugees Flee Country.

Sofia, Sept. 1.—Nine hundred refugees from Malkutrinovo and surrounding villages have arrived at Drenaka, Bulgaria. The refugees say the Turkish garrison fired upon the Bulgarian part of Malkutrinovo, with the object of creating an impression that a revolution was in progress.

The prefect, August 21, summoned the Bulgarian notables of Malkutrinovo, and endeavored to persuade them to sign a statement that the insurgents were the aggressors. The notables refused to do so, and the first man who refused was hanged the following day.

The Macedonian leaders here claim that an aggregate of 2,000 Bulgarians have crossed the frontier in small parties and joined the insurgents during the last ten days. Gen. Tcherkoff, the president of the Macedonian committee, and Col. Sarafoff, one of the revolutionary leaders who are now in Macedonia, send word that the insurgent forces total 12,000 to 15,000 men. They expect that a general insurrection will be proclaimed.

Prince Boards Gunboat.

Kustendji, Roumania, Sept. 1.—Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria embarked here at midnight on the Bulgarian gunboat Nadejda, and sailed for Burgas, Bulgaria.

President Entertains Editors.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 1.—At luncheon Monday President Roosevelt had as his guests John McEnaclin, the state board commissioner of New York; Henry L. Einstein, proprietor, and Erwin Wardman, editor of the New York Press; Dr. Albert Shaw, editor of the Review of Reviews, and J. Lincoln Steffens. Later the president expected to receive A. J. Fleming, editor of the Comet, of Draysser, Mo.

Congress of Actuaries Opens.

New York, Sept. 1.—The fourth international congress of actuaries met in this city Monday. The delegates include men from several foreign countries. Secretary of Commerce and Labor George B. Cortelyou, who is an honorary member, was delegated by the president to open the session and deliver an address. The session will continue for the week.

PROMINENT MEN ON TRIAL

Railway Officials Under Indictment for Manslaughter.

Are Held Responsible for Newark Crossing Disaster by the Coroner's Jury.

Newark, N. J., Sept. 1.—The seven members of the executive committee of the board of directors of the North Jersey Street Railway company appeared Monday in the Essex county court for trial on indictment charging them with manslaughter. On February 19 last nine Newark high school students were killed in a collision between a Clifton avenue trolley car and a Lackawanna express train. Indictments were returned against Alexander J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company; John D. Crimmins, of New York; Edward F. C. Young, president of the North Jersey Street Railroad company and of the First national bank of Jersey City; Dr. Leslie D. Ward, vice president of the Prudential Insurance company; Elisha B. Gaddis, wholesale merchant and director of the Pennsylvania Railroad company; David Young, vice president and general manager of the North Jersey, and J. Bennett Shanley, members of the executive committee of the street railway company. In addition to these men there also appeared as defendants Charles M. Stigmon, former general superintendent of the North Jersey; James Smith, Arthur W. Pratt and Richard Rick, division officials of the company.

The indictment of these officials followed a verdict by the coroner's jury fixing responsibility on the North Jersey Street Railway company.

PHILIPPINE VETERANS.

Begin Fourth Annual Convention at St. Paul—Gen. Hale Addresses Those Present.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 1.—Stepping lively to the strains of martial music from a band, visiting veterans of the Army of the Philippines were escorted from incoming trains to their respective hotels and lodging places from early morning until nightfall Monday. The committee having in charge the arrangements for the fourth annual convention of the Army of the Philippines estimated that by evening fully 3,000 veterans would be housed within the city, and that the number would be swelled considerably by Tuesday.

At two o'clock in the afternoon the first business session was held, at which Gen. Hale, as president of the association, delivered an informal address, which was mainly on the work of organizing individual camps throughout the country. Gen. Hale spoke of the progress made since the last encampment and revived the contention, and stated that under the new laws matters were working out satisfactorily. The usual addresses of welcome were delivered at this meeting, at which Gov. Vanant spoke on behalf of the state, which was responded to by Gen. Hale in a preface to his annual address. At night the delegates were entertained at the Commercial club. The election of officers and selection of the next place of meeting will be held at the last business meeting Wednesday.

REVOLUTION IMMINENT.

Correspondent Says Only Vigorous Action by Colombian Government Can Prevent Outbreak.

New York, Sept. 1.—The spirit of revolution is gaining in force on the Isthmus, as the result of the rejection of the canal treaty by the Colombian congress, says a Bogota, says a Times dispatch from Panama.

Only vigorous action on the part of the government can prevent an outbreak, the correspondent asserts, and it is doubtful whether such action is possible.

Gen. Huertas, commandant at Fort Churigui, and virtually the commander of all the government forces in and around Panama, is at this time the only officer to whom the government may look with any hope of checking any revolutionary spirit. Even he is a warm sympathizer with the canal project.

As for the naval force, it is practically controlled by Americans or pro-American Englishmen. They form the gunning, navigating and engineering forces.

World's Shooting Record Broken.

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 1.—Jacob Grubler, of the Sacramento Rod and Gun Shooting club, has broken the world's record at 100 yards German 22 ring target by making 463 out of a possible 500. The record heretofore held by Dr. Rogers, of San Francisco, was 461 out of 500. Mr. Grubler used a Winchester, 22-40, and the shooting was off-hand.

Killed by Discharged Employe.

Superior, Wis., Sept. 1.—Howard Gilbert, 27, the Euclid hotel cafe, was killed Monday morning by a discharged man, aged 18 years, who had just been discharged by his victim. Gilbert was killed instantly, the ball of lead piercing his head crashing through his temple. The victim was about 40 years of age and leaves a widow. Sherman is in jail.

Assigned to Kiel.

Berlin, Sept. 1.—A cabinet order just issued assigned Admiral Prince Henry of Prussia to command the naval station at Kiel. Admiral Koester succeeds the prince in command of the first active squadron.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVER VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else in the world of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next five years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not trust us well have them in your hands?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well-settled community, where churches and schools are built and roads graded. These will be offered for sale in "job lots" and sold to "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $5,000 cash will handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit at 6 per cent. A live investor can make a few thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

The Nickel Plate road, with its eastern connections—the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western and Lehigh Valley Railroads & Maine Railroads—is considered by those who have patronized it as a most desirable line between Chicago and New York, Boston and other eastern points, and takes its place among the first class lines leading eastward from Chicago. It is operating three through trains daily, all daintily and completely with modern improvements, for the convenience and comforts of the traveling public, and has succeeded to a remarkable degree, in pleasing its patrons, growing in popularity every day. One of its attractive features and thoroughly appreciated by the traveling public, is its dining car service, meals being served on American Club Plan, ranging in price from 35c to $1.00; also service a la carte. Colored porters are in charge to look after the comfort of passengers in coaches and especially to assist ladies traveling with children. All passenger trains arrive at and depart from the La Salle St. Station, Chicago, the only passenger station in Chicago on the Elevated Loop. When going east, try the Nickel Plate. NEW MAN ASTRIDE GAZETTE TRIPOD

Sam S. Haislet Becomes Editor and Manager Next Monday—Retiring Editor Goes to Washington.

A deal was consummated yesterday by which the proprietorship of the Red Lake Falls Gazette passes from Phillip A. Kaufer to L. A. Dautremont. The transfer also includes the building occupied by the paper, and it is understood that the consideration is in the neighborhood of $6,000. The change of management will take place next Monday. Mr. Dautremont's son-in-law, Sam S. Haislet, will be the editor and business manager of the paper. Mr. Haislet has been a printer all his life, and has had several years experience in managing a paper of his own. For the past three years he has been in the employ of the editor of THE COURIER as foreman and assistant. He comes from a family of printers, and is himself one of the best workmen in the state. THE COURIER believes that there is ample field for two papers in Red Lake Falls, and confidently expects that under the new regime the most amicable and harmonious relations will exist. The general public is not particularly interested in the shortcomings or transcendent virtues of a newspaper man, anyway, and there is no excuse for the parade of them in the editorial columns. THE COURIER certainly hopes that the people will be spared the continuance of a warfare that was without justification or reason, and presents its compliments and best wishes to the incoming management. The retiring editor will move to Washington, as soon as his property interests in Red Lake Falls are disposed of. Whether or not he intends to re-embark in the newspaper business we are not informed. Mr. Kaufer has been a resident of Red Lake Falls for nearly twenty years, and for eleven years past has been proprietor of the Gazette.

A Purgative Pleasure.

If you ever took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for Billiousness or constipation you know what a purgative pleasure is. These famous little pills cleanse the liver and rid the system of all bile without producing unpleasant effects. They do not gripe, sicken or weaken, but give tone and strength to the tissues and organs involved. W. H. Howell of Houston, Tex., says: "No better pill can be used than Little Early Risers for constipation, sick headache, etc." Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

GRAIN LOANS MUST BE SETTLED

Counties That Received Money Cannot Claim That Law Is Invalid.

Attorney General Douglas says that the counties which borrowed money from the state ten years ago for the purchase of seed grain can not legally refuse to pay the money back on the ground that the law was declared unconstitutional by the supreme court. Mr. Douglas says that the counties by receiving the loans are stopped from making a defense of this nature.

This opinion was expressed by Mr. Douglas informally in response to a report that Stevens county had been advised by the county auditor not to levy a tax for the purpose of paying a loan of $3,700 made by the state ten years ago. A year ago former State Auditor Dunn requested the county to levy a tax for this purpose, but this was not done, and the request was repeated by the present state auditor. The state, however, has not been refused payment by Stevens county.

"I cannot believe that any county in Minnesota will make any attempt to repudiate a debt of this kind," said the state auditor. "It was a generous act of the legislature which provided for loaning money to counties suffering from hailstorms and drouth, and I do not believe that anylcounty is not grateful to the state for such assistance. Furthermore, I do not believe that if the counties chose to make such a defense it would be upheld by the courts. They received the loans, and it makes no difference that the state violated the constitution.

Concentration.

The men who manage some of the largest enterprises in the world work but four or five hours a day, and younger men thus argue that they need not work long hours to be successful. The point, however, is that the man who can do his work in four hours has gained the information necessary by years of hard labor and probably exceptionally long hours. He concentrates his mind on the matter in hand and turns it off in a few hours, but he must have health and strength to do it and for this reason he will drink golden grain belt beer regularly with his meals. Its the best tonic ever brewed and should be in every home. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston, Minn.

Women Teachers Sub For Liberty.

Kansas City Star: It is certain that among the "sacred and inalienable rights" for which the fathers of the republic contended, none was more sacred and inalienable than the right to court and be courted. The assertion of this prerogative well becomes the men and women in Kansas who train the young idea to shoot. And as teaching seems to qualify its followers for matrimony, there is no reason to suppose that matrimony might not, by a reciprocal operation, fit its votaries for the work of public instruction.

THE STANDARD OIL.

A Giant Swindle Perpetrated on Small Oil Companies.

The Fort Worth Telegram prints the most startling story that has ever come out of the Beaumont oil fields, and states that its informant is one of the most prominent men of Fort Worth, who returned from Beaumont Sunday. This man declares that the Standard Oil company has perpetrated a most gigantic swindle in the Beaumont fields, and that positively established details are just coming to light.

The independent oil companies of Beaumont are the victims, many of which have been wrecked by the Standard's work.

Recently some of the leading men of the wrecked or injured companies determined to investigate, and in two days they raised $27,000 in money with which to push the work. The developements, it is declared, are simply astounding. It is shown that the numerous wells that were apparently ruined by salt water were put in their bad condition by the Standard Oil company's conspirators.

As fast as a company went to the wall its property was bought in by the trust. By accident, it is claimed, the desperate work of the Standard company was recently discovered.

The Standard Oil company long ago built a pipe line from Beaumont to the gulf of Mexico. A pumping station was erected at Beaumont and another at the gulf. Oil was pumped through the pipe line to the gulf and thence shipped to various parts of the world. Suddenly many wells of the independent companies had salt water in them.

The ruin of the owners is part of the history of the field. One day not long ago one of the pumping stations got out of working order and oil-pumping to the gulf had to be suspended while repairs were being made.

Suddenly wells that had been giving out fully one-half salt water began flowing nothing but oil, good fuel oil, is is declared.

It was just this investigation on foot. The investigators secretly at night slugged up the pipe line at the Beaumont end. They drove several miles into the country, dug into the ground over the pipe line, made a tapping into the line, and salt water gushed into the air nearly 100 feet. It is claimed that the pressure was from the gulf pumping station and that salt water was being pumped to Beaumont and into the wells that the Standard company's conspirators desired to wreck. There was no pressure from the Beaumont end, because of the plugging of the pipe.

The informant of the Telegram declares that a force of detectives is now at work in connection with the conspirsey.

BIG SNAKE CAPTURED.

Had Escaped From One of The Shows men During the Fair.

Thief River Press: It will be remembered that during county fair week Esau, the terrible creature of the African jungle, escaped the avoracious appetite of its legitimate consumer, Bosco, the world renowned Abyssinian snake eater who gave a good, clean, moral and educational exhibition for the small sum of ten cents. The snake managed in some way to evade the clutches of Bosco and escaped to the wilds of the country adjacent to the fair grounds. Several parties had seen the reptile since that date and only last week two children wandering about the fields were chased by the animal which was becoming bold and daring from long fasting.

Monday evening, the pangs of hunger being still unsatisfied, Esau invaded the yard of E. Stafford, a resident of the northwest part of town, with the intention of making a meal if he had to fight for it. The animal was actually on the point of entering the doorway when discovered by Mr. Stafford, who beat it on the head with a large hammer until help arrived in the person of Ed. Hilson, who poured a charge of shot into the savagely fighting creature. Even this did not kill the animal which continued to struggle until the combined effects of several more landed him in a big dry goods box into which he was securely nailed and taken down town.

The reptile which is believed to be of the blacksnake specie, is more than seven feet in length and its shining black body is fully five inches in diameter. If he survives the encounter with his assailants it is probable that Esau will again be disposed of for exhibition purposes.

Can Those Things Be?

Lakefield Standard: A pleasant little farce was enacted at the state capital the other day when a much decorated shot gun was presented to Sam Fullerton, the state game warden, by Gov. Van Sant, in the presence of a lot of deputy game wardens and the manipulators of the Van Sant third term machine. This presentation was made a cover for bringing to St. Paul as many of the 150 deputy state game wardens as could be induced to make the trip, for the real purpose of instructing them in their parts for carrying on the third term campaign, and to make sure that they were all right. By using this fake presentation as a pretense, it was expected that their presence in the city would be satisfactorily accounted for, and as a matter of fact, the real object of the visitation seems to have escaped the argus-eyed reporters of the daily papers. The statement has been made by one of the deputies who felt it incumbent upon him to be present, that the money paid for the Fullerton shot-gun was not subscribed by any "best of friends" as alleged, but the weapon was paid for out of the Lowry-Van Sant campaign fund. It is far from dignified for the governor of the state to lend himself to such cheap devices and subterfuges.

Incorporation Effected.

Thief River Press: The management of the Thief River creamery is about to pass into the hands of new owners, the property now being under the control of the business men and farmers of this vicinity. Articles of incorporation have been drawn and will be filed this week. All of the preliminary arrangements have been made and the new owners will assume charge of the plant within a few days. Everything about the institution is in a very satisfactory condition and there seems no question but that the new management will meet with good returns from the outset. The names of the incorporators have not as yet been made public.

Distress After Eating Cured.

Judge W. T. Holland, of Greensburg, La., who is well and favorably known, says: "Two years ago I suffered greatly from indigestion. After eating, great distress would invariably result, lasting for an hour or so and my nights were restless. I concluded to try Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and it cured me entirely. Now my sleep is refreshing and digestion perfect." Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

GONIGAM AGENCY SELLS 1,300 ACRES

Illinois Farmers Swoop Down Upon Red Lake County, and Take All in Sight.

The advance guard of a large immigration of Illinois farmers to Red Lake county arrived in town last week, and already 1,300 acres of farm land has been deeded to them. Eighteen of these people were brought here by George A. Heyl, and seven of them have already purchased farms, and several more have propositions under consideration, and it is only a commencement of the business they expect to do this fall and winter. The farms sold this week are as follows:

The John Conner farm in Terrebonne, 347 acres, to Fred Rankin and G. G. Gerriotts, of Washington, Ill., at $33 per acre.

The Louis Grimm farm, Red Lake Falls township, 160 acres, to Henry Rankin, of Washington, Ill.

The Swanson and Duffy farm, just south of town, 240 acres, to Benjamin Heyl, of Washington, Ill., at $29 per acre.

The Joseph Schmitz farm, the northeast quarter of section 28, Black River, 160 acres, to Ed. Heyl, of Washington Ill., at $27 per acre.

The Clemens Mercier farm, just northeast of town, 240 acres, to John Turnwall, of Manitou, Ill., at $6,000.

The southeast quarter of section 28, Hockaboy township, to Chas. Warner, of Manitou, Ill.

The Gonigam agency expect to have several more large parties of farmers from this same section of Illinois within a few weeks, and their agents, J. P. Gonigam and George A. Heyl, are now at work selling of the advantages and opportunities of Red Lake county. As practically all of these men are extensively interested with ample capital it means a whole lot to this section to have them move here. All Red Lake county needs is more good farmers.

FAIL IN EXAMINATONS.

Requirements In State Teachers' Examinations Result in Falling Off.

The result of the state examination for the teachers, announced Friday, show that of the 5,253 applicants, 2,691 received certificates of some kind. The percentage passing this year is only 48, whereas 73 per cent of the applicants passed the examinations last year.

Last year, however, two failures were allowed in any study, and the same number for limited second candidates. This year only one failure was allowed in any study, and in limited seconds none.

The results of this years examination are: First grade certificates 828; second grade certificates 2,466; limited certificates 1,068; renewal certificates 231. Papers received, first grade 3,344, second grade 27,-068.

Certificates issued—complete firsts 282; complete seconds 1,066; conditional firsts 218; conditional seconds 736; limited seconds 392; failing 2,829; per cent passed 48, per cent failed 52.

Talks Regarding Treaty.

Thief River Press: Jos. Jerome, the well known Battle River merchant, is in town this week. To a Press man Mr. Jerome, who knows the red men thoroughly, talked about the opening of the reservation and the feeling of the Indians regarding the treaty. "The old treaty," said Mr. Jerome, "was not definite enough as to the sum to be paid nor the time of payment. This was one draw back and, taken in connection with the giving away of sections 16 and 36 ruined the chances of the bill. I am inclined to think, however, that if the sections in question are left with the Indians, a bill drawn up on the old lines will go through, though it would be better to have a definite amount given the Indians at a definite time. If such a bill could be secured there is no question but that the red men would sign, as they care nothing about keeping the land, if they get good returns for it."

Grip

Brought On Sciatic Rheumatism. Nervous Prostration Followed. Dr. Miles' Nervine Gave Back Health.

"I was laid up during the winter of 91-92 with sciatic rheumatism and nervous prostration brought on by a severe attack of La Grippe. The rheumatic pains were so severe in my limbs and back that I could not turn in bed. I was unable to sleep. I had two of our best physicians in attendance, took all the so-called remedies for troubles of this kind but gave no help whatever until I took Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. Six bottles restored me to health; I am better than for years; in fact am entirely relieved. I can say with a clear conscience that it was Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine that restored me to health. When the pains of sciatic and rheumatism were most severe I used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. I have recommended Dr. Miles' Remedies to many people."—Fred Meyer, Reinfield, S. D.

"I was taken with pain in my heart and under the left shoulder; with such heavy oppressed feeling in my chest that I could hardly breathe. I had palpitation so bad and my heart would throb so that it would shake my whole bed. I also had a weak, all-gone feeling in the region of my heart. My doctor treated me for liver and stomach trouble, but I got no relief. Finally I was induced and I remembered Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Restorative Nervine. I used both and one box of the Anti-Pain Pills. I believe I am completely and permanently cured."—Mrs. J. W. Golding, Noblesville, Ind.

Easy Pill

Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Riser. This is due to the fact that they tonic the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe nor sicken, not even the most delicate lady, and yet they are so certain in their action as no one sees when it disappointed. They cure torpid liver, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, headache, malaria and want of pimples and fevers.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

The Minneapolis Times is wondering if the death rate would rise or fall if the physicians went on a strike.

Vice Consul Magelson will not have reached the zenith of his career until he comes home on a lecture tour.

Bemidji wants to get all the means of sudden death that's going. The latest ambition is to organize a foot-ball team.

Senator Young ought to be old enough to know a newspaper libel suit never lifted the plaintiff to a pinnacle of fame.

Some of the men who have raised large families brag about it just as if their wives were not entitled to a part of the credit.

Mary McFadden observes that the disposition not to kick a fellow when he's down is waived by common consent in the Sultan's case.

It's a good thing to mind your own business, but it might be remarked paradoxically, that the lawyer did not make his money that way.

The St. Paul News remarks that it is too bad for wife-seekers that most of the women who won prizes at the state fair for fine cooking are already married.

Whether or not the doctors are right in declaring that kissing will cure hysteria, we hope no scientist will bob up and rudely shatter this popular belief.

There is a rumor in circulation that diamonds are shortly to be advanced 20 per cent. Our readers will please note this and lay in their winter supply at once.

The treasurer of the preachers' aid society who recently embezzled $75,000 of the trust fund, served without pay for twelve years. He evidently took all that was coming his way.

The United States and the British Empire are getting quite chummy, and by next Fourth we may expect to hear of King Ed. setting off a few fire-crackers in his back yard.

The St. Peter Herald complains that it takes two women longer to explain over the telephone why they can't go to lunch together than it does for a dozen men to draw up plans for a railroad.

The St. Paul Globe thinks that the strenuous life doesn't count for much, anyway. Just about the time a fellow begins to let his chest protrude because he has made a record some interloper comes in and breaks it.

The Albert Lea Standard gives the ladies of the polite circle a gentle criticism:

Where lady hostesses say to some of their callers "So glad to see you," it may not be a fib—not a so-called polite lie—they merely neglect to add the little word "go."

Doc Bixby, the Lincoln funny man, tells of a local circumstance that might well be adapted to other towns:

There are several men in Lincoln who are now spending the money for budge which they will sorely need for fuel when cold weather comes. Why don't people have sense?

The St. Cloud Times compliments the work of the Hanna ex-slave pension bill as follows:

Senator Hanna's ex-slave pension bill is doing glorious work in the south. Thousands of dollars which might have been spent for strong drinks have been collected from the ignorant negroes by a few enterprising members of the race ostensibly to promote the passage of the Hanna bill.

Here is a story going the rounds of our exchanges, and it is a good one:

"Yes," said an old man addressing his young visitor, "I am proud of my daughters and would like to see them comfortably married and, as I have a little money, they shall not go to their husbands penniless. There is Mary she's twenty-five years old, and a real good girl. I shall give her $5,000 when she marries. Then comes Ida who won't see thirty-five again, and I shall give her $10,000, and the man who takes Eliza, who is forty, will have $15,000 with her." The young man reflected a moment or so and inquired: "You haven't one about fifty, have you?"

The Adrian Democrat finds it does not pay to suppress news items, and gives the public fair warning as follows:

This paper has frequent requests from persons asking that certain items of interest be kept from the paper, and in most every instance we have complied with the request, but we wish it particularly understood that it will be done no more. Hereafter the editor of this paper will use his own judgment as to whether an item shall appear or not. If it is of general interest to the public it will be published, requests to the contrary notwithstanding. If people don't want their actions published they should not act. We are running a newspaper and intend to publish the news to the best of our ability.

Dr. Dowie, head of the church of Zion, has again branched out from pure ethics, and has issued some new rules to govern the great national game. Some of his innovations are as follows:

"No bases shall be stolen. Thievery is sinful and must be put down by the faithful.

"The pitcher must not use deceit in delivering the ball, for deceit is sinful. The curve must be cut out.

"There must be no umpires for they are a race of liars and their sayings breed strife and discontent.

"Brethren who meet upon the field must play the game in brotherly love and not in contention and self glorification."

Ament the suggestion that Carrie Nation is preparing to go upon the stage, the Nonpariel Man of the Minneapolis Journal soliloquizes as follows:

It seems very difficult to tell whether Mrs. Carrie Nation is to appear in "Ten Nights in a Barroom," or whether this is a mere newspaper story set in circulation by some alleged joker with small sense of humor and still smaller sense of the proprieties. Personally we do not believe that Mrs. Nation will appear upon the stage. It is not like her. Mrs. Langtry has just returned from Europe with a play in which there is a partial disrobing scene that is causing some division of sentiment among the critics but which is generally condemned on the ground that it is introduced merely for the purpose of making a sensation. It is not legitimate drama at all. If Mrs. Nation does appear behind the footlights, of one thing we may be certain. She will not condescend to any such stage tricks as this to tickle the eyes of the groundlings. We may be certain of a strong, high class drama with a sturdy object lesson that he who runs may read. Mrs. Nation's and Mrs. Langtry's methods of acting are as wide apart as the poles.

Bro. Gresley is Happy, Nevertheless.

Big Fork Compass—Publishing a paper in the rafflest woods, where news is telegraphed by packsack and our exchanges are a month old and soaked with state swamp water when they come, where the editor is the only printer or pressman within 25 miles, is not all joy. But we always forget our isolated condition when we see the Compass copied and credited by such representative state papers as the Duluth News-Tribune, Minneapolis Tribune, St. Cloud Journal Press, RED LAKE COURIER, Crookston Journal, Rush City Post and Princeton Union. We feel that we have not lived wholly in vain or that the Big Fork ever in obscurity will remain.

Woman and the Trolley Car.

By MRS. DONALD McLEAN
Ex-President Daughters of American Revolution

The other night after a woman had watched the mad scramble to board a trolley car at the New York entrance to Brooklyn bridge—a scrimmage in which not a woman obtained a seat, every creature in skirts being thrust aside by brute strength and weight of men—she murmured to her companion in the words of the Arab to his horse:

"My beautiful, my beautiful, thou standest meekly by."

In every American city meekly we stand, clinging perchance to straps as the greatest blessings of Providence. There is hardly a thriving town that has not allowed its rush-hour transportation facilities to lag behind its increase of population; though no other city perhaps is in such a predicament as New York, where even our one-story streets, inadequate as they are to accommodate the outpourings of our 30-story office buildings, are choked almost to uselessness by those mole-like burrowings that caused Gen. Horace Porter, when recently he returned from a five years' stay abroad, to exclaim:

"Is this New York, or is it a mining town?"

Of course men are quick to suggest a remedy whose virtue is that it may be applied by women. "Go home early," they say; "until the underground railroads are completed, leave the cars at rush hours to tired men. Don't shop after five o'clock."

In principle I have adopted this rule; but as the value of a principle is to make you feel virtuous, after which you do as you please; and as the number of working women who are obliged to cling to straps at the hours when wearied workingmen are at rest on the seats is constantly increasing; and as after all women are an integral part of the population with claims to be considered by transportation companies, it may in time occur to us to think of something more radical.

Cannot the American woman bring the trolley car to terms?

Helping the World Along.

By DR. WILLIAM H. TOLMAN
Director of American Institute of Social Service

[Dr. Tolman is shown in this visit Europe in search of information about organized effort for social betterment. The expense of the trip is paid by Miss Helen Gould.]

The American Institute of Social Service aims to gather facts bearing upon social progress.

Business men without number have failed, churches have died, strife has arisen between labor and capital, and the world has seen strikes and lockouts, discontent, riot, murder and suicide because of our slow, blind and unintelligent methods of readjustment to changed social and industrial conditions. It is to facilitate progress by collecting facts of experience along every line of human betterment and to place information at the service of the public that the institute has been founded.

Our trade-mark is the interrogation point. We hunt, sift and systematize facts, and try so to interpret and disseminate them as to help men meet with least cost of time, money and human life the increasingly perplexing problems of civilization.

For example, we gather everything in this country and in Europe about lunch rooms for employes. Then comes along a manufacturing concern that wants to provide for its workmen good food at cost. We tell the company who before has done the same thing or a like thing, how it was done, what it cost and what machinery and sort of management proved useful.

In a single day not long ago the institute was consulted about these subjects: School lunches, charitable relief of poor widows in Europe, night schools, school gardens, child labor, list of places in New York of interest to the sociologist, sweat shops, pawn shops, improved tenements, cooperative dairies, European labor colonies, city history clubs, training for citizenship.

As the Sabbath Should Be Kept.

By REV. J. ROSS STEVENSON

THE Sabbath was made for man. I do not believe the day should be observed in a puritanical spirit or in the spirit of continental Europe, but that the day should be devoted to rest and recreation of the body, mind and soul, or in the manner which Christ taught in His sermon.

Strange and ominous stories have been circulated of late of the profanation of the Sabbath by society in the capital of our country. We are told that Sunday is becoming the favorite day there for social functions. It is becoming the fashion to have card parties—bridge whist and other games—on that day and also to engage in automobiling.

This is not only true of Washington, but also obtains in other large cities. The people who reserve Sunday for games and sports are those who make religion secondary to their worldly affairs. No Christian can fight the battle of the week without allowing the guns to cool off on Sunday, if he wishes to make the fight successful. It is necessary to pass the day in peace, rest and moral recreation.

Public School a Cracker Factory

By DR. NEWELL DWIGHT HILLIS
Pastor Plymouth Church, Brooklyn

THE common school is increasing mediocrity in this country. While it is the very best thing America ever had, it is also the very worst thing we have ever had.

We do very little fundamental thinking for ourselves. We take 18,000,000 children and pour them like grist into the same mill of learning, like a cracker factory, and grind until we have turned them out all alike, with no more individuality than grains of sand.

People don't make any effort nowadays to know the teacher that instructs their children; no, they would rather farm them out like intellectual orphans. It may be very good sometimes, but it's very bad sometimes.

"Be not wise overmuch," said Solomon, but we have taught our children to put too high value on intellectuality. Life is the great thing, not the knowledge of life. Knowledge is not worth much, and we're all the time over-emphasizing it. There are such fool men going through the world always analyzing their emotions, their friends, their knowledge, their creeds, till there is nothing left for them to enjoy.

HOW TO MAKE LOVE.

Now Taught as a Course in the University of Michigan.

Thrilling Scenes of Passion Enacted by the Young Men Who Attend Prof. Trueblood's Interesting Evening Lectures.

The University of Michigan has added a new course to its curriculum, one that may best be styled a course in love-making. Prof. Trueblood is the lecturer of the novel scheme, and his course, which has been hitherto shunned as one of the toughest at the university, now seems likely to become the most popular study on the campus.

Ever since the spring vacation expired Prof. Trueblood has been trying different methods of exciting interest in his class, in order to reduce the ranks of the absentees from classes who had spring fever. Early this month he hit upon the successful plan, and now the many visitors who attend his classes see the spectators of thrilling love scenes. Fifty times a day, says the Chicago Tribune, Prof. Trueblood is forced to kneel before some maiden and show his pupils the right way to declare their devotion to their sweethearts.

"Put more life into your plea," he says; "why, you don't show a trace of passion."

Then the awe-inspired student watches his professor show how he used to do it, and then gets down again to rave and entreat with the object to be his alone. Each budding orator takes his place before a blushing maid, and no matter how smoothly the pair may have progressed in private, the professor finds some fault with the public demonstration.

"Go, kneel on both knees—now hold her hand, it impresses her more—so," and the old professor again kneels and goes through it all to show.

First steps up the bashful student who simpers, blushes and stammers while he talks.

"Please, miss," he will say, "I love you dearly; will you marry me?" For it is ten to one that he has subjected himself so much lengthier in his predecessors that he has failed to observe even what Prof. Trueblood considers the proper form.

"WILL YOU MARRY ME?"

"O, my," the professor breaks out, "the little you know about this business is astonishing."

"Now, you wouldn't accept him if he couldn't do better than that, would you, Miss ——?"

"Look, now. I'm tired of your not paying closer attention. Get on your knees, gracefully; like this, now.

"Reach over and grasp her hand with both of yours—both, mind; then make your proposal, but make it as a man, not as if you didn't half mean it.

"Raise your voice.

"Speak with passion.

"If your subject doesn't suit I will give you another.

"I did think you ought to be taught to propose, but I didn't know they were all as ignorant as you seem to be."

Again the poor professor is obliged to get down on his sore knees and pour out another piece for the maiden's hand. Then, at the end of the hour, the class passes out, only to make room for more of the orators, who await the alarm.

Prof. Trueblood thinks he has to do more than his share of the work, but in spite of that he thinks he will be well repaid if he is able to smooth the road to success for many of his pupils.

"I don't think it is fair for him to make the boys do it all, and do all the work," said one student. "I wish he would make the girls try it once in awhile."

Prof. Trueblood addresses few remarks of correction to the girls in their parts. He says he really doesn't know the best way for them to do. They must learn by the experience he is giving them.

Paris Club of Silence.

A "Club of Silence" meets daily in Paris. The members are all deaf mutes, and so are the attendants. Without a sound various orders are given, and the servants move as silently as spectators. The president of this club could speak up to his twenty-seventh year. Then he had his tongue cut out. The Sioux Indians he was fightin' in Montana.

Electrocution of Cats.

Cats are scarce in Winchester, Mass. The superintendent of the state fowl hatchery, finding that the animals wrought great havoc among his poultry, fixed up wires, and at night ran a powerful electric current through them. During the past two years over 100 cats have been electrocuted.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Ores Rapidly Disappearing.

The ox team found on nearly every Minnesota farm twenty years ago is rapidly disappearing from the state. The horse long since proved too strong a competitor for the ox, and now the automobile and the motor cycle have arrived to make his extinction certain.

If the ox is forced to retreat from as many counties next year as during the year just closed, it will soon be a serious question with the State Auditor S. G. Iverson whether a separate column should be reserved in the personal property assessment abstracts for the exclusive benefit of the ox. A column has been so reserved since Minnesota became a state, but there are blank spaces opposite many counties. A new column just reserved this year for the automobiles is fairly well filled.

Goodhue county reported twenty-six oxen for taxation a year ago; there is none on the list this year. Grant county had twenty a year ago, but not a single ox can be found in the county to-day. The supply in Parshall has fallen off from twenty-three to five, and in Douglas from fifteen to eight. Beltrami county reported 125 in 1900 and forty-six in 1903.

The departure of the ox is coincident with the introduction of the piano. Every one of thirty counties examined has more pianos this year than a year ago, and in several counties the increase is remarkable.

Winter Wheat Experiments.

Prof. W. M. Hays, of the Minnesota experiment station, has issued a bulletin on winter wheat, in which he gives the results of experiments with several grades. Prof. Hays considers that the hardiest varieties can be grown successfully in southeastern Minnesota. Prof. Hays says in the bulletin:

"During the past several years the acreage sown to winter wheat in southeastern Minnesota has been gradually increasing. Several years during the Minnesota experiment station began the testing of varieties of winter wheat from different sources. During the years 1900 and 1901 either no crops were secured or very poor ones, owing to winter killing. During the years 1902 and 1903, however, following winters less severe on these wheats, a number of the best winter varieties have yielded twenty-bushels more than the best spring varieties on the university farm."

Teach Early.

That Minnesota teachers begin their labors at an early age is shown in a statement issued by J. W. Olsen, state superintendent of public instruction. At the Moorhead normal school, for example, the average age of the teachers in attendance as pupils is seventeen years, and the average age at which they began to teach was sixteen years. Of the 4,399 teachers that attended the summer training schools not one began to teach after the age of nineteen years.

The enrollment at the summer schools included 1,337 graduates from common schools, 1,727 from high schools, 332 from normal schools, and 111 from colleges. First grade certificates are held by only 460 out of 4,399 teachers; second grade by 1,701, and third grade by 438. The total cost of the summer schools was $30,346.12.

Dairy Growth.

Inspector H. E. Vroman of the state dairy and food commission reported that the creameries, cheese factories and skimming stations of Olmsted, Mower and Dodge counties are well managed, prosperous and in a healthy condition. The report is as follows:

Olmsted County—Fifteen creameries, 2 skimming stations, 1 cheese factory, 15,075 cows, 1,371 patrons, 958,000 pounds of milk daily, 9,000 pounds of butter and 275 pounds of cheese daily.

Mower County—Thirteen creameries, 2 cheese factories, 1 skimming station, 1,337 patrons, 155,200 pounds of milk daily, 8,875 pounds of butter.

Dodge County—Seven creameries, 13 cheese factories, 1,009 patrons, 144,460 pounds of milk daily, 5,000 pounds of butter and 5,000 pounds of cheese.

Stricken with Paralysis.

Patrick C. Treacy, a watchman for the Great Northern railway in St. Paul, was stricken with paralysis. Mr. Treacy was sitting on a bench in the yards waiting for a train. When he received a signal to join the switching crew he could not move from the bench. He tried to assist himself by placing his hands against a wall, but his limbs would not sustain him. Several men went to his assistance. He was placed on a street car and afterwards transferred to the police ambulance and taken to his home. His condition is thought to be serious.

Turning to Stone.

It is claimed that Andrew Buehler, a middle-aged man from the northern part of the state, is slowly petrifying at St. Joseph's hospital, St. Paul. A year ago, Buehler was a healthy man, recently he came to the hospital, suffering with what he supposed was paralysis. Physicians discovered that his intestines were turning to stone, and say there is no hope. He can eat only a little ice, and drink ice-water with an occasional drink of milk.

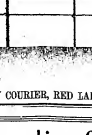
News in Brief.

Postoffice Inspector Smith arrived in St. Paul from Amiret, Minn., where he arrested Hugh Henton, a farce Indian, on a charge of robbing the postoffice at Amiret Aug. 26. The inspector recovered about $10 and stamps taken from the postoffice.

Prompt action on the part of Mrs. E. M. Goldsborough saved her 3-year-old daughter from drowning in Lake Minnetonka. The little one fell from the dock and, while her mother was not able to swim, she plunged in beyond her depth and rescued the child.

We Are Approaching a Grave Crisis

America is being swept aside by other nations because of the high cost of production here.



German laborers spend sixty-six hours a week in the factory; ours work but forty-four hours.

By JAMES J. HILL, President of the Great Northern Railway

THIS country is losing ground in a manufacturing way and will do very well even to hold her own markets. IT IS A WRONG IMPRESSION THAT WE ARE SWEEPING ALL COMPETITORS ASIDE. They are sweeping us aside, and why? Because of the high cost of production here. And the high cost of production is due to the growth of labor unionism and the continued strife going on among the unions as well as between the men and their employers.

WE CAN'T MEET THE PRICES OF GERMAN AND ENGLISH MANUFACTURERS AND PAY THE WAGES WHICH THE UNIONS COMPEL.

Germany is leading the world now and is making much swifter progress than this country or any other. England has dropped behind. Labor unions aided in killing her industrially. France is like a bee—always busy, always bustling. In France it is father and son, and so on. But Germany is the country that is forging ahead. Her laborers work very cheaply; they spend sixty-six hours in the factory each week where we spend but forty-four, and HER MECHANICS ARE SUPERIOR.

In addition she has facilities for transporting her products from and to every part of the globe at very cheap rates. Before we can get out and compete with her in the markets of the world we must lower the cost of producing manufactured articles and must elevate the quality of our products.

WE ARE COMING TO A GRAVE INDUSTRIAL REVERSE. IT IS HARD TO TELL JUST WHEN IT WILL COME, BUT IT IS APPROACHING. IT MAY COME NEXT PRESIDENTIAL YEAR, AND THE RESULT OF IT WILL DEPEND LARGELY UPON WHO IS NOMINATED FOR PRESIDENT.

The fact that money was hard last fall was a check on the wild speculation in manufacturing securities and, no doubt, postponed the reverse which is destined to overtake us.

There seems to be too much confidence in the ability of the country to walk right ahead of all other countries in manufacturing. The country can do it, but not without trouble and not without changing its present course. IT IS INDEED A GRAVE CRISIS WE ARE APPROACHING, although few seem to appreciate it.

A few years may see the closing of many factories and the throwing out of work of hundreds of thousands of men. We have been reaping the harvest, and the reverse is coming. How quickly we recover from it will depend largely on who is at the head of the country when the break comes.

THE HUMILITY OF ABILITY

By Justice ERNEST HALL of the New York Supreme Court

HUMILITY is, to other people, one of the most charming characteristics a man can possess, but it is not one that will aid him in his battle with the world. The man of humility is seldom a leader—his very nature makes it impossible for him to take the initiative. Yet the greatest men in the world's history, the most learned and those who have done most for their fellow men were modest in demeanor, simple in habits and humble in spirit.

At first glance this statement may appear paradoxical, but it is not. STUDENTS BECOME MORE AND MORE HUMBLE AS THEY ACQUIRE WISDOM, for they become more and more alive to their own limitations and more and more sensible to the insignificance of their knowledge as compared with the wealth of information there is in the world and the versatility of other men.

TO BE TRULY GREAT AND YET BE HUMBLE REQUIRES QUALITIES OF MIND WHICH FEW MEN POSSESS.

Those who have won fame have done so because they struggled toward a definite end, and it is but natural to take pride in the achievement when the battle has been fought and the victory won.

Abraham Lincoln was one of the greatest men that ever presided over the destinies of a great nation, but no other ruler wore his honors with greater humility.

Tolstoi has given his life to the service of the downtrodden of his race and country, but he could never have conceived the keen interest in his poor were not he the very personification of humility.

Some men remain humble because they realize how very little is their own greatness, and others because they are never able to overcome the retiring nature which was theirs by birth.

TO BE "PROUD AS LUCIFER" IS A COMMON FAILING; TO BE "MEEK AS MOSES" IS A RARE VIRTUE.

ALL PAGAN RELIGIONS ARE NOT HUMBUGS

By Dr. LYMAN ABBOTT of Brooklyn

ALL PAGAN RELIGIONS ARE NOT ENTIRELY HUMBUGS; THEY ARE NOT THE RESULT OF SCHEMING BY CRAFTY PRIESTS SEEKING TO OPPRESS THE PEOPLE, BUT THEY ARE THE ASPIRATIONS OF MEN AFTER GOD.

But the Christian religion is the only one that pretends to help men recover from the effect of sin, and it is this spirit of helpfulness that distinguishes and unifies Christianity. THOUGH WE DIFFER FROM ONE ANOTHER, AT THE BOTTOM OF ALL SECTS IS FAITH IN GOD AS A HELPFUL GOD.

The Genuine vs. Counterfeits.

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit, but the truth of this statement is never more forcibly realized or more thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve with the many counterfeits and worthless substances that are on the market. W. S. Ledbetter, of Shreveport, La., says: "Having used numerous other remedies without benefit, one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me." For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy is equaled to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by W. A. Schreiner.

STATE SENATOR AL FERRIS, of Brainerd, is dead, not surviving an operation for appendicitus last Saturday. He was only thirty-eight years of age, but had made a fine record as a banker. He was quite a prominent figure in state politics.

OUR mode of celebrating independence day is certainly disastrous to life and limb. The American Medical Journal finds by gathering statistics that nearly 4000 people were injured that day, that 60 were killed and that 406 died from tetanus following their injuries. Nearly a hundred persons lost their eye sight and many more either an arm or leg. It is no wonder that our great cities are endeavoring to put a stop to the use of the cannon cracker and similar modes of life extinction.

JUDGE CHARLES E. FLANDRAU, one of the best known and most prominent pioneer citizens of Minnesota, died yesterday morning, at his home in St. Paul, after an illness of several months. Judge Flandrau was born in New York in 1828 and came to Minnesota in 1853. He was a member of the state constitutional convention, after justice of the supreme court, and a candidate for governor on the democratic ticket. He led the relief party that saved the citizens of New Ulm from massacre by hostile Sioux when the town was attacked in 1862.

UNTIL about fifteen years ago life insurance companies uniformly refused to insure the lives of women on any terms. Until five years ago such companies as did write policies on female lives discriminated against them to the extent of $5 on the thousand. Only a very few companies, even now, and these quite recently, insure women on the same terms as men. And yet the life tables of seventy-five years show the average death rates of all males to be 21.8 per thousand, and of all females 19.7 per thousand. Female lives are, therefore, 10.6 per cent. better risks than male lives.

Consumption

The only kind of consumption to fear is "neglected consumption."

People are learning that consumption is a curable disease. It is neglected consumption that is so often incurable.

At the faintest suspicion of consumption get a bottle of Scott's Emulsion and begin regular doses.

The use of Scott's Emulsion at once, lays, in thousands of cases, turned the balance in favor of health.

Neglected consumption does not exist where Scott's Emulsion is.

Prompt use of Scott's Emulsion checks the disease while it can be checked.

Tom L. Johnson, the Democratic nominee for governor, is a popular idol, and will attempt to supplant Mark Hanna as the big man of the state. Hanna has already been effectually routed in his home town of Cleveland, and the Johnson forces think the same tactics used there will be successful in defeating Hanna in the state. Johnson will have the active support of Mayor Jones and William J. Bryan, and has plenty of money to put into the campaign. If he is successful, there is little doubt but that he will be the Democratic nominee for president next year.

THE county commissioners of Hennepin county have in contemplation a change of name for their county poor farm, says the Mapleton Enterprise. It has been suggested that the name be changed to county home and it is certainly a commendable suggestion. All people have more or less pride and when in their adversity they are compelled to take a home with the county it is but human that their burden be made as light as possible. "Over the hill to the poor house" contains many heart aches and if they can be lessened by calling it the county home, hasten the day of the change.

EXCHANGE ECHOES.

St. Paul News: The people who pray for things often forget to work for them.

Breckenridge Telegram: And the oyster again cast his shadow into the church festiva consomme.

St. Paul Dispatch: It's no particular honor to a man to be a kicker. Even an ordinary mule can beat him at that.

Heron Lake News: If the Republican party hasn't anything to go into the next campaign on but "anti-merger" it had better make an assignment.

Northfield News: Do not hint at things in a political game. Tell the truth if its true, and tell it when the time is ripe. A man who cannot give or take a sturdy blow had better stay out of the political game altogether.

Wiadum Reporter: If some of the civilized powers would go and destroy the present Turkish government what would they have on their hands? A population incapable of self government and hardly capable of being governed. Turkish civilization is a disgrace to the earth, but its goveroment is better than its people.

Pelican Rapids Press: When annual elections were abolished in Minnesota and biennial elections instituted the people thought they would have one year of quite and repose from political turmoil and rant. But the politicians won't have it so. No sooner are the polls closed at one election than they begin to scheme for the next. There would be some grim satisfaction in turning down every man who plans for election during the off year.

Princeton Union: Labor troubles have reached such a critical stage and condition in Chicago that many of the biz publishing houses and large manufacturing concerns are thinking seriously of moving to other points where there will be less trouble from disputes with union labor. When matters reach a stage of this character, and when a city stands to lose much of its manufacturing wealth because labor and capital cannot agree, there is certainly occasion for something besides comment.

Fergus Globe: Ray W. Jones the Republican lieutenant governor of Minnesota, gave a banquet to the members of the state senate and got the senators to sign a petition to the secretary of the interior asking that they be given suct time as they like to cut the timber on the government land whenever they please. The Senators, being the property of Ray Jones, signed the petition as their master ordered. The affair stirred up the press of the state but it is safe to say that Ray W. Jones will have the united support of the Republican press for re-election next year.

Fullerton Has Something to Say.

Roseau Region: The Region is in receipt of the following characteristic letter from Sam F. Fullerton, the wide-awake executive agent of the game and fish commission. Mr. Fullerton has called upon Mr. Kratka for a show-down and the end of the incident seems yet afar off:

St. Paul, Aug. 31, 1903.—C. H. Medicraft, Editor Roseau Region, Roseau, Mian.

Sir: In your issue of Aug. 28th you have an article headed "That Man Kratka!" If I did such a thing as you say, and issued a man a permit to violate the law I ought not to hold this position a minute. In the first place, any permit that I would issue would not be worth the paper it was written on. I don't make the law, simply enforce it as I find it. I am very much surprised that Mr. Kratka, whom I have known for many years, should do a thing of this kind. I am very sorry that he was not put on the stand and made to swear to it, because if he had I assure you and the readers of your valuable paper that I would have gone after him for criminal libel. The only permit issued from the office of the kind you mention is one issued for scientific purposes. A great many people have these; they are good for one year and each applicant has to give a bond and pay $2, in addition to being vouched for by two well known scientific men of the state. We have no record of Mr. Kratka ever getting a permit of this kind. If it was issued it was only good for one year and must be renewed after that. I want to brand the statement made by Mr. Kratka as false in every particular. Yours very truly, —Sam F. Fullerton.

Hoover's Weekly: Radium, discovered in 1898, was valued at $5,000,000 a pound. Its estimated value has since been reduced to $3,721,350. 00 a pound, which is a very material reduction, but the price is still high. We read with interest that a Buffalo man has invented a lock wood, excepts to engage in the manufacture, or extraction, of this interesting substance and hopes to lower the price still further. His hopes, as recorded in the papers, are based on the possession of certain deposits of carnotite in Utah, from which he has been able to extract radium, and which he believes can be induced to give its radium up somewhat easier than the pitchblende from which the radium so far obtained has been extracted. We hope he will succeed. Radium is the most interesting substance out, and, dear though it is, a very little of it goes a great ways, and lasts apparently forever. We want more of it, for, unlike liquid air, it seems really to be of use for something besides amusement and speculation.

A girl's "complexion" may be stamped on her lover's heart, but most of the "complexion" comes off unless put the re by Rocky Mountain Tea. "Beauty's a bad thing." 35 cents. A. L. Reichert.

NOTES IN MINOR CHORD.

Go to the Merchants State Bank for farm loans.

John S. Grady is expected home today from a trip to Elktou, S. D., where he has been looking after the threshing of the crop on his farm.

S. E. Lantz and Fred Bapp, of Bloomington, Ill., were brought to town by Geo. A. Heyl this week, and are being shown over the country by the Gonigam agency. It is quite likely that each of them will invest in a farm.

The young men of today is characterized by smart, well-fitting clothes. We have those clever effects the young man desires. Perhapsa thin, rich blue serge or a swell light mixture—they are all here.—Berthon & Armstrong.

Otto, the thirteen-year-old son of Christian Geddes, living east of town, was thrown from a horse Saturday evening, and received such serious scalp wounds that thirteen stitches were necessary. Dr. Lonsleux is in attendance on the case.

A. L. LaFreniere, publisher of the Northmen Record, was here the fore part of the week to visit the home folks. Mr. LaFreniere reports that his town is growing rapidly since the railroad reached there, and that business is good in all lines.

Carl Farstad, of Thief River Falls, is now working in the clothing and shoe department of LaBissonier's store. He has had long experience in that line of work, having been employed for several years in one of the leading stores of Fergus Falls.

Miss Daisy Vietz, of Henning, has been engaged by the school board to fill the vacancy as primary teacher occasioned by the resignation of Julia Sharp. Miss Vietz is a graduate of the Moorhead normal and arrived Monday to engage upon her work.

On account of the county fair at Grand Forks, N. D., the Northern Pacific will sell excursion tickets from September 23 to 26, inclusive, at a fare and a third for the round trip. The return limit on the Red Lake Falls branch will be September 28.

THE COURIER failed to note the arrival of that new girl baby at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan J. Doran last week. We trust the little miss will pardon the delinquency and accept our congratulations upon being connected with such an estimable family.

Work on the foundation of the new building for the Bank of Red Lake Falls was commenced this week, and the building will be rushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

Paul Berthon, H. N. Johnson, W. A. McIntyre and Prof. Onstad drove across the country to Crookston Sunday, returning the same day. Mr. Berthon went over to meet a traveling man for a clothing house and place orders for additional winter goods.

Dr. Otto Kankel, of Tower, Minn., is visiting at the home of Mrs. B. Zaiser this week. Dr. Kankel was a resident of Red Lake Falls years ago, and makes an occasional visit here to see his old friends. He will also go to Terreboane and Fertile for a visit.

John B. Connor will leave Saturday for Wahpeton, N. D., where he has been offered a position as agent for the St. Anthony & Dakota Elevator company. John is one of the best fellows we are acquainted with and we are sorry that he is to leave Red Lake county.

I. C. Pickard, of Park Rapids, is the new principal of the Terreboane schools. He arrived last Saturday to engage upon his work, and has the appearance of being an exceptionally bright and capable young man. THE COURIER is indebted for a pleasant call.

The new mill at Crookston commenced to grind flour yesterday. Next to the plant of the Red Lake Falls Milling company. This is probably the largest and most complete mill in this part of the state, and the Crookston people may well be proud of it.

Master Charles A. Boughton gave a party to about thirty-five of his boy and girl friends yesterday afternoon, the occasion being his seventh birthday. A tin horn was given to each guest as a memento of the party. An elegant lunch was served, and the little folks had a most delightful time.

Crookston College begins its alotted school year August 31th. You can select your own studies from the following courses, viz. preparatory, teachers, commercial, shorthand and typewriting, music and penmanship. Send for free catalog. Address, J. C. Sathre, Crookston, Minn. Jan. 1.

F. J. Parker, the Healy-Watson company's agent at Marshall, came up yesterday in company with C. F. Case, editor of the Marshall Reporter, and F. A. Kellogg, a leading farmer of Lyon county. Mr. Parker says that a good many actual settlers from that locality will come up during the fall.

Teddy Richard tells us that he intends to quit farming this fall and will have an auction sale of his stock and farm machinery at his place on section 34, Black River township, on Monday, November 2. This will be an exceptional opportunity for our farmers to get bargains. Bills will be printed later.

The school teachers arrived in the city Saturday, and on Monday morning took up their year's work. There is a substantial increase in the enrollment this year, and as it is the general feeling that a capable corps of instructors has been secured, there is every promise of the school doing good work.

The Knights of Pythias will give a reception to the members of the lodge and their ladies on Friday evening, April 18. The function will be given in honor of Henry N. Johnson, who is soon to leave the city to take his new work as traveling representative of the Red Lake Falls Milling company.

Major and Mrs. W. W. Cooley left yesterday for Thief River Falls, where the Major expects to interest the people of that city in his book publications for a few days. The Red Lake Falls people have enjoyed the stay of the genial Major, and hope that he will have many future occasions to visit our city.

Attorney McIntyre has brought action in district court against Messrs K. J. and J. J. Weeks, of Thief River Falls, on behalf of a Chicago wholesale grocery house to enforce payment of a $400 note given by the Weeks brothers while in business at Grand Meadow, Minn.

S. J. Swanson has resigned as manager of the Bank of Wylie in order to give all of his time and attention to the grain business. The bank at that place will be looked after for the present by Chas. N. Bourdon, who expects to drive from Red Lake Falls each day during the fall.

Peter O'Brien, of Chicago, and Mrs. Martin O'Brien, of Crookston, were guests at the home of W. P. O'Brien from Monday noon until Tuesday evening. Mr. O'Brien is a brother of W. P., and is a cigar manufacturer at Chicago. He came to Minnesota about ten days ago for a visit with his brothers.

Mike McNamara, of Souris, N. D., is visiting at the home of Chas. N. Bourdon for a few days. Mr. McNamara is a railroad contractor, and is now engaged on the construction work of a new line of the Great Northern in North Dakota. He was at one time employed by Mr. Bourdon in railroad work.

In a following item, worthy of the consideration of all parents, is going the rounds of the press: "Did you ever notice that the boy who grows up on the streets generally, is quite school without m education and has to work where he has always played—on the street? How many of these kind of boys are in every town?"

Rev. Herbert W. Knox, pastor of the Vine Presbyterian church of St. Paul, has accepted a call to the Presbyterian charge at Thief River Falls, and will preach his initial sermon at that place next Sunday. Rev. Knox is regarded as an exceptionally able man, and the Thief River people are evidently in luck in securing him.

Services of the Evangelical Methodists will be held Sunday as usual at the K. of P. hall. The subject for the morning sermon will be "Moses and the Burning Bush: a picture of a true student and the study." Evening service will be held at 8 o'clock, and the subject will be "The Parable of the Sower." Everybody is invited.

The Comera office has this week turned out a fifty-page paper-book for City Attorney Boughton in the case of Adam Schmitz vs. Anna W. Smith and James Bristol, involving the validity of the issue of bonds by the village of Red Lake Falls in aid of the Northern Pacific railroad. The case will be determined by the supreme court at the October term.

During the past week the Healy-Watson agency has sold the northeast quarter of section 17, Lake Pleasant township, to Bert Blakeslee, of Marshall, and the northeast quarter of 25, same township, to H. O. Ellies, of New York. This company has made three other sales of late, but as settlement has not yet been made they are not released for publication.

I. D. Converse has commenced suit in the Red Lake county district court to enforce the payment of $176 from Chas. Hanson, late clerk of courts of the defunct county of Columbia. Mr. Converse was engaged by Hanson to transcribe the judgment docket from the Polk county records and has received no pay for the same. Mr. Converse is represented by Attorney Boughton.

Another graft is being worked on the farmers over different parts of the state. It is by a man who has non-freezing stock tanks for sale. When a farmer buys one he is given the exclusive agency for several townships for their sale without extra charge. The simple request is made however that he sign three papers. The farmer signs and the papers in a few days turn into notes.

The Young Peoples' Society of Christian Endeavor is now holding regular meetings every Wednesday evening at the Presbyterian church. The officers of the society are as follows: Miss Vina Carver, president; Miss Gertrude Hanneman, vice president; Miss Effie Hamry, secretary; Miss Bessie Hunt, treasurer. All the young people are invited to attend the meetings and join the society.

Cosgrove's orchestra is billed at the metropolitan opera house for Monday evening, September 21, under the auspices of the Red Lake band. It is one of the best musical organizations on the road, and the people of the city may be assured in advance of a fine entertainment. After the concert the orchestra will furnish music for a dancing party, to which a general invitation is extended.

The Crookston Times says that Mrs. Francis Bergstrom Saturday received the sad intelligence of the death of her father, Hon. J. W. Barnard, which occurred Saturday morning at his home in Boston. Mr. Barnard is a wealthy and influential resident of Boston, and has been promiuent in business circles in the east for a great many years. Mrs. Bergstrom will leave for Boston tomorrow morning.

E. A. Nelson, state librarian, was in Red Lake Falls several days of this week. Mr. Nelson is trying to dispose of several hundred Red Lake county maps which he still has on hand. This map was compiled about a year ago by Mr. Nelson, and shows the name of the owner of every farmer, and the location of all the school houses, churches and creameries. It is a valuable map, and there ought to be no trouble in disposing of them.

James Hince, who has been buying grain for the Thorpe Elevator company at Perrault station for several years, isucceeded Thomas A. Crompe as agent for the Red Lake Falls Milling company as the elevator in this city yesterday. Mr. Hince is an experienced grain man and is acquainted with all the farmers in this part of the county. Mr. Crompe will commence on his new work as agent for the Robertson Lumber company next week.

Geo. A. Heyl, of Washington, Ill., was here the latter part of the week with a party of landseekers. Mr. Heyl had been at the state fair most of the week with an exhibit of Shetland ponies and Poland China hogs. He had twenty-four ponies on exhibition, and secured seven out of the nine blue ribbons. He also secured six second and one third prize. As there were 177 ponies exhibited it will be seen that Mr. Heyl got about all the prizes that were worth having.

Mrs. Kate Harris, of Blue Earth county, has brought suit in the district court against Charles Hallas, of Poplar River, to enforce payment of a $400 note. Mrs. Harris and Mr. Hallas are brother and sister, and the note was given two years ago by Mr. Hallas to his mother. Mr. Hallas claims the note and mortgage were never assigned by his mother, and that the plaintiffs have no claim to the proceeds of the note. County Attorney Grady will appear for Mr. Hallas and Chas. E. Boughton for Mrs. Harris.

Mrs. R. H. Duntley arrived from St. Hilaire Saturday, and has been busy getting the stock of confectionery, cigars, stationery, etc., displayed in the building formerly occupied by J. M. Allard. The store is now open, and a share of the public patronage is solicited. Mr. Duntley expects to come down after the St. Hilaire mill closes and will assist in the management of the store. The Duntleys have the reputation of being enterprising and up-to-date confectionery people, and no doubt will do well here.

One of the largest real estate deals of the year was made last week by the Gonigam agency in the sale of the John B. Connor farm, consisting of 347 acres, in Terreboane township. The purchasers are Fred Rankin and G. G. Gerriests, of Washington, Ill., and the consideration was $30 per acre. The buyers are practical farmers, and will move on the place either this fall or next spring. Quite an influx of German farmers from Illinois seems likely during the next year, and as they are invariably first-class agriculturists and good people, we are all glad to have them come.

We have just received the annual catalog of the Crookston College for the year 1903-4. It is a very neat and handsome pamphlet showing what success a private school can have when it meets the demand of the people. This college has made a great reputation for itself in the past, and the management claims their facilities have been improved and they are in better shape than ever to handle their growing business. With an institution of this kind so near the home, there is no occasion for our citizens to send their children to larger cities. We take great pleasure in recommending this college to our readers.

A suit has been instituted in the United States court at Fergus Falls to decide whether Indian children are to have allotments in the future. The suit is brought in the name of Ora Cecelia Robtuille, a Chippewa child two years of age, and the defendant is the United States government. The complaint relates that the child is the daughter of Emily Robtuille, a member of the Chippewa tribe, and Robtuille, her husband, a man of mixed blood, and that application for an allotment of land was made in regular form and was returned by the secretary of the interior with a notation to the effect that children of annuitants born after July 21, 1900, shall receive no allotments. The plaintiff asks that the secretary be overruled and the allotment made.

An exchange knew what it was about when it published the following: The trade territory of a town is not at all dependent upon the distance to neighboring trading points. The territory depends upon the enterprise of the merchants and the residents of the town. If a town does not reach out after the trade it will only come as fast as it has to; and the town will only grow as it is forced to. But if the merchants go after the business in the surrounding country, advertising in every way and especially in their home newspapers, and make good every word in their advertising, trade will come from an ever increasing radius and the town will gain a reputation for being awake and it will forge to the front. It is the men living within a certain number of miles from it that makes the town good, or good for nothing.

1. That it is the best washer made, because it runs easier and washes faster and better and is easier on the clothing.

2. Because it whirls, rubs, slaps, squeezes and sucks the dirt out of the clothing, by reason of the reflex motion of the water.

3. It will wash (and we can prove it) as good with cold water as any other machine will with hot water, running the same length of time. We do not expect any other, even on a contest to this statement.

4. Or we will do in one minute with hot water, what it usually takes other machines ten or fifteen minutes to do. So you see you save nine-tenths of the time and labor, by using the Gee Whiz Washer.

5. The Gee Whiz Machine is a combined washer and clothes dauber. When dusting clothing machine must be dry. Adjust sliding wheel just tight enough to whirl the clothing, and turn fast each way a little while. Leave lid up while dusting.

THE SULTAN IS EAGER FOR WAR

Said to Have Made Hostile Demonstration Against Bulgaria.

TROOPS CROSS THE FRONTIER

Bulgaria Said to Have Peaceful Intentions, But Will Accept the Challenge of War If Attacked.

Berlin, Sept. 7.—War between Turkey and Bulgaria, it is feared, is only a question of days. Turkey has an army of 400,000 soldiers in the field and it is rumored that Turkish troops already have crossed the Bulgarian frontier. Edhem pasha has been appointed commander in chief of all the Turkish forces. The Turkish government has notified the powers that the porte cannot guarantee the safety of the legations at Constantinople. The war spirit is running high, all the army officers demanding an immediate declaration of war against Bulgaria.

Russo-Bulgarian Alliance.

The most sensational news of the day is the declaration made in Sofia that a treaty of alliance exists between Russia and Bulgaria, under the terms of which Russia will cooperate with Bulgaria in the event of war with Turkey. It is believed that Austria and Russia have agreed upon plans for a joint military occupation of Macedonia.

Bulgaria's Intentions Peaceful.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Sept. 7.—According to reliable reports from Varna, at the recent council of ministers presided over by Prince Ferdinand at the palace of Euxinograd, it was resolved that Bulgaria should continue to maintain an attitude of the strictest neutrality in the Macedonian question and further that the most stringent measures should be adopted to prevent anything like a cause a disturbance in Bulgaria's relations with Turkey. The war minister is reported to have spoken strongly in the council against any thought of Bulgaria declaring war on Turkey, first on account of the enormous expenditure that such a war would involve, and secondly, because the great powers would never permit Bulgaria to reap the advantage if she were victorious. Should Turkey attack Bulgaria, declared the minister, the present army could hold the Turks in check for the first few days, while the entire Bulgarian army could be mobilized within three to 12 days. Bulgaria would never declare war, he added, but if war was declared against her, she would accept the challenge fearlessly. As an evidence of Bulgaria's peaceful intentions the council decided that upon the first symptoms of disorder on the frontier martial law would be proclaimed at Burgas, Kostendil, Philippopolis and Sofia. The ministers expressed the opinion that the powers would soon reach the conviction that the Macedonian question could not be decided without their intervention.

Says War Is in Sight.

Berlin, Sept. 7.—A dispatch to the Tageblatt from Constantinople dated Saturday, says: "War with Bulgaria is in sight. The council of war has recommended sending an immediate ultimatum to Bulgaria, but the sultan has decided to wait. It is rumored that Turkish troops have already crossed the Bulgarian frontier, without a declaration of war.

"The members of the council of war were up all Friday night at the Yildiz Kiosk and designated Edhem Pasha as commander in chief.

"The Turkish press is printing inflammatory articles against Bulgaria."

Legations Not Safe.

The Turkish government, according to information received from the foreign office, has notified the powers that the porte cannot guarantee the safety of the legations at Constantinople. This extraordinary statement was communicated, without explanation or qualifying details, in response to an inquiry as to whether German marines were among those United States Minister Leishman reported as having been landed at Constantinople.

It is inferred, here, however, that the conditions at the Turkish capital are not so bad as the sultan's notification would imply, but that the legations have been warned to look out for their own safety, the porte disclaiming in advance responsibility for any disorderly act.

The foreign office officials added that the German embassy at Constantinople had not reported whether German marines had been landed nor whether marines of any other power had been landed. Complete official reserve is maintained on this point.

At a Critical Stage.

The German government, for the first time, regards Turko-Balkan affairs as having entered on an acute phase. The porte's inability to take energetic hold of the Macedonian insurrection is the worst feature of the situation.

The apparent weakness of the Turkish government is due largely to its long deference toward the powers and to the division in the councils within the palace, which is regarded here as justifying the view that Turkey is incapable of preserving order in her European provinces unless she is allowed an absolutely free hand to deal with the insurgents as she pleases.

Pressure is being brought to bear on Russia and Austria on this point, as a continuance of the crisis, it is asserted, can only result in teh drifting of the powers and porte alike toward fresh dangers.

Macedonians to Force War.

The Cologne Gazette publishes the report of an interview with one of the Macedonian leaders, who is quoted as saying that the Macedonian committee controls an enormous quantity of dynamite, many guns and much ammunition, and a large sum of money, and is firmly resolved that, unless its efforts result in a war between Bulgaria and Turkey, or in European intervention, to destroy the Macedonian cities with dynamite, burn the villages, and contaminate the fountains and water systems throughout the country. The committee, this leader says, firmly expects war, as otherwise anarchy might be carried into Bulgaria, and, placed face to face with such an alternative, Bulgaria would prefer war, and upon this result Macedonian hopes also are based.

The Pope Acts.

Rome, Sept. 7.—Pius X. has represented to the Austrian emperor the advisability, especially on the part of the Catholic powers, of coming to an agreement as to the best way to stop the massacres in Macedonia. Several cardinals have expressed the opinion that the pontiff should publicly denounce the situation in Macedonia as the civilized world without distinction of religion, calling upon all the powers to take common action on humanitarian grounds.

Awaits Developments.

Constantinople, Sept. 7.— United States Minister Leishman is not taking any steps regarding the attempt upon Vice Consul Mageleson at Bitrut, but is quietly awaiting developments on the part of the porte.

SEEKS EXPLANATION.

Secretary Hay Wants to Know Why Colombia Interfered with State Dispatches.

Washington, Sept. 7.—Communication between the state department and Minister Beaupre has been interfered with by the Colombian government, and Secretary Hay has formally requested an explanation from Senor Herran, the Colombian minister, of the action of his government. The department of state has proof that official dispatches of the United States have been suppressed, Secretary Hay's note asking an explanation was pointed. It was suggested that regrettable consequences to both countries would ensue if the suppression of dispatches was persisted in.

Proof of the duplicity of Colombia or its agents in the suppression of official communications between the state department and Minister Beaupre has been obtained by the department through a cablegram from Bogota corresponding with the Colombian government begins. There are tears of the dispatches was lost. Inquiry on the part of the company in the form of a tracer brought no satisfaction. For some unexplained reason Dr. Herran is avoiding the state department.

ON A NOVEL MISSION.

Delegation of Salvationists Will Undertake Reformation of Kentucky Feudists.

Pittsburg, Sept. 7.—A deputation of Pittsburg Salvationists, under the leadership of Staff Captain White, will leave Wednesday for the feud district of Kentucky and undertake the work of reforming the feudists. The objective point will be Breathitt county. The party will be made up, outside of a few of the officers in the work in this city of members of the local army who volunteer to give their time to the work, and it is likely by the time the party is ready to start next week there will be quite a formidable army of local workers in the party. The reception which the members of the army will receive in the counties to be invaded is a matter of grave doubt to many interested in army work, but those who are going seem to have no fear of the manner in which they will be treated.

Mills Neighbor in Self-Defense.

Grand Junction, Col., Sept. 7.—Wm. Ham Lafare, a cattleman whose range is on Roan creek, 30 miles south of this city, rode into town Friday night and reported the shooting in a fight he had shot and killed E. T. Massey, a neighbor. Lafare said that Massey took three shots at him, but every child in front of him to protect himself. Finally Lafare got a shot in which he could aim so, killing Massey. He claims that the killing was in self-defense.

Reported His Suffering.

Carson, Nev., Sept. 7.—At Sburs, a hamlet on the line of the Carson & Colorado railroad, an aged Indian named George Sam, unable to witness the sufferings of his young son, who was sick, killed the lad with a shotgun, and then, placing the muzzle of the gun at his own head, discharged the remaining barrel.

Kentucky Campaign Opened.

Winchester, Ky., Sept. 7.—A crowd estimated from 7,000 to 10,000 was present at the opening of the democratic state campaign here Saturday. Speeches were made by Gov. Beckham, Senators McCreary and Blackburn and Congressman Ollie James.

Lodge Visits Loubet.

Paris, Sept. 7.—President Loubet on Sunday gave an audience to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

SECRETARY HAY IS THREATENED

A Photographer Sends Him an Intemperate Letter.

HE IS PLACED UNDER ARREST

Annoyed Because Official Would Not Demand Release of His Claim from the German Government.

New York, Sept. 7. — Francis M. Beaupe, 46 years old, a photographer, was committed to Bellevue hospital Saturday to be examined as to his sanity. Beaupe had been arrested for writing a letter to Secretary of State John Hay, in which he threatened the secretary's life because he could not collect a claim of $41,000 was not paid. Detective Muller, of the Washington police force, who made the arrest, explained that Beaupe had been in the photographic business at Hamburg, Germany, was compelled to leave the country, selling out his business. Beaupe claimed at a great sacrifice. This was the origin of his grievance, and his demand was that Secretary Hay secure his reimbursement from the German government. Muller said that Beaupe had written letters on the subject to the various presidents and secretaries of state since the administration of Harrison, none, however, threatening in tone until this letter to Secretary Hay, in which he declared that if Mr. Hay did not attend to his claim he (Beaupe) would attend to Mr. Hay.

Beaupe, who is respectable in dress and manner, expressed satisfaction when arrested, declaring that publicity would aid him in getting the money. When asked why he wrote the letter, Beaupe replied: "I want my money. It is what I am entitled to and I mean to get it."

Magistrate Corbell declared that he did not believe the man was in his right mind and committed him to Bellevue for examination.

Duke of Beaupe.

The Washington police state that the amount demanded by Beaupe from the authorities of Hamburg, Germany, was 10,000 marks. This sum, he says, was invested in 1899 in a photograph gallery in that city and he claims to have lost it when he was expelled because he refused to perform military duty on the ground that he was an American. He was given three days to leave Germany, but through Secretary of State Blaine had the time extended to three months.

The alleged threat in his recent letter to Secretary Hay was in the statement that he had written eight letters to the government and the present one would be his last. He also would take up the matter then himself and whatever he did would be in "self defense."

The letter, like its predecessors, was long and rambling.

Declared Insane.

New York, Sept. 7.—Francis W. Beaupe, who was arrested yesterday letter to Secretary of State Hay, and who for years has given trouble to officials at Washington with letters, was on Sunday declared insane by Dr. Gregory, in the psychopathic ward at Bellevue hospital. He will be committed to an institution for the insane for permanent care. Dr. Gregory said that Beaupe's mania is that he is being persecuted.

DEFY THE LAW.

Authorcite Officials Refuse to Give Information to the Census Bureau.

Washington, Sept. 7.—Because President Baer and the other officials of the authracite coal mining companies and the associated railroads have defied the government officials in refusing to give information concerning their operations, which is required by the census law, they are in danger of being prosecuted. This information, which was formerly furnished by the coal men nine months ago by special agents employed by the census department, is regarded as being of the greatest importance. All efforts to procure the facts and figures have been unsuccessful, and the census officials are seriously considering the commencing of a suit. When President Roosevelt returns to Washington the question will be submitted to him, and it is believed he will order prompt proceedings to be taken to fine of $10,000 and imprisonment for one year.

Two Drowned.

New York, Sept. 7.—Four young men, who had been spending their vacations at the W. C. A. summer camp on the west shore of the Hudson, opposite Newburg, were caught in the turbulent waters of the Hudson opposite the camp near the Marlboro shore in a small boat, and two of them were drowned as a result of the capsizing of the boat.

Murder in Kentucky.

Middlesboro, Ky., Sept. 7.—Marshal Gray shot and killed Lee Smith at Nicholson's mines late Saturday night. Smith was from Bell county and known as a desperado. He had picked a quarrel with Gray and later fatally stabbed Deputy Sheriff James Craine in one of Looney's rescue and shot Smith. Gray then fled to the mountains.

Three Men Killed.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 7.—Mike Jessy, John Cranz and Dan Sabin, three laborers, were crushed to death by the caving in of a 16-foot bank at the excavation for the site of a new hotel on Sixth and San Joaquin streets. The men were buried alive under tons of earth.

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard. MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived close to those who have made and are making the history of our times.

In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of action with the droll fancies of the humorist.

We see the speaker, we hear the laughter, we surrender to the spell of the words; we can feel the tense silence as the speaker mounts in his sublimest flights, then hear the outburst of applause as the excited audience catches the speaker at his climax.

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7¼ x 10¼ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravure portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum, several volumes containing frontispieces in multi-color.

50 Years of Success
This is our record. From a small beginning we have grown until our factories now cover many acres. Ours of our machines sold forty to fifty years ago are still giving their users faithful service. Can anything be more convincing of their merits and durability? Did you ever hear of any other machine with such a record?
Note a few of the many superior points of the
Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine No. 9
The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, unmechanical and trouble-some shuttle.
The Frictionless ball bearings and perfect mechanical construction enable it to be operated with one-third less exertion than is required by ordinary machines. It sews three yards of goods while a shuttle machine sews two.
It makes the most elastic and most perfect stitch whether sewing light or heavy goods.
With our superior attachments the greatest variety of work is possible.
Do not make the mistake of buying a sewing machine until you have given the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 a trial.

BUILDING MAY BE ABANDONED

A Cessation of Operations Threatened During 1904.

CAPITALISTS GIVE UP PLANS

Work to Cost $150,000,000 Already Recalled—Railway Improvements Postponed—Unrest in Labor Conditions the Cause.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 7.—Railroad corporations and large investors in building operations have matured plans for the withdrawal of $100,000,000 worth of improvements which it was intended to complete in 1904 because of conditions in the labor world. This startling statement is made upon good authority, and it is inferred that even more capital, which was intended for such work, will be withdrawn, creating a cessation of operations which will make the year memorable to the trades directly interested.

The statement of one of the largest contracting concerns in the country connected with railroad construction work is the basis for the assertion that at least $180,000,000 worth of building operations proposed for 1904 have actually been recalled and plans have been taken from architects and engineers.

New Work Abandoned.

It is also said, by the same authority, so far as known there will be nothing in the shape of new work undertaken the coming year, and when the present contracts are completed a period of waiting will ensue. It will be a waiting for the general labor situation to settle down, and the end of the factional wars and strikes that have almost destroyed confidence in building.

The same information is that the Pennsylvania railroad, which now has numerous improvements under way and contemplated at least as much more, or $80,000,000 during 1904, has decided to withdraw all of these plans and do nothing further with them until there is a more placid condition of the labor market.

Big Sums Withdrawn.

Information given out shows that in New York state alone last year $80,000,000 of new building for 1904 involved in the general plan of withdrawal. In Chicago, where the labor troubles have been continuous for months, it is said that more than $70,000,000 of new work has been abandoned.

In this city Henry Phipps has declared that he would not turn another stone in the city except where operations have already been started. The delay in the extensive improvements contemplated by H. C. Frick has been given out to be due entirely to the unreliable state of the labor field, and a similar condition is said to exist with the H. W. Oliver improvements not already begun.

Trolley Car Wrecked.

Wilkesbarre, Sept. 7.—A trolley car on the Wilkesbarre & Harvey's Lake railroad returning from the lake Sunday afternoon was wrecked in a mountain gorge, five miles from this city, and plunged down a 30-foot embankment, killing one passenger and injuring 11 others. The wreck was caused by a stone believed to have been maliciously placed on the track at a sharp curve.

Fatal Explosion.

Youngstown, O., Sept 7.—As the result of an explosion at five o'clock Sunday evening at the Bessemer plant of the Republican Iron & Steel company, two men were fatally injured and two others seriously.

Meat Reconciles Treaty.

Bogota, Colombia, Sept. 7.—The government insists on congress reconciling the matter of the Panama canal treaty.

RIOTERS ARE FOUND GUILTY

Danville, Ill., Jury Returns Verdict Against 12 Persons.

One of Them Is a Woman—The Punishment Is an Indeterminate Term in State Prison.

Danville, Ill., Sept. 7.—As a result, it is believed, of the unexpected confession of Richard Roberts, one of the indicted race rioters, who broke down under cross examination on the witness stand Saturday, the jury at midnight Saturday brought in verdicts of guilty against 11 men and one woman. Out of the 14 indicted only two escaped, one being Roberts. Those against whom verdicts were returned for engaging in the attack on the county jail July 23 were the following: Adam Mercy, Thomas Bell, Horace Murphy, John Robertson, Mrs. Bessie Dodge, Clement Mobaker, Al Menifee. William Redwine, John Isam, Winfield Baker, Isaac Slade and Jack Walton. John Kreiss was the second man who escaped punishment. Mrs. Dodge was the woman who urged the mob on to violence in a street speech.

The jury was out six hours. The punishment is an indeterminate sentence in the penitentiary. This is said to be the first case in Illinois where anyone received a penitentiary sentence for attempting to break into a jail. It is considered a wholesome victory for the exponents of law and order. Two men were acquitted—Richard Roberts and John Kreiss—both of whom turned state's evidence. State's Attorney Kessler will probably not at present prosecute any of the other prisoners on the felony charge, but will give them an opportunity to plead guilty to rioting and take a jail sentence.

Aside from the verdict, the most sensational feature of the trial Saturday was the testimony of Richard Roberts. Called to the stand in his own defense, he was taken in hand by the state's attorney and proved the most valuable witness the prosecution had found. His testimony positively identified five of the leading defendants as taking leading parts in the attack upon the jail, and greatly strengthened the state's case.

Locomotive Explodes.

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 7.—While passing Downsview at full speed Sunday a locomotive pulling a Kansas City freight train went to smash on the Chicago and Alton railway, exploded with fatal effect. Engineer Frank J. Upton, of Bloomington, was killed. Fireman C. C. Keltner, of Bloomington, was fatally injured. Brakeman J. A. Montgomery, of Roodhouse, was seriously hurt.

Three Men Killed.

Altoona, Pa., Sept. 7.—One of the worst freight wrecks on the middle division of the Pennsylvania railroad in years occurred Saturday night at Hyde, 64 miles east of here. One eastbound freight train ran into another and 40 cars and their contents were scattered over the tracks. Three men were instantly killed. The property loss will be about $100,000.

Burned to Death.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 7.—Two young sons of M. Epstein, living with their parents over a junk shop, were burned to death Sunday night in a fire which destroyed the building. The building was an old Jewish synagogue altered into a store and residence. The fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin.

Trolley Cars Collide.

Haverhill, Mass., Sept. 7.—In a collision between two trolley cars on the New Hampshire Traction company's road at Pelham, N. H., Sunday, two persons were killed and about 20 injured.

French Village Burned.

Chambery, France, Sept. 7.—The villages of La Rise, was destroyed by fire on Saturday afternoon. Three women were severely burned.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVE VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next five years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not call or write and have the matter settled at once? Why not let us sell have that in your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well settled community, where churches and schools are built and roads graded. These will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $3,000 cash will handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit at 6 per cent. A live investor can make a trip thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for description and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

The Nickel Plate road, with its eastern connections, the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western and West Shore and Boston & Maine R. Railroads—is considered by those who have patronized it as a most desirable line between Chicago and New York, Boston and other eastern points. Two fast trains a day, and one first class free leading eastbound from Chicago. It is operated entirely through first class cars, all daily and equipped with modern improvements, for the convenience and comforts of the traveling public, and has succeeded to a remarkable degree, in pleasing its patrons, growing in popularity every day. One of its attractive features and thoroughly appreciated by the traveling public, is its dining car service, breakfasting served on American Club Plan, ranging in price from 35c to $1.00; also service a la crate. Colored porters are in charge to look after the comfort of passengers in coaches and especially to assist ladies traveling with children. All passenger trains arrive at and depart from the La Salle St. Station, Chicago, the only passenger station in Chicago on the Elevated Loop. When going east, try the Nickel Plate Road. WE ARE CLUBBING WITH

The Northwestern Agriculturist and the St. Paul Dispatch

and we offer extraordinary inducements for our subscribers to pay up their subscriptions now to the RED LAKE COUNTY COURIER. If you pay us now for one year's subscription, plus only 25cents, we will give you a due-bill entitling you to the Northwestern Agriculturist from the date we receive your subscription up to

and the ST. PAUL DISPATCH one year from the date the payment is made. Old subscribers as well as new can take advantage of this offer. All that is required is that they pay up all arrearages and one year in advance.

By taking advantage of this offer immediately the subscriber will get the Northwestern Agriculturist for about a year and a half at a trifling cost. The longer we put off paying us, the shorter the time you will get this great farm paper, for the offer is simply "December 31, 1903," whether you begin now or waite until later.

We can supply only a limited number of Northwestern Agriculturist bue-bills on the above terms, having made a limited contract with that company. Hence, "first come, first served," must be our rule. A sample copy free will be sent to any address on application. Call at our office, or write to

RED LAKE COUNTY COURIER, Red Lake Falls, Minn.

Thief River Press: Allen W. Wood bought a hunting dog at Red Lake Falls a short time ago—and thereby hangs a tale. The animal which was a good one, was purchased from the wife of a resident of the Lower Falls, during the man's absence. Now the people are after the dog, claiming that it belongs to the brother of the supposed owner. Interesting complications may arise out of the transaction.

A Lucky Purchase.

We bought fifty 27-inch jackets at a tremendous reduction. We give you the benefit. $14 jackets for $9; $10 jackets $5. Come and see.—Theo. LaBissoniere.

A BIRTHDAY GIFT.

"My wife is so attentive! Tha other day I told her that I was very fond of them, and what do you think she did for my birthday?"

"O, decorated the breakfast table with lilacs, I suppose."

"No, she bought herself a new lilac colored dress!"—Fliegende Blaetter.

JOURNEY'S END.

I hailed in the chill light of the morning
And saw your town all still across the lake—
The quaint white town with green of palms adorning,
The fair white town unwakened with the break.
And for a nameless new, head of your nearness,
I doubt not, bade me fast upon the shore;
Until, with firm and fast-increasing clearness,
The sun aroused the world to life once more.

Then eyed my glance along the dusty byway
And marked each shining cottage on the street,
Down every lane and dewy byway
To where the terraced slopes and waters meet.
And suddenly I knew that I, the wayfarer,
Had found as finds the homing bird his nest,
Thy dwelling clad with vines and blossoms fragrant—
The end of all my long and eager quest.

Dear one, I feel no vague, half-startled wonder
If 'tis some magic tells me your abode;
Full well I know it was no idle blunder
Led my faint steps so straightly on the road.

Then cheer, worn heart! Cry hail the journey's ending!
'Tis not a step the pilgrim now must take
Or east or north, air sky, oil bearing blending
In one rare wont of home—dear one, thy face!
—Janey Owen Tryon, in Good Housekeeping.

Battle Royal in Court Room.

During a trial in a civil court in the Bangalore district of India the other day a dispute arose between the defendant and one of the witnesses for the plaintiff. The two came to blows. The witnesses of both parties joined in, and eventhere with the rival factions taking a part, the court became a glorified prize ring. The battle lasted for an hour, and the police and military had eventually to come in and disperse the mob.

CLOAK OPENING.

We are opening our new line of fall and winter jackets. We show this season the celebrated Palmer garments, our old standby. We have been allured into trying other makes, but none come up to the Palmer. Come and see the goods. No trouble to show them. We have the box backs, the Louis XIV, and also 27-inch jackets.—Theo. LaBissoniere.

People might naturally thing they were in Minneapolis when they see our new assortment of dress goods at remarkably low prices. We have all the newest creations. Come in and see them.—Garceau & Zaiser.

Rev. William Best, pastor of the Presbyterian church at East Grand Forks, occupied the pulpit of the Presbyterian church in this city Sunday morning and evening. Rev. Walker filled Rev. Best's place on that day.

To Chicago By Daylight.

If you have made the trip you probably want to make it again. If it is still before you, make a note that the Mississippi river scenery along the is well worth the trip. You can leave Minneapolis at 7:50 a. m., or St. Paul at 8:30 a. m., and enjoy the most interesting day's ride in the central west, arriving in Chicago at 9:25 p. m. Three other excellent trains east every day.

Miss May Sorsolie made a business visit to Red Lake Falls on Saturday.

Mrs. J. B. O'Brien visited with friends at Red Lake Falls last Thursday.

Norman B. Hannay left on Monday evening for Minneapolis where he will take up the study of law at the state university.

Sheriff Linnihan was a visitor here yesterday morning on his way home to Red Lake Falls after a business trip to Crookston.

M. O. Sortedahl, the Red Lake Falls banker and real estate dealer, returned home Saturday after several days spent looking after business in Iowa and southern Minnesota.

O. H. Peters has accepted a position as wheat buyer for the Red Lake Falls Milling Co., and will have charge of their elevator in Crookston. He will assume the duties of his new position at once.

Miss Ellen B. Brady returned home to Red Lake Falls on Saturday after a pleasant visit with her cousin, Prof. J. B. O'Brien. Miss Brady is at present engaged in the city schools at Red Lake Falls.

L. C. Simons was here yesterday from Red Lake Falls talking over matters pertaining to the new Merchants State Bank of St. Hilaire He is the heaviest stockholder in the new institution and is very much interested in securing a suitable location for their new building.

Mrs. I. J. Sol leaves tonight for Clarkfield on the sad mission of attending the funeral of her mother, Mrs. Henry Munson, who died yesterday at St. Mary's hospital in Rochester. Mrs. Munson has been ailing for some time and submitted to a surgical operation from which she failed to rally.

George L. Netteland left on Saturday for Terrebonne township where he has secured a contract as school teacher for a ten month term. George was formerly a pupil of the St. Hilaire school and this summer he took the teachers examination at Red Lake Falls and succeeded in securing a first grade certificate. He seems to be one of the kind whose merits will always keep in the front ranks.

VOLUME V.—NUMBER 50. RED LAKE FALLS, MINNESOTA, THURSDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 17, 1903. WHOLE NUMBER 258.

MERCHANTS STATE BANK GETS BONDS

Guarantees to Have the Cash Here by October 20—Interest Rate is 5 1-2 Per Cent.

It looks now as though Red Lake county has sold its $80,000 issue of ditch bonds. At least a $1,000 certified check is in the hands of the hands of the county auditor to guarantee cash on the bonds within forty days, and it is fair to presume that the purchaser of the bonds knew where the money was coming from before he posted the forfeit.

When the state some weeks ago refused to take the bonds, bids were solicited from private sources, and when the board of county commissioners met Thursday, two offers were made. The Merchants State Bank of Red Lake Falls, through Cashier John A. Duffy, offered to take the bonds at 5½ per cent. annual interest and pay one per cent. commission and also pay the cost of printing the bonds. The First National Bank of Thief River Falls, through W. W. Pritchard, cashier, made the same offer, except that its bid did not contemplate furnishing the bonds. After full discussion the bonds were awarded to the Merchants State Bank on Saturday afternoon, and Mr. Duffy promises to have the money here as soon as the bonds can be printed and the necessary formalities looked after.

While the interest rate is higher than the state proposed to charge it is as low as the present bond market warrants, and it was up to the county to float the bonds at some sort of a price, as the orders issued in payment of construction work draw seven per cent., and it is desirous for other reasons to take up the orders promptly.

It is thought the new bonds will run ten years, though it is possible they may be made payable at the rate of one-tenth each year. This will be determined by the advice of the attorney for the bond company.

It speaks well for the county's financial institutions that we have bankers enterprising enough to go after business of this magnitude, and the Merchants State is to be congratulated upon its success in making the deal.

PAID IN PENSIONS.

Over Two Million Dollars Disbursed in Minnesota During Past Year.

Washington, Sept. 7.—During the fiscal year ending June 30, the government paid to Minnesotans pensions amounting to $2,294,000.

This money was paid to 16,750 soldiers, widows and orphans. South Dakota has 5,066 pensioners who draw $500,000, and North Dakota 1,951 pensioners who draw $291,000. Ohio stands first in the amount of pension money disbursed, Pennsylvania second, New York third and Indiana fourth. One hundred and two thousand pensioners in Ohio draw $15,026,000; Pennsylvania, 191,164 pensioners; $13,830,000; New York, 89,921 pensioners, $11,756,000.

On June 30, 1902, there was 1,001,404 pensioners on the rolls of the United States. On the corresponding date this year the number had declined to 996,545. Nearly 41,000 names had been dropped from the rolls in the last year by reason of deaths, the number running from 2,000 to 3,000 a month.

SATURDAY'S STORM.

It Blew Some, and a Heavy Rain Was General Over the State.

Rain and wind combined Saturday afternoon and evening in giving this section on of the worst storms in many years, and threshing operations have been considerably delayed as a result.

The storm which started Friday night continued all day Saturday and Saturday night, and the rain did not cease until Sunday morning. The wind blew almost a gale all day and night, and a drop in the temperature made it very much like winter. The storm was quite general throughout the northern part of Minnesota and North Dakota, and telegraph and telephone wires were put out of service in all directions. It was necessary to cut off the electric lights about eight o'clock Saturday evening, as the wires were crossing with the telephone wires and burning out the instruments. No serious damage is reported by the wind, although many small outbuildings were blown over, and lumber and other property badly scattered. The grain shocks and stacks were blown about considerably, but the weather cleared Sunday morning and the sun came out threshing was resumed the middle of the week.

In North Dakota snow commenced to fall at Minot and west at noon Saturday and kept up all afternoon and evening. The snow and sleet piled up on trees and wires until the great weight did considerable damage, augmented by the wind.

BIG GAME LICENSES.

Laws Changed by the Last Session of Legislature.

County Auditor Ford has received the new hunting license for 1903 and residents of Red Lake county who would pursue the restive deer, moose or mule caribou in his accustomed haunts in the State of Minnesota may obtain one of the licenses granting them that privilege by depositing $1 with the auditor. The game laws have undergone a change since last year, also the form of hunting licenses.

Under the new law deer, moose and male caribou may be hunted from November 10 to November 30. This gives twenty days for the hunting of moose and caribou, where last year but five days were given for that class of big game.

Hunting licenses are not required for residents of the county for small game, but non-residents of the state must pay $10 for such a license, or $25 for a big game license. Last year non-resident licenses could be issued by the county auditors, but this year they must be obtained direct from the state game and fish commission headquarters at St. Paul.

Last year the hunters paid 25 cents for the privilege of killing big game during the open season, but this year they must pay one dollar. Of this amount the county gets only 10 cents on every license issued.

Under the laws of this year big game hunters are entitled to kill but three deer, one moose and one male caribou each. It is strictly against the law to kill a female caribou.

MAJOR SCOTT SUSTAINED.

Action in Reservation Matters Upheld by Secretary Hitchcock.

No action has been taken yet by Secretary Hitchcock of the Interior department or by the Indian officials regarding the complaints lodged against Major Scott, of Leech Lake, on account of his alleged interference in the matter of his advising the Chippewa Indians against ratifying the treaty for the disposition of their lands.

It is believed at the interior department, although Major Scott has made no formal report on the subject, that the advice given by Major Scott had no small degree of influence in inducing the Indians to reject the treaty, and that Maj. McLaughlin's efforts which were directed toward securing the agreement of the Indians to sign the treaty, will fall through, as they have up to this time.

The opinion at the department seems to be that the action of Major Scott and the reasons advanced by him are accepted by Secretary Hitchcock as sufficient to warrant the Indian agent to take the steps he did to advise the Indians. Major Scott has contended that he was in duty bound to advise the Indians according to what he believed to be their best interests, no matter if the results went antagonistic to the legislation sought by congress with respect to the lands.

According to the opinions expressed around the department so satisfied is Secretary Hitchcock with the action of Major Scott that notwithstanding the protests of the members of the Minnesota delegation against the course pursued by Major Scott, no steps will be taken by the secretary to change the situation produced by the advice given by the Indian agent except to continue efforts on the part of Special Agent McLaughlin to secure assent to the treaty as was prescribed by act of congress.

CHIPPEWA INDIANS GETTING CIVILIZED

Major Scott Embodies Interesting Facts in Report Relative to The Red Man.

The report of the Indian agent, Maj. C. L. Scott, for Red Lake subagency for May, 1903, is interesting. The Indians at the agency are the Red Lake Chippewas and the population is 1,357 consisting of 674 males and 683 females, and all these speak fluent English, have cast off the clothing of their forefathers, and the blanket Indians are no longer among them.

The number of Indians who can read is 219 and those who can converse in English sufficient to make their meaning known are 569. There are 418 children of school age and 57 per cent obtain a living by civilized pursuits, a very large percentage, which reveals a high state of civilization.

Only 30 per cent gain a living as of yore by fishing, hunting and root gathering. The amount of sunkis root gathered and sold was 3,000 pounds weight and sold for $1,500; the berries gathered were 5,000 bushels and sold for $7,500, making a total of $9,500 earned by snake root and berries only. The Chippewas cultivated 600 acres and put under fence 2,700 acres. They raised 1,500 bushels of potatoes and gathered 1,500 tons of hay. They own 125 horses, 80 cattle, 300 swine and 600 fowls. They hauled in by their own teams 310,079 pounds of freight, the values earned being $3,117. They sold to the government of their own products $1,131, and to others $9,500. There are three church buildings and three Catholic missionaries and one Episcopal. There are 39 baptized. Indians who are also communicants and 67 Indians baptized only.

The money spent for education was $4,600 and for church work was $230. There were 67 births and one suicide. The actual birth rate is above the death rate, yet the statistics for 1899 show a total of 1,346, a loss of 26, but this is accounted for by the removal from the roll of Indians who have gone elsewhere and are on other rolls at different agencies.

The saw mill which was abolished has very recently been established 25 miles south of the agency and will give employment for Indians and produce boards for building purposes. Major Scott was authorized to purchase a steamboat for the agency and after considerable diplomacy secured a steamer valued at $4,000 for about half that amount. The Marquette was a pleasure boat at Thief River Falls and has been greatly improved both in machinery and several state rooms and a dining room added, and the machinery repaired. The school has been recently improved and a barn for the school house is being built. The Indians bore and the children are in a very advanced state of civilization. There is a sub-agent, a principal of the school and assistants, and the scenery near and at the agency is beautiful.

COUNTY FATHERS MEET.

Several School and Road Petitions Were Acted Upon.

The county commissioners held a meeting Thursday and Friday to dispose of a large grist of pending ditch and school matters.

The petition for a new ditch in Reckabury township was rejected after considerable argument pro and con. Practically all of the farmers of Reckabury were opposed to the ditch, and it developed that the benefits would accrue largely to a few landowners on the fraction east of Reckabury.

The petition of Simon Siebert et al. for a new school district in Terrebonne was rejected because of insufficient legal errors in the application.

The petition of Carl Gerlach et al. for a new county road in Polk Center Black River, Lambville and Red Lake Falls townships was approved and granted.

The report of the board of audit was accepted and approved.

The petition of Magnus Olson et al. for a new school district in Equality township was granted.

H. A. Johnson, proprietor of the Wylie saloon, was given permission to change the location of his place of business from the Eckstein building to the Thill building.

Quite a large grist of claims were audited and allowed.

TWENTY-ONE DEALERS FINED.

Dairy Commission Makes Life a Burden for Violators of Law.

The state dairy and food commission is waging a strenuous campaign against food adulteration. Twenty-one prosecutions were reported the other day. This is the largest received in one day for many months. Eleven dealers were prosecuted in one city on the same day. Of this number seven were fined $10 each for selling jam mixed with glucose.

A dealer was fined $25 and costs for selling whiskey mixed with fusel oil. The sample contained .237 per cent fusel oil.

Two dealers were fined $25 and costs for handling lemon extract containing large quantities of wood alcohol.

Two grocers were prosecuted for selling honey made from cane sugar. One was fined $15 and costs and the other $10.

Selling adulterated baking powder was the charge on which two grocers were convicted and fined $25 each.

A dealer was fined $10 for selling cinnamon mixed with starch; another was fined $5 for having in his possession marmalade containing 25 per cent glucose; one was fined $5 for disposing of jam which was 55 per cent glucose.

A retail grocer was fined $10 for selling cloves made of sand and powdered stone. "Stone cells are abundant in this can of cloves," is the way the chemist described the mixture. Analysis showed 9.9 per cent ash and 3.3 per cent sand.

A dealer was fined $25 for selling adulterated vinegar and another was fined $25 for disposing of linseed oil containing large quantities of mineral oil.

SOFT CORE

Like the running brook, the red blood that flows through the veins has to come from somewhere.

The springs of red blood are found in the soft core of the bones called the marrow and some say red blood also comes from the spleen. Healthy bone marrow and healthy spleen are full of fat.

Scott's Emulsion makes new blood by feeding the bone marrow and the spleen with the richest of all fats, the pure cod liver oil.

For pale school girls and invalids and for all whose blood is thin and pale, Scott's Emulsion is a pleasant and rich blood food. It not only feeds the blood-making organs but gives them strength to do their proper work.

A BAD WRECK.

Great Northern Passenger Train Ditched Near Deland.

No. 10, the east bound train which left Grand Forks at eight o'clock Saturday evening, running by way of Fargo, was wrecked at an early hour Sunday morning near Deland, in Wrights county. Julius Pleth, of St. Hilaire, was one of the passengers on the train. The train was running at a high rate of speed when an attached refrigerator car jumped the track ditching all of the cars. The speed of the train was too great for the iron speedy car and caused it to leave the rails.

Some thirty people were more or less injured. Many had broken arms and legs while several were so badly injured that they had to be taken direct to the hospital. One of the injured died at St. Joseph's hospital in St. Paul, and it was feared that others would die of their injuries. The people in the sleepers were not as badly injured as those in the day coaches. The wreck was a bad one and will cost the railway company a large sum in broken rolling stock and personal damage suits.

REV. WALKER RESIGNS.

Expects to Go to Scotland to Complete Theological Course.

Rev. Andrew Walker, who has been pastor of the Presbyterian church for the past three years, has sent in his resignation, and at a congregational meeting Sunday evening it was reluctantly accepted by the members of the church.

For some years it has been Rev. Walkers ambition to take a post-graduate course at a Presbyterian theological school at Edinburgh, Scotland, and he now sees a way to carry out his long-cherished plan. As his resignation takes effect October 1 he hopes to be in Scotland a month later. Upon the completion of his course Rev. Walker expects to re-enter the ministry in Minnesota or North Dakota.

The local church has extended an invitation to Rev. Robert Horne, of Minneapolis, to fill the pulpit here for a few Sundays, with a view to extending him a call. No notification of acceptance has as yet been received.

During his pastorate in Red Lake Falls Rev. Walker has made many warm friends, both in and out of his own church circles, and it is the general wish that prosperity and good health may abide with him.

State Board of Equalization.

The state board of equalization got down to business this week and will probably have three weeks' labor in adjusting the returns of the various counties of the state.

The total assessed valuation of personal property of the state shows an increase of practically $7,000,000 during the past year. The county boards returned a valuation of $130,000,000 last year which the state board raised to $137,000,000. This year the returns of the county boards total $144,000,000. This figure will probably be raised $6,000,000.

This year's returns show that $80,000 people in the state re-assessed on personal property. This is an increase of about 6,000 names over the last year list.

An Epitaph.

Anyone who has ever read epitaphs has come across a number of things to make him think. The following is an example.

He was not a man before he became a lawyer." That's the trouble with a lot of us; we try to build up a successful career without the necessary foundation. Look around at your friends and see how many of them are trying to accomplish something when they are physically played out. The thing to do is first build up your physique and your general health with golden grain belt beer. Realize the importance of this, and use golden grain belt beer with your meals regularly, as if it were a common medicine. You won't mind—because it's delicious. Alex Thompson, Crookston.

A Purgative Pleasure.

If you ever took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for Biliousness or constipation you know what a purgative pleasure is. These famous little pills cleanse the liver and rid the system of all bile without producing unpleasant effects. They do not gripe, sicken or weaken, but give tone and strength to the tissues and organs involved. W. H. STRANGER FOUND DEAD.

John M. Olson, of St. Hilaire, Dies Suddenly at Roseau.

A stranger, who is supposed to be Magnus Olson, or John M. Olson, and to hail from St. Hilaire, Minn., was found dead Saturday morning at 11:30 at Roseau, Minn. The man had been drinking heavily. He arrived at Roseau last Thursday and continued drinking until Saturday when he left on the Pine Creek stage. He left the stage at a point somewhere near the Pine Creek post office. Next morning he was found asleep under a culvert. He was aroused and claimed he wanted to get to the home of a friend named Anderson over in Canada. He did not travel far, apparently, for the next day he was found lying among some shocks of grain by G. T. Haugen, the postmaster, who took the man home with him and cared for him. He kept on drinking, sending into town for liquor, but on Wednesday he was induced to return to Roseau by stage. The man had been raving from delirium tremens and declared Dr. Norris, who had seen him practically alcoholism, complicated by inflammation of the liver. The deceased was taken to the Hotel Roseau and ordered to keep to his bed. This he did not or would not do. Saturday morning he was seen near Ross & Parish's barn and Sheriff Erickson took him back to the hotel. Later, about 11 o'clock he was found dead in the outhouse.

MINNESOTA FARMERS

Will Meet in St. Paul to Form State Organization.

A convention will be called in St. Paul within two weeks for the purpose of forming a state farmers' organization. Farmers in nine states represented at the convention of the National Farmers' association in Chicago this week will assemble in a short time for a similar purpose.

The meeting will be called by C. E. Jackson of Buckman, Minn., who was elected by the farmers of Morrison county as a delegate to the national convention. Mr. Jackson returned from Chicago yesterday. He has been busy for some time and a number of organizers from the national association will arrive to assist him in carrying out the project. Branch associations will be formed in each county.

"The purpose of the organization is to protect farmers from monopolistic and other organizations that conflict with the interests and general welfare of the farmers," said Mr. Jackson.

The Use of Arm, Heart Trouble.

Could Not Eat, Sleep or Walk.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Cured Entirely.

"If it hadn't been for Dr. Miles' Remedies I would not be here to write this letter. Two years ago last June I had the use of my left arm, could not use it and could only move it with much pain. My heart troubled me, was so weak I could hardly get up stairs for smothering spells. I was out of work all that and could not nothing. I grew so weak that I could not walk without staggering like a drunken man and my heart palpitated so I could do nothing for me. I was in so much pain I was almost wild. I could not take morphine nor opium as they made me worse. So I got to thinking about Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine and the more I thought about it the more I wanted to try them. I wrote to the Dr. Miles Medical Co. for advice which I followed to the letter. I can say today that I am glad I did so. I am a well woman now; can work and can walk as well as three miles and not be tired. I can use my left arm again as well as ever. You do not know how thankful I am for those grand medicines Dr. Miles' Nerv Heart Cure and Nervine. I think Dr. Miles' Remedies are the best in the world, and if I should get sick again I should take the same remedies. Medicine also helped our daughter Vida so wonderfully that I should have written you before to thank you but I wanted to be sure that the cure was lasting, which I now know to be the case."—Mrs. Frank Loomis, Allen, Mich.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Told at Pan.

Capital certificates to the amount of $200,000 were sold to the state board of investment by the capitol commission. The state board of investment is composed of the governor, auditor and treasurer of the state, and has charge of all investment of the school and university funds, which are being constantly added to by the sale of school lands. There was no other bidder for the certificates, and they were awarded to the board of investment at par. The certificates bear interest at the rate of 3 per cent per annum.

The contract for the metal cases and shelving at the capitol was let to the Van Dorn Iron Works company of Cleveland, on its bid of $32,815.11. The bids were opened at the last meeting of the commission, and it was found that this company had made the lowest offer. The next lowest bid was that of a Jamestown company at $33,754. The shelving will be used in the state law library and in the vaults. The cases are all to be of metal.

The specifications for furnishing the building are now being prepared in New York. The commissioners are expecting the finished specifications in a few days and will consider them at the regular monthly meeting. As soon as the plans are approved bids will be called for.

Estimates for the work of the past month are as follows: Butler Bros., interior woodwork, $5,595.59; Butler-Ryan Co., plastering, $1,500; metal lathing, $700; W. R. Gray & Co., mechanical equipment, $3,000.

Land Decisions.

Within the past few days the United States land office at St. Cloud has received twenty decisions from the commissioner of the general land office, covering cases in the so-called Northern Pacific Indemnity belt in Crow Wing, Aitkin and Todd counties. In all the cases the decisions favor the railroads.

Mayor J. R. C Robinson is one of the attorneys for the contestants, the contest being, of course, the decisions, unless reversed by the United States supreme court, will be the means of losing to the settlers 200 quarter sections of land, with fees aggregating some $2,000 to the attorneys.

The decisions are covered by an omnibus decision filed by the commissioner in which judgment was found for the railroad company, and the individual decisions are coming so rapidly at the local land office that no attempt is made to enter them at the present time.

The settlers are for the most part men of ordinary means and the appealing of the cases to a higher court will mean a great hardship to them, many preferring to settle with the company by paying them as high as $10 per acre for the land rather than go through an expensive litigation.

It has been decided by the attorneys to appeal all the cases to the secretary of the interior and if necessary carry them still higher.

Judge Flandrau.

Judge Charles E. Flandrau, one of the pioneer residents of the state and one of the most prominent lawyers of the northwest, died the 9th at his home, St. Peter's sanitarium, St. Paul.

He was 76 years old and had been ill for the past two years, suffering from kidney trouble, which slowly undermined his constitution until it became a serious matter the last few days.

Judge Flandrau was born in New York City, May 15, 1827. His father, Charles H. Flandrau, was for a number of years the law partner of Aaron Burr, and his mother was the daughter of Gen. Alexander Macomb, commander-in-chief of the United States army from 1828-1841.

He was a member of the first supreme court of the state.

Murder in St. Paul.

Otto C. Kirchoff of St. Paul came to his death from a wound caused by a blunt weapon wielded by some unknown person.

This is the substance of the coroner's jury which investigated the death of Otto C. Kirchoff, who died as the result of injuries received in a street brawl at the corner of Kent and Leland streets, St. Paul, early Monday morning. The jury did not fix the responsibility, but the testimony tended to show that either Charles Haag or Peter Herbert threw the stone which struck Kirchoff on the head and caused his death.

The testimony also showed that Kirchoff was the aggressor in the trouble and started the brawl which ended in his death.

News in Brief.

Eight thousand men were in line in the Labor day parade in St. Paul.

A large barn on the Hertel farm near Hutchinson was struck by lightning and badly damaged.

A man giving his name as Mott Creech, from Chicago, had been hunting and was taking the shells out of his gun in the Merchants hotel office at Cyrus, when the gun was accidentally discharged. Martin S. Otsthus, a farmer, was shot in the arm and the hot wad only slightly injured.

The Northern Pacific shops by the order of the state railroad commission and will run two of its Minneapolis-Duluth trains by way of the old St. Paul & Duluth line. Four trains will be run by way of Carlton and West Superior.

The exhibits from Minnesota at the World's Fair next year will cover eight departments; agriculture, horticulture, dairying, education, game and fish, mining, building materials and sociology. The state building will cost $35,000 and the balance of the appropriation goes for the exhibits and expenses.

The School Ma'am Question.

Beason Monitor: Bro. King, of the Red Lake Falls Courier, cannot understand why school-ma'ams do not boycott Red Lake Falls. Many pretty girls have been coming to the town each year to teach in the public schools and yet none of them have been invited by the young men to remain permanently. Long ago, Bro. King was a young man himself, and neither advancing age nor loyalty to his home to win inclines him to excuse such a manifest injustice to the girls.

Where's the Burden of the Blame?

Thief River Press: John E. King says: "The good looking school ma'ams ought to boycott Red Lake Falls. We have been receiving a new consignment every year, and up to date not a single one of them has been invited to stay. There must be something the matter with the young men of the city." Perhaps John's society reporter failed to get down the proposals. Girls have been known to refuse certain invitations.

An Impossible Story.

Thief River Press: It is related that a Bemidji man embarked on a jag in Minneapolis and woke up in St. Louis. It is manifestly impossible that after a training on the booze that made Bemidji famous even Minneapolis bug juice could have such an effect. The story is palpably false.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: An old maid should be well shaken before taken.

It takes a woman to marry a man just to see what kind of a husband he will make for some one else.

Most men begin to economize on their own spending by cutting down their wife's allowance.

A man can make up his mind that he loves a woman a good deal quicker than he can that he wants to marry her.

A man can pull another woman's pair of gloves out of his pocket and thrill all over, when it wouldn't even interest him to pull out his wife's stockings.

FEMALE WEAKNESS

Ed 1-3 Congress St.
Portland, Me., Oct. 21, 1902.
I consider Wine of Cardui superior to any doctor's medicine I ever used and I know whereof I speak. I suffered nine months with female weakness, constant headache, completely prostrated, and Wine of Cardui cured me right up and alive and I would have killing myself. My husband would not allow me to take anything else and I would not stand up. I gradually fell downward for I seemed to be bereft of the help of physicians, but Wine of Cardui came as a friend and in a few weeks I was a well woman. After fifteen days treatment I remained without suffering the agonies I usually did and soon became strong and well. Wine of Cardui is a special and superior remedy and I believe that all suffering women know of its good qualities.
Wilhelmina Lowe
Treasurer, Portland Economic League

Periodical headaches tell of female weakness. Wine of Cardui means permanency, relief from all of every twenty cases of irregular menses, leucorrhea, down pains or any female weakness. If you are discouraged and doctor medicine has failed, that is the best reason in the world you should try Wine of Cardui now. Remember that headaches mean female weakness. Secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui today.

50 Years of Success
This is our record. From a small business we have grown to be the largest manufacturers of our line in the world. Many of our machines sold forty to fifty years ago are still giving their users faithful service. Can anything be more convincing of their merits and durability? Did you ever hear of any other machine with such a record?
Note a few of the many superior points of the
Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine No. 9
The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, unmechanical and troublesome shuttle.
The Frictionless ball bearing and perfect mechanical construction enable it to be operated with one-third less exertion than is required by ordinary machines. It sews three yards of goods while a shuttle machine sews two.
It makes the most elastic and most perfect stitch whether sewing light or heavy goods.
With our superior attachments the greatest variety of work is possible.
Do not make the mistake of buying a sewing machine until you have given the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 a trial.

If you want to prevent the loss of horses and cattle by lightning, says an exchange, it can be done by grounding the barb wire fence. Get a five-eighths iron rod and drive it into the ground to the depth of three feet; pull it out and then take a strand of heavy fence wire and put down in the hole so made and stamp it down. Have it long enough above the ground so it can be tightly wound around each strand of wire in the fence. A smart hand could fix all the fences on a quarter-section farm in a day in the manner indicated, and it will pay to do it.

Distress After Eating Cured.

Judge W. T. Holland, of Greensburg, La., who is well and favorably known, says: "Two years ago I suffered greatly from indigestion. No my sleep is refreshing and digestion perfect." Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVER VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next five years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not invest as well have that in your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well settled community, where churches and schools are built and highly graded. There will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $5,000 cash will handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit all for 6 per cent. A live investor can make a big thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for description and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

PERRY HEATH ought to erect a monument to the far-sighted genius who invented the statute of limitations.

BEAVERS and Macbeth have been indicted so often that it occurs to us they ought to be prosecuted once or twice.

THE Ellsworth News says that every young man has a great future ahead of him, but the trouble is usually that it persists in staying there.

IT is really unfortunate for the Republicans that responsibility for the postal scandal cannot be lain at the door of the Cleveland administration.

TWO of Minneapolis' ex-mayors have been given comfortable berths of late, but no doubt Ames is ready to exchange with Eustis and divide the salary.

THE Belle Plaine Herald admits that if the Republicans adopt the "full baby carriage" as a campaign slogan the Democrats may as well concede Utah.

THE Duluth News-Tribune is scoring a new triumpt every now and then. It has recently added a colored comic supplement to the Sunday issue, and is in every respect the peer of any of the metropolitan papers.

THE total attendance at the Minnesota state fair this year surpassed that of last year by 18,583. The total attendance was 245,608 as compared with 227,025 in 1902. The total cash receipts for the week were $120,000 as compared with $100,200 last year.

A PRESS dispatch announces that Hon. J. T. McCleary has returned from the Pacific coast and has told the people of Manhattan that the national currency will receive his attention as soon as he can get to Washington. J. T. evidently intends to draw his salary.

THE enterprising person who is not particular about a warm climate will be interested in the report that Alaska needs 10,000 miles of railroad, 30,000 miles of wagon roads and telephone lines, and can, as fast as transportation is available, give business and employment to a population of 10,000,000.

THERE are 17,136,974 milch cows in the United States, according to the late census in 1900. The six big dairy states are New York with 1,501,608 cows; Iowa with 1,423,648; Illinois with 1,007,644; Wisconsin with 998,237; Pennsylvania, 943, 777 and Ohio with 818,238 cows.

THE nomination of the anti-negro reactionist Vardaman in Mississippi would not indicate that President Roosevelt's policy is conciliatory to the Southern people. It is evident that no permanent good to the negro can be accomplished unless the old and good-will of the Southern whites can be secured.

LABOR DAY this year did not find the American working men so well employed as they were a year ago. This was not altogether due to decline of prosperity and consequent lessended demand for labor; it was due to the workman's refusal to work in any part of the country—he is busy striking. Exact statistics are not available, but it is safe to say that the past year has seen more and larger strikes than any previous year in the history of the country. That severely-five per cent of these strikes have failed seems to teach labor no lesson.

THE statement of State Auditor Iverson before the board of equalization will be generally approved: "A wrong has been done the owners of real property by imposing upon them a large part of the taxes which should have been paid by owners of personal property. As a rule our people do not rebel against paying taxes, but they do object to paying their neighbors' taxes. And we don't blame them. A fair and equitable assessment in all classes of property will, without a doubt, add millions, now escaping entirely, to our assessment rolls."

THE Chicago & Northwestern railroad is about to enforce the rule that all women in the employ of the company shall be discharged and men only employed hereafter. The rule applies to stenographers as well as to bookkeepers and to all departments of the service. The reason for the adoption of the rule is said to be a desire to apply a pension system to employes in all departments of the road and it was found impracticable to apply the system in the case of women who do nothing but office work and never seek or receive promotion or work in other departments.

THE cost of living, as shown by Dun's Index number, was higher on July 1, 1903, than at any time since 1894, but was little higher than a year ago. The highest point reached since 1890 was in 1864 and is represented by the index figure 278.367 as contrasted with the lowest of 72.455 in 1897. This index number is an expression of the price of food, clothing, metal, and other articles of common consumption. Quantities of each commodity are taken inaccordance with the annual per capita consumption, so that wcarticle receives more or less than in its relative position of importance. As the same quantities are taken of the same articles at each date, the record gives a faithful representation of the course of prices.

DIRECTORS of railways who have been worrying over the possible outcome of the trial of the New Jersey street railway officials, may again resume their habitual calm. It was attempted by the prosecution in this case to hold these officials criminally responsible for the New ark disaster of February last, when nine school children lost their lives. The court was so little impressed with the prosecution's case that it was taken from the jury, largely on the ground that it had not been shown that official had failed to preform any specific act which the law required of them. It was also decided that executive officials of railways cannot be held criminally liable for the failure of subordinate employes to enforce rules made for the protection of the public. This is doubtless good law, but it leaves the public with practically no redress except civil suits for injuries due to the negligence of transportation companies.

SEPARATE THE RACES.

Separation of the races is the only solution of the negro problem, said John Temple Graves, in an address upon "The Race Problem" before the forty-eighth convocation of the University of Chicago, last week. He said in part:

"Separation of the races is the way—the only way. If God 'hath made of one blood all of the nations of the earth,' He hath also 'established unto them the metes and bounds of their habitation.' He did not intend that opposition and antagonistic races should live together. The prejudice of race is a pointing of providence and the antagonism of peoples is the final policy by which God peoples the different portions of the universe and establishes the individuality of the nation. The act that brought these people together on this continent was a sin of the fathers—a sin of greed, an iniquity of trade—and the sorrow and suffering of the present is for the sin of the past—a sin against nature and a sin against God.

"The curse can be lifted only when nature is vindicated and God is obeyed. The problem will be solved only when the negro is restored to the 'bounds of his habitation.'

"It is neither impossible nor impracticable. The elements are willing and the way is in reach. This is not a day of impossibilities. The hand of the Almighty is steadily opening the way.

"It may be that the islands of the sea were placed by Providence in our keeping to furnish an answer to the problem of the time.

"The south is neither cruel nor unpatriotic, and the north knows it. If either of us is mistaken, and if both of us are misunderstood, we are yet one people, and we must meet upon the plain of our brotherhood and our destiny.

"I appealfor Caucasian unity. I appeal for the imperial destiny of our mighty race. This is our country. We moulded it. We control it, and we always will. We have done great things, we have mighty things yet to do. The negro is an accident—an unwilling, a blameless, but an unwholesome, unwelcome, helpless unassimilable element in our civilization. He is not made for our times. He is not frramed to share in the duty and the destiny which he perplexes and beclouds. Let us put him kindly and humanely out of the way. Let us give him a better chance than he has ever had in history, and let us have done with him. Let us solve his problem frankly, fearlessly, nobly and speedily. Let us put it behind us. Let us purify our politics of the perplexity. Let us liberate the south to vote and to think like free men upon the mighty issues of the times."

EXCHANGE ECHOES.

Graceville Enterprise: When they get to talking about candidates for governor in this locality it is easy to see Bob Dunn has many friends, and good ones, too.

Redwood Gazette: If you are in business, don't whine at the other fellow. Go after your share, and keep bumping away until you get it—and then go after what is left. The field is too large for just cause for whining.

Windom Reporter: The Reliance was largely manned by Norwegians, and the list of the crew shows most of the men to have been born in Norway. We Yanks will have to divide the credit of doing up the Shamrock to our brethren of Norwegian birth.

Windom Reporter: Young's arrest of Thompson for libel is the best argument why he should not be nominated for attorney general or any other important office. It shows him not large enough to fill the requirements with the necessary ability and brains.

Minneapolis Times: Rev. Father Lochren of Marinette, Wis.. has forbidden, on pain of expulsion from the parish school, all "keeping company" between girls and boys. The St. Paul Globe says this priest "seems to discourage matrimony." Rather he discourages a lot of foolnonsense. There should be more like him.

St. Cloud Times: A very good illustration of the injustice of race prejudice occurs in New York a few days ago, when a crowd attacked a negro because he had knocked down a white pick-pocket who had snatched his watch. Of course the crowd did not know. It only knew that a negro had attacked a white man and it appeared to be ready to "kill the nigger" without asking questions. It will be observed, also, that this did not happen in a Southern state.

Fairbault Pilot: Because a man personally acquainted with Jim Hill and does not denounce him as a public enemy it does not follow that the great railway magnate owns the man, body, boots and breeches. One may shake hands with Hill without becoming infected with merger microbes or freight rate bacilli. Mr. Hill is not a saint neither is he such an evil spirit that he delights to tempt and seduce from the paths of righteousness all with whom he comes in contact.

Black Hair

"I have used your Hair Vigor for five years and am greatly pleased with it. It certainly restores the original color to gray hair and stops hair salt."—Mrs. Helen Kilkenny, New Portland, Me.

Ayer's Hair Vigor has been restoring color to gray hair for fifty years, and it never fails to do this work, either.

You can rely upon it for stopping your hair from falling, for keeping your scalp clean, and for making your hair grow.

ST. HILAIRE.

Rev. Fr. Ansgar will be here from Red Lake Falls next Sunday and conduct services in the Roman Catholic church.

County Attorney Grady was here over night looking after some legal business whileon his way home from Thief River Falls.

Conductor Remshardt is takingan enforced lay-off owing to injuries received while on duty. While in his caboose last Friday a string of cars was shunted against the caboose and he was thrown from his seatalighting on his side on an iron cuspidor, cracking a rib or two.

The good people of St. Hilaire to the number of about fifty called on Rev. Scott at the M. E. parsonage last Thursday evening. The family had retired for the night so the affair was a complete surprise. Refreshments were served and everybody has a good time. Before departing the visitors presented the pastor and his family with provisions to the value of about $10.

Julius Pleth returned on Monday morning from a business trip to Illinois and points in Iowa. He was a passenger on the train which was wrecked Sunday morning near Dassel in which some people were killed and many seriously injured. Mr. Pleth was fortunate enough to escape uninjured and his vivid description of the accident makes it almost a miracle that any escaped.

GARNES.

Mr. Göthler from Emardville was here last week on a business trip.

Samuel Torgersen and Mr. Davidson returned home from Erskine last Monday.

The windstorm last Saturday did considerable damage to K. Danielsen's new house.

E. K. Gjernes and Eugene Dempsey made a business trip to St. Hilaire and Red Lake Falls last week.

Rain is getting to plentiful now-a-days, but the crops are looking new at the mark of three years ago.

A considerable bit of flat is to be cut yet but the ground is so wet that it will be some time before it can be removed from the fields.

Erick Erickson and Carl Moen left for Dakota the first part of the week. It is reported that harvest hands are scarce on their fields.

Robert Elvidge, of Independence, and William Elvidge, of Burt, Iowa, came up yesterday to look over their land just north of town.

People might naturally thing they were in Minneapolis when they see our new assortment of dress goods at remarkably low prices. We have all the newest creations. Come in and see them.—Garceau & Zaiser.

John B. Connor left Saturday for Wahpeton, N. D., where he will be local agent for the St. Anthony & Dakota Elevator company. We understand John has secured a fine position there and hope he will like it.

Dositte Robillard returned Sunday from North Yakima, Wash., where he has been for the past four or five months. He says that is a good country, but after all, prefers Red Lake county as an abiding place.

Agent C. W. Williams has recovered from his recent sickness and returned to work at the Great Northern station Tuesday morning, after a month's leave of absence. Relief Agent Peck left yesterday for his home at Grand Forks.

Chas. H. Watson and W. F. Witte, of Waseca, Minn., were in the city several day this week, and were entertained by the Healy-Watson land agency. Mr. Witte is figuring on the purchase of a large slice of Red Lake county realty.

Arthur LaPlante returned yesterday from Blackduck, to which place he went two weeks ago to assist in the establishment of a cigar factory in which he is interested. Oliver Pederson, formerly of this place, is to be resident manager of the factory.

The Knights of Pythias will give a reception tomorrow (Friday) evening in honor of H. N. Johnson, who will soon leave the city to take up his new work as traveling representative for the Red Lake Falls Milling company. Dancing and cards will be the features of the evening.

James Rasmussen and Peter Enevoldsen, two good farmers from Royal, Iowa, arrived in town this week with their farm machinery and household goods, and are moving on farms east of town recently purchased of the Healy-Watson agency.

Ole Finsand has brought suit in district court against Rudolf Jahnke to recover damages alleged to have been incurred by defendant's cattle breaking into his fields and meadows. Thomas Germo is attorney for Finsand and F. A. Grady for Jahnke.

Joseph Helm is advertising a sale on several lines of machinery in which he is overstocked. As most of these are seasonable goods farmers needing machinery this fall should take advantage of these exceptional offers. Look up the big advertisment on the first page.

O. G. Harlis returned Saturday from a business trip to his old home at Red Wing. Mr. Harlis recently purchased a farm east of town and will move on the place in the near future. He says a large number of Goodhue county farmers will come up here soon to look over the country.

A. R. Duncan arrived Tuesday from Cleveland, O., to wind up the affairs of the Red Lake Falls Lumber company, in which he was financially interested. Mr. Duncan has been a frequent visitor here on previous occasions, and thinks the town has made substantial progress in the past few years.

Of Cosgrove's orchestra, which will appear at the Metropolitan Monday evening, the St. Paul Globe says: "To say that they pleased their audience is putting it very mildly. The soloists are certainly all artists and we bespeak for them a packed house on their return engagement in October."

Thomas Germo has commenced suit in the district court of Sargent county, N. D., on behalf of Mrs. Anna Fangstrom, of St. Hilaire, who alleges that the other heirs to her mother's estate fraudulently induced her to sign a quit-claim deed to the property in probate. The case will be tried in November.

The Surprise store wishes to announce that their complete fall and winter lines of the celebrated Hart, Schaffner & Marx clothing will be here early next week, and prospective buyers are cordially invited to call in and look over the line. Watch the COURIER'S advertising columns for further particulars next week.

Cosgrove's orchestra, which appears at the Metropolitan opera house Monday evening under auspices of the Red Lake Falls band, ought to be given a liberal patronage, for it is one of the best musical companies on the road. After the concert the orchestra will play for a dance until 1:30. Everybody is invited.

The first indoor band concert of the season will be given at the Metropolitan opera house on Friday evening, October 2. We understand the same rules as last year will govern season tickets. The band has been practicing on a lot of new music lately, and the concert may be expected to be one of the best ever given.

Chas. Gustafson, one of the oldest settlers of Emardville township, died last Sunday, after an illness of several months with heart disease. He was thirty-eight years of age, and leaves a wife and three children to mourn his untimely demise. The funeral was held from the family home Monday and the remains interred in the Emardville cemetery.

The city papers seem to be dead sure that the crops of the Northwest are totally ruined by the recent rains. It is apparent that the city papers are fooled by the bulls and bears occasionally. While the rains here have damaged the unstacked grain to some extent there is no serious loss, and the Red River valley will bob up serenely with one of the biggest crops on record.

Michael Connerny and son arrived Tuesday from Grant county, S. D., and are preparing to move on the Nicholson farm in Louisville assoon as their machinery and household goods arrive. The hulance of the family will be here in a few days. Mr. Connerny is a well-to-do and progressive farmer and as he has a first-class farm has every reason to be hopeful of the future.

The state board of equalization has raised Red Lake county on the following items of the tax schedule: Hogs, 15 per cent.; sheep, 50 per cent.; wagons and carriages, 33⅓ per cent.; melodeons and organs, 15 per cent.; pianos, 33⅓ per cent.; watches and clocks, 100 per cent. And the board is not through yet. It is expected that Red Lake county will receive an average raise of 25 per cent. on all classes of personal property.

Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Attorney Thomas Germo to Miss Eleanor Findeisen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Findeisen, next Thursday, September 24, at high noon, at the Presbyterian church. The contracting parties are so well and favorably known that laudation would be unnecessary and superfluous. They will have the good wishes of a host of Red Lake county friends for a long life of happiness and prosperity.

The Healy-Watson Land company has brought suit in district court against Patrick McNerthney to collect a commission alleged to have been earned by the sale of defendant's 240-acre farm north of town a few weeks ago. The land was sold to John Flanagan, of Iowa, who was brought here through the Healy-Watson agency. Mr. Flanagan went home without buying a farm, but shortly afterwards opened correspondence with McNerthney and within a few weeks bargained for the farm. Thomas Germo represents the plaintiff and Chas. E. Boughton the defendant.

GARCEAU & ZAISER

A special to the Minneapolis Journal from New Ulm tells of a gang of swindlers who have evidently been operating in that section for some time. The party consisted of two men and one or two women, and their method of graft seems to have been as follows: Driving up to a farmer's house they would sound the women folks on the question of the health of the family. The lady was instructed to consult her husband, and when his consent was secured, treatment would begin.

The principal part of the cure is an atomizer that ordinarily sells for 75 cents or $1, but they charged from $40 to $160, according to the apparent ability of the man to pay. When they had covered this section of the county the notes taken in lieu of cash were discounted. There were thirty of these notes which call for from $40 to $160.

Good for father. Good for mother. Good for the whole family. Makes the children eat, sleep and grow. Rocky Mountain Tea is a family blessing. 37 cents. A. L. Reichert.

New Confectionery

WE have just opened a Confectionery in the building formerly occupied by J. M. Allard, and will carry a complete line of . . . . .

Easy Pill

Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due to the fact that they tonic the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe nor sicken, not even the most delicate lady, and yet they are so certain in results that no one who uses them is disappointed. They cure torpid liver, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, headache, malaria and ward off pneumonia and fevers.

TURKS CONTINUE THEIR SLAUGHTER

Sofia Dispatches Tell of Wholesale Massacres by Orders of the Sultan.

SIXTY THOUSAND BULGARIANS SAID TO HAVE BEEN SLAIN

Rumors Current of Mobilization of Bulgarian Army to Meet Eventualities—Another Change in Visit of Beirut Rumored—Admiral Cotton Reports on Situation.

Sofia, Sept. 15.—Courier dispatches received here by the Autocomyze say the Albanians, acting under direct orders from the sultan, have been engaged in a general massacre of Bulgarians in the districts of Okrida and Leren. One report says that 60,000 persons have been slaughtered in the district of Leren alone, which is purely Bulgarian. Other reports affirm that the Turks have burned the Christian quarters in three towns, Florina, Okrida and Resen. According to information brought by a courier to the revolutionary paper Autonomye, a force of Albanians, assisted by Turkish regular forces acting under orders direct from the Yildiz Kiosk, massacred the entire Bulgarian Christian population of the Okrida and Leren districts. Fearful descriptions are given of the sights seen there, the soldiers slaughtering men, women and children in every direction, displaying a barbarism never before witnessed.

May Mobilize Army.

Official circles are so far without information regarding the reported massacre, but, in view of the character of the latest advices from Macedonia, it is feared the news is only too true. If so, no doubt exists in the government will be forced to order the mobilization of the army at once. Rumors are current that at a council of the ministers it was decided to mobilize immediately the first and second army divisions. This is officially denied, but well-informed persons do not doubt that the cabinet, which is meeting in council daily, is seriously considering such a measure. A deputation of leading professors and representatives of the professional classes waited upon the ministers and urged the government to order immediate mobilization. Premier Petroff replied to the delegation that the ministry was unable to admit the necessity for such a step at the present moment.

The Turkish government is believed to have at the present moment no less than 60,000 soldiers in the vilayet of Adrianople, large bodies of them within 10 to 15 kilometers of the Bulgarian frontier. Confronted with such a situation it is argued that Bulgaria would be amply justified in mobilizing the first and second army divisions, the headquarters of which are at Sofia and Philippopolis, which comprise the forces nearest the Turkish frontier. The government seems to be firmly resolved to avoid giving Turkey the slightest pretext for declaring hostilities, and is doing its utmost to restrain the war fever. The situation, however, is rapidly becoming worse and popular excitement is increasing. Telegrams from Burgas say the Bulgarian population is fast disappearing from the district of Lossegrad, and that everyone is unable to escape to the Bulgarian frontier is killed. Five hundred fugitives have arrived at Burgas from Selegrad.

Situation Growing Serious.

Paris, Sept. 15.—The foreign office advices from Bulgaria show that the situation is growing more serious, owing to reports that the Turkish troops are slowly nearing the border. If their advance continues there will be a general mobilization of the Bulgarian forces preparatory to meeting eventualities.

A Russo-Austrian note to the powers has been received here and is now under consideration. It sets forth that in the event of hostilities between Turkey and Bulgaria, Russia and Austria will not give their support to either of the parties, but will hold each of them to a strict accountability for their actions. It is expected that France will adhere to the Russo-Austrian attitude.

Another Change Rumored.

Beirut, Syria, Sept. 15.—It is reported that Khazim Bey, governor of Palestine, will succeed Reshid Pesha as vali of Beirut (relieving Nazim Pasha, vali of Syria, who is now acting vali of Beirut). Khazim Bey has evinced great administrative ability and has maintained excellent order in Palestine.

News from Cotton.

Washington, Sept. 15.—The navy department Monday posted the following bulletin:

"Admiral Cotton telegraphs from Beirut, 12th instant, that he had exchanged very satisfactory visits with the governor general. The governor general has personal charge of the vice consul case. The late chief of police has been deposed. Twenty-eight persons, including the principals in the disturbances of last Sunday, have been arrested. Beirut quiet. Administration of new governor general inspires confidence. The former governor general left on the 12th instant for Constantinople."

All But One Accounted For.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 15.—All but one of the missing were supposed to have been hurried under the debris of the caverin at the Greenlee tunnel of the Wabash railroad, Saturday night, have been accounted for. Most of the Austrian laborers have refused to return to work, fearing another fall, and their places have been filled by colored men. The debris will be cleared away by Wednesday.

CONGRESS TO MEET NOV. 9

Date for Opening of the Special Session Is Announced.

Suggestion That It Be Held in October Is Abandoned—Will Discuss Financial Legislation.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 15.—The extraordinary session of congress which will be called for the enactment of legislation making operative the Cuban reciprocity treaty will be convened on Monday, November 9. That is learned on good authority. The president, it is said, has abandoned the idea which was suggested several weeks ago of calling a special session early in October. It is not expected that the formal call for the session will be issued until after the president shall have returned to Washington.

Notwithstanding the fact that the suggestion of an October session of congress came from prominent senators who strongly advocated its adoption, the proposition was not received with favor by members of congress generally. The idea of a session in October was opposed particularly because it would oblige senators and representatives to leave their states and districts in the midst of a campaign which to many of them and to their party was of vital importance.

No definite agreement yet has been reached as to the character of the financial legislation which may be enacted at the approaching session of congress. Indeed, it is not certain that as agreement can be reached between the two branches of congress whereby any special legislation can be enacted. It may be that a solution of the problem, which is alike complex and perplexing, will be reached before the convening of the extraordinary session, but even that by no means assured.

M'KINLEY REMEMBERED.

Flags on Public Buildings of Canton, O., Lowered on Second Anniversary of His Death.

Canton, O., Sept. 15.—This, the second anniversary of the death of the late President McKinley, was not observed by any formal programme in Canton. Flags were lowered on public buildings, there were some short references made in the various departments of the schools to the life and death of McKinley, and carnations were worn as a silent tribute by numerous citizens.

Mrs. McKinley in the forenoon made a special trip to the McKinley vault in West Lawn cemetery and placed floral tributes on the casket. Numerous floral pieces received from friends and strangers were also placed in the tomb. Mrs. McKinley is in good health.

Philadelphia, Sept. 15.—This second anniversary of the death of President McKinley was observed Monday by all federal officials and employes. The statue of the late president in the post office was decorated with carnations and wreaths. On the desk of each official stood a large bouquet of Mr. McKinley's favorite flowers, and the employes all wore the carnation.

MANY PERSONS INJURED.

Runaway Horse Creates Panic on Streets of New York—One Man May Die.

New York, Sept. 15.—At least 50 persons have been injured, one fatally, by a horse that became frightened and ran in Brooklyn. Women and children fled in terror, but some sort of calmness to escape the hoofs of the animal.

The scenes of this wild race articles women and children and the shouts of the men who were trying to subdue the horse attracted a large crowd and also the police thither on a run in the belief that a riot was in progress.

George Lane, the only person seriously hurt, had gathered three small children in his arms and was making away from the maddened animal when he was knocked down. Lane's injuries were slightly hurt, but Lane's skull was crushed and he probably will die. The horse after dashing through several streets collided with a trolley car and was knocked down.

FIVE DROWNED.

A Supposed Launch Is Run Down by a Steam Yacht in Pine Lake, Charlevoix, Mich.

Charlevoix, Mich., Sept. 15.—A naphtha launch returning from a ball game at Harbor Springs Saturday evening was run down and sunk by the steam yacht Pilgrim in Pine lake. Five of the 13 men on the launch were drowned. The dead are: E. T. Vinn, C. W. Hamilton, Joe Wisare, Kit Carson and William Rasard. All the victims belonged at East Jordan. It is said the launch showed no lights till just before the collision.

Rhode Island Socialists.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 15.—The socialist party started its campaign Sunday night by nominating the following officers: For governor, James F. Furlong; for lieutenant governor, Henry P. Chessas; for secretary of state, James B. Allen; for attorney general, Albert D. Holmes; for general treasurer, Archibald F. Workman. All the candidates reside in this city.

Two Killed.

Terra Haute, Ind., Sept. 15.—A Vandalia passenger train Monday struck a carriage containing Frank Milner and Miss Kate Bilby at Glen Crossing, four miles east of here, killing both occupants. The young woman had been visiting in the country and was being driven to the station.

Died of His Injuries.

Decatur, Ill., Sept. 15.—Oliver M. Cosin, umpire in the Three-I baseball league, died early Monday morning from injuries received trying to board a moving street car to go to the ball game here Sunday.

HURRICANE SWEEPS SOUTHERN COAST

Seven Persons Are Known to Have Been Killed by a Deadly Storm in Florida.

ALL WIRES DOWN AND DETAILS OF THE DISASTER INCOMPLETE

Several Vessels Wrecked and Others Driven Ashore—Property Loss In City of Tampa Estimated at About $1,000,000—Northwest Experienced Terrific and Deadly Storm.

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 15.—No wires were working south of Jacksonville Monday morning and details of the hurricane which swept across the southern part of the state Saturday are incomplete. So far as known seven people met death, the bodies of five being washed up near Miami on the east coast and two near Tarpon on the west side of the state. Passengers arriving on belated trains from that city recount many vessels have been wrecked. Above Miami it is reported that seven or eight vessels are ashore. The property loss in the city of Tampa is about $1,000,000. West Tampa was flooded by the rain. No loss of life is reported in Tampa, although several persons were hurt by falling trees.

Much injury has been done to orange groves and gardens and it is feared that the beautiful winter homes of northern people have been damaged.

The disturbance Monday morning was sweeping across Alabama and Louisiana. All wires south of Montgomery, Ala., are down; in the neighborhood of Plomoton, Ala., and Birmingham, Montgomery, Mobile and New Orleans report high winds. There is no evidence of its storm at Charleston, S. C., although precautionary signals have been displayed there for two days.

Storm Reaches Baltetts.

Washington, Sept. 15.—The weather bureau Monday issued the following special bulletin:

"The tropical storm has crossed the Florida coast from Pensacola, Fla., and will move northward over the interior with diminishing strength causing heavy rain in the southern Appalachian mountain districts. There are no present indications that it will cause dangerous gales on the middle and north Atlantic coasts. Frost was indicated in the corn belt Monday night as far south as northern Kansas, extreme northern Missouri, all of Iowa and northern Illinois."

Storm in Northwest.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 15.—One of the earliest and most severe storms experienced in the northwest for years swept over the country on Saturday and early Sunday morning. The only fatality reported comes from Greina where an old man fell from a wagon and perished in the storm. At Hartney 12 horses died in the Canadian Pacific yards and in the vicinity other live stock are reported to have perished.

A telegram message received from Minnedosa reported that the storm was one of the worst experienced there in five years. It began at about one-last ten o'clock in the morning, and a heavy rain storm set in at noon that developed into a snowstorm and by dark the snow was ten inches deep on the level prairie.

This storm was a regular old time blizzard and either man or beast that could stand against it. Grain which was still standing is almost totally ruined.

Disaster at Cascades.

La Crosse, Wis., Sept. 15.—The steamer Park Rust was capsized in a fierce storm which prevailed on the Mississippi Sunday night, between Prescott, Wis., and Stillwater, and Engineer James Ferguson, of the city, was drowned. The rest of the crew were rescued by the crew of the steamer Dixmont.

SUFFERS DEATH PENALTY.

Convict Who Had Killed His Keeper Dies in Electric Chair at Auburn, N. Y.

Auburn, N. Y., Sept. 15.—Clarence Egnor, of Buffalo, was Monday put to death in the electric chair for the murder of Archibald Benedict, a keeper in Auburn prison.

Egnor was a convict and had more than once been punished by Benedict for insubordination. Egnor's hatred for Benedict reprimanded Egnor for talking to Washington. Expecting punishment, Egnor armed himself with an iron bar and laid in wait for the keeper. When Benedict appeared, Egnor sprang from behind and dealt him a crushing blow on the back of the head, fracturing the skull. The victim sank to his knees, when Egnor seized the butt of his revolver protruding from his hip pocket, which he seized and shot Benedict in the back of the head. Soon after the conviction Egnor then surrendered to the prison authorities. He was 26 years of age and served in the war with Spain under another name.

Kills Himself.

Decatur, Ill., Sept. 15.—Joseph S. Barnes shot himself in the head Monday at the courthouse and died in a few minutes. He had been assistant city marshal, deputy sheriff, tax collector and held other offices, but at the time of his death was out of office and had become despondent.

Important Decision.

New York, Sept. 15.—The Cape Colony supreme court has decided, says a Times dispatch from Cape Town, that death, while engaged in fighting against the king's troops does not invalidate the rebel's life insurance policy.

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is heard, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has left his mark on those who have made and are making the history of our times.

In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence—laughter to tears, from pathos to ridicule; keen satire is mingled with unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of action with the quiet fancies of the humorist.

We see the speaker, we hear the laughter, we feel the resistless sway of the speaker's magic in his sublimest flights, we share the outburst of applause as the audience catches the speaker at his climax.

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 vols. with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7¾ x 10¾ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravure portraits and Imperial Japanese Vellum. Several hundred pictures in multi-color.

WILL INVESTIGATE VARIOUS CHARGES

Indian Territory Affairs and Officials Are to Be Probed by Charles J. Bonaparte.

SCOPE WILL EMBRACE ALL CHARGES KNOWN TO INTERIOR DEPARTMENT

McGlehnn and Huntington, Indicted by Washington Grand Jury, Surrender to Federal Official at New York—Charge Is Conspiracy to Defraud Government.

Washington, Sept. 15.—It was announced at the interior department Monday that Charles Joseph Bonaparte had accepted the invitation of Secretary Hitchcock to take charge of the investigation of certain Indian territory affairs and officials under the jurisdiction of the department of the interior.

The scope of the investigation, it is said, will be sufficiently comprehensive to embrace all statements within the knowledge of the interior department, including all that have appeared in the public press, and all other matters that may at any time come to the notice of the investigating officials, which, in any respect, reflect upon the official character, conduct or acts of the Dawes commission, or any member thereof, and the inspector for the Indian territory.

While there are primarily the objects of the investigation, it is understood that it will be extended in such other persons and things in the Indian territory over which the interior department has supervision as may be deemed by Mr. Bonaparte to be for the welfare of the service, or as may be referred to him by the secretary of the interior.

INDICTED FAIR SURRENDER.

McGlehnn and Huntington Give Themselves Up at New York.

New York, Sept. 15.—Isaac McGlehnn and George H. Huntington, at the Columbia Supply company, who were indicted in Washington, D. C., in connection with the postal scandals, surrendered themselves to United States Marshal Henkel in this city Monday. Bench warrants were issued for Huntington and McGlehnn last week, at the time of the arraignment of George W. Beavers on the Washington indictment.

Mr. McGlehnn did not seem to be at all perturbed over the charges against him, but Mr. Huntington, a much older man, was plainly much disturbed and paced the floor nervously. Former District Attorney Jamee H. Ridgeway, of Brooklyn, appeared as their counsel.

The warrant upon which the two men were held charges them with having, in the city of Washington, unlawfully conspired together and with August W. Machen and others to defraud the United States out of the sum of 50 cents for each and every package box in his furnished to the post office department under a contract with the Columbia Supply company, and with having given to Machen $100 in pursuance of this conspiracy.

IS NATION'S ANTHEM.

"Star Spangled Banner" Is Selected by Order of the Navy Department.

Washington, Sept. 15.—The navy department has issued an order declaring "The Star-Spangled Banner" to be the national anthem, and directing that whenever that composition is played by all officers and men shall stand at attention unless they are engaged in duty that will not permit them to do so. It is required that the same respect shall be observed toward the national air of any other country when played in the presence of official representatives of such country.

Well-Known Photographer Dead.

New York, Sept. 15.—Otto Sarony, who for nearly 30 years has had an international reputation for his work in portrait photography, is dead at a hospital in this city from phthisis. His health had been failing for over two years. He was the son of Napoleon Sarony, the crayon artist, and was known among members of the theatrical profession.

ENGLAND FACES A CRISIS

Rumor Says Cabinet Ministers Are About to Resign.

Special Meeting Is Held, But No Decision Regarding Fiscal Question Is Reached.

London, Sept. 15.—A press association here understands that the rumors at the approaching resignation of the chancellor of the exchequer, Mr. Ritchie, are well founded. He attended the special cabinet meeting called for Monday with the determination of resigning. Other minor resignations are likely to occur, but Colonial Secretary Chamberlain and Premier Balfour are reported to be standing together and intend keeping up the cabinet by filling the vacancies.

From all parts of the country and the continent British cabinet ministers came to London Monday to attend the cabinet meeting, which was regarded as marking the most important phase in the recent political history of the United Kingdom. The Times voiced public sentiment in declaring it was a "great occasion," more important even than the historic meeting when some rule was the agreement, for the main issue Monday is the "unity of the empire."

But since the fateful day when the cabinet framed an answer to President Kruger's ultimatum had such crowds gathered around Downing street. From early morning lovers assembled here in the hope of catching a glimpse of the political leaders. However, when it was announced that the cabinet would not meet until three o'clock the spectators dwindled away.

The cabinet meeting ended at 5:50 p. m. It transpired that the predicted division in the cabinet over Mr. Chamberlain's proposals actually occurred and that a partial reorganization of the ministry is probable. Mr. Ritchie expressed his unalterable opposition to any change in the fiscal system and nothing is believed to have occurred to modify the opinion that he will resign the chancellorship of the exchequer.

In spite of the South African war commission's severe criticism of Lord Lansdowne's course as secretary for war, it is declared that he proposes to remain at the head of the foreign office.

Another meeting of the cabinet will be held Tuesday. It may therefore safely be assumed that no definite decision regarding the fiscal question was reached.

ROOSEVELT EXPLAINS.

Says Complication Which Arose Over Invitation to Yacht Club Dinner Caused by Misunderstanding.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 15.—By authority of the president the statement was made Monday that the complication which arose over the Sewanhaka-Corinthian Yacht club dinner had developed from a misunderstanding. The president explained to Colonel Hoyt, chairman of the board of trustees of the club, that he could not attend a large formal dinner, as by so doing he would be unjust to many friends and organizations whose invitations to similar affairs he had been obliged to decline.

The president further states it to be known that he did not in the remotest way object to the presence of Sir Thomas Lipton at the dinner. His words to personal letter to Mr. Hoyt stating his position. In that letter he informed Mr. Hoyt that he not only had no objection to the attendance of Sir Thomas Lipton at the dinner, but that as a member of the club he would be glad to see him there if Sir Thomas could make it convenient to be present.

Three Truthful Tales.

Joe McCaffrey, the bright young man who pounds the typewriter, and manipulates the shorthand end of the Healy-Watson land office, knows considerable, but he had his first introduction to strap hinges last week. John Watson was fixing the barn door, and decided it would look better and serve a more useful purpose if it opened and shut like other well-regulated doors. So he yells from the back end of the lot:

"Joe!"

"Ya-as, I'm coming!"

"Well, go down and tell Sam Hunt to give you a pair of six-inch strap hinges."

"All right, John."

In due course of time Joe is back. John is still holding the door in place and waiting for the hinges. In sparring for an opening Joe observes in a monotone:

"Say, John, guess I'll have to go to Brunelle's harness shop for them leather hinges. Sam says they don't keep no leather 'round their store."

"Well, christopher geeswax crimus! Who'n thunder and mud said anything about leather hinges, anyway? D'you take me for a second-class Arkansaw geebaw that don't know a blowhole from an orthinological specimen of purest ray serene? D'you suppose for the infinitesmal part of a second that I'm going to mar the classic Greek architecture of this barn by using boot straps for hinges? Great crickity snakes, man, go and rub some typewriter oil on your brain——"

But Joe was back in the office poring over the encyclopedia to find out what in creation strap hinges were.

"Just as soon, sir," replied the old lady, "as anybody comes along who can raise the wind!"

A MID-SUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM.

A Rose of the Old Dominion

By BEAUFORT NORVELL

(Copyright, 1903, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

MAY-TIME in Virginia the year of our Lord 1776, with George in England rulling the colonies with a tyrant's hand, Fairfax in Virginia, still loyal to the king, and Washington camped just across the river, preparing for war, deadly war.

May-time in Virginia, overhead the white moon flung her largess of silver through the newly-budding branches. Somewhereabout in the evening stillness, a mocking-bird, drunk with the melody of spring, was singing his heart out. It was truly a white night, a night for love and fair dreams, and it came to the two who lingered 'neath the trees, in the old dew-drenched night-scented garden.

"My father gives a ball in honor of the British on the evening of the twentieth. The house will be crowded with them, but no dearly as I love to dance, and dearly as I love the gay parade, it will be hard for me to conceal my loathing for those men," and Mistress Polly Wilburton tapped her foot impatiently on the ground, while

"YOU ARE A BRAVE WOMAN."

Warren Hastings hastily wrote in his notebook: "At Mendenhall, evening of twentieth, John Wilburton gives a ball to the British soldiers."

"I will report that to my colonel," he said to himself, but, turning to Polly, he began in a vehement voice:

"This is not a time for dancing and merry-making. The whole country is seething for war. The king has taxed the people until there is nothing left. There must be war; there will be war, and I, for one, say, let it come." Then changing his tone, he said in a gentler voice:

"But there are sweeter words than talk of war for a maid to hear, and now, here, under God's stars, Mistress Polly Wilburton, daughter of a tory, give me your promise, come weal, come woe, when these troublous times are over, you will be my wife."

"Ah, John, I am glad I am not a British soldier, to have to face you on the battlefield; you take one by storm, even in love. I will give you my promise, and the night of the twentieth, to show you my loyalty, I will place a candle in the window, and when its light shines across the garden, you may know you are safely enter and capture the British in their merry-making. This is the love of a maid for a man," and she kissed him lightly on the brow.

"You are a brave woman, and I trow you are no laggard in love or war."

Mistress Polly Wilburton's maid laid out her prettiest dress the evening of the twentieth. The shimmering satin of silvery sails rested like a billowy foam upon the bed; beside the dress was the white pompadour gloves, stiff and lace-trimmed, and the two white sandals with jewel buckles sat primly by the bed ready for the dainty silk-clad feet.

"Make me look more beautiful tonight than I ever looked to my life, Matilda. There are many hearts to win and many things beside hearts at stake."

A real Romney maid she looked, as she descended the broad stairway in her clinging, short-waisted, satin gown, the cilck of her high-heeled slippers resounding on the polished stairs, the soft red lips, curving with roguish smiles, and the dimples playing hide and seek in the reverse cheeks, while in her hand she held a crimson rose.

A crowd of gallant beaux stood ready to plead for the honor of the first dance.

"No less a personage than your commander shall have the honor," and she slipped by them and away to where he stood, earnestly-talking to some of his men, his hand rested on his arm, and the frowe was gone, and they were stepping lightly to the tune of a stately minuet.

Flash of jewels, cloak of swords, shimmer of satin and lace, and above it all the throbbing, pulsing notes of the violins, the senuous rhythm of music, the lonquorous perfume of flowers. Thus did the faithful tory, John Wilburton, entertain the British.

Mistress Polly felt herself a traitor to her father's cause, but loyal to her country, for we know, 'neath the shadow of the old, old tree, Warren Hastings was waiting impatiently a signal to enter.

Hessians and British swarmed through the halls and room of the old mansion, bright with the blaze of light from the many pronged silver sconces on the wall, and the warm glow of the log fire in the broad fireplaces, for the chill of winter still lingered in the spring. Laughter and merry-making Englnad, and forgot their troubles in looking on the red wine of John Wilburton.

Again the music and the dance began, and again was Mistress Polly besieged with requests for dances.

"Who dances with me pays a forfeit. Stack your swords in the corner and I will scatter the leaves of the rose; whoever returns to me the greatest number, shall be rewarded with the next dance." And she held the rose high above her head and shook the petals in her hand.

Clank, clank, clank, and every man laid down his sword, and his majesty's soldiers, in a trice were scrambling over the floor after the petals of a red, red rose.

It was two by the Grandfather clock on the stairs as Mistress Polly stepped lightly to the window, and the light of a candle flashed out across the night, and she went back to the ballroom with a fast-beating heart and flushed cheeks. Gayest of the gay, she flitted here and there, cheering them in their mad scramble for the scarlet petals. The air was fragrant with the odor of the crushed rose leaves, and the perfume of scented powder on headdress and wigs. The girl grew faint, as she watched the British flicker across the highly-polished floor, and counted the moments since she had seen the first rays glimmer across the walk, and enought just one glimpse of a form beneath the trees. "Would he come?" she asked herself, and, with the question, the great doors swung noiselessly open and as noiselessly Washington's men ranged themselves around the room, and a voice rang out triumphantly:

"Forrooth! A merry game, and what might it be, gentlemen?"

Instantly every British and Hessian reached for his sword.

"We are caught, gentlemen: if we did not know John Wilburton for such a staunch friend of the king, we might say, we are betrayed. But I would stake my honor on John Wilburton's loyalty. We surrender."

Amidst the tumult, terror and din stood Mistress Polly, a regulsh, satisfied smile on her lips, and her eyes alight with the gleam of triumph, as she sought the look of approval on Warren Hastings's face. He crossed the room to her side, and they passed out on to the broad portico. As the door closed behind them, he clasped her in his arms, and whispered words of love and praise that were only intended for the ears of Mistress Polly Wilburton.

"Oh! it was a dreadful thing to do," she sobbed. "You need never ask of me again to do that of which my father disapproves.

"I am a traitor to my father, his country and his king, all for you, for you— Now, your country shall be my country, your king my king, even Washington," she said, tearfully.

"And you shall be my queen, and my heart shall be the kingdom over which you shall rule, and my love shall encompass and shield you through all our journey of life."

SAVE YOUR FARM MACHINERY.

It is Valuable Enough to Take Good Care Of.

The farmers are now almost through using their harvesters, and in a few weeks, the expensive machinery employed in cutting wheat and other grain will have fulfilled its mission for this year and be ready to enter upon it's twelve months' rest. But where will all this machinery, valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars, spent it's long vacation. Drive in whatever direction you will from Red Lake Falls and you will see $125 self-binders standing where work quit or in barnyards, without cover and without care taken to preserve them from decay and the destruction of the elements. There these valuable machines will remain, until they are needed a year hence, then they will be brought forth, the iron work covered with rust, the wooden parts weakened and scarred by exposure to the weather. The machine that is wintered in some unprotected part of the farm is of few days and full of repairs. It may have been a perfect machine at the close of the season's work, but when brought forth for service the following year, sappiness has departed from it's joints, it creaks and groans and breaks down under the work it done so easily the year before.

Only a very small proportion of farmers take proper care of their farm machinery, and the loss to them from this source alone is enormous. The loss in farm machinery will often bring ruin and failure. It is no gladsome sight for implement dealers and they always chuckle at the thoughts of annual sales to farmers who neglect to care for their machinery.

The following clipped from an Iowa exchange, tells a story worthy of perusal and remembrance:

"Andrew Ghere has a binder he has used for twelve harvests. The annual acreage cut by this binder is about 200 acres each year and during all this time he has spent less than $2 per year for repairs. Each fall Mr. Ghere pulls his binder into a shed he has constructed against the end of his barn, paints the wood parts, puts axle grease on some of the iron work and next season it is ready for work. It pays to take care of your machinery."

What farmer Ghere has done every farmer in the Red Lake country who owns a binder can do. The farmer who does it will be able to build himself a new house from the money saved on his various implements at the end of ten years.

Distress After Eating Cured.

Judge W. T. Holland, of Greensburg, La., says: "I was afflicted with dyspepsia for two years and suffered greatly from indigestion. After eating, great distress would immediately result, lasting for an hour or so and my nights were restless. I concluded to try Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and it cured me entirely. No my sleep is refreshing and digestion perfect." Sold by W. A. Schreiner.

PAPER SCHOOLS WON'T GET AID.

Rural Schools Must Have at Least a Dozen Pupils.

J. W. Olsen, state superintendent of public instruction, has announced a new set of rules governing state aid to semi-graded rural schools for the year ending August 1, 1904. The rules are intended to raise the standard for instruction, and are more strict than those of previous years. Hereafter rural schools will not receive aid unless there is an average daily attendance of at least twelve and unless books to the amount of $15 are added to the schools annually. Semi-graded schools must purchase $20 worth of books a year.

The application of each school must show that it has maintained its standard of efficiency, both in the character of the work and in the equipment, and that some improvement has been made during the year. The school grounds must be kept neat and clean, and present an orderly and attractive appearance.

The teachers, from the beginning of and through the school year, shall have held the certificate required by law. Aid will not be granted unless the teachers hold the state certificate designated, or those of higher rank.

The school building and each room must be clean and well kept. Proper provision must be made for heating, so that the heat is evenly distributed, without making any one part of the room uncomfortably warm while another may be cold. This end can best be attained either by steam or furnace heat; or, if a stove is used, it should be placed in one corner of the room and inclosed by a sheet iron jacket. A stove placed in the body of the room, and without any inclosure, will not be considered a satisfactory means of heating the room.

A system of ventilation must be provided that will furnish a constant supply of fresh air without causing draft. Ventilation by only doors and windows will be regarded as inadequate. Each room must be supplied with sufficient blackboard space, slate preferred. The school must have a Webster international dictionary.

Our Tax Laws.

Luverne Herald: The rank injustice of our present methods of taxation can never be removed, and we can never have anything like approximately equitable taxation without amendment of our constitution; but our present system, bad as it is, would be far less iniquitous if the existing tax laws were enforced according to their letter and purpose. For instance, the law requires that all property be assessed at its actual value, but as the laws are executed all property is assessed at a fraction of its value, and the valuations vary from, say, one-fifth for live stock, watches, farm machinery, pianos, etc., to fifty per cent for bank stock and possibly seventy-five to one hundred per cent for money. When one man who has $1,000 in money would be required to pay tax on an assessment of $750 while another man who has $1,000 in cattle or other personal property is required to pay tax on an assessment of only $200, it is not surprising that the man whose personal property is in cash fails to disclose anything for taxation and thus compels the man whose personal property can not be concealed to pay alone the whole tax which should be borne by both.

If all property were assessed at its full value and taxed on an equal basis the man with money would be much more likely to list his cash for taxation, and the assessment of money and other personal property which now escapes taxation would be very largely increased.

Reflections of a Bachelor.

New York Press: No matter how swelled a man's head is, he never thinks he is of as much importance in the world as his wife does.

A woman is always discovering a new corset that either will make a thin person look stout or a stout person look thin.

The reason a scandal party breaks up late is that every woman in it is afraid to go away and have the others take up her case.

One nice thing about the way women dress is that at a picnic they can sit in a damp much more comfortably than a man can.

COINAGE OF PENNIES.

W. E. Curtis Writes Interestingly On This Subject.

In one of his recent letters to the Record-Herald, Wm E. Curtis writes quite interestingly regarding the coinage of pennies, giving statistics of the number coined, the expenses, etc., which no doubt will interest most of the reading public. Mr. Curtis says that the profit made by the government in the coinage of pennies pays the entire expense of the mints and the cost of making all the other metallic money issued by the United States.

Last year the total expense of the mintage system was $1,310,389. The seigorage, which is the difference between the value of the copper bullion and the value of the pennies after they are coined, $1,919,370, leaving a balance of $86,980 in favor of the pennies. We no not coin any more copper cents, however; nowadays the pennies are made of bronze, a mixture of copper and tin.

Last year 87,376,722 pennies were issued from the mints. That is about the annual average. The demand is steady and regular and keeps pace with the growth of the population nowadays, although a few years ago when the street stores became fashionable and the proprietors of the department stores got in the habit of marking their goods 39 cents or 98 cents and 74 cents, instead of the multiples of five, there was a loud call for pennies from all the country. For a time the mints were busy night and day, but it is recent years there has been no unusual demand. The slot machines act as regulators. The men who run them deposit the pennies they contain every day at regular intervals, which keeps a supply on hand. Very few other people ever deposit pennies.

There are now outstanding 1,372,630,221 pennies. Many of these, however, have doubtless disappeared into the oblivion which swallows up the pins. Since the organization of the government 1,317,326,068 pennies have been coined. Of these $33,636,847 have been remelted, but she government does not remelt any more because it is cheaper to buy fresh strips of bronze and manufacture from new metal. Old, worn and defaced pennies will be redeemed if they are brought to the treasury, but they are destroyed.

A Secret Trade.

The making of carbon paper and typewriter ribbons is a trade secret, known to scarcely two dozen people in the entire world. It has been handed down from father to son for probably a century. So carefully is the secret guarded that the process has never been patented. Much money and time have been spent to discover this secret but to no avail. The secret of brewing golden grain belt beer lies in the care of the purest and expensive barley malt and hops. The cost of ageing this beer is considered; it is "how good" and not "how cheap" can the beer be made. The process is an evolution worked by years of experimenting and by careful, honest work. The good this beer does you demonstrates better than the words the success of the effort. Alex Thompson, Crookston.

MINNESOTA NEWS.

Assessment and Taxation.

The steady increase in the market value of diamonds and Ave stock has had a peculiar effect on the people of Minnesota, if the returns made to the state board of equalization are to be taken as a basis of fact.

While in one year the market price of diamonds has increased about 50 per cent, the total value of diamonds owned in Ramsey county, as shown by the tax returns, is about 50 per cent of last year's total.

The returns made for diamonds in Ramsey county last year was $145,900. This year the returns total $73,515.

The same ratio of shrinkage obtains throughout the state generally and in some instances the assessors have gone the limit. Pope, Roseau, Sherburne and Swift counties, according to the practices assessors and county boards, furnish shelter to no diamonds or jewelry and the total amount found in Grant county is an even $5 worth.

The total diamond and jewelry assessment for the state is $239,173, as compared with $349,671 last year.

The returns for gold and silver plate would indicate that the panama man had reaped a harvest and shipped his crop to the effete east. The assessors and county boards found but $56,450 in gold and silver plate in Hennipen county this year. Last year they found $120,626.

What is true of jewelry and plate seems to be true of cattle and stock. The figures of the board of equalization are scarcely prepared to believe that there is an actual shrinkage in the number of horses, cattle, sheep and hogs owned in Minnesota. Yet the law returns show an average shrinkage of approximately 50 per cent in these items.

In 1900 there were, according to the returns, 594,000 sheep in Minnesota. This year the assessors small finding 386,073.

In the same year there were disclosed 1,448,651 hogs. This year the total is 590,000 a shrinkage of about 1,000,000 hogs which is probably approximately the number escaping assessment and taxation.

The same relative shrinkages are found in the lists of horses, cattle, watches and clocks.

The watch and clock list furnishes a case in point. The returns show that there are only 184,854 watches and clocks owned in Minnesota and the average price is approximately $4.

According to these returns at least two-thirds of Minnesota's citizens are without either watches or clocks.

Hard Coal Tar Colors.

The dairy commission has made a ruling to the effect that coal tar colors shall not be used by creamery men after Jan. 1. Minnesota is the first state to forbid the use of coloring matter for butter and in making this ruling, Commissioner McConnell says he is only following the law which prohibits the use of coal tar or aniline colors in other food products.

Vegetable colors for butter are more expensive than the coal tar product and as a result the latter has been used almost exclusively. The dealers are allowed two and a half months in which to get rid of their coal tar colors.

Just Dogs.

Otter Tail county has the largest number of dogs in the state, according to the assessors' returns, 3,200 being returned for taxation. Steams reports 3,351, and Hennepin comes third with 3,257. The mortality among Minneapolis canines must have been severe last year, for the figures represent a decrease of 371 this year.

There were 103,790 dogs taxed in the state in 1902, at an average valuation of $3.17. This year there were 100,358 returned, valued at $3317,223, an average of $3.05.

THE ANGELUS.

The day draws to an end; the evening light
Turns all the earth images to gold;
While round the spires, in interweaving flight,
The swallows wing as though they would
To weave a sheer invisible fabric bright
Of sun and blue, to shroud the dying day
Ere its
Be laid in shadows dark and
Ere all her beauty, withering, pass away.

From the high tower the angelus of rest
Rings out at last day-labor's passing
While in the fields of harvest cast and
And north and south the reapers, head on breast,
Breathe their last prayer, and turn from toilsome quest,
Wherein since dawn they have labored in the sun;
Full glad to see the clear sky promise well
For ending of their reaping well begun.

O Love! may we, when life draws near to eve,
And bright the sunset glow upon the brow,
Of all the world of toiling take our leave,
Forgetting all its woes that fret and grieve;
Remembering only flashing joys that weave
For love a sheer imperishable beauty bright,
And bear with happy hearts, as we bear now,
The angelus at falling of the light.

TWO OF A KIND

By ELEANOR ARNOLD

(Copyright, 1903, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

THERE is no reason why I should not go and stay a year with Marion, but I have been my own mistress so long that somehow I dislike to shirking the old house. Sometimes when I think how free I am to come and go, how there are no ties to bind me and no one to miss me, I almost wish—Yes, I will go to Marion's; I'll go tomorrow. To-morrow! To-morrow is Saturday, and—Tom McNair usually calls on Sunday. No, I'll wait till Monday. O, yes, I had much better wait till Monday. It would hurry me to go Saturday. O, yes, decidedly, Monday would be a much better day for me to go.

And I will not tell Tom that I am going away for a year, because he would want me to write to him, and I never could do it. Somehow on shows oneself plainer in letters than in talk, and if I were to write to him, I know I would say lots of things that I never could say with those serious gray eyes on me. I might show him—be might think that I cared—

I have been two months at Marion's, and I am beginning to wish that I had promised to write to Tom. Poor fellow! He looked so kind of forlorn when I told him I was going and never said a word about letters, but I suppose it was merely that there would be one less piece for him to call and spend Sunday afternoon. What a cranky old bachelor he is, anyway. I don't believe he cares for anything on earth but his creatures comforts, but what do I care what he cares or whether he cares—I don't care one little bit; of course not, but I would just like to know—I am going in to sit with Grandma Gordon for awhile.

"Yes, my dear, that is my dearest friend. If she not a beautiful woman? I hardly think any picture can do her justice, but you can get some idea of the high ideals, the sentiment and the romance, of her nature. That's a very old-fashioned word, my dear, but I am an old-fashioned woman, and I love it, and it is not altogether an inappropriate word to apply to Caroline, for she has a rather romantic little history.

"Tell it to you? Are you really so interested in an old lady's friends? Well, Caroline Richings and I were schoolmates—but then, you put me, other log on the fire and pull up that low rocker for yourself. Do! You would rather sit on that stool? Well then, lean against my knee. It is a beautiful day, isn't it? Such a snow storm! There, that blaze is quite cheery.

"Well, we were girls together, or I said, and never were two girls better friends. I don't believe that ever had a lover chanced to come between us, he could have changed the friendship that we felt for one another. But that never happened, and when we got to the time for lovers, I married my first one. I was very young, but sometimes the first is the right one, my dear, and it happened to be so in my case."

Grandma reverently raised her eyes to the portrait hanging above the mantel, and the painted eyes of her first and last love looked back at her with something of the tenderness with which they had rested on her in life.

"But it was not so with Caroline, for though she had many lovers, she did not marry. The years slipped by, and she became what the world calls an old maid, leading a busy, useful life, taking care of her old father and mother till they were both laid side by side upon the hill, and then doing for her brothers and sisters and all the rest of her family, and when there was no longer anything she could do for them, she did for the poor and unfortunate of the city, until her name came to stand for all that was good to them.

"A busy life she led, and, I supposed, a happy one, but a nature like Caroline's could hardly be happy in single life. She was so essentially a womanly woman and, with all her helpfulness, a dependent one in some ways; in those ways, I mean, in which a true woman is meant to be dependent.

"And so it was that when my husband went to England for his company, to be gone a whole year, and my Harry, being only a few months old, I could not go with him, that it was arranged that Caroline should come and spend that year with me.

"Well, she came, and we settled down to a good visit, and Caroline devoted herself to my babies with such good results that in a short time Aunt Carrie was fairly fought for by them. And how she loved those children! Her mother's traits blossomed most beautifully, and the half sad, heart-hungry look that her lovely face wore when she first came to us began to disappear from it, and she seemed again, to me, my schoolmate, Carrie.

"When she had been with me about six months, there came to her one day a letter from Hiram Wight, one of the old schoolboys. We used to think, when we were boys and girls together, that she and Hiram thought a good deal of each other, but the years had gone by and nothing had come of it, and I had very nearly forgotten all about it when this letter came to her. I could see that the contents disturbed her not a little, although she tried to conceal it. After only a few hours following his letter, Hiram walked in upon us and announced that he had come to take Carrie back with him, she told me all.

"The dear old girl had loved that ridiculous boy all those years, and he had never come to his senses till now. I do believe that he never would have come to them if it were not that when Carrie went away for so long he suddenly found out what made life worth living, and without losing any time in burning himself for being such a "regard in love," he very wisely decided to ask Carrie to come and help him try to gather up those lost years, and let him carry her burdens, as he used to her lunch basket, 'and perhaps,' he said, 'I may yet live to show the world that there is one worse fool than an old fool, and that is a young fool.' And so, my dear, they were married. Yes, right then and there, at my house, and— What is it, May? A visitor? Dear me! it can't be anyone to see me, is it?"

"No, ma'am, it's Miss Amy, and be would come right up—"

A large, snowy overcoat brushed by her, and two big, cold hands grasped mine. Mr. McNair, this is Grandma Gordon," but no it isn't, for grandma went out with little Miss Mary—but I must say something, for those gray eyes are full of laugh at sight of my discomfiture.

"Come up by the fire, it—it is a terrible day—let me take that coat. You should have let the maid brush the snow off for you." And I pile on the wood and draw up a large chair before the blaze.

Not a word yet, only those dreadful eyes following every move I make. Why don't he—"Amy, won't you look round and see if you can find a teaspoon for me, or, couldn't you fasten a long pair of oars on me, or do something that will serve to label me as the most assinine of asses.

"However, I have let you slip through my fingers these five years or more without finding out that you were the only person I could ever love—hang it all I did know it, but some people never can appreciate a blessing till they lose it, and that's my particular idiocy, but if you will come back to be my blessing forever—O, the presumption of me to ask it—I'll tell you, you just marry me, and you will have the best chance in the world to punish me for being such a wise as not to know a pearls when they were cast before him. Will you?"

The French have found a reason for the popularity of the cakewalk in Paris. The thing is French! One of the troupes at the Nouveau Cirque, interviewed by a Paris paper, says that the origin of the dance was French. According to this latest account, some of the French refugees from the court of Maria Antolnette introduced the minuet into New Orleans about the time of the revolution, and it was the native imitation of the most fashionable dance in Europe, that was afterwards developed into the cakewalk.

The alphabet shrieked when Alexander fell. At least, it was so have shrieked if it had foreseen the new Servian cabinet list.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, that justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVE VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—Among HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLER WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next five years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not just as well have that in your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well-settled community, where churches and schools are built and roads graded. These will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $3,000 cash will handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit at 6 per cent. A live investor can make a 4 to thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

The Nickel Plate road, with its eastern connections—the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western and West Shore and Boston & Maine Railroads—is considered by travelers who have patronized it as a most desirable line between Chicago and New York, Boston and other eastern points, and takes its place among the first class lines leading eastbound from Chicago. It is operating three through first class trains, all daily and equipped with modern conveniences, for the convenience and comforts of the traveling public, and has succeeded in a remarkable degree, in pleasing its patrons, growing in popularity every day. One of its attractive features and thoroughly appreciated by the traveling public, is its dining car service, meals being served on American Club Plan, ranging in price from 35c to $1.00; also service a la carte. Colored porters are in charge to look after the comfort of passengers in coaches and especially to assist ladies traveling with children. All passenger trains arrive at and depart from the La Salle St. Station, Chicago, the only passenger station in Chicago on the Elevated Loop. When going east, try the Nickel Plate Road. Suggestive Names.
The Coxcomb mountains of British Honduras, to some extent, an unknown part of the famous Mahogany coast, are undergoing a process of christening which will identify them for all times with the beginning of the twentieth, century. One range has just been named the Queen Alexandra mountains, another range takes the name of the Princess of Wales, and the 4,000 foot peak has been named Mount Joseph Chamberlain.

MINNESOTA has another vice-presidential boom. This time it is Judge Torrance.

WILLIAM HENRY still has a chance to remain at home and "make it interesting for Jacklindism."

IT begins to look as though some miscreant is pumping salt water on Frank Eddy's gubernatorial boom.

MR. PAYNE evidently hasn't much use for the civil service. He is a relic of the dark ages when by common consent the spoils belonged to the victors.

THE United States land office remains at Cass Lake, this decision having been rendered by Secretary Hitchcock last Saturday. It seems that Bemidji never had much show for the office, anyway.

SMALLPOX is almost stamped out in Minnesota. Only three cases were reported to the state board of health for the ending September 7. There has been a total of 3,971 cases so far this year and 34 deaths.

SECRETARY SHAW'S explanation of the Hay appointment suggests that a most inexcusable blunder was made. He ought to carry a typewritten list of the appointments he controls in his hat, and not step on the presidential preserves.

GENERAL MILES in his last official statement says, "There could easily be mobilized in our country at least ten times as many mounted men, many of whom have had military service, as could be landed on our shores by any government within a reasonable time."

WILLIAM HENRY EUSTIS has again been sacrificed for the good of the party. Just as he had that $7,000 job within his grasp, he is asked to make room for Eugene Hay, whom the Minneapolis want to sidetrack before the congressional primaries take place. William Henry considerately vacates, and the bloody chasm is again bridged.

THE navy department has issued an order declaring "The Star Spangled Banner" the national anthem and directing whenever that composition is played that officers and men shall stand at attention unless they are engaged in duty that will not permit them to do so. It is required that the same respect shall be observed toward the national air of any other country when played in the presents of the representative of such country.

THE state board of equalization seems to have been actuated by the theory that personal property has not been paying its proportion of the taxes, and proceeds to raise the valuation to 50 per cent of its cash value. There has never been any doubt in the minds of the people that the valuation was high enough before. The trouble is that too much personal property escapes assessment. The tax-dodger is not reached by raising the taxes of the people who make honest statements of their property. In fact the tax-dodger is highly gratified by the present course of the state board.

MR. IVERSON'S EXPLANATION.

State Auditor Iverson sends a communication to the Thief River News in which he denies that personal feeling or political considerations in anyway prejudiced his action as a member of the state investment board with regard to the recent decision of the board to refuse Red Lake county a loan on its ditch bonds.

We hope that Mr. Iverson's statements relative to the matter are true, but if so, it is difficult to reconcile his correspondence and statements relative to the matter.

We assume that the state board was justified in finally refusing the loan on the grounds that the school money cannot be loaned to counties where the indebtedness exceeds seven per cent. of the real estate valuation. This decision of the attorney generals office apparently gives Mr. Iverson a convenient excuse to carry out his own wishes in the matter.

In order to show Mr. Iverson's attitude toward Red Lake county it is necessary only that the correspondence and personal statements of the state auditor be given. When the application was made to the state for the loan, Mr. Iverson wrote to County Auditor Ford: "The state has ample funds to loan your county for drainage purposes, and I shall be pleased to hand your application to the investment board at any time." A few weeks after this communication was received Auditor Ford and County Attorney Grady went to St. Paul to consult the board in relation to the loan, and at this meeting Mr. Iverson told them that there was no money for Red Lake county, as Aitkin and Beltrami counties wanted large loans for ditch purposes, and that they must be taken care of, although neither county had at this time made an application. Later he was induced by Representative Simons to join with the governor and secretary of state in recommending a loan of $60,000. This was done apparently by the insistence of the other members of the board, and was by no means in accordance with the personal wishes of Mr. Iverson, for no sooner had this action been agreed upon when Mr. Iverson told a person whose confidence we are not at liberty to violate that Red Lake county would not get $60,000 nor any other amount from the state.

Mr. Iverson is extremely ready to infer that partisan bias actuated THE COURIER'S previous statements relative to his action. Nothing was further from the writer's thought. THE COURIER doesn't care whether Mr. Iverson is a Republican, Democrat or what-not, nor whether he is from Ramsey, Fillmore or Posey county. He is a public official, and if his actions as such have been actuated by his own personal or political feelings he justly deserves the criticism.

STEENERSON'S PROMISE.

St. Cloud Times: Congressman Steenerson, of the Seventh District, has not yet taken his seat, but he has "views" and is not afraid to express them. He is quoted as saying:

"There is prospect of a lively discussion on the Cuban reciprocity treaty. Several members of the house are strongly of the opinion that the treaty should have originated in the house. They claim it is a revenue producing act which the constitution directs shall originate in the house of representatives. They will make a fight against the senate usurping the prerogatives of the house. I hardly think the opposition to the treaty will be strong enough to defeat it, but a lively debate is promised. I shall vote for the treaty. I understand that the Minnesota delegation is divided on the question."

We trust that Mr. Steenerson will vote as he promises—but, we will see. The air of Washington sometimes changes views which are entertained by congressmen when breathing Minnesota ozone.

ABOUT COAL.

It is announced, says the New York World, from the anthracite region that there is "too much coal" on hand, that all-summer work has caused "stagnation in the coal trade," and that in consequence orders curtailing production have been issued.

This news will come as a surprise to the people of the seaboard cities, who must get their mining information at second-hand. The usual proof and sign of over-production—a falling price—has at no time this summer been observed. On the contrary the price, high in April, has been jacked up ten cents a month as usual.

At this distance there will be a general disinclination to believe that there is over-production, "Under-consumption" is the trouble. People are putting fewer tons in their bins than they used to before monopoly was "Morganized" in 1900.

Let the price of coal be dropped, easy, to a point which will shut the railroads only about as much additional profit over the ante-strike prices as the few cents a ton that higher wages have cost, instead of five times as much, and householders will heap their bins, manufacturers will burn coal, poor people will shiver less during the comiag winter and the "stagnation" will disappear with the mounting coal heaps. It would be worth trying; but not everything worth trying is tried.

THE opening clause of the late Judge Flandrau's will read: "In the name of the First Great Cause, whoever or whatever that may be." It is evident that the eminent jurist was not strictly orthodox in his religious views.

THE farmer's cow and lumber wagon must pay taxes on fifty per cent of their actual cash valuation, but the street railway company gets off, as usual, at about one-fifth of this amount.

JOSEPH HELM

Robert G. Dunn.

Lakefield Standard: One of the strongest recommendations we have lately seen of the fitness of Dunn to fill the governor's chair comes from a Democratic source, curiously enough. John E. King, editor of THE RED LAKE FALLS COURIER, and formerly for many years editor of the Adrian Democrat, gives Dunn a strong endorsement. Very few men are in a better position to judge of Dunn's ability and integrity than Bro. King, because they served together on the state board of equalization and the latter has nothing but words of praise for the ex-auditor, who always endeavored to be fair to all but to make the corporations pay their fair share of taxes. This King knew, hence the reason for his words of warm commendation for Dunn. There will be those, of course, who will seek to belittle THE COURIER'S words of praise by insinuating that King, being a Democrat, is taking this course not nut of regard for Dunn, but in the interests of the Democratic party. We disagree. We know Bro. King well and, though we differ from him politically, we have never felt that his word required vouching for and we believe his regard for Dunn to be open and disinterested. It is not often that as staunch a Democratic newspaper as THE COURIER has anything so eminently fair and sympathetic to say of a candidate for the Republican aomination for governor and praise from such a source is praise indeed.

A Purgative Pleasure.

If you ever took De Witt's Little Early Risers for Billiousness or constipation you know what a purgative pleasure is. These famous little pills cleanse the liver and rid the system of all bile without producing unpleasant effects. They do not gripe, sicken or weaken, but give tone and strength to the tissues and organs involved. W. H. Howell of Houston, Tex., says: "No better pill can be used than Little Early Risers for constipation, sick headache, etc." Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

The Big Store has a big announcement this week relating to the fall line of fall and winter merchandise. Mr. LaBissoniere tells us that his store was never better equipped to serve his customers well, and as most of his goods were purchased before the recent advance in prices he is prepared to give his patrons the benefit of the saving.

NOTICE—Those who are holding premium coupons intending to get photos enlarged will please bring them to the store before Oct. 10, whether they have enough or not. Those who have given their photos to the canvasser and have not enough coupons to redeem them will please notify us so that we may get their photos back.—Theo. LaBissonere.

Cosgrove's orchestra gave a first-class entertainment at the Metropolitan opera house Monday evening, and a large crowd was present. The selections furnished music for a dance after the concert. The entertainment was one of the best of the character ever given here, and if the Cosgroves ever fill a return date they may be sure of a hearty welcome.

Maise Ricard, of Gentilly, was killed Monday while working around a threshing machine nine miles north of Grand Forks on the Dakota side of the river. No particulars as to how the young man came to his death could be learned. The body was taken to Gentilly for burial. The deceased was a comparatively young man and made his home with his widowed mother.

Frank Cleaves, a collector for the Courier Publishing company, was publicly horsewhipped on the streets of Wahpeton by a young lady last Thursday. The lady was formerly engaged to the young lady and had been circulating reports derogatory to her character. Served him right. A fiend who will attempt to take away a woman's good name deserves no mercy at any body's hands.

The fall announcement of the Serpino store will be noticed on the inside of this issue—in fact it is the only thing that is noticeable there, for the "ad" takes up the entire space. The new fall stock of the famous Hart, Schaffner & Marx clothing is now on exhibition at this store, and all of our people who are in need of fall and winter clothing and furnishings are invited to call.

Minnesota is now ninth in the list of butter producing states, according to the report of the state dairy and food commission. During the year ending September 1, 1903, the value of the butter made by Minnesota creameries and farmers was $20,000,000. There are at present 681 creameries in Minnesota using the product of 420,000 cows and manufacturing 77,000,000 pounds of butter annually.

Alvin Robertson, president of the Robertson Lumber company, and Auditor Waldstrich were over from Grand Forks Tuesday for the purpose of checking out Agent Johnson and installing his successor, Thomas A. Cosgrove. Auditor Waldstrich tells a COURIER reporter that the yard was left in the best possible condition, and that Mr. Johnson was considered one of the best agents the company ever had.

The Fergus Falls Weekly says that automobile and motor cycles had to pay a $2 annual tax in this state Sept. 1, which includes "inspection." Deputy Fred. Damschen collected $22 in Fergus Falls recently for the six motor cycles and five automobiles that the town boasts. Of all the absurd "license" taxes, this writer is the surest to sheer idiocy. Gasoline engines also have to be inspected now and pay their $2 per.

Gentilly Cheese Factory Wins Laurels.

The officers of the Gentilly cheese factory received word this week from the management of the Wisconsin state fair that the cheese exhibit from their factory had received an official scoring of 95½ out of a possible 100. Along with the notice came a draft for the premium awarded to the Gentilly cheese factory for its exhibit.

The management of the Gentilly factory is to be highly commended for the good work done. Through such efforts as this the consumers of cheese and other dairy products are led to see that northern Minnesota can not be beaten as a dairy country. We suggest that Red Lake county cheese and butter makers keep an eye on Minnesota's state fair for 1904, and be one hand with some prize winners.

The Fergus Falls Weekly says that automobiles and motor cycles have to pay $2 annual tax in that state Sept. 1, which includes "inspection." Deputy Prod. Damschen collected $22 in Fergus Falls recently for the six motor cycles and five automobiles that the town boasts. Of all the absurd "license" taxes, that seems the nearest to sheer idiocy. Gasoline engines also have to be inspected now and pay their $2 per.

PRESIDENT FIRM IN ISSUE WITH LABOR

Stated Positively That He Will Not Submit to Dictation by Unions.

REFUSES TO DISMISS MILLER FROM GOVERNMENT EMPLOY

Formal Acknowledgement of Receipt of Protest from Washington Labor Union is Sent by President to Secretary of the Organization —No Reply Made to Resolutions.

Washington, Sept. 22.—Dispatches from Oyster Bay say President Roosevelt has declared he will not be dictated to or intimidated by the labor unions in the case of Hockbinder Miller, now at work in the government printing office. The president has received a set of unfriendly resolutions from the Central Labor union of Washington, and has sent to the secretary of the organization a formal reply, which is merely to the effect that he has received the communication. It is not probable that the president will vouchsafe any further answer to the union, but undoubtedly will take some measures soon to counteract the effect of the antagonistic action.

Will Refuse Demand.

"It may be stated emphatically and almost officially," says the dispatch from Oyster Bay, "that President Roosevelt will not accede to the demand of the union by ordering the dismissal of Miller. The president is a member of one of the affiliated bodies, and is in thorough sympathy with all the legitimate aims of the men who toils. He will not and cannot, however, allow the unions, as he regards the question, to override the laws and the rules of the government departments simply because they are unions and have power at the polls. President Roosevelt announced to a friend several weeks ago when the Miller case came up that rather than accede to such demands he would go down to defeat. 'But I'll go down fighting for what I think is right,' he is quoted as saying."

Federation to Act.

At its meeting in this city to-day the American Federation of Labor is to consider the question raised by the local unions against President Roosevelt. Individually, the officers of the American Federation of Labor and other members of the executive committee have given their indorsement to the movement brought against the administration on account of its attitude toward organized labor in connection with the printing office controversy. As a body, the federation has taken no part, and at least one prominent officer has said the question must be met by the different affiliated organizations according to the majority of their members. It is known, however, the resolutions will be laid before the executive committee and will be discussed with a view to giving advice to the bookbinders, which organization is conducting the political war instituted against President Roosevelt.

Acknowledges the Protest.

Oyster Bay, L. I., Sept. 22.—Secretary Loeb sent a letter to the Central Labor union of Washington Saturday, formally acknowledging the receipt of the authorized resolutions adopted by that body rebuking the president for what the union considers hostility toward organized labor as shown by his action in the Miller case. The letter was merely a perfunctory acknowledgment, and contained no comment on the resolutions. The president will not at this time take any action regarding the Central Labor union's criticism of him, but it is understood here that he will do so later.

Fled Feast with President.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—The Chicago Federation of Labor at a crowded meeting voted to send a 9,000-word letter to President Roosevelt flaying fault with his attitude relating to the question of open shops and suggesting that he "unpatriotic character" had led him into error.

Ruling Against Rankin.

New York, Sept. 22.—In the examination Monday of Maurice Rankin, the New York merchant indicted with August W. Machen and Thomas W. McGregor for alleged complicity in the postal scandals, Commissioner Hitchcock repeated his ruling in the Rear-ers case that a certified copy of an indictment before a federal commissioner was sufficient proof to establish probable cause and denied the motion of the defense for permission to cross-examine the government's witnesses.

No Trace of Missing Bookkeeper.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 22.—There is no trace of Llewellyn Smith, bookkeeper for the firm of Ehrick Brothers, live stock dealers, alleged to have embezzled a sum variously estimated at less than $20,000. L. M. Ehrick, a member of the firm, stated that their doors were not closed and that they had no intention of closing them. They were doing business as usual Monday.

Attain Tremendous Speed.

Berlin, Sept. 22.—A burst of speed at the rate of 114 miles an hour was reached Saturday on the Zossen electric line, but over what distance is not disclosed. The length of the line is 13 miles. The whole line was guarded and unprivileged observers were not permitted to approach.

Explosion in Arsenal Fort.

Mozambique, East Africa, Sept. 22.—An explosion of gunpowder and grenades has occurred at Fort Rio Sabastino. Many persons were killed or injured. The fort was badly wrecked. Further explosions are feared.

TRADE REVIEW.

Leading Commercial Agency Says Encouraging Conditions Are Apparent in Many Lines.

New York, Sept. 21.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "Business has made moderate progress during the past week despite unusual opposition from the elements. When all other industries are to a considerable degree dependent upon agricultural conditions, reports of serious injury to crops by cold and wet weather are not calculated to stimulate confidence. Subsequent corrections indicated that the amount of damage had been exaggerated as usual and prospects brightened. The car shortage is beginning to be felt, especially in the Pittsburg district, where sufficient labor cannot be secured for handling freight. Manufacturing plants are well occupied as a rule, even the textile mills reporting less idle machinery, and at Chicago there is notable pressure for implements and hardware. Lumber is in better demand as structural activity revives. Payments are seasonably prompt except where crop delays settlements, and the outlook for fall and winter business contains much that is encouraging. Railway earnings thus far reported for September show an average of 10.36 over last year.

"Failures this week were 219 in the United States, against 226 last year, and 19 in Canada, compared with 28 a year ago."

FLOOD SITUATION WORSE.

Mississippi River Continues to Rise at La Crosse, with Heavy Crop Damage in Vicinity.

La Crosse, Wis., Sept. 21.—The flood situation was worse Saturday at this point, the river having risen six inches more during the night, the stage of water at noon Saturday being 12 feet. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway tracks on the river front were under six inches of water and the flood had entered the basements of numerous wholesale houses along front street.

The big pontoon bridge connecting this city with La Crescent, Minn., was swung Saturday afternoon and carried over by the flood and only the prompt action of a large crew of employes prevented it from being washed away. The damage to the electric street car line in communication with this city for thousands of Minnesota farmers who trade here.

In North La Crosse the water was three feet deep in some of the residences, and French island, opposite the city, which is entirely submerged, hundreds of farmers there suffering total crop losses.

Reports received here estimate the crop damage in this immediate vicinity at $250,000. Townships in the near-by counties are beary losers on account of innumerable bridges being washed away.

KILLED HIMSELF.

Ill-Health Prompts the Suicide of the President of a Bank in Iowa.

Harlan, Ia., Sept. 19.—Edward W. Davis, president of the Shelby county savings bank committed suicide Thursday night by shooting. His body was found early Friday in the furnace room of the bank building. Davis was once a member of the Iowa legislature from Pottawattamie county, and was a prominent citizen. He disposed of most of his bank stock Wednesday, and his financial affairs are said to be in good condition. He was 80 years old. He leaves a wife and a daughter. Ill health is thought to have prompted the deed.

News of Two Tragedies.

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 19.—Charles Carlson, of San Francisco, was drowned in the Chignik river, on the Alaska peninsula, several weeks ago. About the same time Chris Nelson was killed by a half-breed named Wilson. The two had gone to Wilson's cabin and Nelson had struck Nelson over the head, killing him. Wilson fled to the mountains. News of the two tragedies reached here on the cannery tender Francis Cutting, which has arrived from the north.

Soldiers Monument.

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 21.—A notable event among the old soldiers of Illinois was the unveiling at Greenville Saturday of a magnificent monument to the memory of 1,200 deceased veterans. Lieut. Gov. Northcott presided, Gov. Richard Yates, Gen. John C. Black, of Chicago, national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic; Benson Wood, of Effingham, state commander of the grand army, and others made addresses.

Negro Lynched.

St. Louis, Sept. 21.—A special to the Post-Dispatch from Lucas, Ark., says: Negroes Friday night overpowered the guard here, took out a negro named Holden and hanged him to a water tank, where his body was left dangling until Saturday morning. Holden was charged with criminally assaulting two little negro girls, aged five and six.

Opposes Reciprocity.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 19.—The Canadian Manufactures' association emphasized its expression in condemnation of any attempt to negotiate a reciprocity agreement with the United States.

Murderer Confesses.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Louis Peasel, arrested for the murder of Joseph Spilka in her home in Eighteenth street Friday night, confessed to the police, saying he was after the family's money.

Fire in Peoria.

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 21.—H. Y. Finkbinstein's machinery warehouse burned Saturday with a loss of $100,000 and two men badly burned, one fatally.

Wants Big Sum.

Washington, Sept. 19.—Rear Admiral O'Neill, chief of ordnance, will ask for $18,000,000 for ordnance in the navy for the next fiscal year.

COAST IS SWEPT BY FEARFUL GALE

Worst Storm in Years Causes a Loss of Millions in Property on the Atlantic Seaboard.

Three Score Persons Known to Have Lost Their Lives—President Roosevelt and Party Have a Thrilling Experience on the Yacht Sylph on Long Island Sound.

New York, Sept. 17.—For hours yesterday New York, Long Island and the New Jersey coast opposite were swept by the fiercest wind and rainstorm experienced in many years. Two million dollars, at a rough estimate, will not cover the damage to property. The coast is strewn with wrecks of steamers, schooners, barges, tugs and pilot boats. As far as known 64 persons were killed in the city or near by.

President in Danger.

One of the notable features of the gale was the fact that for several hours the life of President Roosevelt was in extreme danger. He was on board the yacht Sylph with his wife and friends on his way from Oyster Bay to Ellis island, and the little naval craft, not built to withstand the forces of an ocean gale, was saved only by the superior seamanship of its commander and crew. So furious was the storm that it sunk a stanch ocean tug within sight of the president's yacht, but the little Sylph, although nearly capsized several times, rode out the gale and landed its passengers in safety in Brooklyn.

Inspects Ellis Island.

The president visited Ellis island after inspecting the immigrant station he had Commissioner of Immigration Sargent that no country in the world cared for its prospective citizens as did the United States. Officials and employes on Ellis island. Incidentally he gave the baby of an alien immigrant $5 and interested himself in the case of an excluded woman, who will probably be admitted to this country as a result of the president's inquiries.

Incidents of the Storm.

Among some of the striking incidents of the gale were the following:

The schooner Hettie A. Marsh wrecked off Delaware Breakwater, Del., and Capt. Marsh, and four of the crew drowned.

The ocean-going tug Spartan foundered in Delaware bay. Five of the crew drowned and other ten rescued from floating wreckage.

The lighthouse keeper's boat at Selem, N. J., overturned and Howard Nicholson, aged 28 years, drowned.

At Bayonne, N. J., 47 yachts of all sizes were tossed on the New York bay shore. All on board reached shore.

Fourteen Drowned.

Damariscotta, Me., Sept. 18.—Fourteen men lost their lives in the violent gale which raged off the coast during last night. The Gloucester mackerel seining schooner George F. Edwards, in command of Capt. Willard G. Poole, the owner, struck on the eastern side of Pemaquid point and was smashed to pieces, 14 of the crew of 16 men perishing in the breakers.

Steamer Lost.

New York, Sept. 19.—The steamer Vidar, from Culberien, which arrived last night, brought to port six members of the crew of 22 of the British steamer Mexicono, which foundered off the Nantucket shoals. Another member of the crew, Domingo Bello Hernandez, was picked up by the Clyde steamship Roxby, after hanging to a piece of wreckage for several hours, and landed in Norfolk, Va. All the rest were drowned.

Found Guilty of Bigamy.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Harold C. Mills was found guilty of bigamy by a jury in Judge Brentano's court Thursday. His punishment is fixed by the jury at imprisonment in the penitentiary and $1,000 fine, the maximum penalty under the law. Mills married Miss Grace Hall in 1898, three wives who were in court heard the verdict their faces shone with unmistakable joy. It was their moment of triumph.

Fatally Scalded.

St. Louis, Sept. 18.—Moses Hart, Louis Brooks and Charles Ronk, employes of the Swift Packing company in East St. Louis, were fatally scalded yesterday by falling into a vat of boiling water. They were literally parboiled when taken from the water, pieces of flesh came away with the clothing as it was removed.

To Meet in Davenport.

Quincy, Ill., Sept. 18.—Secretary Lewis B. Boswell, of the Upper Mississippi River Improvement association, has issued a call for the second annual convention of the association, which is to be held at Davenport, Ia., on October 21 and 22. Each river city and each commercial body in the organization is entitled to three delegates.

Look Out for Them.

Washington, Sept. 18.—Herbert Wilkie, of the secret service, announces the discovery of two new national bank counterfeits, a $10 note on the First People's National bank of Roxbury, Mass., and the other is a five dollar note on the Waltham National bank of Waltham, Mass.

Maryland Democrats.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 17.—Maryland democrats have nominated Edwin Warfield, of Howard county, for governor, and the platform declares "that the political destinies of Maryland should be shaped and controlled by the white people of the state."

Jealousy Causes Crime.

Noblesville, Ind., Sept. 17.—William Howe shot and killed here the divorced wife of his son and then killed himself. Jealousy was the cause.

Easy Pill

Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due to the fact that they tonic the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe nor sicken, not even the most delicate lady, and yet they are so certain in results that no one who uses them is disappointed. They cure torpid liver, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, headache, malaria and ward off pneumonia and fevers.

THE LIBRARY OF MODERN ELOQUENCE stands without a peer. Nothing like it was ever attempted before. Edited by one of the greatest of Modern Leaders of Men, Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed, assisted by a corps of editors famous wherever English is spoken, MODERN ELOQUENCE is the masterpiece of one who has lived close to those who have made and are making the history of our times.

In these volumes the reader runs the whole gamut of eloquence, from laughter to tears, from pathos to wit, from grave to gay, from lively and unctuous humor; the strong, trenchant utterance of action with the droll fancies of the humorist.

THOMAS B. REED

We see the speaker, we hear the laughter, we surrender to the spell of the words; we can feel the tense silence as the speaker mounts in his sublimest flights, then hear the outburst of applause as the audience catches the speaker at his climax.

One sits at the banquet board where the greatest after-dinner orators, wits and humorists are at their best. One listens to those master minds who from lecture platform have swayed multitudes, and held men's minds captive by the magic of their words.

These are the books for the home—for an idle hour—for the days and nights of preparation—for an evening's entertainment—for the future. They are filled with living thoughts for living men.

The Library is published in 10 volumes, with a total of 4,500 pages, royal octavo, 7¼ x 10¼ inches in size. Illustrated with 75 photogravure portraits on Imperial Japanese Vellum and Several volumes contain frontispieces in multi-color.

F. A. MILLER, Agent.

NEW MEMBERS FOR BRITISH CABINET

King Said to Have Approved Appointments to Vacancies Caused by the Resignations.

LORD SELBORNE TO BECOME SECRETARY OF THE COLONIES

Austen Chamberlain to Succeed Ritchie as Chancellor of Exchequer—Mr. Arnold-Forster Becomes Secretary of War and Mr. Brodrick Is Made Secretary for India.

London, Sept. 22.—King Edwards is reported to have approved the appointment of Austen Chamberlain, the postmaster general, to be chancellor of the exchequer, in succession to Charles T. Ritchie; Mr. Arnold-Forster, secretary to the admiralty, to be secretary for war, in succession to Mr. Brodrick; Mr. Brodrick, the present secretary for war, to be secretary for India, in succession to Lord George Hamilton, and Lord Selborne, the first lord of the admiralty, to be secretary for the colonies, in succession to Joseph Chamberlain.

No official confirmation of the appointments has yet been forthcoming.

It is known that Lord Milner, the British high commissioner of South Africa, was offered the colonial secretaryship.

Cabinet Appointments Not Yet Made.

Premier Balfour's private secretary informed the press later that the reported cabinet appointments had not yet been made, adding that Mr. Balfour hardly expected to be in a position to give out the list of new ministers Monday afternoon.

Apparently Lord Milner is still considering the offer of the colonial secretaryship and thereto is probably due the delay.

Well informed persons express the opinion that Lord Salborne will remain at the admiralty to carry out the reforms he has inaugurated.

Another Redistribution.

London, Sept. 22.—Lord Balfour, of Burleigh, secretary for Scotland, and Arthur Balph Douglas Elliot, financial secretary to the treasury, have resigned and their resignations have been accepted by the king. Mr. Elliot was not in the cabinet. These two resignations make a total of four vacant cabinet posts and one secretaryship at Mr. Balfour's disposal.

WILL NOT RESIGN.

Senator Hanna Not Ready to Give Up Chairmanship of the Republican National Committee.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 22.—Senator Hanna stated Monday that there was no truth in the report, printed in some of the eastern papers, that he would resign the chairmanship of the national republican committee on account of ill health. Mr. Hanna's duties as chairman, it is pointed out, are confined to the present, and will continue so until the national republican convention meets, when a new chairman may be named. Mr. Hanna declined to state whether or not he would again accept the chairmanship if offered to him.

Curtis Jett on the Stand.

Cynthiana, Ky., Sept. 22.—Curtis Jett was placed on the stand in his own behalf Monday. He said that at the time of the shooting he was in Hargis Bros.' store and then went across the street and went into the courthouse and then immediately went to Hargis' store. Jett, on cross-examination, made a bad impression. He was sullen and often refused to answer. He admitted that he was drinking on the day of the shooting.

Michigan Newspaper Man Dead.

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 22.—Col. C. V. Deland, one of the oldest and best known newspaper men in the state, died at his residence here early Monday after a long illness. Col. Deland served through the civil war and was made brevet brigadier general of United States volunteers in 1865 for bravery and meritorious service.

ODD FELLOWS IN SESSION

The Sovereign Grand Lodge Gathers at Baltimore.

Reports Show a Membership of 1,229,-995 and Receipts of $11,655,-006 for the Year.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 22.—The opening exercises of the annual convention of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows began here Monday morning at nine o'clock in Ford's Opera house. The sovereign grand lodge previously assembled at Kennert's hotel and marched to the opera house under command of Grand Marshal John B. Cockburn, of Indiana, escorted by the patriarchs militant.

At the opera house Grand Master Edward Rosaman, of the grand lodge of Maryland, delivered an address of welcome, which was responded to by Gov. John Walter Smith, on the part of Maryland, and Mayor Robert M. McLane, for Baltimore.

Grand Sire John B. Goodwin, of Georgia, then made an address, after which the sovereign grand lodge proceeded to Odd Fellows' temple and began its secret deliberations.

The annual report of Grand Sire and Commander-in-chief John B. Goodwin, which was read, shows the order to be in a flourishing condition.

The total membership of the order, which includes the subordinate lodge membership and the alcyone only of the Rebekah lodge membership, is 1,229,956. The encampment membership and the brothers of the Rebekah lodges are not included in the above total, as they are subordinate lodge members.

Revenues, relief and invested funds are indicated as follows:

Revenues or receipts in 1902: Subordinate lodges, $10,214,000; encampments, $712,552.46; Rebekah lodges, $226,712.59; total revenue, $11,153,265.29. An increase of $771, 312.06 over the preceding year.

Relief expended in 1902: Relief by lodges, $3,533,794.36; relief by encampments, $712,552.46; Rebekah lodges, $67,898.38; total relief, $3,393,-250.60. Total relief as shown by reports since 1830 to 1902, inclusive, $26,-468,053.32.

LADRONES ATTACK A TOWN.

Band of Hostile Filipinos Captures Guns of Police of Tuloan and Escapes—Soldier Killed.

Manila, Sept. 22.—A band of ladrones attacked the town of Tuloan, in the province of Batangas, Luzon, on Saturday last and secured the guns of the municipal police. They met with no resistance during their raid, and subsequently escaped unmolested.

The town of San Francisco Asanao, in the district of Tiagan, Luzon, was subsequently attacked, but they were repulsed. During the fight at this place one policeman was killed.

Manila, Sept. 22.—A detachment of the Twenty-eighth infantry embarked in boats had a sharp engagement on Toros lake, Luzon, on the 10th inst., with a band of fanatical Moros, during which Private O. L. Bernett was killed. One of the leaders of the enemy, a priest, single-handed, attacked a boat-load of soldiers. He was killed.

Defends Canada's Claims.

London, Sept. 22.—Attorney General Finlay at Monday's session of the Alaskan boundary commission continued his argument in behalf of Canada, citing the judgments of American officials and passages in the American case which he claimed upheld the Canadian contention.

Wanamaker Wins Suit.

Beaver, Pa., Sept. 22.—The slander suit brought against ex-Postmaster General Wanamaker by Former State Printer Robinson has ended in a victory for the defendant. The sealed verdict was read Monday morning and found for the defendant.

Ordered to Fez.

Cologne, Sept. 22.—The correspondent of the Gazette at Fez telegraphs that the sultan of Morocco has requested the French military mission, which, since 1857, has been training the Shereefian troops, to leave the capital.

The Genuine vs. Counterfeits.

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit, but the truth of this statement is never more forcibly realized or more thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve with the many counterfeits and worthless substitutes that are on the market. W. S. Lefforter, of Shreveport, La., says: "After using somebody else's powder without benefit, one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me." For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy is equaled to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

Vitality of Sea Anemone.

The sea anemone is one of the longest lived of humble organisms. One has flourished in captivity for fifty years.

Fine impressions are lasting they say —moreover, we know that a person who takes Dr. King's New Life Pills will never willingly be without it. It is a positive cure for wounds and burns, and it is the best remedy known for piles. Keep a box handy. 25 and 50c by all druggists.

Inhospitable Trees.

Some trees are known to be more unfavorable to the growth of plants beneath them than are others. The worst are the yew and the ash.

Do you think it pays to let a cough run until it "wears off"? We don't. Baffling Mystery Cleared.

A recent article by the editor of Harper's magazine may help to clear away a cloud mystery that has greatly worried a good many would-be contributors to that popular periodical. Mr. Alden explains that four out of every five manuscripts received are rejected, and that perhaps once in a twelve-month the first offering of a new writer is accepted. Yet why despair?—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

and we offer extraordinary inducements for our subscribers to pay up their subscriptions now to the RED LAKE COUNTY COURIER. If you pay us now for one year's subscription, plus only 25 cents, we will give you a due-bill entitling you to the Northwestern Agriculturist from the date we receive your subscription up to the End of Next Year, 1904,

and the ST. PAUL DISPATCH one year from the date the payment is made. Old subscribers as well as new can take advantage of this offer. All that is required is that they pay up all arrearages and one year in advance.

By taking advantage of this offer immediately the subscriber will get the Northwestern Agriculturist for about a year and a half at a trifling cost. The longer you put off paying us, the shorter the time you will get this great farm paper, for the offer is simply "December 31, 1904," whether you begin now or waite until later.

We can supply only a limited number of Northwestern Agriculturist hue-bills on the above terms, having made a limited contract with that company. Hence, "first come, first served," must be our rule. A sample copy free will be sent to any address on application. Call at our office, or write to

THE WASHBURN RIFLE TROPHY.

This handsome bronze trophy, presented by Senator Washburn, of Minnesota, is being contested for on the Minnesota state rifle range at Lake City by teams of picked men from the National guard of Illinois, Iowa and Minnesota. It is now in possession of the Illinois soldiers, and has been won twice by them. If they are successful in the present contest, it will become the property of Illinois, and be placed in the capitol building at Springfield.

ELOPE IN AUTOMOBILE.

Military Ace Gray Instructor Uses Up-to-Date Mode in Thwarting Parental Opposition.

An impatient lover at Boston carried his sweetheart away from Notre Dame academy in Roxbury in an automobile, and took her to Jamaica Plain and married her, and sent news of the event to her irate pops. The happy groom is Capt. Charles J. Senter, formerly of Manchester, N. H., and now an instructor in the military academy at Nyack, N. Y., and the bride was Miss Martha Fleming, 18 years old, the daughter of M. E. Fleming, a wealthy banker, of the Roxbury district. Mr. Fleming was opposed to the attentions Senter was paying to his daughter.

New Guns Are Successful.

At the navy department the substance of the report of the recent tests of the guns aboard the monitor Nevada off Cape Henry was made public. Each of the Nevada's two 12-inch guns was fired ten times, several of the rounds being together. The report shows that neither the mounts nor the decks developed weakness and that both the big and small guns worked admirably. It is stated that the tests of the Nevada's guns were very severe, and the result is considered gratifying by the department.

CASUAL OBSERVATIONS.

The Detroit Record notes that some people act as though they are offended because they were not consulted when the world was created.

The Ellsworth News comments on Michigan's new marriage law as follows:

It provides that no man shall marry mother, grandmother, daughter, granddaughter, stepmother, grandfather's wife, son's wife, grandson's wife, wife's mother, wife's granddaughter, nor his sister, brother's daughter, sister's daughter, father's sister, mother's sister or cousin of the first degree. This will compel fellows who feel the need of matrimonial chems to hike out and get acquainted with material outside of the family.

An unknown writer has paid the following tribute to the school teacher:

"She is the good angel of the republic. She takes the little hantling fresh from the home nest, and full of his pouts and passion—as unconquerable little wretch, whose own mother admits she sends him to school to get rid of him. The young lady who knows her business takes a whole carload of these little anarchists, half of whom are single-handed and alone more than a match for both their parents, and at once puts them in the way of becoming useful and upright citizens. At what expense of tact and soul weariness! Here, is the most responsible position in the whole school system, and if her salary were double she would yet receive less than she earns."

According to Deacon Eb. Huntington: "It cheapens confidence to be too common with mere acquaintances."

Once in a while it happens that an innocent person pleads not guilty, too.

Another old soldier has been found who refused a pension because he thought he was not entitled to it. There are two or three other instances of this nature recorded in history.

The St. Paul News observes that justice is not only blind but seems to be chloroformed most of the time.

The Blue Earth Register wonders why "the young men and boys sit and stand around on the street in the evening? As a rule the conversation is anything but profitable, elevating or instructive. One young man recently told the writer that it was a habit. He said he had been a victim of it, but after being sick a short time and having to stay at home, he was very glad to say that he was no longer bound by it. Some sort of an epidemic that would make all the young fellows sick would be profitable for the town if it would have the same effect on the others as it has on this one. This applies especially to boys who are attending school."

Mary McFadden says that the electric light that is hung on the porch of her home and can be manipulated with a switch from within by her small brother or her father, never increases a girl's popularity with a young man caller.

Uncle Joe Carmon, the next speaker of the house of representatives believes in high ideals, and even if they are never attained the individual is all the better for having aimed at the clouds:

"Young man, build castles in Spain. You'll never live in their fairy walls, but you'll try to live in them. You'll build cottages and make it a home; you'll perhaps build a mansion and call it a residence, but you'll never live in your castle in Spain. Build them when young and build them ever afterward; for in trying to live in them you are bringing good to yourself and the world. I have been building them all my life, and build them regularly, even now. I have never lived in them, but in striving to do so we do something of use to the home and the family. In the aggregate this castle building in Spain makes civilization."

The Adrian Democrat prints the following as an actual fact:

A funny little incident took place at a St. Paul hotel during the state fair the particulars of which have only just leaked out. It seems that a gentleman from this county accompanied by his wife stopped over night at the——Round and some time during the night the gentleman was taken with a terrible case of cramp colic. His wife was freightened nearly to death, but knowing that something must be quickly done she slipped on her wrapper and went down to the dining room where she emptied the contents of the mustard crust into her handkerchief and ran back up stairs; she dived into her room (as she thought) and seeing a man lying in bed, she gently turned down the cover and still more gently tucked up his lingerie and slapped on the plaster. No sooner had it come in contract with his epidermis than the man arose, and yelled out, "what in h—Hoboken are you doing woman!" The lady gave a glance at his face—it was not her husband; a screech like that of a siren on an ocean liner split the midnight from Dan to Beersheba; there was a sound of pattering feet and switching draperies; a door slammed and "quiet again reigned in Warsaw!" When the lady got to her own room she told her husband of the mistake she had made and it tickled him so that the cramp colic took a change of venue and left him.

I have a tiatyne scratched and heat,
That often holds my gare intent.

A wistful face looks out at me
With eyes of puzzled inquiry.

A little girl of seven sar—
Unwillingly—to pose for that!

Her hair was braided and brushed dowa
Flirly upon her small head's crown;

Freckles, crowded up for space,
Showed startlingly upon her face;

The corners of her mouth drooped, and
She held a lily in her hand;

Her frock of ruffled white was tied
About her with a ribbon wide;

And just below the chair's first rung
Her feet, in buckled slippers, hung.

That child—what promises had she
That now are found fulfilled in me!

EXCHANGE ECHOES.

Fairmont Sentinel:—A smart man at Marshalltown, Iowa, made a hat full of money by selling keen people "how to get fat for $5." Inquirers were told "to buy it at the butcher shop." The swindler is now under arrest for using the United States mails for fraudulent purposes.

Winnebago City Press-News: The state board of equalization has raised the personal property assessment all over the state 50 per cent. It is putting a big load on the farmers and business men in small towns. As a matter of course, the capitalists, as a rule, are not hit. If the state board keeps on it will soon amount to confiscation of the people's property.

Breckenridge Telegram: Will some philanthropic gentleman with a little spare time confer a great favor on a long suffering public by corralling the authors of the "odes of Minnesota," "state songs," etc., etc., taking a good, long sock, filling it with bran or mush, and beating out what passes for the brains of the aforesaid authors? This "pote" business is overdone.

Hutchinson Leader: John Alexander Dowie, the arch-fakir, needs more money to built his New Zion and so is going to take a few thousand of his poor deluded followers and go down into Wall Street and try to bleed a few of the "bears" and "bulls" of that great money centre. His ostensible purpose is to convert sinners, but the chief evidence to Dowie of conversion is a readiness to shell out the coin, and the depth of religious conversion is measured, by Dowie, by the amount of the contribution to Dowie's boards.

Mapleton Enterprise: As an indication that feed is scarce all over the country it is but necessary to cite the cattle receipts at Chicago. Last Monday they exceeded all records a total of 41,093 head being received, 2,093 cars being required to transport them to market. Lined up these cars would stretch out for a distance of thirteen miles. When to this you add the number of sheep and hogs received, which would equal the cattle, one wonders what in the world is done with all the stock, especially when you consider that this is but the receipts of a single day.

A BRILLIANT WEDDING.

Thomas Germo and Miss Eleanor Fredsen Married Today.

Thomas Germo, one of our leading attorneys and a most popular young man, was married to Miss Eleanor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fredsteen, at high noon today at the Presbyterian church, Rev. Andrew Walker officiating.

A large number of invitations had been issued, and the church was filled to its utmost capacity by the many friends and relatives of the contracting parties. Miss Henrietta Zaiser officiated at the organ, and as the notes of the wedding march pealed forth the bride came down the aisle on the arm of her father, and was attended by Misses Bessie Hunt, Josephine Kaus, Rose Dautremont and Maude Fredsteen. Dr. N. M. Watson officiated as best man, and the flower girls were little Misses Lorain Duffy and Rosabel Lemieux. The church was beautifully and appropriately decorated with potted plants and ferns by the young lady friends of the bride. Immediately after the ceremony dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents to the relatives and bridesmaids. Mr. and Mrs. Germo left on the afternoon Great Northern train for points in southern Minnesota and Wisconsin for a wedding trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Germo enter upon the married estate under the most favorable circumstances, blessed with good health, a modest competence and the warm regard and esteem of a large circle of admiring friends. The Courier trusts that summer skies may always be over them and no cloud low to the horizon. They deserve a generous measure of the good things that go to make up the sum of life's happiness.

REAL ESTATE VALUATIONS.

Little Change From the Schedule For Last Year.

County Auditor Ford has just prepared a list of the real estate valuations for this county upon which the tax for the year 1903 will be levied. This list is the same as for the year 1902, excepting that lands upon which final proof has been made since the preparation of the tax list for the preceding year have been added. From this source the tax valuation of the county has been increased $59,063 over what it was last year.

The valuation by tax districts is as follows:

St. Hilaire	$1,366,00
Gammon Dist. No. 1	1,000,00
Lambert	81,338,00
Tower Rice	21,210,00
Lovejoy	84,520,00
Red Lake Falls	1,000,000,00
Gonvick	74,000,00
Gurney	56,000,00
Excelsior	76,000,00
Beltrami	70,000,00
Brandon, Polk Co.	80,000,00
Woodside	76,000,00
Terrebonne	81,000,00
Rice Lake	74,000,00
Bull Creek	67,140,00
Rocksbury	77,000,00
Sanders	61,250,00
Huntsville	61,000,00
Hardy	61,000,00
Norden	56,800,00
Maywood	40,000,00
Emardal	41,815,00
City of Thief River Falls	800,000,00
City of Red Lake Falls	199,377,00
Total	$5,850,441,00

It is well to bear in mind that no assessments of real property are made in the odd numbered years, and that the above valuations, excepting for the additions above referred to, are the valuations of the different tax districts as determined upon by the state board of equalization at its meeting last year. It is likely that at the assessment to be made next year that there will be considerable change in the different districts. That a radical change is necessary is very apparent from even a casual examination the assessments for the different towns. For instance the town of Bray, which has less improvements than any other town in the county is assessed higher than the town of Norden which is well improved.

ROCKSBURY DITCH.

Decision of County Board to be Appealed From.

In the matter of the petition of Johns F. Magnusson and others for the establishment of a county ditch in the fraction east of the town of Rocksbury, it is understood that the petitioners will appeal from the order of the county commissioners made at their last meeting in which the commissioners refused to establish the ditch. While no notice of appeal has as yet been filed with the county auditor the rumor is current that the petitioners have employed counsel and will fight the matter through the courts.

The law regulating the proceedings establishing county ditches is not an example of good English, nor is it framed in such a manner as to enable attorneys to decide just what is provided. So in case of the appeal some interesting developments may be expected.

SATISFACTORY GROWTH OF COUNTY'S SCHOOLS

Superintendent Jeffers' Annual Report to State Superintendent Shows a Splendid Advance.

The annual report of County Superintendent Jeffers to the state superintendent of public instruction has just been completed. This report is a compilation of the reports made by the teachers and school district clerks of the county.

The totals show a satisfactory condition of the schools of the county. The total enrollment is 3,994, of which 3,207 are entitled to apportionment. The number of pupils between the ages of 5 and 8 attending school is 966; between 8 and 16, 2,751; between 16 and 21, 272.

The number of male teachers in the schools of the county is 19, of which 4 are employed in the independent districts and 15 in the common districts. The number of female teachers is 91, of whom 28 are employed in the independent districts and 63 in the rural schools. The average wage for male teachers in the independent districts is $76, of females $46. The average wage of teachers in the rural school is $41 for males and $34.16 for females.

The total expenditures of the independent districts last year were $27,849.13, and of the common districts $29,230.42, making a grand total of $57,079.50 which the taxpayers of Red Lake county pay out annually that the young idea may be taught how to shoot. The total value of the buildings, furniture and apparatus of the independent districts is $56,200; of the common districts, $83,845. The indebtedness of the independent districts is $45,000; of the common districts, $9,500. The independent districts have $2,020.79 cash on hand, and the rural districts $11,881.93.

The number of college graduates teaching in the country is 5; normal graduates, 19; high school graduates, 26. There are 14 libraries in the country schools, with a total of 1,000 volumes. The average length of the rural schools is six and one-half months. During the year four new school houses have been erected in the common districts at the cost of $2,000. The Thief River Falls new $18,000 building also shows in the annual report for the first time. Fifty-five districts loan text books free, while 19 sell them as cost.

Our agent will meet you there and drive you over the land. Railroad Fare Deducted from price of land.

Thousands of acres to select from. In this way you can insure independence. Splendid wheat, flax and corn farms. Present prices range from $7 to $10 per acre. All close to railway, schools, etc.

New Creamery Just Completed. Fine Crops Just Harvested.

Why pay rent for lands that will never be yours—decide to be independent and own a home of your own. We will permit you to take, for your own domestic purposes—Free Coal for 2 years; from the mammoth surface coal mine (the largest in America).

To Purchasers Who Can Not Come Now.

Send us your $20 before October 20th and a member of the regular office staff of The N. W. Agriculturist, who is to escort the excursion party, will personally make the selection of your quarter section for you at $8 per acre, and guarantee as good a selection as if you were present. We agree to refund your money to you if upon visiting the land at any time within six months you are not wholly satisfied that it is the best land bargain in America. Come yourself if possible, but don't miss the bargain even if you can't come on the excursion. Go and talk to settlers who bought some of this land of us a year ago. Investigate it.

Own a Coal Mine of Your Own.

No coal reservations in our contracts. Coal goes with the land.

We are Owners Not Agents.

AN OPEN LETTER

WE DESIRE to call your attention to the first opportunity to buy good Prairie Lands in North Dakota at Low Prices on the Monthly Payment Plan. These are all carefully selected lands purchased years ago jointly by The Northwestern Agriculturist and The Hunter Land Company, (Incorporated), from the original Northern Pacific Land Grant and located along the main line of N. P. Ry.

The Bismarck Palladium says—Jan. 5, 1903. "One of the greatest and most fertile sections of North Dakota lies in the county of Billings. This land has just been surveyed and has recently been placed upon the market. The soil is rich dark loam and greatly resembles that in the Devils Lake region, which is the best flax producing land in the state and which in years ago sold at from $3 to $5 per acre. Today the same land is selling at from $25 to $30 an acre and is hard to find at these prices. The Missouri Slope country is just as fertile, will produce just as big crops, the grasses are more nutritious and it has a greater abundance of fresh water and running streams."

The winters on the slope are milder than in Iowa or Illinois and cattle live outdoors usually the year round. The seasons are sufficiently long for the best grades of corn to mature. These lands are also unsurpassed for flax culture and the first crop usually more than pays for the land. There is no better investment in the world than Golden Valley Lands which are selling today at one-third of their true earning value. Save your evenings monthly and own a farm. These splendid lands are covered with a luxuriant growth of blue grass, bunch grass and buffalo grass. Are free from stumps and stones. Good water easily obtained. Produce in abundance all small grains, including corn, flax, hard spring wheat, also vegetables—and are underlaid with Vast Deposits of Lignite Coal. Write today.

The Northwestern Agriculturist with its prestige as the LEADING FARM PAPER OF THE WEST—75,000 circulation—could never afford to be identified with any land enterprise but the best and soundest. This has been fully investigated and is absolutely reliable. It is a great opportunity for farmers. Address all correspondence to Variety of Exhibits Shows Fertility of Minnesota Soil.

What Minnesota has done in the development of varied agricultural pursuits was concisely shown in the exterior country exhibits which were shown at the state fair this year. Many of the newer counties have large exhibits, and the older sections of the state are represented by displays of unusual interest.

Minnesota grain is everywhere shown, but a significant portion of the exhibits was that of tobacco, chestnuts, and varieties of apples and plums and many products which in years former were not thought to be adapted to Minnesota climate. The display each year includes a proportion of entries of articles never before shown. This year's display was no exception, and proves that the farmers of the state are making a determined effort to develop all the products that can be successfully grown in the state.

One of the most remarkable of the exhibits was that of Renville county, which is guarded by towering corn stalks sixteen feet high. Renville has never been known as a fruit county, yet this year it showed thirty different varieties of apples, all grown within its borders.

One hundred different varieties of grasses were shown in the Wahnsha county display, which, in addition to the products which have long been grown in the country, shows as well tobacco plants equal to the best Wisconsin growths, and chestnuts, the first, it is believed, that have been grown in Minnesota.

Itasca had a display showing a splendid collection of vegetables grown on soil that a few years ago was thought to be worthless. The farming population of the county has doubled within a year, and, although it is one of the northerly districts of the state, it is able to show fifty varieties of apples as proof of its adaptability to fruit culture.

Aitkin, another of the northerly counties, had a strong display of forage plants, grasses and the products of diversified farming.

Blue Earth county showed a remarkably complete display of corn, both of the dent and the flint varieties, and among the new things included a black Mexican corn which has a very peculiar appearance, but has been found remarkably sweet as a table delicacy. Twenty tame grasses and eight varieties of native grasses, twenty-two kinds of forage plants, which are successfully grown there, and a number of new fodder specialties show that the county can do for the farmer who intends to inter the dairy industry, or to breed stock or keep sheep. The display of garden produce was large and of wide variety.

Norman, another of the northern counties, showed tobacco with leaves eighteen inches broad. Twelve-foot broom corn is another characteristic, and just to show that there is sustenance for the hungry, the display includes several immense loaves of bread, four feet long, a foot wide and a foot high, and each weighing upward of forty pounds. The flour was made in Norman county from Norman county wheat. The county showed a fine display of high bush cranberries, and the exhibit of cereals is very extensive and complete, both as to the varieties and quality.

Olmsted county's splurge are almost as big as apples and its hundred varieties of home grown apples were in themselves a very interesting display. Two varieties are pure white with velvety skins which give them unique beauty. Dozens of the varieties shown were absolutely perfect in size, appearance and color. Their flavor is unsurpassed. The vegetable display is large and shows products of splendid quality.

Stevens county had an exhibit in which were shown its wild and tame grasses, cereals, vegetables and corn.

Dakota county, which is one of the oldest districts of the state, had an extensive display. Its fruits, vegetables, grains and grasses attracted much attention.

New Oath Required.

Notice has been given that all naturalization papers issued since June 3, 1903, are void and without effect. This ruling applies to the country at large. Congress, at a recent session, enacted a law regulating the immigration of aliens into the United States, which has not been complied with. The new law which was passed by congress was framed to stifle anarchy. It will prevent a rush of new citizens just previous to elections, and will require the judges to make inquiry and be satisfied of the applicant's fitness before granting full citizenship. All that has been necessary heretofore was for the new citizen to hold up his hand and swear to a mass of stuff that he knows absolutely nothing about.

Under the new law all courts, tribunals, judges and officers having jurisdiction of naturalization proceedings shall, on final application for naturalization, make careful inquiry as to whether the person is a member of or is affiliated with any organization or society entertaining and teaching disbelief in, or opposition to, organized government or which advocates or teaches the duty, necessity, or propriety of unlawfully assaulting or killing any officer of the government or any other government. The courts must enter record of the affidavit of the applicant and his witnesses, reciting and affirming the truth of every material fact requisite for naturalization.

A COMMUNICATION.

Crookston, Minn., Sept. 21, 1903.—Editor of COURIER, Red Lake Falls, Minn.—Dear Sir: In so much as your paper enjoys a wide circulation at St. Hilaire and vicinity, I, in justice to myself, will be obliged to you if you will kindly print the following in your paper:

On the 6th day of August Judge Watts rendered his decision on the motion for a temporary injunction in the case of Carl Dahl vs. the Village of St. Hilaire, and in making its report of same the St. Hilaire Spectator in its issue for August 16 had the following:

"In the case of Carl Dahl vs. the village of St. Hilaire, Judge Watts, of Crookston, has rendered a decision denying a temporary injunction.

"Carl Dahl sued the village for damages alleged to have been sustained on his lot in the village by reason of the village ordering the sale of the stock at the last term of district court in this county. Mr. Dahl asked for a temporary injunction restraining the village from using the dumping ground. A hearing was had before Judge Watts, and Hon. C. A. Pfaender, attorney for the village, received the decision of Judge Watts denying the injunction."

On reading this account of the decision the reader would naturally infer that this was all that there was to it, which was not the case, however, because the plaintiff in the case obtained very substantial relief, as will be seen from the following letter which Mr. Bergstrom, the attorney for the plaintiff, sent to Mr. Ives, the publisher of the Spectator, on the 24th day of August 1903.

Crookston, Minn., Aug. 24, 1903.—Editor St. Hilaire Spectator, St. Hilaire, Minn.—Dear Sir: I note in your issue of the 16th inst. the account of the hearing in Crookston on July 30 last, at the conclusion of a temporary injunction in the case of Carl Dahl vs. the Village of St. Hilaire. The account is partially accurate so far as it goes, but does not go far enough. The reader is led to infer that the plaintiff, Mr. Dahl, accepted no relief whatever from the Court, which is not correct, as much as he gained the following four points:

1. Dahl that part of the ground may be used within Mr. Dahl consented to, which is less than one-fourth acre in the southeast corner, or forth of the ground in question.

2. No dead animals may be put there.

3. No more burning over of the ground due to the fire already in it, etc.

4. The building on the dumping ground may not be used for a pool house.—Francis Bergstrom, attorney for Carl Dahl.

If you prefer to print the court's decision in full you may do so, but I think you will find that I have you will find space for this communication in your next issue and that you will give it prominence in your article of last week.—B. F. V.

This communication, however, did not appear in the next issue of the Spectator, neither did its editor see fit to answer Mr. Bergstrom's letter, whereupon he telephoned to Mr. Ives to find out the reason why and he received the reply that the Spectator is not publishing work for Mr. Dahl. Mr. Ives was then given to understand that he was not expected to do that but that if he undertook to publish an account of the decision in this case he was expected to give the whole truth and not merely one-half of the truth, and Mr. B. rejoices asked him if he did not like to print the communication to print the decision word for word as Judge Watts rendered it. He thought this entirely fair and said he would consider it and write Mr. Bergstrom a letter. He neither wrote the letter nor published the communication as requested, and Mr. Bergstrom again called Mr. Ives up over the telephone and asked him why he did not do as he promised and he said he had decided he would print nothing more in regard to the matter.

In so much as the plaintiff in this case has a great many friends at St. Hilaire and vicinity and also as the case is of public interest, not only the friends of Mr. Dahl but the public in general will be interested to know the whole truth in this case and it is on this account that I ask you to publish this communication. The people are clearly entitled to know the whole truth. Both the part of the decision which is in favor of Mr. Dahl as well as that which is favorable to the Village of St. Hilaire. R. V. S.

AN OLD RESIDENT GONE.

Nicolai Poulliot Answers Death's Inexorable Summons.

Nicolai Poulliot, one of the oldest residents of Red Lake county, died at his home in this city Monday afternoon after a ten days' illness with kidney disease.

Mr. Poulliot was born in Quebec in 1823, and would have been eighty years of age on December 10 next. He came to Superior, Wis., in the early '50s, and moved on the site of the present city of Minneapolis in 1868. He came to Red Lake county a little more than twenty-seven years ago, living on a farm near town until seven or eight years ago. Mr. Poulliot was married to Miss Lucy Morissette at Superior in 1858.

The deceased leaves a wife and nine children to mourn the loss of a faithful husband and loving father. The children with two exceptions live in Red Lake Falls, and are as follows: Mrs. A. P. Toupin, Napoleon, Zepherin, of Cass Lake; Thomas, Mrs. H. E. Gervais, of Olympia, Wash.; Joseph R., Peter P., Allier J., and Mrs. James E. Ford.

The funeral service was held from St. Joseph's yesterday forenoon at 9:30, and the remains interred in the cemetery east of town. A large concourse of friends gathered to pay their last tribute to their good friend and neighbor.

EXCHANGE ECHOES.

Warren Sheaf: It is claimed that Bob Dahl and Jim Hall's color and for that reason should not be made governor. Governor Van Sant is charged with wearing Tom Lowry's collar, and therefore, should not be nominated for a third term. And now comes the Fergus Falls News and alleges as Frank B. Eddy because he wears no collar at all. Verily the politician has a hard row to hoe.

Windom Citizen: "Like Cæsar's wife our butter must be above suspicion," So says W. P. McConnell, state dairy and food commissioner. And to that end he has passed a ruling under the state law that after January 1, no colorings containing coal tar dyes must be used. The farmers whose cows produce good yellow butter will give the ruling little approval, but white butter makers of course think differently.

Fergus Falls journal: The state university is badly crowded this fall, especially in the dentistry and engineering departments. The number of young men who are anxious to take up the study of dentistry is increasing very rapidly and the university has been compelled to refuse admittance to quite a number, as they cannot be accommodated. The registration in the engineering courses is nearly twice that of last year.

Cass Lake Voice: The extreme modesty of Minneapolis in its political demands is amazing. The Mill city wants a lieutenant governor, a United States senator, one or two places on the state board of control and any other old thing that he laying around loose. While we are willing to concede that Minneapolis is a great and growing city—a credit to any state—yet it must be born in mind that there are other parts of Minnesota that will have to be recognized in the distribution of offices.

The Reading Habit.

No one thing will fully develop a man as rapidly as the right kind of reading. The man who reads more fully and systematically has a liberal education before he knows it. A well-read man is frequently more familiar with the world, at home and abroad, than the man who has traveled everywhere, and he certainly doubles his enjoyment of life. However, he must have good health, or in other words, he must drink golden grain belt beer regularly with his meals. It's refreshing and delicious,—you forget you are taking a tonic, it's so good. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

DEATH KEEPS HIS VIGIL.

Mrs. Joseph Laframboise Succumbs to the Grim Destroyer.

Mrs. Angelic (Sauve) Laframboise departed this life last Thursday afternoon at her home in Red Lake Falls, after an illness of three months from cancer. The funeral was held Monday morning from St. Joseph's, and interment was made in the family lot in the cemetery at Gentilly.

Mrs. Lafrombuise was born in Quebec January 16, 1842, and was nearly 62 years of age at the time of her death. She was married March 3, 1862, to Joseph Laframbroise, at St. Timothy, Quebec. The family came to Gentilly township in 1879, and lived there until about a year ago, when they came to Red Lake Falls. Mrs. Lafrombuise was the mother of thirteen children, eight of whom, with the husband, survive her. The surviving children are Mrs. Emma Patnode, Mrs. Josephine Lemayer, Joseph, Mrs. Eugenia Gendron, Antoine, Mrs. Antoinette Vandrin, Hugh and Leopold. All of them live in this vicinity except Antoine, who resides in Washington.

SSS FOR THE BLOOD

The best known and most popular blood purifier and tonic on the market to-day is S. S. S.

There is hardly a man, woman or child in America who has not heard of "S. S. S. for the blood." It is a standard remedy, a specific for all blood troubles and unequalled as a general tonic and appetizer. S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable. The herbs and roots of which it is composed are selected for their alterative and tonic properties, making it the ideal remedy for all blood and skin diseases, as it not only purifies, enriches and invigorates the blood, but at the same time tones up the tired nerves and gives strength and vigor to the entire system.

FROM CONGRESSMAN LIVINGSTON, OF GEORGIA.

I know of the successful use of S. S. S. in many cases. It is the best blood remedy on the market.

FROM EX-GOV. ALLEN D. CANDLER.

S. S. S. is unquestionably a good blood purifier, and the best tonic I ever used.

For Chronic Sores and Ulcers, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Blood Poison, Malaria, Anæmia, Scrofula, Eczema, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, Tetter, Acne and such other diseases as are due to a polluted or impoverished condition of the blood, nothing acts so promptly and effectually as S. S. S. It counteracts and eradicates the germs and poisons; cleanses the system of all unhealthy accumulations and soon restores the patient to health. THE state board of equalization seems to think that the tax dodgers hail from the country districts.

A NORTH DAKOTA man imagines he owns the whole state. And he thinks he is a millionaire. The fellow is certainly crazy.

COMMANDER PEARY has started out again in search of the north pole, and the St. Cloud Times wonders who is to be sent in search of Peary.

SHYLOCK could get a few pointers from a Minneapolis money-loaner who collected $112 interest on a $10 loan and still has the principal coming.

THE people of Minneapolis should be comforted by the knowledge that if the worst comes Red Lake Falls can furnish them 1,500 barrels of flour every day.

ALBERT BEDE declares that he doesn't want to hold public office again. The people made an official declaration some time ago to the effect that they had anticipated his wishes in the matter.

THERE is talk of rousing William Henry Eustis for congress from the Minneapolis district. By the way, William Henry has had one political tussle with John Lind, and it is not at all likely that he is aching for the second.

THE banquet given by the merchants of Minneapolis to the state board of equalization seems to have had its effect. Goods and merchandise in that city was not raised by the board, while the poor little country fellows get it all the way from 10 to 50 per cent.

THE country press of the state is unanimous in the opinion that the state fair management can afford to pay for the advertising it asks for. The fair is not a charitable enterprise, and ought to get out of the habit of asking for donations of newspaper space.

GOVERNOR VAN SANT announces that he is not an aspirant for Clapp's seat in the senate, but maintains a discreet silence on the third term proposition. Perhaps, though, the doughty captain is only following the historic precedent established by Kinnie Nelson.

MAYOR KRATKA has confided to the people of Thief River Falls that he is a candidate for re-election. We supposed the genial Kratka had a special pursuit from the game warden to hold the job indefinitely, and that the formality of a ballot was superfluous and unnecessary.

THE columns of the Princeton Union are watched eagerly for a crumb of political interest, but Bob is not going to be smoked out until he gets good and ready. In the last issue he says: "Again the Union reiterates, state officers are not chosen in the odd-numbered years."

ATTORNEY GENERAL DOUGLASS holds that the preferred stock of the street railway company is a liability and not an asset, and therefore should not be taxed. We'd like to trade our debts for some of it, and give in the bargain a written guarantee not to kick on the assessor's valuation.

H. J. MILLER, of Laverne, and Ezra Valentine, of Breckenridge are each receiving complimentary mention for railroad and warehouse commissioners. They are both men in whom the people can repose confidence, and would be a vast improvement over the men they would succeed.

THE "harvest home" issue of the Alexandria Post-News, comprising forty pages, is one of the greatest achievements to the credit of Minnesota country newspaperdom. We hope the financial results were commensurate with the labor and expense of producing such a magnificent issue.

H. G. HAYES, formerly proprietor of the Sleepy Eye Dispatch, has purchased the Bemidji Pioneer, daily and weekly, and expects to assume charge in a few weeks. Mr. Hayes is one of the strongest and most forceful writers in the state, and his advent to the north country will be warmly welcomed.

JUDGE GROSSCUP has demonstrated that there is a good deal of honor in the legal profession after all. He has spent a greater part of his life in fighting trusts and monopolies, and when the Northern Securities company offered a fabulous sum for his services in arguing its case before the United States supreme court he refused to entertain the proposition.

THE western passenger association will probably do away with the merchants' excursions to the twin cities. This will not occasion regret from the country merchants, as there is a general feeling that these excursions are a discrimination against the smaller cities in favor of the larger centers, and that they give the large distributing centers an undue advantage with the country trade.

THE government has been gracious enough to continue the suit against Ray W. Jones and the Commonwealth Lumber company until the March term of the federal court. Ray is charged with stealing several hundred thousand dollars' worth of government timber, but as he stands high in the political councils and is the business associate of the Republican national committeeman there is little danger that a conviction will be secured. Almost any sort of a crime can be committed nowadays by people with the proper pull.

FOURTH-CLASS post-offices have always been treated as legitimate spoils, but now it is brought out, in connection with the Todd case in Delaware, that these officials, 70,000 in number, were included in the classified service by a presidential order which took effect April 15 of last year. According to this order "no discrimination shall be exercised" against them or in favor "because of political or religious opinion or affiliations." Of course this disposes conclusively of Postmaster-General Payne's contention that these officials can be emptied and filled at the behest of politicians, and it is quite generally demanded of the president that he testify to his devotion to the law by insisting upon its strict enforcement by the post-office department.

A Cough

"I have made a most thorough trial of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and am prepared to say that for all diseases of the lungs it never disappoints."

J. Early Finley, Ironton, O.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral won't cure rheumatism; we never said it would. It won't cure dyspepsia; we never claimed it. But it will cure coughs and colds of all kinds. We first said this sixty years ago; we've been saying it ever since.

Order to Show Cause on Filing Petition to Mortgage Land.

State of Minnesota, County of Red Lake.—ss. In Probate Court, Special Term, Sept. 30, 1903. In the matter of the estate of Even Hansen, Insane.

On reading and filing the petition of Ole J. Johnson, guardian of Even Hansen, insane, setting forth the amount of personal estate that has come to the hands of said guardian, and that said has been wholly exhausted; that the amount of debts outstanding against said insane, as far as the same can be ascertained, with the charges, debts, taxes, assessments and other liens existing upon the real estate of said insane, and the improvements which are necessary for the preservation of his real estate, and a description of the tracts of land of said insane as to which a sale, mortgage, and granting that license to him is desired to mortgage the tracts of land as described.

And it appearing by said petition that the personal estate of said Even Hansen, insane, is insufficient to pay his debts, with the charges and expenses of his guardianship, and that it is necessary to mortgage the real estate of said insane for the purpose of paying said debts for the payment of said charges and expenses, and that it is for the benefit of said insane that a sale, mortgage and granting of such license be made.

It is Therefore Ordered, That all persons interested in said estate appear before this Court on Saturday the 24th day of October, A. D. 1903, at one o'clock P. M., at the Probate office in the court house in the City of Red Lake Falls in said County, then and there to show cause why a license should not be granted to said Ole J. Johnson, guardian of Even Hansen, insane, to mortgage the real estate of said insane for the purpose of paying said debts for the payment of said charges and expenses as prayed for in said petition.

And it is Further Ordered, That this order shall be published once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing in the Red Lake County Courier, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls, in said County.

Dated at Red Lake Falls the 30th day of September, A. D. 1903.

By the Court,
(Seal) N. W. TRYANT,
Judge of Probate.

Prof. F. A. Whiteley was confined to his bed a part of the week with a severe attack of bowel trouble. He is now able to perform his accustomed duties, we are pleased to state.

Henry W. Anderson, the jeweler, has a new advertisement this week calling attention to the merits of the Parker fountain pen. Mr. Anderson carries a complete stock of these goods.

Harry B. Healy spent Sunday with friends at Grand Forks. The particulars of his visit we are unacquainted with, and we don't know that it's anybody's business anyhow, so there!

Waterman's Ideal fountain pens are the best on the market. The new self-filling device is the handiest contrivance ever invented. A full line of these goods are on sale at THE COURIER stationery store.

Grant Van Sant came up from St. Paul Tuesday to look after his real estate interests in this section. Mr. Van Sant still owns a number of Red Lake county farms and says he is well satisfied with his investment.

F. A. Mizen went to Joliette, N. D., Saturday night, returning the following evening via Crookston. He was accompanied home by Mrs. Mizen, who was called to Joliette last week by the death of her mother.

Past Grand Master Alex Von Praag and Grand Warden Elliott of the I. O. O. F. were in the city Saturday visiting their friends and exploiting the goods of the wholesale houses which they represent.

Threshing operations have been pursued with a vengance during the past few weeks, and another week of favorable weather will nearly finish the work. But little grain has been brought to market as yet.

Former County Auditor W. T. Mullarky has recently purchased a general store at Flora Vista, New Mexico, where he is now located. The many friends of Mr. Mullarky will wish him success in the undertaking.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church are now holding meetings every Wednesday afternoon. They are preparing for a handkerchief sale to be held during the latter part of November at the church parlors.

Master Howard Pratt, who has been the guest of his grandmother, Mrs. B. Zaiser, for a couple of months past, left Tuesday morning for his home at Winnipeg. H. H. Zaiser accompanied him as far as Grand Forks.

A new line of tablets for fine correspondence, with envelopes to match, just received at THE COURIER stationery store. Remember we carry a complete stock of high-grade writing materials, as well as all of the cheaper goods.

Typhoid fever is epidemic at Crookston, there being thirty cases reported yesterday. It is said that Miss Marie Barrette, who was recently the guest of Miss Delia Tompin, is at the point of death from an attack of the disease.

C. T. Kankel, the Terrebonne miller, was in the city Tuesday on business. He reports business good, and that with the improved facilities recently added to the mill incapable of turning out better flour and more of it than ever before.

H. W. Lee, the Thief River attorney, was down to the county-seat Tuesday on a professional visit. Mr. Lee tells THE COURIER that he will be a candidate for municipal judge at the coming city election, and confidently expects to win out.

John L. Watson made a business trip to St. Paul Saturday evening, returning home Tuesday morning. The Healy-Watson people are expecting several large parties of landseekers from the southern part of the state during the next few weeks.

A Catholic sister was over from Crookston Monday, soliciting aid for St. Vincent's hospital. This is one of the most deserving charities to which it is the lot of any man to contribute, and we are glad to report that Red Lake Falls responded liberally to the call for aid.

The Northern Minnesota Milling company is loading its first car of flour for foreign shipment today. This car goes to Bristol, England. The company has orders for several more cars for various points in the old world which will go forward as soon as the flour can be manufactured.

Thomas McNerthney left last Friday for Tacoma, Wash., where he will visit his brothers for a short time and then enter college at Seattle. Thomas is a graduate of the local high school, and is an exceptionally bright young man, who may be expected to make his mark in the world.

The state board of equalization has raised the assessment on logs and marsh in Red Lake county 20 per cent. This will greatly increase the taxes of the Thief River Falls Lumber company and the St. Hilaire Lumber company, the two concerns that own about all of the logs and lumber in the country.

Red Lake county has a good crop this year, and the quality of the grain is much better than expected earlier in the season. Some of the grain is a little damp, but if properly taken care of will be of good grade. The farmers of this part of the state may well be satisfied with their crops this year, as there is no section more favored.

City election occurs November 10, and at this time a full complement of city officers will be elected, which includes mayor, treasurer, justice, two aldermen at large and one alderman for each of the three wards. There has been little talk with regard to candidates so far, but in a week or so it is likely that politics will warm up.

There is a good crop of potatoes in Red Lake county. Potatoes have had very good growing weather during the later part of the summer and in the majority of cases have yielded well and are of good size. The price per bushel this fall is very good, being higher than for several years past. Sixty cents is being paid for prime stock.

Rev. Andrew Walker preached his farewell sermon and formally severed his connection with the Presbyterian church last Sunday. Rev. Walker has not definitely decided upon his plans for the future, and will be in Red Lake Falls for a couple of weeks at least. He has a host of friends in Red Lake county who will wish him success and Godspeed.

F. S. Schwalen, cashier of the Triumph State Bank, was the guest of his brother, William, over Sunday. Mr. Schwalen brought with him a party of Martin county farmers, who were shown over the country by the Toupin & Schwalen agency. Two of the party already own Red Lake county farms, and it is likely that the others will invest in the near future.

The first monthly report cards will be issued by the public schools Monday morning, and Superintendent Whiteley urges parents to note carefully the progress of their children. The card gives a faithful record of the pupil's work for the month, and parents should be interested in knowing whether or not their children are improving their opportunities.

Wiley Tindolph has sold all his residence and business lots in Thief River Falls to Messrs. Rollag and Stenseth, and it is given out that he will leave Red Lake county as soon as his business affairs will permit. The consideration in the recent sale is stated by the Press to be $21,000. Mr. Tindolph is one of the greatest hustlers the north end of the county has ever had and Thief River Falls will miss him.

Crookston Times, 23: L. C. Simons, of Red Lake Falls, and Attorney Bergstrom, of this city, who has been his guest at the Falls for several days, drove down yesterday afternoon. Mr. Bergstrom reports a delightful fishing trip and plenty of the finny beauties. Mr. Simons has his wife and little daughter who have spent several weeks with Minneapolis friends here this morning and they drove back home.

According to the Duluth Herald one of the most unique hotels in the country is going to be erected at Bemidji. It will be a five story structure built entirely of cedar logs. The logs will all be varnished and there will be no lathing and plastering on the inside, but in each of the interstices between the logs all over the building on the inside mirrors will be set. The building will have 400 feet of verandas and will be erected overlooking the lake.

Reports sent in by the creamery inspectors to the dairy and food commissioners state that there are 681 creameries in operation in the state and that 420,000 cows keep them supplied with milk. These are not all the cows in the state, for there are 500,000 more whose milk is not sent to the creameries. During the past year 50,000 farmers patronized the creameries, and 76,000,000 pounds of butter was made, which sold for $17,000,000. Of this sum $12,000,000 went into the pockets of the farmers.

Peter E. Hanson, secretary of state, came up from St. Paul yesterday, and in company with Engineer Ralph and Sheriff Linnihan drove out to Emardville township to inspect the state ditch. Mr. Hanson expresses himself as well pleased with the work on the ditch, which is quite a compliment to Sheriff Linnihan, the contractor. Governor Van Sant and State Auditor Iverson, the other members of the state drainage board, were expected to be on the job in the inspection, as they missed connections somewhere along the line.

The railroad and warehouse commissioners held a meeting at Crookston this week to hear the complaint of the citizens of Dugdale against the Great Northern for not stopping trains at that place. The hearing was not concluded yesterday, but it seems altogether likely that the company will be compelled to stop its trains at that station in pursuance with an agreement made with the citizens at the time the town was started. The board will also act on the petition of people from Red Lake Falls, Erskine and Fertile to compel the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern to put in a "Y" at Tilden.

Through their attorney, J. K. Hannay, of St. Hilaire, John F. Magnuson and Hans Fredrickson have appealed from the action of the board of county commissioners in refusing to act favorably on their petition for a ditch in Rockshury township. The appeal alleges that the ditch would be of public utility and conducive to the public health, convenience and welfare, and that the benefit to be derived is greater than the total cost of construction. A number of new and unusual legal points are raised, and the trial of the case will be of interest to all of the counties of the northern part of the state where drainage work is in progress. The case will be tried at the October term of the district court.

Crookston Times: It is expected the 1st of January will be moving day for the offices of the Crookston Lumber company, and that all of the force will be shifted to Bemidji at that time. The removal of the offices will withdraw from Crookston banking houses all of the company's funds which will be placed in Bemidji banks. The clerical force to be retained in Crookston will be just sufficient to attend to the retail sales and one man will be able to handle that. The St. Hilaire Retail Lumber company, however, will still keep their offices in the city and the men employed by them will not have to move. Five men will be located here after moving day, while at the present time there are fourteen.

J. C. Parker, of Stillwater, foreman of the Clearwater Logging company, was in the city Saturday looking after matters in connection with next year's business. Mr. Parker has charge of the company's river works, and has a crew of men bringing in last year's drive. The total amount brought down this summer is a trifle over 25,000,000 feet, which went to the mills at East Grand Forks and Crookston. The Clearwater company contemplates cutting 30,000,000 feet this winter on streams tributary to the Red Lake and Clearwater rivers, and a large force of men will be employed at the work. Five camps will be operated, and the men are already engaged in getting things in shape for the winter campaign.

170 Warren Avenue,
Duncaco, Ills., Oct. 29, 1902.
For nearly four years I suffered from ovarian troubles. The doctor insisted on an operation as the only way to get well. I, however, strongly objected to an operation. My husband felt disheartened as well as I, for home with a sick woman is a disagreeable place at best. A friendly druggist advised him to get a bottle of Wine of Cardui for me to try, and he did so. I began to improve in a few days and my recovery was very rapid. Within eighteen weeks I was another being.

Mrs. Stowe's letter shows every woman how a home is saddened by female weakness and how completely Wine of Cardui cures that sickness and brings health and happiness again. Do not go on suffering. Go to your druggist today and secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui.

THE BRIDEGROOM'S SONG.

I'm sick of the song of the bride and her broom—
Just hearken to me for awhile—I'm the groom.
I know you've no rights in the case, but alas—
That's right—all I get in the case is a kiss;
I know I'm supposed to be silent and meek,
But, hang it! I'm bound to get reckless and speak.

They're buzzing about what the bride is to wear;
They're fussing about how she'll fix up her hair;
They're gushing over the bridal trousseau;
I listen in silence to all that they say.
They trout me as though I was chained to my desk—
Alack! What am I? I am only the groom.

The bans I ran out is some black and some white,
A home-other went and a bad case of fright;
My hair will be combed as it's combed every day,
I'd surely get mobbed if I lugged a bouquet;
I've got to be meek and try bravely to smile—
The murderers will stand me in hand after while.

Sing on of the beautiful bride and her bloom,
But don't mention me—I am only the groom;
Just say "he was dressed in conventional black,"
Then kindly forget me and hasten right back
To rave o'er the bride till you're black in the face—
I'm only the groom, and I'm learning my place.

ELIZABETH ROSE TABBINGTON

PAUL HURLBURT arose impatiently from his seat beneath a gray old walnut tree and walked toward a stile which crossed from the neighboring meadow. He mounted the stile and looked with swift, ill-concealed longing in the direction of a white house which sat in stately silence behind green interlocking leaves.

The young man was dressed for traveling and wore the brown linen duster of the period over his black clothes. There was a determined look about his dark blue eyes and strong, firm lips; as dark and determined also they looked now that one could scarcely imagine how gentle the smile could become.

Over and over he had said, in impatient disappointment: "She will and come."

As he saw the stage coach roll with dusty importance, lumbering down the road, filled with inside passengers, hope left him and he turned his footsteps in the direction of the pond. The coach stopped and he climbed to a seat beside the driver, then pulled his hat low upon his face. He gave a backward farewell glance at the little cemetery growing wild with honeysuckle and sweet briar and cool, pilgrim-like myrtle overshadowed by the dark evergreen foliage of the trees. As the stage passed he could catch a glimpse of the plain white marble slabs which marked the graves of the dead. The monument erected to his father, Col. Hurlburt, stood in the midst, where a regiment of graves stretched away, row by row, into the soft green silence.

In the white house a very young lady gazed listlessly out of the window and could not reply to the gay badinage of her lively cousin.

"I will not talk to me, Cecilia" he said, "will you ride?"

She replied: "It is lovely out of doors."

Then he gave an order for the horses and they were soon rolling toward the village. As they approached a humble little negro cabin standing stood by the roadside Cecilia stopped and talked to an old negress who sat under a clustering apple tree.

"How are you to-day, Aunt Milly?" inquired the young lady. The old woman raised her head with the helpless motion that is seen in the blind.

"I's dat you, honey?" she cried. "Marse Paul done gone. He tole me good-by to' night an' he done hollered good-by ergin when de stage passed."

Cecilia turned and said she would ride no further. Next morning she sent her cousin away and she wandered disconsolately about the old childish trysting places; beneath the walnut tree and down by Milly's cabin.

Often she said to herself, how could Paul leave me without one word? Was it jealousy or her cousin? She had been thoughtless and inclined to coquetry, but she could not believe that she deserved punishment like this.

As children Cecilia and Paul had often gone to the graveyard together and she had woven garlands, first of the yellow dandelions that perped above the green, then of the roses that grew in such luxuriant profusion. Together they had decorated the soldiers' graves, always placing the choicest blossoms upon Col. Hurlburt's resting place. She often went afterward and adorned the graves in memory of the old days.

Years passed, old Milly died, and Cecilia learned that Paul was gaining fame in his profession of law. Afterward she knew that he was in congress, and she eagerly read the papers that she might follow his triumphs, step by step, until he was nominated for governor of his state.

There were suitors in plenty, for Cecilia was beautiful and the magnolias of a large plantation, but they one by one departed, and she was given over to hardness of heart.

Once again came the national Decoration day, warm and smiling with its burden of flowers and soft sunshine falling upon the rows of federal and confederate dead.

And with this day came the memory of those other days when Cecilia and Paul had decked the graves with violets; and as the years passed and he returned from college they had placed beautiful flowers upon the graves of the dead heroes and Paul had talked to her of his ambitions, and she had listened with glad, trusting faith. And then that last gay summer, when other matters had fluttered the child just budding into womanhood, and Paul had gone without saying farewell. To-day he would come back as a candidate for governor of his state and make an address to his townsmen upon the issues of the coming political race.

Cecilia turned the pages of the morning paper to find the particular passage which referred to the expected visitor. Then the maid entered and said: "Miss Cecilia, Joe Crum is worse and has sent for you. The man says it is quite particular."

"Tell Jumses to hrieg the carriage," said Cecilia. Joe Crum had been her father's overseer years before and for some time had been in failing health. Very soon she sat by the bedside of the sick man.

"Miss Cecilia," he said, "I haven't got long to stay here, and I want to tell you something, and I want you to promise me you won't feel hard after you hear it."

"Miss Cecilia, you wun't more nor a little girl and I was a young man workin' for your father. I was in town and the postmaster handed me a letter for you which he said he had overlooked when he sent out the mail the day before. I put it in my pocket and could never find it afterward. I said nothin' about it, and five years ago my wife went up an' mounts an' between the lining she found the letter, yellow and broken at the edges. We read it and found it was written to you by Mr. Hurlburt, him that is goin' to be governor of the state. That letter was my best and my wife kept it carefully like. It got too small for me an' she cut it up to make a coat for little Tommy. Then she found that lost letter. I couldn't bring myself to say nothin' about it, for you'd stayed single, and I thought perhaps you'd forgive me. But I've been sick and I've got to die, and I want you to promise me you won't feel hard after you hear it."

WHEN SHE LOOKED TO SEE SAW PAUL HURLBURT.

Cecilia turned away her head and gave all that time, an' you might er took him if you'd known it."

"Where is the letter?" said Cecilia, rising, tall and white and wraithlike beside her.

"Wife, give her the letter," groaned the sick man.

Mrs. Crum found the yellowed sheet of paper and put it in Cecilia's hand. She opened the letter and read "Dear Cecilia:

"I am about to leave for Baltimore; if you love me and will wait and be my dear little wife when I come back again meet me to my good-by to-morrow morning under the old walnut tree.

Yours devotedly,

"PAUL."

Ah, if she had known this five years ago. She leaned back in her carriage and tears fell silently upon her cheek. That evening Cecilia went to the cemetery. The graves were decorated and the crowd had gone home. How peaceful and quiet it was to be in this blossom-scented atmosphere. She stepped from beyond the shades to lay a beautiful wreath of white roses upon Col. Hurlburt's grave and saw a stranger bend over another grave, a mass of violets at the head. She silently paused to wonder at his feet.

When she looked up she saw Paul Hurlburt.

"Cecilia," he said.

"It is Paul," she cried, and graciously gave him her hand. "I received a letter from you this morning which ought to have been delivered fifteen years ago," and she laid the yellow missive in his hand. She stood like a woman prepared to receive her sentence if he blow should fall; no telltale emotion sat upon her fair features as she was prepared to laugh with him at the folly of their youth.

He read the letter and turning asked: "What shall the scarer be?"

She placed both her white hands and read the answer in her eyes.

Evolution of a Popular Saying.

At the last meeting of the Anthropological society Ainsworth R. Spofford read an interesting paper on "The Folklore of Popular Sayings." Among other things Mr. Spofford showed how a large number of wise saws and sayings attributed to great men of the seventeenth, eighteenth and nineteenth centuries were originated in somewhat different form by the great men of Greece and Rome and also how a great many other popular sayings had been twisted, perverted and misquoted. He took as an example the expression, "In time of peace prepare for war." This, he said, was attributed to George Washington, but what the father of his country really said was: "Be well prepared for war is the most effectual means of preserving peace."

Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 Sewing Machine

The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, nonchemical and troublesome shuttle.

The Ferrisneiss ball bearings and perfect mechanical construction enable it to be operated with one-third less exertion than is required by ordinary machines. It uses three yards of goods while a shuttle machine sews two.

It makes the most elastic and most perfect stitch without setting light or heavy goods.

With our superior attachments the greatest variety of work is possible.

If you would see the mistake of buying a sewing machine until you have given the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 a trial.

KEEPING HIS THREAT

Why Thomas Mannion's Ghost Haunts Old Family Home.

His Will Was Contested by Heirs and for This Reason the Spirit of the Venerable Jerseyman Can Find No Rest.

Strange antics of furniture, mysterious noises and weird appearances in the house owned by William Mannion, near the Monongahela iron works at Neteong, N. J., have convinced the residents that old Thomas Mannion has kept his threat to haunt his old home in the event of a contest of his will.

The house was occupied for years by Thomas Mannion, an eccentric character, who, it is said, made a fortune by running a "speak easy" in his basement, and who died recently.

Immediately after the burial, says the St. Louis Republic, Mannion's relatives assembled in the old home for the reading of the will. Among other bequests the testator left the upper story to one of his nieces, the lower floor to another and the basement to his son, William. Another son, Michael, was cut off with five dollars. The will was bitterly contested, but finally a compromise was effected, and William became sole owner of the place.

From the day that William took possession of the house until the present, he declares that strange lights have appeared in the windows, loud knocks have been heard on the doors, weird music has been played in the closets, tables have danced around and mirrors, books and furniture have been smashed into pieces. The impression among all of the residents is that Mannion's ghost pays nightly visits to the old home.

As a result of these strange happenings, William Mannion is a nervous wreck. He still occupies the old homestead, but he fears to be alone.

"After the reading of my father's will," Mannion said, in telling of his experiences, "the mourners went away and I retired early. At midnight I was awakened by the touch of a cold hand on my forehead, and I heard strange noises. Long sounded like a tapping on the wall.

"I thought at first it was a mouse, but when they continued I got up and struck a light. As I did so I saw a black cloud ascending from under the table. It circled three times about the room and finally assumed the form of a dog. I called to it, but it paid no heed.

"I was fairly beside myself. The tapping continued. The table danced and the clock stopped. I noticed it was about half-past 12. I called for help, but no one answered. After awhile everything became quiet. I went back to bed, but I could not sleep.

"The next night some friends remained with me. The same occurrences happened. I saw the cloud again and I heard strange voices. My companions heard the voices, but they did not see the cloud. They were very much frightened and left the place. Next morning my nerves were completely unstrung. I determined to move from the old homestead, and in the afternoon I went to live with my cousins in New York.

"While I experienced great relief from the change of scene, I longed to be back in Neseong. Last week I returned. For several nights everything was quiet, but now it is as bad as ever. At midnight on Monday I was awakened by a sound like a pistol shot. It was the breaking of my stove. This was followed by a crash of glass and a vision of a black shadow, which came up through the floor and disappeared through the window. My father often said that he would haunt the place if his will was in any way contested."

Breathless and without either hat or coat, Mannion rushed into the rectory of St. Michael's church, to which he belongs, and told Father McCormick that while he was at supper his cup broke and his bread vanished from the table. He asked the priest to visit the house. Dr. McCormick did so and remained for several hours. Nothing happened during his stay, but immediately after his departure, according to Mannion, the lamps went out, the tables danced, the windows rattled and the cupboard flew open.

A strange fatality seems to rest on the whole Mannion family. Five years ago old Mr. Mannion became blind and his wife a cripple for life. Later on two of their children were drowned, and another was burned to death, while another—a daughter—and her husband were ground to pieces by

DEATH IN AN OPAL.

Magnificent Stone Is Supposed to Have Brought Disaster to Those Who Owned It.

The remarkable story of a magnificent opal has been made public, now that both the principals are dead—one by disease, the other by accident.

Something over a year ago Mr. Nathan Morris, of Indianapolis, Ind., purchased the opal, which he wore in a scarf pin. It was a weakness of Morris that he was never so happy as when gratifying the wish of a friend, and soon after, when Frank Burke, former district attorney, remarked: "That is a beautiful opal

"THERE'S THAT UNLUCKY OPAL!"

you are wearing, Morris," the latter, in his impulsive way, transferred it to the scarf of Mr. Burke, remarking as he did so: "I hope you are not superstitious. You know the opal is by some thought to be unlucky."

Mr. Burke disclaimed being superstitious, and, although he was loath to accept so handsome a gift, it remained in his scarf.

Soon after Burke found himself in failing health, and before he left for Jeffersonville to be operated upon in his last illness, which culminated in death in this city, he entered Mr. Morris' office early one morning, and, walking directly to Mr. Morris' desk, without a word of salutation laid the pin down before him and turned to withdraw.

"What's the matter now?" queried Mr. Morris, who knew his visitor's whimsical humor.

"Neither," replied Mr. Burke in his most vehement tones, "there's that confounded opal. I haven't had the least bit of good luck since you gave it to me."

Without further remark he stalked away, going soon after to Jeffersonville, where he remained until his return to St. Vincent's hospital, where death relieved him of his suffering.

Scarcely had the community wiped away its tears over the death of Mr. Burke when it was called to mourn the loss of Mr. Morris, burned to death in his sister's home while trying to rescue a beloved nephew.

Farmer Has Narrow Escape from Big Black Bear Which Takes Things Lively Down East.

Barkhamsted, a short distance from Winsted, Conn., is undergoing a reign of terror, due to a ferocious black bear almost as large as a Newfoundland dogged the farmers are afraid to venture out of their houses.

The bear was first seen by Frunk Pellerine, a farmer, who discovered the animal lapping water from a brook in the rear of his farmhouse. The bear and Pellerine both started running at the same time, although in different directions. The farmer ran into his barn and, after climbing into his haymow, shrieked wildly to the family to back up the house.

The bear, after wandering a short distance down stream, came back to the house and for two hours frolicked around the place looking for something to eat or somebody to play with. He finally made off toward the woods.

It was several hours before the farmer dared run to the house. The neighbors passing were hailed by him from the windows, and by nightfall the news had spread through the country side.

Only those who have horses and rifles are now abroad.

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:
That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."
That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.
And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVER VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next five years.
We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.
Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not just as well have that in your own pocket?
We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:
3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well settled community, where churches and schools are built and easily graded. These will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $2,000 cash will handle the bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit at 6 per cent. A live investor can make a few thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for description and full particulars.
We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.
We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

OCTOBER WEATHFR.

Rev. Hicks Tells us What to Expect in Weather This Month.

Up to about the 15th of October the combined influences of Earth and Venus, says Rev. Hicks, will tend to prolong in a general way the phenomena prevailing at the end of September.

The moon is full and at an eclipse node on the 6th, and hence it is quite probable that threatening conditions will last up to that date and that storms will culminate on and touching the same day. The moon is also on the celestial equator on the 9th, another fact that is sure to add promptness and vigor to disturbances about this time. Heavy equatorial storms in the south are still probable at this and other October periods, but boreal, northwesterly storms, especially on the lakes and north Atlantic, are things to be expected and provided against.

A sweeping high barometer and stiff gales from the northwest, bringing frost to freezing northward, are quite probable toward the end of the above disturbances; but the regular storm period, running from the 6th to 11th, may so prolong storm conditions from about the 5th, as to retard the high barometer and change to colder, until after the culmination of the regular storm period central on the 9th. It may be counted on as a certainty that general autumnal storms, and marked changes to colder following, will visit most parts of the country at one or each of the storm periods named above and covering the first twelve days of October. Look for early and heavy sleet northward.

The 14th, 15th and 16th are treacherous storm days, on which there will come a progressive change to warmer, with falling barometer growing cloudiness, rain, and possibly snow in the north and west. Remember that all these regular pulsations of barometric pressure, change of temperature and return of storms, begin in western sections and travel east wardly over the country, the actual storm area being preceded by fair, warm weather and falling barometer, and followed by clearing weather, rising barometer, and colder.

The next regular storm period is central on the 20th, covering the 18th to the 22nd. The moon is again on the celestial equator on the 18th, and of new on the 20th. A decided change to warmer, with fall barometer, will appear in the west early in the period, say about the 18th, and these conditions will move eastwardly, followed by growing cloudiness and storms of rain and wind during the 19th to 22nd. On the west and northwest tangents of these storm areas look for much colder winds and weather, with early snow very probable north of the middle states. Very cool to cold, frosty nights may be expected after these disturbances, touching most part of the country, progressively, from about the 21st the 24th. Those who have made long and correct observations of the moods of October weather and storms need scarcely be warned of probable inconvenience, suffering and danger, especially on and about the great lakes, during the last named storm period, and change to cold following.

The 26th and 28th are central days of reactionary storm movements, on and about which may be expected change to warmer, with falling barometer and more storms of rain, turning to snow in the north, as the raising barometer behind the low era. Cool, frosty nights may be expected after these latest disturbances, up to the end of the month, especially in central and eastern parts of the country. In the west the temperature will be rising as the month comes to its close, under the influence of a regular storm period, the center and culmination of which falls in November.

BAND CONCERT.

Large and Appreciative Audience Hears Excellent Music.

The Red Lake Falls band gave its first indoor concert of the season at the Metropolitan Tuesday evening, and an unusually large crowd was present to hear the program. The band has made noticeable improvement since last spring, and every number was rendered in a most pleasing and satisfactory manner. All of the boys deserve great credit for their good work, but the three solos of the evening are worthy of special mention. The first—an alto solo—by Clement Brunelle shows how proficient an amatuer with musical talent may become in a few months under the instruction of such an excellent leader as Prof. Onstad. Mr. Brunelle has been with the band only eight months, and his rendition of a difficult piece was worthy of any experienced player. Manager Berthon's flute solo, and Prof. Onstad's clarinet solo were each magnificently rendered and elicited generous and enthusiastic encores. After the concert the orchestra furnished music for a dance, and on the whole the evening was delightfully spent by all in attendance.

SAW STATE DITCHES.

Secretary of State Approves of Work Done This Season.

Peter E. Hanson, secretary of state, returned to St. Paul Monday from an official inspection of state drainage ditches, on which he was accompanied by George Ralph, engineer for the state commission. All the ditches visited wereapproved and the contractors will receive their balances. The party took a seven-mile boat ride in on of the ditches. Those visited were in Otto Twil, Norman, Polk, Red Lake, Marshall and Roseau counties.

GROWTH IS CHECKED.

Enrollment in Minnesota Schools for Last Year Showed No Increase.

Minnesota school enrollment for the year 1902-3, just reported to State Superintendend Olson, shows no increase over the school year preceding. The enrollment for 1901-2 was 414,671. For last year, with three counties estimated, the enrollment was 414,707.

This is the first time in many years that the figures have failed to show an increase. The enrollment for 1900-1 was 403,041, and for 1899-1900 in was 399,207.

The number of pupils attending forty days last year shows an actual decrease, and when the figures reported were tabulated it looked like a "race suicide" document. The apportionmeut of state school aid is based on these reports. Last year the distribution was madeon a basis of 353,729 pupils. This year only 332,607 were reported as having attended the forty days.

State Superintendent Olsen today certified the amounts due under the October apportionment of the school fund. As there was $810,996.10 to be distributed, an unusually large amount, it will be sent out at the rate of $2.30 to each pupil. Last year the rate was $2. Red Lake county draws $7,214.10 from the fund.

Growing Old Happily.

One of the hardest things to excuse in any man or woman is their groaning over the fact that they are growing old. Some men never cease to lament the days when they were in college and continually dream of the "time when they were boys." If a man has a busy well-rounded life he has no excuse for bemoaning the past. Interest in the youth of others is a good sign, but for one's self the main object should be attention to the present. If you don't feel satisfied, what you need is golden grain belt beer. It quiets and soothes the mind and puts the body in perfect health. Use it regularly with your meals and be contented. Order of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

STATE BOARD RAISES RED LAKE COUNTY

Increases in Valuation Runs All the Way From 5 to 200 Per Cent.

The state board of equalization finished its work last week, and Auditor Ford was on Saturday officially notified of the changes in valuations. Red Lake is effected as much as any county in the state by the action of the board, as every item in the schedule is raised, many of them as high as 50 and 70 per cent. The average raise will be about 25 per cent., which means that the total valuation will be at least $100,000 more than last year. The changes are as follows:

Horses, one year old, 75 per cent.;
Horses, two years old, 50 per cent.;
Horses, three years old and over, 25 per cent.;
Stallions, high-grade mares and track horses, 50 per cent.;
Cattle, one year old, 70 per cent.;
Cattle, two years old, 75 per cent.;
Cows, 25 per cent.;
Working oxen, 30 per cent.;
All other cattle, three years old and over, 70 per cent.;
Sheep, 50 per cent.;
Hogs, 15 per cent.;
Wagons and carriages, 33⅓ per cent.;
Sewing machines, 33⅓ per cent.;
Watches and clocks, 100 per cent.;
Melodeons and organs, 15 per cent.;
Planofortes, 33⅓ per cent.;
Household goods and wearing apparel, 50 per cent.;
Office furniture, 20 per cent.;
Farm implements and machinery, 30 per cent.;
Threshing machines and engines, 30 per cent.;
Diamonds and jewelry, 100 per cent.;
Steamboats and sailing vessels, 25 per cent.;
Goods and merchandise, 5 per cent.;
Manufacturers' materials and manufactured articles, 20 per cent.;
Manufacturers' tools, implements and machinery, 30 per cent.;
The total value of all other property not included in preceding items, 40 per cent.;
The value of all elevators and warehouses on railroad right-of-ways, 10 per cent.;

SPECIAL STATE AID FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

New Requirements Made by State Superintendent of Applicants For State Support.

Supt. Frank Jaffers is in receipt of a circular from State Superintendent J. W. Olsen, outlining the new rules and regulations which shall govern the special state aid to be granted to semi-graded and rural schools during the coming year.

The money which is distributed each year by the state superintendent is provided for the purpose of encouraging both semi-graded and rural schools to make increased effort to rise to a certain standard of efficiency. The law gives to the office of the state superintendent the power of determining what this standard of efficiency shall be. As a result the provisions under which these schools may obtain state aid has been revised from year to year so that, as the amount of money provided for this purpose is increased, the schools which receive the aid shall show an equal increase in the line of progress and general efficiency.

Heretofore the only conditions imposed upon schools receiving state aid was that they should employ only first grade teachers, should keep school for at least eight months in the year, should maintain a library, furnish free text books and keep a generally well conducted school. At first the amount received each year from the state was small, semi-graded schools receiving $100 and rural schools receiving only $50. These amounts were increased the next year to $150 for semi-graded and $100 for rural schools. The next increase was $200 for semi-graded and $100 for rural schools and this year the amounts have been further advanced to $250 for semi-graded and $125 for rural schools.

Occasionally in the past the amount appropriated by the legislature for school aid has been insufficient to meet the requirements and schools entitled to aid have not received the full amount of their allowance, as the amount appropriated was pro-rated among all the schools entitled to state aid. Whenever this has occurred, however, the deficiency has been made up by the next legislature and the balance which each school was entitled to has been remitted to them.

Many of the school officers in Red Lake county take great pride in securing this special state aid for their school and it is interesting to note the record of names in the county superintendent's office of school officers, of both semi-graded and rural schools, who have brought their schools up to the proper standard of efficiency to receive this state aid and have kept their schools up to this standard year after year from the very beginning. Some have made an effort in this direction but have given up the attempt be cause of the difficulty experienced in securing first grade teachers.

Following are the requirements made of semi-graded schools that wish to secure state aid during the coming year:

1. That the teachers, from the beginning of and through the school year, shall have held the certificates required by law. Aid will not be granted unless the teachers hold the state certificates designated, or those of higher rank.

2. That the school building and each room must be clean and well kept. Proper provision must be made for heating, so that the heat is evenly distributed, without making any one part of the room uncomfortably warm while another may be cold. This end can be best attained either by steam or furnace heat; or if a stove is used it should be placed in one corner of the room and enclosed by a sheet iron jacket. A stove placed in the body of the room, and without any enclosure, will not be considered a satisfactory means of heating the room.

3. A system of ventilation must be provided that will furnish a constant supply of fresh air without causing draft. Ventilation by only doors and windows will be regarded as inadequate.

4. Each room must be supplied with sufficient blackboard space, slate preferred. The school must have a Webster's International Dictionary. It must have at least one complete set of supplementary readers, in addition to the regular readers used, and must have a well selected library, to which there must yearly be made additions to the amount of at least $20, including suitable books on history, geography, travel, until the school is supplied with enough texts on these and kindred subjects for the use of the pupils and the demands of their work.

5. The application of each school must show that it has maintained its standard of efficiency, both in the character of the work and in the equipment, and that some improvement has been made during the year. School grounds must be kept neat and clean, and present an orderly and attractive appearance. Each building should have two properly built outhouses, some distance apart, one for boys and one for girls; but where conditions seem to demand it, the outhouses may be built together, provided they are separated by a strong wall, impervious to sound, and that the approaches are separated by a tight board fence, at least eight feet high.

The requirements made of rural schools is as follows:

1. That the school must have been maintained for the full period of eight months during the year.

2. That teachers, from the beginning of, and through, the school year, shall have a first grade state certificate, or one of higher rank.

3. That the district shall have suitable building or houses where for doing efficient work.

4. This department makes the same requirements in respect to rural schools as for semi-graded, regarding the school building and its equipment, heating, ventilating, blackboard, set of supplementary readers and Webster's International Dictionary. Books to the amount of at least $15 must be added to the library yearly. The rules regarding outhouses will be strictly enforced, and are the same as for semi-graded schools. Aid will not be granted to rural schools in which the average daily attendance is less than 12.

Officers of schools which are not receiving state aid and who wish to make an effort to secure the same, should make application to the county superintendent of schools. It is useless to make application, however, unless the school has complied with all the requirements as outlined above.

New Creamery Just Completed. Fine Crops Just Harvested.

Why pay rent for lands that will never be yours—decide to be independent and own a home of your own. We will permit you to take, for your own domestic purposes—Free Coal for 2 years; from the mammoth surface coal mine (the largest in America).

Own a Coal Mine of Your Own. No coal reservations in our contracts. Coal goes with the land.

We are Owners Not Agents.

To Purchasers Who Can Not Come Now.

Send us your $20 before October 20th and a member of the regular office staff of The N. W. Agriculturist, who is to escort the excursion party, will personally make the selection of your quarter section for you at $8 per acre, and guarantee as good a selection as if you were present. We agree to refund your money to you if upon visiting the land at any time within six months you are not wholly satisfied that it is the best land bargain in America. Come yourself if possible, but don't miss the bargain even if you can't come on the excursion. Go and talk to settlers who bought some of this land of us a year ago. Investigate it.

AN OPEN LETTER

WE DESIRE to call your attention to the first opportunity to buy good Prairie Lands in North Dakota at Low Prices on the Monthly Payment Plan. These are all carefully selected lands purchased years ago jointly by The Northwestern Agriculturist and The Hunter Land Company, Minneapolis, from the original Northern Pacific Land Grant and located along the main line of N. P. Ry.

The Bismarck Palladium says—Jan. 7, 1902. "One of the prettiest and most fertile sections of North Dakota lies in the county of Billings. This region, which is the best Flax producing land in the state and which 10 years ago sold at from $3 to $5 per acre. Today the same land is selling at from $15 to $20 an acre and it is hard to find at these prices. The Missouri Slope country is just as fertile, will produce just as Big Crops, the grasses are more nutritious and it has a greater abundance of fresh water and running streams."

The winters on the slope are milder than in Iowa or Illinois and cattle live outdoors usually the year round. The seasons are sufficiently long for the best grades of corn to mature. These lands are also unsurpassed for flax culture and the first crop usually more than pays for the land. There is no better investment in the world than Golden Valley Lands which are selling today at one-third of their true earning value. Save your savings monthly and own a farm. These splendid lands are covered with a luxuriant growth of blue grass, bunch grass and buffalo grass. Are free from stumps and stones. Good water easily obtained. Produce in abundance all small grains, including corn, flax, hard spring wheat, also vegetables—and are underlaid with Vast Deposits of Lignite Coal. Write today.

The Northwestern Agriculturist with its prestige as the LEADING FARM PAPER OF THE WEST—75,000 circulation—could never afford to be identified with any land enterprise but the best and soundest. Easy Pill
Easy to take and easy to act is that famous little pill DeWitt's Little Early Risers. This is due to the fact that they tonic the liver instead of purging it. They never gripe nor sicken, not even the most delicate lady, and yet they are so certain in results that no one who uses them is disappointed. They cure torpid liver, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, headache, malaria and ward off pneumonia and fevers.

MAY BUILD THIS FALL.

Great Northern May Cross Marshall Country Before Year Ends.

Crookston Times: O. G. Clay was in Warren yesterday and called on Register of Deeds Olson, of Marshall county, to arrange for abstracts and to obtain the names and addresses of the owners of some of the lands to be crossed by the Great Northern tracks when the Thief River Falls branch line is extended northward into Roseau county. In conversation with a Times man he outlined the route that would be followed by said line in traversing Marshall county. It will enter the county at the south west corner of the north west quarter of sec. 9, township 154, range 43, and will proceed due north to quarter post on west line of section 9, township 156, range 43. At this point the direction changes to northeast, the road going straight to the south west corner of section 26, township 157, range 43. Thence the direction is again due north until the Marshall county line is reached at the northwest corner of section 2, township 158, range 43, beyond which the proposed road will extend just one mile north.

Mr. Clay expressed the opinion that so much of the line as we have above described the route of would be consructed this fall provided no more than the anticipated difficulties are encountered in securing the necessary right of way. At this writing, the Great Northern railroad builder is in a position to start the dirt flying as soon as the right of way is secured. However, it is not probable that trains will be run over the new line before next spring, even though the work of grading and laying the rails is complete this fall.

SLOT MACHINES MUST GO.

Offenders to Be Indicted Unless Law is Complied With.

Thief River Press: Mayor Kratka has ordered the slot machines removed from all the saloons in the city of Thief River.

The edict came from County Attorney Grady who in turn acted under positive instuctions from Judge Watts of the district court. This order does not refer alone to this city but includes all of Red Lake county where slot machines have been in operation.

Judge Watts announces openly that the state law against gambling will be enforced to the letter and the action taken is the first move toward carrying out his new policy. The Judge was in favor of indicting the slot machine men in Red Lake county, giving them no warning whatever, but the counsel of County Attorney Grady prevailed, he pointing out that the law had not been strictly enforced by either county or city officials and asking that he be given permission to warn the offenders before action was taken, and so drastic measures were not adopted at this time. Complying with the mayor's orders all gambling devices in the city have been relegated to the back room where they are likely to remain for many days to come unless the policy of the administration undergoes a change.

A Perfect Painless Pill

is the one that will cleanse the system, set the liver to action, remove the bile, clear the complexion, cure headache and leave a good taste in the mouth. The famous little pills for doing such work pleasantly and effectually are De-Witts Little Early Risers. Bob Moore of Lafayette, Ind., says: "All other pills I have used gripe and sicken, while De-Witt's Little Early Risers are simply perfect." Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF HER DOLL.

Wise Father Drops It 100 Feet to Show Child the Danger of a Fall.

A little girl on the 156th street viaduct scared her parents half out of their wits yesterday by climbing up on the railing that prevents pedestrians from falling into the street, 100 feet or more below. The child's father grabbed her by the skirt and pulled her back to the sidewalk.

He was too frightened to say much, so, instead of scolding, he seized her favorite doll, held it for her to kiss good-bye, and then, after telling the child to watch, dropped it from the viaduct. That was only part of the lesson the man wanted to teach.

Next, he led his weeping daughter down the two long flights of stairs to the street, where they found the remains of the doll in a thousand fragments.

"Now you know," said the father, "what would happen to a little girl from such a fall, and you'll always remember how your father and mother felt when you climbed on the rail. You shall have a new doll tomorrow."—New York Sun.

A Cure For Dyspepsia.

I had Dyspepsia in its worst form and felt miserable most of the time. Did not enjoy eating until after I used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure which has completely cured me.—Mrs. W. W. Saylor, Hilliard, Fla. No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, sour risings, indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles are quickly cured by the use of Kodol. Kodol represents the natural juices of digestion combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. It Cleanses, purifies and sweetens the stomach. Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

One of the Best.

Ellsworth News: THE COURIER, published by John R. King at Red Lake Falls, has reached it sixth year this week, and under his management is one of the best papers in the state. The NEWS congratulates THE COURIER on this, its sixth birthday, and wishes Brother King many more years of usefulness.

Dieting Invites Disease.

To cure Dyspepsia or indigestion it is no longer necessary to live on milk and toast. Starvation produces such weakness that the whole system becomes an easy prey to disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that one cares to eat, and is a never failing cure for indigestion, Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. Kodol digests what you eat—makes the stomach sweet. Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

BANKS RAISED HALF A MILLION.

Board of Equalization Adds to Their Taxes.

National, state and private banks were raised more than $500,000 by the state board of equalization. National and state banks were raised in the aggregate $395,585, but twenty-one banks were decreased $86,075, making the net increase on these banks $309,509. Private banks were raised $216,040. No private banks were reduced.

The board at the outset decided to equalize all banks at 50 per cent. of their wealth. This amount in the case of each state and national bank was figured from the bank's sworn statement to the national examiner. No statements of this kind were available in the case of private banks, and the board equalized the returns from the information it was able to secure.

Twenty-one of the state and national banks were assessed by the counties above 50 per cent of their wealth. The valuation of the Cokato state bank was reduced from $80,000 to $15,400, a decrease of $15,100. The Annandale state bank was reduced from $20,000 to $10,200.

SKIN DISEASES THE OUTCROPPING OF BAD BLOOD

And while not always painful are aggravating beyond expression. With few exceptions they are worse in spring and summer when the system begins to thaw out and the skin is reacting and making extra efforts to throw off the poisons that have accumulated during the winter. Then boils and pimples, rashes and eruptions of every conceivable kind make their appearance, and Eczema and Tetter—the twin torrors of skin diseases—Nettle-rash, Poison Oak and Ivy, and such other skin troubles as usually remain quiet during cold weather, break out afresh to torment and distract by their fearful burning, itching and stinging. A course of S. S. S. now will purify and enrich the blood, reinforce and tone up the general system and stimulate the sluggish circulation, thus warding off the diseases common to spring and summer. The skin, with good blood to nourish it, remains smooth and soft and free of all disfiguring eruptions.

I suffered with Eczema of the hands and face for over a year; it was not only painful but very disfiguring. I tried a number of remedies and salves and became very much discouraged with them. I read in the paper of the cures effected by S. S. S., and as I had very bad, little faith at first but determined to give it a month a fair trial at least. I am pleased to state that I soon noticed a change for the better and before I had used me to keep it up. After the use of six bottles my skin was as smooth and soft as a baby's. This was a year ago and I have never had any trouble since.

JEWELER AND OPTICIAN

NOTES IN MINOR CHORD.

Go to the Merchants State Bank for farm loans.

County Auditor Ford and Deputy Johnson are kept busy these days revising the assessment sheets in accordance with the changes made by the state board of equalization.

O. G. Harlis and wife rejoice, in the arrival a boy baby at their home, the little fellow making his appearance early Sunday morning. THE COURIER is glad to report that mother and child are getting along nicely.

The city council is advertising for plans and specifications for a waterworks system, and expects to have matters in shape to commence construction work in the early sprig.

Attorney Chas. E. Boughton returned yesterday from a business trip to St. Paul. He tells us that the supreme court case of Adam Schmitz vs. Adam Zeh has been assigned for oral argument on Dec. ember 9.

A grand jury will be drawa for the October term of court after all. County Attorney Grady has decided that this is necessary, and it is expected that an order from Judge Watts to that effect will be received in a day or two.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Germo returned Friday from their bridal trip to St. Paul and Minneapolis, and are preparing to go to housekeeping in their new home on Third street. They will he at home to their friends after November 1.

Attorney Charles E. Boughton has moved his law office from the Paradis block to his own building on the east side of the street, formerly occupied by the Johnson-Van Sant and company. He has larger and more accessible quarters.

Val P. Eichten and N. Jennigos, of Red wood county, were here the latter part of the week, and bought a half section of land from the Toupin & Schwalen agency. We understand they are actual settlers and will move their families here in the early spring.

Frank Glass and wife, of Lake Pleasant, mourn the loss of their little baby boy. The little one was born Friday and died Monday. The funeral was held from the family residence Tuesday morning.

Threshing will be finished inside of two weeks if the weather is favorable. The average yield of wbeat is about sixteen bushels this year, although many individual yields are above twenty bushels. The central townships of the county have the best crop this year.

Primrose package teas embrace all varieties from India, China and Japan. Always in air-tight packages insuring strength, fine flavor and purity and with our guarantee of 16 ounces of tea to every pound, the wrapper is not weighed.—Bangs & Co., next to post office.

The Surprise store is now fully prepared to attend to the fall and winter wants of the clothing buyers of Red Lake county. They now have on exhibition the largest stock of up-to-date clothing and furnishings ever brought to the county. Don't fail to read their advertisement on the first page.

The annual report of the Great Northern road is out, and amongthe announcements of lines to be built is one from Pelican Rapids to Mcintosh in Polk county, a distance of 108 miles. The survey has been completed and Mr. Hill in his report to the stockholders says it will be built next year. He states that this is the largest work to be undertaken.

P. A. Kaufer and family expect to leave for Tacoma, Wash., early in November, and will make their home in that city. Mr. Kaufer intended at tbe time he sold his business in Red Lake Falls to go into the job printing and advertising specialty business in that city, but of late has become enthusiastic over the possibilities of ginseng raising, and expects to buy a farm and engage in the cultivation of this plant.

W. C. Sibley, of South Bend, Ind., salesman for the Malleable Steel Range company, is at Frank E. Hunt's hardware this week to demonstrate the superior qualities of these goods. Coffee and buscuit are being served every day, and the people of Red Lake Falls and vicinity are cordially invited to call and sample the goods. Mr. Sibley is an affable and business-like young man, and enjoys a large trade in Minnesota.

J. M. Tracy has succeeded C. W. Williams as agent for the Great Northern in this city, the change going into effect Monday. Mr. Tracy has been in the employ of the road for many years, and until a year or two ago was stationed at Hillsboro, N. D. He will move his family here within a few weeks. Mr. Williams is still confined to his home by illness, and we are not informed as to his plans for the future.

A cyclone struck the little city of St. Charles, in Winona county, last Friday afternoon, killing eight people, injuring a score of others and destroying property aggregating $250,000. S. S. Cunningham, proprietor of the Racket store, was for many years engaged in business at St. Charles, and is acquainted with all of the people who were killed or injured. Several members of his family still live there, but fortunately none of them were injured.

R. W. Hitchcock, a well-known Crookston newspaper man, has purchased an interest in the Bemidji Pioneer, daily and weekly, and will become the editorial and business manager. Mr. Hitchcock is one of the brightest writers in Minnesota, and we are pleased to learn that he is to return to the business. It was reported last week that H. G. Hayes, formerly of the Sleepy Eye Dispatch, had purchased the Pioneer, but this was evidently a mistake.

At the meeting of the city council Thursday evening judges were appointed for the city election next month. They are to be as follows: First ward—James Brady, Joseph Tschirhart and J. L. Stewart; second ward—J. T. Harren, Chas. N Bourdon and Eus Normandeau; third ward—August Riechel, Frank Cyr and P. N. Bourdon. The places for holding the election have been designated as follows: First ward Red Lake Falls opera house; second ward—city hall; third ward—Paul's hotel.

The annual report of the auditor of the postoffice department has just been issued, and shows that during the year ending March 31, 1903, the receipts of the Red Lake Falls office were $3,397, as against $3,696 for 1902, a net gain of $301. The receipts of the Thief River Falls office for 1903 were $4,452, and for 1902 were $3,854, a gain of $598. Red Lake county's two cities may well feel proud of the showing made. But few towns of the same class in the state make better showiags of growth.

The "S. D." sewing society, composed of a dozen young ladies of the city, were entertained last Thursday afternoon by Miss Henrietta Zaiser. A quilt was made for Mrs. Thomas Germo, a member of the club. It seems that every member of the club is entitled to a quilt and a "spoon shower" on the occasion of her assumption of the cares and dignities of a married woman, and as the club members are all young and attractive we shall expect to hear that they are kept busy during the next year or two.

Chas. E. Boughton went to St. Paul Monday evening to attend the opening of the supreme court. He is interested in a number of cases before the court, and will probably go down later to make oral arguments. The most important case, so far as local interest is concerned is that of Adam Schmitz vs. Adam Zeh, as county auditor, involving the validity of $9,000 of railroad aid bonds voted by the city of Red Lake Falls to the Northern Pacific at the time of the construction of the road, some seventeen years ago. Mr. Boughton represents the city's interests, and makes a strong argument for his side of the case.

P. A. Gunders, deputy public examiner, visited Red Lake Falls last week and inspected the various county offices. He found everything in good condition, and congratulated the officials on the excellent manner in which their work has been performed. The examiner's office has formulated a number of new rules, which will go into effect at once. Under these rules the clerk of courts and judge of probate will hereafter not be allowed postage for their offices, and the sheriff will not be reimbursed by the county for house rent. Several of the officers will not be allowed stationery at county expense. Mr. Gunders also instructed the auditor that hereafter no payments shall be made to any officer for services rendered by other parties unless a receipt for the amount so paid accompanies the bill.

LIVER TROUBLES

"I find Thedford's Black-Draught a good medicine for liver disorders. I started my son after he had spent $100 with doctors. He is all the better for it now."—MRS. J. MARTIN, Parkersburg, W. Va.

If your liver does not act regularly go to your druggist and secure a package of Thedford's Black-Draught and take a dose tonight. This great family medicine frees the constipated bowels, stirs up the torpid liver and causes a healthy secretion of bile.

Thedford's Black-Draught will cleanse the bowels of impurities and strengthen the kidneys. A torpid liver invites colds, biliousness, chills and fever and all manner of sickness and contagion. Weak kidneys result in Bright's disease which claims as many victims as consumption. 25-cent package of Thedford's Black-Draught should always be kept in the house.

"I used Thedford's Black-Draught for liver and kidney complaints and found nothing to equal it."—MRS. ELLA COPPAGE, Blanchard, Ia.

Work Didn't Agree With Her

Down the middle of the road at a suburban town the street car tracks lay shining in the broiling sun. On either side the footpath wound cool and dark in the shadow of giant trees, which rustled invitingly with every breeze. In the shadow of one of these trees stood a lone, cool, calm and serene. A woman, obviously of the working class, came toward him. She stopped before the weight of an enormous parcel—doubtless her portable trunk. The perspiration lay in great crystal beads on her brow and rolled riotously down her nose.

"Can you tell me the way to the station?" she asked the man.

He was a friendly person, of an inquiring turn of mind.

"Going to the city?" he asked pleasantly.

"Sure," she said. "I came out here to be a waitress in a hotel, but the work didn't agree wid me. Does you happen to know any one who wants a girl—willing and intelligent?"

The man didn't.

"Then," she said, "if you'll just tell me the way to the station I'll be going."

"Why," said the man, "just take the car." Then, as he saw the girl flush slightly, he tactfully added, "Or, if you prefer walking, you might just follow the car tracks."

"And sure," she said smilingly, "I like walking. Did you say just to follow the tracks?" and as the man nodded pleasantly she started off toward the middle of the road, and the last he saw of her she was trudging slowly down between the tracks, wearily shifting her parcel from one dragging shoulder to the other.

The man watched her in silence for a minute; then, turning to a well dressed woman who had been standing waiting for the car near enough to hear the entire conversation, he sighed, "Well, I'll be blowed if that ain't the biggest fool I ever met—and she calls herself 'willing and intelligent.'"—New York Times.

The Eternal Feminine.

The little girl had been strongly influenced by the revival services, and finally she decided to join the church. She was requested to go before the committee of deacons. After they had talked gravely with her for half an hour the speaker asked:

"Now, Maud, is there any question you would like to ask about joining the church?"

"Yes, sir, there is," said Maud earnestly. "Will the congregation rather smell when I join?"—New York Press.

His Plea.

"Have you started on that job of work?"

"Na, sah," answered Mr. Erastus Pinkley. "I speaks I might as well put it off till nex' week."

"Why, this is only Monday."

"I know it, but de auswah's half gone, an' den it's only a few days till Friday, an' dat's all right, an' I does' wark on Sunday, so I reckons I better wait till I kin git a clean stahk."—Washington Star.

Heredity.

"Johnny," said the teacher to the boy who had brought a note from his father (?) excusing his absence from school the day before, "it seems to me your father's writing is very like yours."

"You'm," replied Johnny, unabashed; "you know, they say I take after pop in everything."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Mistake in the Name.

Colonel Sheets—I told the lodge your position in regard to lynching, suh, and he said your argument was unsound, the major premise being bad.

Colonel Ropes—Who's bad? I don't know him, suh. That's no such person in this neighborhood, suh. He must have meant Major Prentis.—Kansas City Journal.

Was He of Home?

Joe—Did you write to your wife every evening while you were away?

Jack—Every night but one.

Joe—What interrupted your plan?

Jack—The arrival of my wife. She grew suspicious at my sudden interest in her welfare and decided to interview me.—Chelsea Gazette.

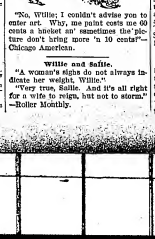
More Active.

Hicks—Oh, I never even notice him any more.

Wicks—Is that so?

Hicks—Yes; nothing disgusts me more than a deadbeat.

Wicks—Oh, they don't bother me. It's the live ones that make me tired.—Philadelphia Ledger.



"No, Willie; I couldn't advise you to enter art. When one paint costs one 60 cents a bucket an' sometimes the picture don't bring more 'n 10 cents?"—Boiler Monthly.

Willie and Sallie.

"A woman's sighs do not always indicate her weight, Willie."

"Very true, Sallie. And it's all right for a wife to reign, but not to storm."—Boiler Monthly.

ST. HILAIRE DEPARTMENT.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Harry Ives returned Monday morning from a visit at Cass Lake.

E. H. Dunsley made a business trip to Red Lake Falls and Fertile this week.

Robert Frits made a business trip to Thief River Falls Monday evening.

The Grange Hose was the guest of friends at Thief River Falls Monday.

The Great Northern is putting in a new car scale at their yards in St. Hilaire.

E. M. Miller, of Thief River Falls, was registered at the Hotel Markham Monday.

Joseph McCaffrey was up from Red Lake Falls Sunday to visit with the home folks.

K. O. Gigstad and Harry E. Ives were visitors to the county seat Tuesday between trains.

Miss Tessie McCaffrey has secured a school near Red Lake Falls and commenced her work this week.

Daniel J. E. Argue, of Red Lake Falls, made his regular monthly trip to this city the latter part of the week. He always pays a pleasant call.

E. J. Druecker and wife were visitors to Red Lake Falls Tuesday, Mrs. Druecker remaining over night to attend the band concert and dance.

A large party of landseekers from the Chicago association of which we have had Wednesday and Thursday. They were shown over the country by Julius Pleth's agency.

The Misses Kordahl and Dahl gave a very pleasant party to their young friends Saturday evening. Everybody had a splendid time and vote the ladies delightful entertainers.

Nels Otterness, the right hand man of Julius Pleth, is in town this week to gather up a bunch of landseekers for Red Lake county. He is expected home the last part of next week.

Landlord Druecker reports a big business at the Hotel Markham of late. Mr. Drecker is one of the best hotel men in this part of the country and the amount of traveling man would come a long ways to stay over night with him.

The addition to the school building is now completed, and school in the new room opened Monday. Miss Huldah Gigstad is employed as teacher for the new department. Our school now has seven teachers and under the guidance of Superintendent O'Brien is forging rapidly to the front.

The new Merchants State bank expects to open for business in about ten days. It was the original intention to have the bank in running order by October 1, but the failure of the safe to arrive on time has changed the plan. K. O. Gigstad will be cashier and resident manager of the institution, and it is likely that President Simons will be here the greater part of the time during the first few months.

Julius Pleth reports the sale of farms this week to John Hogl and Frank Broder, both Illinois men, but as yet only the actual settlers in the spring. Mr. Pleth's agency expects to have several large parties from Illinois and Iowa and other Illinois during the next few weeks, and it is a foregone conclusion that most of them will invest, for there are few who can withstand the cachinnation of Red Lake county soil and Mr. Pleth's persuasiveness.

Crookston Times: Nels Otterness, of St. Hilaire, who is interested with Julius Pleth in the land business, came up this morning from Iowa and southern Minnesota points where he has spent the past two weeks looking up prospective valley immigrants and stirring up interest in the Red River Valley generally. Mr. Otterness says the prospects for the upper Falls business are good, and that the most abashing and interesting topic of conversation among Iowa farmers is the wonderful productiveness of this section of the country.

50 Years of Success

This is our record. From a small beginning we have grown until our factories now cover many acres. Many of our machines are 40 forty to fifty years ago are still giving their users faithful service. Can anything be more convincing of their merits and durability? Did you ever hear of any other machine with such a record?

Note a few of the many superior points of the

Wheeler & Wilson No. 9
Sewing Machine No. 9

The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, mamechanical and troublesome shuttle.

The Tensionless ball bearings and perfect mechanical construction enable it to be operated with one-third less exertion than is required by ordinary machines. It sews three yards of goods while a shuttle machine sews two.

It makes the most elegant and most perfect stitch whether sewing light or heavy goods.

With our superior attachments the greatest variety of work is possible.

Do not make the mistake of buying a sewing machine until you have given the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 a trial.

Rudolph Warhurg was in from Lambert Monday and made a pleasant call at THE COURIER office. Mr. Warhurg moved up from Nobles county a couple of years ago, and says he has done well since coming to this country.

Crookston Times: A party of Red Lake Falls mill men consisting of Messrs. Metzgar, Sivertson and Johnson drove down last evening in order to catch the 9 o'clock train for Minneapolis where they will spend several days looking after business matters.

Ferdinand Knaak has had bills printed at the COURIER office advertising an auction of his stock, farm machinery and household goods at his farm on section 35, Polk Center township, on Tuesday, Oct. 27. Joseph Belair is the auctioneer.

The merchants of Red Lake Falls have laid in excellent stocks of fall and winter goods this year, and are using a lot of newspaper space to tell about them. When merchants are not afraid to advertise their bargains the people may be assured that they are getting right prices.

The Soo line expects to have steel laid before snow flies on its new extension into the White Earth reservation country from Glenwood to Detroit, Minn., where it will cross the Northern Pacific. The construction crews are in day and night shifts from Detroit north to the reservation, and from Alexandria

Mrs. Courtney, of Litchfield, has purchased a quarter-section of the Duffy farm just south of town and expects to move on the place this fall. The sale was made the fore part of the week through the Healy-Watson agency. Mrs. Courtney is a well-to-do lady, and expects to put up a fine set of buildings on the place in the spring.

The razor fakir is still at large, and he finds plenty of victims everywhere he goes. A southern Minnesota paper says: "In a little less than an hour a crippled stranger at Worthington sold 74 razors at $1 each. They were wondrous cheap—till used. They cost the fellow fifteen cents at wholesale. Yet they talk about hard times."

J. A. Nicholson, who recently sold his farm in Louisville township to Michael Conserty, has purchased 160 acres of the Simons farm just west of town, including a new set of buildings recently erected by Mr. Simons, and will take possession at once. Mr. Simons expects to move to town and will probably build a modern dwelling this fall.

NOTICE—Those who are holding premium coupons intending to get photos enlarged will please bring them to the store before Oct. 10, whether they have enough or not. Those who have given their photos to the canvasser and have not enough coupons to redeem them will please notify us so that we may get their photos back.—Thos. LaBissoniere.

Chas. N. Bourdon left Tuesday on a business trip to Moose Jaw, N. W. T., and will be gone a week or more. Moose Jaw has acquired quite a reputation as being the coldest place in the world, next to Medicine Hat, but if Charlie carries with him some of the delightful Minnesota zephyrs and allows them to play through his whiskers a time or two we shall expect to hear of an improvement in the temperature.

Donat Lambert will hold a public sale on his farm in Terrebonne township on Thursday, October 15. He has a lot of live stock, farm machinery, household goods, etc., that will be sold on the usual terms. Mr. Lambert also wants to sell his land, 160 acres in section 10 and 80 acres in section 14, Terrebonne township, and the early landseeker will secure a genuine bargain. Remember the time and place of the sale. Joseph Belair will be the auctioneer.

When you get a catalog from a big mail order house, just look it over and see what they will pay you for your produce; also investigate and see what their terms of credit are in case you do not have the ready cash; how much they will give towards keeping up the sidewalks; just write them and ask how much they will give towards the erection of a church; how much they will give to assist the poor. After you have done this and received a reply, see if your home merchant don't do as well.

Rev. Andrew Walter left Friday for Casselton, N. D., where he will spend a few weeks visiting his brother, who is engaged in business there. Rev. Walker's future work is not as yet fully decided upon. He intended at the time of his resignation as pastor of the church here to go to Scotland for a post-graduate theological course, but unforseen contingencies have necessitated a temporary postponement of this long-cherished ambition, and it is probable that he will again seek a pastorate somewhere in the northwest.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.
Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:
That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."
That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.
And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVER VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEAR WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next few years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle no raw land and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not just as well have that in your own pocket?
We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:
3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well-settled community, where churches and schools are built and roads graded. These will be sold in "bunch" at a price that will surprise you. Only $3,000 cash will handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit at 6 per cent. A live investor can make a few thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.
We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.
We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

(Dan Johnson, Ira Tibbetts and Leo Spilman Spartan Reporters.)

Prof. Whitely took the Geology class out last Tuesday morning.

The Physics class had their first test Wednesday morning. All survived.

The boys are going to have their first football game with Warren next Saturday.

The Spartans will give their next literary society Oct. 23. Everyone is invited to attend.

The Athenians gave their programme last Friday, which was very enjoyable. Several visitors were present.

Fred Richards was a visitor last Tuesday afternoon. It seemed quite natural to have him back at school again.

All the girls of the H. S. were quite busy Tuesday night after school making pennons to use at the football game. They are getting ready to help the boys win.

Leaves for Washington.

Crookston Journal: Congressman Steenerson is looking forward to the opening of the session on November 30, and is working like a trojan in an effort to get his law business into shape so that he can leave for the winter. It is necessary for him to remain here until after the session of court in Red Lake county, which will be held the last week in October. Mr. Steenerson hopes to be able to start for Washington on Monday the 2nd, and will reach there November 5, giving him five days before the opening of the session in which to attend to the preliminaries and get settled.

A marriage license was issued last Thursday to Nels Johnson and Miss Ina Syverson, both of Norden township.

Enjoyable Dancing Party.

About sixty of our young people, and a liberal sprinkling of the older ones, were entertained at a dancing party at the K. of P. Hall last evening by Messrs. and Mesdames J. B. Armstrong and John E. King. Music was furnished by the Red Lake Falls orchestra, and the refreshments consisted of frappe and ladyfingers. Miss Eugenie Yackee, of Adrian, Minn., who is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. King, was the guest of honor. Masters Wilbur Watson and Homer King received the guests at the head of the stairs and Misses Myrtle Armstrong and Viola Longtin presided at the frappe table. Apparently everybody had a good time.

A hay stack in the rear of Section Foreman Rusch's residence was set on fire yesterday afternoon by children playing with matches, and a disastrous blaze was narrowly averted. But for the prompt work of the fire department L. A. Kaufer's barn would have caught fire, and there was imminent danger to several of the residences in that part of town.

SMOOTH SWINDLERS.

Agents of Eastern Concerns Do the Creameries of Minnesota.

From all over the state comes the reports of agents of eastern brokerage firm, who have done the creameries of the state out of large sums of money for consignments of butter. They have operated in almost every portion of the state and the valley has not escaped. While the smooth fellows have not been very successful in these parts they have attempted to do both the Gentilly and Gary creamerios.

Not long ago a man, who said he was a representative of a Brooklyn firm, swindled several creameries in the state out of more than $1,000. A little later an agent purporting to represent a Chicago firm got away with a good deal of money.

The representatives of these firms have a very smooth way of doing business. They approach the buttermaker by telling him what excellent butter he makes. They say it is the best they have ever seen; that it is just what they have been looking for, and that their employers will give from a half to a cent a pound more than the market price. The buttermaker is pleased by the compliments and readily contracts to consign butter to the firms headquarters. The butter is shipped, bills are sent to the firm in rapid succession, but no replies are received.

W. W. P. McConnell, state dairy and food commission, is considering the advisability of establishing a credit bureau in connection with the state dairy and food department. He will make arrangements to secure from a mercantile agency reports on commission houses whose credit is questioned and furnish the information free to Minnesota buttermakers and cheese makers.

Beware of Hog Cholera.

As hog cholera is caused by a specific germ, it is often carried from one locality to another; for example on dirt which adheres to one's shoes or on farm implements; by purchasing animals from infected areas; by dogs, crows and other birds.

Do not visit your neighbors' hog pens. Do not ship in your hogs for breeding purposes unless it is known and a certificate can be given that no hog cholera existed in that locality for at least six months. Visitors should not be allowed in hog pens. Dogs are common carriers of this disease, hence if an outbreak occurs in a neighborhood they should be kept tied up. Owners may under Sec. 11, Chapter 168, post on their premises notices prohibiting any one from trespassing in or near their pens.

When two or more hogs are taken ill at or about the same time owners can rest assured that hog cholera exists. Dead hogs must be buried or burned and it is obligatory upon the owner to notify the chairman of the board of supervisors, who in turn must notify the state live stock sanitary board.

Do not spend money on medicines, as there is no curative agent yet known.

Being Quiet.

It is more fatiguing for a child not to act than it is for it to set. The most difficult, unnatural and exhausting thing which a vigorous child can be forced to do is to be quiet. The nervous activity of a child is the means by which it learns, gets new experience. With a man the conditions are reversed and it is natural and necessary that he should have rest. If he does not rest right he needs golden grain belt beer to quiet his nerves. It tones health. You will enjoy it on your table. Order a case of your nearest dealer or be supplied by Alex Thompson, Crookston.

Armstrong for Alderman.

A large number of influential citizens are urging J. B. Armstrong, one of the proprietors of the Surprise store, for alderman-at-large in the coming municipal election. Mr. Armstrong is an enterprising and public-spirited business man, and would make an ideal alderman. The Courier hopes that Jim can be induced to make the race.

SOO RAILROAD IS A DEAD CERTAINTY

Every Indication That the Road is Arranging for Right-of-way Through the County.

There has been considerable talk with regard to the new Soo railroad which is to be built through Red Lake county next spring. The survey which it is thought will be approved enters Red Lake county on section 35, Poplar River township, and runs northwesterly to Thief River Falls, entering that city just west of the plant of the Thief River Falls Lumber company. It is generally understood that the road required a bonus of $18,000 and free right-of-way through the city, and that wealthy and influential citizens have satisfied the demands of the railway officials.

The Soo will cross the Clearwater just east of Plummer's Dam, near which point it is figured a new town will be established. This will enhance the price of land in that part of the county materially, and give the people of that section a market for their grain and stock. It would not be surprising if a town of 700 or 800 inhabitants would spring up there within the next year.

The people of Thief River Falls are naturally exuberant over the prospects of a "boom," and while they are undoubtedly anticipating a greater degree of prosperity than is likely to come as a result of the advent of the new road, they are nevertheless to be congratulated upon getting another railroad.

The new road will mean a great deal to Red Lake county. There is no question but that the country tributary to it will settle up rapidly, and the addition in a year of 3,000 to 4,000 new people will make Red Lake one of the leading counties in the northern part of the state. Red Lake Falls will not be injured by the road. It is far enough away that our trade territory will not be encroached upon, and the general growth of the county cannot help but bring a generous share of the prosperity to this city.

BONE FOOD

Soft and crooked bones mean bad feeding. Call the disease rickets if you want to. The growing child must eat the right food for growth. Bones must have bone food, blood must have blood food and so on through the list.

Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment for soft bones in children. Littlebodoes every day give the stiffness and shape that healthy bones should have.

Bow legs become straighter, loose joints grow stronger and firmness comes to the soft heads.

Wrong food caused the trouble. Right food will cure it.

In thousands of cases Scott's Emulsion has proven to be the right food for soft bones in childhood.

WHO WILL BE "IT"?

"On-ery, ty-ery, ick-ery, Ann, Filsey, folsey, Nicholas, John."

Down in the meadows, the children at play
Tell their quaint numbers the old-fashioned way;
All in a row, while the counting is done,
Legs tightly closed, and with eyes full of fun,
Listening to catch every saying and sign,
Waiting their turns, to the last in the line.

Grandmamma smiles, for grandmammas know
The counting they said long ago,
After the spinning-wheel lessons were done,
Down in the orchard and out in the sun.
Just a wee while before candle-light time
Grandma was off with the rest for a game.

And she will tell you, if you ask her, the way
She and her playmates the game would play:
In the same orchard, her grandchildren toll
Riddle and catchword that no one may spell.
Go where you may, 'tis the merry old game;
Every where children may play it the same.

Playing at tag the land over, they know
Counting our grandmamma said long ago.

A Tomb in the Hills

By H. S. CANFIELD

(Copyright, 1895, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

THE fresh yellowish green of the spring had not changed to the darker hues of summer, for the season was late in the Pennsylvania hills. The sunshine warmed sward and barred ground, but there was a lingering chill in the shade of heavy trees. Three miles away a big city threw its murk of coal smoke to the sky, but out in the cemetery there was cleanness and utter peace. From the topmost twig of a maple an oriole swung and chanted his evening hymn and, though the sun was low, from grass and bush came the multitudinous hum of insects born for a day. All morning and for long after high noon the burying ground had been thronged by people who came to lay offerings of flowers upon the graves of their loved ones, but now the forest of marbles was deserted and the flowers, emblematic in their swift decay, were already drooping and withered. Then Death (Pallida Mors) which knocks with equal hand at the door of prince and peasant seemed still to linger about the place and mutter a benison. Slow on the late breeze came the rolling notes of a bell from the city and the round golden sounds harmonized with the quietness and enriched without breaking it.

Robert Harding, who was a lawyer and had come to Lenterbrough on business, wanted rest on Decoration day and went to the place of tombs to find it. He had lingered for hours watching the slowly moving crowds, or reading the inscriptions cut into the stones. He had seen many tears; he had seen grief in all its stages from the agony which treads upon the heels of a fresh loss to that quiet resignation buoyed by years. Always the scent of the tons of flowers was in his nostrils and in his ears subdued voices.

"We do not differ so widely from the Chinese after all," he had said. "They are a people of ancestor worshippers, and these sites are tinged strongly with worship of the dead."

Now, late in the afternoon, tired by his long watch, he sat with his back against a massive granite shaft which rose above him, faced and pointed like an obelisk. It had been a restful day and he felt the better for it. Not any of his grief he had seen touched him, because he was used to grief and the platints and sighs of the people seemed far away.

He sat while the minutes passed and the shadows lengthened, half dozing, and his mind, as such minds will, strayed from the graves and mourners' blossoms to the intricacies of the case upon which he was engaged. He was running over its main points in detail, his way and fast drifting into slumber when he heard the sudden crunch of wheels on the gravelled drive and roused with a start. Clenching around the corner of the shaft at his back he saw a carriage stop ten paces away. It was a carriage of dark green body with black wheels. The horses were bay and blooded. The coachman was of a rich and inconspicuous livery. On the panels was a coat-of-arms not larger than the palm of a hand. There was solidity, richness and quietude in all of the appointments of the equipage which spoke of wealth and breeding. Harding noted that the coachman was well past middle life. There was no footman.

A door of the carriage swung open and a woman stepped out. She was swarthy, fat and old, her iron grey hair showing under her black bonnet. She could not have been much under 70 years, but was hale and strong and descended lightly in spite of her flesh. Once on the ground she turned and held out a hand to some one still inside.

There met here a hand slender, white and bony, a hand almost fleshless, wrinkled and veinous. It closed like the meager claw of a bird. It was a left hand and on the forefinger blazed and rioted a single diamond larger than a filbert, a white stone of violet and crimson fire, an almost priceless stone. It seemed to throw gleams of light upon the bottle wrist above it.

There came from the carriage, stepping stiffly down, a woman whose face was a skull with dead skin stretched across it. The upper lip was shortened by a painful nervous contraction, showing all of the teeth in front. The nose was thin to tenuity, the chin sharp. The eyebrows were as white as snow and beneath them were eyes of a brilliant and tender blue, the only living things in that face. The mass of snowy hair, dressed in the fashion of the early sixties, bore only a wreath of orange blossoms. The talons of the right hand clutched an enormous bouquet of orange blossoms. From head to feet the woman was robed in bridal white; white satin slippers met her white stockings on a high instep; about her white neck was a circle of pearls, from her snowy hair to the hem of her snowy silken gown fell a snowy veil.

She spoke in a thin voice. This voice had dried and wrapped as she had dried and wasted. She said:

"Once again, Clara! Oh! once again!"

She walked slowly to the grave and laid the blossoms upon it, then sunk upon her knees, raised the ghastly hands to the ghastly face and bowed her head. The other woman stood right, her face set, looking afar off and silent. So she stood through five minutes, then she put her hand tenderly upon her companion's shoulder. "Come!" she said.

"Not yet," was the answer. The kneeling woman rose and going to the shaft laid her forehead against it. Then she turned and spoke:

"We must talk of him first. I could not go away without talking of him. He was handsome and brave, was he not? So handsome and brave and good. And he died long years ago. Tell me how he died, Clara?"

"He died in the last charge, under his flag. Its silk was over his face when they found him."

"You were his sister, yet you have not grieved as I grieved, Clara."

"I was his sister, but you were nearer and dearer to him."

"And on this day long ago—so long ago—we were to have been married. He wrote that he was coming home on furlough. Then there was the great battle down in Virginia and I heard the guns over the hundreds of miles of space. I come to you, don't you remember, and told you that the world was damp with blood. You took me in your arms and tried to comfort me! That seems five lifetimes since. He was handsome and brave. What does the stone say, Clara?"

"It says that it is sweet and right to die for one's country."

"Is that true?"

"It is true, I believe."

"It is—it must be. But it seems so hard. Why should his life be taken? He was so handsome and brave and good; I loved him; I waited him so; and I was waiting for him. This gown came from the maker's yesterday; I mean that yesterday long ago. Don't you know I tried it on and you kissed me on the cheek and said that he would kiss me there soon? Oh, God! It was so long ago! To-day was the battle—I mean to-day back yonder in the years."

"He sleeps soundly 'mid a thousand happy whisperings of flowers. He sleeps soundly when the leaves of autumn march a million strong. He sleeps the seasons through, and it will not be long now until you see him again."

"Until we see him again, Clara. You will be there when we meet, won't you? Then you shall kiss me on the cheek and he shall kiss me. You have been with me all of the lifetimes since he fell. You will not let death part us?"

"I shall be there," said the dark women. "We three shall be there."

"I was 20 years old that day," said the woman in the bridal gown, "and now I am old and you are old—the world is old."

She stooped and placed her hand upon the great slab which roofed the tomb, then entered the carriage silently. The other followed at the door closed softly. The horses wheeled at sober gait. Harding watched them winding among the graves and soon they went from sight. He passed his hand across his eyes, for it seemed to him that he had dreamed. Only the orange blossoms told him that he had been awake. He read these lines, deeply chiseled into the granite:

"Sacred to the Memory of John Herdeen Ray, Lieutenant Company A, Eighteenth Pennsylvania Volunteers, Killed in Action May 30, 1862. Dulce et Decorum Est pro Patria Mori."

The Rattler's Whistle.

I found myself somewhat muddy and brushing a little hard; hat I was not wholly disgraced. I had heard and seen a black snake whistle. I had never even known of the habit in the rattler before. Since then I have seen one other snake do it, and I think I have heard the sound three or four times. It is almost indescribable. The jaws were closed as it was made, not even the throat moving, that I could see. The air seemed to be blown violently through the nostrils, though sounding as if driven through the teeth—a startling hiss, fine and piercing, which one not so much hears as feels — feels it crinkling cold along the nerves.—Writer in Nature.

CAT'S STRANGE FAMILY.

Michigan Pussy Nourishes Tiny Rats Along with Her Own Beautiful Set of Kittens.

The following story from the Philadelphia Press points its own moral. It is unique of its kind.

Four weeks ago a cat, the property of Hans Hansen, a grocer, of Muskegon, Mich., gave birth to a litter of kittens. Mr. Hansen was making some alterations in his store, and three days after the kittens were born the laborers who were excavating for a cellar foundation discovered a nest of young rats, whose mother had evidently been frightened away from them by the onslaught of the shovelers.

The men decided that the young rats would make a nutritious feed for the mother cat and, collecting them, they carried the vermin to the empty bin in the store where the cat and her little family were housed. The rats were thrown in—and the feelings of the onlookers can be better imagined than described when they saw the cat lick and pet the little animals instead of making an onslaught on them.

Up to the present writing the cat has faithfully and jealously guarded and nursed the young rats, and it is a noticeable and peculiar fact that the whole nature of the rats appears to differ from that of their progenitors. They play and frisk with the kittens and jump all over the back of the old mother, who plays with them. It is truly a happy family.

When the news of the peculiar case became bruited about crowds flocked to Mr. Hansen's store to see the animals. Those who now told other doubting Thomases and they also inspected, going away wondering. The great interest now is to find out whether the family will continue to live in harmony.

SHORT NAP IN DEPOT.

Traveler, Tired with Long Journey, Goes to Sleep and Awakes to Find Himself a Pauper.

Seven hundred dollars was the price Peter Griffin, of Cleveland, O., paid for a nap in Chicago, and he didn't sleep on an upholstered couch behind velvet curtains, as he dreamed he did, either. His bed was a bench in Grand Central passenger station, where he was waiting for a train which would take him to his home.

Ten minutes after Griffin, tired by a long journey, closed his eyes he was awakened as suddenly as though somebody had rung the old farmhouse dinner bell at his ear. He sat up and stared about him for a minute, trying to realize where he was.

Instinctively his hand went to his pocket. It had been cut as he slept and his old-fashioned purse was gone. When he realized his loss he broke down completely. A detective took him to Harrison street police station. "We had a lot of trouble down at home," he said to Inspector Lavin, with a quiver in his voice, "and as soon as the hay was in last summer I told father I was going out to earn enough money to pay what we owed."

SAT UP AND STARED ABOUT.

"And you did?" suggested the inspector.

"Yes, I met a fellow and we worked hard out west up to a month ago, washing gold, and then we divided up. I had about $800 for my share. Yes, I had enough left to clear the homestead."

"What then?" as the fellow wendered off again.

"I was tired, coming all this way, and I sat down on that bench and fell asleep. When I awoke up all I had in my purse, $700, was gone. I don't care for myself, but I let the folks know that I was coming and had enough money, and—"

But he could go no farther. The thought of the disappointment of his father and mother was too much for him. He was given a bed at the station and the next morning was sent to Cleveland.

J. J. Gerard, one of the prominent farmers of Terrebonne township, is reported very ill with typhoid fever.

Andrew Kenneth, who recently succeeded Wiley Tindolph in the land business at Thief River Falls, was down to the county seat Tuesday on a business mission.

John Ackerlund, one of the old settlers of Bray township, died last Thursday afternoon after a long illness with rheumatism. The funeral was held from the family home on Saturday.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church will meet at the church parlors next Wednesday afternoon, October 21. A good attendance is desired as business of importance is to be transacted.

New line of high-grade box stationery just received at THE COURIER stationery stand. We have a complete line of these goods, embracing over fifty varieties at prices ranging from 10 cents to $1.00 per box.

James Brady is announced as a candidate for alderman from the first ward. Mr. Brady is one of our oldest and most substantial citizens and is well worthy of the honor for which his friends are pushing him.

A little stranger of the masculine persuasion came to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Puschinsky Tuesday night. Ben says he thinks the little fellow will be a strong Prohibitionist, for as yet he has not made known a desire for anything stronger than milk.

It seems likely that Samuel E. Hunt will yield to the solicitations of his many friends and enter the race for city treasurer. Sam is one of the brightest young business men in the county, and is equipped in every way to fill the office with entire satisfaction.

Word has been received from North Yakima, Wash., that John LaChance was injured a few weeks ago by having a nail driven through his hand. While the injury is not dangerous, it is undoubtedly painful, and John's many friends will hope for an early recovery.

The Scandinavian Lutherans have purchased a lot, and as soon as title can be perfected they will commence the erection of their new church building. The new edifice will cost about $1,000, and will be large enough to anticipate the needs of the congregation for several years.

Ovide Emard, the present city treasurer, informs THE COURIER that he will be a candidate for re-election at the approaching election. Mr. Emard has held the office for a number of years past, and believes that his record as a public official warrants him in again asking the suffrage of the voters.

Candidates for city offices should bear in mind that October 24 is the last day they can file petitions. There has been little election talk during the past week. L. C. Simons has been talked of as a candidate for mayor, and if he should conclude to go into the race the people could be assured of having a good executive.

Rev. Andrew Walker returned Monday evening from Casselton, N. D., where he has been visiting his brother for a couple of weeks past. Mr. Walker will remain in the city but a few days, and expects in the near future to receive a call to the pastorate of a church in North Dakota or the northern part of this state.

Crookston Journal: J. A. Button left this morning for Thief River Falls where in company with G. W. Anderson he has established a branch business college. The institution starts off with fair prospects, and it is the intention of Mr. Button to extend his system by establishing another in the near future at Bemidji.

J. L. Murphy, of Minneapolis, has been here this week in the interest of the John Hancock Life Insurance company. Although totally blind, Mr. Murphy pursues his avocation with splendid success. He is a graduate of the law department of the state university, and expects soon to enter the practice of his profession.

According to the Crookston papers the celebrated war drama, "True Blue," will be presented at the opera house at Red Lake Falls on Wednesday evening, October 21. The Crookston militia company will take part in the sham battle. The militia boys will drive over, while the company will make the trip in their private car.

The high school foot ball team is practicing every night preparatory to a game with the Warren high school team on the local grounds Saturday afternoon. The local team was exceptionally strong last year, and as a number of the best players are still in school there is every reason to believe their record will be fully sustained.

Postmaster Richardson was down from Thief River Falls Tuesday on business before the probate court. Mr. Richardson is a candidate for mayor at the approaching municipal election and thinks that his chances are better than the other fellow's. He is public spirited and enterprising, and the people of that city would not make a mistake in putting him at the head of public affairs.

The Red Lake Falls orchestra has recently been reorganized under the management of the band, and here after Prof. A. Onstad will be the leader and Paul Berthon business manager. Persons desiring to obtain the orchestra for dances or parties are requested to confer with Mr. Berthon. The boys have recently received a lot of new music, and guarentee to give satisfaction in every repect.

The Minnesota schools will have an exhibit at the Louisiana purchase exposition at St. Louis next year, and premiums will be awarded by the state board of managers for the best work of rural, graded and high schools. The Red Lake Falls schools will enter the contest and Prof. Whiteley expects to have a full exhibit of the work done by the local schools in the hands of the managers by December 1.

As mentioned last week seven carloads of machinery and household goods arrived over the Great Northern. This property all belongs to people who recently purchased farms from the Healy-Wetson agency. They are George Walker, Gilbert Gross and Lawrence Preese, of Marshall, and George Lang and Henry Thill, of Cottonwood. About a dozen more Lyon county people have recently bought farms here, and will move up in the course of a few months.

J. P. Gonigan and George A. Heyl were here from Illinois the latter part of the week with a party of land men, consisting of Elmer Zimmergren, H. J. Kreiling, William Heiple and Dan Wisthoff. Several of them bought farms and expect to move here in the spring. It looks as though nearly a hundred new families will locate in the country tributary to Red Lake Falls before the first of April. There is plenty of room for them. Our country needs actual settlers and lots of them.

During the past week the Gonigan real estate agency has sold three farms to actual settlers from Washington, Ill. Elmer Zimmerman is the purchaser of the northeast quarter of 9, Lake Pleasant, and H. J. Kreiling, of the same place, bought the north west quarter of the same section. William Heipel purchased 120 acres in sections 22 and 23, Terrebonne township. Another crowd of landseekers under the chaperonage of J. P. Gonigan and George A. Heyl is expected here next week. Fully fifteen settlers from that part of the country will locate here in the spring as the result of sales made by the Gonigan people.

Crookston Times. Friends and relatives of Fred Remshardt, of this city, yesterday morning received telegrams stating that he had been killed in a railway wreck near Winnipeg which occurred Saturday night. The nature of the wreck has not been learned, but Will Remshardt, of this city, left yesterday morning for Winnipeg to bring down the remains. Fred is well known in this city and has many warm friends who will regret his untimely end. He was a comparatively young man, being 33 years of age. He served in the regular army for eight years, receiving a discharge only to reenlist again in a few days in the forces which went to Cuba. Of late he has been employed by the Canadian Northern as conductor and it was while attending to his duties as such that he met his death. The body will arrive this evening and the funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon from the family residence. The militia company will attend in a body as will also the band.

Try for Health

222 South Peoria St.,
Chicago, Ills., Oct. 7, 1902.

Eight months ago I was so ill that I was compelled to leave my home nearly all the time. My stomach was so weak and upset that I could keep nothing on it and I vomited frequently. I could not urinate without great pain and I coughed so much that my throat and lungs were raw and sore. The doctors pronounced it Bright's disease and others said it was consumption. It mattered little to me what they called it and I had no desire to live. A sister visited me from St. Louis and asked me if I had ever tried Wine of Cardui. I told her I had not, and she bought a bottle. I believe that it saved my life. I believe many women could save much suffering if they but knew of its value.

Margie Dunbar

Don't you want freedom from pain? Take Wine of Cardui and make one supreme effort to be well. You do not need to be a weak, helpless sufferer. You can have a woman's health and do a woman's work in life. Why not secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today?

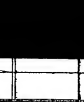
THE SOCIAL SCOURGE OF AMERICA



By CARDINAL GIBBONS

THERE IS A SOCIAL SCOURGE MORE BLIGHTING AND MORE DESTRUCTIVE OF FAMILY LIFE THAN MORMONISM. IT IS THE FEARFULLY INCREASING NUMBER OF DIVORCE MILLS THROUGHOUT THE UNITED STATES. THESE MILLS, LIKE THE MILLS OF THE GODS, ARE SLOWLY BUT SURELY GRINDING THE DOMESTIC ALTARS OF THE NATION.

I CAN CONCEIVE OF NO MORE PATHETIC SCENE, NO APPEAL MORE TOUCHING, THAN THE CONTEMPLATION OF A CHILD EMERGING INTO YEARS OF DISCRETION SEEING FATHER AND MOTHER ESTRANGED FROM EACH OTHER.

The nation is sick, and the malady is all the greater because the patient is unconscious of the disease. WE ARE SO INTOXICATED WITH MATERIAL PROSPERITY THAT WE ARE INDIFFERENT TO THE HIGHER ASPIRATIONS OF THE SOUL. If Christianity is the highest type of civilization, then is it not true that we are retrograding?

WOMAN IS NATURALLY MAN'S EQUAL

By Professor J. NOVICOW, Eminent Russian Sociologist

DESCARTES and Newton were the prodnets of two factors—their individual capacities and certain social circumstances that favored these capacities.

Suppose that they had been shipwrecked as babies and raised among barbarians, speaking no civilized language, and it is safe to say that neither of them would have distinguished himself, and STILL HIS BRAIN WOULD HAVE BEEN AS HIGHLY DEVELOPED. It would have contained exactly the same number of cells. This also applies to woman. So while we have never heard of any feminine thinker as prominent as those named, we must remember that woman has always been badly handicapped.

WOMEN IN CONDITIONS OF AS HIGHLY DEVELOPED BRAINS MAY HAVE LIVED AND DIED UNKNOWN AND UNHEARD OF BECAUSE OF LACK OF OPPORTUNITY TO SHOW ANY RESULTS OF THEIR THOUGHTS.

The fact is that where the opportunity has been given to woman, as, for instance, in America, she has proved herself the equal of man in every respect, and I am perfectly sure that a century or, two from now, when man has reached a little nearer to civilization, the idea that woman is inferior to man in any respect will appear as wrong as the custom of Indian tribes to leave all the heavy work to their squaws appears to us today.

PENNSYLVANIA'S LIBERAL TAXATION LAWS

Should Be Given the Credit For English Libraries and Chicago Universities

By SAMUEL W. PENNYPACKER, Governor of Pennsylvania

WHATEVER tends to bring about an improvement in the condition of the masses of mankind and assists in their cultivation and elevation is an advantage to the state and ought to be encouraged by legislation. There is no corresponding good. to the state from the mere accumulation of unused resources in the hands of an individual.

THE STATE IS THEREFORE INTERESTED WITHIN REASONABLE BOUNDS IN BRINGING ABOUT A DIVISION OF THINGS IN WHICH IN THE DISTRIBUTION OF REWARDS RESULTING FROM BUSINESS VENTURES CAPITAL SHALL HAVE LESS OF PROFIT AND LABOR MORE OF COMPENSATION.

No capitalist is strong enough and no laborer is insignificant enough to escape obedience to the law. When the laborer sells his labor for a compensation, he ought to realize the service during the period of the contract. No man should be permitted to interfere upon any pretense whatever with another who may choose to sell his labor, and violence, from whatever source it may come, should be promptly and rigidly suppressed, using whatever force may be necessary for the purpose.

While it is a satisfaction to see libraries in England and universities in Chicago being erected from the outcome of the iron and oil of Pennsylvania, DUE PRIMARILY TO HER LIBERALITY, we may be pardoned a feeling of regret that so much of the wealth of her production is controlled and utilized elsewhere. The Pennsylvania legislature should consider the propriety of IMPOSING A SLIGHT TAX UPON SOME ONE OF HER PRODUCTIONS, the proceeds to be applied to the betterment of our roads.

LIFE IS A PLACE OF SERVICE

By Count LEO TOLSTOI, Russia's Grand Old Man

MARRIAGE gives happiness only when there is a common aim. The man and the woman have met by the way and said, "Let us walk together." So be it. And they take each other's hand.

But marriage will not give happiness when both, thus drawn toward each other, have turned away from their proper course.

All this to combat THE FALSE IDEA SHARED BY MANY MEN THAT LIFE IS A VALE OF TEARS, and also that other fallacy, equally shared by a strong majority, that youth, health and riches prove to us that life is a pleasure ground.

LIFE IS A PLACE OF SERVICE WHERE ONE MUST OFTEN SUFFER MUCH, BUT WHERE YET OFTENER ONE MAY BE VERY HAPPY.

Dieting Invites Disease.

To cure Dyspepsia or Indigestion it is no longer necessary to live on milk and toast. Starvation produces such weakness that the whole system becomes an easy prey to disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that one cares to eat, without belching, pain or indigestion. Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure what you eat—makes the stomach sweet. Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

Battle Royal in Court Room.

During a trial in a civil suit in the Bongalore district of India the other day a dispute arose between the defendant and one of the witnesses for the plaintiff. The two came to blows, the witnesses of both parties joined in, and sympathizers with the rival factions taking a part, the court became a glorified prize ring. The battle lasted for an hour, and the police and military had eventually to come in and disperse the mob.

Many a man has lost the girl of his choice just because of his cruelty to his horse. Neglect of a bruised or wounded animal is cruelty—all the more so since Cole's Veterinary Carbolisalve is guaranteed to cure all galls, sores and wounds without scars. 50c and $1.00 by all druggists.

Dick Carter's Choice

By EDWIN J. WEBSTER

(Copyright, 1903, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

DICK CARTER was making for the Mexican border as fast as his horse could carry him. The horse in question was an excellent one, yet the possession of it made Dick extremely uncomfortable, not to say nervous. For the horse had belonged to Scotty Farrell until the evening before, when Dick appropriated it without the formality of asking the owner's permission. Such eccentricities are not looked upon at Deseret in the southwest. Dick learned that a lynching party was being quietly organized. Hence his haste to get out of United States territory. Now the foothills were only a short distance ahead. Dick was pretty certain that if he could get a good start among the hills he could throw off his pursuers, who while no doubt strenuous in their chase, were not yet in sight.

Scarcely had he ridden over the first slight ridge of the foothills than Dick saw a sight which filled him with a good deal of wonderment. Ahead, stretched out on the ground, was a pony. It had evidently twisted its leg and fallen on the treacherous ground. A short distance from the pony was a girl, a much frightened girl, who was running as fast as possible. At Dick's hail she looked around in terror and then gave a gasp of relief as she noticed that Dick was an American. She stopped running and waited for him to ride up. As Dick halted his horse the girl broke into a torrent of entreaty.

"The Indians! the Indians!" she gasped. "The Yaquis have made a raid over the border. They are on my trail now. Can't you save me? You know," she added, her voice breaking "how they treat women they capture. And my pony has broken its leg."

Dick drew in his breath with a little whistle. He did know how the Yaquis treated women. But they treated men the same way, their course of treatment beginning with burning splinters and ending with even more unpleasant things. But, while Dick Carter was far from being a good man, it never occurred to him to ride on in safety and leave the frightened girl to the mercy of the Yaquis. A second later, the girl mounted behind him, he was making the best of his way towards the second ridge of the foothills.

But when the second ridge was reached one thing was certain. The horse could not long carry double over that rough ground. Dick halted at the top of the ridge and looked back. Two miles could be seen a faint cloud of dust. That was from the vigilantes, following fast on his own trail. To the west was a second and larger dust cloud. Dick knew that was from the Yaquis. He gave a little sigh. It seemed tough luck, just when he had supposed he would be safe if he reached the foothills. But Dick did not hesitate as to his choice.

"The horse can't carry double," he said, briefly, clamounting as he spoke. "You ride south to the One Trail ranch. There you will be safe. Hurry, hurry! This isn't the time for talk."

Even with the terror of the Yaquis on her the girl hesitated.

"I won't ride away on your horse and leave you to be killed," she said, in determined tones.

Then Dick lied, a noble lie.

"There's a little gully I know of, where one person can hide, especially as they will be watching the trail of the horse and not looking for me. I won't run half the risk that riding double would be."

As the girl rode off Dick looked grimly around.

"Lots of little gullies," he thought, "but none that would hide a rat from those sharp-eyed Indians. Well, I'll shoot as long as I can and keep the last bullet for myself. No little dirs on his stomach for Mr. Dick Carter."

The course the Yaquis and the lynching party were taking prevented each from seeing the other, a low ridge intervening between them. The Yaquis reached the foothills first, swung around a cone and, intent on the trail left by the girl, came on at a gallop. Then suddenly the lynchers rode over the ride, a considerable distance to the northwest. Before either party had time to more than barely realize the presence of the other they were within shooting range.

The Indians, although taken by surprise, supposed most naturally that the lynchers were on their trail, not being acquainted with the incident of the disappearance of Scotty Farrell's horse. They scattered to such cover as could be found and opened fire. The lynchers were even more surprised than the Indians. But they were well armed and not the kind of men to meekly submit to being shot at. In a moment a very pretty, if wholly unlooked for, fight was in progress.

For a short time Dick Carter watched the fight with feelings of unholy joy. Both parties were equally his enemies. The more they injured each other the better were his chances for ultimate escape. Then his emotions began to change. The Yaquis outnumbered the Americans and slowly, but surely, were getting the better of the contest. After all, thought Dick, the lynchers were men of his own race and breed, even though they had planned unkind treatment of himself. Should he look on while they were killed and wounded by a lot of Indians, and Indians from across the border at that? Dick stretched himself out in the little gully, got a good sight and began pumping at the Yaquis with his repeating rifle.

This practically settled the fight. The Yaquis were dismayed at the rear attack and supposed it meant the arrival of reinforcements for the white men. They scattered, their firing grew desultory and a few minutes later the entire band were in full flight.

There was no use trying to run away on foot and Dick sauntered coolly over to the somewhat diminished band of lynchers. The recognition of their unexpected ally gave them considerable of a surprise.

"You turned up just at the right second for us, Dick," observed the leader. "By the ways, if it's not a personal question, what's become of Scotty Farrell's horse?"

"A girl's got it," said Dick, with rather more nonchalance than he really felt. "A girl the Indians have been chasing and whose horse broke its leg. She's ridden it down to the One Trail ranch. Scotty can get it there."

"Seeing the way you bobbed up just when we were needing you, I guess everything is all right this time," replied the leader, glancing at the rest of the band and at Scotty Farrell in particular. Scotty nodded his head. "But the next time you borrow a horse don't be quite so impromptu about it. Grab one of those Indian ponies. We'll ride on to the ranch, see that the girl is safe and get the horse."

"Blamed if I didn't make the right choice for all parties," thought Dick, as he mounted the pony. "Though I didn't think so at the time. When I saw that girl galloping away on Scotty's horse I thought it meant either torture or a bullet in his head for Dick Carter."

Anniversary of Jamestown.

The state of Virginia has chartered the Jamestown Tri-Centenary Exposition company, a body of prominent citizens who will make it their business and pleasure to see that the founding of Jamestown is suitably commemorated in 1907. "Let us all praise famous men," should be the general watchword, when that anniversary approaches. Our south find no place more fitting to acknowledge the debt we owe the founders and patriots than the spot where English laws and representative institutions were first implanted in the soil.

The term, "a brilliant man," taken on a new meaning. Prof. Goodspeed, of the University of Pennsylvania, has discovered that the human body gives off light enough to affect photographic plates used in X-ray work. There seems to be something more than poetic fiction in the idea of the lover that he basks in the light of his lady's eyes.

Torgnato Tasso was famous throughout Italy before he was nine years old, as an accomplished Greek and Latin scholar, and the author of clever and polished verse; and at 13 he was the intellectual center of the brilliant court at Urbino.

Kansas is calling for 20,000 men to gather the wheat crop. What is the matter with women? Are they to be crowded out? Equal rights for all, a fair wheat field, and no favor.

ON THE MILL BRIDGE.

All dusty were the narrow road that winds above the mill
And yonder nests in the chestnut trees yet stands the grey old mill.

Its seamed walls, gaping in the sun, its mossed roof are as of yore,
And, powdered with unmeasured toil, the miller in the door

Leans, as he leant in other days—half-nothing what he sees;
His trousers ragged at the hem and baggy at the knees.

Here is the bridge across the stream
Where I was wont to sit
And now, as then, our water-grass the
"summersellas" flit—

Awatch to stitch the lips of lads and lasses who shall dare
To kiss the maids that in not trees or sleep without a prayer.

Tall spikes of vivid cardinal still grow along the brook
And studying the selfsame song in some leaf-cloistered nook,

A hermit-thrush comes on and on, until the trotting pain
Of sad to-days has slipped away, and left me child again:

A child who, laughing, leans to watch a trout with happy leap of pulse a
Within upon the line!

O world, that breaks us on the wheel of time unsatisfied,
That teaches us the false and true, but-
waits not to guide,

Leave-leave us just a touch of joy like that which stirred within
When, on the grist-mill bridge, we fished for shiners with a pin!

HOUSEMAID AIRS HER WOES.

Domestic Writes Open Letter to Newspaper Declaring Factory Work Preferable.

Laura Watson, a domestic, published an open letter in an evening newspaper of Syracuse, N. Y., the other night, giving reasons why working girls should shun housework.

"What self-respecting girl would like to go into the kitchen and fight potand kettles from six a. m. until eight p. m., and then have to be on hand until ten p. m.? She is not fit to be introduced to the gentlemen factory girl, who calls on her mistress, probably, on church work, like a 'Mary' or 'Bridget' to everyone, while the factory girl is exclusive, and has the right to prefix 'Miss' to her name. Her employer's family will not recognize her on the street. The coachman's daughter—who, by the way, goes to college—asks her to a nicety. If I had a rival in love, the worst joke I could wish her would be the honorable position of general servant in some 'folne' family."

BASTIN EXPECTS TO SOAR.

An Englishman Invents an Airship Which He Thinks Will Perform Wonders.

T. T. Hugh Bastin, of Brixton, England, has invented a mechanical balloon which will be at the St. Louis exposition for the airship prize. The wings can be controlled separately, and one man, by working one lever, it is asserted, can regulate every requisite movement of soaring, steering, flying, hovering and descending. The motive power is supplied by a petroleum engine, and propulsion is achieved by air resistance to the beating of the wings.

The "bird" is cylindrical, and has a pointed nose and tail. All the weight is in the centre, thus maintaining its equilibrium. When the wings are at best ing, the model needs two men to hold it back. Mr. Bastin expects to attain a speed of 150 miles an hour with a full-sized bird.

Rheumatism

"THE PAIN KING."

Those who have ever felt its keen, cutting pains, or witnessed the intense suffering of others, know that Rheumatism is torture, and that it is rightly called "The King of Pain."

All do not suffer alike. Some are suddenly seized with the most excruciating pains, and it seems every muscle and joint in the body was being torn asunder. Others feel only occasional slight pains for weeks or months, when a sudden change in the weather or exposure to damp, chilly winds or night air brings on a fierce attack, lasting for days perhaps, and leaving the patient with a weakened constitution or crippled and deformed for all time.

An acid, polluted condition of the blood is the cause of every form and variety of Rheumatism, Muscular, Articular, Acute, Chronic, Inflammatory and Sciatic, and the blood must be purged and purified before there is an end to your aches and pains. External applications, the use of liniments and plasters, do much toward temporary relief, but such treatment does not reach the real cause or cleanse the diseased blood; but S. S. S., the greatest of all blood purifiers and tonics, does cure Rheumatism by antidoting and neutralizing the poisonous acids and building up the weak and sluggish blood. It is safe and reliable in all forms of Rheumatism. It makes the old acid blood rich, and the pain-tortured muscles and joints are relieved, the shattered nerves are made strong, and the entire system is invigorated and toned up by the use of this great vegetable remedy.

If you have Rheumatism, writes us, and our physicians will furnish you, out charge any information desired, and we will mail free our book on Rheumatism.

Tom Platt has followed Chauncey Depew's example by hunting up a likely young widow and marrying her. Tom can always be depended upon to play the part of "Me, Too" to the music of the senior senator.

The Commoner remarks that the invention does not have to be of much account in order to get it taken up by the postoffice department. The only thing is ability to make the deal with the right people.

Mrs. Nation proposes to establish an asylum for the better halves of inebriates, and insists on calling it "For Drunkards' Wives." The Duluth News-Tribune is correct in saying that many sensitive eligible inmates may not like the classification.

The Fairmont Sentinel says it likes Mr. Eddy's platform of principles, but wants to know why he didn't talk and vote that way when he was in congress. The Sentinel's experience is that you can't take much stock in a candidate's repentance.

Wilson S. Bissell, postmaster general for two years during Grover Cleveland's last administration, died last Friday at his home in Buffalo. Mr. Bissell was Cleveland's law partner at Buffalo many years ago. He was a talented lawyer, and made an efficient cabinet official.

Henry R. Cobb, publisher of the Park Rapids Enterprise and the Grand Rapids Magnet, has sold a half interest in the business to J. D. Haruden. Mr. Cobb has met with great success with both of his papers, and with the help of a practical and hustling partner he ought to do better than ever before.

Henry A. Castle has been forced to resign as auditor of the postoffice department. There is no charge of incompetency or dishonesty, but it seems that Secretary Shaw demanded the Captain's scalp. The people of Minnesota will be loth to believe that there is anything wrong with Captain Castle.

To their credit be it said that the southern governors are doing all in their power to prevent lynchings. Dispatches state that recently the governor of North Carolina ordered out troops at Tarboro to protect a rapist from the mob, and that similar action was taken by the governor of Georgia to save a negro at Rome.

Ray Jesse' case in the federal court has been carried over again. In the meantime it is likely that Ray will offer the government a larger sum to hush the matter up. The government of the United States may be no respecter of persons, but it is easy for culprits of the Jones stripe to slip through the dragnet of justice.

It is a matter of universal regret to the people of the Northwest that Charles S. Mellen is to leave the Northern Pacific. He took charge of the road when it had just emerged from a receivership and was barely paying expenses. He leaves it at a time when it is paying big dividends and is generally recognized as one of the greatest railroad systems in the country.

Beltrami county is due for a newspaper awakening. R. W. Hitchcock, formerly editor of the Crookston Times, will assume editorial and business control of the Bemidji Pioneer next week, and H. G. Hayes and W. E. Verity have acquired the Bemidji Sentinel and will establish a daily. These men are all No. 1 newspaper fellows, and the contest for business will be strenuous.

The Minneapolis mill proprietors will undoubtedly win out in the strike. They are securing new men every day to replace those gone out on strike, and it will not be long until they have a sufficient number to run the mills at full capacity. As the workmen were securing very good wages it is evident that the sympathy of the public is not with them.

The Brice combination of oil companies has failed, and numerous Minnesota investors are out the price of their stock in these wind and water concerns. The day is long since gone by that people can safely intrust their earnings to the exploiting oil and mining companies. Where real merit can be shown it is not difficult to interest capital in large chunks, and it is unnecessary to go after the small fry.

The country hears with profound sorrow of the illness of Mrs. Grover Cleveland, and it is the universal hope that she may soon be restored to health. While Mrs. Cleveland's distinguished husband has received both right and left-handed compliments from the American people, with several gradations of praise and abuse, she has always been esteemed as the most gracious and popular lady that has ever graced the white house.

In 1893 Governor Campbell called at the White House and asked President Cleveland for a federal appointment for August W. Machen, says an exchange. "There is a position as superintendent of free delivery in the postoffice department which pays $2,500 a year," said Mr. Cleveland, "Will he take that?" "He will take anything he can get," replied Governor Campbell, and Machen has been for ten years living up to the governor's recommendation.

It is announced from Washington that the subject of uniform divorce laws will be treated by President Roosevelt in his message to congress. The president is expected to suggest a congressional inquiry in the hope that some kind of reform may be devised. While it is agreed that congress has no power to pass laws relating to divorce, it is thought that a congressional inquiry might result in such an agitation of the question that the states could be induced to adopt uniform laws.

The question is often asked: What does it cost to run our national government? This year the expenditures will be about $650,000,000, including $132,000,000 for postal service, which is now nearly self-sustaining. The revenues will amount to about $694,000,000, being a surplus of $43,000,000. Last year's surplus was $91,000,000, of which some $50,000,000 were used in the redemption of government bonds. The largest item in our national expenditures is the pension account, which now amounts to $139,000,000 annually, or nearly $400,000 a day.

The Randall boom for governor will strike the average individual as bordering on the ridiculous. Randall may be a good fellow, and a good fair manager, with the ability to milk the country press for plenty of advertising, but he has never shown the qualities of statesmanship or familiarity with public questions usually considered essential in a state executive. Possibly, though, Mr. Randall could arrange to retain Bob Jameson as private secretary, in which event it would not be considered necessary or in good form for the occupant of the office to know much about public affairs.

The souvenir harvest edition of the Wadena Pioneer-Journal is a little the finest production of the kind that has ever emanated from a Minnesota country print shop. The edition has 56 pages, and is printed on a superior grade of calendared paper. It is illustrated by hundreds of first-class half-tone engravings, and in every respect is a model of the "art preservative." It is not likely that such an elaborate undertaking yields a revenue commensurate with the work involved in its production, but it at least will prove a valuable advertising for Wadena and Wadena county and a monument to the ability and enterprise of its publisher.

According to the present program, congress will meet in extraordinary session November 9. The Washington correspondent for the St. Louis Republic says that the rule of the Republican party to attempt very little important legislation in the congress preceding a presidential election will be adhered to. The prospective speaker, Mr. Cannon, has conferred with the treasury officials and it is announced on apparently good authority that there will be no financial legislation. No tariff legislation is possible either, and according to the Republic correspondent, the prospect is that very little will be done beyond passing the current appropriation bills and incorporating many speeches in the Congressional Record, so that they may be circulated among the faithful at the expense of the government.

Assiduous search among our exchanges, Republican as well as Democratic, fails to disclose any sympathy for the president in the troubles he is having with the Delaware senators. Mr. Roosevelt is said to have informed the representatives of the Republican factions in this state that they are discrediting his administration, and that they must either meet their ways or expect very little consideration from the White House. Everyone would be glad to have the president carry out this threat if it means the "throwing down" of Addicks, but the point upon which emphasis is laid in all the comment on this incident is that the administration would not now be in the difficulties of which the president complains if Addicks had been treated from the start as a political element with which the administration could have no relations.

The report of the condition of the treasury at the end of the last fiscal year was submitted to Secretary Shaw last week. It shows that the total net revenue for the year was $666,286,074, an increase of $33,988,439 over the year preceding, and the total expenditures $606,099,007, an increase of $35,752,234. The surplus was $54,297,667, as compared with $91,287,375 in 1902. Treasurer Roberts places the monetary stock of the country on June 30, 1903, including gold and silver, United States notes, treasury notes, and national bank notes, but not certificates, at $2,686,149,621, an increase of $124,882,963 for the year. The increase in gold was $60,137,401, and in national bank notes, $56,998,559. The increase of the money in circulation during the year was $131,740,552, of which $59,776,463 was in gold and gold certificates, and $54,520,193 in national bank notes. The share of money for each person increased 89 cents, and the proportion of gold to the whole rose to 42 per cent., the highest ratio ever recorded.

The average yield of grain in this vicinity is good, and as a rule the grade is better than for several years. As prices are higher than usual there is no reason why the farmers in this section should not be happy.

The St. Hilaire creamery has had a prosperous year. Manager Winkjer informs us that during the past year the creamery has paid an average price of 19½ cents per pound for butter fat, and that an average of 40 tubs of butter have been shipped each week, the highest number of tubs being 58, and the lowest 25. The average amount of cream received has been about 10,000 pounds per month, Mr. Winkjer thinks this country affords great dairying possibilities, and it is his ambition to take away the laurels from the southern part of the state during the next year or two.

RATE IS 2.73 MILLS.

State Auditor Iverson Makes Announcement of State Tax Rate.

State Auditor Iverson has announced that the rate of taxation necessary to raise money to meet the expenses of the state government for the ensuing year, together with the school tax, is 2.73-100 mills, as follows: Revenue fund, 1 mill, agriculture college fund, 2-10 mill, funding tax fund, 2-10 mill, soldiers' relief fund, 1-10 mill; state school tax, 1.23-100 mills.

The total rate is two-tenths mill more this year than last year, owing to the special tax to raise the $250,000 provided for by the last legislature for new buildings at the state school of agriculture. The law required that that amount be raised in two years. State Auditor Iverson says that the tax this year will raise approximately $150,000 of that amount, and that accordingly the rate for the purpose next year will be somewhat less. The rate of taxation in the other funds is the same as last year.

On the basis that the total assessed valuation of taxable property in the state is $781,000,000, taxes amounting to $2,132,130 will be paid into the several funds, as follows: School tax, $800,630; revenue fund, $781,200; agriculture college, $156,200; funding tax fund, $156,200; soldiers' relief fund, $78,100. These figures are based on the supposition that all taxes are paid, but of course there are always some delinquencies.

MORE GOVERNMENT LANDS.

Twenty Townships Ceded Red Lake Reservation to be Opened.

The United States land office at Crookston has received full instructions relative to the land which will be opened to settlement on Nov. 10, on the ceded Red Lake reservation. The lands to be opened for entry in this district are as follows:

The agricultural lands in townships 157 and 158, range 30, 31, 36, 37, 38; townships 159, range 30, 31, 32, 33; townships 161, range 30, 31; township 162, range 38, and certain lands in section 16 and 36 of the ceded White Earth reservation. These lands will be opened at 9 o'clock a. m., Tuesday, Nov. 10, 1904, to settlement and entry.

The lands are all in Beltrami county and will be subject to disposal to actual settlers only, under the provisions of the homestead law, except the commutation clause. Proof of occupancy for five years is required before title can be perfected. Each settler is required to pay for the lands settled upon the sum of $1.25 per acre in five equal annual installments, at the end of the 1st, 2d, 3, 4th and 5th years.

Every person making entry will be obliged to furnish non-saline affidavit to the effect that he or she personally have examined every subdivision of the land to be entered.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

EARLY NEXT MONTH.

The Land Known as Red Lake Indian Reservation.

State Auditor Iverson is in receipt of a notice from J. D. Jones, register of the land office at Cass Lake, giving a description of land that is to be opened to settlement Nov. 10.

The land is on what is known as the Red Lake Indian reservation, and does not include any part of Cass Lake, Leech Lake or Winnibigoshish reservations. Settlers must pay for the same at the rate of $1.25 an acre.

Great confusion exists as to just where this is land is located. It may be stated that all of the land lies between the Red Lake and Lake of the Woods, with the exception of these pieces:

Sections 16 and 36, in townes 148, 144, 145 and 146. Section 37, in 146. Section 37, in 147; 36, 37, and 38, in 148; 33 to 39, in 149; 31 to 40, in 150; 31 and 32, 36, 39 and 40, in 151; 31 and 32, 40 and 41, in 152; 30 to 32, in 153; 30 and 31, in 154.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.

Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....

BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:

That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus fastly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."

That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.

And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVE VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—healthful CLIMATE, GOOD CLER WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next few years.

We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.

Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own funds and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not just as well have that in your own pocket?

We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:

3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well-settled community, where churches and schools are built and roads graded. These will be sold at "cash" or a price that will surprise you. Only $5,000 cash will handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit at 6 per cent. A live investor can make a fro thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.

We furnish abstracts showing good title to every piece of land we sell.

We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

DER GERMAN COBBLER

He Hangs Out a Sign and Becomes a Real Poet.

[Copyrighted, 1903, by C. B. Lewis.]

"HANS," says Mr. Vogleson nah he comes in to see me der odder day und don't find me mit no wurk on hand, "you vhas some schnickess."

"What for?" I asks.

"Pecause you don't make yourself some peasness. Do you pelief I would sit here like some lump on a log if I vhas a cobbler? Not mooch! I haf ten customers pefore noon tomorrow."

"Would you drag 'em in mit a rope?"

"Ot course not. You come out in der back yard mit me while we drink der growler und I make it plain to you."

Dot night I put a sign in my window. She reads:

"Some poetry made oop for all en customers while he waits, by Der Sherman poet."

At 8 o'clock in der morning a woman comes in mit two shoes to be patched, und poety soon she says to me:

"If I know you vhas a Sherman poet

MIT A WEED ON HIS HAT UND A SOLEMN LOOK.

I come in here long ago. You may go shend und git me some poetry."

Und I look at her a minute und say:

"Her eyes were like dot sky of plus,
Und pidder vhas her hair;
Her form vhas like a willow tree,
Und, oh, her face vhas fair!"

"Her teeth vhas whiter dan der snow.
Her smile as soft as summer.
Und every man who looks at her
Declares she vhas a hummer."

"Dot vhas not so!" she says as she looks around for a looking glass und tries to blush like a girl.

"It vhas, fair lady," I says.

"Vhell, I haf six more shoes to fix oop, und you shall haf all my work. It vhas der best poetry I haf heard in twenty years, und I vhas quite proud of myself."

Der next vhas a man who vhas old und stiff in der knees und has gray hair, und he grouns vhen he sits down. He vhants it lift on his heel, und he looks at me und says:

"Vhell, cobbler, if you haf some poetry on hand you can shoot her off. I tell you beforehand, though, I don't pay any extra for her. It vhas 15 cents for dis shoe und no more."

I vhas all ready for him, und I say:

"He vhas a man in der prime of life,
In der prime of life vhas he.
Und der vhimmen all he goes by,
Und like for his wife to be.

"He vhas a man who vhilt love again,
Und several times hefit be,
Und der widder vhas rich ash Wanderbilt
Und waiting at home for me."

Vhen I speak dot poetry dot man looks me up for a minute und den says:

"Cobbler, I pelief you vhas a fool in der shape of a poet, but I haf changed my mind. No flies vhas on you. I said it vhas feefteen cents und no more for der shoe, but you can make it a quarter, und I bring you in some more work tomorrow. Of course some rich widow vhas waiting for me. Of course."

Dot third customer vhas a housework girl. She turned up one und a freckled face, und she brings in a pair of shoes to be fixed und blushes und giggles. Fy und py she says:

"Vhell, do I get some poetry too?"

"Of course," I says, und I lays down my hammer und looks at her und says:

"If I was young und free again
Und looking for a wife
To keep my house und make me proud
Und go mit me through life,

"I'd seek a dainy shust like you.
A pretty blossom rare,
A girl mit sooch a form und face
Dot other girls must swear."

"Do you mean dot, cobbler?" she asks me ash she shakes out her dress und smooths down her hair.

"Of course."

"Vhell, dot pleases me, und if der grocery boy likes me to go to snoder dance mit him he vhas thrown down. I look for some shentleman after dis, und tomorrow I shall bring in a whole basket of shoes to be fixed oop."

Der fourth customer vhas a man mit a weed on his hat und a solemn look, und I know dot he loses his vife three months ago. Always pefore he goes by a dago to hat his shoes fixed.

"Do you fawent some Sherman poetry, sir?" I says ash he sits down to put a cement patch.

"If vhat you be," I says.

"I suffer dit cars mooch for poetry, but if he vhas free you can go ahead." Und while I vhas beating oop der cement I says to him:

"Der vhas sighs und sorrows und heartaches,
Der vhas sighs und sorrows und woes,
Der vhas days when you vhas forgotten
Und hope from her sout almost goes.

"Shall do not despair in your sorrow;
Another vhas waiting for thee,
Und almost pefore you know how it vhas
You'll pecome "married to she."

"Dot vhas all right," he says as he gets up und puts on his shoes. "Dot vhas all right, und I vhas much obliged to you. Dot vhas a pretty good poetry, und I vhas much pleased mit it. Here vhas a dollar for you, und I vhas much obliged to you."

Und I vhas much obliged to him, und I vhas much pleased mit myself, und I vhas much pleased mit der whole business. Dot vhas der last time I ever vhas a cobbler.

"Cobbler, vhat does dot poetry refer to?" asks dot man after a little while.

"It vhas to you."

"Do you know dot I haf sighs und sorrows und heartaches?"

"I do, but dey vhas all gone avhay in two or three months here, und—und—"

"Und vhat?"

"Vhell, you shall marry again und be happy, of course. Sooch a man like you can't stay single und mourn avayder."

"How mooch vhas dot patch?" he asks.

"Feefteen cent."

"I shall pay you thirty und bring you in some shoes to be fixed oop. Yes, perhaps it vhas my duty to get oafer my grief und sorrow und look around a little, but I shall see about it. Mean vhile you needn't say nothings to anpody dot you make me some poetry."

Dot day more ash ten peoples come in to be customers und get some shen man poetry, und dot night when Mr. Vogleson comes back und I tells him how she vhas he stands oop und says:

"Dere ones vhas a cobbler named Blank
Who cobbled avhay at a plank;
Mit sadness der same,
Und he had no money in bank.

"One day vhen de cobbler vhas sad
Because of his peasness so bad,
He turned into a poet,
Und der vhay he did go it
Makes all of his friends mighty glad."

His Bargain at the Altar.

It was his wedding day. Radiant in the newest of outfits, he started for the church with his best man. But his tight shoes hurt his pet corn, and it looked as though he would have to hobble up the aisle. The best man came to the rescue by escorting him to a nearby shoe store, where a larger pair was bought.

When the happy bride and groom knelt at the altar rails a general titter passed through the assemblage, for on each of the soles of the new boots turned up to view, was inscribed:

"Reduced to $3.98."—New York Press.

Andrews Opera Co. Coming.

Mr. Porter, representing the Andrews Opera company, is in town arranging for the appearance of this celebrated organization in this city on Thursday, October 22. The prince of comedians, Ed. Andrews, will give us on this occasion a production of his celebrated new musical comedy success, "Birds of a Feather," said to be the best thing in which he has ever appeared, and will no doubt draw the banner house of the season, as the company is one of the best in the country, and will afford our amusement-loving people the opportunity of hearing a classical attraction and incidentally a company composed of the most prominent operatic stars. The cast includes the famous contralto, Florence Clayton. Nellie Andrews, dramatic soprano; Catherine Lee, prima donna soprano; J. C. Taylor, America's greatest tenor, and others of distinction. Messrs. Anderson & Healy are to be congratulated upon securing this splendid attraction for Red Lake Falls.

WATERWORKS BONDS UP TO THE VOTERS

Vote on a $12,000 Issue to be Taken at the Coming City Election.

The question of issuing $12,000 in city bonds for the purpose of constructing a waterworks system will be submitted to the voters of Red Lake Falls at the city election on November 10. There is not likely to be much opposition developed to the bonds, as it is generally conceded that Red Lake Falls needs a system of waterworks very badly both as a sanitary precaution and as a fire protection.

It is the purpose of the city council to begin work as early in the spring as the weather will permit, and to have all of the preliminary details arranged this winter. It is not likely that $12,000 will put in mains on all of the residence streets, but it will supply Main street and several of the more thickly-settled residence streets, and additions to the plant can be made as the need requires and the resources permit.

Circular of Instruction.

Those who are interested in the conditions which will govern the opening of the agricultural lands on the Red Lake reservation can obtain copies of a circular giving all the details upon writing the land offices at either Duluth, Crookston or Cass Lake. The circular contains all information, the hour when the land will be opened for settlement, the conditions necessary to n filing, terms of payment, relating to fees, the provisions of the law under which the lands are opened and which will be valuable to all who are interested.

ST. MARY'S FAIR TO BE HELD NEXT WEEK

Dinner and Supper to be Served Each Day—Fancy Work Articles Offered for Sale.

The ladies of St. Mary's church will hold a fair at the Woodmen hall next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, October 27, 28 and 29, and they hope for a liberal patronage from the general public. Dinner and supper will be served each day, and a large line of fancy work and other articles will be offered for sale.

A contest for an organ will be conducted, the contestants being Misses Anna Campbell and Carrie Patnode. The contestants for the doll are Misses Mary O'Brien and Isabel Patnode.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend the fair, and a good time is assured.

Insult to Injury.

Albert Lea Enterprise: Eugene Hay's friends are said to be in a move to nominate William Henry Eustis for congress in the Minneapolis district as a sort of sop to the wounded feelings of Mr. Eustis and his friends for failure to be appointed to the fat federal position waited away with by Mr. Hay. We would like to see Mr. Eustis a congressman for Minnesota, but the fact that John Lind beat him for governor in Hennepin county by several thousand majority, such a suggestion seems like adding insult to injury when it is the same John Lind that now represents that county in congress and who has to be beaten in order that Mr. Eustis may achieve a seat therein.

CITY ELECTION ONLY TWO WEEKS OFF

Petitions for Nomination Now in Circulation—No Unusual Interest Manifest.

The biennial city election takes place two weeks from Tuesday, and Saturday of this week is the last day for filing petitions of candidates. During the last few days the aspirants for municipal honors have been getting busy, and a number of petitions have been in circulation.

So far but one candidate for mayor has made an appearance. This is John A. Duffy, cashier of the Merchants State Bank. Mr. Duffy is one of the most prominent business men in the community, and it is not at all likely that any opposition to him will be developed. He is the right kind of a man for mayor, and the city's affairs will be in good hands.

Mr. A. Hatten and Henry Heunemuth are candidates for aldermen-at-large; Fred Borchers for the second ward, James Brady for the first ward and Thomas Crompe for the third ward. A. P. Toupin will be a candidate for re-election as justice of the peace. For city treasurer Ovide Emard, who has held the office for six years, desires another term, and he will have an opponent in Sam E. Hunt, a hustling and progressive young man.

DESERTED HIS WIFE.

St. Hilaire Man Leaves Family to Shift for Themselves.

Frank Richardson, who has been employed at St. Hilaire in the lumber mill during the summer, last week, work at the plant having been stopped, bade his wife goodbye saying that he was going to Grand Forks in search of a position. He left taking with him his trunk and leaving a large number of bills behind to pay upon his return, so he said. Mrs. Richardson received a letter from him postmarked Bemidji saying that she would never again see him and that as far as he was concerned, she was at liberty to secure a divorce. He stated that married life had not been enjoyable, and that he would endeavor to forget it. Mrs. Richardson was left without means of any kind. There was not enough food in the house for one meal, and she appealed to her neighbors for aid and showed them the letter. A purse was gotten up for her relief and the wires made busy with descriptions of the inhuman spouse and requests for his arrest. If he can be found, it will be hard to describe his condition when the people of St. Hilaire get through with him. Thus far he has not been located.

Many New Creameries.

Inspectors of the state dairy and food commission report that an unusually large number of creameries and cheese factories were organized in Minnesota last summer and that the total output of butter and cheese is considerably larger than in previous years. It is estimated that there are 725 creameries and 90 cheese factories in the state, as compared with 681 creameries and 75 cheese factories a year ago. The total output of creamery butter, which last year was 68,720,800 pounds, will probably reach 70,000,000 at the close of the present season.

EQUALIZERS LIBERAL WITH THEIR RAISES

Red Lake County's Personal Property Schedules Increased 23 Per Cent. by State Board.

The tax lists of the county have been extended and corrected by Auditor Ford in accordance with the changes made by the recent state board of equalization, and the schedules over the valuation of the county board is 23 per cent., or in other words the valuation is raised from $389,016, as left by the county board, to $714,308. The returns made by the assessors aggregated $551,211. The real estate valuation is $1,893,041, making the grand total $2,517,349. LARGELY SWAMP.

Good Farms Not Plentiful on Opened Reservation.

W. A. Richards, Commissioner of the general land office, says to a Washington correspondent that he wants it understood that a very large area of the lands to be opened in Northern Minnesota on November 1 will not be available for farming for some time.

"The fact is," said commissioner Richards, "that a large portion of the townships to be opened is swamp land, but there is considerable jack pine, oak and other species on these lands."

When asked how it happened that the government is opening up swamp lands the commissioner said:

"Under the provisions of the existing law the lands to be opened as well as all the Red Lake and Chippewa lands must be classed either as timber or agricultural lands. These are the only two classifications. The land with hard, white and Norway pine, suitable for the open market and for manufacturing purposes, is classed as pineland; all other goes in as agricultural.

"In the vicinity of lakes and streams a considerable part of the land is low and swampy, but in time it may be drained. I want people up there to understand the situation and I want to have as little disappointment as possible on the part of settlers who think they can get first-class farming land in unlimited quantities.

"The department desires to give all possible information. We are receiving hundreds of letters daily, nearly all with return postage. We include the postage in a circular and send it back."

AKKAYAK'S BACKSLIDING

By ROSE HUGHES LEECH

Copyright, 1903, by F. C. McClure

Akkayak pushed his kyak out into the blue Straits of Gransby harbor and, following the golden track of sunlight on its breast, headed for the Nook, the tiny Eskimo village across the bay. A wild duck rose from the water and circled daringly above his head with a defiant scream, noting no move of the Eskimo toward the gun at his side.

For Akkayak's thoughts were not with the joys of the hunt as he swept his kyak with even strokes toward the north, but only of Iwonna, the daughter of Stony Tom, the prettiest Eskimo maiden at the Nook and the torment of Akkayak's life. For Akkayak was a serious minded and industrious individual and had, moreover, deep religious convictions implanted in his breast by long training at the missionary's school. He went about the wooing of Iwonna in the sad and forlorn way that he said his prayers, with the result that the maiden scorned him openly, much to the edification of Spoon, who had of late chosen to pass his idle moments—and most of Spoon's moments were idle—around the lodge of Stony Tom.

If only he—Akkayak—had not been a Christian! Matters could have been easily adjusted then and Spoon wiped from the face of the earth. But of course this could not be. Akkayak liked beat as well as any other Eskimo, but he did not want it served on a fork in allopathic sauce, and the missionary had assured him, that murder, eh had to take it that way after they crossed the great divide.

But have Iwonna he would despite all the Spoons in Alaska! His host greeted on the beach, and with this thought uppermost in his mind he turned toward her home and was soon what taken back to find his hated rival seated close, very close, to her on an overturned kettle case. They were eating oranges! Shades of extravagance, omegosh! Where had Spoon procured them? Akkayak had his doubts, but he hid them manfully and greeted the girl and her companion with a polite "Tigdlinoolin." Iwonna had on a new red calico parkin and was prettier and more loveliest than usual. Akkayak turned with dignity and strode to where Stony Tom sat on a pile of skins outside the eglow door.

After a guttural greeting, listlessly returned by Stony Tom, he spoke as follows:

"I come to you to ask for mee Iwonna for my squaw. Good eglow have I and plenty good furs and much wood for the winter's coming. Plenty of dried tomcod also have I, and no man's dogs are better than mine. And I myself am a Christian man and good and drink no white man's whisky. In my eglow Iwonna can live all the same as white woman and Iwonna's father shine as the sun."

Stony Tom shifted his tobacco to the other side of his capacious mouth and replied briefly:

"Me like you. You got plenty kowkow (food), plenty good eglow. Iwonna like Spoon. Me speak Iwonna like you. Iwonna go quick to Spoon. Me want. You wait. By and by plenty good time."

And with such advice Akkayak was fain to be content. He had no other rival. True, Okbank, from Cape Prince of Wales, came occasionally to see Stony Tom, but he never looked at Iwonna.

And thus moons waxed and waned, and the great white silence fell, as that the natives of Iwonna went by sled to the Nook. And the old Eskimo women put their heads together and said it was a shame the way the girl acted. What did the men see in the creature anyway? Great, staring eyes and a mouth that giggled continually! Secretly they all hoped the girl's choice would fall on Spoon, leaving Akkayak for one of their daughters, for Akkayak was a "catch." The old men said the fact that Stony Tom favored the suit of Akkayak made it quite certain that she would not favor him, and they looked largely upon Spoon.

But Iwonna kept her own counsel and accepted all tributes of oranges and loaf sugar with a placid smile. She was careful, however, to decline all gifts of wearing apparel proffered by either suitor, for with the acceptance of such garment she would have pledged herself to take the giver "for better or for worse."

Then there came a time when Akkayak, on his way to Gold Run creek with his dog team, met Spoon on the trail coming to town. Spoon sold a few forcible things and Akkayak forgot his religious training. Over and over they tumbled, and the Malamoot dogs sat down in interested astonishment to watch the fray.

Finally a strong right arm blew of Akkayak sent Spoon headlong into a snowdrift, and it was some time before he staggered to his feet and picked balefully out of his uninjured eye at his hated foe.

"Ugh!" panted Akkayak. "You no go to Iwonna's eglow any more."

Spoon fairly danced with rage as he gasped: "Iwonna like me. She no like you. She say you all the same as white man!"

This was a blow, indeed, but Akkayak knew that veracity was not Spoon's strong point. Still, it did sound like Iwonna's way of talking. After some further etherization they agreed to set out forthwith for the Nook and tell Uncle sudden that she must choose one or the other. True, they did not look as presentable as they could have wished for such an errand, but the thing must be settled. Spoon bad one eye closed and his garments much bespattered with gore. Akkayak's upper lip was twice its natural size, and his parka, torn midway off his back, dangled forlornly about his heels. He looked anything but the decent Christian Eskimo of other, calmer, days. No word was spoken until they were almost at the Nook, when an unwonted stir about the village caused each to pause and gris an astonished "Ugh!"

All the Eskimos in the little settlement seemed to be out and about the eglow of Stony Tom. Was Stony Tom dead? Akkayak thought it possible, for the old man had been complaining of late. Ah, well, all old people must die some time, and good squaws who were orphans were really more desirable.

Enlightenment was not long in coming. Out from his eglow stepped Stony Tom, and behind him came Okbuck leading Iwonna by the hand. The girl was dressed in a new and much embroidered fine fur parka and looked very meek. Beside the door stood Okbuck's new sled with ivory runners and six good Malamoot dogs hitched thereto with fancy harness and jingling bells. Okbuck modestly placed Stony Tom and Iwonna on the sled, wrapped them carefully in furs and, taking his place on the trail ahead of his team, started off toward the north and the home he had prepared for his squaw.

Spoon looked at Akkayak and Akkayak looked at Spoon. For the second time that day Akkayak threw religion to the winds and emphatically swore. Then they turned with one accord and started for Teller in a silence that could be felt.

After a time Spoon said gently, "Getting plenty cold weather."

"Yes," responded Akkayak; "plenty cold."

A STRONG RIGHT HAND BLOW SENT SPOON INTO A SNOWDRIFT.

The Sight of Bees.

A bee has three small, simple eyes, placed in a triangle at the top of the head, at the sides of which are a pair of very large compound eyes. It is generally thought that the former serve for near vision and the latter for seeing things at a distance. Various experiments and calculations have been made to determine the range of the compound eyes, but as they are very different in structure from our own it is difficult to come to any certain conclusions.

Chaperede states that at a distance of twenty feet an ordinary bee is unable to see anything that is not at least eight or nine inches across, but Lowne is of opinion that objects of from half an inch to an inch in diameter can be distinguished at that distance. If he is correct it follows that large objects might be discerned when as much as a hundred feet away.

That bees fly straight to their hives or nests from long distances probably does not imply keen sight, for we know that many of the lower animals are endowed with a sense of direction far more acute than anything of the kind which we possess.

One Yankee Racial Type.

A distinct racial type as marked almost as that of any European people has certainly been evolved in the United States, but it does not bear any particular resemblance to the Indian type. It is not dignified to designate an American man or woman in Europe, and millions abroad are recognized not only on account of their clothes and speech and external manner, but by that something distinctive in face and form and temperament which we call race. It is true that there are certain superficial differences between eastern and western Americans, between northerners and southerners, but it is a curious thing that in a country of such length and breadth and of such diversolimatic conditions, in a country peopled by descendants of so many branches of the Caucasian family, a national racial type that is fairly uniform and predominant should have been produced in a few generations and should be able to assimilate to itself the vast hords of foreign elements which is continually being absorbed into it.—Harper's Weekly.

The Shining Mark.

When Aunt Kezia came with the clothes from the wash she brought the news of the sudden death of a prominent young man well liked in the community.

"It seems a very sad thing," said my mother. "He had everything to make life pleasant—youth and bright prospects and parents who idolized him."

"Yes," assented Aunt Kezia, with a dismal shake of her head, "bit do seem mighty strange that them you analyze the most is usually taken fust."—Lippincott's Magazine.

DINE ON HORSEBACK.

Unique Banquet Given by C. K. G. Billings at New York.

Thirty-Three Guests Sit on the Backs of Thoroughbreds in Sherry's Grand Ballroom While They Eat Course Dinner.

Thirty-three thoroughbred horses paweed the floor of the grand ballroom of Sherry's, New York, the other night, and ranged in horseshoe formation in the splendid room in honor of C. K. G. Billings enjoyed a unique dinner given by the Chicagoan in celebration of his election as president of the Equestrian club. By this event the millionaire horse owner won the social laurels reserved for those who give society a new sensation.

This horseback dinner in a second story in the Sherry ballroom is regarded as the most unusual affair of the season, casting into the shades all the "monkey dinners" and other efforts at novelty in the way of entertainment with which society has tried to amuse itself. Among the guests were Richard Halsted, ex-Mayor Hugh J. Grant and Fred Gerken.

At midnight the news that the dinner was taking place at Sherry's became known. It had been expected that the scene would be in Mr. Billing's new stables. Every effort had been made to keep it secret. It was the ambition of Mr. Billings to give his clubmates the most memorable dinner that had yet been eaten.

In the evening the 33 horses were taken into Sherry's in a manner so as to attract the least attention. Brought out a time from a fashionable riding academy, they were placed upon the passenger elevator on the Forty-fourth street side, hoisted to the second story and tethered in the ballroom.

Each horse was equipped with a white-quilted satin saddle and bridle of gold and white. In the center of the horseshoe formed by the animals was a mound of green, surmounted by a mass of flowers. The grass plot sloped off into a lawn, which spread to the horses' forefeet.

Beside each horse was a satin upholstered mounting box, from which the diners in the saddle was served, a board fastened athwart the pommel of the saddle served as a table, and the steeds might not correct or prance or shy and so spill gravy or salad a liveried groom, dressed in hunting costume, stood at each horse's head.

The equestrian guests entered fully into the spirit of the affair, and soon the first banquet in the saddle was in full swing. While the guests ate, so did the horses. While the courses were being served from the mounting blocks to dishes which were secured in holders on the saddle tables, the horses munched oats from individual sathcovered mangers.

Twelve courses were served, then the tables were removed from the pommels and the guests lounged over their cigars in the padded saddles. Speeches followed, mostly laudatory of Mr. Billings. At midnight the diners were still in the saddle.

BODIES ARE WELL PRESERVED

Removal of Criminal's Remains from Newgate Disclosers Officials' Carelessness.

The removal and reinterment of the bodies of criminals executed at Newgate will cost the county of London some $1,500. This is despite the fact that the coffins containing the bodies of such criminals were always supposed to be filled with quicklime to insure rapid and complete decomposition.

It has been found that the timing operation was carried out with extreme carelessness. About a dozen coffins' bodies, and quicklime, were in such an extraordinary condition of preservation that the medical authorities were astonished. The lime must have been laid with scandalous indifference to have made such things possible.

The workmen were struck all of a heap by the horrible sights. They had to be given brandy frequently that they might finish the job. The bodies interred even so recently as during the last three years were in an almost perfect condition. Twenty-eight feet below the surface the bodies of the Cato street conspirators, executed in 1820, were discovered. It is scarcely credible that those bodies should have been found comparatively intact. If they, of all others, had been properly limed they ought to have vanished almost completely.

ARCTIC IN AUTOMOBILE.

Mr. Charles J. Glidden Plans to Reach Trondhiem on a Trip with His Family.

Charles J. Glidden, the Boston millionaire director of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, who holds the record of 8,300 miles for long-distance touring in a motor car, is planning to spend the coming summer in a trip northward to a point within the arctic circle. He will take his family in a motor car up through the Scandinavian peninsula to Trondhjem, within two degrees of the arctic circle. He is now corresponding with government officials in Norway to obtain information of a practical route northward from that point.

After penetrating to out-of-the-way spots in northern Europe he will make a return trip through Sweden, Holland, Germany, Belgium, Switzerland and France back to his starting point at London, covering a total of 4,000 miles.

At Five O'Clock P.M.

By JOHN HAMPTON

When the revolution broke out the president of the Union mine, which was owned by New Yorkers and ran by Americans, ordered a shutdown and decided that things must be left to take care of themselves until the two factions had got through cutting each other's throat. The laborers and subforemen and office staff got away by the last boat descending the river, but through accident the superintendent was left behind. He was missed, and the boat turned back; but, being fired on, she had to resume her course and leave him to take his chances.

The men who knew George Scott best didn't worry much over the situation. He was a man who was always taking chances and coming out on top. The laborers in the mine were always ripe for mutiny, but he had held them in hand without bluster. They noted his quietness and his grimness, and they feared him more than if he had talked and threatened. They said to each other that a devil lurked under his placid demeanor and if that devil was ever aroused it would demand blood.

Scott didn't set out for a forty mile tramp through a tropical forest when he found that he had been left behind. He simply settled down to stay on and receive visitors and dispense such hospitalities as the situation afforded. Neither of the belligerent factions was likely to disturb him for a week or so, but other callers might drop in any day.

Pedro the Devil was abroad in the land. Pedro was the leader of a guerrilla band; he was a robber and a murderer to peace; he was a pretty fair specimen of a fiend when war was on. He had not acquired his title in a day. On the contrary, it had not come to him until he had shot, hanged or cut the throats of 200 or 300 prisoners. He was not at all particular in his killing. Everything was fish that came to his net, be it an American, an Englishman, a German or one of his own countrymen.

Pedro had a way about him. It was a suave, silent, oily way. He interrogated his prisoners with a grin on his face, and he sent them to their death with a smile that was bland. He prided himself on his politeness. Pedro's band had been heard of within twenty miles of the mine on the morning of the abandonment, and it could be safely figured that he would look in on the Union before leaving for other fields. He might find no threats to cut, but there would be considerable plunder and opportunity for destruction. Pedro knew the power of blasting powder and had used it with great success to blow down stone walls and to blow open iron doors.

Scott went to work with pick and shovel and dug many holes on the level ground in front of the stone office building. He was at this work all day long. Every hole received a deposit after being dug to a certain depth and was then covered up again. Copper wires connected one hole with another, and then a signal wire was led into the stone house and connected with an electrical battery.

It was sundown before he had finished his labors, and he ate his supper and smoked a couple of cheroots and waited for Pedro the Devil. Pedro was taking things easy a dozen miles away. He had a church to blow up in case the priest failed to raise ransom money, and there were half a dozen prisoners to be done to death in different ways. Being thus employed and not knowing that any one was waiting at the Union to interview him, he did not arrive until 3 o'clock p. m. the next day. He had forty of his cutthroats with him, and he smiled one of his blandest smiles when he saw Scott sitting alone in the open door of the office building. The smile grew broader as he advanced alone and greeted the superintendent with:

"Senor Scott, I take it that the mine has been closed down on account of the war and that all people have left but you?"

"You take it correctly," was the quiet reply.

"And your mission is to guard the mine, to keep intruders at a distance?"

"You've bit it, Pedro. I have been expecting you and your murderers all day, and now that you have finally shown up let us have a plain understanding. I am here to defend this property. I have a strong fort in this house, and I have a Winchester rifle and plenty of ammunition. Don't try any of your little games here if you want to keep a whole hide."

"The senor American is inclined to speak plainly," said Pedro as blandly as an auctioneer, "and I will match him. My men are tired out just now with their long march, but two hours later—say at 5 o'clock—I will do you the honor of calling upon you in a body. For supper, in case the senor is hungry, I promise him a novelty—his own ears roasted to a turn."

"They call you Pedro the Devil," replied Scott as he looked the fellow straight in the eyes, "but I believe you to be a bluffer. You are talking through your hat, as we say at home, but it won't work. If you and your confrères desire to take 5 o'clock tea with me, please be punctual. The tea will be ready. I think we have reached an understanding."

"The senor is correct. It shall be 5 o'clock to the minute, and I shall hope to get a couple of hours of amusement out of the senor later on. Adios till 5."

With that same bland smile playing over his face the guerrilla turned and walked away and was soon out of sight in the thickets. Scott could have filled him with lead as he went, but he made no move to do it. Pedro had trusted him. In return he trusted the guerrillas—that is, he continued to sit in the open door until his watch told him that it was a quarter to 3. They could have crept up and shot him as he sat, but he neither saw nor heard of them. Then he had barred the door he sat down with his hand on the key of the battery and looked out of a window. At ten minutes to 5 he seemed to be the only living man for miles around. At five minutes to 5 the birds ceased their songs, and the insects in the thickets were strangely quiet.

Pedro the Devil understood the hour and the moment. Punctually at 5 his band broke out of the thickets twenty rods away, he leading, and with yells and cheers they rushed the house.

"Ten is ready!" whispered Scott to himself as he realized the crisis, and five seconds later he turned the electric current through the wires. It was ten minutes before the cloud of dirt and leaves and smoke blew away and he opened the door and walked out. There was nothing to be afraid of. The dynamite mines had wiped Pedro and his gang off the face of the earth and scattered the fragments to the four winds of heaven.

Water Colder Than Ice.

Water, as we knew, expands as it solidifies, and the mechanical theory of heat points to the fact that if the liquid is subjected to external pressure its freezing point will be lowered.

Sir W. Thomson by a pressure of 9.1 atmospheres succeeded in obtaining water 166 degrees F. colder than ice and with a pressure of 17.8 atmospheres 222 degrees F. colder. Mousson by means of an ingenious apparatus invented by himself capable of exerting a pressure of several thousand atmospheres kept water in the liquid state for many degrees below the normal freezing point.

Water, if allowed to remain perfectly still, may become considerably colder than ice and yet not congeal; but however, it is subjected to the least motion or if a fragment of ice be brought into contact with it at once crystallizes, and the temperature rises to that of ice.

Despretz by making use of capillary tubes was able to obtain water 20 degrees C colder than ice. By this method he helped to explain the reason why plants are able to withstand severe cold without injury. The juices contained in their tissues remain liquid, although considerably colder than ice.

Middle Ages Sanitation.

Greeks and Romans paid special attention to the physical culture of their youth, to public water supplies and baths, and Athens and Rome were provided with sewers early in their history. During the middle ages sanitation received a decided check. Ignorance and brutal prejudice prevailed, and this was the most insanitary period in history. Most European towns were built compactly and surrounded by walls. The streets were narrow and winding and light and air were excluded. The accumulation of filth was frightful. Stables and houses were close neighbors. The dead were buried within the churchyards or in the churches. Wells were fed with polluted water. All conditions were favorable for the spread of infectious disease, and in the fourteenth century alone the oriental or bubonic plague—the black death of recent historians—carried off a fourth of the population of Europe. The birth rate was much less than the death rate normally. The cities had to be continually repopulated from the country because the people died so rapidly.

Hobbies.

When man realizes the supremacy of the inner sight he will be able to enjoy life's many side in larger degree, for he will then see things as they really exist. We are prone to magnify everything in these days of struggle and competition, hence whatever we enjoy or suffer is exaggerated out of short duration, says the Brooklyn Eagle. We are too impatient and too unstable to appreciate the sweets and comforts of life. It behooves us, then, to study concentration, and this can be accomplished in no more practicable manner than by adopting a hobby or some kind. Yes, a hobby is the thing. It is one of the secrets of real happiness. Did you ever notice that he who harbors a pet hobby or study is less selfish and more communicative than others? This getting away from self is equivalent to rising above the clouds and seeing the sun in all its glory. Of course, the better the hobby the higher will be the enjoyment for still finer things.

Encouraging Him.

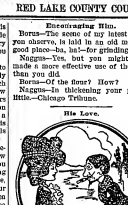
Borus—The scene of my latest story you observe, is laid in an old mill. A good place—ho, ho!—for grinding out.

Naggus—Yes, but you might have made it more effective use of the flour than you did.

Borus—Of the flour? How?

Naggus—In thickening your plot a little.—Chicago Tribune.

His Love.



Elsie Millyuns—But, count, do you really love me?

Count—Ah, mees, I could not lub you more if you were twenty times richer!

Just Like Real Lovers.

Miss Romans—Of course you've read that new love story of his?

Mr. Crabbe (reviewer)—Yes; I had to. Very realistic, wasn't it?

Miss Romans—Oh, the idea! Why, the dialogue between the lovers was perfectly silly.

Mr. Crabbe — Well? — Philadelphia Press.

Making It Easy.

"All here?" asked the host.

"I believe so," replied his wife.

"Very well," he said, then, turning to the entertainer he had engaged for the evening: "Hurry up and be funny now. We're waiting to laugh."—Chicago Post.

Sad Experience.

The Muse and Pegasus.

When in her jaunty light goes
Myrtilla for a canter,
My thoughts forget the use of prose
And run to rhyme instanter.

Beholding her, how could there be
A mere inspiration?
Are not Pegasus and she
The proper combination?

Her pony in my fancy seems
A winged beast, whose pinions
In safety bear my dream of dreams
Across Love's wide dominions.

The slender quill wherewith I write,
Transformed, becomes a feather
From Pegasus, and so delight
And dream are mine together.

Like upon like the rhyme goes
Is what Myrtilla makes it;
The song is born where perfect grace
To melody awakes it.

Here be it evermore to choose
A lyric or an idyl,
And mine be it to love my muse,
And Pegasus, her bridle!

A Perfect Painless Pill

is the one that will cleanse the system, set the liver to action, remove the bile, clear the complexion, cure headache and leave a good taste in the mouth. The famous little pills for doing such work pleasantly and effectually are De-Witts Little Early Risers. Bob Moore of Lafayette, Ind., says: "All other pills I have used gripe and sicken, while De-Witt's Little Early Risers are simply perfect." Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

CRUSHES OUT THE LIFE

The most loathsome and repulsive of all living things is the serpent, and the vilest and most degrading of all human diseases is Contagious Blood Poison. The serpent sinks its fangs into the flesh and almost instantly the poison passes through the entire body. Contagious Blood Poison, beginning with a little ulcer, soon contaminates every drop of blood and spreads throughout the whole system. Painful swellings appear in the groins, a red rash and copper colored splotches break out on the body, the mouth and throat become ulcerated, and the hair and eye brows fall out; but these symptoms are mild compared to the wretchedness and suffering that come in the latter stages of the disease when it attacks the bones and more vital parts of the body. It is then that Contagious Blood Poison is seen in all its hideousness. The deep eating abscesses and sickening ulcers and tumors show the whole system is corrupted and poisoned, and unless relief comes soon this serpent disease lightens its coils and crushes out the life. The only antidote for the awful Virus is S. S. S. It is nature's remedy, composed entirely of vegetable ingredients. S. S. S. destroys every vestige of the poison, purifies the blood and removes all danger of transmitting the awful taint to others. Nothing else will do this. Strong mineral remedies, like mercury and potash, dry up the sores and drive in the disease, but do not cure permanently.

THE Princeton Union, Bob Dunn's excellent weekly, has recently installed a type-setting machine.

THE Bemidji News insists that if there is to be a scramble for newspaper supremacy in that town it still has a few chips left and wishes to be considered in the game.

STATE timber aggregating 75,000,000 feet, from which the State may realize $500,000, will be offered for sale October 21 in Cass, St. Louis, Itasca and Beltrami counties.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S "race suicide" manifesto has not had a visible effect upon the great and growing Northwest as yet. During the past year the school population has decreased 1,200 in the state of Minnesota.

FRED H. MILLARD has sold the Corrie Courier and moved to Crookston, where he will engage in the land business. Mr. Millard has been bringing southern Minnesota farmers up to the Red River valley for several years past.

THE Philadelphia North American says that when Mark Twain's jaybird pre-empted a knothole is the roof of a house and tried to fill it with acorns he had an easy contract compared to that held by the United States in the Philippines.

A LARGE number of the newspapers in southern Minnesota are advertising that the Red Lake Indian reservation is to be opened November 15. This would be important if true. As a matter of fact only a few townships of the reservation are to be opened for settlement, and all of this land is over in Beltrami county, north of Red Lake. None of the land in Red Lake county is affected by the order of the interior department.

PERHAPS the most exclusive elevator in the world is the one provided at the capitol at Washington, D. C., for the supreme court of the United States. This elevator can be used only by the nine justices of the supreme court, and no one would for a moment consider entering it except as the guest of one of these nine privileged men. The elevator goes from the ground floor of the capitol to the main floor, on which is located the supreme court of the United States.

STATE AUDITOR IVERSON will sell about 60,000 acres of state land at the fall sales to be conducted in November. There will be 17,100 acres offered for sale in Mille Lacs county, 13,320 in Crow Wing, 10,320 in Becker, 7,850 in Otter Tail, 4,100 in Wadena, 3,400 in Morrison, and 2,000 in Stearns. Three appraisers will soon be named to set a value on the lands, and they will not be below that figure. The purchasers have forty years in which to pay for lands at 4 per cent interest. It is anticipated that the sale this fall will add about $500,000 to the permanent school fund.

NEW frauds in the Philippines have just been unearthed in the immigrant service, where it is discovered that several officials have been taking bribes to admit Chinese immigrants. One Chinaman is said to have paid $400 for the privilege of admission to the port of Manila, and a large number of coolies have, it is reported, been brought in under the blanket contract with each consul at Canton. More romantic is the story of the two constabulary officers stationed at Misamis, Mindanao, who stole $6,000, converted all the available supplies into cash, and then sailed away in a steamer seized for the purpose. Even without the aid of the anti-imperialist newspapers, people would have realized that such occurrences can not be long delayed.

FROM high finance to post-office affairs is but a short step. The occasion for taking it is supplied by the fact that the report of the department's business for the past year comes out simultaneously with the announcement of the end of the investigation of the postal frauds. The postal business has increased by more than $12,000,000 during the year, but at the same time there has been an increase of nearly $14,000,000 in expenditures, and the deficit for the year is $4,500,000. These facts lend several newspapers to suggest to Mr. Payne and Mr. Bristow that while they were engaged upon the reformation of the department it would be well to suggest means whereby it could be placed upon a business basis and the constantly recurring deficits avoided.

IS THIS TREASON?

The St. Cloud Journal Press, one of the leading Republican papers of the state—one which has many times argued long and loudly against the single tax, Henry Georgeism, the income tax and other proposals looking to the improvement of our system of taxation—now comes forward with a bitter criticism of the methods in vogue, and indirectly favors a single tax. Bro. Eastman is surely getting away from his earlier moorings:

"Those who have followed the proceedings of the state board of equalization have abundant evidence of the usual farce enacted by assessors and boards of review and so called "equalization." We do not believe in all the townships and cities of Minnesota that there has been one just and impartial assessment within the history of the state. It is simply a bad guess on the part of the assessor, muddled by the equivocations of property owners and then confounded by the city and county boards. When the assessment roll reaches the state board it is abortive and chaotic, and however intelligently and honestly this board may strive to make it fair and equitable, it is simply impossible. Some men pay more than their share of taxes, many more pay less and others escape altogether. The most successful tax dodgers are those who have the most property and many a rich man annually talks a false oath, and thereby robs his neighbor. The assessment of personal property is a premium on falsehood. It will never be anything else. The remedy is to assess real estate, franchises, and incomes over a certain amount."

WAR IN THE ORIENT.

Russia and Japan are now face to face in the disputed regions of Manchuria and Korea. One has a wide choice of predictions as to what is going to happen next. London's opinion is that war between the two powers is merely a question of a few weeks; from Port Arthur comes a dispatch saying that Japan is making no preparations for a war with Russia, while the continental opinion is that Russia will continue to occupy Japan until she is forced to appear to be the aggressor. Of course, Russia did not evacuate Manchuria on the scheduled date, October 8. It was not expected that she would do so, and all the powers are grieved over this new evidence of Russian duplicity. No one proposes to do anything, however, except the United States, which have secured the opening of two ports to American trade. That these ports are only be entered by row-boats detructs a trifle from this latest diplomatic triumph of our state department.

THE ILLUSIONS OF YOUTH.

There is going the rounds of the press what purports to be the graduation essay of a Kansas girl of sixteen on the idea suggested in the words: "Beyond the Alps Lie Italy." This is a favorite theme for high school graduates, and the words have been adopted by many a class as the class motto. The young lady from Kansas takes a view of the subject entirely different from that usually taken, and instead of writing of the great possibilities of the future, and chasing the rainbow of hope she takes a very matter-of-fact view of life and announces that these rosy views of the future are all nonsense and that for her part she will be satisfied to become the wife of some good man and live a quiet, uneventful and business-like life, says the Grand Forks Herald.

Of course this stuff was not written by any school girl. It was in all probability written by some morose old bachelor whose experience with life had soured him. But because it is so "practical" it is being quoted with approval by several papers, as an illustration of the view of life which a common sense American girl ought to take. Fortunately, we have not yet reached the period in our growth when the average girl of sixteen looks on life with the understanding of a woman of forty, and may that period long be deferred. One of the worst tendencies of our times is in the direction of eliminating childhood from our system. Almost before the babe has cut its first tooth or learned to lisp its first word we begin to teach it that life is a serious piece of business, and that it is necessary to "hustle" in order to get along. Like Mr. Gradgrind we insist that nothing but the facts of life is taught, and, like him, he any mistakes about it we insist that these facts he presented in their barest and most unattractive form. The little fancies of childhood we ridicule out of existence. Dolls and fairy books, bumming tops and kites are permitted, it is true, but with each there goes a sermon. The child is instructed to gambol, but we take care to impress on its little mind that it is not playing for fun, but for the development of its muscles and sinews, and to promote the action of its digestive organs. If this system, which is so popular with a good many of our ultra practical people were not successfully resisted by beneficent nature, we would have a generation, not of children, but of self-conscious little mannikins, strutting about in somber imitation of their elders, with all the beauties of the child mind extinguished, and the sickly phosphorescent light of artificially acquired knowledge glimmering in their place. It is the business of childhood to take a large and rosy view of life. Its natural tendency is to look with joy and hope on the possibilities and opportunities of the future, to build stately castles in the air, to dream glorious dreams. Fortunately is has so far been impossible to reverse entirely the working of nature and to make old men and women of all our children. God pity the girl of sixteen who has no illusions left.

A cold rainy day, two little wet feet and at least one youngster in the family has the croup that night. We have just many such days now, but even croup is robbed of its terrors if there is a bottle of Cole's Cough Cure handy. Children like it and a mother who has once used it knows it is the best. Try it—it's guaranteed, 25 and 50c by all druggists.

Will Hunt is reported quite sick with pleurisy.

Tony Schussersvisited the school Monday afternoon.

The Spartan programme will be given Oct. 23. Every one is invited to attend.

The first debate will be given two weeks from Friday. Subject not yet announced.

The football squad has dishanded for the year, not being able to have any games.

The Juniors are busy having meetings almost every night after school. They have a great deal of business to see to.

The girls of the H. S. presented the boys with banners. It is needless to say that the boys appreciated their kindness very much.

At a meeting held last Monday it was decided that the Spartans were to purchase a banner with the money collected from by them in the Gazette story contest.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Calling Names.

Faribault Pilot: When an idiot or an imbecile possessing a malicious and criminal propensities is contradicted, opposed, angered or excited, he always resorts to the calling of vile names and the use of villainous language. Not having brains enough to reason he gives vent to his feelings in coarse epithets and foul vindictive language. The man who assesses as an editor who has not brains enough to argue with an opponent, to make a criticism or discuss a public question without resorting to the calling of vile names and to the use of malicious and slanderous language should be classed by the intelligent public as an idiot or mental degenerate.

THE NEW MILL COMPANY.....

There never was a mill heter fitted for making good flour than ours. No mill has ever been better situated for getting the best wheat from first hand. Few have our long years of experience in making flour. "Gold Seal" is the product of this combination of material, machinery, skill and experience. No ode can doubt that it is good flour. Only those who have used it know how good it is. We would like to have you join this class.

To the Farmers: Bring in your wheat and we will exchange with you either for our "Gold Seal" or our "WhiteStar" flour. We guarantee either of these flours to make good, sweet, white and perfect bread, as we use only the very best wheat. If you find upon trying the flour that what we say is not true, we will pay you for hauling it back, charge nothing for what you may have used, and pay you for the wheat. That is fair.

Mrs. W. T. Spillane was called to Minneapolis last Friday evening by the serious illness of her sister, Mrs. Green, who recently underwent a serious operation at the hospital. For several days her condition has been extremely critical. Mrs. Green has visited here frequently and is well known to a good many of the Red Lake Falls people.

Joseph Belair will conduct a general auction on the corner opposite the Palace hotel on Saturday afternoon, October 31, and persons having stock, machinery or household goods to dispose of are invited to list the property. Mr. Belair contemplates holding these sales every month during the fall and winter. For further particulars watch for bills later on.

Although on November 1 the remaining one-half of the taxes not paid will be penalized ten per cent, County Treasurer Tandberg reports that very little money is being received. This is probably accounted for by the general backwardness of the fall. The farmers have not threshed yet and will not pay their taxes until the last moment, when there will be the usual rush.

Attorney C. E. Boughton was a visitor to Crookston Friday night, and while there obtained a judgment in Judge Watts' court for a claim of $600 against the Great Northern railroad in favor of J. W. McGinty of Thief River Falls. The amount is claimed for damages to a carload of horses shipped from Montana last winter. The railroad company did not put in an appearance, and the judgment was obtained by default.

The "True Blue" aggregation from Crookston was billed for an entertainment at the Metropolitan Wednesday evening, but owing to the numerous other social functions during the week concluded to postpone the play until some time in November. As the company has so far secured all of its advertising and job printing at Crookston, we suggest that it would be eminently fitting to bring the audience from there.

Peter Newman and Mrs. Carrie Sawyer, both of Thief River Falls, were united in the bonds of matrimony by Judge Tarrant yesterday afternoon. The Judge has not had a flourishing business in this line of late, but he guarantees satisfaction or money refunded. The knot is tied so tightly that it cannot rip, ravel or run down at the heel, and it takes all the machinery of the district court to get out from under.

IMPERIAL DRUG CO., St. Hilaire.

L. E. Davison, an inspector for the Minneapolis creamery and produce department, and editor of the Perham Bulletin, made a fraternal call at this office yesterday. Mr. Davidson is a recent attache to this important bureau of the state service, but he goes at the work with all the vim and abandon of an old timer, and is highly complimented by his superior officers and by the people with whom he has professional relations.

Sheriff Turner, of Grand Forks, was in Red Lake Falls last Friday in quest of a young man by the name of Nelson who had hired a team from a livery in Grand Forks and attempted to dispose of the outfit at Fisher's Landing. The team was afterwards left standing on the street at Crookston and the young man had disappeared. Mr. Nelson was not to be found in this locality, and up to the present time has not been located.

Adrian Democrat: Peter Rocrig shipped his household goods and a lot of farm implements and stock from Lismore Tuesday to his farm in Red Lake county. His family will follow in a short time. Mr. Rocrig recently traded his home in Adrian to Phil Landes for the machinery and stock and is well acquipped to begin farming. He and his family have rented a house in Erskine and will live there until spring, when they will move to the farm which is only a mile and a half from town.

A defective truck was responsible for the ditching of a freight car at the Great Northern cut just north of town last Thursday afternoon. The car was attached to the local freight and in some peculiar manner jumped the track, running into the ditch and delaying traffic for several hours. The train was leaving at a slow rate of speed when the accident occured, otherwise the whole string of cars might have been ditched. The merchandise in the car was pretty badly scattered over the surrounding country and much of it ruined.

V. L. Knight arrived yesterday morning from his Itasca county claim for a short visit with his Red Lake Falls friends. Mr. Knight had been called to Cass Lake as a witness before the land office in behalf of Mrs. J. J. Doe, and concluded to kill another bird with the same stone by coming on to Red Lake Falls. He was accompanied by his mother and sister from Schoolcraft, Mich., and his uncle, William Knight. They had been Vic's guests up in Itasca county, and will visit here for a few days before returning to their homes.

Last week the articles of incorporation of the Northern Townsite company were filed. The company is incorporated with a capital stock of $50,000. The president is A. D. Stephens, of Crookston, the vice-president Albert Kaiser, of Fosston, the secretary Louis Lohn, of Fosston, and the treasurer W. E. McKenzie, of Crookston. These gentle men together with John Cromb, form the board of directors. The home office of the company will be in Crookston while they will operate principally along the Thief River extension of the Great Northern. The company has secured the townsites along the contemplated line and will exploit several towns as soon as the road is completed and the stations located.

Mrs. Emma F. Marshall and Miss Elizabeth Hunt were hostesses at a "ghost" party given at the K. of P. hall Tuesday evening in honor of their guest, Miss Mabel Porter, of Willmar. It was the most unique and one of the most enjoyable social functions of the year, and the ladies are to be congratulated upon the pronounced success of the affair. All of the participants were arrayed in sheets and pillow cases, and it would be as easy to tell the difference between a bandful of peas as to distinguish the personality of those in attendance. Dancing was the feature of the evening, and elegant refreshments, consisting of frappe, ice cream and cake, were served. It is superfluous to say that everybody had a good time.

Old Gorgon Graham's Advice.

"Golf's a nice, foolish game and there ain't any harm in it so far as I know except for the balls. The stiff balls at the beginning, the lost balls in the middle and the high-balls at the end of the game."

"I always lay it down as a safe proposition that the fellow who has to break open the baby's bank for car fare, isn't going to be any Russell Sage when it comes to trading with the old man's money.

"There always comes a time to the fellow who blows fifty-two dollars at a lick on roses, when he thinks how many staple groceries he could have bought with the money."

"It's all right when you are calling on a girl or talking with friends after dinner, to run a conversation like the Sunday school excursion, with stops to pick flowers, but in the office your sentences should be the shortest possible between periods. You've got to preach short sermons to catch sinners, and deacons won't believe they need long ones themselves."

"To marry for money, or to marry without is a crime. There's no real objection to marrying a woman with a fortune, but there is to marrying a fortune with a woman."

"When I was a young fellow and out of a job, I always made it a rule to take the first job that offered, and use it for a bait. You can catch a minnow with a worm, and a bass will take your minnow. A good fat bass will tempt an otter, and then you've got something worth skinning."

"Naturally, a green man, always comes to a house with a pretty subordinate position, and it isn't possible to make so much noise with a firecracker as with a cannon. But you can tell a good deal by what is left of the boy when you come to inventory him on the 5th of July whether he'll be safe to trust with a cannon next year."

"Hot air can take up a balloon a long ways, but it can't keep it there. And when a fellow's turning flip-flops up among the clouds, he's naturally going to have the farmers gaping at him. But there always comes a time when the parachute fails to work. I don't know anything that's quite so dead as a man who's fallen three or four thousand feet off the edge of a cloud."

"I want to say right here that whenever any one offers to let you in on the ground floor, its pretty safe to take the elevator to the roof garden."

"Say less than the other fellow, and listen more than you talk, for when a man's listening he isn't telling on himself and he's flattering the fellow who is."

"Give most men a good listener and most women enough notepaper and they'll tell all they know."

"The only animal which the Bible calls patient is an ass, and that's both good doctrine and good natural history."—From "Letters From a Self Made Merchant To His Son."

A FEW POINTERS.

Concerning the Rules Governing the Opening of Public Lands.

For parties desiring to make entry of the lands to be opened on Nov. 19th, 1903;

Before making entry applicants must personally examine every subdivision of the land they desire to enter, and make an affidavit to that effect.

They must either be native born, or naturalized citizens of the United States, or have declared their intention to become citizens. If not native born, citizens' papers must accompany filing papers.

Five years' actual residence on the land is required. No commutation is allowed.

The filing fees at the U. S. land office are $14.00 for 160 acres; $13.00 for 120 acres; $7.00 for 80 acres, and $6.00 for 40 acres.

Each settler must pay $1.25 per acre for the lands entered, payments to be made in five equal annual installments at the end of the 1st, 2nd, 3rd, 4th, and 5th years.

Schedules of the lands to be opened will be furnished by the land office at Crookston upon application therefor.

A Paper Suit For $2.50.

Paper clothes, according to the World's Paper Trade Review, are the latest novelty. A prominent Berlin tailoring house is now offering a complete suit of paper clothes for $2.50. The material is woven and pressed and makes a warm, durable suit. The man who is looking for comfort and health uses golden grain belt beer regularly with his meals. It quiet the nerves and gives a sense of rest so hard for a worried man to get after his day's work. If used just before going to bed it insures a peaceful sleep. THE LOVE OF WOMEN AND THE LOVE OF MAN

By PAOLO MANTEGAZZA, President Anthropological Society of Italy

HE LOVE OF MAN IS THE LIGHTNING WHICH FLASHES, glows and is extinguished. THE LOVE OF WOMAN IS THE SUN RAY WHICH BEAMS, warms, inflames and fertilizes the heart. It slowly, voluptuously absorbs all the little roots of its sentiment, its joys, its thoughts, glorifies and fosters them. It is thus after the setting of the sun, its rays remain, hidden in the earth which it has heated.

OH, ALL YOU MEN WHO THINK YOU RENDER YOUR WIFE HAPPY BY GIVING HER LUXURY, GOLD AND GOWNS, REMEMBER THAT WITHIN EVERY WOMAN WISHES TO LOVE. FEEL WARMED BY THE SIGHT OF A MAN. LEAN UPON HIS FAITHFUL ARM. FEEL HERSELF NECESSARY TO A COMPANION WHOSE PRIOE SHE WILL BE! SHE WISHES TO BE THE FIRST FOR SOME ONE. IN THE MIOST OF A SPLENOID LUXURY YOU WILL SEE AN UNHAPPY WOMAN ENVELOPED BY THE GENTLE SOLICITUDE OF HER HUSBANO.

HERE IS ANOTHER HAPPY IN THE MIDST OF STORMS AND ALWAYS CONFRONTED WITH THE CAPRICES OF A SWEETHEART.

Mysteries of the heart, you say. Natural, I say. The first one does not love her husband, the second loves her sweetheart. And here is another essential difference between the love of man and that of woman: THE MAN WISHES TO BE LOVED; THE WOMAN, ABOVE ALL, TO LOVE. The sentiment which consumes is the more active, more expansive than with men. She REQUIRES LITTLE OF HER COMPANION, because she is too rich and her affection is too robust to need to lean upon conceit for support in the battle of life.

CERTAINLY PERFECT LOVE IS THE SUM OF THESE TWO SPLENDID THINGS—"I LOVE" AND "I AM LOVED." BUT FOR WOMAN IT OFTEN SUFFICES TO BE ABLE TO SAY, "I LOVE." TO MAN IT OFTEN IS ENOUGH TO SAY, "I AM LOVED."

DO NOT ASK A WOMAN WHY SHE LOVES. She succeeds in loving creatures uneultivated enough, poor enough, deformed enough to inspire astonishment or terror. In order that this creature may be all to her she must storm it with flowers of her imagination, illuminate it with the light which emanates from her heart.

To woman it suffices to find a mind, a strength, sometimes even in a crime, in him whom she wishes to make hers; she can love the most unintelligent, the most criminal, the most deformed of men. SHE ENLARGES EVERY MAN WHOM SHE TOUCHES; SHE BELIEVES HERSELF CAPABLE OF HEATING ICE.

TAKE TIME TO READ

By ANDREW LANG, Critic and Author

AUSE, O YOUTH OR MAIDEN, before you accustom your lips to this fatal formula: "I HAVE NO TIME TO READ." You have ALL THE TIME which, for you, exists, and it is abundant. What are you doing with it—with your leisure? Mainly gossiping. OUR MODERN MALADY IS GREGARIOUSNESS. We must be in company chattering.

We are become in this matter very like the Athenians, but worse. Asked if he has read a book, a man usually says, "No, I have no time for books, but I have read a review of it in the Literary Raghag." Now, what is a review in the Literary Raghag? IT IS NOT A CRITICISM. It contains a photograph of the author, a description of his "early struggles," an estimate of his income, an account of his home, wife, dogs and cats and a comment on his favorite amusements. Why has every one TIME TO READ ALL THESE FUTILITIES about the writers of books while not one person in a thousand has time to read the books of the writers? .

NO MORE TIME IS NEEDED TO READ MASTERPIECES THAN TO READ THE LAST NEW NOVEL. It is not time, but "the mind to it," that is lacking. Do not dawdle and put off, but begin upon something good at once. I may freely admit that the study of Bacon and Mill requires seclusion and earnest application, but many good books, say Boswell's "Life of Johnson" or the doctor's own "Lives of the Poets," are at least AS EASY READING AS A NEW NOVEL and much more diverting than most new novels. YOU MAKE ACQUAINTANCE WITH SUCH WITS AND CHARMING CHARACTERS AS YOU DO NOT, UNLESS YOU ARE VERY FORTUNATE, MEET EVERY DAY.

WOMAN WAKING UP

By BLANCHE WALSH, American Actress

THE twentieth century WOMAN HAS LEARNED TO THINK AND FEEL. Heretofore she has merely reflected thoughts and feeling from her mankind. She is BEGINNING TO DISCOVER THE HEIGHTS AND DEPTHS OF HER EMOTIONAL NATURE, and her joys and her pains are both more intense in consequence.

The change in her is growth. This growth seeks expression along lines she was formerly afraid of.

The twentieth century woman is exploring into her soul. When she really discovers its deepest recesses the world will receive revelations.

BARS TO MATRIMONY

FEAR KEEPS MANY MEN FROM THE BLISS OF WEODED LIFE.

Some Instances of a Lack of Self-Control Bringing It Take the Fateful Trip to the Altar—Various Reasons That all Spell "Afraid."

"There is a great deal of speculation," said a well known lawyer, "as to why men are so reluctant to marry, but one reason never seems to occur to the speculators, and that is that many of them are paid to. No, I am not joking. It is a sober and well considered statement of fact, for when I can adduce as many proofs as you want, that many men would almost as soon think of putting a force ball on the head or facing the midnight burglar as taking a trip to the altar.

"I remember as a boy an amusing specimen of this kind of man in Iowa. He was a farmer and was as notorious for his amorous entanglements as for his ingenuity in getting out of them when a marriage began to loom near. It was said he had been engaged a dozen times, and though he left all his fiancees in the lurch he never found any difficulty in getting a successor. One day my father, who was his lawyer, asked him: 'Why don't you get married, John? It isn't for want of opportunities, you know, and it's quite time you thought of settling down.'

"'Well, sir,' John answered, 'it's this way: You see, I like courting well enough, but I can never summon up pluck to go any further. To tell you the truth, I am afraid of getting tied for life to one of 'em.'

"If you have heard many breach of promise suits you will have observed that this hobgoblin dread of matrimony is the cause of a good proportion of them, though all the defendants have not the courage to admit it.

"One client of mine had allowed matters to proceed right to the eve of the wedding day, when he disappeared mysteriously and was not discovered for some months. The young lady promptly sued him for damages for breach, and at the hearing the reason of his sudden move came out. He admitted that he was fond of the girl, but sundry exhibitions of her temper and jealousy which he had witnessed had so scared him that he simply hadn't the courage to marry her. 'I meant to marry her right enough,' he said, 'but when it came to the scratch my nerve failed me, and I thought it safer to bolt.'

"In another case in which a widow sued a widower for playing her false the defendant put in a singular plea. It seems that the widow's family strongly objected to the match, and as passive opposition was useless to prevent it one of the sons, a stalwart young fellow, called on the middle aged wooer and told him that if he persisted in his suit he (the son) would give him such a thrashing as would effectually cure him of any further sentiment. 'So what could I do?' the defendant pathetically asked.

"The more one sees behind the scenes the more one realizes that there is often a great deal to be said for the man who loves and runs away. One of my clients a few years ago found himself in an awkward quandary. He had engaged himself to three girls at different times and, having canceled his engagements with two, was on the eve of marrying No. 3. No sooner was his intention known than the two jilted ladies threatened him with legal proceedings if he persisted in his proposed marriage, and the poor fellow really in turn threatened a similar fate if he didn't.

"Here was a dilemma, for whatever he did would end unpleasantly. However, like a prudent man, he decided to run the smaller risk. He pacified his two former fiancees by canceling his engagement and prepared to face the music of the third lady.

"The mother-in-law is often a fatal bugbear of love's young dream. One breach of promise defendant declared that he would willingly have married the plaintiff only he couldn't stand her mother at any price, and the prospect of having his married happiness disturbed by her interference so scared him that he decided it was more prudent not to break off the engagement, while another frail lover actually stated in court that he was afraid to marry the plaintiff lest she should 'grow up like her mother,' whose tongue and temper had shown him some of the less desirable possibilities of married life.

"One man whom I defended last year seems to have had a constitutional dread of matrimony. He had been engaged to the plaintiff no less than nine years. Four times the wedding day had been fixed, and as many times it was adjourned by his wish. Finally he cried off altogether, and in court he declared that, although he loved the girl, he felt he could never screw up the courage to marry her. When he was asked the reason for his diffidence he said that he had seen so much of the unhappy side of married life and the difference between wooing and wedding that he didn't feel equal to running the risk.

"These are but a few from scores of similar cases which have come within my own knowledge. One man feared the restrictions on account of his fiancee's extravagance, another qualified his confessed horror of mother's cooking and domestic gifts generally, a third defendant was afraid to wed because of a distant relative of his lady-love had died in an asylum, and so on. But, whatever the cause, you may take my word for it that the men who are downright afraid to take wives are legion."—Chicago Tribune.

Dieting Invites Disease.

To cure Dyspepsia or Indigestion it is no longer necessary to live on milk and toast. Starvation produces such weakness that the whole system becomes an easy prey to Disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that one cares to eat, and is a never failing cure for indigestion, Dyspepsia and stomach troubles. Kodol digests what you eat—makes the stomach sweet. Sold by V. A. Schreiner.

Suggestive Names.

The Coxcomb mountains of British Honduras, to some extent an unknown part of the famous Mahogany coast, are undergoing a process of christening which will identify them for all times with the begining of the twentieth century. One range has just been named the Cooper Alexandra mountains, another range takes the name of the Prince of Wales, and a 4,000 foot peak has been named Mount Joseph Chamberlain.

Sprains.

Many a man has lost the girl of his choice just because of his cruelty to his horse. Neglect of a bruised or wounded animal is cruelty—but the more so since Cole's Veterinary Carbolisave is guaranteed to cure all galls, sores and wounds without scars. 50c and $1.00 by all druggists.

Inhospitable Trees.

Some trees in the tropics are more unfavorable to the growth of plants beneath them than are others. The worst are the yew and the ash.

Pain Killer.

All the liniment in the world won't cure rheumatism. It is caused by an acid in the blood and to cure it you must remove the cause. Cole's Blood-Builder is what you want. It makes pure new blood. Try it. $1.00 by all druggists.

Last Shakespeare Descendant.

A memo-tel stone, commemorative of Shakespeare's granddaughter, Elizabeth Barnard, wife of Sir John Barnard, has recently been placed in the church at Abington, Berkshire, where she was buried. She was the last direct descendant of the poet. Her death occurred in 1670.

Deadly LaGrippe Caused Heart Trouble, Nervous Prostration and Dyspepsia.

My Friends Know Heart Cure Cured Me.

Mrs. C. O. Hurd, 118 W. Third St., Muscatine, Ia., is well known throughout the section of Iowa as an ardent worker for the M. E. Church. She suffered LaGrippe and with a severe case, which soon affected my nerves, followed. Then Dyspepsia, headache, extreme nervousness and twitching of the muscles. The slightest exertion would cause shortness of breath, a numbness of my body and hot flashes with pains. I will tell you what I am constantly telling my friends —that Miles' Heart Cure cured me so that all these disagreeable symptoms left me. I may add that for seven years I have been found anything to equal Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills and that a wonderful stomach remedy.

My son was stricken down with heart trouble and was unable to eat. For two months we got no sleep with him at night. We commenced to use Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine with the Nerve and Liver Pills and today he is sound and well. In fact he passed a physical examination since his sickness and is with the Army in the Philippines. I desire to add that Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills have certainly been a boon to me. I am frequently troubled with sick and nervous headaches and I have never found anything that would relieve me so quickly and thoroughly as they will these. —Mrs. Abe Mook, Muscatine, Ia.

50 Years of Success

This is our record. From a small beginning we have grown until our business now covers many acres. Many of our customers have dealt with us for fifty years and are still giving their users faithful service. Can anything be more conclusive of their merit and reliability? Did you ever hear of any other machine with such a record?

Note a few of the many superior points of the

Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine No. 9

The Rotary Hook displaces the old, out-of-date, unmechanical and troublesome shuttle.

The Frictionless ball bearings and perfect mechanism combine to enable it to be operated with one-third less exertion than is required by ordinary machines. It sews three yards of goods while a shuttle machine sews two.

It makes the most elastic and most perfect stitch whether sewing light or heavy goods.

With over superior attachments the greatest variety of work is possible.

Do not make the mistake of buying a machine without first seeing how easily the Wheeler & Wilson No. 9 is run.

SHEN HO

By FRED WHISHAW

Copyright, 1903, by F. C. McClure

When Bernard Appleby determined to devote his life to evangelical missionary work in China he was as full of sanguine enthusiasm as any young fellow in the service. "You are exactly the kind of man we want," they told him at the depot in Shanghai, "and we shall expect to see you do wonders in the great country."

"It won't be for lack of enthusiasm if I fail," said Bernard. "I am ignorant and shall be useless for awhile, but I hope to work into it by degrees."

"You'll have plenty of time to learn the language down at Pushow," said a member of the board, who, catching the eye of another member, smiled a little. A third member sighed, but stifled the sigh and pretended he had yawned.

Bernard scraped acquaintance at the mission house presently with a young girl and walked through the town with her. She was a devotee, like himself, who had been in the service a year and knew something of it. He would be dull in Pushow, she said; but, please God, his reign as a successful missionary he looked like a man. The youth and the girl looked steadily in one another's eyes at parting.

"I hope we shall meet again," he said. As for her, she smiled back, but when he had gone she allowed her eyes to become dimmed.

Enthusiasm dies hard in people of Bernard Appleby's stamp. For a year he worked at his Chinese. He was the only European in the place, excepting for an hour or two in each week when the clumsy, noisy steamer would come thundering up or down the palm river bound for Wuhsang or Yutso, as it happened to be traveling up or down stream.

At the end of two years Bernard could stand his solitary life no longer. He went up to Shanghai and hastily inquired of the chairman for news of the young lady whom he had seen at the depot on his arrival. The chairman smiled paternally. "She is still unmarried," he said, replying to Appleby's thoughts. "You are finding it dull and would marry. Is it so?"

Bernard blushingly confessed that so it was.

"Well," said the chairman, "we like our people to intermarry. Miss Tate is at Hankow at this moment. You might see her on your way back."

Appleby adopted his advice. He found Clarissie Tate at the missionary station at Hankow, and the two were not long in fixing up matters. Within a month Bernard carried off a wife to Pushow.

The following year the arrival of a daughter added new happiness. The baby girl, who was called Dulcie, grew and prospered. She was a pretty, curly headed, fascinating little person, a thing of wonder and amusement to many of the natives of the place, an object of adoration and love to one. Shen Ho, the son of a former convert of Appleby's, who had long since relapsed to the religion of his fathers.

Shen Ho," Appleby would sometimes say, smiling somewhat plaintively, "is the only real convert we have ever had, Chrissie, and he is Dulcie's, not ours."

This was perfectly true. From Dulcie alone had proceeded the personal magnetism which had been the foundation of Shen Ho's Christian aspirations. Shen Ho lived in the house as servant and was as honest and diligent in business as he was devout in his Christianity.

Dulcie taught Shen Ho cricket. Shen Ho thought the game a foolish one, but would have played it gladly all day and all night to please his friend. Nothing could induce him, however, to bowl in such a manner that the ball reached the wicket otherwise than dead slow for fear of hurting Miss Dulcie. When Appleby was playing and bowled a fast ball at his daughter Shen Ho would groan aloud and bite his eyes with his hand.

In every way Shen Ho was Dulcie's devoted slave and servant as well as playmate. He also acted as her escort and protector and her champion if occasion offered.

The people of Pushow were not too great ground toward the English missionary and his wife. Appleby had never been attacked, but he was never secure from mocking laughter and jeers when passing through the crowds in the streets.

So matters would doubtless have remained till the day but that when Dulcie was about nine years old and Shen Ho fourteen or fifteen and a Christian of five years' standing the country began to be convulsed by the Boxer rising in Peking and the troubles that accompanied the popular upheaval against foreign residents throughout the land. Rumors of trouble soon reached Pushow.

It was but a week after this that a party of half a dozen Boxers came into the town. They inquired first whether the place contained any "foreign devils" and were informed of the Appleby family.

"We want neither the foreign devils nor their gods," said the Boxer, and he went forthwith to spy upon the Englishmen's compound.

Huan Li, the gardener, happened to be coming out of the place, going home for his midday rest.

"What are you doing in the house of the foreign devils?" he was asked.

"Getting his money from him by doing a very little work for good pay," said Huan Li, with a grin.

"Well, the people must learn that there is to be no hobnobbing with foreign devils," said the fellow, and a moment later poor Huan Li's head was rolling in the dirt in the gutter.

Several of those who saw and heard this were not ill affected toward the Applebys. Bernard and his wife had visited the sick and fed the hungry.

When the Boxer had turned his hand and was on his way to consult with his companions two or three stood sentinel outlonely round by another way to warn the missionary of his danger.

Appleby was in a fix. This was Tuesday. There would be no steamer until Thursday. Even if there were he would not probably be allowed to board it. What was to be done?

Shen came running in excitedly.

"Boxer man coming!" he exclaimed. "Killee Miss Dulcie, killee all! Come away quick! Shen show way! Comee, missy! No stop, not one minute!"

Shen quickly explained that he knew of a path through the woods to Tsotse, a village on the river ten miles nearer Hankow. Here he had an uncle, Shen Li, a boatman and fisherman, who would take the party down the river to Hankow.

Appleby snatched up food and a bottle of water and a blanket or two, and hurriedly made for the nearest point at which the open country could be reached. "Go quickly," they cried; "the Boxers run fast!"

"These people will give us away," muttered Bernard as he ran, having Dulcie on his shoulder and his wife hurrying at his side. "There'll be no secret as to the way we have taken!"

But fortunately the Boxers delayed their attack for nearly half an hour, employing that period doubtless in swearing up their courage or their fecrecity to the necessary point. But the fugitives were there and then, and it would not be difficult to follow by tracking. This fact gave Bernard another bent blow and he urged his wife also.

Suddenly came the fatal sounds of pursuit—shouts and occasionally a shot fired by way of intimidation. The pursuers were a mile behind, but probably traveling much faster than the fugitives. Then Shen Ho spoke:

"Me go back, tell Boxer man you gone ugniee to Wochen, go on before to Tsotse; no waitee for Shen Ho; me find you mission house, Hankow; goodby, master, missy, goodby love Miss see Dulcie!" Shen Ho suddenly went down upon his little master and kissed Dulcie's tiny foot; then, before he could be questioned or prevented, he dashed backward in the way they had come.

In a few minutes he met the pursuers. The Boxer leader, hot with the chase, looked by this time, as did each of his followers, an inveterate fiend of savagery. They ran sweating and swearing, brandishing pitchforks and swords.

"Have you seen the foreign devils?" shouted the leader. "Speak quickly or the vultures shall sicken over your carcass tonight."

"Comee; you shall show us which way they went, and if I find that you have lied"—

"Come, then," said Shen Ho firmly. "They were running toward Wootien, I tell you, where there are three other foreign devils who will protect them."

Shen Ho led the dozen three miles out of their way before the savage brutes made up their minds he had deceived them and thrust their swords through his faithful heart and left him. But the time thus gained sufficed for Appleby to bring his wife and Dulcie in safety to Tsotse and to engage a boat there down river to Hankow.

Appleby has declared many times that if ever he returns to his mission house at Pushow he will adopt "that little Shen Ho" for his sometimes on the evening of their escape.

He does not know and probably he never will how big a thing the lad did for him and his that day.

Animals' Eyes Act Independently.
The eyes of an animal only work together when they can be brought to bear upon an object at the same time, but as a rule the more it is in motion the work more or less independently. This is sometimes the case when the eyes can co-operate, as any one who watches a plover or other fist fish in an aquarium will soon discover.

This in true, too, of the curious bulging optics of a chameleon, which roll round serpentwise in a somewhat aimless manner. When they do converge it is but for the moment upon which they fix themselves.

Many animals possess more than three eyes, which do not all act together. A leech, for example, has ten eyes on the top of its head, which do not work in concert, and a kind of marine worm has two eyes in the head and a row down each side of the body. Some lizards have as many eyes on the top of the head, which does not act with the other two. A bee or wasp has two large compound eyes, which possibly help each other and are used for near vision, and also three little simple eyes on the top of the head, which are employed for seeing things a long way off.

Invisible Support.
Magistrate—What is the charge against this man, officer?
Officer—He visible means of support.
Magistrate—It's up to you, prisoner. What have you to say in answer to the charge?
Prisoner—I guess it's correct, your honor. My wife isn't visible at the present writing.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Switzerland's Liberal School System.
The public schools in Switzerland are operated by the government, and civil service rules are strictly applied. The teachers, who are mostly women, are very well paid and never discharged except for cause. When they get so old they can't teach they are pensioned liberally. The result is that the country has an excellent corps of educators.

RED RIVER VALLEY FARM LANDS.
Are now more sought by the Investor and Homeseeker than ever before.....
BECAUSE IT IS GETTING TO BE UNIVERSALLY KNOWN:
That the RED RIVER VALLEY is one of the GREATEST WHEAT-PRODUCING SECTIONS of the earth, and has NEVER KNOWN A CROP FAILURE, but always produces LARGE CROPS of the NO. 1 HARD, thus justly entitling it to be called "THE BREAD BASKET OF THE WORLD."
That CORN AND CLOVER as well as nearly all other kinds of GRAINS AND GRASSES raised in the southern part of the state can be SUCCESSFULLY RAISED HERE, making it not only suitable to WHEAT RAISING but well adapted to STOCK AND HOG RAISING also.
And lastly because they know that taking into consideration all the ADVANTAGES THE RED RIVE VALLEY POSSESSES over other parts of the United States—having HEALTHFUL CLIMATE, GOOD CLEB WATER, PLENTY OF FUEL, EXCELLENT SOIL and SPLENDID RAILROAD AND MARKET FACILITIES—Red River Valley farm lands are a cheaper and more profitable investment than land anywhere else on the face of the globe. Red River Valley farm lands at present prices will more than double in value within the next few years.
We have thousands of acres for sale in Red Lake and Polk Counties, two of the best Counties in the Valley, and justly named the Garden Spot of the Valley, which we are offering low prices and on terms to suit each buyer.
Most of our lands were bought years ago when lands were cheap and we are offering to sell them again at only a small margin of profit. We handle our own lands and will make terms to suit the buyer. CROP PAYMENT, INSTALLMENT PLAN or other terms. By dealing with us you save agent's commission. Why not just as well have that to your credit?
We have also land for sale in other counties in the Valley. Have at all times some great snaps to offer and will at this time call your attention to the following:
3000 acres in quarter and half section tracts, all more or less improved with buildings, fences and other improvements, and located in a thrifty, well-settled community, where churches and schools are built and roads graded. These will be sold in "chunk" or a piece that will surprise you. Only $5,000 cash will handle this bunch. Balance can be paid on time to suit at 6 per cent. A live investor can make a few thousand on this bunch in a short time. If interested, write for descriptions and full particulars.
We furnish abstracts showing good title in every piece of land we sell.
We furnish railroad fare at landseekers' rates, and fare refunded to buyers.

Lorraine Duffy is Dead.

Miss Lorraine, the eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Duffy, died early Saturday morning after a two weeks' illness from typhoid fever. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon from St. Joseph's church and the remains interred in the cemetery east of town. Lorraine was an exceptionally bright and precocious child, and the bereaved relatives have the universal sympathy of the people of Red Lake Falls in their great affliction. Mr. and Mrs. Duffy have had to bear a full measure of grief during the summer. Just six months ago little Marva was taken by pneumonia. The ways of Providence are not always fathomable, and to the minds of mortals it is hard to understand what part of the Great Purpose is served in taking away the little cherubs just at the time that they begin to comprehend the joys of living, and are most sweet and interesting to those around them.

New Lawyer at Crookston.

Warren Shead. The attention of our readers is directed to a new professional card in another column, namely: that of Francis Bergstrom, the new attorney at Crookston. Mr. B. has practiced law for the past thirteen years at Minneapolis, Minn., where he leaves a good record as a lawyer. He has shown us the most commendatory letters of recommendation from his old clients in that city. One in particular, from the C. A. Smith Lumber Co. gives him high praise as an authority on titles and real estate law, and refers to his examination of titles to thirty thousand acres of timber land in California for the company, and all this as well as much other professional work, in the past thirteen years, has been done to their entire satisfaction. Mr. Bergstrom is a graduate of Yale college and studied law at Harvard law school.

The Shead takes pleasure in welcoming Mr. Bergstrom to this part of the state, and thus introducing him to our readers.

THE FACE THAT SMILES.

Brother, you are gazing backward, toward the ocean of your mistakes;
You are weeping o'er your errors till your proud heart almost breaks.
You're repenting and regretting, you are sighing, Oh, alas!
And you're gazing all the stories of the years you've left behind.
Leave the grim and grievous picture—
look the other way awhile,
For the face that's toward the future is the face that wears a smile.

You are lost in contemplation of the shadows you have made;
You are digging memory's graveyard—
your soul has been dismayed.
But the future's dawn is shining to the future's verdure trees,
And the future's birds are singing—you are missing all of these.
Cease that useless gazing backward, look the other way awhile,
For the faces toward the future are the only ones that smile.

When your back is toward the future then the blazing lamp of hope
Throws your shadow o'er your landscape and with blinded eyes you grope
For the blessings that had vanished with the times they strove to bless;
Face about and you'll discover all your drooping's fruitlessness.
You're fanning by the glory of the present with a backward look;
But with face turned to the future you will learn to wear a smile.

MARIE shook her head a little sadly. "Of course I care a great deal for you," she said, "but not in the way you ask." She knew she was saying something very stereotyped, but she did not know how else to express herself.

"Then I suppose there is nothing more to be said," answered Jones Willis, with the uncomfortable inflection characteristic of the rejected suitor.

"There is much more to be said," asserted Marie, vehemently. "I don't want you to think that I have been heedless leading you on, because I have always been in the complete confidence of your society for two years. It has been very pleasant, and I don't want this—this to make any difference. We are not going to be foolish, as some people might; we are going to be the same good chums, are we not?"

"Yes," he answered, listlessly, "we won't let this interfere." But he knew very well that this would thereafter decidedly interfere with the relation of good comradeship which had made them enjoy the hours they had spent together.

"I have so much for which to thank you," she stumbled on, not knowing how this expression of gratitude hurt him until she voiced it to his sympathetic ear.

"O, I don't know just what I wish to say," she cried helplessly; "but you have been to me what no one else could have been—you have taught me how to live and to enjoy myself without parting with my principles. You know what I mean. When my father died and I came to live with my uncle, I knew nothing but the knowledge to be found in books. I looked ahead at the world in which I found myself. I thought everything swerving or deflecting from it wicked; I thought it a sin to dress too prettily—in fact, I was a silly little prude. You made me to know that some things that glitter are gold.

"I understand what you mean," he said very gently; "but if I have helped you any I must disclaim the credit of having done so from purely unselfish motives. You do not know how on unspoiled, noble girl such as you are appeals to a man who has seen much of the shallow mockery of life. It was not altogether your fresh young beauty which first attracted me; and if I have been the means of your forming a taste for innocent frivolity, I am your debtor, for you have taught me one thing at least."

"I DON'T BELIEVE THE HEART EVER TRULY LOVES BUT ONCE."

"And that is—?" she inquired, wonderingly.

"That there are women who will not sacrifice everything for the sake of that which glitters and is not gold," he answered.

"You have been disappointed in someone," she said, lowering her voice.

"Yes," he acknowledged, with a little laugh. "I loved madly, desperately, and the girl loved me; but she married a fellow who had more money than I. That's the story in a nut shell. Needless to add that I ceased to care for her after she threw me over. But somehow my faith in all women was shattered until I met and loved you."

"I don't believe the heart ever truly loves but once," she said with conviction. "If you really loved her you don't love me—not with all the strength of your nature."

"What do you know of love, child?" he demanded.

"I loved once," she confessed, a warm flush glowing in her fair face.

"Then, according to your theory, you love him yet," he said a trifle bitterly.

"Yes," she answered simply; "I have not heard from him directly for more than two years. He was away when my mother died, and uncle took me home with him immediately. He—he worked on assistant bookkeeper to my father. I was very young and he was very poor, we knew we had to wait; we were not formally engaged, but we loved and understood each other."

"And during all this time he has made no effort to write you or correspond with you?" asked Willis, a strange expression flitting across his face.

"He is too proud to seek me now," she answered, vollnontly. "My uncle is rich, and he is poor. But my heart tells me he is waiting for me and he will seek me when he has something more than his love to offer."

"I hope he will," said Willis, a little too heartily. "I hope he will be everything you expect. But don't make the mistake of cherishing a romantic idea while may be no more tangible than the will-o'-the-wisp. To my mind his long silence suggests the thought that he has given you up, realizing that your paths are now so far apart."

"Mr. Willis!" she exclaimed, indignantly, "I am surprised to hear such an expression from you; under the circumstances I should —"

"I love only your happiness at heart," he interrupted, "and I only wish that Heaven had decreed that I should be the one to inspire such marvelous faith in man's love and fidelity."

"I ask your pardon for doubting you," she said with downcast eyes.

"Granted," he returned quickly, and he rose to go. "I may be out of town for a week or two, but I'll see you ot Mrs. Weir's I think I am not to be the one of the house party I'll be there the night of the ball."

"I shall be there," she answered, and they parted.

* * * * * *

It was seven o'clock, and Marie Allen was ready, one of the guests of Scott's Towers who was dressed for dinner. She stood on the broad piazza and looked anxiously down the long carriage drive, for the afternoon train was due, and Scott would send Scott-ville. Finally her impatience mastered her, and throwing a scarf about her pretty shoulders, she walked down the driveway. She reached the gate just as it was opened to admit the expected guest.

She greeted her pleasantly, though with some degree of formality. "I thought you had forgotten," he explained. "A June evening in the country is irresistible—but I hope I'll not have to answer for your cold."

"Dinner is at eight," she said. "I dressed early, and—and came to meet you." She brought the words out with a jerk, and looked at him oppolingly. Mr. Wilmot's word to her to a marriage bench near by and seated himself beside her.

"You wished to see me alone, then?" he asked.

"Yes," she said with a little gasp. "I knew it would be next to impossible to talk with you unless I met you here, and I could not wait to tell you."

"To tell me what?" he asked, trying to coin to conceal his eagerness.

"I have seen him," she answered with a little laugh, "and he is here at last and I am wrong."

He pressed her hand encouragingly. "I came on the morning train," she continued, "and stopped at a little town for several minutes—and I saw him. His store is near the railroad track, and we exchanged greetings. He looked the same, and yet different. He was polished to a country girl as pretty as a wild rose—"

Willis began to laugh in spite of himself.

"You know on without my telling you," she said, going on in haste, "that I don't suppose he has given me a thought since I passed out of his life. He looked contented and prosperous, and he had eyes for no one but his pretty companion. I had been afraid of toiling and striving for my sake, when doubtless, as you suggested, he ceased to care for me long ago. It is inevitable that the change in our circumstances should have left its mark on both, but believe me, that is not the only reason I could not love him now. It is true that o look into the busy distance often discloses a beautiful picture while a closer view would disgnte; and I have had the closer view, and know that he is not the knight and I not love him now."

"And the heart never truly loves but once," said Willis, hopelessly.

"Ah! but it does," she said softly, "and he has forgotten me neglected, only I did not know it until to-day."

And then, in spite of all the windows of Scott's Towers staring through the twilight—but that's another story.

Killed the Goose.

When the old doctor went off on his vacation he left his practice in charge of his son, who had but a few patients of his own. On his return the old man found the young doctor quite unhappy. Inquiries revealed the fact that business was very bad; there was nothing doing.

"But, surely!" exclaimed the astonished old doctor, "you must still have that cranky rich fossil around the corner to look after!"

"No; I cured him three days after you left home."

"What! You durned fool! Why, I sent you through college on that case!"—N. Y. Press.

It All Depends.

"Yes," said Newrih, "I'm satisfied, judging from my own personal experience, that married life is the only happy one."

"My dear way," querled old man Wederly, "how long have you been married?"

"Nearly a week," replied Newrih.

"Hush!" exclaimed Wederly, "I thought so."—Cincinnati Tiger.

One week feeling heavy and leaden; about to see me; the next unaware of my presence. For such people I have no time and I let them severely alone. If I ain't good enough I know Monday, I ain't good enough Tuesday. This is no overdrawn picture, for there are lots of people who go through the world and follow this plan whenever they feel like it. I want a man whom I know to pass the time of day every time he sees me, or I don't want him to know me at any time. I feel better if he passes me by in silence every day of the year, and there's a host of people who think just as I do upon this subject for they have told me so."

DITCH BOND MONEY SOON TO BE HERE

Merchants State Bank Completes Negotiations for the $76,000 Issue of Bonds.

The sale of the $75,000 worth of county ditch bonds is about to be consummated in accordance with the offer made by the Merchants State Bank and accepted by the board of county commissioners last month. Cashier Duffy has found a purchaser for the bonds in Chicago, and the first payment of $25,000 will be made in about ten days. Another payment of $25,000 will be made about December 20, and the remaining $18,000 will follow the latter part of January.

Owing to the general feeling of uncertainty in the money market Cashier Duffy has had hard work in finding purchasers for the bonds, and is to be congratulated upon his success in floating the big issue. At present bankers and brokers are exceedingly cautious in loaning money on the best of security, and there is no immediate prospects of financial conditions improving.

At present the banks of the county are carrying all of the ditch warrants, aggregating over $70,000. Of this amount the Merchants State Bank holds about $35,000, the First State $15,000, the First State of St. Hilaire, $12,000, and the Thief River banks about $10,000. As the warrants draw but 6 per cent. interest it is safe to assume that all of the banks will be glad to have them called in.

CITY CAMPAIGN IS NOW IN PROGRESS

No Contest For Offices Except on Mayor and Aldermen-at-Large.

Saturday was the last day for filing certificates of nomination for the city election, which occurs next Tuesday, November 3, and the following aspirants for municipal honors have placed the necessary papers in the hands of City Clerk Toupin:

Mayor—John A. Duffy and William Fiedelson.

Alderman-at-large—M. A. Hatten, Henry Hennemuth and Simon Paul.

Alderman, first ward—James Brady.

Alderman, second ward—Fred Horchers.

Alderman, third ward—Thomas A. Crompe.

Treasurer—Ovide Emard and Joseph Salley.

Justices—A. P. Toupin and S. L. Lewis.

As there is no contest except for mayor and aldermen-at-large the campaign will be rather desultory. There is no issue before the people, and the offices will go largely by individual preference.

GRAND JURY'S LABORS ENDED YESTERDAY

Two Indictments Found by the Body—Cases to Be Tried at Present Term.

The grand jury was in session from Monday noon until last evening, and brought in two indictments. One of them is against George Provost, who was arrested about a month ago charged with a revolting crime against nature. He has been in jail since his arrest, and will probably be arraigned before the court today.

The other indictment is against Dolphis Beauseliel, charged with adultery with Mrs. John Doyea. Both parties reside in Red Lake Falls. These cases will be set for trial during the present term of court.

NEW BANK BUILDING.

Sortedahl & Bjorneby Erecting Handsome Brick Block.

The contract for the new building to be erected by Sortedahl & Bjorneby was let last week to Hegland Bros., of Hasty, Minn., and on Monday morning work was commenced on the excavation. It is the hope of the contractors to have the building enclosed by December 1, and it is not improable that it will be completed by the middle of January. The contract price is not stated, but it is given out that the building will cost not less than $5,000, and will afford excellent quarters for the banking and abstract business of the proprietors.

ERSKINE FARMER IS RUN DOWN BY TRAIN

Oscar Lillemo Struck by Great Northern Flyer Monday Evening and Badly Injured.

Crookston Times: Still another victim has been added to the list of those who have been run down by the Duluth train. Last evening as the train pulled out of McIntosh at high speed, Oscar Lillemo, a prosperous Erskine farmer, endeavored to cross the track with a four-horse team ahead of the onrushing mass of steel and iron. He succeeded in getting the horses across, but the speed of the train was greater than he had supposed, and the last horse had barely stepped off the track when the wagon was struck by the engine and splintered into fragments. Lillemo was hurled high in the air and caught again on the pilot of the engine as he descended. His right arm caught beneath the wheels and was entirely severed from his body, while his face and chest were mashed almost to a jelly. After dragging the body some distance, the train was stopped, and the crew endeavored to make the injured man as comfortable as possible. He was taken to McIntosh and placed under the care of doctors, who after an examination of his wounds, despaired of saving his life. His back was frightfully crushed, four ribs broken and his scalp nearly torn off, the loss of blood incident to the accident was very great, and above would have killed an ordinary man. Lillemo is a fine specimen of sturdy manhood, however, and was conscious when picked up. Although his wounds must have been excruciatingly painful, he did not lose his perspective powers until given chloroform at McIntosh. The accident is a sad affair, and the injured man's parents are nearly prostrate with grief. Mr. Lillemo was but 23 years of age, has lived on the farm with his father and mother since childhood.

DIDN'T TURN THE TRICK.

Duluth Lawyer Fails to Best Congressman Steenerson.

Those who heard Hon. Halvor Steenerson's argument in the Crookston Lumber company case at the court house Tuesday afternoon no longer wonder that this eminent lawyer has a wide reputation as a successful pleader. The attorney for the defendant company attempted to forestall the argument of the plaintiff's attorney by guarded allusions to Mr. Steenerson's magnetism and oratory, alleging that the plaintiff had no case whatever and that "the only issue involved was the Hon. Halvor Steenerson." The subtle inferences would no doubt have had effect on the jury had the attorney on the other side been less equal to an emergency.

Halvor's time arrived. He not only clinched the plaintiff's case, but he proved to the satisfaction of the jury that Halvor Steenerson's personality had nothing whatever to do with the merits of the case; that he did not appear as Halvor Steenerson or as an office-holder, but only as the mouthpiece of his client. The Duluth lawyer, who by the way is a most capable attorney, was raked fore and aft for attempting the trick, and it is safe to say that if he is again pitted against the brawny congressman from the Ninth there will be no attempt made to steel the jury against Halvor's persuasiveness.

Another Fire Alarm.

A haystack in the rear of Dolphis Beauseliel's barn caught fire Monday afternoon, and a fire alarm was turned in. Fortunately the blaze was extinguished in time to prevent damage to any of the adjoining buildings. It is supposed that small boys and matches are responsible for the fire. If there is an ordinance prohibiting haystacks in close proximity to buildings it is about time it was enforced. Twice within the past couple of weeks buildings have been endangered from this cause, and the services of the fire department required.

RED LAKE YOUNG MAN KILLED AT TACOMA

Edmund Marchildon Run Over by the Cars in Washington State Tuesday.

A message was received yesterday morning stating that Edmund Marchildon had been killed the previous day by being run over by the cars at Tacoma, Wash. No particulars have been received as to how the sad accident occurred. Edmund is about 22 years of age, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Marchildon, living about five miles south of town in Lake Pleasant township, and is well known in Red Lake Falls. About a year ago he ran away from home, and his people did not know his whereabouts until word of his death was received.

A telegram has been sent to parties at Tacoma to ship the remains home, and they will arrive within a few days.

Everybody is invited to attend both the concert and dance. The program will be printed next week.

Andrews Opera Company.

The breezy operatic comedy, "Birds of a Feather," as presented by the Andrews Opera company at the Metropolitan last Thursday night was the best play of the season up to date. The company is not a large one, but its members understand their parts and the play affords a wide field for the most amusing variety of burlesque. Ed. Andrews as "Hobbs, a hatter," is a natural comedian of the highest order, and was ably seconded by J. C. Taylor, whose experiences were very similar to his own. The scene of the play is laid in England in the time of Charles Dickens, and the burlesques of high tragedy were tremendously funny; in fact the whole play was full of healthful fun, with plenty of music and a few first-class specialties. The company had a large audience and deserved it.

Separator Burned.

Joseph and Peter Morinville lost their separator by fire Tuesday night. They were threshing at M. A. Baumgardner's place a few miles south of town, and about midnight a blaze was started in some unaccountable manner. The separator and belting was entirely destroyed, entailing a loss of about $500; with no insurance. The setting of grain on which the machine had been at work the previous day had been finished, so there was no loss to Mr. Baumgardner except a bunch of sacks.

New Paper for Thief River Falls.

The report is current that Thief River Falls is to have another newspaper in the near future. The sponsors of the new venture are McDonald Bros., who hail from Wisconsin, and it is to be independent in politics. THE COURIER trusts the boys will make a success of the enterprise, but they will doubtless find out that it is somewhat of a task to get a newspaper on a paying basis.

THEA GETS BALM FOR HER WOUNDED HEART

Jury Assesses Martin Bothun $500 for Breach of Promise to Marry Miss Knutson.

The October term of the Red Lake county district court convened Monday afternoon, with Judge William Watts on the bench. Up to the time of going to press only two jury cases have been disposed of.

The most sensational case of the term was tried yesterday, and the jury returned a verdict this morning in favor of the plaintiff in the action, Miss Thea Knutson, giving her $500 for breach of promise of marriage on the part of Martin Bothun, a Thief River Falls business man. Miss Knutson worked in Bothun's store, and after the marriage of Mr. Bothun last spring was discharged, as his wife was all the help he required. On the night of St. Valentine's day the front of Mr. Bothun's place of business was plastered over with comic valentines, which he attributed to Miss Knudson, and later on he began a suit against her for slander for $10,000, claiming that she had circulated false reports about him. This was followed by the suit for breach of promise. Now that the latter suit has gone against Mr. Bothun it is not at all likely that the slander case will come to trial.

The case was full of sensational features, and developed the fact that the parties were at least very indiscreet, and it would not be hard to convince a disinterested listener that either was like Caesar's wife—above suspicion. Halvor Steenerson appeared as attorney for Mr. Bothun and F. A. Grudy for Miss Knutson.

The case of Iver Johnson vs. the Crookston Lumber company was decided in favor of the plaintiff, Mr. Johnson securing judgment for $238 for alleged breach of contract. Johnson was hired by the defendant company to work in the mill at St. Hilaire this spring, and in a few weeks was discharged. Johnson claimed that he had contracted to work for the season, and that he could not be discharged for light or trivial cause. The jury evidently took this view of the case, and gave Johnson about half of the amount he claimed was coming to him.

The case of M. C. Harlow vs. Dennis Conroy is on trial today. The case grows out of a dispute over a boundary line at Thief River Falls.

The case of Albert Gray and Halvor Steenerson vs. Theo. Garceau, Frank E. Hunt, H. H. Zaiser and Ed. Garceau has been settled out of court.

The case of Martin J. Hughes, as administrator of the estate of James C. O'Brien vs. Patrick and James Meehan was settled Tuesday by mutual agreement between the parties. This disposes of the last Meehan case on the calendar.

Connery Will Case Goes Over.

By mutual consent the Connery will case has been continued until the spring term of court. The facts with regard to the case are familiar to the people of the county. Early last spring John Connery, a Thief River Falls merchant, died, leaving all his property by will to his sweetheart, and the heirs of the deceased are endeavoring to have the will set aside.

Young Plants

Every farmer knows that some plants grow better than others. Soil may be the same and seed may seem the same but some plants are weak and others strong.

And that's the way with children. They are like young plants. Same food, same home, same care but some grow big and strong while others stay small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion offers an easy way out of the difficulty. Child weakness often means starvation, not because of lack of food, but because the food does not feed.

Scott's Emulsion really feeds and gives the child growing strength.

Whatever the cause of weakness and failure to grow—Scott's Emulsion seems to find it and set the matter right.

Farm Notes Worth Noting

Do right, farm right and you'll seldom get left.

A big udder is not a certain indication of a big milk flow.

The demand for white corn in the Transvaal is now very great.

Old King Coal is a grasping old soul, a grasping old soul is he.

New Orleans and Galveston now export more wheat than New York.

A gentle, kind horse will nearly always be found to have a broad forehead.

Sunflower seed is prized feed to produce bright plumage, if feed judiciously.

Cut nails will make a roof last twice as long as wire nails. Did you know that?

Only about five per cent of the land in Colorado is now capable of raising a crop.

In Russia there are ten races a year at which poor American bred horses may be entered.

Carelessness and laziness go hand in hand, and together are a fruitful source of failure.

A horse has no bad habits that cannot be traced to the way in which he has been handled.

Jasper Co., Iowa, is said to have more Shorthorn cattle than any other county in the United States.

One harness horse critic tells us that Prince Alert couldn't pace a mile in 2:07 if he were sober.

The American crop of Marcaconi wheat this year is estimated at 8,000,000 against 2,000,000 last year.

If eggs become rotten it is absolute proof that they were fertilized, that the germ of life started and then died.

It costs $10 a week to feed a horse in Pretoria. There is plenty of fertile land in the country, but very little water.

Farm machinery saved in the planting and gathering of last year's crop in the United States $700,000,000.

The chicken coop should have two or three rooms. One for them to roam about in one for setting hens and the other a bedroom.

You don't know it all—even Solomon didn't. The other fellows can tell you a few things that it will be money in your pocket to know.

The average cost of raising a bushel of corn in Illinois, as determined by an exhaustive line of experiments, was found to be ten cents.

N. W. Ayer, the Philadelphia millionaire, owns the largest dairy farm in New York state. It is located at Feridale, Delaware County, and contains just 1,000 acres.

That the harvesting of the crops of the world is a gigantic job becomes apparent from the estimate that it takes ten million men and women nine months to gather them in.

Progressive farmers throughout the country are installing telephones in their homes, and in the near future every agriculturalist will have direct communication with the outside world.

Every farmer should grow his own fuel. Those woods which are suitable for the purpose are soft and grow up quickly and every farmer should therefore have his fuel patch as well as his produce garden.

Statistics show that ten years ago Oklahoma produced less than 5,000,000 bushels of wheat. This year the crop is over 200,000,000 bushels. And this is the way the west is developing.

South Dakota has one county that is four times as big as Rhode Island.

Any sober reliable farm laborer in Denmark, who has saved one-tenth the mortgage value of the little farm he covets—this value not to exceed $1,100—can buy the land by borrowing the other nine-tenth from a Government fund. He gives a mortgage on which he pays 3 per cent.

Threshing By Electric Light.

Samuel Scott of the state dairy and food commission says that some of the farmers in the vicinity of Zumbrota, Goodhue county, are threshing as late as 11 o'clock at night with the aid of electric lights. Andrew Ness of Zumbrota recently attached to his thresher a twenty-five light electric dynamo. He has sixteen lights arranged around the thresher and the engine. Some are placed at the feeder; others are located where the grain is weighed and dumped. In fact every point where it is necessary to have light is provided with electric bulbs.

Pay Your Taxes.

It will be well, says the St. Cloud Times, for those whose real estate taxes have not been paid to take note of the fact that the 10 per cent penalty for non-payment attaches after November 1st. An additional 8 per cent is loaded on top of the first penalty on the first Monday in January. This refers to the last half taxes on real estate.

MANY NEW CREAMERIES.

Number of Plants and Output of Butter in the State Increased.

Inspectors of the state dairy and food commission report that an unusually large number of creameries and cheese factories were organized in Minnesota last summer, and that the total output of butter and cheese was considerably larger than the previous years. It is estimated that there are 725 creameries and 30 cheese factories in the state, as compared with 681 creamories and 73 cheese factories a year ago. The total output of creamery butter, which last year was 63,726,800 pounds, will probably reach 70,000,000 at the close of the present season.

"This year has been unusually favorable to the establishment of creameries," said George L. Dingman, assistant dairy and food commission. "Frequent rains have produced an abundance of grass and cool weather has prevented flies from distressing the cows. The tax on oleomargarine has cut down the sale of that product and increased the demand for butter.

"The effect of these conditions is seen in the daily reports in newspapers and trade journals of the establishment of new creameries and cheese factories. Our inspectors report that creameries, as a general rule, are flourishing. Many new plants have been started, in the Red River valley, especially."

MANY WOLVES KILLED.

Bounty Paid On 695 Since April —Rate is Less.

State Auditor S. G. Iverson has received since last April applications for bounties on 695 wolves. This is 53 more than the number of animals on which bounty was paid in the entire year ending July 31, 1902.

The bounties on the 695 wolves amount to $1,471.50. Of this sum $770, representing 472 animal, has been paid, and the remainder sum, $701.50 representing 93 wolves and 34 cubs, will be paid this month.

Under the new law which went into effect April 9, a bounty of $7.50 is given for full-grown wolves and $1 for cubs. This applies to every month in the year, whereas before, a female wolf killed between January and May brought $15 and $5 at any other time. Before female cubs brought $4 and male cubs $2.

Fillmore county leads the list in the number of applications under the new law, having already received bounty for 63 animals. Murray is next with 38 and Wabasha third with 35. Other counties have applications for animals as follows: Lincoln, 28; Marshall, 32; Otter Tail, 20; Stearns, 16; Wadena, 9; Ramsey, 5.

The Craze For Speculation.

Princeton Union: The get-rich-quick wave that has been passing over the country and making millionaires in a night and a day has about subsided. A year ago common "steel" stock was selling at 38, while last week it dropped to 141. Other stocks have shown similar declines. Let gambling devils go to the wall and discharge their servants and their butlers, and their whole retinue of hangers on. It this thing had kept up for another year we would have been making social monkeys at a rate faster than the dime museums could take care of them.

Strength of Men and of Insects.

The muscular force of insects, which can jump many times their own length or lift several times their own weight, is frequently compared with man's feebleness. If the matter he reduced to a question of proportion, it will be found that there is nothing unusual about an insects apparant strength, although it appears off-hand, to be one of the most wonderful things in the world. It is also easy to understand why golden grain belt beer is good for tired men and women. It is brewed from pure barley malt and hops and this contains the strength of bread and meat in liquid form. Creamery to Run All Winter.

At a special meeting of the Red Lake Falls Creamery association it was decided to continue operating the creamery during the winter. M. T. Whittemore, the present buttermaker, has resigned, and William Landrum, who has so successfully managed the Emardville creamery during the past season, will take his place.

The creamery has had a very successful summer's run, and in the better condition than ever before. The farmers who have brought milk to the creamery have all realized good profits. The running expenses have been reduced nearly one half, and butter is being made as cheaply as at any creamery in the county.

Special inducements are offered the farmers who are not patrons of this creamery, who wish to ship by rail or have a long distance to haul.

The secretary, Mr. H. J. Disdoll, will be pleased to answer any question pertaining to the subject either personally or by mail.

ON THE WAY TO AYLWIN

By M. MACLEAN HELLIWELL

Copyright, 1903, by F. C. McClure

The train stopped with a jolt, and the passengers thronged out, filling the station with bustle and confusion.

Chatterton, who was on his way to Halifax, was looking idly out of the smoker window, when suddenly there passed across his range of vision a certain well cut profile which he knew could belong to only one woman in the world. Without an instant's hesitation he picked up his hat and left the car, clearing the steps just as the train started heavily forward.

The small station was crowded with people, and Chatterton looked some time for the lady of the profile before he espied her sitting quietly in one corner of the dingy waiting room.

She had thrown open her coat and was leaning back against the wall with closed eyes, evidently prepared to wait some time. Chatterton seated himself in the opposite corner of the room and, drawing out a paper, pretended to read the while he watched her furtively.

People passed and repassed between them. The ticket office window closed and slowed as train after train came in and departed.

Then all at once a lull came. Silence reigned on the platform, and Chatterton suddenly realized that he and the lady were alone in the waiting room. He rose and went out abruptly, and as he passed through the door he stopped for a moment before a time table that hung inside it, one name having caught his eye.

"Aylwin," he muttered. "Of course golnac home for the date old people's anniversary dinner. How could I have forgotten it? I don't believe she ever traveled alone before, and it's a whole hour to wait in this hole. Don't I know the long, interminable dreaming on of the minutes, don't I know—ah, but it did not seem long last year when we waited here together."

He passed out on to the deserted platform and, lighting a cigar, smoked furiously while he paced up and down, revolving many things in his mind.

At last, throwing back his head with a sudden resolution, he tossed aside his cigar and re-entered the waiting room.

As the door closed behind him the girl in the corner opened her eyes, and a sudden wave of color touched her cheeks. Her cool, gray eyes expanded his steadily for a moment, then she turned her face slowly from him. But the man, lifting his hat, advanced quickly.

"Margaret," he cried as he stood before her, "I want to talk to you." Her haughty gray eyes met his with an air of embarrassment.

"I know of nothing you can have to say to me. You were very explicit. Nothing of importance was omitted, but if something else has occurred to you you have my lawyer's address and can communicate with him."

He made no answer for a moment, then he said abruptly:

"You are going home for the anniversary dinner tomorrow. I can just see the table laden with lights and flowers, the dear old pater beaming with pride and the little mother all soft smiles and tender happiness. Tomorrow will be the first time there has ever been an empty place at the anniversary dinner. I am afraid the little mother will not like that. She has always had perfect faith in her sonnelieu."

"If is easy to deceive old people," she interrupted, "particularly such dear, guileless, trustful old people as they. Will you kindly leave me? Under existing circumstances no gentleman should have to be reminded that he has renounced his right to intrust his company upon the woman—"

"His wife," he finished gently. "Why hesitate? Is the word so hateful to you? A separation is not a divorce, you know. I don't want to force myself upon you, Margaret. But I cannot get the little mother out of my mind. Do they know at home of our trouble?"

The girl was silent for a moment, then she faced him suddenly, her eyes blazing.

"No," she cried; "they don't. You are not the only one who loves them! You have been the cause of my doing much that I regret, and now you are making me be the one thing I have always loathed with all my soul. You have forced me to lie to them for the first time in my life! I have told them nothing yet of the truth. In my letters I have always added your love and such messages as you used to send. They expect you tonight. I shall tell them that just as we were starting an urgent telegram came from the Halifax branch demanding your immediate presence. Oh, I shall get through! I have had my practice! The last words were rather faint, but she threw back her head and added in tones intensely, "And it will not be nsting to show them how happy I am!"

He did not tell her that her face, her voice, her very attitude, belied her words, for something was touching him wisdom. Instead he answered gently:

"It will be impossible to deceive the little mother. When those clear blue eyes look into yours and her soft voice asks 'Why, Maddie, where's our Teddy?' all lies will shrivel up and die. You will have to tell her everything, and that will mean that all joy will go not only out of the anniversary dinner, but out of her life. You know how she regards such things. Margaret, don't you think that for her sake and the pater's I had better go down with you just for the dinner? I can make my excuses and leave on the midnight train tomorrow. I shall not trouble you, believe me. They must not be allowed to suspect anything, but when we are alone we shall be as strangers. I shall not even talk to you if you do not wish it. There is plenty of time for you to decide. I am asking nothing for myself—I know that that is fruitless—but I am pleading for the little mother and the pater."

He turned as he finished speaking and left her alone.

It seemed scarcely five minutes before she heard his voice again. "The Aylwin train is coming," he said. "Shall I get a ticket?"

"Yes," she answered simply.

The cars were crowded, but he found a seat, and, putting her in it with the old air of proprietorship that had always been so annoying to her, he seated himself beside her in silence.

The train rattled on, and as they sat so near together, yet so very far apart, the thought of each turned to the last time they had traveled that road together, on their first visit home after their honeymoon.

How happy they had been then! How happy they might have been now if only that little rift within the lute—

Through the mind of each the same question rang—had there been just and sufficient cause? A little patience, a little forbearance, a little sacrificing of pride at the beginning—

Chatterton looked down at the slight figure beside him. They would not be able to deceive the little mother after all. Happy? With the old sparkle all gone from her eyes and those pathetic little lines about her mouth! And he had sworn to love her, to cherish her and protect her through good and ill till death should part them. Instinctively his hand closed over hers as it lay listlessly on the seat beside him.

At the touch of his fingers she turned, and something shone in her eyes as she drew closer to him.

"Dear," she said softly, "I'm so lonely, so tired and so sorry. Will you?—"

His firm clasp of the hand tightened as the conductor threw open the door and shouted, "Aylwin next station!"

"Hush," he whispered. "It was all my fault, little girl. I have been a brute, but all the rest of my life I shall make atonement, for we'll start all over again, and—we won't have to go a lie to the little mother, will we, Maddie?"

And, though she answered nothing in words, each understood and was happy.

No Windfalls For Him.

"When I read of folks finding bank notes stuffed in old sofa pillows and pincushions," said a west side dealer in secondhand household furniture to a New York Times man, "it just makes me ready to cry. Half the stories printed about such finds I don't believe. I've been in this business thirty-one years right here in little old New York. I've made it a point of gathering in all sorts of odds and ends from old estates that I thought would be likely to bide time, eh. I've never left anything like a pillow or a thing where money could be hidden to any lot I bought outright, although I've had to have many a pitiful appeal for father's tobacco box and mother's sewing basket. I never let any piece of furniture go out of here again until I have been through it myself. Wife and I have pulled lots of stuffing out of things and put it back again when we could have saved ourselves trouble and money by letting the stuff go out for sale without it. Find anything? Not a cent. Once I found an old hook hidden in a mattress that was bought from a woman who died. I took it to a bookseller, who said it was not worth my car fare. No, sir, the only way to get money in this business, like any other, is to work for it and not expect to find it."

Rain Brought No Orders.

Philip D. Armour one day received a very long letter from an agent in regard to conditions of trade in the country through which he was traveling. Page after page was devoted to telling his employer that the weather and on certain crop conditions were responsible for the meager orders and lack of energy or perseverance on his own part. Rain was needed in that section. With the first downpour hope would enter into the despondent community, and an order commensurate with the benefits granted to a parched earth could be expected. Rain marked the earth, lengthy letters continued to arrive, but no orders.

"How about orders?" wrote the merchant, who was weary of footing nonproductive expensive accounts and reading long letters. "Write and let me know in the fewest possible words what merchants say now that they have rain."

By return mail the famous merchant received a letter which told him in a few words the reception accorded the agent in the newly drenched territory. "Dry up, old man, dry up."

Not Friends, Just Gushers.

In a big department store a dainty, pretty little woman in the act of buying some lace caught sight of another pretty little woman who was buying some ribbon. As their eyes met both shoppers dropped the articles at which they had been looking and rushed into each other's arms.

"Old and dear friends reunited after many years," thought the clerk behind the counter.

At last the time for parting came.

"Now do come and see me real soon," said the first woman.

"Oh, I never pay calls, you know," replied the other. "You come and see me."

"Well, I don't know your address."

"It is the last house on —— street, next to Riverside drive."

"But I do not know your name since your last marriage."

It was then that the clerk woke up to the real situation.

"Just a pair of gushers," he said to himself disgustedly.—New York Press.

NEW WAY TO HARDEN STEEL.

English Inventor on Way to United States to Introduce Process Only Just Discovered.

W. H. Frith has gone to the United States to interest American steel makers in the Holzer-Frith process of hardening and annealing steel. He declares that the present process of hardening steel by plunging red subjects and cooling will be abolished and all steel now in use, including armor plate, will shortly be obsolete.

By the new process hardening and annealing are accomplished simultaneously in a bath of quicksilver confined in a hermetically sealed vessel. The rapid expansion of the quicksilver under the influence of heat is said to create even pressure all round, and to prevent that disturbance of the molecules which causes those flaws in steel as now hardened, which often lead to disaster where the product is subjected to severe tests.

Mr. Frith asserts, and the British government tests seem to bear him out, that metal hardened and annealed by the quicksilver process is immensely increased in strength and rendered nonocorrodible. It is also asserted that ship plates and all exposed metal work can be made hard enough to resist rust and to offer extraordinary resistance to projectiles. Mr. Frith argues that the process will not be unnecessarily expensive.

TRIBUTE TO AMERICAN WOMEN

Dr. Emil Reich, Hungarian Historian, Says Nation's Hope Is in the Fair Sex.

Dr. Emil Reich, the Hungarian historian, is likely to cause controversy in America with his unexpected views on the subject of Americans. He said in a recent lecture:

"The American commonwealth differs from Europe in two most essential points. These two points are: The practical immunity of the states from any serious attack on the part of a powerful hostile army or navy, and the constant exposure of all the social and most of the economic and political institutions of the states to the invasions, raids and warfares waged against the American male by that greatest surprise of the nineteenth century, the American woman.

"Whether America will or will not be able to regulate the international problems of east and west, it seems probable that through her women the American people will further the great cause of humanity in a manner almost impossible to Europe."

The Wife's Horse.

An impossible thing often practiced on the woman—the farmer's wife especially—is if there is an old, ringboned, spavined, cripple horse that is steered up generally and good for no earthly thing it is kept for the woman to drive, while we argue that in these modern days a woman should demand a horse that when she starts for a given point her clothes won't get out of style before she gets there.—Farm Journal.

CATARRH A COMMON COMPLAINT.

Catarrh begins with a stubborn cold in the head, inflammation or soreness of the membrane or lining of the nose, discharge of mucus matter, headaches, neuralgia and difficult breathing, and even in this early stage is almost intolerable. But when the filthy secretions begin to drop back into the throat and stomach, and the blood becomes polluted and the system contaminated by the catarrhal poison, then the sufferer begins to realize what a disgusting and sickening disease Catarrh is. It affects the kidneys and stomach as well as other parts of the body. It is a constitutional disease and an inhaling mixtures, salves, ointments, etc., are never more than palliative or helpful, even in the beginning of Catarrh, while you can expect from such treatment when it becomes chronic and the whole system affected? Only such a remedy as S. S. S. can reach this obstinate, deep-seated disease and purge the blood of the catarrhal poison. S. S. S. purifies and builds up the diseased blood, and the inflamed membranes are healed and the excessive secretion of mucus ceases when new, rich blood is coming to the diseased parts, and a permanent cure is the result.

S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable and a reliable remedy for Catarrh in all stages. Write if in need of medical advice; this will cost you nothing.

$1.00 Per Year, in Advance

THE treasury department says the per capita circulation has increased more than $1,000,000 during the past year, and yet the Wall Street bankers want an asset currency so that we will have more money. The money question presents some strange anomalies.

A TRAMP printer at East Grand Forks succeeded in negotiating several checks with the name of the editor of the Courier of that city attached. The Courier editor thinks the fellow must be a hypnotist since the editor has not been able to turn a trick of that nature for some time.

THE Minneapolis Times is considerably exercised about the alleged pine frauds in Washington and Oregon, but maintains a discreet silence with regard to the thieves that have plundered Minnesota. This attitude reminds us of the minister who was requested by the elders of his church to confine his criticisms to Turkish misrule in the Eastern hemisphere.

THE executive council of the Minnesota Historical society authorized a committee at a recent meeting to provide for the transfer of the state historical collections to the new capitol. Gen. James H. Baker of Mankato is the chairman, the other members to be announced later. It will represent the historical society in all matters affecting the quarters in the new capitol.

THE department of commerce has published a statement showing the effect of the Canadian preferential tariff law on trade between Canada and Great Britain and between Canada and the United States. The imports into Canada from Great Britain in 1897 were $29,412,188, as against $61,649,041 from the United States, and in the fiscal year 1903 $85,007,080 from Great Britain, as against $137,680,135 from the United States.

COLOMBIA has now told us exactly what she wants for the canal concession—$20,000,000 cash and sovereignty over the waterway when built. This information arrived by the hand of a diplomatic agent, Senor Arciniegas, who reached New York Sunday on his way to Washington. He has the good sense not to attempt to argue the justice of such demands; he merely tells us with engaging frankness that Colombia needs the money to replenish her treasury after a long revolution, and that she will wait until we are willing to pay her price. She will not entertain offers from any other power while she is waiting for us to come to terms—why should she, when it is evidently her opinion that Uncle Sam is the easiest mark in the world?

THE total receipts of coal at the head of the lakes for the season thus far have been about 3,700,000 net tons, of which about 300,000 was bituminous and 700,000 tons anthracite. There is estimated to be on dock in the Duluth-Superior harbor at this time, 500,000 tons of soft coal and 300,000 tons of hard. The docks are all well filled and shipments by rail to the interior are active. Receipts from this time on, however, will be regulated largely by the extent of the shipments. The dock space is so well filled that receipts must of necessity be curtailed to correspond with the rail shipments from the docks. The receipt of coal at the head of the lakes by the end of the season will have exceeded the receipts here for any previous season. It is also true that more all-rail coal is coming into the territory ordinarily supplied from Duluth than heretofore. This fact is regarded by coal men here as reflecting a very gratifying condition of prosperity in the territory tributary to the head of the lakes.

EDISON'S LATEST INVENTION.

Thomas A. Edison announced last week in an interview in the Philadelphia North American that he had just perfected an electrical generator which derives its power from a "fuel" of marvelous potency and which will make it possible for the day laborer, as well as the millionaire, to light his home with electricity and have an automobile. For a few cents a day light and power may be produced in sufficient quantities to supply the needs of any family, and the generator is so simple, according to the inventor, that any person of ordinary intelligence can act as engineer. Referring to his invention Mr. Edison said:

"You can wire your house for electric bells, telephones from room to room, or for anything that electricity will do, and the batteries in your automobile will operate them. The cost? It is so trifling after you are provided with your plant that it is not worth mentioning. We will use the word fuel for want of a better term just at present to apply to the means by which it is operated. The fuel used in this machine is one that has never before been used for fuel under these conditions."

Mr. Edison, if he has succeeded, has achieved an aim toward which he has been working for many years. As he says in the interview mentioned:

"It has always been one of the heights of my ambition to bring the uses of electricity within the reach of men of moderate means. I want to see the homes of men and women whose incomes are small lighted with electricity. I want to reduce the cost of such pleasure and pastime as are afforded by the electric power to the use of the pocketbooks of the moderately poor. I want to see the world happy and contented, and in fulfilling that desire I shall devote every energy I have to bringing those pleasures, now belonging solely to the rich, within the reach of the poor."

At another point in this interview, he says his "aim is now fully achieved." This is also the opinion of the North American, which says, editorially: "With the caution of a scientist in steady pursuit of results rather than notoriety, Mr. Edison talks conservatively of his achievement, and warns the public that there is yet much work to be done before the harvest he has sown can be reaped. But the secret of the cheap generation of electricity is solved. What remains—the making of the machinery by which the new invention is to be manufactured—though arduous, is certain of ultimate accomplishment. Mr. Edison leaves no doubt of that."

GROSSCUP'S REMEDY.

Judge Grosscup, foremost citizen of Chicago, eminent jurist, and one whom any serious monopoly-smashing president would do well to make attorney general, is always interesting because of his profound knowledge and breadth of mind, says the Windom Citizen. In Chicago, the other day he again vigorously expressed his hate of dishonest combinations. He deprecated the corporation policy of the country, which, he said, is a free field and go as you please for every kind of corporate organization that human ingenuity can contrive. The practical result of such a policy is that honest men have organized honest corporations, and he honors them. But also under the prevailing public policy, he continues,

"Dishonest men, launching corporations, and what in the long run is the same thing, visionaries launching enterprises so loaded down that no fate remains but to sink, have equal access to the greatest seal of government. Already our industrial pathway is strewn with the wrecks of the structures thus set up, and all about them bleach the bones of the victims who gave them their confidence.

"Those men and their works I hate. They bring nothing to humanity but suffering and leave nothing to mankind but disgrace. To lead to them the great seal of government in its essence and effect to is corporate dishonesty. I have neither time nor purpose on this occasion to follow this policy into all its results. It is nothing less than public policy favoring high prices and oppression."

Judge Grosscup, in offering a remedy for the conditions he had described, said:

"Put the organization of all corporations on a basis that is fixed and above all other considerations, simple and knowable, compel them to start on assets, reasonable, equal to their capital; keep them subject to inspection, as the banks and trust companies are now organized and inspected, and uncertainty—more than uncertainty of judgment, but uncertainty repecting the facts upon which judgment acts—will disappear."

Bad Coughs

"I had a bad cough for six weeks and could find no relief until I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Only one-fourth of the bottle cured me."

L. Hawn, Newington, Ont.

Neglected colds always lead to something serious. They run into chronic bronchitis, pneumonia, asthma, or consumption. Don't wait, but take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral just as soon as your cough begins. A few doses will cure you then.

WOMEN DRESS FOR MEN'S EYES

By Mrs. JOHN A. LOGAN

DO WOMEN DRESS FOR MEN OR WOMEN? There is no doubt that women dress principally to please men, but at the same time they try to avoid the criticism of women, who are sure to pick flaws in each other's attire if there is the slightest foundation upon which to base their criticisms. SOME WOMEN HAVE THE BAD TASTE TO IMAGINE THAT MEN ADMIRE "STUNNING CLOTHES" of gaudy colors and evening decollete gowns. This is a very great mistake. Most men are charmed by quiet colors and by modesty in dress. They are far more likely to comment upon the style and perfection of the fit of a gown than upon its texture and color.

SIMPLICITY OF DRESS, AFTER ALL, ATTRACTS THE ATTENTION AND ADMIRATION OF BOTH MEN AND WOMEN, AND ONE WONDERS WHY SOME WOMEN HAVE SUCH AN EFFORT TO OUTSHINE OTHERS IN THE GORGEOUSNESS OF THEIR COSTUMES AND DAZZLING BRILLIANCY OF THEIR JEWELRY.

Inattention to one's appearance—SLOVELINESS IN WOMEN—is unpardonable and JUSTLY EXCITES DISGUST, ESPECIALLY IN MEN, while a well dressed woman is the admiration of all men of refinement and when a woman is heard to complain that her husband admires another woman on account of her good taste and stylish dress you may be sure that she is careless of her attire and CANNOT EXPECT TO WIN BACK HIS ADMIRATION until she makes an appearance equally attractive as that of her rival. The old adage that "fine feathers make fine birds" is not always strictly true, but the plumage is an addition, all being equal. My theory is that ALL WOMEN SHOULD DRESS AS WELL AS THEY CAN consistent with their means and station in life, but if they would please men avoid being overdressed on any occasion. Take the same pains to look well and to BE AS APPROPRIATELY DRESSED AT HOME FOR HUSBANDS, fathers and brothers as for strangers and company, who are less likely to appreciate your efforts to be attractive.

MEN'S APPROVAL OF THE DRESS OF THE WOMEN OF THEIR FAMILIES IS MORE OFTEN EXPRESSED BY SMILES THAN WORDS. WOMEN MAY BE QUITE SURE IF THEY ARE GREETED WITH SMILES WHEN THEY PRESENT THEMSELVES THAT THEY ARE GOWNED SATISFACTORILY. THERE ARE SURE TO BE THE MADAM MALAPROPS OF EVERY GENERATION, BUT THEY ONLY SERVE TO EMPHASIZE THE GOOD TASTE OF MOST WOMEN.

Newspaper Support.

It is to the interest of every town to support a good newspaper, not through local pride alone, but for practical business reasons. A newspaper is constantly doing ten times as much for its town as it could ever hope to pay for—more than it could stand for if it would.

The more prosperous a paper is the more it is able to do. Show us a good weekly paper, full of live local ads, with a general circulation throughout the country, and we will show you an up to date, prosperous and progressive community.

Show us a community that persistently proceeds on the idea that the editor of the home paper can live on the "pi" that accumulates in the office, whose official bodies think it a waste of public money to throw a little of the public printing occasionally at living prices, whose citizens have come to regard it as one of their inalienable rights to work him for long winded obituary notices and in "memoriams" with three inches of hymn book poetry at the end, to say nothing of an occasional notice about a lost cow or some cotton seed for sale and we will show you a community that is living from hand to mouth and is always on the ragged edge of adversity.

People ought to stop to think about these things. It is an immense matter. It is their own good that is involved, the welfare and progress of their community.

A local newspaper is absolutely necessary to any community. No merchant, no grand jury, no town council that spends every year all that it can afford with the home paper, whether that expeditiure is actually acessary or not, makes a wiser, more profitable investment. They are not "giving" the paper something. On the contrary it is earning every cent it gets and more, provided it is a paper worth picking up in the road. And if it isn't, that sort of a paper it is usually the fault of the town in which it is published.—Atlanta Constitution.

THE NEW MILL COMPANY.....

There never was a mill better fitted for making good flour than ours. No mill has ever been better situated for getting the best wheat from first hand. We have our long years of experience in making flour. "Gold Seal" is the product of this combination of material, machinery, skill and experience. No one can doubt that it is good flour. Only those who have used it know how good it is. We would like to have you join this class.

To the Farmers: Bring in your wheat and we will exchange with you either for our "Gold Seal" or our "White Star" flour. We guarantee either of these flours to make good, sweet, white and perfect bread, as we use only the very best wheat. If you find upon trying the flour that what we say is not true, we will pay you for hauling it back, charge nothing for what you may have used, and pay you for the wheat. That is fair.

NORTHERN MINNESOTA MILLING CO.

A. Sachse, a real estate agent from Adrian, Minn., was in the city Friday and Saturday visiting friends and looking after his farm south of town.

Miss Eugenie Yackee, who has been visiting at the home of John E. King for the past month, left Saturday for her home at Adrian, Minn.

County Attorney Rowe, Ole J. Vasle, A. A. Miller and A. C. Wilkinson were Crookston attorneys in attendance at district court this week.

The Primrose brand of air-tight package teas are as good as it is possible to buy. Sold in our city only by Bangs & Co., next to post office.

J. B. Armstrong left Saturday evening for Chicago, where he will buy additional lines of winter goods. The sales at the Surprise store have been heavier than expected earlier in the season, and the boys find they are getting short of goods in several lines before the winter business has fairly commenced.

The Racket Store has a larger line of staple notions and fancy goods than ever before. It is surprising how low the prices are at this place. When you need anything in the way of dishes, tinware, notions, or household novelties of any kind call at the Racket Store.

A. M. Becker, of Adrian, Minn., proprietor of one of the largest general stores in the southern part of the state, was the guest of his old Nobles county friends in Red Lake Falls Friday and Saturday. Mr. Becker had been to Crookston and various points in North Dakota on a land mission.

William Lauritzon, who has been managing the Emardville creamery with splendid success during the past season, has been engaged as manager of the creamery at Red Lake Falls and will begin work on November 1. Mr. Lauritzon has the reputation of being one of the best creamery managers in the state.

The Woodmen had a very enjoyable time at their hall Saturday evening. W. H. Dawson, the state consul, was present and gave an extended and interesting address on "Woodcraft." Dancing was then indulged in until 11:30, after which refreshments were served. The Woodmen expect to have a series of these parties during the winter.

H. N. Johnson, the popular representative of the Red Lake Falls Milling company, was at home over Sunday. He left again Monday morning on a month's trip to the iron ranges country. Mr. Johnson has had splendid success in his work, and "Mascot" flour will soon become household words throughout his territory.

William Lauritzon, buttermaker for the Emardville creamery, returned Saturday from St. James, where he attended the state meeting of buttermakers. He reports a large attendance and great interest. These annual meetings are certainly very helpful to creamery managers, and every creamery in the state should have a representative there.

Miss Lulu Riechel was taken ill Monday and was threatened with an attack of typhoid fever. The Riechels had all of their household goods packed preparatory to leaving for Oregon next week, but the illness of Miss Lulu has disconcerted their plans. Mrs. Riechel took her daughter to the Crookston hospital Monday afternoon. The many friends of the family will hope that the attack will not prove serious.

The two-year-old adopted daughter of August Morin has had a chapter of experiences of late. Last week it wandered into a neighbor's yard and swallowed a quantity of Paris green. The doctor administered emetic and saved its life without difficulty. On Monday the child got hold of a bottle of carbolic acid, and took considerable of it. For a time the life of the littleone was despaired of, but at last reports she was getting along nicely and will undoubtedly recover.

The state school apportionment money was received this week by Auditor Byrd. It amounts to $7,840.80, being $2.40 per capita for each pupil in the county attending school the requisite number of weeks. Of this sum the Red Lake Falls school receives $1,332.00; Thief River Falls, $1,074.40; St. Hilaire, $359.20. Of the common districts No. 79 receives the highest amount, $191.80. The other high districts are as follows: No. 81, $127.20; No. 1, $124.80; No. 214, $108.00; No. 84, $108.00; No. 40, $96.00; No. 127, $96.00.

Mrs. Mary Green, sister of Messrs. J. A. Duffy, W. T. Spillane and J. J. Don, died Tuesday evening at her home in Minneapolis, from the results of a surgical operation. Mrs. Spillane has been at Minneapolis for the past week in attendance at the bedside of her sister, and accompanied the remains to Red Lake Falls this morning. The funeral will be held tomorrow forenoon from St. Joseph's and the remains interred in the cemetery east of town. Mrs. Green has frequently visited here and was known to a great many of our people. She was fifty-four years of age.

The Middle Joint "Modern" Fountain Pen

You don't like that old Fountain Pen—it never did suit, with its old fashioned rigging ink joint just where the hands hold it: its doubtful flow; its loose or over tight cap. And yet you probably paid a high price for it as an ordinary size even. That's frequently the way with "luxury". We allow liberally for an old pen in exchange for the up-to-date Middle-joint "Modern" Pen, made and guaranteed by A. A. Waterman & Co., to often suit and can be filled full. Largest sizes at moderate prices.

Crookston Times: Architect Keck is drawing a set of plans of the St. Hilaire dumping grounds which is the subject of contention in the suit entitled Dahl vs. Village of St. Hilaire. Mr. Dahl claims damages because of property adjacent to the ground which was rendered unsalubrious by the fumes of the village refuse. His wife died recently and it is alleged that her demise was due to the unhealthful air surrounding the house which is but a short distance from the garbage heaps. The case will be argued before Judge Watts at this term of court. Attorney Bergstrom appearing for Mr. Dahl. The plans were prepared for exhibition at the trial.

Horse Sense.

If a horse could speak he would say:

Don't hitch me to an iron post or railing when the mercury is below freezing. I need the skin on my tongue.

Don't leave me hitched in my stall at night with a big oat bin right where I must lie down. I am tied and can't select a good place.

Don't compel me to eat more salt than I want by mixing it with my oats. I know better than any other animal how much I need.

Don't think because I go free under the whip I don't get tired. You, too, would move up if under the whip.

Don't whip me if I get frightened along the road, or I will expect it next time, and, maybe, make trouble.

Don't trot me up hill, for I have to carry you, the buggy and myself, too. Try it yourself some time. Run up a hill some time with a big load.

Don't say "whoa" unless you mean it.

Don't make me drink ice cold water nor put a frosty bit in my mouth. Warm the bit by holding it half a minute against my body.

Don't run me down a steep hill.

Don't lend me to a blockhead with less sense than I.

Waterman's ideal fountain pens are the best on the market. The new self-filling device is the handiest contrivance ever invented. A full line of these goods are on sale at THE COURIER stationery store.

Dragging Pains

2825 Keeley St.,
CHICAGO, ILL., Oct., 2, 1902.

I suffered with falling and congestion of the womb, with severe pains through the groins. I suffered terribly at the time of menstruation, had blinding headaches and rushing of blood to the brain. What to try I knew not, for it seemed that I had tried all and failed, but I had never tried Wine of Cardui, that blessed remedy for sick women. I found it pleasant to take and soon knew that I had the right medicine. New blood seemed to course through my veins and after using eleven bottles I was a well woman.

Mamie Bunk

Mrs. Bunk is now in perfect health because she took Wine of Cardui for menstrual disorders, bearing down pains and blinding headaches when all other remedies failed to bring her relief. Any sufferer may secure health by taking Wine of Cardui in her home. The first bottle convinces the patient she is on the road to health.

WINE of CARDUI

The American Girl Abroad

By Mrs. GEORGE CORNWALLIS-WEST
(Formerly Jennie Jerome)

THE CHIEF CHARACTERISTIC OF THE AMERICAN WOMAN IS HER VERSATILITY. THIS IS FOSTERED BY AMBITION. HER ACTIVE MIND SEEMS TO OPEN ALL PATHS TO HER.

Beauty and charm in woman and good fellowship in man will take them into fastidious, refined circles in Britain where dull duchesses and rich bores seek entrance in vain. Compared with England's, AMERICAN SOCIETY IS RESTRICTED, NARROW AND ARTIFICIAL, and it takes a long time to break down the barriers.

Americans are often credited with loving titles. In a sense the criticism is true, but only inasmuch as, striving always to have the best of everything, including society, THEY MAKE THE MISTAKE OF THINKING THAT THE ARISTOCRACY of the country must represent the MOST CULTURED AND REFINED of its inhabitants.

Unfortunately this is not always so, but it is obviously unfair to reproach the American woman for seeking what in every other country in the world BOTH SEXES STRUGGLE FOR—social or material advancement.

Certainly in the way of book learning SHE IS BETTER READ, and, having generally traveled before she makes her appearance in the world, by the time she is eighteen she is able to assert her views on most things and her independence in all.

SHE SELDOM LOSES HER HEART—NEVER HER HEAD, THE COLDNESS WITH WHICH SHE IS REPROACHED BEING PERHAPS ONE OF THE SOURCES OF HER POWER.

It has often been attributed to American women that they are queens in their own country, caressed and honored from infancy, and that, wielding an immense capricious power in being treated as goddesses behind the altar, rather than as comrades in the lines of battle, their confidence in themselves is naturally unbounded.

THE CONSENSUS OF OPINION IS THAT THE AMERICAN GIRL IS PERHAPS THE BEST DRESSED WOMAN IN THE WORLD.

THE GENTLE ART OF JOLLYING

By LEOLA ALLARD, Northwestern University

JUST think HOW WE WASTE EVENING AFTER EVENING in perfecting ourselves in the gentle art of jollying! It isn't half bad for those we practice on, but the end is not yet. OF COURSE SOME ARE BORN JOLLIERS, some achieve the art of jollying and some go to college, but there are few if any who have never heard of it.

PEOPLE OF TODAY WANT GOOD, JOLLY COMRADESHIP among both sexes, and if you can smile at, admire and compliment your comrades it helps you to forget their little shortcomings and it helps them to forget yours. Our SURROUNDINGS HAVE AN INFLUENCE ON OUR CHARACTERS, and being among those who say to us only good of ourselves MAKES US LIKE THE WHOLE WORLD BETTER. It is not always to and from the opposite sex that these bouquets are thrown, but the girls carry on among themselves a large trade in artificial flowers.

Though we all have an admiration for the genuine, I think not many of us would care to give up our share of these floral distributions. They may be paper, but they look all right AND WE TAKE THEM IN THE SPIRIT IN WHICH THEY ARE GIVEN, and if they lend any brightness to our short lived, foolish youth WHY DO AWAY WITH THEM for the serious, mind burdening sentiments of maturer years?

Woman's Industrial Emancipation

By CARROLL D. WRIGHT, United States Labor Commissioner

IT IS ONLY LATELY THAT WOMAN IS ON AN EQUALITY WITH MAN. IF HER INDUSTRIAL EQUALITY IS SECURED ALL ELSE WILL FOLLOW. WOMAN'S INDUSTRIAL EMANCIPATION MEANS MORE TO ME THAN HER POLITICAL EMANCIPATION.

Complete industrial emancipation means the HIGHEST TYPE OF WOMAN as a result, the word "industrial" comprehending in this sense all remunerative employment. EACH STEP in the industrial movement has RAISED HER in the scale of civilization rather than degraded her.

There is no fixed rule by which nature has intended that one sex should excel the other any more than there is any fixed point beyond which either cannot develop. Nature has no intentions and evolution has no limits.

TRUE SCIENCE TEACHES THAT THE ELEVATION OF WOMAN IS THE ONLY SURE ROAD TO THE EVOLUTION OF MAN.

As woman has the power given her to support herself she will be less inclined to seek MARRIAGE RELATIONS SIMPLY FOR the purpose of securing what may seem to be HOME AND PROTECTION.

One of the greatest boons which will result from the industrial emancipation of woman will be the frank admission on the part of the true and chivalric man that she is the SOLE RIGHTFUL OWNER OF HER OWN BEING in every respect; that whatever companionship may exist between her and man shall be as thoroughly honorable to her as to him.

IN CALLINGS WHERE MEN SURPASS WOMEN, WOMEN WILL BE OBLIGED TO ABANDON THE FIELD; BUT WHERE EXERCISES ARE PERFORMED WITH EQUAL SKILL AND INTEGRITY BY BOTH THERE WILL COME HONEST COMPETITION AND AN EQUALIZATION OF COMPENSATION.

So in her political ambition she must be content to stand or fall by the same rule. IF SHE BUNGLES, POLITICAL EMANCIPATION WILL NOT COME; if her experiments prove successful she WILL SECURE POLITICAL FREEDOM, no matter what the arguments against it may be.

SIR JOHN SOANE'S WHIM.

The Practical Joke a Celebrated Man Has Caused as Posterity.

One of the most famous of postmortem jokes was that perpetrated by the donor of the celebrated Soane museum of pictures and other valuable objets d'art in England. He lets Sir John Soane, who died in 1837. In his will Sir John made provision for the opening of three sealed cupboards or certain specified dates in the presence of the trustees. In 1890, that is to say almost thirty years after the death of the testator, the first of the mysterious receptacles was with much ceremony and breaking of seals opened in the presence of a committee of men, with the then president of the Royal academy, Sir F. Grant, at their head. Instead of a priceless treasure or some evidence that would throw an entirely new light upon some doubtful incident in political history the contents of the cupboard proved to be worthless accounts, letters and stationery.

Twenty years passed by, and the interest that had manifested after the disappointment of 1865 was again fanned into flame at the prospect of breaking the seals of the second cupboard, at which rite there were present among others Dr. Alfred Waterhouse, R. A., and Sir (then Dr.) B. W. Richardson. Like the cupboard mentioned in the well known nursery rhyme, Sir John's second cabinet proved "unreof many exposition, the contents being chiefly composed of letters relating to certain long forgotten family quarrels that had not even the merit of being interesting. If some of those authorities to be present at the opening of the third and last receptacle of mystery were shaken in the belief that they would accrue by letting the light of day fall upon the contents thereof after sixty years' darkness one at least, Sir B. W. Richardson, looked forward with unabated interest to Wed day in 1926 when the last seal would be broken and the mystery solved, but he, alas, died almost two days before the ceremony was performed, and the fact that Sir Soane had played a practical joke upon posterity was duly confirmed by the presence of a collection of perfectly worthless letters and papers.

MERRY MEALTIMES.

The Table No Place For Fault Finding, Nagging and Strife.

Has it ever been your lot to sit at a table with a group of young folks who ate the meal in silence or, with a few constrained remarks, looked askance at the head of the family before venturing on any remark? I have seen such a sight on more than one occasion. Doctors have told us over and over again of the beneficial results arising from a meal eaten with a contented frame of mind and with cheerful surroundings; but, sad to say, there are many households where each meal is a constant scene of bickering, nagging and fault finding.

This is not only the case where there are young children, who require a reprimand occasionally for carelessness, but I am speaking of those homes where the girls and boys are well into their teens. Wrong is that parent, either father or mother, who chooses the hour when all are assembled round the table to mention some half forgotten grievance or to find some fault.

If any trivial thing has been done wrong or any duty omitted wait until dinner or tea is over before you scold, blame or reprimand. Let the food which God gives us for the purpose of nourishing and sustaining our bodies have the opportunity of accomplishing that end, which cannot be the case if every mouthful is swallowed with as per a sarcastic word or an uncomplimentary remark. More indigestion, nervousness and other derangements are caused by the too common fault of unconfortable mealtimes than many people would suppose, and it is our positive duty, which we should all try to remember, to make those hours of the day cheerful and agreeable to the children and to set them an example which you would be the first to notice and approve in others—Scotsman.

So Nice and Sympathetic.

A gentleman whose one glass eye has served him for years had the misfortune to drop it. It smashed to atoms. This happened when he was far away in the country. He inquired of a friend where was the nearest place for him to go and get refitted.

"Why, don't you call upon the girl you were flirting with all last night?" his friend inquired. "She has a first rate reputation for making eyes."—Punch.

Prayer of the Convert.

A south sea islander at the close of a religious meeting offered the following prayer: "O God, we are about to go to our respective homes. Let not the words we have heard be like the hard soil where the seed may be taken off and folded up in a box till another Sabbath comes around. 'Rather, let them be like the tattoo on our bodies—indfeasable till death."—Curiosities Magazine.

The Temperature.

"Why do you never watch the thermometer on the wall so closely?" queried the invalid.

"Because," replied the untrained nurse, "the doctor said if the temperature got any higher I was to give you another dose of quinine."

Bewildered.

"John Henry, I'll thrash you soundly if I ever catch you telling another story that isn't true."

"And yet, ma, I heard you say to the minister that I had great imagination."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A show of daring oft conceals great cowardice—Lucan.

As to Faults.

Make sure that, however good you may be, you have faults; that however dull you may be, you can find out what they are; and that, however slight they may be, you would rather make some patient effort to get quit of them.—Ruskin.

Dieting Involves Disease.

To cure Dyspepsia or indigestion it is no longer necessary to live on milk and toast. Starvation produces such weakness that the whole system becomes an easy prey to disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure enables the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all of the wholesome food that one cares to eat, and is a never failing cure for Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles. Kodol digests what you eat—makes the stomach sweet. Sold by W. A. Schreiter.

During Attacks Of Heart Failure.

Would Appear To Be Dead.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Relieved and Cured.

"I have no hesitation in saying that Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is all that one can wish it to be. I was troubled with heart disease for fifteen years. I have tried many different remedies but until I tried Dr. Miles' Heart Cure I could find no relief. I was subject to headaches and had tried your Pain Pills and they were so effective I thought your Heart Cure might help me. I would have attacks at least so severe that I would be almost blind for the time being. During these attacks I would appear to be unconscious and dead. I was confined to my room for days at a time and was truthfully told that I am completely cured. I believe all that is troubled with heart disease to take Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure at once. I write this and give my name to my fellow sufferers."—S. E. Purdy, Atkinson, Nebraska.

"I first felt the effects of a weak heart in the fall of 1901. I was on an excursion to the Sioux City paper in which a man stated his symptoms which seemed to me to indicate a trouble similar to mine. I had a contest in the chest at times, and in my dizzy spells oppressive choking sensations would threaten me. I was short of breath and hungry spells. I was truly frightened at my condition, and procured the history of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. Since taking the first bottle I have never been bothered by any of the old disagreeable symptoms and now am well and consider my cure permanent."—Lewis Anderson, Kahn, S. D.

WHEN A QUEEN WAS MADE

By CURRAN R. GREENLEY

Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure.

Night in Venice. The day was done, but the merriment only waxed the louder with the coming of the stars. There was glitter of golden banners along the grand canal and the silent hurrying of many gondolas, for Venice was on fete. The twenty-ninth Cyprus had been formally ratified, and that day the republic had formally adopted the elite patrician maid, daughter of Venice, that she might become the mother of kings to be.

A great destiny for the shy child of seven fourteen years. But as Catarina leaned from her casement, the golden hair frilling down the wall in a nimbus light, her thoughts were not of King James de Lusignan nor that storied kingdom of Cyprus across, nor of them, for maiden thoughts are white winged birds that go where they list, but of one Aladin, the lad she had, or sought here across the darkness, where he stood in the shadow of the closed portals of the Morosini palazzo across the canal, so near, that he could note the flash of the scarlet light on the golden hood, so far that the needs of a nation's destiny flashed between them.

A king's bride—what chance had he, Andrea Morosini, orphan and poor, and a Morosini, the ancient enemy of her house?

There had been days when old Cornaro's daughter had watched concealed behind her casement draperies to see him go forth with the young knights. There had been self-sterilt nights when he had watched that selfsame casement and poured forth his soul to the silken sweet tones of his lute. One night when her nurse nodded drowsily the small white hand had dropped a great languorous white rose into the pour of his gondola, and after that there had been a moment in the great cathedral when he had pressed close and held the little hand for a moment in his. That was all, and there could be no more for Cornaro's child, the daughter of Venice, but the lad had dreamed his dreams and gone meetly forth to battle, as the noble ought, had been a month, a long month, when he returned, and all the bells were ringing in honor of Catarina.

The flight died, but the blaze of festal beacons flashed from tower to tower. Over there in the Cornaro palazzo there was a perfect carnival of music and laughter. Andrea's face grew whiter in the reflected glare. He could see as the breeze blew aside the curtains many figures passing to and fro in that upper room. They were robing for her sacrifice in that maiden chamber that had been his heart's shrine for two long years.

No longer a Venetian maiden, the ceremony that would presently take place before the high altar of St. Mark's would make her a crowned queen. Well, he would go to the wars again. There was always the Genoese to battle with. He might even win the holy sepulcher.

Was there no way? He would have given his soul for one word with her face to face. Andrea flung the lute far out, where it sank into the dark waters. He would never need it again. Overhead all the bells of Venice called to one another, and the lap, lap of the tide sobbed beneath as the under note of human pain that beats a minor tone to all the joy of life.

Catarina stood up straight and tall in the midst of her maidens. The jewelled robe fell close to the round, young limbs, heavy with its weight of pearls. Pearls and rubies were twined in the maiden curls, and the fair, round arms were banded with glowing gems of the orient. Across the childish breast above the folds of cloth of gold, a baldric of emeralds rose and fell with every frightened breath, and the wild rose color was gone from cheek and quivering lip.

Straight and tall in her young majesty, but over the blaze of the trumpet, the flash of the jewels, deeper than the voice of Venice in loud acclaim, came the love note of a lute that was stilled forever. There was a strangeness in her throat, a blackness before her eyes. Awed at her silence, the flock of maidens fell a little away from where she stood, and then there came an old woman, bowed and weary, through the velvet portals.

When the attendants would have barred the way Catarina held out her hand. As the old woman bowed before her she opened the palms of her brown hands an instant, so quickly that none saw but Catarina, who drew a quick breath and turned to the waiting throng with a new authority. "Leave us. I would have speech with the dame alone."

Wondering, they left her, and as the door clanged to the old woman slipped the iron bar into place and then stood up, the gray wig thrown off, the woman's haughty cast aside, Andrea Morosini.

Cold step toward Catarina, and he held out his arms. With a low, glad cry she nestled into them, and for one fleeting moment he saw his lips lay on hers, while below the Grand canal pulsated with the music and triumph of a queen's bridal.

The seconds ticked away. There was no past, no future. Then St. Mark's called to the outermost mole, and the sound of feet came along the stone corridor, pausing at the barred door. Catarina started and paled. Her father, the Cornaro! The steps died away. Then a noise behind them startled them. Not ten paces Count Cornaro leaned on his great sword, and their frightened eyes were met with a look so stern that for a time they were speechless. He had entered through a door of which Catarina had no knowledge, built by some jealous Cornaro of long ago, who had caused the private exploit to be made that he might the better prove his fears. Indeed they might all have been carven stone figures. There was no motion in the room but the waving of the arras in the evening breeze that blew through the casement—the slender youth in his scarlet garb of dark velvet, the stern mailed cast patrician and between them, like some tropic flower blown athwart strange gray blooms, Catarina in her bridal robes of gold, the diamond of empire blazing above her brow.

Andrea bowed low before the ancient foe of the house and, with one last lingering look at Catarina, unsheathed the Cornaro's pleasure. He had dared the strictest law of the republic. He knew the penalty.

Cornaro hesitated. There were wrath, love and mighty sorrow in his stormy eyes as they went from one young face to the other. A Morosini, the child of his deadliest foe! But he saw through the mist of long, lonely years a little fair face pressed against a childish breast, a little head that lay within the curve of a round, white arm, as like, as like, and Catarina, who had died, spoke across the night of her untived motherhood to the heart of her brave hand. The wrath died. He was powerless. He could not break the might of the republic that claimed his child upon the altar of its ambition, but he could save her needless pain.

Already the surge of feet was coming up the long passages. The flutter of trumpets and the voice of Venice, that was many voices, clamored for their princess. Below the gilded barge of the doge awaited her. Nevermore the child, but always the daughter of Venice.

There was a moment when the golden head lay against the steel corselet, another when Guido Cornaro saw his child give her lips to the Morosini, and then he flung wide the door to the secret passage and beckoned to Andrea.

And so without a word he passed from her sight and her life, while her father led her down the rose garnished stairway to the bitterness of the gilded mockery that awaited.

There was a battle next day, a mere skirmish between a Venetian war galley and one of Genoa. At its close they found him lying where the thick of the fight had raged, a sash on his hips, a crushed white rose above his heart. In Venice the people laughed and sang, and there was joy day and night for the week long bridal of Catarina Cornaro, the daughter of Venice, and King James de Lusignan.

Turf as Fuel.

Harold Harfagr in the year 888 granted the islands of Orkney to Earl Ejner, brother to Duke Rolli of Normandy. When Earl Ejner came to live in his new possessions he found these gallé bare of any trees and producing only a very few stunted bushes.

The Orkneys are bitterly cold and wind swept, so that when the inhabitants had used up all the wood they could procure they came to their new earl for advice. He recommended them to cut out pieces of turf, dry them and use them for fuel. This they did with such great success that the custom spread to Scotland and thence to Ireland and to many parts of England. Earl Ejner was always known afterward as Turf Ejner.

"Post rights" were defined by marck stones with three circles laid under each and were jealously guarded by the townsmiljo or individuals to whom they belonged. Throughout Scotland up to the thirteenth century peat and firewood were universally used for winter fires and broom and with during summer.

Some etymologists regard the name of peat as almost synonymous with fuel, deriving it from the early English "beten," to replenish a fire.

Court Room Repartee.

In a suit relating to brewery proper, ty reported in Texas, counsel on an eminent and very dignified counselor was one day reading to the court some manuscript affidavits in which were not overlegible and by mistake read the word "mash" as "mush." Counsel on the other side, who was small of stature and pert in his manner, but keen in intellect and frequently sarcastic, was immediately on his feet and, with a somewhat irritating defiance of manner, begging his opponent's pardon, etc., asked liberty to suggest that the word which the eminent counselor read "mush" was really "mash." Somewhat nettled, the counselor then corrected thanked him for the information and added that he was not himself very familiar with terms used in the brewery business, as he had spent most part of his time in a place of that kind. "Are we to understand, then," said his opponent in the same manner, "that the eminent counselor wishes us to infer that his early days were spent in a laundry?"

Pontiffs Once Wore Red.

There are many people who will doubtless be interested to know that it is only since the thirteenth century that the popes have been accustomed to wear white. Until that time they were always arrayed in the red robes now affected by the cardinals. Boniface VIII., in 1294, however, relishing that old red was not longer a distinctive color of the papacy since his predecessor had appropriated it, ordered abroad the right to wear it, issued a decree prohibiting to all the members of the sacred college the red robes which they now wore and decided that the white should henceforth be the hue of the raiment of himself and of his successors. The popes, however, still retain from those ancient days the red hats which they wear out of doors and the red mantle of wool as the red shoes.

Don't become discouraged. There is a cure for you. If necessary write Dr. Fenner. He has spent a lifetime nursing just such cases as yours. All consultations are FREE.
"I had suffered for a long time and for three weeks was down in bed, unable to move without great pain because of pains in my back, which several doctors pronounced lumbago. They failed to give me any relief whatever. A sample bottle of Dr. Fenner's Kidney and Backache Cure greatly relieved me. I bought and used two more bottles and was completely cured, although my occupation as a flyer requires me to be much about water and often my clothing becomes damp or very wet. I have suffered no return of the trouble nor any signs of rheumatism. Yours truly, FRED BRANDT, 213 N. Eldridge St., Mineola, Ind."
